36 And † under the cuſtody and charge of the ſons of Merari, ſhall be the boards of the tabernacle, and the bars thereof, and the pillars thereof, and the ſockets thereof, and all the veſſels thereof, and all that ſerveth thereto: † Heb. the office of the charge.

37 And the pillars of the court round about, and their ſockets, and their pins, and their cords d.

d Therefore theſe were for another uſe than thoſe mentioned, ver. 26.

38 But thoſe that encamp before the tabernacle toward the eaſt, even before the tabernacle of the congregation eaſtward; ſhall be Moſes and Aaron, and his ſons, keeping the charge of the ſanctuary for the charge of the children of Iſrael e: and the ſtranger that cometh nigh ſhall be put to death.

e Either in their ſtead, that charge which they were obliged to keep either by themſelves or by others appointed by them, if God had not committed it to thoſe: or for their good and ſervice, and benefit; for their preſervation, as the word may be rendred.

39 * All that were numbred of the Levites, which Moſes and Aaron numbred at the commandment of the LORD, throughout their families, all the males, from a month old and upward, were twenty and two thouſand f. * See chap. 26. 62.

f Obj. But if the particular numbers, mentioned ver. 22, 28, 34. be put together, they make exactly 22300. Anſw. The odd 300 are omitted here, either according to the uſe of the Holy Scripture, where in ſo great numbers ſmall ſums are commonly neglected, or, becauſe they were the firſt-born of the Levites, and therefore belonged to God already, and ſo could not be given to him again inſtead of the other firſt-born. See Levit. 27. 26. If this number of firſt-born ſeem very ſmall to come from 22000 Levites, it muſt be conſidered, That only ſuch firſt-born are here named as were males, and ſuch as continued in their parents Families, not ſuch as had erected new families of their own. Add to this, that God ſo ordered things by his wiſe providence for divers weighty reaſons, that this Tribe ſhould be much the leaſt of all the Tribes, as is evident by comparing the numbers of the other Tribes, from twenty years old, Numb. 1. with the number of this from a month old; and therefore it is not ſtrange if the number of their firſt-born be leſs than in other Tribes. Although if the other Tribes had been computed from a month old, as this was, their number of 600000 had probably been double or treble to that, and conſequently the number of their firſt born being 22273 ver. 43. would have been as unproportionable to their whole ſum, as this of 300 firſt-born Levites ſeems to their whole number. And ſome add, that only thoſe firſt-born are numbred both in this and in the other Tribes, which were born ſince they came out of Egypt, when God challenged all the firſt-born to be his.

40 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, number all the firſt-born of the males of the children of Iſrael g from a month old and upward, and take the number of their names.

g That they may be compared with the number of the Levites for the reaſon here following.

41 And thou ſhalt take the Levites for me (I am the LORD) in ſtead of all the fiſt-born among the children of Iſrael h, and the cattle of the Levites i in ſtead of all the firſtlings among the cattle of the children of Iſrael.

h To wit, ſuch are now alive of them, but thoſe which ſhould be born of them hereafter are otherwiſe diſpoſed. i Not that they were to be taken from the Levites, or to be ſacrificed to God, any more than the Levites themſelves were, but that they together with the Levites were to be preſented before the Lord by way of acknowledgment, that the Levites might be ſet apart for God's ſervice, and their cattle for themſelves as God's miniſters, and for their ſupport in God's work.

42 And Moſes numbred, as the LORD commanded him, all the firſt-born among the children of Iſrael.

43 And all the firſt-born males by the number of names, from a month old and upward, of thoſe that were numbred of them, were twenty and two thouſand two hundred and threeſcore and thirteen.

44 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

45 Take the Levites k in ſtead of all the firſt born among the children of Iſrael, and the cattle of the Levites in ſtead of their cattle, and the Levites ſhall be mine, I am the LORD.

k To wit, the 22000 reckoned up, ver. 39. of which ſee the notes there.

46 And for thoſe that are to be redeemed of the two hundred and threeſcore and thirteen of the firſt-born of the children of Iſrael, which are more than the Levites;

47 Thou ſhalt even take five ſhekels a piece l by the poll, after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary ſhalt thou take them: * the ſhekel is twenty gerahs.

*Exod. 30. 13. Lev. 27 25. ch. 18. 16. Ezek. 45. 12.

l Which was the price to be paid for the redemption of a firſt-born a month old, Numb. 18. 15, 16. but this mony though paid for theſe 273 perſons was probably paid out of the common ſtock of all, except lots were caſt who ſhould pay, which is not probable in ſo ſmall a concern accompanied with ſo much trouble.

48 And thou ſhalt give the number wherewith the odd number of them is to be redeemed unto Aaron and to his ſons m.

m To whom all the Levites were given, and therefore the mony which came in their ſtead.

49 And Moſes took the redemption money, of them that were over and above them that were redeemed by the Levites.

50 Of the firſt-born of the children of Iſrael took he the money, a thouſand three hundred and threeſcore and five ſhekels, after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary.

51 And Moſes gave the money of them that were redeemeed, unto Aaron and to his ſons, according to the word of the LORD, as the LORD commanded Moſes.

CHAP. IV.

God Commands the Levites to be numbred from 30 till 50 years old; fit for the ſervice of the Tabernacle: Their Charge, 1——16. Of the Kohathites, 17——21. Of the Gerſhonites, 22——28. Of the Sons of Merari, 29——33. The number of each, 34——45. Of all in general, 46——49.

1 AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, and unto Aaron, ſaying,

2 Take the ſum of the ſons of Kohath from among the ſons of Levi, after their families, by the houſe of their fathers:

3 From thirty years old a and upward, even until fifty years old b, all that enter c into the hoſt d, to do the work of the tabernacle of the congregation.

a This age was preſcribed, as the age of full ſtrength of body, and therefore moſt proper for their preſent laborious work of carrying the parts and veſſels of the Tabernacle, and of maturity of judgment, which is neceſſary for the right management of holy ſervices. Whence even John and Chriſt entred not upon their Miniſtery till that age. And it may ſtill ſeem to be the fitteſt ſeaſon for mens undertaking the Miniſtery of the Goſpel, except in caſe of extraordinary abilities, or the Churches preſſing neceſſity. Object. They might enter upon this work at their 25th year, Numb. 8. 24. and in David's time and afterward at their 20th year. Anſw. 1. Their firſt entrance upon their work was at their 25th year, when they began as learners, and acted only under the inſpection and direction of their brethren; but in their 30th year they were compleatly admitted to a full diſcharge of their whole office. 2. David, being a Prophet, and particularly directed by God in the affairs of the Temple, might and did make a change in this matter, which he might the better do, both becauſe it was but a change in a circumſtance, and becauſe the magnificence of the Temple, and the great multitude of ſacred utenſils and ſacrifices, required a greater number of attendants than formerly was neceſſary. b When they were exempted from the toilſome work of carrying burdens, but not diſcharged from the honourable and eaſie work done within the Tabernacle, Numb. 8. 26. c (i. e.) That do and may enter, having no defect, Levit. 21. 17. nor other impediment. d The ſociety of ſacred Miniſters he calls an hoſt, becauſe of that excellent order which was among them, as to perſons, place, time, the matter and manner, of their ſervices.

4 This ſhall be the ſervice of the ſons of Kohath in the tabernacle of the congregation, about the moſt holy things e.

e Hereafter mentioned, as the Ark, Table, Altar, &c. Compare Numb. 3. 31.

5 And when the camp ſetteth forward, Aaron ſhall come, and his ſons, and they f ſhall take down the covering veil g, and cover the ark h of teſtimony with it:

f For upon this neceſſary occaſion the inferiour Prieſts are allowed to come into the Holy of Holies, which otherwiſe was peculiar to the High-prieſt, Heb. 9. 7. g The ſecond veil, of which ſee Exod. 26. 31, &c. Levit. 4. 6. Heb. 9. 3. wherewith the Ark was covered while the Tabernacle ſtood, Exod. 40. 3. h Becauſe the Levites, who were to carry the Ark, might neither ſee, nor immediately touch it.

i Whereby the Ark was ſecured from the injuries of the weather. k Object. How could theſe ſtaves be put in, when they were never to be taken out, Exod. 25. 15. compared with 1 King. 8. 8. 1. Anſw. Theſe places may ſpeak of the ſtaves while the Ark and Tabernacle ſtood, but when they were to be removed the poſture of all things was altered. 2. The Hebrew verb doth not ſigniſie putting in, but barely putting or placing or diſpoſing, and may be underſtood not of putting the ſtaves into the rings, wherein they conſtantly remained, but of the putting of them either upon their ſhoulders to try and fit them for carriage, or into the holes or receptacles which probably were made in theſe coverings for the receiving and covering of theſe gilded ſtaves, to keep them both from the touch of the Levites, and from the inconveniences of bad weather.

7 And upon the * table of ſhew-bread l they ſhall ſpread a cloth of blue, and put thereon the diſhes m, and the ſpoons, and the bowls and covers to ‖ cover withal: and the continual bread n ſhall be thereon.

*Exod. 30.

l Heb. Of faces or preſence, for of the bread of faces or preſence. i. e. of the bread which was continually ſtanding in the preſence of the Lord. m Upon which the ſhew-bread was put. n (i. e.) Shew-bread; ſo called becauſe it was continually to be there, even in the wilderneſs; where though they had only Manna for themſelves, yet they reſerved corn for the weekly making of theſe loaves, which they might with no great difficulty procure from ſome of the people bordering upon the wilderneſs in the innermoſt parts whereof they were.

8 And they ſhall ſpread upon them a cloth of ſcarlet, and cover the ſame with a covering of badgers-skins, and ſhall put in the ſtaves thereof.

9 And they ſhall take a cloth of blue, and cover the * candleſtick of the light, * and his lamps, and his tongs, and his ſnuff-diſhes, and all the oil-veſſels thereof, wherewith they miniſter unto it.

*Exod. 31.
*Exod. 37, 38.

10 And they ſhall put it, and all the veſſels thereof within a covering of badgers-skins: and ſhall put it upon a bar n.

n So contrived that this cloth containing the candleſtick, &c. might be either laid upon it, or ſome other way faſtened to it.

11 And upon the golden o altar they ſhall ſpread a cloth of blue, and cover it with a covering of badgers-skins, and ſhall put to the ſtaves thereof.

o All covered with plates of gold.

12 And they ſhall take all the inſtruments of miniſtery p, wherewith they miniſter in the ſanctuary, and put them in a cloth of blue, and cover them with a covering of badgers-skins, and ſhall put them on a bar.

p The ſacred garments uſed by the prieſts in their holy miniſtrations. See Exod. 31. 10.

13 And they ſhall take away the aſhes from the altar q, and ſpread a purple cloth thereon:

q Of burnt-offerings. Whereby it may ſeem probable, though it be denied by moſt, that they did offer ſome ſacrifices in the Wilderneſs, though it may not be ſo frequently nor orderly as afterwards they did. Whence elſe were theſe aſhes? And there are ſome undeniable inſtances of their ſacrificing there, as Exod. 18. 12. & 24. 4. Numb. 7. &c. from which it ſeems rational to conclude, that they did offer ſacrifices at other times, though not ſo conſtantly and diligently, as they did in Canaan. And for the argument againſt it from Amos 5. 25. that may be eaſily diſſolved, as we ſhall there ſee, if the Lord pleaſe. Moreover the taking away of the aſhes only doth ſufficiently imply that the fire was preſerved, which as it came down from Heaven, Levit. 9. So it was by God's command to be continually fed and kept burning, and therefore doubtleſs was put into ſome veſſel, which might be either faſtened to the altar and put within this covering, or carried by ſome perſon appointed thereunto.

14 And they ſhall put upon it all the veſſels thereof r wherewith they miniſter about it, even the cenſers,

r Amongſt all theſe veſſels here and abovenamed there is no mention of the brazen laver, though that be elſewhere reckoned among the holy things, as Exod. 35. 16. and 38. 8. and 39. 39. and 40. 30. whereof poſſibly the reaſon may be becauſe it was not covered, as not being capable of much hurt by the weather. Though ſome antient tranſlations of the Bible do here add theſe words. They ſhall take a purple covering, and cover the laver, &c.

15 And when Aaron and his ſons have made an end of covering the ſanctuary, and all the veſſels of the ſanctuary, as the camp is to ſet forward; after that the ſons of Kohath ſhall come to bear it s: but they ſhall

s To wit, upon their ſhoulders, not upon carts or wagons, as appears from Numb. 7. 9. the neglect of which order did provoke the Lord, 2 Sam. 6. 6, 7. 1 Chron. 13. 7. and 15. 12, &c. Afterward the Prieſts themſelves, being multiplied, carried theſe things, as appears from Deut. 31. 9. Joſ. 3. 6. and 8. 33. 1 Sam. 4. 4. though the Levites alſo were not excluded, 2 Chron. 5. 5. t Immediately, or before they be covered. u As ſome did for that ſin. See 1 Sam. 6. 19. 2 Sam. 6. 6, 7.

x (i. e.) He himſelf is to carry theſe things, and not to commit them to the ſons of Kohath. y Of fine flour, which was to be offered every morning and evening with the daily burnt-offering. See Exod. 29. 38, 39. z (i. e.) The care that all the things abovementioned be carried by the perſons and in the manner expreſſed.

17 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, and unto Aaron, ſaying, 18 Cut ye not off a the tribe of the families of the Kohathite from among the Levites.

a (i. e.) Do not by your neglect provoke God to cut them off for touching the holy things.

19 But thus do unto them, that they may live and not die, when they approach unto the moſt holy things. Aaron and his ſons ſhall go in and appoint them every one to his ſervice b, and to his burden.

b To that which is peculiarly allotted to him, the ſervices and burdens being equally diſtributed among them.

20 But they ſhall not go in to ſee when the holy things are covered, leſt they die.

21 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

22 Take alſo the ſum of the ſons of Gerſhon throughout the houſes of their fathers by their families:

23 From thirty years old and upward, until fifty

25 And * they ſhall bear the curtains of the taber-

c (i. e.) The curtains or covering of goats-hair. d (i. e.) The ten curious curtains which covered the boards of the Tabernacle; for the boards themſelves were carried by the Merarites. e (i. e.) The covering of rams-skins which was put next over thoſe ten curtains.

26 And the hangings of the court, and the hanging for the door of the gate of the court, which is by the tabernacle, and by the altar f round about, and their cords, and all the inſtruments of their ſervice, and all that is made for them: ſo ſhall they ſerve.

† Heb. mouth. 27 At the † appointment of Aaron and his ſons, ſhall be all the ſervice of the ſons of the Gerſhonite, in all their burdens, and in all their ſervice: and ye ſhall appoint unto them in charge all their burdens.

28 This is the ſervice of the families of the ſons of Gerſhon in the tabernacle of the congregation: and their charge ſhall be under the hand g of Ithamar the ſon of Aaron the prieſt.

g Under his conduct and direction. Thus the hand of Hege, Eſth. 2. 3. is his care and cuſtody.

29 As for the ſons of Merari, thou ſhalt number them after their families by the houſe of their fathers.

the bars thereof, and the pillars thereof, and ſockets thereof h, h Which were as the feet upon which the pillars ſtood; of which ſee Exod. 38. 27.

32 And the pillars of the court round about, and their ſockets, and their pins, and their cords with all their inſtruments, and with all their ſervice: and by name i ye ſhall reckon the inſtruments of the charge of their burden.

i Every part and parcel therefore ſhall be put in an inventory, which is required here rather than in the forgoing particulars; partly becauſe theſe were much more numerous than the former; partly becauſe being meaner things and ſuch as might eaſily be ſupplied, they might otherwiſe have been neglected; and partly to teach us, that God eſteems nothing ſmall in his worſhip and ſervice, and that he expects his will ſhould be obſerved in the minuteſt circumſtances.

33 This is the ſervice of the families of the ſons of Merari, according to all their ſervice in the tabernacle of the congregation under the hand of Ithamar the ſon of Aaron the prieſt.

34 And Moſes and Aaron, and the chief of the congregation numbred the ſons of the Kohathite, after their families, and after the houſe of their fathers.

35 From thirty years old and upward, even unto fifty years old, every one that entreth into the ſervice, for the work in the tabernacle of the congregation.

36 And thoſe that were numbred of them by their families, were two thouſand ſeven hundred and fifty.

37 Theſe were they that were numbred of the families of the Kohathites, all that might do ſervice in the tabernacle of the congregation, which Moſes and Aaron did number, according to the commandment of the LORD by the hand of Moſes.

38 And thoſe that were numbred of the ſons of Gerſhon, throughout their families, and by the houſe of their fathers.

39 From thirty years old and upward, even unto fifty years old, every one that entreth into the ſervice, for the work in the tabernacle of the congregation:

40 Even thoſe that were numbred of them, throughout their families, by the houſe of their fathers, were two thouſand and ſix hundred and thirty.

41 Theſe are they that were numbred of the families of the ſons of Gerſhon, of all that might do ſervice in the tabernacle of the congregation, whom Moſes and Aaron did number, according to the commandment of the LORD.

42 And thoſe that were numbred of the families of the ſons of Merari, throughout their families, by the houſe of their fathers:

43 From thirty years old and upward, even unto fifty years old, every one that entreth into the ſervice, for the work in the tabernacle of the congregation,

44 Even thoſe that were numbred of them after their families, were three thouſand and two hundred k.

k Here appears the wiſdom of Divine providence, that whereas in the Kohathites and Gerſhonites, whoſe burdens were fewer and eaſier, there were but about a third part of them which were fit for ſervice, the Merarites, whoſe burdens were more and heavier, had above one half of them fit for this work.

45 Theſe be thoſe that were numbred of the families of the ſons of Merari, whom Moſes and Aaron numbred, according to the word of the LORD by the hand of Moſes.

46 All thoſe that were numbred of the Levites, whom Moſes, and Aaron, and the chief of Iſrael numbred, after their families, and after the houſe of their fathers:

47 From thirty years old and upward, even unto fifty years old, every one that came to do the ſervice of the miniſtery, and the ſervice of the burden in the tabernacle of the congregation:

48 Even thoſe that were numbred of them, were eight thouſand and five hundred and fourſcore l.

l Which number was much inferiour to any other Tribe, for the reaſons mentioned on, Numb. 3. 39.

49 According to the commandement of the LORD they were numbred by the hand of Moſes, every one according to his ſervice, and according to his burden: thus were they numbred of him, as the LORD commanded Moſes.

CHAP. V.

God Commands to put away all unclean Perſons from the Camp: it is executed, 1——4. Reſtitution Commanded, and an Offering, eſpecially of Hallowed things, which belong to the Prieſt, 5——10. Laws in caſe of Jealouſie, bitter Water Ordained, 11——31.

1 AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 Command the children of Iſrael, that they put out of the camp a every * leper, and every one that hath an * iſſue b, and whoſoever is defiled by the * dead c.

* Lev. 13. 3, 46. * Lev. 15. 2. * ch. 9. 6, 10. and 19. 11. and 31. 19.

a In which the people dwelt; as afterward out of the cities and towns, that they might not converſe with others and infect them. b To wit, of genital ſeed in men, or of blood in women in their ſeaſons. c (i. e.) By the touch of the dead. See Levit. 21. 1. Num. 6. 6.

3 Both male and female ſhall ye put out; without the camp ſhall ye put them, that they defile not their camps d, in the midſt whereof I dwell e.

d By which caution God would intimate the poſſibility and danger of mens being made guilty by other mens ſins, and the neceſſary duty of avoiding intimate converſe with wicked men. e By my ſpecial and gracious preſence; and therefore the permiſſion of ſuch impurities is the greater injury and provocation to me, as being done in my ſight, and reflecting diſhonour upon my Name.

4 And the children of Iſrael did ſo, and put them out without the camp, as the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſo did the children of Iſrael.

5 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

6 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, * when a man or a woman ſhall commit any ſin that men commit f, to do a treſpaſs againſt the LORD g, and that perſon be guilty h:

* Lev. 6. 3.

f Heb. any ſins of men, i. e. either 1. of common infirmity, or ſuch ſins as men commit through human frailty, for if this were done knowingly and willingly, a greater puniſhment was appointed. See Lev. 6. 5, 6. Or rather 2. ſins againſt men, or belonging to men, to wit, deceits or wrongs, whereby other men are injured, of which he manifeſtly ſpeaks, as appears from v. 7, 8. ſo this is a Genitive caſe of the object, as Mat. 12. 31. blaſphemy of the ſpirit, (for ſo it is in the Greek) is blaſphemy againſt the holy Ghoſt, as it is called Mark 3. 28. Luk. 12. 10. and power of all fleſh, Joh. 17. 2. is power over all fleſh, and power of ſpirit, Mat. 10. 1. is power over or againſt ſpirits, Luk. 9. 8. and prayer of God, Luk. 6. 12. is prayer directed unto God: and the ſpoil of the poor, Iſa. 3. 14. is the ſpoil taken from the poor: and violence of the children of Judah, Joel 3. 19. is violence againſt them, as we tranſlate it. g Which words may be added, either 1. to expreſs a new ſin, of prevaricating or dealing falſly with God, either by a falſe oath, which is a ſpecial injury to God, or by a lie or ſimple denial that he hath taken any thing of his neighbours, which alſo God takes as a ſin eſpecially concerning himſelf, who in ſuch caſes is the only judge of what is falſly ſaid or ſworn. See Act. 5. 3, 4. Or 2. to aggravate the former ſin, and to ſhew that ſuch injuries done to men are alſo ſins againſt God, who hath commanded juſtice to men as well as religion to himſelf. But the former is more probable, both becauſe here is a ram of atonement to be offered to God for the ſpecial injury done to him, as well as ſatisfaction is to be made to the man whom he injured; and eſpecially by comparing this with the parallel place, Lev. 6. 2, &c. h (i. e.) Shall be ſenſible of his guilt, or be convicted in his conſcience of his ſin; for otherwiſe this might ſeem a meer tautology, if it were only meant of being really guilty of ſin, which was expreſſed before in thoſe words when one ſhall commit any ſin, i. e. be guilty of any ſin.

7 Then they ſhall confeſs their ſin i which they have done, and he ſhall recompenſe his treſpaſs * with the principal thereof k, and add unto it the fifth part thereof l, and give it unto him againſt whom he hath treſpaſſed.

* Lev. 6. 5.

i They ſhall not continue in the denial of the fact, as ſuch perſons oft do, but ſhall give glory to God, and take ſhame to themſelves by acknowledging their ſin, with grief and remorſe. See Lev. 5. 5. and 6. 4. k (i. e.) The thing he took away, or what is equivalent to it. l Which is added both as a compenſation to the injured perſon for the want of his goods ſo long, and for his trouble for the ſuppoſed utter loſs of them, and as a penalty upon the injurious dealer to diſcourage others from ſuch attempts. Qu. How doth this agree with that law, Exod. 22. 1? Anſ. That law was made againſt notorious and obſtinate thieves, who were legally convicted of their crime, and this againſt more modeſt thieves, whoſe neceſſities might induce them to ſteal, and whoſe conſciences are affected with their ſin.

8 But if the man have no kinſman m, to recompenſe the treſpaſs unto, let the treſpaſs be recompenſed unto the LORD, even to the prieſt n: beſide the * ram of the atonement, whereby an atonement ſhall be made for him.

* Lev. 6. 6. and 7. 8.

m Which might be the caſe commonly with Proſelytes, if not with Iſraelites. This alſo ſuppoſeth the perſon injured to be dead or gone away into ſome unknown place, and the perſon injured to be known to the injurer. n Whom God appointed as his deputy to receive his dues, and take them to his own uſe, that ſo he might more chearfully and intirely devote himſelf to the miniſtration of holy things. This is an additional explication to that law, Lev. 6. 2. and for the ſake thereof it ſeems here to be repeated.

9 And every ‖ * offering o of all the holy things of the children of Iſrael, which they bring unto the prieſts p ſhall be his q.

‖ Or, heave-offering. * Lev. 6. 18. 26. and 7. 6, 32. chap. 18. 8. Deut. 18. 3.

o Heb. every heave-offering, the heave-offering being here taken largely, ſo as to comprehend alſo the wave-offering, for both theſe were Aarons portion. See Exod. 29. 26, 27, 28. p To wit, to offer unto the Lord by his hands. q (i. e.) the Prieſts. See Levit. 6. 16.

10 And every mans hallowed things r ſhall be his: whatſoever any man giveth the prieſt, it ſhall be * his.

* Lev. 10. 13.

r Underſtand this not of the ſacrifices, no not of ſuch of them as were voluntary or vowed, as moſt underſtand it, becauſe theſe were not the Prieſts peculiar, but a good part of them was offered to God, and the remainder was eaten by the offerer as well as by the Prieſt, as is manifeſt; but of ſuch other things as were devoted to God, and were ſuch as could not be offered in ſacrifice; as ſuppoſe a man conſecrated an houſe, or rent of it to the Lord, this was to be the Prieſts. And this reſtriction may be eaſily collected from the nature of the thing, becauſe he ſpeaketh in this and the other branches here of ſuch things as were appropriated to the Prieſts, as his portion, which none of the ſacrifices were.

11 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

12 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, If any mans wife s go aſide t, and commit a treſpaſs againſt him, s This law was given partly to deter wives from adulterous practiſes, and partly to ſecure wives againſt the rage of their hard-hearted huſbands, who otherwiſe might upon meer ſuſpicions deſtroy them, or at leaſt put them away. Queſt. Why was there not the ſame law for the trial of the huſband, when the wife was jealous of him? Anſ. This might be either 1. becauſe the womans ſin is greater, becauſe there is not only filthineſs and falſneſs in it, which is alſo in the mans ſin, but alſo peculiar unrighteouſneſs in diſhonouring his name and family, and transferring his eſtate to ſtrangers and other mens children: or 2. becauſe there was not like fear of inconveniencies to the huſband from the jealouſie of the wife who had not that authority and power, and opportunity for the putting away or killing of the huſband, as the huſband had over the wife. Or 3. becauſe being the inferiour and the weaker ſex, and more ſubject to jealouſies and groundleſs ſuſpicions it was not thought expedient to truſt them with ſuch a power or priviledge. t From the way of religion and juſtice, or from her faith given to her huſband, or to the by-paths of falſhood and filthineſs, and that either in truth, or in appearance, and in her huſbands opinion.

13 And a man lie with her carnally, and it be hid from the eyes of her huſband, and be kept cloſe u, and ſhe be defiled, and there be no witneſs againſt her x, neither ſhe be taken with the manner;

u She utterly denying it, Pro. 30. 20. and none being able and willing to diſcover it. x For if it was witneſſed, ſhe was to die for it, Lev. 20. 10. Deut. 22. 22.

14 And the ſpirit of jealouſie y come upon him, and he be jealous of his wife, and ſhe be defiled: or if the ſpirit of jealouſie come upon him, and he be jealous of his wife, and ſhe be not defiled:

y (i. e.) A ſtrong opinion or ſuggeſtion or inward motion of that kind, whether from a good or evil ſpirit. Thus we read of the ſpirit of wiſdom, Iſa. 11. 2. of perverſeneſs, Iſa. 19. 14. of fornication, Hoſ. 4. 12. of fear, 2 Tim. 1. 7. of ſlumber, Rom. 11. 8.

15 Then z ſhall the man bring his wife unto the prieſt, and he ſhall bring her offering a for her, the tenth part of an Ephah of barley meal, he ſhall pour no oyl upon it, nor put frankincenſe thereon b; for it is an offering of jealouſie, an offering of memorial, bringing iniquity to remembrance c:

z She perſiſting in her denial, and her huſband requiring her ſubmiſſion to this way of trial. a Which was partly becauſe none were to appear before God empty, Exod. 23. 15. partly by way of ſolemn appeal to God, whom hereby ſhe deſired to judge between her and her huſband; and partly by way of atonement to appeaſe God, who had for her ſins ſtirred up her huſband againſt her, and ſent an evil ſpirit between them. See 1 Sam. 26. 19. b Both becauſe it was a kind of ſin-offering, from which theſe were excluded, Lev. 5. 10. and to teſtifie her ſorrowful ſence of the hand of God, and of her huſbands diſpleaſure, and becauſe ſhe came thither as a delinquent, or one ſuſpected of delinquency, and under an ill fame, and unpleaſing both to God and men; as one that wanted that grace and amiableneſs and joy which oyl ſignified, and that acceptance with God which frankincenſe deſigned, Pſal. 141. 2. c Both to God before whom ſhe appeared as a ſinner, and to her own conſcience, if ſhe were guilty, and, if ſhe were not guilty of this, yet it reminded her of her other ſins, for which this might be a puniſhmenr.

d (i. e.) The woman: But of her he ſpeaks, ver. 18. or it, i. e. the offering, which is laſt ſpoken of, ſo the feminine gender is put for the maſculine or the neuter, of both which we have inſtances. e (i. e.) Before the Sanctuary where the Ark was.

17 And the prieſt ſhall take holy water f in an earthen veſſel g, and of the duſt h that is in the floor of the tabernacle i the prieſt ſhall take, and put it into the water k:

f Either water out of the holy laver, Exod. 30. 18. or rather the water of purification appointed for ſuch kind of uſes, Numb. 19. 9. This was uſed, that if ſhe were guilty, ſhe might be afraid to add profaneneſs and the pollution of holy things to her other crime. g Either to ſignifie that frailty and vileneſs of which ſhe ſtood accuſed, or expreſs her ſorrowful and ſhameful condition, or becauſe, after this uſe, it was to be broken in pieces, that the remembrance of it might be blotted out as far as was poſſible. Compare Levit. 6. 28. and 11. 33. and 15. 12. h An emblem of vileneſs and miſery, as appears from Job. 2. 12 Pſal. 22. 15. Lam. 3. 29. and the ſerpents food, Gen. 3. 14. very proper for her who had been ſeduced to folly by the ſerpents inſtigation. i Which made it holy duſt and ſtruck the greater terrour into the woman, if ſhe were guilty. k To make it more unpleaſant and bitter, which was ſuitable to one in that ſorrowful ſtate.

18 And the prieſt ſhall ſet the woman before the LORD l, and uncover the womans head m, and put the offering of memorial in her hands n which is the jealouſie-offering: and the prieſt ſhall have in his hand the bitter o water that cauſeth the curſe p.

l Before the Tabernacle with her face towards the Ark. m Partly that ſhe might be made ſenſible how manifeſt ſhe and all her ways were to God, and that ſhe might be more viſible to the congregation, that her ſhame might be greater if ſhe were guilty; partly in token of her ſorrow either for her ſin, or at leaſt for any cauſe of ſuſpicion which ſhe had given; partly as a ſign that ſhe was after a ſort deprived of the help and protection of her husband, which the covering of the womans head ſignified, 1 Cor. 11. 5, 6, 7, 10. and that ſhe was neither virgin nor loyal wife, for the heads of both theſe uſed to be covered. n That ſhe her ſelf might offer it, and therefore call God to be witneſs of her innocency. o So called either from the bitter taſt which the duſt gave it, or from the bitter effects of it upon her, if ſhe were guilty. Compare Exod. 32. 20. p Not by any natural power, but by a ſupernatural efficacy ordained and wrought by God for her puniſhment, and for the terrour and caution of others.

19 And the prieſt ſhall charge her by an oath q, and ſay unto the woman, If no man r have lien with thee, and if thou haſt not gone aſide to uncleanneſs ‖ † with another s inſtead of thy husband, be thou free from this bitter water that cauſeth the curſe.

q To anſwer truly to his queſtion, or to declare by oath whether ſhe be guilty or no, and after ſuch oath ſhall ſay as follows. r To wit, except thy husband, as is manifeſt from the whole context, or no other man, the word another being underſtood here, as it is thought to be alſo, Gen. 14. 1. and 36. 6. Exod. 22. 20. s Or, with him, i. e. the man now mentioned. So it is an Ellipſis eaſily ſupplied out of the Text.

20 But if thou haſt gone aſide to another in ſtead of thy husband, and if thou be defiled; and ſome man have lien with thee beſide thine husband;

21 Then the prieſt ſhall charge the woman with an oath of curſing, and the prieſt ſhall ſay unto the woman, The LORD make thee a curſe, and an oath t among thy people, when the LORD doth make thy thigh u to † rot x and thy belly to ſwell y.

t (i. e.) A form of curſing or imprecatory oaths, that when they would curſe a perſon, they may wiſh that they may be as curſed and miſerable as thou waſt upon this occaſion. See the phraſe, Iſa. 65. 15. Jer. 29. 22. and compare Gen. 48. 20. Ruth. 4. 11, 12. u A modeſt ſignification of the genital parts, uſed both in Scripture, as Gen. 46. 26. Exod. 1. 5. and other authors, that the ſin might be evident in the puniſhment. x Heb. to fall, i. e. to die or waſt away, as the word is uſed, 1 Chron. 21. 14. compared with 2 Sam. 24. 15. y Suddenly and violently till it burſt, which the Jews note was frequent in this and like caſes, as Exod. 32. 20. And it was a clear evidence of the truth of their religion.

22 And this water that cauſeth the curſe ſhall go into thy bowels, to make thy belly to ſwell, and thy thigh to rot: and the woman ſhall ſay, Amen, amen z.

z (i. e.) So let it be if I be guilty. The word is doubled by her as an evidence of her innocency, and ardent deſire that God would deal with her according to her deſert.

23 And the prieſt ſhall write theſe curſes a in a book b, and he ſhall blot them out with the bitter water c.

a Wherewith ſhe curſed her ſelf, to which peradventure her name was added. b (i. e.) In a ſcroll of parchment, which the Hebrews commonly call a book, as Deut. 24. 1. 2 Sam. 11. 14. Iſa 39. 1. c Or, raſe or ſcrape them out and caſt them into the bitter water. Whereby it was ſignified, that if ſhe was innocent, the curſes ſhould be blotted out and come to nothing, and, if ſhe were guilty, ſhe ſhould find in her the effects of this water which ſhe drunk, after the words of this curſe had been ſcraped and put in.

24 And he ſhall cauſe the woman to drink d the bitter water, that cauſeth the curſe: and the water that cauſeth the curſe ſhall enter into her, and become bitter.

d To wit, after the jealouſie-offering was offered, as is affirmed, v. 26.

25 Then the prieſt ſhall take the jealouſie-offering out of the womans hand, and ſhall wave the offering before the LORD, and offer it upon the altar.

26 And the prieſt ſhall take an handful of the offering, even the memorial thereof e, and burn it upon the altar, and afterward ſhall cauſe the woman to drink the water.

27 And when he hath made her to drink the water then it ſhall come to paſs, that if ſhe be defiled, and have done treſpaſs againſt her husband, that the water that cauſeth the curſe, ſhall enter into her, and become bitter, and her belly ſhall ſwell, and her thigh ſhall rot: and the woman ſhall be * a curſe among her people.

* Deut. 28. 37. Pſal. 83. 9. 11. Jer. 24. 9. and 29. 18, 22. and 42. 18. Zech. 8. 13

28 And if the woman be not defiled, but be clean, then ſhe ſhall be free f, and ſhall conceive ſeed g.

f To wit, from theſe bitter curſes and miſeries. g (i. e.) Shall bring forth children, as the Jews ſay, in caſe of her innocency, infallibly ſhe did, yea though ſhe was barren before: or ſhall be as capable of bearing children, as other women.

29 This is the law of jealouſies, when a wife goeth aſide to another in ſtead of her husband, and is defiled.

30 Or when the ſpirit of jealouſie cometh upon him, and he be jealous over his wife, and ſhall ſet the woman before the LORD, and the prieſt ſhall execute upon her all this law.

31 Then ſhall the man be guiltleſs from iniquity h, and this woman ſhall bear her iniquity i.

h Which he ſhould not have been, if he had either diſſembled or indulged her in ſo great a wickedneſs, and not endeavoured to bring her either to repentance or puniſhment: See Mat. 1. 19. or cheriſhed ſuſpicions in his breaſt, and thereupon proceeded to hate her or caſt her off. Whereas now, whatſoever the conſequent is, the husband ſhall not be blamed or cenſured either for bringing ſuch curſes and miſchiefs upon her, or for defaming her, if ſhe appear to be innocent. i (i. e.) The puniſhment of her iniquity, whether ſhe was falſe to her husband, or by any light and fooliſh carriage gave him occaſion to ſuſpect her to be ſo.

CHAP. VI.

The Law of the Nazarites: From what they ſhould abſtain: How becoming Unclean they were to be purified, 1——12. The Vow of Separation being fulfilled, the Ceremonies to be obſerved, 13——21. The Form of Bleſſing to be uſed by the Prieſt in the Congregation, 22—27.

1 AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 Speak unto the children of Iſrael and ſay unto them, When either man or woman a ſhall ‖ ſeparate themſelves to vow a vow of a Nazarite b, to ſeparate themſelves unto the LORD:

a For both ſexes might make this vow, if they were free and at their own diſpoſe, for otherwiſe their parents or husbands could diſanul the vow, Numb. 30 4. and in that caſe they ſinned in taking Gods name in vain, and vowing what they could not perform. b Whereby they did ſequeſter themſelves in a great part from worldly employments and enjoyments, that they might intirely conſecrate themſelves to Gods ſervice, and this either for their whole life time, of which ſee Judg. 13. 5. and 16. 17. 1 Sam. 1. 11. Luk. 1. 15. or for a leſs and limited ſpace of time, of which in this chapter.

b Leaſt they ſhould either inflame or diſpoſe him to luxury, and conſequently to the breaking of his vow: or cloud his reaſon and thereby occaſion ſome miſtake or miſcarriage in the rules to which he had bound himſelf. Compare Lev. 10. 9. c Which was forbidden him for greater caution to keep him at the further diſtance from wine.

4 All the days of his ‖ ſeparation d ſhall he eat nothing that is made of the † vine-tree, from the kernels even to the husk.

‖ Or, Nazariteſhip.

d Which were ſometimes more, ſometimes fewer, as he thought fit to appoint.

5 All the days of the vow of his ſeparation, there ſhall no * raſor e come upon his head, until the days be fulfilled, in the which he ſeparateth himſelf unto the LORD, he ſhall be holy f; and ſhall let the locks of the hair of his head grow.

* Judg. 13. 5. 1 Sam. 1. 11.

e Nor ſciſſers, or other inſtrument to cut off any part of his hair. This was appointed, partly as a ſign of his mortification to worldly delights and vain affectation of outward beauty, which is promoted by the polling or cutting off the hair; partly as a teſtimony of that purity which hereby he profeſſed, becauſe the cutting off the hair was a ſign of uncleanneſs, as appears from v. 9. and Lev. 14. 8, 9. partly that by the notorious length of his hair he might be conſtantly minded of his vow, and the exquiſite holineſs it required, and that others might thereby be admoniſhed and ſtirred up to the imitation of his holy example; and partly that he might reſerve his hair entirely for God to whom it was to be offered, v. 18. f (i. e.) Wholly conſecrated to God and his ſervice, whereby he ſhews that inward and ſubſtantial holineſs was the great thing which God required and valued in theſe, and conſequently in other rites and ceremonies.

6 All the days that he ſeparateth himſelf unto the LORD, he ſhall come at no † dead body.

7 He ſhall not make himſelf unclean for his father, or for his mother g, for his brother, or for his ſiſter, when they die: becauſe the † conſecration h of his God i is upon his head.

g Wherein he was equal to the High-prieſt, Lev. 21. 11. being, in ſome ſort, as ſacred a perſon, and as eminent a type of Chriſt, Heb. 7. 26. and therefore juſtly required to prefer the ſervice of God to which he had ſo fully and peculiarly given himſelf before the expreſſions of his affections to his deareſt and neareſt relations. h (i.e.) The token of his conſecration, to wit, his long hair. i (i.e.) Whereby he hath devoted himſelf to his God in an eminent manner. The Genitive caſe of the object.

8 All the days of his ſeparation he is holy unto the LORD.

9 And if any man die very ſuddenly by him, and he hath defiled the head of his conſecration; then he ſhall ſhave his head k in the day of his cleanſing, on the ſeventh day l ſhall he ſhave it.

k Becauſe his whole body, and eſpecially his hair was defiled by ſuch an accident, which he ought to impute either to his own heedleſsneſs, or at leaſt to Gods providence ſo ordering the matter poſſibly for the puniſhment of his other ſins, or for the quickening of him to more caution and purity and deteſtation of all dead works whereby he would be defiled. l To be reckoned from the time of his pollution, for uncleanneſs contracted by the dead continued for ſeven days, and the ſeventh day was the day of cleanſing for it, Lev. 15. 13. Numb. 19. 11, 12.

10 And on the * eighth day he ſhall bring two turtles, or two young pigeons m to the prieſt, to the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

m As in the caſe of him that had a running iſſue, Lev. 15. 14.

11 And the prieſt ſhall offer n the one for a ſin-offering o, and the other for a burnt-offering, and make an atonement for him, for that he ſinned p by the dead, and ſhall hallow q his head that ſame day.

n Heb. make: which is oft put for ſacrificing or offering, as Exod. 29. 36. 1 Chron. 21. 23. compared with 2 Sam. 24. 22. o Becauſe ſuch a pollution was, though not his ſin, yet the chaſtiſement of his ſin, and had an appearance of ſin, to wit, of negligence in not ſtanding ſufficiently upon his guard, which in ſuch perſons was in a manner equivalent to a ſin. p (i. e.) Contracted a ceremonial uncleanneſs, which is called ſinning, becauſe it was a type of ſin, and a violation of a law, though through ignorance and inadvertency, as many other ſins were. q Begin again to hallow or conſecrate it.

* Lev.5.6. † Heb. fall.

12 And he ſhall conſecrate unto the LORD the days of his ſeparation r, and ſhall bring a lamb of the firſt year * for a treſpaſs-offering: but the days that were before ſhall † be loſt s, becauſe his ſeparation was defiled:

r As many days as he had before ſeparated or vowed unto God s (i. e.) Not reckoned or imputed to him. Heb. fall, to wit, to the ground, i. e. be void or of none effect.

13 And this is the law of the Nazarite: when the days of his ſeparation are fulfilled, he ſhall be brought t unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

t By the Prieſts appointment and direction.

* Lev.4.2. 27, 32. * Lev.3.6.

14 And he ſhall offer his offering unto the LORD, one he-lamb of the firſt year without blemiſh for a burnt-offering, and one ew-lamb of the firſt year without blemiſh for * a ſin-offering u, and one ram without blemiſh for * peace-offerings x:

u Whereby he confeſſed and bewailed his frailties and miſcarriages notwithſtanding the ſtrictneſs of his vow and all the diligence and care which he could uſe, and conſequently acknowledged his need of the grace of God in Chriſt Jeſus the true Nazarite. x For thankfulneſs to God, who had given him grace to make and in ſome meaſure to keep ſuch a vow. So he offered all the three ſorts of offerings, that he might ſo far fulfill all righteouſneſs and profeſs his obligation to obſerve the will of God in all things.

15 And a basket of unleavened bread, * cakes of fine flour mingled with oyl, and wafers of unleavened bread anointed with oyl, and their meat-offering, and their drink offerings y.

y Such as did generally accompany the ſacrifices; of which, ſee Lev. 2. 1. and Numb. 28.

16 And the prieſt ſhall bring them before the LORD, and ſhall offer his ſin-offering, and his burnt-offering.

17 And he ſhall offer the ram for a ſacrifice of peace-offerings unto the LORD, with the basket of unleavened bread: the prieſt ſhall offer alſo his meat-offering, and his drink offering.

18 * And the Nazarite ſhall ſhave the head of his ſeparation z at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation a, and ſhall take the hair of the head of his ſeparation, and put it in the fire b, which is under the ſacrifice of the peace offerings.

z Or, of his Nazariteſhip, i. e. in which the chief of his Nazariteſhip or ſeparation to God conſiſted. a Publickly, that it might be known that his vow was ended, and therefore he was at liberty as to thoſe things from which he had reſtrained himſelf for a ſeaſon, otherwiſe ſome might have been ſcandalized at his uſe of his liberty. See Act. 21. 26. b Either 1. the fire of the Altar. But why then is this reſtrained to the peace-offerings, ſeeing it was common to the burnt-offerings, and to the ſin-offerings? Or rather 2. to the fire of the kitchin, upon which the fleſh of the peace-offerings was boiled.

19 And the prieſt ſhall take the ſodden ſhoulder c of the ram, and one unleavened cake out of the basket, and one unleavened wafer, and ſhall put them upon the hands of the Nazarite d, after the hair of his ſeparation is ſhaven.

c The left ſhoulder, as it appears from v. 20. where this is joined with the heave-ſhoulder, which was the right-ſhoulder, and which was the Prieſts due in all ſacrifices, Lev. 7. 32. and in this alſo. But here the other ſhoulder was added to it, as a ſpecial token of thankfulneſs from the Nazarites for Gods ſingular favours vouchſafed unto them. d That he may give them to the Prieſt, as his peculiar gift.

*Exod.29. 27, 28.

20 And the prieſt ſhall wave them * for a wave-offering e before the LORD: this is holy for the prieſt with the wave-breaſt, and heave-ſhoulder: and after that the Nazarite may drink wine f.

e Of the wave-offering and heave-offering, ſee Lev. 7. 30. f And return to his former freedom and manner of living, he is diſcharged from his vow.

21 This is the law of the Nazarite who hath vowed, and of his offering unto the LORD for his ſeparation, beſides that that his hand ſhall get g: according to the vow which he vowed, ſo he muſt do, after the law of his ſeparation.

g (i. e.) Beſides what he ſhall voluntarily promiſe and give according to his ability.

22 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

23 Speak unto Aaron, and unto his ſons, ſaying, On this wiſe h ye ſhall bleſs the children of Iſrael i, ſaying unto them, h Heb. Thus, in this manner, or in theſe words: yet ſo as that they were not tied to theſe very words, becauſe after this we have examples of Moſes and David and Solomon and others bleſſing the people in other words. i To wit, in the publick aſſembly.

24 The LORD bleſs thee k, and keep thee l:

k (i. e.) Beſtow upon you all manner of bleſſings, temporal and ſpiritual. Compare Gen. 12. 2. l (i. e.) Continue his bleſſings to thee, and preſerve thee in and to the uſe of them; keep thee from ſin and its bitter effects.

25 The LORD make his face ſhine upon thee m, and be gracious unto thee:

l (i. e.) Smile upon thee: this is oppoſed to the hiding of his face, and to the covering himſelf or his face with a cloud; and it is explained by the following words, be gracious unto thee. Others expound it of illumination or direction, and the revelation of himſelf, and of his will to them.

26 The LORD lift up his countenance upon thee n, and give thee peace o, n (i. e.) Look upon thee with a chearful and pleaſant countenance, as one that is reconciled to thee, and well pleaſed with thee and thy offerings and ſervices. See of this phraſe, Pſal. 4. 6. Prov. 16. 15. To this is oppoſed the falling and the caſting down of the countenance, of which ſee Gen. 4. 5, 6. Job 29. 24. Or, Regard, Protect, and help thee. Compare Pſal. 33. 18. o Peace with God and with thy own conſcience and with all men, and all proſperity, which is comprehended under this word.

27 And they ſhall put my Name upon the children of Iſrael p, and I will bleſs them q.

p (i. e.) Shall call them by my name, ſhall recommend them to me as my own people, and bleſs them and pray unto me for them as ſuch: which is a powerful argument to prevail with God for them, and therefore hath been oft uſed by the Prophets interceding for them, as Jer. 14. 9. Dan. 9. 18, 19. Compare 1 Sam. 12. 22. q I will ratifie their bleſſings, and give thoſe bleſſings to the people which the Prieſts pray for.

1 AND it came to paſs on the day a that Moſes had fully * ſet up the tabernacle, and had anointed it b, and ſanctified it, and all the inſtruments thereof, both the altar, and all the veſſels thereof, and had anointed them, and ſanctified them;

a Either 1. preciſely, and ſo this hiſtory, as many others, is put out of its proper place, and this chapter and the 8th, 9th, 10th, and 11th, ſhould follow next after Exod. 40. and this day is the ſame on which the Tabernacle was erected, which was the firſt day of the firſt month of the ſecond year, Exod. 40. 17, 18. Or 2. largely, day being put for time, and on the day, for about the time, or, a little after the time. And thus it ſeems to be taken here, becauſe all the princes did not offer theſe things upon one and the ſame day, but on ſeveral days, as here it follows. And ſo there is no diſorder in the hiſtory, and this chapter comes in its proper place, and thoſe things were done in the ſecond month of the ſecond year after the Tabernacle and Altar, and all other inſtruments thereof were anointed, as is here expreſſed; and after the Levites were ſeparated to the ſervice of the Tabernacle, and appointed to their ſeveral works, as is manifeſt from v, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9. which was done about a month after the Tabernacle was erected, &c. and after the numbring of the people, Numb. 1. when the Princes here employed in the offerings were firſt conſtituted; and after the diſpoſal of the Tribes about the Tabernacle, the order of which is here obſerved in the time of their offerings. b Lev. 8. 10.

2 That * the princes of Iſrael, heads of the houſe of their fathers (who were the princes of the tribes, † and were over them that were numbred) offered c:

c To wit, in the manner and days hereafter mentioned.

3 And they brought their offering before the LORD, ſix covered wagons d, and twelve oxen: a wagon for two of the princes, and for each one an oxe: and they brought them before the tabernacle.

d For the more convenient and ſafe carriage of ſuch things as were moſt cumberſome.

4 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

5 Take it of them, that they may be to do the ſervice of the tabernacle of the congregation, and thou ſhalt give them unto the Levites: to every man according to his ſervice e.

e (i. e.) More or fewer of them, as the nature of their ſervice and of the things to be carried required.

6 And Moſes took the wagons, and the oxen, and gave them unto the Levites.

7 Two wagons and four oxen he gave unto the ſons of Gerſhon, according to their ſervice:

8 And four wagons and eight oxen he gave unto the ſons of Merari, according unto their ſervice, under the hand of Ithamar f the ſon of Aaron the prieſt.

f (i. e.) Under his care and inſpection. See Gen. 39. 22. And it muſt be noted that theſe words belong both to the Merarites here, and to the Gerſhonites, ver. 7. becauſe both of them were under his hands, as is affirmed, Numb. 4. 28, 33.

9 But unto the ſons of Kohath he gave none: becauſe the ſervice of the ſanctuary belonging unto them, was that they ſhould bear upon their ſhoulders g.

g Becauſe of the greater worth and holineſs of the things which they carried. See Numb. 4. 6, 8, 10, 12, 14. 2 Sam. 6. 6, 13.

10 And the princes offered for dedicating of the altar h, in the day i that it was anointed, even the princes offered their offering before the altar.

h To wit, of burnt-offerings, and incenſe too, as appears from the matter of their offerings. The ſingular number for the plural. Not for the firſt dedication of them, for it is apparent they were dedicated or conſecrated before this time by Moſes and Aaron for diverſe days together, Numb. 8. & 9. but for a further dedication of them, theſe being the firſt offerings that were made for any particular perſons or tribes. i (i. e.) About the time, as ſoon as it was anointed. See on ver. 1.

11 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, They ſhall offer their offering each prince on his day k, for the dedicating of the altar.

k As well for the greater ſolemnity and ſplendor of the work, as for the prevention of confuſion. And in this offering they follow the order of their camp, and not of their birth.

12 And he that offered his offering the firſt day, was Nahſhon the ſon of Amminadab, of the tribe of Judah l.

l In whoſe name and behalf, this offering was made, and ſo in the reſt.

13 And his offering was one ſilver charger m the weight thereof was an hundred and thirty ſhekels, one m A large diſh or platter; of which ſee Exod. 25. 29. to be employed about the altar of burnt-offering, or in the court, not in the Sanctuary, for all its veſſels were of gold.

14 One ſpoon of ten ſhekels of gold o full of incenſe:

o And therefore belonging to the altar of incenſe.

* Lev. 1. 2. 15 * One young bullock, one ram, one lamb of the firſt year, for a burnt-offering:

* Lev. 4. 23 16 One kid of the goats for a * ſin-offering:

* Lev. 3. 1. 17 And for a * ſacrifice of peace-offerings p, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five lambs of the firſt year. This was the offering of Nahſhon the ſon of Amminadab.

p Which are more numerous, becauſe the Princes and Prieſts, and ſome of the people did make a feaſt before the Lord out of them, and celebrated it with great rejoycing.

18 On the ſecond day Nethaneel the ſon of Zuar, prince of Iſſachar, did offer:

19 He offered for his offering one ſilver charger, the weight whereof was an hundred and thirty ſhekels, one ſilver bowl of ſeventy ſhekels after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil, for a meat-offering.

20 One ſpoon of gold of ten ſhekels, full of incenſe:

21 One young bullock, one ram, one lamb of the firſt year for a burnt-offering:

22 One kid of the goats for a ſin-offering:

23 And for a ſacrifice of peace-offerings five oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five lambs of the firſt year. This was the offering of Nethaneel the ſon of Zuar.

24 On the third day Eliab the ſon of Helon, prince of the children of Zebulun did offer.

25 His offering was one ſilver charger, the weight whereof was an hundred and thirty ſhekels, one ſilver bowl of ſeventy ſhekels after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil, for a meat-offering:

26 One golden ſpoon of ten ſhekels, full of incenſe:

27 One young bullock, one ram, one lamb of the firſt year for a burnt-offering:

28 One kid of the goats for a ſin-offering:

29 And for a ſacrifice of peace-offerings, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five lambs of the firſt year. This was the offering of Eliab the ſon of Helon.

30 On the fourth day Elizur the ſon of Shedeur, prince of the children of Reuben, did offer:

31 His offering was one ſilver charger of an hundred and thirty ſhekels, one ſilver bowl of ſeventy ſhekels after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mingled with oyl, for a meat-offering.

33 One young bullock, one ram, one lamb of the firſt year for a burnt-offering:

34 One kid of the goats for a ſin-offering:

35 And for a ſacrifice of peace-offerings, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five lambs of the firſt year. This was the offering of Elizur the ſon of Shedeur:

36 On the fifth day, Shelumiel the ſon of Zuriſhaddai, prince of the children of Simeon, did offer:

37 His offering was one ſilver charger, the weight whereof was an hundred and thirty ſhekels, one ſilver bowl of ſeventy ſhekels after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mingled with oyl for a meat-offering.

38 One golden ſpoon of ten ſhekels, full of incenſe:

42 On the ſixth day Eliaſaph the ſon of Deuel, prince of the children of Gad, offered.

43 His offering was one ſilver charger, of the weight of an hundred and thirty ſhekels, a ſilver bowl of ſeventy ſhekels after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mingled with oyl, for a meat-offering:

44 One golden ſpoon of ten ſhekels full of incenſe:

45 One young bullock, one ram, one lamb of the firſt year for a burnt offering:

46 One kid of the goats for a ſin-offering:

47 And for a ſacrifice of peace-offerings, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five lambs. This was the offering of Eliaſaph the ſon of Deuel.

48 On the ſeventh day Eliſhama the ſon of Ammihud, prince of the children of Ephraim, offered.

49 His offering was one ſilver charger, the weight whereof was an hundred and thirty ſhekels, one ſilver bowl of ſeventy ſhekels after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil, for a meat-offering:

50 One golden ſpoon of ten ſhekels, full of incenſe:

51 One young bullock, one ram, one lamb of the firſt year for a burnt-offering:

52 One kid of the goats for a ſin-offering:

53 And for a ſacrifice of peace-offerings, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five lambs of the firſt year. This was the offering of Eliſhama the ſon of Ammihud.

54 On the eight day offered Gamaliel the ſon of Pedahzur, prince of the children of Manaſſeh.

55 His offering was one ſilver charger, of an hundred and thirty ſhekels, one ſilver bowl of ſeventy ſhekels after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil, for a meat-offering:

56 One golden ſpoon of ten ſhekels, full of incenſe:

57 One young bullock, one ram, one lamb of the firſt year for a burnt-offering:

58 One kid of the goats for a ſin-offering:

59 And for a ſacrifice of peace-offerings, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five lambs of the firſt year. This was the offering of Gamaliel the ſon of Pedahzur.

60 On the ninth day Abidan the ſon of Gideoni, prince of the children of Benjamin, offered.

61 His offering was one ſilver charger, the weight whereof was an hundred and thirty ſhekels, a ſilver bowl of ſeventy ſhekels after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil, for a meat-offering:

62 One golden ſpoon of ten ſhekels, full of incenſe:

63 One young bullock, one ram, one lamb of the firſt year for a burnt-offering.

64 One kid of the goats for a ſin-offering:

65 And for a ſacrifice of peace-offerings, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five lambs of the firſt year. This was the offering of Abidan the ſon of Gideoni.

66 On the tenth day Ahiezer the ſon of Ammiſhaddai, prince of the children of Dan, offered.

67 His offering was one ſilver charger, the weight whereof was an hundred and thirty ſhekels, one ſilver bowl of ſeventy ſhekels after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil, for a meat-offering:

68 One golden ſpoon of ten ſhekels, full of incenſe:

69 One bullock, one ram, one lamb of the firſt year for a burnt-offering:

70 One kid of the goats for a ſin-offering:

71 And for a ſacrifice of peace-offerings two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five lambs of the firſt year. This was the offering of Ahiezer, the ſon of Ammiſhaddai.

72 On the eleventh day, Pagiel the ſon of Ocran, prince of the children of Aſher, offered.

73 His offering was one ſilver charger, the weight whereof was an hundred and thirty ſhekels, one ſilver bowl of ſeventy ſhekels after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil, for a meat-offering:

74 One golden ſpoon of ten ſhekels, full of incenſe:

75 One young bullock, one ram, one lamb of the firſt year for a burnt-offering:

76 One kid of the goats for a ſin-offering.

77 And for a ſacrifice of peace-offerings two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five lambs of the firſt year. This was the offering of Pagiel the ſon of Ocran.

78 On the twelfth day, Ahira the ſon of Enan, prince of the children of Naphtali, offered.

79 His offering was one ſilver charger the weight whereof was an hundred and thirty ſhekels, one ſilver bowl of ſeventy ſhekels after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil, for a meat-offering:

80 One golden ſpoon of ten ſhekels full of incenſe:

81 One young bullock, one ram, one lamb of the firſt year for a burnt-offering:

82 One kid of the goats for a ſin-offering.

83 And for a ſacrifice of peace-offerings two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five lambs of the firſt year. This was the offering of Ahira the ſon of Enan.

84 This was the dedication of the altar, (in the day when it was anointed [q]) by the princes of Iſrael: twelve chargers of ſilver, twelve ſilver † bowls, twelve ſpoons of gold:

[q] This is again repeated, to ſhew why it is called the dedication of the Altar, becauſe it was the firſt offering made by any particular perſons or Tribes.

85 Each charger of ſilver weighing an hundred and thirty ſhekels, each bowl, ſeventy: all the ſilver veſſels weighed two thouſand and four hundred ſhekels after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary:

86 The golden ſpoons were twelve, full of incenſe, weighing ten ſhekels a piece after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary: all the gold of the ſpoons was an hundred and twenty ſhekels.

87 All the oxen for the burnt-offering were twelve bullocks, the rams twelve, the lambs of the firſt year twelve, with their meat-offering [r]: and the kids of the goats for ſin-offering twelve.

[r] Which was not mentioned before, becauſe it was ſufficiently underſtood from the Law which required it, Numb. 15. 3, 4, 5. but for greater aſſurance is here expreſſed.

88 And all the oxen for the ſacrifice of the peace-offerings were twenty and four bullocks, the rams ſixty, the he-goats ſixty, the lambs of the firſt year ſixty. This was the dedication of the altar after that it was anointed [s].

[s] Which words are very conveniently added to explain in what ſenſe he had ſo oft ſaid that this was done in the day when it was anointed, to wit, not exactly, but in a latitude, to wit, a little after that it was anointed, as is here ſaid.

89 And when Moſes was gone into the tabernacle of the congregation [t] to ſpeak with ‖ him [u], then he heard the voice of one ſpeaking unto him from off the mercy-ſeat [x] that was upon the ark of teſtimony, from between the two cherubims: and he ſpake unto him.

‖ That is, God.

[t] Into which Moſes, though no Prieſt, was permitted to enter by God's ſpecial licence. [u] (i. e.) To conſult God upon occaſion. [x] Which Moſes ſtanding without the veil could eaſily hear. And this ſeems to be added in this place, to ſhew that when men had done their part in the dedication of the Tabernacle, Altars, &c. God was not wanting in the performance of his part, and promiſe made, Exod. 25. 22.

CHAP. VIII.

How the Lamps are to be lighted, 1——4. God commands the Levites to be cleanſed, 5——15. That they may ſerve with Aaron and his Sons inſtead of the firſt-born, 16——22. Their Age and Service, 23——26.

1 AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 Speak unto Aaron, and ſay unto him, When thou * lighteſt the lamps, the ſeven lamps ſhall give light over againſt the candleſtick [a].

* Exod. 25. 37. & 40. 25.

[a] (i. e.) Either 1. On every ſide of the candleſtick. So the candleſtick is here put for the bulk or ſhaft of the candleſtick, as Exod. 25. 34, 35. and the lamps, when they were lighted were put into the branches of the candleſtick, and taken out upon occaſion. Thus the meaning is, that all the lamps were to be lighted on that part which was towards the middle, looking that way whence they had their light; for the middle lamp was lighted with the fire of the altar, and from that the other lamps received light. But againſt this ſenſe it is objected, that the lamps could not be otherwiſe ordered, but that they muſt give light round about the candleſtick, and therefore that ſenſe ſeems to make this direction idle and frivolous. Or 2. On that part which is before the candleſtick, Heb. over againſt the face of the candleſtick, i. e. in that place towards which the candleſtick looked, or where the candleſtick ſtood in full view, i. e. upon the Northſide, where the Table of Shew-bread ſtood, as appears from hence, becauſe the candleſtick ſtood cloſe to the boards of the Sanctuary on the South-ſide, Exod. 26. 35. And thus the lights were on both ſides of the Sanctuary, which was fit and neceſſary, becauſe it was wholly dark in it ſelf, and had no window in it.

3 And Aaron did ſo: he lighted the lamps thereof over againſt the candleſtick, as the LORD commanded Moſes.

4 * And this work of the candleſtick was of beaten gold [b], unto the ſhaft thereof, unto the flowers thereof was * beaten work: according unto the * pattern which the LORD had ſhewed Moſes, ſo he made the candleſtick.

* Exod. 31.
* Exod. 18.
* Exod. 40.

[b] Not hollow, but ſolid and maſſie gold, beaten out of one piece, and not of ſeveral pieces joined or ſodered together. See Exod. 25. 18, 31. & 37. 17.

5 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

6 Take the Levites from among the children of Iſrael, and [c] cleanſe them.

[c] Or, waſh or purifie them, which was alſo done with the Prieſts and others when they were to approach to God and his ſervice. See Exod. 19. 10, 15. Levit. 14. 9.

7 And thus ſhalt thou do unto them, to cleanſe them: ſprinkle water † of purifying [d] upon them, and † let them ſhave all their fleſh [e], and let them waſh their cloths, and ſo make themſelves clean.

† Heb. let them cauſe a raſor to paſs over, &c.

[d] Heb. Of ſin, (i. e.) for the expiation of ſin. This water was mixed with the aſhes of a red heifer, Numb. 19. 9. which therefore may ſeem to have been preſcribed before, though it be mentioned after; ſuch kind of tranſplacings of paſſages being frequent in Scripture. [e] Which external rite ſignified the cutting off their inordinate concupiſcences of earthly things, and that ſingular purity of heart and life which is required in the Miniſters of God. See Iſa. 52. 11. 2 Tim. 2. 21.

8 Then let them take a young bullock with his * meat-offering, even fine flour mingled with oil, and another young bullock [e] ſhalt thou take for a ſin-offering.

* Lev.

[e] The ſame ſacrifice which was offered for a ſin offering for the whole congregation, Levit. 4. becauſe the Levites came in the ſtead of all the firſt-born, which did in a manner repreſent the whole congregation.

9 And thou ſhalt bring the Levites before the tabernacle of the congregation, and thou ſhalt gather the whole aſſembly of the children of Iſrael together.

10 And thou ſhalt bring the Levites before the LORD, and the children of Iſrael [f] ſhall put their hands upon the Levites [g].

[f] Not all of them, which was impoſſible, but ſome in the name and ſtead, and by the appointment of all, to wit, either the firſt-born, or rather the Princes or Chiefs of each Tribe, who uſed to tranſact things in the name of their Tribes. [g] Whereby they ſignified their transferring of that right of Miniſtring to God from the firſt-born in whoſe hands it formerly was, unto the Levites, and their renouncing of their intereſt in the Levites, from whom they might otherwiſe have expected help by their perſons or purſes, as they did from other Tribes, in their common concernments, and their intire reſignation and dedication of them to God's ſervice; as the perſon offering by laying his hand upon the head of his ſacrifice, (Levit. 1. 4.) ſignified his tranſlation of his guilt upon the beaſt, and his dedication of it unto God.

11 And Aaron ſhall † offer the Levites before the LORD for an ‖ offering [h] of the children of Iſrael, that † they may execute the ſervice of the LORD.

† Heb. they may be to execute, &c.

[h] Heb. For a wave-offering. Of which ſee Exod. 29. 24. Not that Aaron did ſo wave them, which he could not do, but that he cauſed or commanded them to imitate that motion, and to wave themſelves towards the ſeveral parts of the world: whereby they might ſignifie their readineſs to ſerve God, according to their capacity whereſoever they ſhould be. Though the word may be taken more generally for any offering made to God, as Exod. 35. 22.

12 And the Levites ſhall lay their hands upon the heads of the bullocks [i]: and thou ſhalt offer the one for a ſin offering, and the other for a burnt-offering unto the LORD, to make an atonement for the Levites.

[i] To ſignifie, that they were offered by them and for them. See Exod. 29. 16, 19. Levit. 1. 4. & 3. 2. & 4. 4.

13 And thou ſhalt ſet the Levites before Aaron and before his ſons [k], and offer them for an offering unto the LORD [l].

[k] (i. e.) Put them into the power of Aaron and his ſons, to employ them in holy miniſtrations: for ſo that phraſe is ſometimes uſed, as Gen. 13. 9. the land is before thee, i. e. in thy power, to uſe or enjoy it. Or, ſetting the Levites before them, did ſignifie the giving the Levites to them, or to their ſervice. [l] For to him they were firſt properly offered, and by him given to the Prieſts in order to his ſervice.

14 Thus ſhalt thou ſeparate the Levites from among the children of Iſrael, and the Levites ſhall be * mine.

15 And after that ſhall the Levites go in m, to do the ſervice of the tabernacle of the congregation: and thou ſhalt cleanſe them, and offer them for an offering.

m To wit, into the Court, where they were to wait upon the Prieſts at the Altar of burnt-offering; and, at preſent, into the Tabernacle, to take it down and ſet it up.

16 For they are wholly given unto me n from among the children of Iſrael: inſtead of ſuch as open every womb, * even inſtead of the firſt-born of all the children of Iſrael have I taken them unto me.

* ch. 3. 13. Exod. 13. 2 Luk. 2. 23.

n By the peoples conſent, as well as taken (as it follows) by my choice and command. See Numb. 3. 9.

17 * For all the firſt-born of the children of Iſrael are mine, both man and beaſt: on the day that I ſmote every firſt-born in the land of Egypt, I ſanctified them for my ſelf.

* Exod. 13. 2, 12, 15. ch. 3. 13. Luk. 2. 23.

18 And I have taken the Levites for all the firſt-born of the children of Iſrael.

19 And * I have given the Levites as a † gift to Aaron, and to his ſons, from among the children of Iſrael, to do the ſervice of the children of Iſrael o, in the tabernacle p of the congregation, and * to make an atonement for the children of Iſrael q: that there be no plague r among the children of Iſrael, when the children of Iſrael come nigh unto the ſanctuary.

* ch. 3. 9. † Heb. given. * ch. 1. 53.

o (i. e.) To ſerve God in their ſtead and behalf, to do what otherwiſe they had been obliged to do in their own perſons. p How in it, ſee on ver. 15. q Not by offering ſacrifices, which the Prieſts alone might do, but by aſſiſting the Prieſts in that expiatory work, and by a diligent performance of all the parts of their office, whereby God was pleaſed both with them and with the people. r This is added as a reaſon why God appointed them to ſerve in or about the Tabernacle, that they might watch and guard it, and not ſuffer any of the people to come near it, or meddle with holy things, which if they did, it would certainly bring a plague upon them.

20 And Moſes and Aaron, and all the congregation of the children of Iſrael, did to the Levites according unto all that the LORD commanded Moſes concerning the Levites, ſo did the children of Iſrael unto them.

21 And the Levites were purified s, and they waſhed their clothes: and Aaron offered them as an offering before the LORD, and Aaron made an atonement for them, to cleanſe them.

s Which was done by waſhing and ſprinkling and ſacrifices. See Levit. 15. 13, 14, 15. Numb. 19. 11, &c.

22 And after that went the Levites in, to do their ſervice in the tabernacle of the congregation, before Aaron, and before his ſons t: as the LORD had commanded Moſes concerning the Levites, ſo did they unto them.

t In their preſence, and by their direction and appointment.

23 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

24 This is it that belongeth unto the Levites: from * twenty and five years old u and upward, they ſhall go in † to wait upon the ſervice of the tabernacle of the congregation.

* 1 Chron. 23. 24. Num. 1. 3. † Heb. to war the warfare of, &c.

u See on Numb. 4. 3.

25 And from the age of fifty years they ſhall † ceaſe waiting upon the ſervice thereof x, and ſhall ſerve no more:

† Heb. return from the warfare of the ſervice.

x (i. e.) Upon the difficult and cumberſome part of their work.

26 But ſhall miniſter with their brethren y in the tabernacle of the congregation to keep the charge, and ſhall do no ſervice: thus ſhalt thou do unto the Levites, touching their charge.

y By way of advice, and aſſiſtance in leſſer and eaſier works.

The Paſſover kept in the Wilderneſs on the 14*th day of the firſt month,* 1——5. By thoſe who were then Unlcean or Journeying the 14*th day of the ſecond month,* 6——12. They who otherwiſe neglect it to be put to Death, 13. Proſelytes are to obſerve the ſame, 14. God manifeſts himſelf to Iſrael in a Cloud by Day and Fire by Night, by which they knew when and where to Camp, 15——23.

1 AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes in the wilderneſs of Sinai, in the firſt month of the ſecond year a, after they were come out of the land of Egypt, ſaying, a And therefore before the numbring of the people, which was not till the ſecond month, Numb. 1, 1, 2. But it is placed after it, becauſe of a ſpecial caſe relating to the Paſſe-over, which hapned after it, and which is here related, upon occaſion whereof he mentions the command of God for the keeping of the Paſſe-over in the Wilderneſs, which was done but once, and without this command they had not been obliged to keep it at all till they came to the land of Canaan. See Exod. 12. 25.

2 Let the children of Iſrael alſo keep * the paſſeover at its appointed ſeaſon.

* Exod. 12. 1, &c. Lev. 23. 5. ch. 28. 16. Deut. 16. 2

3 In the fourteenth day of this month † at even, ye ſhall keep it in its appointed ſeaſon: according to all the rites of b it, and according to all the ceremonies thereof ſhall ye keep it.

b So far as concerned the Lamb and the unleavened bread, &c. for there were ſome things peculiar to the firſt Paſſe-over in Egypt, as that they were to eat it in haſte, with their loins girded, their ſhoes on their feet, and their ſtaffe in their hand, which were not properly Rites or Ceremonies of the Paſſe-over, but circumſtances of their preſent condition, being then Travellers and ready to depart, &c. Qu. Whence had they meal to make unleavened bread? Anſw. They were not now in haſte, and ſo had time enough to procure it out of the land of Midian by the help of Moſes his Father-in-law who lived there, which land was not far from Horeb or Sinai, as appears from Exod. 3. 1.

4 And Moſes ſpake unto the children of Iſrael that they ſhould keep the paſſe-over.

5 And they kept the paſſe-over on the fourteenth day of the firſt month at even, in the wilderneſs of Sinai: according to all that the LORD commanded Moſes, ſo did the children of Iſrael.

6 And there were certain men who were * defiled by † the dead body of a man c, that they could not keep the paſſe-over d on that day: and they came before Moſes e, and before Aaron on that day.

* ch. 5. 3. † Or, the ſoul of a man, ch. 6. 6.

c By the touch of a dead body, or ſomething belonging to it. See Numb. 19. 11. d Becauſe unclean perſons were prohibited to eat of holy things. See Levit. 7. 20. and 22. 3. e For reſolution of their difficulty.

7 And thoſe men ſaid unto him, We are defiled by the dead body of a man: wherefore are we kept back, that we may not offer f an offering of the LORD g in its appointed ſeaſon, among the children of Iſrael?

f Which if we neglect, we muſt be cut off, and if we keep it in theſe circumſtances, we muſt alſo be cut off. What ſhall we do? g (i. e.) The Paſſeover, ſo called, becauſe it was both killed and eaten in obedience to God's command, and to God's honour, and as a thank-offering to God for his great mercies.

8 And Moſes ſaid unto them, Stand ſtill, and I will hear what the LORD will command concerning you h.

h God having promiſed to anſwer and direct him upon his addreſs to him in difficult caſes.

9 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

10 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, ſaying, If any man of you, or of your poſterity, ſhall be unclean by reaſon of a dead body, or be in a journey i afar off k, yet he ſhall keep the paſſeover unto the LORD.

i Under theſe two inſtances the Hebrews think that other hinderances of like nature are comprehended; as if one be hindred by a Diſeaſe, or by any other ſuch kind of uncleanneſs; which may ſeem probable both from the nature of the thing, and the reaſon of the Law which is the ſame in other caſes, and from the application of this rule to other caſes, 2 Chron. 30. k In ſome remote country, whence he cannot return ſooner.

11 The * fourteenth day of the ſecond month at even they ſhall keep it, and eat it with unleavened bread and bitter herbs.

* 2 Chron. 30. 2, 15.

12 * They ſhall leave none of it unto the morning l, * nor break any bone of it: according to all the ordinances of the paſſeover, they ſhall keep it.

* Exod. 12. 10. * Exod. 12. 46 Joh. 19. 36.

l But either eat or burn it before that time.

13 But the man that is clean, and is not in a journey, and forbeareth to keep the paſſeover m, even the ſame ſoul ſhall be cut off from his people, becauſe he brought not the offering of the LORD in its appointed ſeaſon: that man ſhall bear his ſin.

m Through contempt or neglect, without theſe or any other juſt impediments, as before.

14 And if a ſtranger n ſhall ſojourn among you, and will keep the paſſeover unto the LORD, according to the ordinance of the paſſeover, and according to the manner thereof, ſo ſhall he do: * ye ſhall have one ordinance, both for the ſtranger, and for him that was born in the land.

* Exod. 12. 49.

n To wit, a Proſelyte.

15 And * on the day that the tabernacle was reared up, the cloud o covered the tabernacle, namely, the tent of the teſtimony p: and at * even there was upon the tabernacle, as it were the appearance of fire q, until the morning.

* Exod. 40. 34. * Exod. 13. 21. & 40. 38.

o Of which ſee Exod. 13. 12. p Or, The Tabernacle towards or above the Tent of the Teſtimony, i. e. that part of the Tabernacle in which was the Teſtimony, or the Ark of the Teſtimony; for there the cloudy pillar ſtood, Levit. 16. 2. This was an evident token of God's ſpecial preſence with and providence over them. See Exod. 14. 20, 24. Pſal. 105. 39. And this cloud was eaſily diſtinguiſhed from other clouds, both by its peculiar figure and by its conſtant reſidence in that place. q That they might better diſcern it and direct themſelves and their journeys or ſtations by it.

16 So it was alway: the cloud covered it by day, and the appearance of fire by night.

17 And when the cloud was taken up r from the tabernacle, then after that the children of Iſrael journeyed: and in the place where the cloud abode, there the children of Iſrael pitched their tents.

r Or, Aſcended on high, above its ordinary place, by which it became more viſible to all the camp.

18 At the commandment of the LORD s the children of Iſrael journeyed; and at the commandment of the LORD they pitched; * as long as the cloud abode upon the tabernacle, they reſted in the tents. * 1 Cor. 10.1.

s The motion or ſtay of the cloud is fitly called the command of God, becauſe it was a ſignification of God's will and their duty, which a command properly is.

t (i.e.) The command of God mentioned before, that they ſhould ſtay as long as the cloud ſtayed, as the ſame phraſe is manifeſtly taken below, *ver.*23. And this, ſaith he, they did, tho' it were long in one place, which was tedious to them, who deſired to change places, and to make haſte to Canaan, yet they obeyed God herein againſt their own inclinations. Which becauſe it was remarkable in ſo obſtinate a people, it is ſo largely and particularly mentioned here, as an inſtance of their obedience, and as an aggravation of the many following inſtances of their Apoſtacy and Diſobedience.

20 And ſo it was when the cloud was a few days upon the tabernacle; according to the commandment of the LORD they abode in their tents, and according to the commandment of the LORD they journeyed.

† Heb. was ch.11.35. 21 And ſo it was when the cloud † abode from even unto the morning, and that the cloud was taken up in the morning, then they journeyed: whether it was by day or by night that the cloud was taken up, they journeyed.

22 Or whether it were two days, or a month, or a year, that the cloud tarried upon the tabernacle, remaining thereon, the children of Iſrael * abode in their tents, and journeyed not: but when it was taken up, they journeyed. * Exod.40. 36,37.

23 At the commandment of the LORD they reſted in the tents, and at the commandment of the LORD they journeyed: they kept the charge of the LORD, at the commandment of the LORD by the hand of Moſes.

CHAP. X.

Two Trumpets of Silver commanded to be made; with a direction to what end, when, how, by whom, and with what ſucceſs they ſhould be uſed, 1, 10. The Iſraelites remove to Paran: The order in which they go, 11——28. Moſes endeavours to get Hobab his Father-in-Law along with him, 29——32. Moſes his Prayer and Bleſſing when the Ark was removed and ſet down again, 33——36.

1 AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 Make thee two trumpets a of ſilver b: of an whole piece c ſhalt thou make them, that thou mayeſt uſe them for the calling of the aſſembly, and for the journeying of the camps.

a For Aaron's two Sons: though afterwards the number of the trumpets was much increaſed, as the number of the Prieſts alſo was. See 2 Chron. 5. 12. Theſe trumpets were ordained, both for ſignification of the great duty of Miniſters, to wit, to preach the word; and for uſe, as here follows. b A metal pure and precious, and giving a clear ſound. c See Exod. 25. 31. Numb. 8. 4.

* Joel 2.15. 3 And when * they d ſhall blow with them e, all the aſſembly ſhall aſſemble themſelves to thee at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

d (i. e.) The Prieſts by comparing this with ver. 8. e (i.e.) With both of them, by comparing this with the next verſe.

4 And if they blow but with one trumpet, then the princes which are heads of the thouſands of Iſrael, ſhall gather themſelves unto thee.

5 When ye blow an alarm e, then the camps that lie on the eaſt-part, ſhall go forward.

e To wit, once, as appears from ver. 6.

6 When ye blow an alarm the ſecond time, then the camps that lie on the ſouth-ſide, ſhall take their journey: they ſhall blow an alarm for their journeys f.

f As a ſign for them to march forward, and conſequently for the reſt to follow them, which is eaſily underſtood out of theſe words.

7 But when the congregation is to be gathered together, ye ſhall blow: but ye ſhall not ſound an alarm.

8 And the ſons of Aaron, the prieſts, ſhall blow with the trumpets g: and they ſhall be to you for an ordinance for ever throughout your generations.

g To oblige them to the greater regard and obſervance, as if God himſelf had called them.

9 And if ye go to war in your land againſt the enemy that oppreſſeth you, then ye ſhall blow an alarm with the trumpets h, and ye ſhall be remembred before the LORD your God, and ye ſhall be ſaved from your enemies i.

h Which was practiſed accordingly. See Numb. 31. 6. 2 Chron. 13. 12. i If you uſe this ordinance of God with truſt and dependance upon God for help, which condition is neceſſarily to be underſtood from divers other Scriptures, where it is expreſſed.

10 Alſo * in the days of your gladneſs k, and in your ſolemn days l, and in the beginnings of your months m, ye ſhall blow with the trumpets over your burnt-offerings, and over the ſacrifices of your peace-offerings, that they may be to you for a memorial before your God n: I am the LORD your God. * ch.29. 1Chro. 24. 2 Chro. 12.&7.6. &29.26. Ezra3. Neh.12. 35.

k (i. e.) Days appointed for rejoycing and thankſgiving to God, either for former mercies, or for ſucceeding deliverances, as Eſth. 9. 18, &c. Compare Hoſ. 2. 11. l Your ſtated and conſtant feſtivals. m Of which ſee, Pſal. 81. 3. n That God may remember you for good to accept and bleſs you; as that phraſe oft ſignifies.

11 And it came to paſs on the twentieth day of the ſecond month, in the ſecond year, that the cloud was taken up from off the tabernacle of the teſtimony.

12 And the children of Iſrael took * their journeys out of the wilderneſs of Sinai, and the cloud reſted in the wilderneſs of Paran o: * ch.2.9, 16,24,31.

o From which they travelled to other places, and then returned into it again, Numb. 12. 16.

13 And they firſt took their journey, according to the commandment of the LORD by the hand of Moſes.

14 * In the firſt place went the ſtandard of the camp of the children of Judah, according to their armies: and over his hoſt was * Nahſhon the ſon of Amminadab. * ch.2.3. * ch.1.7.

15 And over the hoſt of the tribe of the children of Iſſachar, was Nethaneel the ſon of Zuar.

16 And over the hoſt of the tribe of the children of of Zebulun, was Eliab the ſon of Helon.

17 And * the tabernacle was taken down, and the ſons of Gerſhon, and the ſons of Merari ſet forward, * bearing the tabernacle. * ch.1.51. * ch.4.24, 31.

18 And the * ſtandard of the camp of Reuben ſet forward according to their armies: and over his hoſt was Elizur the ſon of Shedeur. * ch.2.10.

19 And over the hoſt of the tribe of the children of Simeon, was Shelumiel the ſon of Zuriſhaddai.

20 And over the hoſt of the tribe of the children of Gad, was Eliaſaph the ſon of Deuel.

21 And the Kohathites ſet forward, bearing the * ſanctuary, and ‖ the other p did ſet up the tabernacle againſt they came. * ch.4.4. ‖ That is, the Gerſhonites, and the Merarites. See ver. 17.

p (i. e.) The Gerſhonites, and Merarites, as is evident both from their work and office, which was to take down and ſet up the Tabernacle, Numb. 3. 25——26. and 4. 22——33. and from *ver.*17. who therefore marched after the firſt camp, a good diſtance from and before the Kohathites, that they might prepare the Tabernacle for the reception of its utenſils, which the Kohathites brought ſome time after them.

22 And * the ſtandard of the camp of the children of Ephraim ſet forward according to their armies: and over his hoſt was Eliſhama the ſon of Ammihud. * ch.2.18.

23 And over the hoſt of the tribe of the children of Manaſſeh, was Gamaliel the ſon of Pedahzur.

24 And over the hoſt of the tribe of the children of Benjamin, was Abidan the ſon of Gideoni.

25 And * the ſtandard of the camp of the children of Dan ſet forward which was the rereward of all the camps throughout their hoſts, and over his hoſt was Ahiezer the ſon of Ammiſhaddai. * ch.2.25.

26 And over the hoſt of the tribe of the children of Aſher, was Pagiel the ſon of Ocran.

27 And over the hoſt of the tribe of the children of Naphtali, was Ahira the ſon of Enan.

28 † Thus were the journeyings q of the children of Iſrael, according to their armies when they ſet forward. † Heb. Theſe.

q (i. e.) In this manner and order they marched.

29 And Moſes ſaid unto Hobab, the ſon of Raguel r the Midianite, Moſes his father in law s, We are journeying unto the place of which the LORD ſaid, I will give it you: come thou with us, and * we will do thee good: for the LORD hath ſpoken good concerning Iſrael. * Judg.1. 16.

r Called alſo Revel, Exod. 2. 18. who ſeems to be the ſame who is called Jethro, Exod. 3.1. it being uſual in Scripture for one perſon to have two or three names. And therefore this Hobab is not Jethro, but his ſon, which may ſeem more probable, becauſe Jethro was old and unfit for travel, and deſirous, as may well be thought, to die in his own Country, whether he returned, Exod. 18.27. but Hobab was young and fitter for theſe journeys, and therefore intreated by Moſes to ſtay and bear them company. s Which words are ambiguous, but ſeem to belong to Raguel, or Revel, not to Hobab, tho' others are of another mind.

30 And he ſaid unto him, I will not go t, but I will depart to mine own land, and to my kindred.

t So he might truly and ſincerely ſay, though after this ſpeech he was overcome by the intreaties and perſwaſions of Moſes. Or, he did go and ſettle his affairs and afterwards return: for we find his poſterity ſetled among the Iſraelites. See Judg. 1. 16. & 4. 11, 18, &c.

31 And he ſaid, Leave us not, I pray thee, foraſmuch as thou knoweſt how we are to encamp in the wilderneſs, and thou mayeſt be to us inſtead of eyes u.

u To direct and guide us: for though the cloud determined them to a general place, yet many particulars might be uncertain and unknown to Moſes, wherein Hobab, having long lived in thoſe parts, might be able to adviſe him, as concerning the conveniences of water for their Cattle, concerning the ſafety or danger of the ſeveral parts by reaſon of Serpents or Wild-beaſts, or Enemies, in the parts adjoining to them, that ſo they might guard themſelves better againſt them. Or, this is to be underſtood of his directing them not ſo much in their way, as about great and difficult matters, wherein the counſel he had from God did not exclude the advice of men, as we ſee in Hobab's father Jethro, Exod. 18. And it is probable, this was the wiſe ſon of a wiſe father.

32 And it ſhall be if thou go with us, yea, it ſhall be, that what goodneſs the LORD ſhall do unto us, the ſame will we do unto thee.

33 And they departed from the mount of the LORD three days journey x: and the ark of the covenant of the LORD went before them y in the three days journey: to * ſearch out a reſting place z for them.

* Deut. 1. 33 Jer. 31. 2. Ezek. 20. 6.

x With continued journeys, only it ſeems moſt probable, that the cloud made little pauſes that they might have time for ſleep and neceſſary refreſhments, which their natures required. And thus all writers, when they relate the continued journeys of perſons for many days together, are to be underſtood with this exception. y Not ſo much in place, ſay ſome, for ſo it went in the midſt, or at leaſt after the firſt camp, as may ſeem from ver. 21. as in office and authority, as a General who is ſaid to go before or lead his Army, though he do not go in the very firſt place. But others more probably think, that the Ark, which indeed is not mentioned, ver. 21. albeit in their ſtations it was in the middle, where alſo the cloud was, yet in their marches it went before them, as alſo the cloud did, and ſo the cloud was conſtantly over the Ark whether it ſtood or went, and therefore the Ark is ſaid to go before and direct them, not as if the Ark could be ſeen of all the camps, which being carried only upon mens ſhoulders was impoſſible, but becauſe the cloud, which always attended upon the Ark, and did together with the Ark conſtitute in a manner one ſign of God's preſence, did lead and direct them. z Where they might ſafely and commodiouſly reſt. But this is a metaphorical expreſſion, for diſcovering to them; for otherwiſe the Ark could not ſearch, and God, who knew all places and things, needed not to ſearch.

34 And the cloud of the LORD was upon them by day †, when they went out of the camp.

† And by night too, as was expreſſed before. So we muſt learn to compare places of Scripture, and to ſupply the defects of one out of another, as we do in all authors.

35 And it came to paſs when the ark ſet forward, that Moſes ſaid, * Riſe up, LORD, and let thine enemies be ſcattered, and let them that hate thee flee before thee.

* Pſal. 68. 1, 2.

36 And when it reſted, he ſaid, Return ‖, O LORD, unto the † many thouſands of Iſrael.

† Heb. ten thouſand thouſands.

‖ Or, give reſt, i. e. a ſafe and quiet place, free from enemies and dangers.

The murmuring of the People, for which the fire breaketh in upon them, 1. Moſes prayeth to God, the fire is quenched, 2. The Name of the place, and why called, 3. The People murmur again, and luſt after fleſh, 4—6. Manna deſcribed, 7—9. Moſes's Complaint and Prayer, 10—15. God commandeth him to gather 70 of the Elders of Iſrael to help him, 16, 17. Promiſing them fleſh to eat, 18, 19, 20. Moſes his Unbelief, 21, 22. God is angry with him, 23. Moſes having gathered 70 of the Elders of Iſrael together, rehearſeth the words of the Lord to him, 24. God coming down in a Cloud, taketh of Moſes's ſpirit and giveth to the 70; The effects thereof, 25. Eldad and Medad Propheſie in the Camp, 26—29. God giveth them Quails to eat, 30—32. And ſmiteth the People with a very great Plague, 33, 34, 35.

† Heb. it was evil in the ears of, &c.
* Pſal. 78. 21.

1 AND when the people ‖ complained a, † it diſpleaſed the LORD, and the LORD heard it, and his anger was kindled, and the fire of the LORD b burnt * among them, and conſumed them that were in the uttermoſt parts of the camp c.

a Or, murmured, the occaſion whereof ſeems to be their laſt three days journey in a vaſt howling wilderneſs, without any benefit; and thereupon the remembrance of their long abode in the wilderneſs, and the proſpect and fear of many other tedious, and fruitleſs, and dangerous journeys, whereby they were like to be long delayed from coming to that reſt, that land of milk and honey, which God had promiſed them, and which they thirſted after. b (i. e.) A fire ſent from God in an extraordinary manner, poſſibly from the pillar of cloud and fire, or from heaven, as 2 King. 1. 12. c Either becauſe the ſin began there among the mixt multitude, who probably had their place there, or amongſt thoſe who were feeble and weary with their laſt journey, and therefore hindmoſt in the march: or in mercy to the people, whom he would rather awaken to repentance than utterly deſtroy, and therefore he ſent it into the skirts and not the heart and midſt of the camp.

2 And the people d cried unto Moſes e: and when Moſes prayed unto the LORD, the fire † was quenched.

d The murmurers, being penitent; or others for fear. e Whom they knew to be very prevalent with God.

3 And he called the name of the place ‖ Taberah f: becauſe the fire of the LORD burnt among them.

f From this fire; as it was called Kibroth-hattaavah from another occaſion, ver. 34, 35. and Numb. 33. 16. As it is no new thing in Scripture for perſons and places to have two names. Both theſe names were impoſed as monuments of the peoples ſin and of God's juſt judgment. See Deut. 9. 7, 22, 24.

4 And the * mixt multitude g that was among them, † fell a luſting, and the children of Iſrael h alſo † wept again i, and ſaid, * Who ſhall give us fleſh k to eat?

* Exod. 12. 38.
† Heb. luſted a luſt.
† Heb. returned and wept.
* 1 Cor. 10. 6. Pſal. 78. 18. & 106. 14.

g Conſiſting of Egyptians or other people, which being affected with God's miraculous works in Egypt, and thereupon believing the promiſe of God to carry them to a land of milk and honey, for their own advantage joined themſelves to the Iſraelites, Exod. 12. 38. and now finding themſelves ſadly diſappointed they diſcover their evil minds. h Whoſe ſpecial relation and obligation to God ſhould have reſtrained them from ſuch carriages. i This word relates either to their former murmuring upon this occaſion a twelve month before, Exod. 16. 2. or rather to their complaining mentioned, ver. 1. to note the aggravation of their ſin, that having juſt now ſinned in the ſame kind, and ſorely ſmarted for their ſin, and being but newly delivered from their fears and dangers cauſed thereby, they forthwith return to their vomit and murmur again, and that more paſſionately than before, expreſſing themſelves in tears and bitter words. k This word is here taken generally ſo as to include fiſh, as the next words ſhew, and as it is uſed, 1 Cor. 15. 39. They had indeed fleſh and cattel which they brought with them out of Egypt, but theſe were reſerved for breed to be carried into Canaan, and were ſo few that they would ſcarce have ſerved them for a month, as may be gathered from Numb. 11. 20, 21, 22.

5 * We remember the fiſh which we did eat in Egypt freely l: the cucumbers, and the melons, and the leeks, and the onions, and the garlick.

* Exod. 16. 3.

l Either without price, for fiſh was very plentiful, and fiſhing was there free, or with a very ſmall price; for nothing is ſometimes put for a little, as Joh. 18. 20. Act. 27. 33. and none for few, as Jer. 8. 6. 1 Cor. 2. 8. And this is the more probable becauſe the Egyptians might not taſte of fiſh, nor of the leeks and onions, which they worſhipped for Gods, and therefore the Iſraelites, who ſpeak theſe words, might have them there upon cheaper terms.

6 But now our ſoul m is dried away n; there is nothing at all beſides this Manna, before our eyes o.

m Either 1. our life, as the ſoul ſignifies, Gen. 9. 5. Pſal. 33. 19. Job. 36. 14. or 2. our body, which is oft ſignified by the ſoul, as Pſal. 16. 10. and 35. 12. and 105. 18. So Levit. 19. 28. and 21. 1. Numb. 5. 2. n Is withered and pines away; which poſſibly might be true through envy and diſcontent, and inordinate appetite, as 2 Sam. 13. 4. Prov. 14. 30. o Heb. Our eyes ſee or look to nothing but this Manna. They ſpeak as if the Manna were only uſeful to pleaſe their eyes, with its fine colour and ſhape, but not to ſatisfie their appetites, or ſuſtain their natures.

7 And * the manna was as coriander-ſeed p, and the † colour thereof as the colour of bdellium q.

* Exod. 16. 14, 31.

p Not for colour, for that is black, but for ſhape and figure. q Which is either 1. the gum of a tree, of a white and bright colour, or rather 2. a gem or precious ſtone, as the Hebrew Doctors take it; and particularly a pearl, as ſome render it, wherewith the Manna doth manifeſtly agree both in its colour, which is white, Exod. 16. 14. and in its figure which is round. See more on Gen. 2. 12.

8 And the people went about, and gathered it, and ground it in mills, or beat it in a mortar, and baked it in pans, and made cakes of it: and the taſt of it was as the taſt of freſh oyl r.

r Or, of the moſt excellent oyl; or, of the flour of oyl: or, as others, of cakes or paſte made with the beſt oyl, the word cakes being eaſily ſupplied out of the foregoing member of the verſe: or, which is not much differing, like wafers made with honey, as it is ſaid Exod. 16. 31. The nature and uſe of Manna is here thus particularly deſcribed, to ſhew the greatneſs of their ſin in deſpiſing ſuch excellent food as this was.

9 And when the dew fell upon the camp in the night, the manna fell upon it s.

s And then the dew fell again upon it and covered it, as we ſee Exod. 16. 13, 14. ſo the Manna lay hid as it were between two beds of dew. Hence the phraſe of hidden Manna, Rev. 2. 17.

10 Then Moſes heard the people weep throughout their families, every man in the door of his tent t, and * the anger of the LORD was kindled greatly; Moſes alſo was diſpleaſed u.

* Pſal. 78. 21.

t To note, that they were not aſhamed of their ſin. u Partly for their great unthankfulneſs; partly foreſeeing the dreadful judgments coming upon them; and partly for his own burden expreſſed in the following verſes.

11 And Moſes ſaid unto the LORD, Wherefore haſt thou afflicted thy ſervant? and wherefore have I not found favour in thy ſight x, that thou layeſt the burden of all this people upon me?

x Why didſt thou not hear my prayer, when I deſired thou wouldeſt excuſe me, and commit the care and government of this unruly people to ſome other perſon? See Exod. 3. 11. and 4. 10.

12 Have I conceived all this people? have I ‖ begotten them y, that thou ſhouldeſt ſay unto me, Carry them in thy boſom (as a nurſing father beareth the ſucking-child z) unto the land which thou ſweareſt unto their fathers?

y Are they my children, that I ſhould be obliged to provide food and all things for their neceſſity and deſire? z Which expreſſion ſhews the tender care and affection that governors by the command of God ought to have towards their people.

13 Whence ſhould I have fleſh to give unto all this people? for they weep unto me, ſaying, Give us fleſh that me may eat.

14 I am not able to bear all this people a alone b, becauſe it is too heavy for me.

a (i. e.) The burden of providing for and ſatisfying of them. b Obj. How was he alone, when there were others added to help him, Exod. 18. 21, 24? Anſw. Thoſe were only aſſiſtant to him in civil cauſes and ſmaller matters, but the harder and greater affairs, ſuch as this unqueſtionably was, were brought to Moſes and determined by him alone, Exod. 18. 22.

* See 1. King. 19. 4. Jon. 4. 3.

15 And if thou deal thus with me, * kill me, I pray thee, out of hand, if I have found favour in thy ſight, and let me not ſee my wretchedneſs c.

c Heb. my evil, i. e. my intolerable anguiſh and torment, ariſing from the inſuperable difficulty of my office and work of ruling this people, and from the dread of their utter extirpation which they will bring upon themſelves, and the diſhonour which thence will accrue to God and to religion, as if not I only but God alſo were an Impoſtor. Seeing is here put for feeling, as to ſee death, Pſal. 89. 48. Luk. 2. 26. is to ſuffer it, and to ſee the ſalvation of God, Pſal. 50. 23. & 91. 16. is to enjoy it.

* See Exod. 4. 29.

16 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Gather unto me * ſeventy men of the elders of Iſrael d, whom thou knoweſt to be the elders e of the people, and officers over them: and bring them unto the tabernacle of the congregation, that they may ſtand there with thee.

d Of whom ſee Exod. 3. 16. and 5. 6. Levit. 4. 15. Deut. 16. 18. e Whom thou by experience diſcerneſt to be Elders not only in years, and name and place, but alſo in wiſdom and gravity, and authority with the people.

17 And I will come down f, and talk with thee there, and I * will take of the ſpirit which is upon thee, and will put it upon them g, and they ſhall bear the burden of the people with thee, that thou bear it not thy ſelf alone.

f Not by local motion, but by my powerful preſence and operation. See Gen. 11. 5. and Exod. 34. 5. g (i. e.) I will give the ſame ſpirit to them which I have given to thee. But as the ſpirit was not conveyed to them from or through Moſes, but immediately from God, ſo the ſpirit or its gifts were not by this means impaired in Moſes. The ſpirit is here put for the gifts of the ſpirit, as it is Numb. 27. 18. Joel 2. 28. Joh. 7. 39. Act. 19. 2, 6. 1 Cor. 14. 12, 32. and particularly for the ſpirit of prophecy, v. 25. whereby they were enabled, as Moſes had been and ſtill was, to diſcern hidden and future things, and reſolve doubtful and difficult caſes, which made them fit for government. It is obſervable, that God would not, and therefore men ſhould not, call any perſons to any office for which they were not ſufficiently fit and qualified.

18 And ſay thou unto the people, Sanctifie your ſelves h againſt to morrow, and ye ſhall eat fleſh: (for ye have wept in the years of the LORD i, ſaying, Who ſhall give us fleſh to eat? for it was well with us in Egypt) therefore the LORD will give you fleſh, and ye ſhall eat.

h (i. e.) Prepare your ſelves, either to receive the miraculous bleſſings of God, the fleſh you deſire: or rather, prepare to meet thy God, O Iſrael, in the way of his judgments, and to receive the puniſhment which God will inflict upon you; for it is evident from ver. 20. that God anſwered them with a curſe inſtead of a bleſſing. Prepare your ſelves by true repentance, that you may either obtain ſome mitigation of the plague, or, whileſt your bodies are deſtroyed by the fleſh you deſire and eat, ver. 33, 34. your ſouls may be ſaved from the wrath of God. Sanctifying is oft uſed for preparing, as Jer. 6. 4. and 12. 3. and 51. 28. i Not ſecretly in your cloſets, but openly and impudently in the doors of your tents, ver. 10. calling heaven and earth to witneſs your cries and complaints.

19 Ye ſhall not eat one day, nor two days, nor five days, neither ten days, nor twenty days:

20 But even a † whole month, until it come out at your noſtrils k, and it be loathſome unto you l; becauſe ye have deſpiſed the LORD m which is among you n, and have wept before him, ſaying, Why came we forth out of Egypt o?

k Which meat loathed and violently vomited up frequently doth. l Being glutted with the abundance of it. Thus God deſtroys them by granting their deſires, and turns even their bleſſings into curſes: whileſt he deals much more favourably with Moſes, though he alſo fell into the ſame ſin with the people, i. e. impatience and murmuring. But God will make a great difference between perſons and perſons, and between Moſes his ſins of infirmity and the peoples preſumptuous and oft repeated provocations. m (i. e.) You have lightly eſteemed his bounty and manifold bleſſings in Manna and other things, and have preferred the leeks, onions, &c. of Egypt before them all: you have ſleighted and diſtruſted his promiſes and providence after ſo long and large experience of it. n Who is preſent and reſident with you to obſerve all your carriages, and to puniſh your offences. This is added as a great aggravation of the crime, to ſin in the preſence of the Judge. o Why did God do us ſuch an injury? Why did we ſo fooliſhly follow and obey him in coming forth?

21 And Moſes ſaid, * The people amongſt whom I am, are ſix hundred thouſand footmen p, and thou haſt ſaid, I will give them fleſh that they may eat a whole month.

* Exo. 38. 26. ch. 1. 46.

p Fit for war, Exod. 12. 37. beſides women, children, &c. That Moſes ſpeaks this as doubting or diſtruſting God's words is evident enough from ver. 22, 23. And that Moſes was not remarkably puniſhed for this as he was afterward for the ſame ſin, Numb. 20. next to God's good pleaſure may be imputed to the different circumſtances of this and that ſin: this was the firſt great offence of this kind, and therefore more eaſily paſſed by, that was after warning and againſt more light and experience. This ſeems to have been ſpoken ſecretly in Moſes his breaſt: that openly and publickly before the people, and to their ſcandal, and therefore it was fit to be openly and ſeverely puniſhed to prevent the contagion of that example.

22 Shall the flocks and the herds be ſlain for them, to ſuffice them q? or ſhall all the fiſh of the ſea be gathered together for them to ſuffice them?

q Will they be ſufficient for them? or where ſhall they have more?

23 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, * Is the LORDS hand waxed ſhort r? thou ſhalt ſee now whether my word ſhall come to paſs unto thee, or not.

* Iſa. 50. 2. & 59. 1.

r (i. e.) Leſs able to work ſuch great and glorious miracles as I have done.

24 And Moſes went out s and told the people the words of the LORD, and gathered the ſeventy men t of the elders of the people, and ſet them round about the tabernacle u.

s Out of the tabernacle, into which he entred to receive God's anſwers from the Mercy-ſeat, Numb. 7. 89. t Either they are called ſeventy from the ſtated number, though two of them were lacking, ver. 26. as the Apoſtles are called the twelve, Mat. 26. 20. when one of that number was abſent: or, he is ſaid to have gathered them, when he gave command to gather them. u Partly that the awe of God might be imprinted upon their hearts, that they might more ſeriouſly undertake and more faithfully manage their high employment, partly to gain them the more authority and reſpect from the people, and principally, becauſe that was the place where God manifeſted himſelf, and gave his bleſſings, and therefore there he would beſtow his ſpirit upon them.

25 And the LORD came down in a cloud, and ſpake unto him, and took of the ſpirit that was upon him, and gave it unto the ſeventy elders; and it came to paſs, that when the ſpirit reſted upon them x, they propheſied y, and † did not ceaſe ‖.

x (i. e.) Not only moved them for a time, but took up his ſettled abode with them, becauſe the uſe and end of this gift was not temporary but perpetual. y (i. e.) Diſcourſed of the word and works of God in a ſingular and marvellous manner, as the Prophets did. So this word is uſed, 1 Sam. 10. 5, 6. Joel 2. 28. Act. 2. 17. 1 Cor. 14. 3. Yet were they not hereby conſtituted Prophets or teachers, but civil Magiſtrates and Rulers, who together with the ſpirit of government, which is here ſufficiently implied, received alſo the ſpirit of Prophecy, as a ſign and ſeal both to themſelves and to the people, that God had called them to that employment and would be with them in it; as it was with Saul upon the ſame occaſion, 1 Sam. 10. 10. ‖ Either for that day, they continued in that exerciſe all that day, and, it may be, all the night too, as it is ſaid of Saul, 1 Sam. 19. 24. or, afterwards alſo, to note that this was a continued gift conferred upon them to enable them the better to diſcharge their Magiſtracy; which was more expedient for them then for the Rulers of other people, becauſe the Jews were under a Theocracy or the government of God, and even their civil controverſies were decided out of that word of God which the Prophets expounded, and in their wilderneſs condition they had frequent occaſions of ſeeking counſel from God, which was the work of Prophets, and they were to determine all things agreeably to the mind and will of God, which therefore they were obliged to ſtudy. Others tranſlate the words, and they added not: ſo the ſence is, They propheſied only this day for an aſſurance of vocation to and due qualification for their work, but afterwards they propheſied no more; the gift of prophecy ceaſed in them, and only the ſpirit of government reſted upon them.

26 But there remained two of the men in the camp z, the name of the one was Eldad, and the name of the other, Medad: and the ſpirit reſted upon them (and they were of them that were written a, but went not out unto the tabernacle) and they propheſied in the camp.

z Not going to the Tabernacle, as the reſt did, either modeſtly declining that high employment from an humble ſence of their own inſufficiency, as Saul did, 1 Sam. 10. 22. or not having ſufficient or ſeaſonable notice to repair thither: or, being detained in the camp and in their dwellings whether by uncleanneſs, or ſickneſs, or ſome urgent occaſion, not without God's ſpecial providence, that ſo the Miracle might be more evident, and their call and authority more unqueſtionable to all the people. a To wit, in a book or paper by Moſes, who by God's direction nominated the fitteſt and worthieſt perſons.

27 And there ran a young man, and told Moſes b, and ſaid, Eldad and Medad do propheſie in the camp.

b Fearing leaſt his authority ſhould be diminiſhed by their propheſying; and thereby, as by the ſignal given at this time, taking authority to themſelves without his knowledge and conſent.

28 And Joſhua the ſon of Nun the ſervant of Moſes,

one of his young men c anſwered, and ſaid, * My lord Moſes, forbid them d.

c Or, one of his choice miniſters, a choſen or excellent perſon: which may be emphatically added, to note that even great and good men may miſtake and miſ-judge about the works of God. Or, from his youth, as the words will bear, and the Chaldee, Syr. &c. render it. So it may be added as a reaſon why Joſhua above others were concerned for Moſes his honour and authority. d He feared either ſchiſm, or ſedition, or that by their uſurpation of authority independently upon Moſes and ſeparately from him, his power and eſteem might be leſſened, as the next words ſhew.

29 And Moſes ſaid unto him, Envieſt thou for my ſake e? would God that all the LORDS people were prophets f, and that the LORD would put his ſpirit upon them.

e Art thou grieved becauſe the gifts and graces of God are imparted to others beſides me? Compare Joh. 3. 26. f He ſaith Prophets, not rulers, for that he knew was abſurd and impoſſible.

30 And Moſes gat him into the camp g, he and the elders of Iſrael.

g Among the people, to exerciſe the gifts and authority now, or formerly received.

* Exod. 16. 13. Pſ. 78. 26. and 105. 46.

31 And there went forth a * wind from the LORD h, and brought quails i from the ſea k, and let them fall by the camp, † as it were a days journey on this ſide, and as it were a days journey on the other ſide round about the camp, and as it were two cubits high upon the face of the earth l.

h (i. e.) An extraordinary and miraculous wind both for its vehemency and for its effects. i A delicious and very nouriſhing food, which, conſidering their greedy appetite, and the newneſs and plenty of it, diſpoſed them to ſurfets and other diſtempers of body, and prepared the way for the following plague. God gave them quails once before, Exod. 16. 13. but neither in the ſame quantity, nor with the ſame deſign and effect as now. k Principally from the Red ſea, and both ſides of it; where, by the report of ancient heathen writers, they were then in great numbers, and, no doubt, were wonderfully increaſed by Gods ſpecial providence for this very occaſion. l Not as if the quails did cover all the ground two cubits high for a days journey on each ſide of the camp, for then there had been no place left where they could ſpread them all abroad round about the camp, as it is ſaid they did, ver. 32. but the meaning is, that the quails came and fell down round about the camp for a whole days journey on each ſide of it, and that in all that ſpace they lay here and there in great heaps, which were oft-times two cubits high.

m Or rather roſe up, which word is oft uſed for attempting or beginning to do any buſineſs. n Some at one time, and ſome at the other, and ſome, through the greedineſs or diffidence, at both times. o (i. e.) Ten aſs loads. Which if it ſeem incredible, you muſt conſider, 1. that the gatherers here were not all the people, which could not be without great confuſion and other inconveniencies, but ſome on the behalf of all, poſſibly one for each family, or the like, while the reſt were exerciſed about other neceſſary things. So the meaning is not, that every Iſraelite had ſo much for his ſhare, but that every collector gathered ſo much for the family, or others by whom he was intruſted. 2. That the people did not gather for their preſent uſe only, but for a good while to come as we ſhall ſee, and being greedy and diſtruſtful of Gods goodneſs, it is not ſtrange if they gathered much more than they needed. 3. That the word, rendred homers, may ſignifie heaps, as it doth, Exod. 8. 14. Judg. 15. 16. Hab. 3. 15. and ten is oft put for many, and ſo the ſence is, that every one gathered ſeveral heaps. If yet the number ſeems incredible, it muſt be further known. 4. That heathen and other authors affirm, that in thoſe eaſtern and ſouthern countreys quails are innumerable, ſo that in one part of Italy, within the compaſs of five miles, there were taken about an hundred thouſand of them every day for a month together; and that ſometimes they fly ſo thick over the ſea, that being weary they fall into ſhips, ſometimes in ſuch numbers that they ſink them with their weight, as Varro and Solinus affirm. And Athenæus relates, that in Egypt, a country prodigiouſly populous, as all agree, they were in ſuch plenty, that all thoſe vaſt numbers of people could not conſume them, but were forced to ſalt and keep them for their future uſe. So that there is no need at all that God ſhould create innumerable quails for this purpoſe: which yet if it were affirmed he did, Atheiſts and Anti-ſcripturiſts have no occaſion of triumph, ſince they muſt either own the creation of the world, which is a far greater miracle, or aſcribe the production of the world to a caſual jumble of Atoms, which is more ſenceleſs and ridiculous than all the fables of the Poets. p That ſo they may dry them, and ſalt them, and preſerve them for their future uſe, according to what they had ſeen and learned in Egypt.

* Pſal. 78. 30, 31.

33 And while the * fleſh was yet between their teeth, er'e it was chewed q, the wrath of the LORD was kindled againſt the people, and the LORD ſmote the people with a very great plague r.

q Heb. cut off, to wit, from their mouths, which is here underſtood, and expreſſed Joel 1. 5. i. e. ere it was taken away, as the flocks are ſaid to be cut off from the fold, Heb. 3. 17. when they are loſt and periſhed. The ſence is, before they had done eating their quails, which laſted for a month, as appears from ver. 20. r Whether it was leanneſs ſent into them, Pſal. 106. 15. whereby the food was deprived of its nouriſhing power which it hath only from Gods bleſſing; or ſurfet, a puniſhment moſt ſuitable to their ſin, and moſt likely to follow their intemperate deſire and uſe of this food; or the peſtilence, it is not much material: but a great and ſore plague unqueſtionably it was. Queſt. Why did God ſo ſorely puniſh the peoples murmuring and complaining for lack of fleſh here, when he ſpared them after the ſame ſin, Exod. 16? Anſ. Becauſe this ſin was a far greater ſin than that, and aggravated with worſe circumſtances; as proceeding not from neceſſity, as that did, when as yet they had no food, but from meer luſt and wantonneſs, when they had Manna conſtantly given them; as committed after large experience of Gods care and kindneſs, after God had pardoned their former ſins, and after God had in a ſolemn and terrible manner made known his laws and duty to them.

34 And he called the name of that place * Kibrothhattaavah s, becauſe there they buried the people that luſted.

s Heb. the graves of luſt, i. e. of the men that luſted, as it here follows. The abſtract for the concrete, which is frequent, as poverty, 2 King. 24. 14. pride, Pſal. 36. 11. deceit, ſins, Prov. 13. 6. &c. dreams, Jer. 27. 9. are put for men who are poor, or proud, or deceitful, or ſinful, or dreamers. And it notes, that this plague did not ſeize upon all that did eat of the quails, for then all had been deſtroyed, but only upon thoſe who were inordinate both in the deſire and uſe of them.

1 AND Miriam and Aaron a ſpake againſt Moſes, becauſe of the * Ethiopian woman b whom he had married, (for † he had * married an Ethiopian woman.)

a Whom God permitted to murmur againſt their brother, partly to exerciſe and diſcover his admirable meekneſs and patience for the inſtruction of after ages: and partly that by this ſhaking Moſes his authority might take the deeper root, and the people might be deterred from all ſedition and rebellion againſt him, by this example. Miriam ſeems to be firſt named, becauſe ſhe was the chief inſtigatour or firſt mover of the ſedition; wherefore ſhe alſo is more eminently puniſhed. b Which was either 1. Zipporah, who is here called an Ethiopian, in the Hebrew a Cuſhite, becauſe ſhe was a Midianite: the word Cuſh being generally uſed in ſcripture, not for Ethiopia properly ſo called below Egypt, but for Arabia, as ſome late learned men have evidently proved from 2 King. 19. 9. 2 Chron. 21. 16. Ezek. 29. 10. and 30. 8, 9. Hab. 3. 7. and other places. If ſhe be meant, as it is commonly conceived, I ſuppoſe they did not quarrel with him for marrying her, becauſe that was done long ſince, but for indulging her too much, and being ſwayed by her and her relations, by whom they might think he was perſwaded to make this innovation, and to chuſe ſeventy Rulers, as he had been formerly, Exod. 18: by which copartnerſhip in government they thought their authority and reputation much diminiſhed, eſpecially when no notice was taken nor uſe made of them in the choice, but all was done by the direction of Moſes, and for his aſſiſtance in the government. And becauſe they durſt not accuſe God, who was the chief agent in it, they charge Moſes, his inſtrument, as the manner of men is. Or 2. ſome other woman, though not named in Scripture, whom he married either whilſt Zipporah lived, or rather becauſe ſhe was now dead, though that, as many other things, be not recorded. For, as the quarrel ſeems to be about his marrying a ſtranger, ſo it is probable it was a late and freſh occaſion about which they contended, and not a thing done 40 years ago. And it was lawful for him as well as any other to marry an Ethiopian or Arabian woman, provided ſhe were, as doubtleſs this woman was, a ſincere proſelyte, which were by the law of God admitted to the ſame priviledges with the Iſraelites, Exod. 12. 48. ſo there might be many reaſons why Moſes might chuſe to marry ſuch a perſon rather than an Iſraelite, or why God ſo ordered it by his providence, either becauſe ſhe was a perſon of eminent worth and vertue, or becauſe God intended that the government ſhould not be continued in the hands of Moſes his children, and therefore would have ſome political blemiſh to be upon the family, as being ſtrangers by one parent. And this they here urge as a blemiſh to Moſes alſo.

2 And they ſaid, Hath the LORD indeed ſpoken only by Moſes? * hath he not ſpoken alſo by us c? And the LORD heard it d.

c Are not we Prophets as well as he? ſo Aaron was made, Exod. 4. 15, 16. and ſo Miriam is called, Exod. 15. 20. See alſo Mic. 6. 4. And Moſes hath debaſed and mixed the holy ſeed, which we have not done. Why then ſhould he take all power to himſelf, and make rulers as he pleaſeth, without conſulting us in the caſe? d (i. e.) Obſerved their words and carriage to Moſes.

3 (Now the man Moſes was very meek e, above all the men which were upon the face of the earth.

e This is added as the reaſon why Moſes took no notice of their reproach, but was one that heard it not, and why God did ſo ſpeedily and ſeverely plead Moſes his cauſe, becauſe he did not avenge himſelf. Queſt. 1. Did it become Moſes thus to commend himſelf? Anſw. 1. The holy pen-men of Scripture are not to be meaſured or cenſured by other profane Writers, becauſe they are guided by ſpecial inſtinct, in every thing they write; and as they oft-times publiſh their own and their near relations greateſt faults, where it may be uſeful to the honour of God, and the edification of the Church in after ages, ſo it is not ſtrange if for the ſame reaſons ſometimes they commend themſelves, eſpecially when they are forced to it by the inſolence and contempt of their adverſaries, which was Moſes his caſe here, in which caſe St. Paul alſo commends himſelf, 2 Cor. 11. 5, &c. and 12, 11, 12. Which they might the better do, becauſe all their writings and carriage made it evident to all men, that they did not this out of vain glory, and that they were exalted above the affectation of mens praiſes, and the dread of mens reproaches. 2. This might be added, as ſome other clauſes were, by ſome ſucceeding Prophet, which was no diſparagement to the authority of the holy Scriptures, ſeeing it is all written by one hand, though divers pens be uſed by it. Queſt. 2. How was Moſes ſo meek, when we oft-times read of his anger, as Exod. 11. 8. and 16. 20. and 32. 19. Levit. 10. 16. Numb. 16. 15. and 20. 10, 11, compared with Pſal. 106. 32, 33. Anſw. 1. The meekeſt men upon earth are provoked ſometimes, yea oftner than Moſes was. 2. True meekneſs doth not exclude all anger, but only ſuch as is unjuſt or immoderate or implacable. Moſes was and ought to be angry where God was offended and diſhonoured, as he was in almoſt all the places alledged.

4 And the LORD ſpake ſuddenly f unto Moſes, and unto Aaron, and unto Miriam, Come out g ye three into the tabernacle of the congregation; and they three came out.

f Partly to ſhew his great reſpect unto Moſes, and unto the grace of meekneſs; and partly to ſtifle the beginnings of the ſedition, that this example might not ſpread amongſt the people, who had too much of that leaven among them. g To wit, out of your private dwellings, and from amongſt the people, both that you may not infect them by ſuch ſcandalous words, and partly that you may know my pleaſure and your own doom.

5 And the LORD came down in the pillar of the cloud, and ſtood in the door of the tabernacle h, and called Aaron and Miriam, and they both came forth.

h Where they ſtood without, not being admitted into the Tabernacle, as Aaron uſed to be: which is noted as a ſign of Gods diſpleaſure.

6 And he ſaid, Hear now my words: if there be a prophet among you i, I the LORD will make my ſelf known unto him in a viſion k, and will ſpeak unto him in a dream l:

i If you be Prophets, as you pretend, yet know there is a difference among Prophets, nor do I put equal authority and honour upon all of them. k Whereby God repreſents things to the mind of a Prophet when he is awake, as Gen. 15. 1. and 46. 2. Dan. 8. 18. and 10. 8. l By which God manifeſts his mind to them in a dream, as Gen. 20. 3. and 28. 12.

7 My ſervant Moſes is not ſo, * who is faithful in all mine houſe m.

m (i. e.) Whom I have ſet over all my houſe, i. e. my Church and people, and therefore over you, and who hath diſcharged his office faithfully, and not partially and ſelf-ſeekingly, as you falſly accuſe him.

* Exod. 33. 11.

8 With him will I ſpeak * mouth to mouth n, even apparently o, and not in dark ſpeeches p, and the ſimilitude of the LORD q ſhall he behold: wherefore then were ye not afraid to ſpeak againſt my ſervant r Moſes?

n (i. e.) Diſtinctly, by an articulate voice; immediately, not by an interpreter, nor by ſhadows and repreſentations in his fancy, as it is in viſions and dreams; and familiarly. This is called ſpeaking face to face, 2 Epiſt. of John ver. 12. and 3 Epiſt. ver. 14. o Plainly and certainly. p Not in parables, ſimilitudes, riddles, dark reſemblances; as by ſhewing a boiling pot, an Almond Tree, &c. to Jeremy, a chariot with wheels, &c. to Ezekiel. q Not the face or eſſence of God, which no man can ſee and live, Exod. 33. 20. it being inviſible, Col. 1. 15. and never ſeen by man, John 1. 18. but ſome ſingular manifeſtation of his glorious preſence, as Exod. 33. 11, 20, &c. and 34. 5, &c. Deut. 34. 10. Yea the Son of God appeared to him in an humane ſhape, which he took up for a time, that he might give him a foretaſte of his future incarnation. r Who is ſo in ſuch an eminent and extraordinary manner.

9 And the anger of the LORD was kindled againſt them, and he departed s.

s From the door of the Tabernacle, in token of his great diſpleaſure, not waiting for their anſwer, and judging them unworthy of any further diſcourſe.

* Deut. 24. 9.

10 And the cloud departed from off the the tabernacle t, and * behold, Miriam became leprous u, white as ſnow x: and Aaron looked upon Miriam, and behold, ſhe was leprous.

t Not from the whole Tabernacle, for then they muſt have removed, but from that part of the Tabernacle, whither it was come, to that part which was directly over the Mercy-ſeat, where it conſtantly abode. u She, and not Aaron, either becauſe ſhe was firſt or chief in the tranſgreſſion; or becauſe God would not have his worſhip either interrupted or diſhonoured, which it muſt have been if Aaron had been leprous. x This kind of leproſie was the moſt virulent and incurable of all. See Exod. 4. 6. 2 Kings 5. 27. It is true, when the leproſie began in a particular part, and thence ſpread it ſelf over all the fleſh by degrees, and at laſt made it all white, that was an evidence of the cure of the leproſie, Levit. 13. 12, 13. but it was otherwiſe when one was ſuddenly and extraordinarily ſmitten with this univerſal whiteneſs, which ſhewed the great corruption of the whole maſs of blood, as it was here.

11 And Aaron ſaid unto Moſes, Alas, my lord, I beſeech thee, lay not the ſin upon us y wherein we have done fooliſhly, and wherein we have ſinned.

y Let not the guilt and puniſhment of this ſin reſt upon us, upon her in this kind, upon me in any other kind, but pray to God for the pardon and removal of it.

12 Let her not be as one dead z, of whom the fleſh is half conſumed, when he cometh out of his mothers womb a.

z Either naturally, becauſe part of her fleſh was putrefied and dead, and not to be reſtored but by the mighty power of God: Or morally, becauſe ſhe was cut off from all converſe with others, Levit. 13. 46. a Like an untimely birth without due ſhape and proportion, or like a ſtill born child, that hath been for ſome time dead in the womb, which when it comes forth, is white and putrefied, and part of it conſumed.

13 And Moſes cryed unto the LORD, ſaying, Heal her now, O God, I beſeech thee.

14 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, * If her father had but ſpit in her face b, ſhould ſhe not be aſhamed c ſeven days? let her be * ſhut out from the camp ſeven days d, and after that let her be received in again.

* See Heb. 12. 9.
* Lev. 13. 46.

b (i. e.) Expreſſed ſome eminent token of indignation and contempt, which this was, Job 30. 10. Iſa. 50. 6. c And withdraw her ſelf, from her fathers preſence, as Jonathan did upon a like occaſion, 1 Sam. 20. 34. So though God healed her according to Moſes his requeſt, yet he would have her publickly bear the ſhame of her ſin, and be a warning to others to keep them from the ſame tranſgreſſion. d The time appointed for cleanſing the unclean. See Numb. 6. 9. and 31. 19.

15 And Miriam was ſhut out from the camp ſeven days: and the people journeyed not, till Miriam was brought in again e.

e Which was a teſtimony of reſpect to her both from God and from the people, God ſo ordering it, partly leſt ſhe ſhould be overwhelmed by ſuch a publick rebuke from God, and partly leſt, ſhe being a Propheteſs, together with her perſon, the gift of Propheſie ſhould come into contempt.

16 And afterward the people removed from Hazeroth f, and pitched in the wilderneſs of Paran g.

f Where they abode, as is ſaid, Numb. 11. 35. for Miriams ſake. g (i. e.) In another part of the ſame wilderneſs, as may be gathered from Numb. 10. 12. See alſo Deut. 33. 2. It is poſſible they might have removed out of one part of that wilderneſs into another wilderneſs, and then returned again into another part of it, as we know the Iſraelites had many ſtrange windings and turnings in their Wilderneſs travels. And this part was more eſpecially called Rithmah, Numb. 33. 18. and Kadeſh-barnea, Numb. 13. 26. Deut 1. 19. which were two noted places in that part, both which ſeem to be comprehended within their camp, or near adjoining to it.

CHAP. XIII.

God commandeth Moſes to ſend Spies to ſearch out the land of Canaan, 1, 2, 3. their names, 4——15. Moſes's commandment where to go, and what to do, 16——22. their return with the fruits of the land, and their report, 23——29. they are encouraged by Caleb, 30, 31. but ten other diſheartens 'em by their falſe Report, 32——35.

1 AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes a, ſaying, a In anſwer to the peoples petition about it, as is evident from Deut. 1. 22. And it is probable from the following ſtory, that the people deſired it out of diffidence of Gods promiſe, and providence, though Moſes liked of it as a prudent courſe to learn where or how to make the firſt invaſion. And God granted their deſire for their trial and puniſhment, as well knowing from what root it came.

2 * Send thou men b, that they may ſearch the land of Canaan, which I give unto the children of Iſrael: of every tribe of their fathers c ſhall ye ſend a man, every one a ruler d among them.

* Chap. 32. 8. Deut. 1. 22.

b Do as the people preſs thee to do. c (i. e.) Which comes from their ſeveral parents or Patriarchs. d A perſon of wiſdom and authority, which might make his witneſs more conſiderable with the people.

3 And Moſes, by the commandment of the LORD, ſent them from the Wilderneſs of Paran: all thoſe men were heads of the children of Iſrael.

4 And theſe were their names: Of the tribe of Reuben, Shammua the ſon of Zaccur.

5 Of the tribe of Simeon, Shaphat the ſon of Hori.

6 Of the tribe of Judah, Caleb the ſon of Jephunneh.

7 Of the tribe of Iſſachar, Igal the ſon of Joſeph.

8 Of the tribe of Ephraim, Oſhea e the ſon of Nun.

e Called alſo Joſhua, ver. 16.

9 Of the tribe of Benjamin, Palto the ſon of Raphu.

10 Of the tribe of Zebulun, Gaddiel the ſon of Sodi.

11 Of the tribe of Joſeph, namely, of the tribe of Manaſſeh f, Gaddi the ſon of Suſi.

f (i. e.) Of that part of the tribe of Joſeph, which is peculiarly called the tribe of Manaſſeh, as the other part of it was called the tribe of Ephraim, ver. 8. The name of Joſeph is elſewhere appropriated to Ephraim, as Ezek. 37. 16, 19. Rev. 7. 8. here to Manaſſeh; poſſibly to aggravate the ſin of the ruler of this tribe, who did ſo baſely degenerate from his noble anceſtor, Joſeph.

12 Of the tribe of Dan, Ammiel the ſon of Gemalli.

13 Of the tribe of Aſher, Shether the ſon of Michael.

15 Of the tribe of Gad, Geuel the ſon of Machi.

16 Theſe are the names of the men which Moſes ſent to ſpy out the land: and Moſes called Oſhea the ſon of Nun, Jehoſhua g.

g Oſhea notes a deſire of Salvation, ſignifying, Save we pray thee, but Jehoſhua, or Joſhua includes a promiſe of Salvation, that he ſhould ſave, or that God by his hands ſhould ſave the people. So this was a prophecy of his ſucceſſion to Moſes in the government, and of the ſucceſs of his arms.

17 And Moſes ſent them to ſpie out the land of Canaan, and ſaid unto them, Get ye up this way ſouthward h, and go up into the mountain i:

h (i.e.) Into the Southern part of Canaan, which was the neareſt part, and the worſt too, being dry and deſert, Joſ. 15. 1, 3. Judg. 1. 15. Pſal. 126. 4. and therefore fitteſt for them to enter and paſs through with leſs obſervation. i (i. e.) Into the mountainous country, and thence into the valleys, and ſo take an exact ſurvey of the whole land.

18 And ſee the land what it is k, and the people that dwelleth therein, whether they be ſtrong or weak, few or many:

k Both for largeneſs, and for nature and quality; as is more particularly expreſſed, ver. 19, 20.

19 And what the land is that they dwell in, whether it be good or bad l, and what cities they be that they dwell in, whether in tents m or in ſtrong holds:

l Healthful, or unwholeſome, fruitful or barren. m As the Arabians did, or in unwalled Villages, which, like tents, are expoſed to an enemy.

20 And what the land is, whether it be fat n or lean, whether there be wood therein, or not. And be ye of good courage o, and bring of the fruit of the land, (now the time was the time of the firſt ripe grapes.)

n Rich and fertile. o Doubt not but God will preſerve you in this dangerous Journey, and be not diſmayed nor diſcouraged if you find the people numerous, potent, and well fortified.

21 So they went up, and ſearched the land, from the wilderneſs of Zin p, unto Rehob, as men come to Hamath q.

p In the ſouth of Canaan, Numb. 34. 3. Joſ. 15. 3. differing from the wilderneſs of Sin, which was nigh unto Egypt, Exod. 16. 1. q (i. e.) From the South they paſſed through the whole land even to the Northern parts of it, Rehob, a city in the North-weſt part, Joſ. 19. 28. Judg. 1. 31. and Hemath, a city in the North-eaſt part, Joſ. 19. 35. Ezek. 47. 17. And that they might more expeditiouſly and ſecurely perform this office, it is probable, that they divided themſelves into ſeveral ſmall parties, and informed themſelves not only by their eye, but alſo by their ear, and the information of perſons of whom they enquired about the nature and condition of their land.

*Joſh. 15. 14. Judg. 1. 10.

22 And they aſcended by the ſouth r, and came s unto Hebron: where * Ahiman, Sheſhai, and Talmai, the children of Anak t were: (now Hebron was built ſeven years before Zoan in Egypt u.)

r Here Moſes having generally deſcribed their progreſs and courſe from South to North, now returns more particularly to relate ſome memorable places and paſſages, as that having entred the land in the ſouthern parts, they travelled then till they came to Hebron. s Heb. He came, to wit, Caleb, as appears from Joſ. 14. 9, 12, 14. For, as was now intimated, the ſpies diſtributed their work among them, and went either ſeverally, or by pairs, and, it ſeems, the ſurvey of this part was left to Caleb. t A famous giant ſo called, whoſe children theſe are called, either more generally, as all giants ſometimes were, or rather more ſpecially, becauſe Arbah, from whom Hebron was called Kiriath-arbah, was the father of Anak, Joſ. 15. 13. And this circumſtance is mentioned as an evidence of the goodneſs of that land and ſoil, becauſe the giants choſe it for their habitation. u This ſeems to be noted to confront the Egyptians, who vainly boaſted of the antiquity of their city Zoan above all places.

† Or, Valley.

23 * And they came unto the † brook of Eſhcol, and cut down from thence a branch with one cluſter of grapes, and they bare it between two upon a ſtaff x; and they brought of the pomegranates, and of the figs.

x Either for the weight of it, conſidering the length of the way they were to carry it, or for the preſervation of it whole and entire. In thoſe Eaſtern and Southern countries there are vines and grapes of an extraordinary bigneſs as Strabo and Pliny affirm.

* Or, Valley.
† That is, a cluſter of grapes.

24 The place was called the * brook † Eſhcol, becauſe of the cluſter of grapes which the children of Iſrael cut down from thence.

25 And they returned from ſearching of the land after forty days.

26 And they went and came to Moſes, and to Aaron, and to all the congregation of the children of Iſrael, unto the wilderneſs of Paran, to Kadeſh y, and brought back word unto them, and unto all the congregation, and ſhewed them the fruit of the land.

y So called by way of abbreviation, which is frequent in Hebrew names, for Kadeſh-barnea, Deut. 1. 19. which ſome raſhly confound with Kadeſh in the wilderneſs of Sin, Numb. 20. 1. and 27. 14. and 33. 16. into which they came not till the 40th year after their coming out of Egypt, as appears from Numb. 33. 37, 38. whereas they were in this Kadeſh in the ſecond year, and before they received the ſentence of their forty years abode in the wilderneſs.

27 And they told him z, and ſaid, We came unto the land whither thou ſenteſt us, and ſurely it floweth with * milk and honey a, and this is the fruit of it. * Exod. 33. 3.

z In the audience of the people, as appears from ver. 30. a They craftily begin their relation with commendations, that their following ſlanders might be more eaſily believed.

28 Nevertheleſs, the * people be ſtrong b that dwell in the land, and the cities are * walled, and very great: and moreover, we ſaw the children of Anak there. * Deut. 9. 10, 21. * Deut. 1. 28.

b Potent for the ſtrength of their body and the valour of their minds.

29 The Amalekite dwelleth in the land of the ſouth c: and the Hittite, and the Jebuſite, and the Amorite dwelleth in the mountains d: and the Canaanite dwelleth by the ſea e, and by the coaſt of Jordan.

c Where we are to enter the land, and they who were ſo eager and fierce againſt us that they came into the wilderneſs to fight with us, will without doubt oppoſe us when we come cloſe by their land, and are about to ſettle in their neighbourhood, the rather, to revenge themſelves for their former loſs and ſhame received by us. Therefore they mention them, though they were no Canaanites. d (i. e.) In the mountainous country in the South-eaſt part of the land, ſo that you cannot enter there without great difficulty, both becauſe of the noted ſtrength and valour of thoſe people, and becauſe of the advantage they have from the mountains. e Not the mid-land Sea, which is commonly underſtood by that expreſſion, but the ſalt or dead ſea, as appears, 1. becauſe it is that ſea which is next to Jordan, as here follows: 2. becauſe the Canaanites dwelt principally in thoſe parts, and not near the mid-land ſea. So theſe guard the entrance on the Eaſt-ſide, as the others do on the South.

30 And Caleb f ſtilled the people g before Moſes h, and ſaid, Let us go up at once, and poſſeſs it, for we are well able to overcome it i.

f Together with Joſhua, as is manifeſt from Numb. 14. 6. 7, 30. but Caleb alone is here mentioned, poſſibly becauſe he ſpake firſt and moſt, which he might better do, becauſe he might be preſumed to be more impartial than Joſhua, who being Moſes his Miniſter might be thought to ſpeak only what he knew his maſter would like. g Which implies either that they had began to murmur, or that by their looks and carriages they diſcovered that grief and anger which boiled in their breaſts. h Or, towards Moſes, againſt whom they were incenſed, as the man who had brought them into ſuch ſad circumſtances. i Partly in moral probability, becauſe we are one people united under one head, whereas they are divided into ſeveral nations, and governments of differing counſels and intereſts and inclinations; and principally becauſe of the aſſiſtance of the almighty God.

31 But the men that went up with him k, ſaid, We be not able to go up againſt the people, for they are ſtronger than we l.

k All of them, Joſhua excepted. l Both in ſtature of body and numbers of people. Thus they wickedly queſtion the power and truth and goodneſs of God, of all which they had ſuch ample teſtimonies.

32 And they brought up m an evil report of the land n, which they had ſearched, unto the children of Iſrael, ſaying, The land through which we have gone to ſearch it, is a land * that eateth up the inhabitants thereof o: and † all the people that we ſaw in it, are * men of a great ſtature. * Lev. 26. 38. † Amos 2. 9. * Heb. men of ſtatures.

m Heb. brought forth, to wit, out of their mouths: they uttered a reproach or reproachful words. n (i. e.) Againſt, or, concerning the land. It is the genitive caſe of the object, as Mat. 10. 1. and 14. 1. o Not ſo much by civil wars, as moſt think, for that was likely to make their conqueſt more eaſie; nor by the barrenneſs of the ſoil, which conſumed the people with the exceſſive pains it required to make it fruitful, as others think, for they confeſſed the excellency of the land, ver. 27. but rather by the unwholeſomneſs of the air and place, which they gueſſed from the many funerals, which, as ſome Hebrew Writers, not without probability affirm, they obſerved in their travels through it: though that came to paſs from another cauſe, even from the ſingular providence of God, which, to facilitate the Iſraelites conqueſt, cut off vaſt numbers of the Canaanites either by a plague, or by the hornet ſent before them, as is expreſſed, Joſ. 24. 12. or ſome other way.

33 And there we ſaw the giants, the ſons of Anak, which come of the giants: and we were in our own ſight as graſhoppers p, and ſo we were in their ſight.

p (i. e.) Small and contemptible.

CHAP. XIV.

The children of Iſrael murmur againſt Moſes and Aaron, 1—4. Moſes, Aaron, Caleb and Joſhua go to appeaſe the people, 5—9. wherefore the people would have ſtoned 'em, 10. The Lord threatneth 'em with the peſtilence, 11, 12. Moſes intreateth the Lord for the people, 13—19. The Lord heareth Moſes, 20—22. yet promiſeth that the murmurers ſhall never enter into the Land of Canaan, 23. Judgments on the murmurers, 24. They that brought an evil report on the land die of the plague, 37. They who would take poſſeſſion of the land contrary to Gods command are ſmitten, 40—45.

1 AND all the congregation a lifted up their voice, and cryed, and the people wept that night.

a Except Caleb and Joſhua and ſome few others. A Synecdochical expreſſion, the whole for the greateſt part.

2 And all the children of Iſrael murmured againſt Moſes, and againſt Aaron b, and the whole congregation ſaid unto them, * Would God that we had died in the land of Egypt, or would God that we had died in this wilderneſs c. * See ver. 28, 29.

b As the inſtruments and occaſions of their preſent calamity. c It was not long before they had their deſire, and did die in the wilderneſs.

3 And wherefore hath the LORD d brought us unto this land, to fall by the ſword, that our wives, and our children ſhould be a prey e? were it not better for us to return into Egypt?

d From the inſtruments they riſe higher, and ſtrike at God the chief cauſe and author of their journey: by which we ſee the prodigious growth and progreſs of ſin when it is not reſiſted. e To the Canaanites whoſe land we were made to believe we ſhould poſſeſs.

4 And they ſaid one to another, Let us make a captain f, and let us return into Egypt g.

f Inſtead of Moſes, one who will be more faithful to our intereſt than he. g This was but a purpoſe or a deſire, and yet it is imputed to them as if they had done it, Nehem. 9. 16, 17. they appointed a captain, &c. even as Abrahams purpoſe to offer up Iſaac is reckoned for the deed, Heb. 11. 17. g Stupendious madneſs! whence ſhould they have protection againſt the many hazards, and proviſion againſt all the wants of the wilderneſs? could they expect either Gods cloud to cover and guide them, or Manna from heaven to feed them? who ſhould conduct them over the Red Sea? or, if they went another way, who ſhould defend them againſt thoſe nations whoſe borders they were to paſs? what entertainment could they expect from the Egyptians, whom they had deſerted and brought to ſo much ruine?

5 Then Moſes and Aaron fell on their faces h before all the aſſembly i of the congregation of the children of Iſrael.

h As humble and earneſt ſuppliants, either, to the people, to intreat them to deſiſt from their wicked and pernicious enterprize: or rather to God, by comparing this with Numb. 16. 4. and 20. 6. the only refuge to which Moſes reſorted in all ſuch ſtraits, and who alone was able to ſtill and govern this tumultuous and ſtiff-necked people. i That they might be awaked to apprehend their ſin and danger, when they ſaw Moſes at his prayers, whom God never uſed to deny, and never failed to defend even with the deſtruction of his enemies.

6 And Joſhua the ſon of Nun, and Caleb the ſon of Jephunneh, which were of them that ſearched the land, rent their clothes k.

k To teſtifie their hearty grief for the peoples blaſphemy againſt God and ſedition againſt Moſes, and that dreadful judgment which they eaſily foreſaw this muſt bring upon the congregation and people of God.

7 And they ſpake unto all the company of the children of Iſrael, ſaying, The land which we paſſed through to ſearch it, is an exceeding good land.

8 If the LORD delight in us l, then he will bring us into this land, and give it us, a land which floweth with milk and honey.

l If by our rebellion and ingratitude we do not provoke God to loath and forſake us.

9 Only rebel ye not againſt the LORD, neither fear ye the people of the land, for they are bread for us m: their † defence n is departed from them, and the LORD is with us o: fear them not.

m We ſhall deſtroy them as eaſily as we do our bread or common food. Compare Numbers 24. 8. Pſal. 14. 4. n (i. e.) Their counſel, conduct, and courage, and eſpecially, God, who was pleaſed to afford them his protection till their iniquities were full, Gen. 15. 16. is utterly departed from them, and hath given them up as a prey to us. o By his ſpecial grace and almighty power to ſave us from them and from all our enemies.

10 But all the congregation bade ſtone them with ſtones: and the glory of the LORD appeared p in the tabernacle q of the congregation, before all the children of Iſrael.

p Now in the extremity of danger to reſcue his faithful ſervants, and to ſtop the rage of the people. q (i. e.) Upon or above the tabernacle, where the cloud uſually reſided, in which the glory of God did appear upon occaſion, and now in a more illuſtrious manner, as the ſtate of things required.

11 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, How long will this people provoke me? and how long will it be e're they believe me, for all the ſigns which I have ſhewed among them?

* Exod. 32. 10.

12 I will ſmite them with the peſtilence, and diſinherit them r, * and will make of thee a greater nation and mightier than they.

r This was not an abſolute determination, as the event ſhewed, but only a commination, like that of Nineveh's deſtruction within 40 days, with a condition implyed, except there be ſpeedy repentance, or powerful interceſſion.

* Exod. 32. 12. Deut. 32. 27.

13 And * Moſes ſaid unto the LORD, Then s the Egyptians ſhall hear it (for thou broughteſt up this people in thy might from among them t.)

s (i. e.) In caſe thou doſt utterly deſtroy them. t Whereby thou didſt get great honour to thy ſelf, which now thou wilt certainly loſe.

* Exod. 15. 14. Joſh. 2. 9. and 5. 1.
* Exod. 13. 21.

14 And they will tell it to the inhabitants of this land u: * for they have heard that thou, LORD, art among this people; that thou, LORD, art ſeen face to face, and that * thy cloud ſtandeth over them, and that thou goeſt before them, by day time in a pillar of a cloud, and in a pillar of fire by night.

u For there was much entercourſe between theſe two nations.

15 Now if thou ſhalt kill all this people, as one man x, then the nations which have heard the fame of thee will ſpeak, ſaying, x (i. e.) Altogether, or to a man; and ſuddenly as it were by one blow, as if all had but one neck.

* Deut. 9. 28.

16 Becauſe the LORD was not * able to bring this people into the land which he ſware unto them y, therefore he hath ſlain them in the wilderneſs.

y His power was quite ſpent in bringing them out of Egypt, and could not finiſh the work he had begun and had ſworn to do.

17 And now, I beſeech thee, let the power of my LORD be great z, according as thou haſt ſpoken, ſaying, z (i. e.) Appear to be great, diſcover its greatneſs. A real verb put for a declarative, or the thing for the manifeſtation of the thing. And this may be underſtood either 1. of Gods power in preſerving the people and carrying them on into Canaan, which ſence may ſeem to be favoured by the foregoing verſe, where the Egyptians deny that God had power to do ſo. And according to that ſence he adds the following words, not as an explication of this power, but as an argument to move him to ſhew forth his power for his people notwithſtanding theirs ſins, according as, or rather becauſe (as the Hebrew word is oft rendred) he had ſpoken ſaying, &c. and ſo he ſhould maintain the honour and the truth of his own name or of thoſe titles which he had aſcribed to himſelf. Or 2. the power of his grace and mercy, or the greatneſs of his mercy, as he calls it, ver. 19. in pardoning of this and their other ſins: for to this the following words manifeſtly reſtrain it, according as thou haſt ſpoken, &c. where the pardon of their ſins is the only inſtance of this power both deſcribed in Gods titles, ver. 18. and prayed for by Moſes, ver. 19. pardon, I beſeech thee, &c. and granted by God in anſwer to him, ver. 20. I have pardoned, &c. Nor is it ſtrange that the pardon of ſin, eſpecially of ſuch great ſins, be ſpoken of as an act of power in God, becauſe undoubtedly it is an act of omnipotent, and infinite goodneſs; whence deſpairing ſinners ſometimes cry out, that their ſins are greater than God can pardon, as ſome tranſlate Cains words, Gen. 4. 13. And ſince power is applied to Gods wrath in puniſhing ſin, Rom. 9. 22. why may it not as well be attributed to Gods mercy in forgiving it? Eſpecially if it be conſidered that even in men, revenge is an act of impotency, and conſequently it muſt needs be an act of power to conquer their paſſions and inclinations to revenge, and to pardon thoſe enemies whom they could deſtroy.

* Exod. 34. 6. Pſal. 10 8.
* Exod. 20. 5. and 34. 7.

18 The LORD is * long-ſuffering, and of great mercy, forgiving iniquity and tranſgreſſion, and by no means clearing the guilty, * viſiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children, unto the third and fourth generation a.

a Theſe words may ſeem to be very improperly mentioned, as being a powerful argument to move God to deſtroy this wicked people, and not to pardon them. It may be anſwered, that Moſes uſeth theſe words together with the reſt, partly becauſe he would not ſever what God had put together, and partly to ſhew that he did not deſire a full and abſolute pardon, (but was willing that God ſhould execute his vengeance upon the principal authors of this rebellion, & leave ſome character of his diſpleaſure upon all the people, as God did,) but only that God would not diſinherit them, ver. 12. nor kill all the people as one man, ver. 15. nor deſtroy them both root and branch, becauſe he had promiſed not to extend his wrath againſt them in puniſhing their ſins beyond the third and fourth generation. But the truer anſwer ſeems to be, that theſe words are to be tranſlated otherwiſe, and in deſtroying he will not utterly deſtroy, though he viſit the iniquity of the fathers upon the children, unto the third and fourth generation. Of which ſee the notes on Exod. 34. 7. where all this verſe is explained.

19 Pardon, I beſeech thee, the iniquity of this people, according to the greatneſs of thy mercy, and as thou haſt forgiven this people from Egypt, even * until now b.

b After many and great provocations: ſhew thy ſelf ſtill to be the ſame ſin-pardoning God.

20 And the LORD ſaid, I have pardoned according to thy word c.

c So far, as not utterly to deſtroy them, as I threatned ver. 12. and thou didſt fear, and beg the prevention of it, ver. 15.

* Pſal. 19.

21 But truly as I live, * all the earth ſhall be filled with the glory of the LORD d.

d (i. e.) With the report of the glorious and righteous acts of God in puniſhing this rebellious people in manner following. That this is the true ſence, appears both from the particle of oppoſition, and the ſolemn introduction of them, But truly as I live, and from the following verſes, becauſe all theſe men, &c. which come in without any note of oppoſition, and have a manifeſt relation to and connexion with this verſe.

22 Becauſe all thoſe men which have ſeen my glory e, and my miracles which I did in Egypt, and in the wilderneſs, and have tempted me now theſe ten times f, and have not hearkened to my voice;

e (i. e.) My glorious appearances in the cloud, and in the Tabernacle. f (i. e.) Many times. A certain number for an uncertain, as Gen. 31. 7. Levit. 26. 8. Job. 19. 3. Though ſome reckon ten times preciſely, wherein they did eminently provoke God.

* Deut. 1. 35. Pſal. 95. 11. and 106. 26. Heb. 3.

23 * † Surely they ſhall not ſee the land which I ſware unto their fathers, neither ſhall any of them that provoked me, ſee it:

24 But

Joſh. 14. 6, 8, 9. 24 But my ſervant * Caleb g, becauſe he had another ſpirit with him h, and hath followed me fully i; him will I bring into the land, whereinto he went k, and his ſeed ſhall poſſeſs it l.

g Joſhua is not here named, becauſe he was not now among the people, but a conſtant attendant upon Moſes, nor was he to be reckoned as one of them, any more than Moſes and Aaron were, becauſe he was to be their chief commander. h (i. e.) Was a man of another temper, and carriage, faithful and couragious, not acted by that evil ſpirit of cowardize, unbelief, unthankfulneſs, diſobedience, which ruled in his brethren, but by the ſpirit of God. i (i. e.) Univerſally and conſtantly, in and through difficulties and dangers, which made his partners halt. k In general, Canaan, and particularly Hebron, and the adjacent parts, Joſ. 14. 9. l Or, ſhall expel it, i. e. its inhabitants, the land being oft put for the people of it. Compare Joſ. 8. 7. and 14. 12.

25 (Now the Amalekites, and the Canaanites dwelt in the valley m) to morrow turn ye, and get ye into the wilderneſs, by the way of the Red-ſea n.

m Beyond the mountain at the foot whereof they now were, v. 40. And this clauſe is added, either 1. as an aggravation of Iſrael's miſery and puniſhment, that being now ready to enter and take poſſeſſion of the land they are forced to go back into the wilderneſs: or 2. as an argument to oblige them more willingly to obey the following command of returning into the wilderneſs, becauſe their enemies were very near them, and ſevered from them only by that Idumæan mountain, and, if they did not ſpeedily depart, their enemies would hear of them and fall upon them, and ſo the evil which before they cauſeleſly feared would come upon them; they, their wives and their children would become a prey to the Amalekites and Canaanites, becauſe God had forſaken them and would not aſſiſt nor defend them. The verſe may be rendred thus, And or But, for the preſent, the Amalekite, and the Canaanite dwell in the valley: therefore (which particle is here underſtood, as it is in other places) to morrow turn ye, &c. Though ſome knit theſe words to the former, and read the place thus, Caleb—and his ſeed ſhall poſſeſs it, to wit, the land near Hebron, and alſo, the land of the Amalekites, and of the Canaanites that dwell in the valley. Queſt. But how are the Canaanites ſaid to dwell in the valley, here, when they dwelt in the hill, v. 45. and by the ſea-coaſts, Numb. 21. 1? Anſ. 1. Part of them dwelt in one place, and part in other places. 2. The word, Canaanite, may here be underſtood more generally of all the inhabitants of Canaan. n (i. e.) That leadeth to the Red-ſea, and to Egypt, the place whither you deſire to return, v. 3, 4.

27 How long ſhall I bear with o this evil congregation which murmur againſt me? I have heard the murmurings of the children of Iſrael which they murmur againſt me.

o Or, pardon, as v. 19, 20. or ſpare: which words are neceſſarily and eaſily underſtood. It is a ſhort and imperfect ſpeech, which is frequent in caſe of anger, as Exod. 32. 32. Pſal. 6. 3. and 90. 13.

* ch. 23. 65. and 32. 10. 11. Deut. 1. 35. * See v. 2. 28 Say unto them, * As truly as I live, ſaith the LORD, as * ye have ſpoken p in mine ears, ſo will I do to you q:

p When you wickedly wiſhed you might have died in the wilderneſs, v. 2. q I will bring your imprecations upon your heads.

29 Your carcaſes ſhall fall in this wilderneſs, and all that were numbred of you, according to your whole number, from twenty years old and upward which have murmured againſt me.

† Heb. lifted up my hand. 30 Doubtleſs ye ſhall not come into the land concerning which I † ſware to make you r dwell therein, ſave Caleb the ſon of Jephunneh, and Joſhua the ſon of Nun.

r (i. e.) Your Nation; for God did not ſwear to do ſo to theſe particular perſons.

31 But your little ones which ye ſaid ſhould be a prey, them will I bring in, and they ſhall know the land which ye have deſpiſed.

32 But as for you, your carcaſes they ſhall fall in this wilderneſs.

|| Or, feed. 33 And your children ſhall || wander s in the wilderneſs forty years t, and bear your whoredoms u until your carcaſes be waſted in the wilderneſs.

s Like ſheep feeding in the deſerts: or, ſhall be ſhepherds, i. e. ſhall live like the ſhepherds of Arabia, in tents and removing from place to place, having no certain dwelling. t (i. e.) So long as to make up the time of your dwelling in the wilderneſs forty years, as appears from Numb. 33. 8. Deut. 1. 3. and 2. 14. Compare Amos 5. 25. It is manifeſt, that one whole year and part of another were paſt before this ſin or judgment. u (i. e.) The puniſhment of your whoredoms, to wit, of your Apoſtacy from, and perfidiouſneſs againſt your Lord, who was your husband, and had married you to himſelf. See Jer. 3. 14. Whence Idolatry is called whoredom.

x So there ſhould have been 40 years to come, but God was pleaſed mercifully to accept of the time paſt as a part of that time. y That as you have firſt broken the covenant between you and me, by breaking the terms or conditions of it, ſo I will make it void on my part, by denying you the bleſſings promiſed in that covenant, and to be given to you in caſe of your obedience. So you ſhall ſee, that the breach of promiſe wherewith you charged me, v. 3. lies at your door, and was forced from me by your perfidiouſneſs. Or, my breach, either paſſively, i. e. your breaking off from me, as ſuch pronouns are oft uſed, as Gen. 50. 4. Iſa. 53. 11. and 56. 7. or actively, i. e. my breaking of or departing from you, and ſtopping the current of my bleſſings towards you: you ſhall feel by experience, how ſad your condition is when I withdraw my grace and favour from you.

35 I the LORD have ſaid, I will ſurely do it unto all this evil congregation, that are gathered together againſt me; in this wilderneſs they ſhall be conſumed, and there they ſhall die.

36 And the men whom Moſes ſent to ſearch the land, who returned, and made all the congregation to murmur againſt him, by bringing up a ſlander upon the land:

37 Even thoſe men that did bring up the evil report upon the land, * died by the plague z before the LORD a. * 1 Cor. 10. 10. Heb. 3. 17. Jude 5.

z Either by the peſtilence, threatned v. 12. or by ſome other ſudden and extraordinary judgment. a (i. e.) Sent from the cloud in which God dwelt, and from whence he ſpake to Moſes, and wherein his glory at this time appeared before all the people, v. 10. who therefore were all, and theſe ſpies among the reſt, before the Lord.

38 But Joſhua the ſon of Nun, and Caleb the ſon of Jephunneh, which were of the men that went to ſearch the land, lived ſtill.

39 And Moſes told theſe ſayings unto all the children of Iſrael, and the people mourned greatly.

40 And they roſe up early in the morning, and gat them up b into the top of the mountain, ſaying, Lo, we * be here, and will go up unto the place which the LORD hath promiſed: for we have ſinned. * Deut. 1. 41.

b (i. e.) Deſigned or attempted or prepared themſelves to go up: for that they were not yet actually gone up, plainly appears from v. 42, 44. and from Deut. 1. 41. Things deſigned or indeavoured in Scripture-phraſe are oft ſaid to be done. See on Gen. 37. 21, 22. Exod. 8. 18.

41 And Moſes ſaid, Wherefore now do ye tranſgreſs the commandment of the LORD c? but it ſhall not proſper.

c Either that command, Go not up, &c. which, though in this place mentioned after, yet may ſeem to have gone before their tranſgreſſion, by comparing this place with Deut. 1. 42, 43. or that command above, v. 25. turn ye and get ye into the wilderneſs, &c. which was a courſe directly contrary to that which they took.

42 Go not up, for the LORD is not among you, that ye be not ſmitten before your enemies.

43 For the Amalekite, and the Canaanite are there before you, and ye ſhall fall by the ſword: becauſe ye are turned away from the LORD, therefore the LORD will not be with you.

44 But they preſumed d to go up unto the hill top: nevertheleſs the ark of the covenant of the LORD, and Moſes departed not out of the camp.

d Guilty both of raſhneſs and rebellion, thus running from one extreme to another.

45 Then the Amalekite came down, and the Canaanite e which dwelt f in that hill, and ſmote them, * and diſcomfited them, even unto * Hormah g. * Deut. 1. 44. * ch. 21. 3.

e Largely ſo called, but ſtrictly the Amorite, as appears from Deut. 1. 44. f So they were a part and branch of thoſe that dwelt in the valley, v. 25. Or, ſat, i. e. placed themſelves, lay in ambuſh, expecting your coming. g A place ſo called afterwards, Numb. 21. 3. from the great ſlaughter or deſtruction of the Iſraelites at this time.

Of Meat and Drink Offerings, 1—16. The Law of the firſt of the Dough for a heave Offering, 17—21. The Sacrifice for Sins of Ignorance of the whole Congregation, 22—26. or when a ſingle Soul is guilty, 27—29. Puniſhments for preſumptuous Sinners, 30—31. Of the Man that gathered Sticks on the Lords Day, and his Death, 32—36. God commandeth them to wear Fringes on their Garments, 37—38. The uſe thereof, 39—41.

1 AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes ſaying,

2 * Speak unto the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, When ye be come into the land of your habitations, which I give a unto you, * Lev. 23. 10.

a (i. e.) Will certainly give you, notwithſtanding this great provocation, and my unchangeable commination. And for their better aſſurance hereof he repeats and amplifies the laws of ſacrifices, whereby through Chriſt he was or would be reconciled to them and theirs upon their repentance.

* Lev. 17. 16. and 22. 21. † Heb. ſeparating. * Lev. 23. 8, 12, 36. ch. 28. 16, 17. and 29. 2, 8, 13. Deut. 16. 10. 3 And will make an offering by fire unto the LORD, a burnt-offering, or a ſacrifice b * in † performing a vow, or in a free-will-offering, or * in your ſolemn feaſts, to make a * ſweet ſavour unto the LORD, of the herd or of the flock:

* Ex. 29. 18. b (i. e.) A peace-offering, as appears 1. becauſe that word put by it ſelf is oft ſo taken, as Exod. 18. 12. Levit. 17. 5, 8. and 23. 37. Deut. 12. 27. 2. becauſe the offerings for ſins and treſpaſſes had no meat-offerings and drink-offerings attending upon them, excepting only the caſe of the Lepers cleanſing, Lev. 14. 10.

3. becauſe this is explained by and called peace-offerings, v. 8. 4. from the words here following, becauſe peace-offerings were commonly offered either in performance of a vow, or freely, or by Gods command in their ſolemn feaſts, all which are here expreſſed.

* Lev. 2.1. * Ex.29.40 Lev.23.13 4 Then * ſhall he that offereth his offering unto the LORD, bring a * meat-offering of a tenth-deal c of flour, mingled with the fourth part of an hin of oil d.

c Or, tenth-part, to wit, of an Ephah, i. e. an Omer, Exod. 16. 36. d Wherein it ſeems to differ from ſuch meat-offerings as were ſolitary, and not acceſſories to other ſacrifices.

5 And the fourth part of an hin of wine for a drink-offering ſhalt thou prepare, with the burnt-offering, or ſacrifice, for one lamb.

6 Or for a ram, thou ſhalt prepare for a meat-offering two tenth-deals e of flour mingled with the third part of an hin of oyl.

e Becauſe this belonged to a better ſacrifice than the former; and therefore in the next ſacrifice of a bullock, there are three tenth deals. So the acceſſory ſacrifice grows proportionably with the principal.

7 And for a drink-offering, thou ſhalt offer the third part of an hin of wine, for a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD.

8 And when thou prepareſt a bullock for a burnt-offering, or for a ſacrifice in performing a vow, or * peace-offerings f unto the LORD: * Lev. 7. 11.

f (i. e.) Or any other peace-offerings, to wit, ſuch as were offered either freely or by command, which may be called peace-offerings or thank-offerings, by way of eminency, becauſe ſuch are offered purely by way of gratitude to God, and with ſingle reſpect to his command and honour, whereas the peace-offerings made in performance of a vow were made and offered by way of contract, and with deſign of getting ſome advantage by them.

9 Then ſhall he bring with a bullock a meat-offering of three tenth deals of flour, mingled with half an hin of oyl.

10 And thou ſhalt bring for a drink-offering half an hin of wine, for an offering made by fire of a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD.

11 Thus ſhall it be done for one bullock, or for one ram, or for a lamb, or a kid.

12 According to the number that ye ſhall prepare, ſo ſhall ye do to every one according to their number g.

g (i. e.) As many cattel as ye ſacrifice, ſo many meat and drink-offerings ye ſhall offer.

13 All that are born of the country ſhall do theſe things after this manner, in offering an offering made by fire of a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD.

h To wit, Proſelyte, for ſuch offerings were not accepted from others.

* Ex.12.49. ch. 9. 14. 15 * One ordinance ſhall be both for you of the congregation, and alſo for the ſtranger that ſojourneth with you, an ordinance for ever in your generations: as ye are, ſo ſhall the ſtranger be before the LORD i.

i (i. e.) As to the worſhip of God: his ſacrifices ſhall be offered in the ſame manner and accepted by God upon the ſame terms, as yours: which was a preſage of the future calling of the Gentiles. And this is added by way of caution and diſtinction, to ſhew that ſtrangers were not upon this pretence to partake of their civil priviledges.

16 One law, and one manner ſhall be for you, and for the ſtranger that ſojourneth with you.

17 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

18 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, When ye come unto the land whither I bring you,

19 Then it ſhall be, that when ye eat k of the bread l of the land, ye ſhall offer up an heave-offering unto the LORD m.

k (i. e.) When you are about to eat it: for before they did eat it, they were to offer this offering to God. l (i. e.) The bread-corn, as that word is uſed, Job 28. 5. Pſal. 104. 14. Iſa. 28. 28. m (i. e.) To the Prieſt of the Lord, as appears from Ezek. 44. 30.

20 Ye ſhall offer up a cake of the firſt of your dough for an heave-offering: as ye do * the heave-offering of the threſhing floor n, ſo ſhall ye heave it o. * Lev.2.14. and 23.10, 16.

n (i. e.) Of the corn in the threſhing-floor, as Deut. 16. 13. when you have gathered in your corn. o (i. e.) You ſhall offer this in the ſame proportion, to the ſame perſons, i. e. the Prieſts. and with the ſame rites.

21 Of the firſt of your dough ye ſhall give unto the LORD an heave-offering in your generations.

* Lev. 4.2. 22 And * if ye have erred, and not obſerved all theſe commandments p which the LORD hath ſpoken unto Moſes;

p To wit, thoſe now ſpoken of, thoſe which concern the outward worſhip and ſervice of God, or the rites or ceremonies belonging to it. And herein principally this law may ſeem to differ from that Lev. 4. 13. which ſpeaks of ſome poſitive miſcarriage or doing that which ought not to have been done about the holy things of God, whereas this ſpeaks only of an omiſſion of ſomething which ought to have been done about holy ceremonies. But beſides this, that law, Lev. 4. 13. concerns the whole congregation of Iſrael, as it is there expreſſed, but this concerns only the congregation, or a congregation, as it is here expreſſed, v. 24. i. e. any particular congregation of Iſraelites, whether of a whole tribe meeting together by their repreſentatives, or a leſſer congregation, ſuch as there were to be many in Canaan, and the words rendred, all the congregation, may be, and are by ſome here, rendred, every congregation. And by vertue of this law, as ſome ſuppoſe, the Iſraelites newly after their return from the captivity offered 12 bullocks, one for each tribe, Ezra 8. 35.

23 Even all that the LORD hath commanded you by the hand of Moſes, from the day that the LORD commanded Moſes, and henceforward among your generations:

24 Then it ſhall be, if ought be committed by ignorance, † without the knowledge of the congregation, that all the congregation ſhall offer one young bullock for a burnt-offering r, for a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD, with his meat-offering, and his drink-offering, according to the ‖ manner, and one kid of the goats for a ſin-offering. † Heb. from the eyes. ‖ Or, Ordinance.

r In Levit. 4. the bullock is for a ſin-offering, here it is for a burnt-offering, either becauſe they are different laws, as hath been ſaid; or, becauſe here is added a new penalty, to breed the greater caution and diligence in the Iſraelites, who had given many inſtances, and now a freſh and eminent inſtance, of their heedleſneſs in obſerving the commands of God: and ſo, beſides that bullock for a ſin-offering, which he leaves to be gathered out of Lev. 4. 14. he now requires another bullock for a burnt-offering

25 And the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for all the congregation of the children of Iſrael, and it ſhall be forgiven them, for it is ignorance: and they ſhall bring their offering, a ſacrifice made by fire unto the LORD, and their ſin-offering before the LORD, for their ignorance.

26 And it ſhall be forgiven all the congregation of the children of Iſrael, and the ſtranger that ſojourneth among them, ſeeing all the people were in ignorance.

27 * And if any ſoul ſin through ignorance, then he ſhall bring a ſhe-goat of the firſt year for a ſin-offering. * Lev.4.27

28 And the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for the ſoul that ſinneth ignorantly, when he ſinneth by ignorance before the LORD, to make an atonement for him, and it ſhall be forgiven him.

29 Ye ſhall have one law for him that † ſinneth through ignorance, both for him that is born amongſt the children of Iſrael, and for the ſtranger that ſojourneth among them. † Heb. doth

30 But the ſoul that doth ought s † preſumptuouſly t, (whether he be born in the land, or a ſtranger) the ſame reproacheth the LORD u; and that ſoul ſhall be cut off from among his people. † Heb. with an high hand.

s Underſtand, ſuch things as ought not to be done, and things relating to the worſhip of God. t Heb. with an high, or lifted up hand, i. e. knowingly, wilfully, boldly, reſolvedly, deliberately, deſignedly. So this phraſe is elſewhere uſed. See Exod. 14. 8. Lev. 26. 21. Numb. 33. 3. Job 15. 26. Pſal. 19. 13. u (i. e.) He ſets God at defiance, and expoſeth him to contempt, as if he were unworthy of any regard, and unable to puniſh tranſgreſſors.

31 Becauſe he hath deſpiſed the word of the LORD, and hath broken his commandment, that ſoul ſhall utterly be cut off: his iniquity ſhall be upon him x.

x (i. e.) The puniſhment ſhall be confined to himſelf, and not fall upon the congregation, as it will do, if they neglect to cut him off.

32 And while the children of Iſrael were in the wilderneſs, they found a man that gathered ſticks on the ſabbath day y.

y This ſeems to be added as an example of a preſumptuous ſin: for as the law of the ſabbath was plain and poſitive, ſo this tranſgreſſion of it muſt needs be a known and wilful ſin.

33 And they that found him gathering ſticks, brought him unto Moſes and Aaron, and unto all the congregation z.

z (i. e.) To the Rulers of the congregation, who as they repreſented and governed the congregation are called by the name of the congregation.

34 And they a put him * in ward, becauſe it was not declared what ſhould be done unto him b. * Lev. 24. 12.

a (i. e.) Moſes and Aaron, and the 70 Rulers laſt mentioned. b (i. e.) In what manner he was to be cut off, or by what kind of death he was to die, which therefore God here particularly determines: otherwiſe it was known in general that ſabbath-breakers were to be put to death, from Exod. 31. 14. and 35. 2.

35 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, * The man ſhall be ſurely put to death: all the congregation ſhall ſtone him with ſtones without the camp. * Ex. 31.14

36 And all the congregation brought him without the camp, and ſtoned him with ſtones, as the LORD commanded Moſes.

37 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

This was practiſed by the Phariſees in Chriſts time, who are noted for making their borders larger than ordinary, Mat. 23. 5. and by Chriſt himſelf, as may be gathered from Luk. 8. 44. e To make it more obvious to the ſight, and conſequently more ſerviceable to the uſe here mentioned. f Or, of a purple colour, as the Jewiſh writers agree, whoſe opinion is the more conſiderable, becauſe it was matter of conſtant practice among them.

39 And it ſhall be unto you for a fringe g, that ye may look upon it, and remember h all the commandments of the LORD, and do them: and that ye ſeek not i after your own heart, and your own eyes k, after which ye uſe to go a whoring l:

g It (i. e.) the ribband, ſhall be unto you, i. e. ſhall ſerve you for the fringe, to wit, to render it more viſible and notorious by its certain and remarkable and diſtinct colour, whereas the fringe without this was of the ſame piece and colour with the garment, and therefore leſs obſervable. Or, it, (i. e.) the ribband, ſhall be in your fringes, or, put to your fringes, faſtened to them. h That by looking upon it you may remember; that your eye may affect your mind and heart. i Or, inquire not for other rules or ways of ſerving me than I have preſcribed you. k (i. e.) Neither after the devices and inventions of your own minds or hearts, as Nadab and Abihu did when they offered ſtrange fire, and as you now did when you pretended to ſerve and pleaſe me by going up the hill and towards Canaan without and againſt my command; nor after the examples or inventions of others which your eyes ſee, as you did when you were ſet upon worſhipping a calf after the manner of Egypt. l (i. e.) To depart from me, and to prefer your own fancies before my commands, and to live only by preſent ſight or ſenſe, and not at all by faith in my promiſes.

40 That ye may remember, and do all my commandments, and be holy unto your God.

41 I am the LORD your God, which brought you out of the land of Egypt, to be your God: I am the LORD your God m.

m Though I am juſtly diſpleaſed with you for your frequent and horrid rebellions, for which alſo I will keep you 40 years in the wilderneſs, yet I will not utterly caſt you off, but will continue to be your God, to preſerve and provide for you there, and after that time to bring you into Canaan.

This, the Jewiſh writers ſay, made him malecontent, which at laſt broke forth into ſedition. c Theſe are drawn into confederacy with Korah, partly becauſe they were his next neighbours, both being encamped on the ſouth-ſide, and therefore could eaſily communicate counſels, partly in hopes to recover their rights of primogeniture, in which the Prieſthood was comprehended, which was given away from their father. d To wit, thoſe 250 mentioned ver. 2. 3 And * they i gathered themſelves together againſt Moſes, and againſt Aaron k, and ſaid unto them, † Ye take too much upon you l, ſeeing all the congregation are holy m, every one of them, and the LORD is among them n: wherefore then lift ye up your ſelves o above the congregation of the LORD?

i (i. e.) Either, Korah and the 250 Princes, which may ſeem probable by comparing this with ver. 12, 25, 27. where we find Dathan and Abiram in another place, even in their tents, whither it is likely they were gone by conſent to form and ſtrengthen their party there, while Korah and the reſt went to Moſes. Or, Korah, Dathan and Abiram, and the reſt, who were all together when Moſes ſpake thoſe words, ver. 5, 6, 7. but after that, Dathan and Abiram retired to their tents, and then Moſes ſent for Korah and the Levites, who had more ſpecial and more colourable pretences to the Prieſthood, and treats with them apart, and ſpeaks what is mentioned, ver. 8, 9, 10, 11. and then having diſpatched them, he ſends for Dathan and Abiram. ver. 12. that he might reaſon the caſe with them alſo apart. k Againſt Aaron, to whom the Prieſthood was confined, and againſt Moſes, both becauſe this was done by his order, and becauſe before Aarons conſecration Moſes appropriated it to himſelf. For whatever they intended, they ſeem not now directly to ſtrike at Moſes for his ſupreme civil government, but only for his intereſt and influence in the diſpoſal of the Prieſthood, as may appear by the whole context, and particularly by ver. 5, 10, 15, &c. l By perpetuating the Prieſthood in your ſelves and family, with the excluſion of all others from it. m A kingdom of Prieſts, an holy nation, as they are called, Exod. 19. 6. a people ſeparated to the ſervice of God, and therefore no leſs fit to preſent themſelves before God, and to offer ſacrifice and incenſe for themſelves, than you are. n By his Tabernacle and cloud, the tokens of his ſpecial and gracious preſence, and therefore ready to receive all their ſacrifices and ſervices from their own hands. o Thou Moſes, by preſcribing what Laws thou pleaſeſt about the Prieſthood, and confining it to thy brother; and thou Aaron by uſurping it as thy peculiar privilege.

p Humbly begging that God would direct him and defend and vindicate him from this falſe and odious imputation. See Numb. 14. 5. Accordingly God anſwers his prayers, and inſpires him with this following anſwer to Korah, and ſtrengthens him with new courage, and confidence of good ſucceſs.

5 And he ſpake unto Korah, and unto all his company, ſaying, Even to morrow q the LORD will ſhew who are his, and who is holy, and will cauſe him r to come near unto him s: even him whom he hath choſen, will he cauſe to come near unto him t.

q Heb. In the morning, the time appointed by men for adminiſtring juſtice, Pſal. 108. 8. Jer. 21. 12. and choſen by God for that work, Pſal. 73. 14. Iſa. 47. 11. Zeph. 3. 5. Some time is allowed, partly that Korah and his company might prepare themſelves and their cenſers; and partly to give them ſpace for conſideration and repentance. r Or, and whom he will cauſe. s (i. e.) He will by ſome evident and miraculous token declare his approbation of him and his miniſtery.

6 This do; take ye cenſers u Korah, and all his company:

u Since ye will be Prieſts, take your cenſers, and act as Prieſts, at your peril.

7 And put fire therein, and put incenſe in them before the LORD to morrow: and it ſhall be that the man whom the LORD doth chooſe x, he ſhall be holy: ye take too much upon you, ye ſons of Levi.

x (i.e.) Declare his choice and appointment of them for that work.

8 And Moſes ſaid unto Korah, Hear, I pray you, ye ſons of Levi.

y Conſider what I ſay before it be too late, and repent of your great wickedneſs.

9 Seemeth it but a ſmall thing unto you, that the God of Iſrael hath ſeparated you from the congregation of Iſrael, to bring you near to himſelf z, to do the ſervice of the tabernacle of the LORD, and to ſtand before the congregation, to miniſter unto them a?

z Nearer than the other Tribes, though not ſo near as the Prieſts. a (i. e.) In their ſtead and for their good. So they were the ſervants both of God and of the Church, which was an high dignity, though not ſufficient for their ambitious minds.

10 And he hath brought thee near to him, and all thy brethren the ſons of Levi with thee: and ſeek ye the prieſthood alſo b?

b There being at this time but very few Prieſts, and the profits and priviledges belonging to them being many and great, they thought it but fit and reaſonable that they, or ſome of the chief of them, ſhould be admitted to a ſhare in their work and advantages.

11 For which cauſe both thou and all thy company are gathered together againſt the LORD c: and what is Aaron that ye murmur againſt him?

c Whoſe miniſter and choſen ſervant Aaron is. You ſtrike at God through Aaron's ſides. Compare 1 Sam. 8. 7. Luk. 10. 16. Joh. 13. 20.

12 And Moſes ſent to call Dathan and Abiram d the ſons of Eliab: which ſaid e, We will not come up f

d To treat with them and give them, as he had done Korah and his company, a timely admonition. e Unto the meſſengers ſent to them by Moſes. f To Moſes his Tabernacle, whither the people uſed to go up for judgment. Men are ſaid in Scripture-phraſe to go up to places of judgment. See Deut. 25. 7. Ruth. 4. 1. Ezra 10. 7, 8. But becauſe they would not now go up, therefore they went down quick into the pit, ver. 33.

13 Is it a ſmall thing that thou haſt brought us up out of a land that floweth with milk and honey g, to kill us in the wilderneſs, except thou make thy ſelf altogether a prince over us?

g (i. e.) Out of Egypt, a place indeed of great plenty, but to them a place of torment and intolerable ſlavery. They invidiouſly and ſcoffingly uſe the ſame words wherewith God by Moſes commended the land of Canaan.

14 Moreover, thou haſt not brought us into a land that floweth with milk and honey, or given us inheritance of fields and vineyards, wilt thou † put out the eyes of theſe men h? we will not come up i.

h (i. e.) Of thoſe who are confederate with us, and of all the people who are of our mind: Wilt thou make them blind, or perſuade them that they are blind, and that they do not ſee what is viſible to all that have eyes, to wit, that thou haſt deceived them, and broken thy faith and promiſe given to them? or wilt thou lead them about like blind men whither thou pleaſeſt, one time towards Canaan, another time towards Egypt again? i We will not obey thy ſummons, nor own thy authority.

15 And Moſes was very wroth k, and ſaid unto the LORD, * Reſpect not thou their offering l: I * have not taken one aſs m from them, neither have I hurt one of them n.

* Gen. 4. 4, 5.
* Acts 20. 33.

k Not ſo much for his own ſake, for he had learnt to bear indignities, Numb. 12. as for Gods ſake, who was highly diſhonoured, blaſphemed and provoked, by theſe ſpeeches and carriages, in which caſe he ought to be angry, as Chriſt was, Mark 3. 5. l. (i. e.) Accept not their incenſe which they are now going to offer, but ſhew ſome eminent diſlike of it. He calls it their offering, though it was offered by Korah and his companions, becauſe it was offered in the name and by the conſent of all the conſpiratours, for the deciſion of the preſent controverſie between them and Moſes. m. (i. e.) Not any thing of the ſmalleſt value, as an aſs was. See 1 Sam, 12. 3. n I have never injured them, nor uſed my power to defraud or oppreſs them, as I might have done, but, which is here implied, I have done them many good offices, but no hurt: therefore their crime is inexcuſable, becauſe without any cauſe or provocation on my part.

16 And Moſes ſaid unto Korah, Be thou and all thy company before the LORD o, thou, and they, and Aaron to morrow.

o Not in the Tabernacle, which was not capable of ſo many perſons ſeverally offering Incenſe, but at the door of the Tabernacle, ver. 18. which place is oft ſaid to be before the Lord, as Exod. 29. 42. Levit. 1. 11. &c. where they might now lawfully offer it by Moſes his direction upon this extraordinary occaſion and neceſſity, becauſe this work could not be done in that place, which alone was allowed for the offering up of incenſe, not only for its ſmallneſs, but alſo becauſe none but Prieſts might enter to do this work. Here alſo the people, who were to be inſtructed by this experiment, might ſee the proof and ſucceſs of it.

17 And take every man his cenſer, and put incenſe in them, and bring ye before the LORD every man his cenſer, two hundred and fifty cenſers: thou alſo and Aaron, each of you his cenſer.

18 And they took every man his cenſer p, and put fire in them q, and laid incenſe thereon, and ſtood in the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, with Moſes and Aaron.

p Which they could eaſily make in a ſlight manner, which would ſuffice for the preſent purpoſe. q Taken from the Altar which ſtood in that place, Levit. 1. 3. 5. for Aaron might not uſe other fire, Levit. 10. 1. And it is likely the remembrance of the death of Nadab and Abihu deterr'd them from offering any ſtrange fire.

19 And Korah gathered all the congregation r againſt them, unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation: and the glory of the LORD appeared s unto all the congregation.

r That they might be witneſſes of the event, and, upon their ſucceſs, which they doubted not of, might fall upon Moſes and Aaron with popular rage, and deſtroy them. And it ſeems by this that the people were generally incenſed againſt Moſes, and inclined to Korahs ſide. s In the cloud, which then ſhone with greater brightneſs and Majeſty, as a token of Gods approach and preſence. See Exod. 16. 7, 10. Levit. 9. 6, 23. Numb. 20. 6.

20 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, and unto Aaron, ſaying,

And this is no empty title here, but very emphatical and argumentative, thus, Thou art the maker of ſpirits, Zach. 12. 1. deſtroy not thy own workmanſhip, Iſa. 64. 8. O thou who art the preſerver of men, and of their ſpirits: the Lord of ſpirits, Job. 12. 10. who as thou mayſt juſtly deſtroy this people, ſo thou canſt preſerve whom thou pleaſeſt: the father of Spirits, Heb. 12. 9. O deal mercifully with thy own children: the ſearcher of ſpirits, thou canſt diſtinguiſh between thoſe who have maliciouſly raiſed this tumult, and thoſe whoſe ignorance and ſimple credulity hath made them a prey to crafty ſeducers. u (i. e.) Of all mankind: the word fleſh is oft put for men, as Gen. 6. 13. Job 12. 10. Iſa. 40. 5, 6. Ezek. 20. 48. and 21. 4, 5. x To wit, Korah, the ringleader of this ſedition.

24 Speak unto the congregation y, ſaying, Get ye up from about the tabernacle of Korah, Dathan, and Abiram z.

y Whom for your ſakes I will ſpare upon the condition here following. z And On too, who is mentioned ver. 1. though ſome think he deſiſted and repented, and therefore is not now mentioned.

25 And Moſes roſe up, and went unto Dathan and Abiram a: and the elders of Iſrael b followed him.

a Becauſe they refuſed to come to him, he goes to them, to their coſt. b The 70 rulers, whom he carried with him for the greater ſolemnity of the action, and for his own better vindication, becauſe he lay under ſuch calumnies, and to encourage them in their work, notwithſtanding the obſtinate and intractable nature of the people they were to govern.

26 And he ſpake unto the congregation, ſaying, Depart, I pray you, from the tents of theſe wicked men c, and touch nothing of theirs d, leſt ye be conſumed in all their ſins e.

c Shew your diſlike of them and their wicked ways by a ſpeedy removal of your perſons and tents from about them, d Becauſe they and all that was theirs was under a curſe, and therefore not to be touched. See Deut. 13. 16, 17. e Leſt being guilty of their ſins, you periſh together with them.

27 So they gat up from the tabernacle of Korah, Dathan, and Abiram f on every ſide: and Dathan and Abiram came out, and ſtood in the door of their tents g, and their wives, and their ſons, and their little children.

f Whoſe tents were not far aſunder, being both on the ſouth-ſide of the Tabernacle, as appears from Numb. 2. 10. and 3. 29. g An argument of their fooliſh confidence, pride and impudence, obſtinacy and impenitency, whereby they declared that they neither feared God, nor reverenced man; and made themſelves ripe for the approaching judgment.

†Gr. of ſelf. cha 24. 13. Joſh 30. and 28. and 49.

h To wit, which I have done, and for which I am traduced by theſe and ſuch like wicked men, as the bringing of the people out of Egypt; the conducting of them through, and the keeping of them ſo long in the wilderneſs; the exerciſing of power and authority among and over them; giving of Laws to them, as about other things, ſo concerning the Prieſthood, which is the ground of the preſent quarrel; and, that which vexeth them moſt, that when they were upon the borders of Canaan, and ready to enter in, I ſhould cauſe them to go back into this vaſt howling wilderneſs, and fix them there for forty years. i By pretending or uſurping an authority which God gave me not; by feigning words or meſſages from God to eſtabliſh my own inventions, and to comply with my own will or luſt or intereſt, as I am now accuſed to have done. For this phraſe ſee Numb. 24. 13. Ezek. 13. 2

This he might well ſay, becauſe he was inſpired by God to ſay this, and infallibly aſſured by God that this ſhould be done.

30 But if the LORD † make a new thing n, and the earth open her mouth, and ſwallow them up, with all that appertain unto them, and they go down quick † into the pit o, then ye ſhall underſtand that theſe men have provoked the LORD p.

q (i. e.) All his family which were there, women, children, and ſervants: but his ſons, who were ſpared, Numb. 26. 11, 58. 1 Chron. 6. 22, 37. were abſent either upon ſome ſervice of the Tabernacle, or upon ſome other occaſion, God ſo ordering it by his providence, either becauſe they diſliked their fathers act, or upon Moſes his interceſſion for them, or for ſome other reaſon. This expreſſion may ſeem to intimate, that Korah himſelf was not here, but that he continued with his 250 men before the Lord, ver 18, 19 where they were waiting for Gods deciſion of the controverſie, nor is it probable that their chief captain would deſert them, and leave them ſtanding there without an head, eſpecially, when Aaron, his great adverſary, abode there ſtill, and did not go with Moſes to Dathan, &c. ver. 25. And Korah may ſeem to have been conſumed with thoſe 250. ver. 35. though he be not mentioned there, but is eaſily underſtood by comparing that verſe with ver. 16, 17, 18. and from the nature of the thing it ſelf, there being no cauſe of doubt but that deſtruction which befel the acceſſaries did much more involve the principal. And ſo much is intimated, ver. 40. that no ſtranger come near to offer incenſe before the Lord, that he be not as Korah, and as his company, i. e. deſtroyed, as they were, by fire from the Lord. And when the Pſalmiſt relates this hiſtory, Pſal. 106. the earths ſwallowing them up is confined to Dathan and Abiram, ver. 17. and for all the reſt of that conſpiracy, it is added, ver. 18. And a fire was kindled in their company, the flame burnt up the wicked. As for Num. 26. 10. which ſeems to oppoſe this opinion, we ſhall ſee more on that place, if God permit.

34 And all Iſrael that were round about them, fled at the cry of them: for they ſaid, Leſt the earth ſwallow up us alſo.

35 And there came out a fire from the LORD s, and conſumed the two hundred and fifty men that offered incenſe.

s (i.e.) From the cloud, wherein the glory of the Lord appeared, ver. 19. to give ſentence in this cauſe.

36 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

37 Speak unto Eleazar t the ſon of Aaron the prieſt, that he take up the cenſers out of the burning u, and ſcatter thou the fire x yonder y, for they are hallowed z.

t Rather than to Aaron, partly becauſe the troubleſome part of the work was more proper for him, and partly leſt Aaron ſhould be polluted by going amongſt thoſe dead carcaſſes; for it is probable this fire conſumed them, as lightning ſometimes doth others, by taking away their lives, and leaving their bodies dead upon the place. u (i.e.) From among the dead bodies of thoſe men who were burnt. Burning put for thoſe who are burnt, as captivity for the captives, Numb. 21. 1. and poverty for the poor, 2 King. 24. 14. x (i.e.) The cinders or aſhes which are left in or near their cenſers. y (i.e.) Far from the altar and ſanctuary, into an unclean place, where the aſhes were wont to be caſt: by which God ſhews his rejection of their ſervices. z Either 1. by Gods appointment, becauſe they were preſented before the Lord by his expreſs order, ver. 16, 17. Or 2. by Gods juſt judgment, becauſe they, together with the perſons that uſed them, were accurſed and devoted by God, and therefore were the Lords, and not to be employed in any profane or common uſe, as appears from Lev. 27. 28. But the firſt reaſon is the chief, and is rendred by God himſelf, ver. 38.

38 The cenſers of theſe ſinners againſt their own ſouls a, let them make them broad plates for a covering of the Altar b: for they offered them before the LORD, therefore they are hallowed, and they ſhall be a ſign c unto the children of Iſrael.

39 And Eleazar the prieſt took the brazen cenſers, wherewith they that were burnt had offered, and they were made broad plates for a covering of the altar:

40 To be a memorial unto the children of Iſrael, that no ſtranger, which is not of the ſeed of Aaron, come near to offer incenſe before the LORD, that he be not as Korah, and as his company d: as the LORD ſaid to him e by the hand of Moſes.

d (i.e.) That he do not imitate them in their ſin, and therefore bring upon himſelf the ſame plague. e (i.e.) To Eleazar. Theſe words belong to ver. 38. the meaning is, that Eleazar did as God bad him.

41 But on the morrow f all the congregation of the children of Iſrael murmured againſt Moſes and againſt Aaron, ſaying, ye have killed g the people of the LORD h.

f Prodigious wickedneſs and madneſs ſo ſoon to forget ſuch a terrible inſtance of divine vengeance. g You, who ſhould have preſerved them, and interceded for them, have pulled down Gods wrath upon them, for the maintenance of your own authority and intereſt. h So they call thoſe wicked wretches, and rebels againſt God: which ſhews the power of paſſion and prejudice to corrupt mens judgment.

42 And it came to paſs, when the congregation was gathered againſt Moſes, and againſt Aaron, that they i looked toward the tabernacle of the congregation, and behold, the cloud covered it, and the glory of the LORD appeared.

i (i.e.) Moſes and Aaron, who in all their diſtreſſes made God their refuge.

43 And Moſes and Aaron came before the tabernacle of the congregation k.

k to hear what God, who now appeared, would ſay to him.

44 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

45 Get ye up from among this congregation, that I may conſume them as in a moment: and they fell upon their faces l.

l To beg pardon and mercy for the people, as they oft did; thus rendring good to them for evil, which the people requited with evil for their kindneſs.

46 And Moſes ſaid unto Aaron, Take a cenſer, and put fire therein from off the altar, and put on incenſe m, and go quickly unto the congregation n, and make an atonement for them: for there is wrath gone out from the LORD; the plague is begun o.

m Which was a ſign of interceſſion, Pſal. 141. 2. and was to be accompanied with it, Luk. 1. 9, 10. n With the incenſe, to ſtir up the people to repentance and prayer to prevent their utter ruine. This he might do upon this extraordinary occaſion, having Gods command for his warrant, though ordinarily incenſe was to be offered only in the Tabernacle. o In cutting off the people by a ſudden and miraculous ſtroke.

47 And Aaron took as Moſes commanded, and ran into the midſt of the congregation p: and behold, the plague was begun amongſt the people: and he put on incenſe, and made an atonement for the people.

p Hazarding his own life to obey God and to do this wicked people good.

48 And he ſtood between the dead and the living q, and the plague was ſtayed.

q Whereby it may ſeem that this plague, like that fire, Numb. 11. 1. began in the uttermoſt parts of the congregation, and ſo proceeded deſtroying one after another in an orderly manner, which gave Aaron occaſion and direction ſo to place himſelf, as a Mediatour to God on their behalf.

49 Now they that died in the plague, were fourteen thouſand and ſeven hundred, beſide them that died about the matter of Korah.

50 And Aaron returned unto Moſes unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation: and the plague was ſtayed.

CHAP. XVII.

God confirming Aarons calling by the budding and the bloſſoming of his rod, 1—9. Commandeth it to be laid up for a Memorial and Terrour to Rebels, 10. The People being terrified thereby, ſeek to Moſes for ſuccour, 11—15.

1 AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 Speak unto the children of Iſrael a, and take of every one of them b a rod c, according to the houſe of their fathers d, of all their princes according to the houſe of their fathers, twelve rods: write thou every mans e name upon his rod.

a That I may fully and finally ſatisfie all their ſcruples, and take away all pretence and cauſe of murmuring. b Not of every perſon, but of every Tribe, as it follows. c Either an ordinary walking ſtaff: or rather, that ſtaff or rod, which the Princes carried in their hands as tokens of their dignity and authority; as may be gathered from Numb. 21. 18. compared with Pſal. 110. 2. Jer. 48. 16, 17. d (i.e.) According to each family proceeding from the Patriarch or Father of that Tribe. e (i.e.) Every Princes: for they being the firſt-born, and the chief of their Tribes might above all others pretend to the Prieſthood, if it was communicable to any of their tribes, and beſides each Prince repreſented and acted for all his Tribe: ſo that this was a full deciſion of the whole queſtion. And this place ſeems to confirm, what was before obſerved, that not only Korah and the Levites, but alſo thoſe of other Tribes conteſted with Moſes and Aaron about the Prieſthood, as that which belonged to all the congregation, they being all holy, as they ſaid, Numb. 16. 3.

3 And thou ſhalt write Aarons name f upon the rod of Levi; for one rod ſhall be for the head of the houſe of their fathers g.

f Rather than Levi's name, for that would have left the controverſie undecided between Aaron and the other Levites, whereas this would juſtifie the appropriation of the Prieſthood to Aarons family. g (i.e.) There ſhall be in this, as there is in all the other Tribes, only one rod, and that for the head of their Tribe, who is Aaron in this Tribe: whereas it might have been expected that there ſhould have been two rods, one for Aaron, and another for his Competitours of the ſame Tribe. But Aarons name was ſufficient to determine both the Tribe, and that branch or family of the Tribe, to whom this dignity ſhould be affixed.

4 And thou ſhalt lay them up in the tabernacle of the congregation, before the teſtimony h, * where I will meet with you i. *Exod. 25. 22.

h (i.e.) Before the Ark of the teſtimony, either mediately, cloſe by the vail behind which the Ark ſtood: or rather immediately, within the vail in the moſt holy place, cloſe by the Ark, as may be gathered by comparing this place with ver. 10. and with Heb. 9. 4. i And manifeſt my mind to you for the ending of this diſpute.

5 And it ſhall come to paſs, that the mans rod whom I ſhall chooſe, ſhall bloſſom: and I will make to ceaſe from me the murmurings of the children of Iſrael, whereby they murmur againſt you.

6 And Moſes ſpake unto the children of Iſrael, and every one of their princes gave him † a rod a-piece, for each prince one, according to their fathers houſes, even twelve rods: and the rod of Aaron was among their rods h. † Heb. a rod for one prince, a rod for one prince.

h (i.e.) Was laid up with the reſt, being either one of the twelve, as the Hebrews affirm, or the thirteenth, as others think.

7 And Moſes laid up the rods before the LORD in the tabernacle of witneſs.

8 And it came to paſs, that on the morrow Moſes went into the tabernacle of witneſs l, and behold, the rod of Aaron for the houſe of Levi was budded, and brought forth buds, and bloomed bloſſoms, and yeilded almonds m.

l Into the moſt holy place, which he might ſafely do under the protection of Gods command, though otherwiſe none but the High-prieſt might enter there, and that once in a year. m This being, as Joſephus with great probability affirms, a ſtaff of an almond tree, as the reſt alſo were.

10 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, * Bring Aarons rod again before the teſtimony, to be kept for a token againſt the † rebels, and thou ſhalt quite take away their murmurings from me, that they die not n.

n For if after all theſe warnings and prohibitions, backt with ſuch miracles and judgments, they ſhall uſurp the Prieſthood, they ſhall aſſuredly die for it.

11 And Moſes did ſo: as the LORD commanded him, ſo did he.

12 And the children of Iſrael ſpake unto Moſes ſaying, Behold, we die, we periſh, we all periſh o.

o Words of conſternation ariſing partly from the remembrance of theſe ſevere and repeated judgments, partly from the threatning of death upon any ſucceeding murmurings, partly from the ſenſe of their own guilt and weakneſs, which made them fear leſt they ſhould relapſe into the ſame miſcarriages, and thereby bring the vengeance of God upon themſelves.

13 Whoſoever cometh any thing near p unto the tabernacle of the LORD, ſhall die: ſhall we be conſumed with dying q?

p (i. e.) Nearer than he ſhould do; an errour which we may eaſily commit. q Will God proceed with us in theſe ſevere courſes, according to his ſtrict juſtice? will he ſhew us no mercy nor pity, till all the people be cut off and deſtroyed with dying one after another?

CHAP. XVIII.

God ſhewing to Aaron, his ſons and the Levites, their Office, 1——7. Appointeth to Aaron and his ſons their maintenance, 8——20. And alſo to the Levites, 21——24. He commandeth them by Moſes, to give Tenths of their Tenths to the chief Prieſts, 25——32.

1 AND the LORD ſaid unto Aaron, Thou, and thy ſons, and thy fathers houſe with thee, ſhall bear * the iniquity of the ſanctuary a: and thou and thy ſons with thee, ſhall bear the iniquity of your prieſthood b.

a (i. e.) Shall ſuffer the puniſhment of all the uſurpations, or pollutions of the Sanctuary, or the holy things, by the Levites or any of the people, becauſe you have authority and power from me to keep them all within their bounds, and I expect you uſe it to that end. Thus the people are in good meaſure ſecured againſt their fears expreſſed Numb. 17. 12, 13. Alſo they are informed that Aarons high dignity was attended with great burdens, having not only his own, but the peoples ſins to anſwer for; and therefore they had no ſuch reaſon to envy him as they might think, if the benefits and encumbrances and dangers were equally conſidered. b. (i. e.) Of all the errours committed by your ſelves, or by you permitted in others in things belonging to your Prieſthood.

2 And thy brethren alſo of the tribe of Levi, the tribe of thy father, bring thou with thee, that they may be * joyned unto thee, and miniſter unto thee c; but thou and thy ſons with thee ſhall miniſter d before the tabernacle of witneſs.

c About ſacriſices and offerings and other things, according to the rules and limits I have preſcribed them. The Levites are ſaid to miniſter to Aaron here, to the Church, Numb. 16. 9. and to God, Deut. 10. 8. They ſhall not contend with thee for ſuperiority, as they have done, but they ſhall be ſubordinate and ſervants to thee. d Or, both to thee, and to thy ſons with thee: Which tranſlation may ſeem to be favoured by the following words, before the tabernacle, which was the proper place where the Levites miniſtred, whereas the Prieſts did miniſter to God both before and in the Tabernacle. Beſides, both the foregoing words, and the two following verſes, do entirely ſpeak of the miniſtry of the Levites, and the miniſtry of the Prieſts is diſtinctly ſpoken of, ver. 5.

3 And they ſhall keep thy charge e, and the charge of all the tabernacle f: only they ſhall not come nigh the veſſels of the ſanctuary, and the altar g, that neither they, nor ye h alſo die.

e (i. e.) That which thou ſhalt command them and commit unto them. f (i. e.) Of the boards and hangings and utenſils of the Tabernacle, to take them down and carry them, and ſet them up again. g Which therefore were to be covered by the Prieſts before the Levites might meddle with them. h They for preſuming to touch them, and you for your negligence in not covering them well, or not looking to them.

4 And they ſhall be joyned unto thee, and keep the charge of the tabernacle of the congregation, for all the ſervice of the tabernacle: and a ſtranger ſhall not come nigh unto you.

5 And ye ſhall keep the charge of the ſanctuary i, and the charge of the altar, that there be no wrath any more upon the children of Iſrael k.

i (i. e.) Of the holy, and of the moſt holy, place. k For coming too near the holy place, or for uſurping any part of your ſacred function, or for any other miſcarriage which they may be guilty of through your careleſsneſs or remiſneſs, in which caſe they ſhall periſh for their errour, but their blood will I require at your hands, who ſhould have adviſed them better, or over-ruled them.

6 And I, behold, I have * taken your brethren the Levites from among the children of Iſrael: to * you they are given as a gift for the LORD l, to do the ſervice of the tabernacle of the congregation.

l (i. e.) For the ſervice of the Lord, to aſſiſt you therein, in in the ſervile and troubleſome parts of it.

7 Therefore thou and thy ſons with thee ſhall keep your prieſts office for every thing of the altar m, and within the vail n, and ye ſhall ſerve: I have given your prieſts office unto you, as a ſervice of gift o: and the ſtranger that cometh nigh ſhall be put to death.

m To wit, of burnt-offering, as appears from the following words. n This phraſe elſewhere ſignifies the inward or ſecond vail, but here it ſignifies either the outward vail only, or rather both the vails, the ſingular number being put for the plural, as when the altar is put for both the altars, as hath been noted; and ſo this phraſe comprehends both the holy and the moſt holy Place. o As a gift which I have freely conferred upon you, and upon you alone; and therefore let no man henceforth dare either to charge you with arrogance and uſurpation in appropriating this to your ſelves, or to invade your office.

8 And the LORD ſpake unto Aaron, Behold, I alſo have given thee the charge of mine heave-offerings, of all the hallowed things of the children of Iſrael, unto thee have I given them p by reaſon of the anointing q, and to thy ſons by an ordinance for ever.

p Not only the charge of them, but the uſe of them for thy ſelf and family, in ſuch manner as I have elſewhere expreſſed. q To wit, to the Prieſtly office, i. e. becauſe thou art Prieſt, and art to devote thy ſelf wholly to my ſervice: which that thou maiſt perform more diligently and cheerfully, I give thee this recompenſe.

9 This ſhall be thine of the moſt holy things r reſerved from the fire s: every oblation t of theirs, every * meat-offering of theirs, and every * ſin-offering of theirs, and every * treſpaſs-offering of theirs, which they ſhall render unto me u, ſhall be moſt holy for thee, and for thy ſons x.

*Lev. 5. & 7. 7. 14, 13.

r Such as were to be eaten only by the Prieſts, and that in the Sanctuary. How theſe differ from the holy things, ſee on Levit. 6. 17. s (i. e.) Such Sacrifices or ſuch parts of Sacrifices as were not burnt in the fire. t Which may be underſtood either 1. of the wave-loaves, Levit. 23. 17. and the ſhew-bread, which were moſt holy things, Lev. 23. 20. and 24. 9. and which did belong to the Prieſt; nor was there any other ſuch oblation, beſides what is here particularly expreſſed: for the peace-offerings were not moſt holy, and the burnt-offerings were not the Prieſts. Or, 2. of oblations in general; and ſo the following particulars are mentioned by way of explication and reſtriction of that general word, to ſhew what oblations are here meant, and to exclude peace-offerings and burnt-offerings. u By way of compenſation for a treſpaſs committed againſt me, in which caſe a ram was to be offered, Lev. 6. 2, 6. which was a moſt holy thing, and may be particularly deſigned here. x Thou ſhalt eſteem it as a moſt holy thing, and ſhalt uſe it accordingly, in manner following. Or, theſe are moſt holy, and therefore ſhall be for thee and for thy ſons, to wit, excluſively, none elſe may eat them.

10 In the moſt holy place y ſhalt thou eat it; every male z ſhall eat it: it ſhall be holy unto thee.

y To wit, in the court of the Prieſts, where there were places for this uſe. See Lev. 6. 16, 17, 26. and 7. 6. and 8. 31, and 14. 13. Neh. 13. 5, 9. Ezek. 42. 13. which is called the moſt holy place, not ſimply and abſolutely, as the place within the vail was, but in reſpect of the thing he ſpeaks of, becauſe this was the moſt holy of all the places appointed for eating of holy things, whereof ſome might be eaten in any clean place in the camp, Lev. 10. 14. or in their own houſes. And as the moſt holy place is ſometimes called ſimply Holy, ſo it is not ſtrange if an holy place be called moſt holy, eſpecially this place which was near to the altar of burnt-offerings, which is called moſt holy, and made all that touched it holy, Exod. 29. 37. And God would have theſe things eaten by them in an holy place, as in Gods preſence, that they might be obliged to the greater caution, and not to abuſe God's good creatures, and eſpecially holy things, to intemperance, and that they might learn to eat this and their other food with thankfulneſs to God the giver of it, and with reſpect to his ſervice and glory, which was afterward preſcribed to Chriſtians, 1 Cor. 10. 31. 1 Tim. 4. 3. z And they only; whereas of peace-offerings the females might eat their ſhare, Deut. 12. 18.

11 And this is thine: the heave-offering a of their gift b, with all the wave-offerings c of the children of Iſrael: I have given them unto * thee, and to thy ſons, and to thy daughters with thee d, by a ſtatute for ever: * every one that is clean in thy houſe e ſhall eat of it.

a (i. e.) The right-ſhoulder, which was the Prieſts. b To wit, of their peace-offerings, as may appear becauſe here is an enumeration of all that belonged to the Prieſt in the ſeveral oblations, and therefore it is not likely that he would omit the peace-offerings, wherein the Prieſt had a ſhare, and the very ſhare here ſpoken of and called an heave-offering, which was the right ſhoulder, Lev. 7. 32. which alſo might be eaten by the daughters, Lev. 7. 34. and 10. 14. as is here ſaid. 14 * Every thing devoted k in Iſrael, ſhall be thine.

l Which were offered to God in his Temple, Exod. 13. 12 Luk. 2. 22. and to his ſervice and diſpoſal.

*Ex. 30. 13 Lev. 27. 25 ch. 3. 47. Ezek. 45. 12.

16 And thoſe that are to be redeemed m, from a month old ſhalt thou redeem, according to thine eſtimation n, for the money of five ſhekels, after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary. * which is twenty gerahs.

m To wit, of men only, not of unclean beaſts laſt mentioned, as is manifeſt from the time and price of redemption here mentioned, both which agree to men; the time, Numb. 18. 16. the price, Numb. 3. 46, 47. but neither agree to unclean beaſts, which were to be redeemed with a ſheep, Exod. 13. 13. and that after it was 8 days old. n This belongs, either 1. to the foregoing clauſe, to this purpoſe, that whereas women newly delivered of a child continued in their uncleanneſs either a longer or ſhorter time, according to the quality of the birth, as it was male or female, Lev. 12. 4, 5. and the temper of the mother, the Prieſt was to take that time when he judged the mother to be clean, that ſo the mother might be purified, and the child redeemed at the ſame time. Or rather 2. to the following clauſe, to wit, the price which was to be paid, as appears by comparing this place with Lev. 27. 2, 3. And both there and here it is ſaid to be done according to the Prieſts eſtimation, though a certain rule be added to guide his eſtimation, and a certain price ſet, becauſe the Prieſt was to apply that general rule to each perſon, and to put that price upon him.

17 But the firſtling of a cow, or the firſtling of a ſheep, or the firſtling of a goat, thou ſhalt not redeem, they are holy o: thou ſhalt ſprinkle their blood upon the altar; and ſhalt burn their fat for an offering made by fire, for a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD.

o To wit, in a peculiar manner, and higher degree than other beaſts, conſecrated to an holy uſe, even to be ſacrificed unto God, and not to be redeemed, nor alienated to any other uſe. Compare Deut. 15. 19.

*Exod. 29. 26, 28.

18 And the fleſh p of them ſhall be thine: as the * wave-breaſt, and as the right ſhoulder are thine.

p All the fleſh of them, and not only ſome parts, as in other ſacrifices.

19 All the heave-offerings of the holy things, which the children of Iſrael offer unto the LORD, have I given thee, and thy ſons, and thy daughters with thee, by a ſtatute for ever: it is a covenant of ſalt q for ever, before the LORD, unto thee, and to thy ſeed with thee.

q (i. e.) A durable and perpetual covenant; ſo called here and 2 Chron. 13. 5. either, becauſe ſalt is a ſign of incorruption, as being of ſingular uſe to preſerve things from corruption: or, becauſe it is confirmed and ratified on their part by ſalt, which is therefore called the ſalt of the covenant, for which the Prieſts were obliged to take care, that it ſhould never be lacking from any meat-offering, Lev. 2. 13. And this promiſe or priviledge conferred upon the Prieſts is called a covenant becauſe it is given them conditionally, upon condition of their ſervice, and care about the worſhip of God, and ſacrifices, which were commonly accompanied with meat-offerings, and therefore with ſalt.

*Deut. 10. 9. and 12. 12. and 18. 2. Joſh. 13. 14, 33. Ezek. 44. 28.

20 And the LORD ſpake unto Aaron, Thou ſhalt have no inheritance in their land r, neither ſhalt thou have any part among them: * I am thy part s, and thine inheritance among the children of Iſrael.

r (i. e.) In the land of the children of Iſrael, mentioned ver 13. You ſhall not have a diſtinct and ſeparate portion of land, as the other tribes ſhall. The reaſon of this law, was, partly becauſe God would have them wholly devoted to and employed in his ſervice, and therefore free from worldly encumbrances and buſineſſes; partly, becauſe God had abundantly provided for them otherwiſe by tithes and firſt-fruits and oblations of all ſorts; partly becauſe God would have their worldly comfort and happineſs depend ſingly upon him and his ſervice, and ſo would oblige them to uſe more zeal and diligence in the advancement of piety, even for their own intereſt, which was either better or worſe as true religion flouriſhed or decayed. See Judg. 17. 9, 10. and 19. 18. 2 Chron. 13. 9. and 30. 22. and 31. 4. partly that this might be a firm bond of hearty love and affection between the people and their teachers the Levites, who as they performed religious ſervices for the people, ſo they received their ſubſiſtence from them; and partly that by this means being diſperſed among the ſeveral tribes, they might have the better opportunity for teaching and watching over the people, which was their duty, Deut. 33. 10. 2 Chron. 30, 22. Mal 2. 4, 5, 6, 7. s (i. e.) I have appointed thee a liberal maintenance out of my oblations.

21 And behold, * I have given the children of Levi all the tenth t in Iſrael, for an inheritance, for their ſervice which they ſerve, even the ſervice of the tabernacle of the congregation.

* Lev. 27. 30.

t For the tithes were all given to the Levites, and out of their tithes the tenth was given to the Prieſts, here v. 26, &c. and Neh. 10. 37, 38.

22 Neither muſt the children of Iſrael henceforth come nigh the tabernacle of the congregation u, leſt they bear ſin, † and die.

u (i. e.) So nigh as to do any act proper to the Prieſts or Levites.

23 But the Levites ſhall do the ſervice of the tabernacle of the congregation, and they ſhall bear their iniquity x: it ſhall be a ſtatute for ever throughout their generations, that among the children of Iſrael they have no inheritance.

x (i. e.) The puniſhment due not only for their own, but alſo for the peoples miſcarriage, if it be committed through their connivance or negligence. And this was the reaſon why the Prieſts withſtood King Uzziah, when he would have burnt incenſe to the Lord, 2 Chron. 26. 17, 18.

24 But the tithes of the children of Iſrael, which they offer as an heave-offering unto the LORD y, I have given to the Levites to inherit: therefore I have ſaid unto them, Among the children of Iſrael they ſhall have no inheritance.

y (i. e.) As a rent-charge or an acknowledgement that they have and hold all their lands and the fruits of it from Gods bounty. Note that the word heave-offering, which is for the moſt part underſtood of a particular kind of offerings heaved or lifted up to the Lord, is here uſed for any offering in general, as before, v. 8.

25 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

26 Thus ſpeak unto the Levites, and ſay unto them, When ye take of the children of Iſrael the tithes, which I have given you from them for your inheritance, then ye ſhall offer up an heave-offering of it for the LORD, even a tenth part of the tithe.

27 And this your heave-offering ſhall be reckoned unto you, as though it were the corn of the threſhing-floor z, and as the fulneſs of the wine-preſs.

z It ſhall be accepted of you as much as if you offered it out of your own lands and labours.

28 Thus ye alſo ſhall offer an heave-offering unto the LORD of all your tithes which ye receive of the children of Iſrael, and ye ſhall give thereof the LORDS heave-offering to Aaron the prieſt a.

a And to his children, which were one with him, and were all to have their ſhare herein.

29 Out of all your gifts b ye ſhall offer c every heave-offering d of the LORD, of all the † beſt thereof, even the hallowed part thereof e out of it.

b Not only out of your tithes, but out of the other gifts which you receive from the people, and out of thoſe fields which ſhall belong to your cities. c To wit, to the Prieſt. d (i. e.) As many gifts ſo many heave-offerings; you ſhall reſerve a part out of each of them for the Prieſt. e This may deſcribe either 1. the nature and proportion of this offering, and ſo peradventure he means the tenth part, which was the part or proportion that God hallowed or ſanctified to himſelf as his proper portion, both here and elſewhere: or 2. the reaſon or ground of this offering, becauſe it is a thing hallowed or appropriated by God to himſelf, and given by him to the Prieſt, and becauſe the payment of this due doth hallow all the reſt, ſo as they may uſe it with comfort and good conſcience, as it follows, v. 31, 32:

30 Therefore thou ſhalt ſay unto them, When ye have heaved the beſt thereof from it, then it ſhall be counted unto the Levites, as the increaſe of the threſhing floor, and as the increaſe of the wine-preſs.

31 And ye ſhall eat it in every place f, ye and your houſhoulds: for * it is your reward for your ſervice in the tabernacle of the congregation.

* 1 Tim. 5. 18.

f (i. e.) In every clean place, and not in the holy place only.

32 And ye ſhall bear no ſin by reaſon of it, when ye have heaved from it the beſt of it g: * neither ſhall ye pollute the holy things of the children of Iſrael h, leſt ye die.

* Lev. 22. 15, 16.

g Implying, that if they neglected this duty, they ſinned in the uſe of ſuch unhallowed food. h As you will do, if you abuſe their holy offerings, by reſerving that intirely to your ſelves which they offer to God to be diſpoſed as he hath appointed, to wit, part to you, and part to the Prieſts.

CHAP. XIX.

The manner of making the water of Separation, and of what, 1——10.
The uſe of it, wherewith the Unclean are to be purified, 11——13.
Laws concerning deſpiſers of Cleanſing, 14——22.

1 AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, and unto Aaron, ſaying,

2 This is the ordinance of the law a which the LORD hath commanded, ſaying, Speak unto the children of Iſrael, that they bring thee b a red c heiſer without ſpot, wherein is no blemiſh d, and upon which never came yoke e.

a Or, The conſtitution of the law, i. e. that which God hath ordained or eſtabliſhed by Law. b At their common charge, becauſe it was for the common good. c A fit colour to ſhadow forth both the bloody nature and complexion of ſin, Iſa. 1. 8. and the humane nature, and eſpecially the Blood of Chriſt, from which this water and all other Rites had their purifying vertue. d A fit Type of Chriſt, who was ſuch, Heb. 7. 26. 1 Pet. 1. 19. e Whereby may be ſignified, either that Chriſt in himſelf was free from all the yoke or obligation of Gods Command, till for our ſakes he took up our yoke, and put himſelf under the Law; or that Chriſt was not drawn or forced to undertake our burden and croſs, but that he did voluntarily chuſe it. See John 10. 17, 18.

*Heb. 13. 11. 3 And ye ſhall give her unto Eleazar the prieſt f, that he may bring her * forth without the camp g, and one h ſhall ſlay her before his face.

f Who was the ſecond Prieſt, and, in ſome caſes, the vicegerent or Deputy of the High-prieſt. To him, not to Aaron, becauſe this ſervice made him unclean for a ſeaſon, v 7. and conſequently unfit for Holy Miniſtrations, whereas the High-prieſt was, as far as poſſibly he could, to be preſerved from all ſorts of defilement, and conſtantly fit for his high and holy work. g Partly becauſe it was reputed an unclean and accurſed thing, being ceremoniouſly laden with the ſins of all the people; and partly to ſignifie that Chriſt ſhould ſuffer without the Camp, as he did, Heb. 13. 12. in the place where male-factors ſuffered, Lev. 24. 14. h A Perſon appointed by Eleazar for this work.

i Or, Towards or over againſt the Tabernacle, either 1. Near to it, and ſo we muſt ſuppoſe that he took ſome of the blood in a baſin, and carried it from without the camp to the Tabernacle, and then returned to this place again: Which might be done, though it be not here expreſſed. And this ſeems to agree beſt with other places, where this ſprinkling ſeven times was performed in or near the Tabernacle, as Lev. 4. 17. Or 2. Standing at a good diſtance from it, even without the camp, yet turning and looking towards it. For here is no intimation that he went into the camp before this work was done, but rather the contrary is implied, v. 7. And becauſe being defiled by this work he could not come near to the Tabernacle, it was ſufficient for him to turn and look towards it. Either way this poſture ſignified his preſenting of this blood before the Lord by way of atonement and ſatisfaction for his and the peoples ſins, and his expectation of acceptance and pardon only from God, and from his mercy ſeat in the Tabernacle.

*Ex. 29. 14. Lev. 4. 11, 12. 5 And one ſhall burn the heiſer k in his ſight: * her skin, and her fleſh, and her blood l, with her dung, ſhall he burn.

k To ſignifie the ſharp and grievous ſufferings of Chriſt for our ſins. l All of it, but what was ſpent in ſprinkling.

6 And the prieſt ſhall take cedar-wood, and hyſſop, and ſcarlet m, and caſt it into the midſt of the burning of the heiſer.

m All which are here burnt, and as it were offered to God, that they might be ſanctified to this holy uſe for the future; for of theſe kinds of things was the ſprinkle made wherewith the unclean were ſprinkled, Lev. 14. 4.

7 Then the prieſt ſhall waſh his clothes, and he ſhall bathe his fleſh in water, and afterward he ſhall come into the camp, and the prieſt ſhall be unclean until the even n.

n Partly to teach us the imperfection of the Levitical Prieſthood, in which the Prieſt himſelf was defiled by ſome parts of his work, and the abſolute neceſſity of a better and holier Prieſthood; and partly to ſhew that Chriſt himſelf, though he had no ſin of his own, yet was reputed by men, and judged by God, as an unclean and ſinful perſon, by reaſon of our ſins which were laid upon him, Iſa. 53. 12. 2 Cor. 5. 21.

8 And he that burneth her, ſhall waſh his clothes in water, and bathe his fleſh in water, and ſhall be unclean until the even.

*Heb. 9. 13. 9 And a man that is clean, ſhall gather up * the aſhes of the heiſer, and lay them up without the camp in a clean place, and it ſhall be kept for the congregation of the children of Iſrael o for a water p of ſeparation q: it r is a purification for ſin s.

o (i. e.) For their uſe, and therefore in a fit place or places, whence any of them might eaſily procure it. p Or, To the water, i. e. to be put to the water, or mixed with it. q i. e. Appointed for the cleanſing of them that are in a ſtate of Separation, who for their uncleanneſs are ſeparated from the Congregation. r Either the Heifer thus managed, or the Water thus made and ſprinkled. s Heb. a ſin, i. e. a kind of an offering for ſin, or rather a mean for the expiation or cleanſing of ſin. The name of ſin is ſometimes given to the puniſhment of ſin, and ſometimes to the ſacrifice or offering for ſin.

10 And he that gathereth the aſhes of the Heiſer, ſhall waſh his clothes, and be unclean until the even: and it ſhall be unto the children of Iſrael, and unto the ſtranger that ſojourneth among them t for a ſtatute for ever.

t To wit, a Proſelyte, not any ſtranger, as ſome underſtand it. For ſince it is confeſſed all the other ceremonial Laws do not oblige them, and that where the name of ſtranger is put, as here it is, it generally ſpeaks of a Proſelyte, it is more reaſonable to take it ſo here, than without any reaſon or evidence to make this a particular exception from the general Rule.

11 * He that toucheth the dead body of any † man, ſhall be unclean ſeven days u. *Lev. 21. chap. 5. Lam. 4. Hag. 2. †Heb *ch. 31.

u Whereas the touch of a dead beaſt made a man unclean only till even, Levit. 11. 24.

12 * He ſhall purifie himſelf with it x on the third day y, and on the ſeventh day he ſhall be clean z: but if he purifie not himſelf the third day, then the ſeventh day he ſhall not be clean a.

x (i. e.) With the water of ſeparation. y To typifie Chriſt's reſurrection on that day by which we are cleanſed or ſanctified. z To teach us, that our purification in this life is gradual, and not perfect till we come to that eternal Sabbath, which the ſeventh day reſpected. a But was firſt to purifie himſelf, and four days after that to be clean.

13 Whoſoever toucheth b the dead body of any man that is dead, and purifieth not himſelf, defileth the tabernacle of the LORD c, and that ſoul ſhall be cut off from Iſrael: becauſe the water of ſeparation was not ſprinkled upon him: he ſhall be unclean, his uncleanneſs is yet upon him d.

b To wit, if this tranſgreſſion be done preſumptuouſly; for if it was done ignorantly, he was only to offer ſacrifice, Lev. 5. 3, 6, 17. c By approaching to it in his uncleanneſs: for Holy things or places were ceremonially defiled with the touch of any unclean perſon or thing. See Lev. 15. 31. and 16. 16. Hagg. 2. 13. d He continues in his guilt and filth, not now to be waſhed away by this water, but to be puniſhed by cutting off.

14 This is the law, when a man dieth in a tent, all that come into the tent, and all that is in the tent, ſhall be unclean ſeven days.

15 And every * open veſſel e, which hath no covering bound upon it, is unclean. *chap.

e Becauſe it receives the air of the tent, by which it is ceremonially polluted. Compare Lev. 11. 32, 33.

16 And whoſoever toucheth one that is ſlain with a ſword f in the open fields, or a dead body, or a bone of a man, or a grave, ſhall be unclean ſeven days.

f Or by any other violent way.

17 And for an unclean perſon, they ſhall take of the † aſhes of † the burnt heiſer of purification for ſin, and † running water g ſhall be put thereto in a veſſel h. †Heb. †Heb. burn †Heb. ſhall be given.

g (e. i) Waters flowing from a ſpring or River, which are the pureſt. Theſe manifeſtly ſignifie Gods Spirit, which is oft compared to water, Joh. 7. 38, 39. and by which alone true purification is obtained. h Where they were to be mixed, and then the water was to be ſtrained out and kept for this uſe.

18 And a clean perſon i ſhall take hyſſop, and dip it in the water, and ſprinkle it upon the tent, and upon all the veſſels k, and upon the perſons that were there, and upon him that touched a bone, or one ſlain, or one dead, or a grave.

i To wit, a Prieſt; for to ſuch the work of cleanſing was appropriated. See Lev. 13. k Even thoſe which were in part purified by the fire. See Numb. 31. 23.

19 And the clean perſon ſhall ſprinkle upon the unclean on the third day, and on the ſeventh day: and on the ſeventh day, he ſhall purifie himſelf, and waſh his clothes, and bathe himſelf in water, and ſhall be clean at even.

20 But the man that ſhall be unclean, and ſhall not purifie himſelf k, that ſoul ſhall be cut off from among the congregation: becauſe he hath defiled the ſanctuary of the LORD, the water of ſeparation hath not been ſprinkled upon him, he is unclean.

k (i. e.) Shall contemptuouſly refuſe to ſubmit to this way of purification.

21 And it ſhall be a perpetual ſtatute unto them that he that ſprinkleth the water of ſeparation ſhall waſh his clothes l: and he that toucheth the water of ſeparation m ſhall be unclean until even.

l Becauſe he is unclean, as it here follows. It is ſtrange, that the ſame water ſhould cleanſe one perſon, and defile another, but God would have it ſo, partly to teach us that it did not cleanſe by any virtue in it ſelf, or in the work done, but only by virtue of Gods appointment: partly to mind the Jews of the imperfection of their Prieſthood, and their ritual purifications and expiations, and conſequently of the neceſſity of a better Prieſt and Sacrifice and way of purifying, which theſe outward Rites did point at: and partly to ſhew that the efficacy of Gods ordinances doth not depend upon the perſon or quality of his Miniſters, becauſe the ſame perſon who was polluted himſelf could and did cleanſe others. m Either by ſprinkling of it, or by being ſprinkled with it, for even he that was cleanſed by it, was not fully cleanſed as ſoon as he was ſprinkled, but only at the even of that day, as is ſaid here and above, ver. 19.

n Not he who is ſo onely by touching the water of ſeparation, ver. 21. but he who is ſo by the greater ſort of uncleanneſs, which laſted ſeven days, of which ver. 11. 16. and which was not removed without the uſe of this water of purification, as is manifeſt from the context and other places of Scripture, and from the nature of the thing: For the leſſer ſort of uncleanneſs, mentioned in the foregoing verſe, laſted onely till even, and was cleanſed by the ſole waſhing of his clothes and fleſh in water ver. 7. without any uſe of this water of purification, which, if it had been neceſſary, muſt have been uſed on the third, and on the ſeventh day, according to the rule, ver. 12, 19. and ſo the uncleanneſs of one day had been made an uncleanneſs of ſeven days, which is a contradiction. Beſides it is unreaſonable, that he who immediately touched the defiling thing ſhould be no more and longer unclean, than he who touched that perſon onely; and it is contrary to other rules in like caſes, as Levit. 15. where the Man or Woman having an iſſue are thereby made unclean for ſeven days, ver. 13, 28. but he who toucheth them is made unclean onely till even, ver. 7. 27. And therefore this cannot be meant of him who was unclean by touching this water, who himſelf was unclean onely till even, ver. 21. as alſo he who toucheth him is in this place. o To ſignifie to us, the very infectious nature of ſin and of ſinfull company. p Becauſe as his defilement was leſs, ſo it was fit the duration of it ſhould be ſhorter.

CHAP. XX.

The people journey in the wilderneſs of Zin: They murmur againſt Moſes for want of Water, 2——5. God commandeth Moſes to ſpeak to the Rock, that it might yeild water, 6, 7. Moſes ſtriking the Rock twice, 8——11. diſpleaſeth God, 12. Moſes deſiring paſſage through Edom, 13——17. is denied, 18——20. Aaron by Gods command delivering up his Office to Eleazar his Son, dieth, 21——28. All the Congregation bemoan him.

1 THen a came the children of Iſrael, even the whole congregation, into the deſert of Zin b, in the firſt moneth c, and the people abode in Kadeſh d; and Miriam died there e, and was buryed there.

a To wit, after many other ſtations and long journeys here omitted, but particularly deſcribed, Numb. 33. b A place near the land of Edom, diſtinct and diſtant from that Sin, Exod. 16. 1. c To wit, of the fortieth year, as is evident, becauſe the next ſtation to this was in mount Hor, where Aaron died, ver. 22, 23, &c. who died in the fifth month of the fortieth year, Numb. 33. 38. Moſes doth not give us an exact journal of all their occurrences in the wilderneſs, but only of thoſe which were moſt remarkable, and eſpecially of thoſe which happened in the firſt and ſecond, and in the fortieth year, d Whether the ſame place called Kadeſh-barnea, where they were long ſince, Numb. 13. 26. and to which they now return after 38 years tedious travels and wandrings in the deſert, Deut. 2. 14. or another place more ſoutherly, it is not material. e Four months before Aaron, and but a few more before Moſes.

2 And there was no water for the congregation f: and they gathered themſelves together againſt Moſes, and againſt Aaron.

f Which having followed them through all their former journeys, began now to fail them here, becauſe they were now come near Canaan and other countreys, where waters might be had by ordinary means, and therefore God would not uſe extraordinary, leſt he ſhould ſeem to proſtitute the honour of miracles. This ſtory, though like that, Exod. 17. is different from it, as appears by divers circumſtances.

3 And the people * chode with Moſes, and ſpake, ſaying, Would God that we had died * when our brethren died before the LORD g.

*Exod. 17. 2.
*chap. 11. 1, 33. & 14. 37. & 16. 32, 35, 46.

g (i. e.) Suddenly, rather than to die ſuch a lingring and painful death. Their ſin was much greater than their parents in like caſe, becauſe they ſhould have taken warning by their miſcarriages, and by the terrible effects of them, which their eyes had ſeen.

4 And * why have ye brought up the congregation of the LORD into this wilderneſs, that we and our cattel ſhould die there?

*Exod. 17. 3.

5 And wherefore have ye made us to come up out of Egypt, to bring us in unto this evil place? it is no place of ſeed, or of figs, or vines, or of pomegranates, neither is there any water to drink.

6 And Moſes and Aaron went from the preſence of the Aſſembly h, unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and * they fell upon their faces: and * the glory of the LORD appeared unto them.

*chap. 14. 10.

h Partly to avoid the growing rage of the people, for Gods ſingular protection of them did not exclude the uſe of ordinary means: and partly to go to God for relief and redreſs.

7 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

8 * Take the rod i, and gather thou the aſſembly together, thou and Aaron thy brother, and ſpeak ye unto the rock k before their eyes, and it ſhall give forth his water, and thou ſhalt bring forth to them water out of the rock; ſo thou ſhalt give the congregation and their beaſts drink.

*Exod. 17.

i That rod which was laid up before the Lord in the tabernacle, as appears from ver. 9. But whether it was Aarons rod, which was undoubtedly laid up there, Numb. 17. 10. or Moſes his rod by which he wrought ſo many Miraclas, it is not conſiderable; or whether it was not one and the ſame rod, which was commonly called Moſes his rod, as here, ver. 11. and elſewhere, and ſometimes Aarons rod, as Exod. 7. 12. which may ſeem moſt probable. For it is likely, though not related elſewhere in Scripture, that wonder-working rod, called the rod of God, Exod. 4. 20. was laid up in ſome part of the tabernacle, though not in or near the Ark, where Aarons bloſſoming rod for a particular reaſon was put. k Which will ſooner hear and obey my commands than theſe ſottiſh and ſtubborn people.

9 And Moſes took the rod from before the LORD l, as he commanded him.

l (i. e.) Out of the Tabernacle.

10 And Moſes and Aaron gathered the congregation together before the rock, and he ſaid unto them, Hear now, ye rebels, muſt we fetch you water out of this rock?

11 And Moſes lift up his hand, and with his rod he ſmote the rock twice: and the * water came out abundantly, and the congregation drank, and their beaſts alſo m.

*Exod. 17. 6.

m To the men it was a ſacrament, 1 Cor. 10. 3, 4. but to the beaſts it was no holy but a common thing. So that the elements in the Sacraments have no inherent and inſeparable holineſs, but only a relative holineſs with reſpect to their uſe, out of which they are unholy and common.

12 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, and Aaron, Becauſe * ye believed † me not n, to ſanctifie me o in the eyes of the children of Iſrael p, therefore ye ſhall not bring this congregation into the land which I have given them.

*chap. 27. 14. Deut. 1. 37 & 3. 26. & 32. 51.
† Heb not in me.

n But ſhewed your infidelity: which they did, either by their looks and geſtures, or rather by the matter and manner of their expreſſions and actions, either 1. by ſmiting the rock, and that twice, which is emphatically noted, as if he doubted whether once ſmiting would have done it, whereas he was not commanded to ſmite ſo much as once, but only to ſpeak to it: or 2. by the doubtfulneſs of theſe words, ver. 10. Muſt we fetch water out of the rock? which implies a ſuſpicion of it, as the like words do, Gen. 18. 13. whereas they ſhould have ſpoken poſitively and confidently to the rock to give forth waters. And yet they did not doubt of the power of God, but of his will, whether he would gratifie theſe rebels with this further miracle, after ſo many of the like kind. And beſides the words themſelves, it is conſiderable, both with what mind they were ſpoken, which God ſaw to be diſtruſtful, and in what manner they were delivered, which the people might diſcern to come from misbelief or doubt. And there might be divers other unbelieving words uſed by them at this time and place, though they be not here recorded, it being uſual in Scripture to give only the ſum or principal heads of diſcourſes or events, leaving the reſt to be gathered out of them. See Pſal. 106. 32, 33. o (i. e) To give me glory of my power in doing this miracle, and of my truth in punctually fulfilling my promiſe ſo to do, and of my goodneſs in doing it notwithſtanding the peoples perverſeneſs. p This made their ſin ſcandalous to the Iſraelites, who of themſelves were too prone to infidelity, and little needed ſuch an ill example; to prevent the contagion whereof God leaves a monument of his great diſpleaſure upon them, and inflicts a puniſhment as publick and manifeſt as their ſin was.

*Deut. 33. 8. Pſal. 95. 8. & 106. 32, &c.
‖ That is, ſtrife.

q Called Meribah Cadeſh, to diſtinguiſh it from another Meribah, Exod. 17. 7. r. Or, among them, to wit, the children of Iſrael laſt mentioned, by the demonſtration of his omnipotency, veracity, and clemency towards the Iſraelites, and of his impartial holineſs and ſeverity againſt ſin even in his greateſt friends and favourites, as Moſes was.

14 And Moſes ſent meſſengers s from Kadeſh unto the king of Edom, Thus ſaith thy brother t Iſrael, Thou knoweſt all the travel that hath † befallen us u, s By God's direction, Deut 2. 1, 2, 3. t For was not Eſau (who is Edom, Gen. 36. 1.) Jacob's brother? Mal. 1. 2. u All the wandrings and afflictions of our parents and of us their children, which doubtleſs have come to thine ears.

15 How our fathers went down into Egypt, and we have dwelt in Egypt a long time: and the Egyptians vexed us and our fathers.

16 And * when we cried unto the LORD, he heard our voice, and ſent an angel x, and hath brought us forth out of Egypt: and behold, we are in Kadeſh y, a city in the uttermoſt of thy border.

*Exod. 3. 7.

x To wit, the Angel of the covenant, Chriſt Jeſus, who firſt appeared to Moſes in the buſh, Exod. 3. 2. and afterward in the cloudy pillar, who conducted Moſes and the people out of Egypt, and thorough the wilderneſs, as appears from Exod. 14. 19. and 23. 20. and 33. 14. 1 Cor. 10. 4. For though Moſes may be called an Angel or meſſenger, a title given to Phinehas, Judg. 2. 1. and to the Prophets, 2 Chron. 36. 16. and to Haggai, Hag. 1. 13. yet it is not probable that he is meant, partly becauſe Moſes was the perſon that ſent this meſſage; partly becauſe there was no reaſon why he ſhould expreſs himſelf by ſuch a dark and doubtful title to them; and partly becauſe another Angel beſides and above Moſes did conduct them, and the mention hereof to the Edomites was likely to give more authority and efficacy to their preſent meſſage. y (i.e.) Near the city Kadiſh, the particle in being oft ſo uſed, as we have ſhewed.

17 Let us paſs, I pray thee, through thy countrey: we will not paſs through the fields, or through the vineyards, neither will we drink of the water of the wells z: we will go by the kings high-way, we will not turn to the right hand, nor to the left, until we have paſſed thy borders.

z Or, pits, which any of you have digged for your private uſe, to wit, without paying for it, ver. 19. Deut. 2. 6 but only of the waters of common rivers, which are free to all paſſengers, and will not be prejudicial to thee.

18 And Edom ſaid unto him, Thou ſhalt not paſs by me a, leſt I come out againſt thee with the ſword.

a (i.e.) Through my country, as thou deſireſt: I will not ſuffer thee to do ſo: which was an act of common policy to ſecure themſelves from ſo numerous an hoſt.

19 And the children of Iſrael ſaid unto him b, We will go by the high-way: And if I and my cattel drink of thy water, then I will pay for it c: I will only (without doing any thing elſe) go through on my feet.

b (i.e.) Their meſſengers replied unto them what here follows c For water was a ſcarce commodity in thoſe parts.

20 And he ſaid, Thou ſhalt not go through. And Edom came out againſt him with much people, and with a ſtrong hand.

21 Thus Edom refuſed to give Iſrael paſſage through his border d: wherefore Iſrael turned away from him e.

d But permitted them to go by their border, Deut. 2. 4, 8. Judg. 11. 18. and furniſhed them with victuals for their money, Deut. 2. 29. e According to God's command, Deut. 2. 5.

* chap. 33. 37. 22 And the children of Iſrael, even the whole congregation, journeyed from * Kadeſh, and came unto mount Hor f.

f Whoſe inhabitants were then called Horims, Deut. 2. 12. and Eſau the Horite, Gen. 36. 20.

23 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes and Aaron in mount Hor, by the coaſt of the land of Edom, ſaying,

g This was one but not the only reaſon. God would not have Moſes and Aaron to carry the people into Canaan, for this reaſon alſo, to ſignifie the inſufficiency of the Moſaical law and Aaronical Prieſthood to make them perfectly happy, and the neceſſity of a better, and ſo to keep the Iſraelites from reſting in them ſo as to be taken off from their expectation of Chriſt, and from the entertainment of him when he ſhould come.

* chap. 33. 38. Deut. 32. 50. 25 * Take Aaron and Eleazar his ſon, and bring them up unto mount Hor.

26 And ſtrip Aaron of his garments h, and put them upon Eleazar his ſon i, and Aaron ſhall be gathered unto his people, and ſhall die there.

h To wit, of his prieſtly garments, Exod. 28. 2. Levit. 8. 7. 8, 9 in token of his reſignation of his office. See the like Iſa. 22. 15, 19, 20, 21. i By way of admiſſion and inauguration of him to his office.

27 And Moſes did as the LORD commanded: and they went up into mount Hor, in the ſight of all the congregation k.

k That their hearts might be more affected with their loſs of ſo great a pillar, and that they all might be witneſſes of the tranſlation of the Prieſthood from Aaron to Eleazar, and therefore might give him the honour due to him.

* Deut. 10. 6. & 32. 50. 28 And Moſes ſtripped Aaron of his garments, and put them upon Eleazar his ſon, and * Aaron died there l in the top of the mount: and Moſes and Eleazar came down from the mount.

l To wit, in mount Hor. Obj. He died in Moſera, Deut. 10. 6. Anſw. Moſera was the general name of the place where that ſtation was, and mount Hor is a particular place in it, where he died, and was buried alſo, Deut. 10. 6.

29 And when all the congregation ſaw m that Aaron was dead, they mourned for Aaron thirty days n, even all the houſe of Iſrael.

m (i.e.) Underſtood by the relation of Moſes and Eleazar, and by other ſigns. So ſeeing is uſed, Gen. 42. 1. Act. 7. 12. n The time of publick and ſolemn mourning for great perſons. See Deut. 34. 8.

CHAP. XXI.

The Canaanites fight againſt Iſrael, and take ſome of them Priſoners, 1. Through God's Aſſiſtance they overcome them, and deſtroy their cities, 2, 3. The people murmur, 4, 5. Are plagued with fiery Serpents, 6. They repent, 7. A brazen Serpent erected, to which they look, and are healed, 8, 9. They journey, 10——16. Their Hymn for water given at Beer, 17. They ſue for paſſage to the Amorites: are denied: fight them: overcome, and dwell in their cities, 18——26. Proverbial ſayings concerning it, 27——30. Og King of Baſhan, his ſons, and all his people, are killed by the Iſraelites, and their Land poſſeſs'd by them, 33——35.

* [illegible] 33. 1 AND when * † King Arad the Canaanite a, which dwelt in the ſouth b, heard tell that Iſrael came by the way of the ſpies c, then he fought againſt Iſrael, and took ſome of them Priſoners d.

a Or rather, the Canaanite King of Arad: for Arad is not the name of a man, but of a city or territory, as may ſeem from Joſ. 12. 14. Judg. 1. 16. if at leaſt this was the ſame place with that. And he ſeems to be called a Canaanite in a general ſenſe, as the Amorites and others ſometimes are. b To wit, of Canaan, as appears from Num. 33. 40. towards the Eaſt, and near the dead Sea. c Not of thoſe ſpies which Moſes ſent to ſpie the land, Numb. 13. 17. for that was done 38 years before this, and they went ſo privately, that the Canaanites took no notice of them, nor knew which way they came or went; but of the ſpies which he himſelf ſent out to obſerve the marches and motions of the Iſraelites. But the words may be otherwiſe rendred, either thus, in the manner of ſpies, ſo the ſenſe is, when he heard that divers of the Iſraelites came into or towards his country in the nature of ſpies, to prepare the way for the reſt: or thus, by the way of Atharim, a place ſo called, as the ſeventy Interpreters here take it, and it ſeems not improbable. d Which God permitted for Iſraels humiliation and puniſhment, and to teach them not to expect the conqueſt of that land from their own wiſdom or valour, but wholly from Gods favour and aſſiſtance. See Deut. 9. 4. Pſal. 44. 3. 4.

2 And Iſrael vowed a vow unto the LORD e, and ſaid, If thou wilt indeed deliver this people into my hand, then I will utterly deſtroy their cities f.

e Being ſenſible of their own weakneſs, they endeavour to engage God to help them in the war, which they intended to renew. f I will reſerve no perſon nor thing for my own uſe, but devote them all to total deſtruction, which was the conſequent of ſuch vows. See Lev. 27. 29. Deut. 13. 15.

3 And the LORD hearkened to the voice of Iſrael, and delivered up the Canaanite: and they † utterly deſtroyed them g, and their cities, and he called the name of the place ‖ Hormah.

g When? Anſw. Either 1. Some time after this, under Joſhuah, who ſubdued, among others, the King of Arad, Joſ. 12. 14. And ſo this is mentioned here by anticipation, that the vow being now made and mentioned, the effect or performance of it might be recorded, though out of its place; and ſo this verſe muſt be ſuppoſed to be added by ſome of the Prophets, and inſerted into Moſes his hiſtory, as ſome other paſſages ſeem to be. Or 2. at this time: and ſo this is not the ſame Arad with that, Joſ. 12 14. nor this the ſame Hormagh with that there mentioned, but another of the ſame name, which is moſt frequent in perſons and places in ſcripture. And this is the more probable, becauſe that Arad and Hormah, Joſ. 12. 14. are two diſtinct places, and had divers kings, whereas here the ſame place is called both Arad and Hormah; and becauſe that Arad ſeems to be at ſome good diſtance from this, and more within the country, and more northward, as may be gathered from the other places joyned with it, Joſ. 12. whereas this Arad was near Edom, ver. 4. and in the ſouth, ver. 1. Queſt. 1. How could this be done in the land of Canaan, when Moſes neither entred himſelf, nor led the people into that land? Anſw. Neither Moſes nor the whole body of the people did this exploit, but a ſelect number ſent out for this purpoſe to puniſh that king and people, who were ſo fierce and malicious that they came out of their own country to fight with the Iſraelites in the wilderneſs; and theſe, when they had done this work, returned to their brethren into the wilderneſs. Queſt. 2. Why did they not all now go into Canaan, when ſome of them had once entred it, and purſue this victory? Anſ. Becauſe God would not permit it, there being ſeveral works yet to be done, other people muſt be conquered, the Iſraelites muſt be further humbled and tried and purged, Moſes muſt die, and then they ſhall enter, and that in a more glorious manner, even over Jordan, which ſhall be miraculouſly dried up, and give them paſſage.

4 And they * journeyed from mount Hor by the way of the Red-ſea h to compaſs the land of Edom: and the ſoul of the people was much ‖ † diſcouraged becauſe of the way i.

h (i. e.) Which leadeth to the Red-ſea, as they muſt needs do to compaſs the land of Edom. i By reaſon of this journey, which was long and troubleſome, and prepoſterous (for they were now going towards Egypt) and unexpected, either becauſe they doubted not but their brethren the Edomites would grant them their reaſonable requeſt of paſſing through their land, which diſappointment made it worſe; Or, becauſe the ſucceſsful entrance and victorious progreſs which ſome of them had made in the borders of Canaan, made them think they might have ſpeedily gone in and taken poſſeſſion of it, and ſo have ſaved their tedious travels and further difficulties, into which Moſes had again brought them.

5 And the people ſpake againſt God k, and againſt Moſes, Wherefore have ye brought us up out of Egypt to die in the Wilderneſs? for there is no bread, neither is there any water, and * our ſoul loatheth this light bread l.

k Againſt Chriſt, their chief conductor, whom they tempted, 1 Cor. 10. 9. l (i.e.) Of ſmall ſubſtance and virtue. Thus contemptuouſly do they ſpeak of Manna, whereas it appears it yielded excellent nouriſhment, becauſe in the ſtrength of it they were able to go ſo many and ſuch tedious journies.

6 And * the LORD ſent fiery ſerpents m among the people, and they bit the people, and much people of Iſrael died.

m Such there were many in this wilderneſs, Deut. 8. 15. which having been hitherto reſtrained by God, are now let looſe and ſent among them. They are called fiery from their effects, becauſe their poiſon cauſed an intolerable heat and burning and thirſt in the bodies of the Iſraelites, which was aggravated with this circumſtance of the place, that here was no water, ver. 5.

7 Therefore the people came to Moſes, and ſaid, We have ſinned: for we have ſpoken againſt the LORD, and againſt thee: pray unto the LORD that he take away the ſerpents from us: and Moſes prayed for the people.

8 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Make thee a fiery ſerpent n, and ſet it upon a Pole o: and it ſhall come to paſs, that every one that is bitten, when he looketh upon it, ſhall live p.

n (i. e.) The figure of a ſerpent in braſs, which is of a fiery colour. This would require ſome time: God would not ſpeedily take off the judgment, becauſe he ſaw they were not thoroughly humbled. o That the people might ſee it from all parts of the camp, and therefore the pole muſt be high, and the ſerpent large p This method of cure was preſcribed, partly that it might appear to be God's own work, and not the effect of nature or art: and partly that it might be an eminent type of our ſalvation by Chriſt. See Joh. 3. 14, 15. The ſerpent ſignified Chriſt, who was in the likeneſs of ſinful fleſh, Rom. 8. 3. though without ſin, as this brazen ſerpent had the outward ſhape, but not the inward poiſon, of the other ſerpents: the pole reſembled the croſs upon which Chriſt was lift up for our ſalvation: and looking up to it deſigned our believing in Chriſt.

9 And * Moſes made a ſerpent of braſs, and put it upon a pole, and it came to paſs, that if a ſerpent had bitten any man, when he beheld the ſerpent of braſs, he lived q. * 2 King. 18. 4. oh. 3. 14.

q He was delivered from death, and cured of his diſeaſe.

10 And the children of Iſrael ſet forward, and * pitched in Oboth r. * chap. 33. 43.

r Not immediately, but after two other ſtations mentioned, Num. 33.

11 And they journeyed from Oboth, * and pitched at † Ije-Abarim, in the wilderneſs which is before Moab s toward the ſun-riſing. * chap. 33. 44. † Or, heaps of Abarim.

s called the wilderneſs of Moab, Deut. 2. 8.

12 From thence they removed, and pitched in the valley of Zared t.

t Or rather, by the torrent or brook of Zared, as we render it, Deut. 2. 13. which ran into the dead ſea, and from which the valley alſo might be ſo called.

13 From thence they removed, and pitched on the other ſide of Arnon u, which is in the wilderneſs that cometh out of the coaſts of the Amorite: for Arnon is the border of Moab, between Moab and the Amorite x.

u Or rather, on this ſide of Arnon, for ſo it now was to the Iſraelites, who had not yet paſſed over it, as appears from Deut. 2. 24. But the ſame words, Judg. 11. 18. are to be rendred, on the other ſide of Arnon, for ſo it was to Jephthah: and the ſame prepoſition ſignifieth on this ſide, or beyond, according to the circumſtances of the place. x (i. e.) Though formerly it and the land beyond it belonged to Moab, yet afterwards it had been taken from them by Sihon, ver. 26. 28. This is added to reconcile two ſeemingly contrary commands of God, the one that of not medling with the land of the Moabites, Deut. 2. 9 the other that of going over Arnon and taking poſſeſſion of the land beyond it. Deut. 2. 24. becauſe, ſaith he, it is not now the land of the Moabites, but of the Amorites.

14 Wherefore it is ſaid in the book of the wars of the LORD y, ‖ what he did in the Read-ſea z, and in the brooks a of Arnon; ‖ Or Vaheb in Suphah.

y This ſeems to have been ſome Poem or narration of the wars and victories of the Lord, either by or relating to the Iſraelites: which may be aſſerted without any prejudice to the integrity of the Holy Scripture, becauſe this book doth not appear to have been written by a Prophet, or to be deſigned for a part of the Canon, but by ſome other ingenious perſon, who intended only to write an hiſtorical relation of theſe matters, which yet Moſes might quote, as St. Paul doth ſome of the heathen Poets. And as St. Luke aſſures us, that many did write an hiſtory of the things done and ſaid by Chriſt, Luke 1. 1. whoſe writings were never received as Canonical, the like may be juſtly conceived concerning this and ſome few other books mentioned in the old Teſtament. Though the words may be thus rendred, Wherefore it ſhall be ſaid in the relation or narration (for ſo the Hebrew Sepher is confeſſed to ſignifie) of the wars of the Lord. z Or, At Vaheb in Suphah, or in the land of Suph. Vaheb ſeems to be the name not of a man, but of a city or place, and Suphah the name of the country where it was; and the Hebrew particle eth is oft rendred at. And whereas the ſenſe ſeems to be imperfect, it muſt be noted, that he quotes only a fragment or piece of the book, and that principally to prove the ſcituation of Arnon, which he had aſſerted ver. 13. for which end the paſſage quoted is ſufficient. And the ſenſe is eaſily to be underſtood, for it is plain enough that this Poet or Writer is deſcribing the wars and works of God by the ſeveral places where they were done, and having begun the ſentence before, and mentioned other places, he comes to theſe here mentioned, At Vaheb in Suphah, and at the brooks of Arnon, &c. And it ſeems probable that the war here deſigned was that of Sihon againſt the Moabites, mentioned below, ver. 26. which is fitly aſcribed to the Lord, becauſe it was undertaken and perfected by the ſingular direction and aſſiſtance of God, and that for the ſake of the Iſraelites, that by this means that country might be invaded and poſſeſſed by them, without taking it away from the Moabites, which they were forbidden to meddle with or to diſturb, Deut. 2. 9. and ſo their title to it might be more juſt and unqueſtionable. See Judg. 11. 12, 13, 27. a (i. e.) The brook, the plural number for the ſingular, as the plural number rivers is uſed concerning Jordan, Pſal. 74. 15. and concerning Tigris, Nah. 2. 6. and concerning Euphrates, Pſal. 137. 1. and concerning Thermodoon in Virgil, all which may be ſo called becauſe of the ſeveral little ſtreams into which they were divided.

b A chief city in Moab, as appears from Iſa. 15. 1. of which v. 28.

16 And from thence they went to Beer c: that is the well whereof the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, Gather the people together, and I will give them water d.

c This place and Mattanah, Nahaliel, and Bamoth named here, v. 19. are not mentioned among thoſe places where they pitched or encamped, Numb. 33. Either therefore they did not pitch or encamp in theſe places, but only paſs by or through them, nor indeed is it here ſaid they pitched or encamped in theſe places, which is ſaid of thoſe places, Numb. 33. but only that they went to them, ver. 18. or, theſe are ſtations omitted there, and to be ſupplied from hence; for though it be there ſaid they went from ſuch a place, and pitched in ſuch a place, yet it is not ſaid they went immediately from the one place to the other, and therefore they might take theſe places in their way. d To wit, in a miraculous manner.

e To praiſe God for giving them ſuch a ſeaſonable bleſſing, before they asked it, or complained for the want of it. f Give forth thy waters that we may drink. Heb. aſcend, i. e. let thy waters, which now lye hid below in the earth, aſcend for thy uſe. It is either a prediction that it ſhould ſpring up, or a prayer that it might, or a command in the name of God directed to the well, by an uſual Proſopopæia, as when God bids the heavens hear and the earth give ear, Iſa. 1. 2. Any of theſe ways it ſhews their faith. ‖ Or, ſing ye of it, or, anſwer to it or concerning it; it being the manner of the Jewiſh ſingers, that one ſhould anſwer to another, of which ſee Exod. 15. 21. 1 Sam. 18. 7.

18 The princes digged g the well, the nobles of the people digged it, by the direction of the lawgiver h, with their ſtaves i: And from the wilderneſs they went to Mattanah:

g Either by themſelves, or by others whom they commanded to do it. h Or, with the lawgiver, i. e. Moſes, they together with Moſes, or they by Moſes his direction and appointment, which is ſignified, ver. 16. i Which are here mentioned, either 1. as the enſigns of their authority, Judg. 5. 14. by which they gave this command of digging: 2. as the inſtruments of their work, not that they did formally and effectually dig the well or receptacle for the water, for which ſpades were more proper than ſtaves, but that as Moſes ſmote the rock with his rod, ſo they ſtruck the earth with their ſtaves making only ſome ſmall impreſſion for form ſake, or as a ſign that God would cauſe the water to flow forth out of the earth where they ſmote it, as he did before out of the rock.

k See the Notes on ver. 16.

20 And from Bamoth in the valley l, that is in the † countrey of Moab, to the top of ‖ Piſgah m, which † Heb. field.
looketh toward ‖ Jeſhimon. ‖ Or, the hill. ‖ Or, the wilderneſs.

l Or, the valley, which might be called Bamoth, not becauſe it was a place naturally high, but from divers other reaſons which may be eaſily gueſſed. Or, to the valley, or to that valley, that famous or rather infamous valley, to wit, of Abel-ſhittim, Numb. 33. 49. where they committed thoſe foul abominations recorded Numb. 25. m This was the top of thoſe high hills of Abarim; of which ſee Deut. 3. 17, 27. & 32. 49. & 34. 1, 6.

21 And Iſrael ſent meſſengers n unto Sihon the king of the Amorite, ſaying, n By Gods allowance, that ſo Sihons malice might be the more evident and inexcuſable, and that their title to his country more clear in the judgments of all men, as being gotten by a juſt war, into which they were forced for their own defence.

22 Let me paſs through thy land; we will not turn into the fields, or into the vineyards; we will not drink of the waters of the well: but we will go along by the kings high way, until we be paſt thy borders o. * Deut. 2. 27. Judg. 11. 19.

o They ſpoke what they ſeriouſly intended and would have done, if he had given them quiet paſſage: but withal they knew that Sihon would not do it, and that he would withſtand them, and that they ſhould ſubdue him and take his land, as God had told them before they ſent this meſſage, as appears from Deut. 2. 24, 26, 27. and accordingly God hardened his ſpirit, and made his heart obſtinate, for this end, that he might deliver him into Iſraels hand there, ver. 30. And no wonder, for he and his people were Amorites, and, therefore devoted to Deſtruction, as all that people were.

23 * And Sihon would not ſuffer Iſrael to paſs through his border: but Sihon gathered all his people together, and went out againſt Iſrael into the wilderneſs: and he came to Jahaz p, and fought againſt Iſrael. * Deut. 29 8.

p A city, of which ſee Deut. 2. 32. Jer. 48. 21.

24 * And Iſrael ſmote him with the edge of the ſword, and poſſeſſed his land from Arnon q unto Jabbok r, even unto the children of Ammon; for the border of the children of Ammon was ſtrong s. * Deut. 2. 32 & 29 7 Jos. 12. 2. & 24. 8. Pſal. 135. 0. 11 & 136. 19 Amos 2. 9.

q Or, which reached from Arnon, &c. ſuch ſupplements being very uſual: and ſo here is contained a deſcription or limitation of Sihons conqueſt and kingdom, that it extended only from Arnon—— unto the children of Ammon; and then the following words, for the border of the children of Ammon was ſtrong, come in very fitly, not as a reaſon why the Iſraelites did not or could not conquer the Ammonites, for they were abſolutely forbidden to meddle with them, Deut. 3. 8. but as a reaſon why Sihon could not enlarge his conqueſts and empire to the Ammonites, as he had done to the Moabites. r A river by which the countries of Ammon and Moab were in part bounded and divided. s Either by the advantage of the river, or by their ſtrong holds in their frontiers.

25 And Iſrael took all theſe cities; and Iſrael dwelt in all the cities of the Amorite t: in Heſhbon, and in all the † villages thereof.

t Having deſtroyed the antient Inhabitants, Deut. 2. 34.

26 For Heſhbon was the city of Sihon u the king of the Amorite, who had fought againſt the former king of Moab x, and taken all his land out of his hand, even unto Arnon.

u This is added as a reaſon why Iſrael took poſſeſſion of this land, notwithſtanding God's prohibition of meddling with them or their land, Deut. 2. 9. becauſe it was not now the land of the Moabites, but had been ſome time ſince taken from them, and in the poſſeſſion of the Amorites. x (i. e.) The Predeceſſor of Balak, who was the preſent King.

27 Wherefore they that ſpeak in proverbs y, ſay, Come into Heſhbon z: let the city of Sihon a be built and prepared.

y The poets or other ingenious perſons, to wit, of the Amorites or Cannanites, who made this following Song of Triumph over the vanquiſhed Moabites: which is here brought in, partly as a proof that this was now Sihon's land, and partly as an evidence of the juſt judgment of God in ſpoiling the ſpoilers, and ſubduing thoſe who inſulted over their conquered Enemies. z Theſe are the words either of Sihon ſpeaking thus to his people, or of the people exhorting one another to come and poſſeſs and repair the city which they had taken. a That which once was the royal city of the king of Moab, but now is the city of Sihon.

* Jer. 48. 45.

28 For there is a * fire a gone out of Heſhbon b, a flame from the city of Sihon: it hath conſumed Ar of Moab c, and the lords of the high places d of Arnon.

a (i. e.) The fury of war, which is oft and fitly compared to fire here, as Iſa. 47. 14. Amos 1. 7, 10, 12, 14. & 2. 2, 5. b That city which before was a refuge and defence to all the country, now is turned into a great annoyance and a publick miſchief. c Queſt. How can this be, ſince Ar was yet in the hands of the Moabites, Deut. 2. 9, 18, 29? Anſ. 1. This may be underſtood not of the city Ar, but of the people or the country ſubject or belonging to that great and royal city, as the Chaldee underſtands it. 2. Poſſibly Ar was taken by Sihon of the Moabites, but afterwards was either recovered by the Moabites, or upon the Iſraelites approach quitted by Sihon, gathering all his Forces together, that he might fight with the Iſraelites, and ſo repoſſeſſed by the Moabites. 3. This place may be thus rendred, It ſhall conſume Ar of Moab, the paſt tenſe being put for the future, as is uſual in prophetical paſſages; and ſo this may be the Amorites prediction or preſage, That having taken Heſhbon and its territories, they ſhould now extend their victories to Ar of Moab, though they fell ſhort of that hope, as ordinarily men do. d Either 1. the princes or governours of the ſtrong holds, which were frequently in high places, eſpecially in that mountainous country, and which were in divers parts all along the river of Arnon, and having taken ſome of theſe, they promiſed to themſelves that they ſhould take all the reſt, and ſo proceed further and further, till they had taken Ar it ſelf. Or rather 2. the prieſts and people that worſhip their God in their high places: which may ſeem more probable, 1. becauſe as the Iſraelites worſhipped God, ſo the heathens worſhipped Baal, in high places, Numb. 22. 41. and particularly the Moabites are noted for ſo doing, Jer. 48. 35. 2. Becauſe amongſt the eminent places of Moab there is mention of Bamoth-baal, or, of the high-places of Baal, Joſ. 13. 17.

* 1 Kin. 11. 7, 33.

29 Wo to thee, Moab e; thou art undone, O people of * Chemoſh f: he hath given his ſons that eſcaped, and his daughters into captivity g, unto Sihon king of the Amorite h.

e Alas poor Moab, thou couldſt not ſave thy ſelf from Sihon's ſword. f (i. e.) The worſhippers of Chemoſh: ſo the God of the Moabites was called, 1 King. 11. 7, 33. 2 King. 23. 13. Jer. 48. 46. g He, (i. e.) their God, hath delivered up his own people to his and their enemies; he could not defend them, but ſuffered many of them to be killed, nor could he ſecure even thoſe that had eſcaped the ſword, but ſuffered them to fall into their enemies hands, and by them to be carried into captivity. h Now the words of this and the following verſe ſeem to be not a part of that triumphant ſong or poem made, as I ſuppoſe, by ſome Amoritiſh bard or poet, which ſeems to be concluded, ver. 28. but of the Iſraelites making their obſervation upon it. And here they ſcoffe at the impotency not only of the Moabites, but of their God alſo, who could not ſave his people from the ſword of Sihon and the Amorites.

30 We have ſhot at them i: Heſhbon is periſhed, even unto Dibon k, and we have laid them waſt even unto Nophah, which reached unto Medebah l.

i Though you feeble Moabites, and your God too, could not reſiſt Sihon, we Iſraelites, by the help of our God, have ſhot, to wit, with ſucceſs and victory, as the following words ſhew, at them, to wit, at Sihon and his Amorites; which is eaſily and plainly underſtood, both from the foregoing and following words. k Heſhbon the Royal City of Sihon, and by him lately repaired, is periſhed, is taken away from Sihon, and ſo is all his Territory or Countrey, even as far as Dibon, which, as ſome think, is called Dibon-gad, Numb. 33. 45. l (i. e.) Whoſe Territory extendeth to Medeba. Or, yea, even to Medeba: for the Hebrew word aſher, is ſometimes uſed for yea, or moreover, as 1 Sam. 15. 20. Pſal. 10. 6. & 95. 11. The ſenſe is, the whole Country of Sihon, taken by him from the Moabites, is waſted and periſhed.

31 Thus Iſrael dwelt in the land of the Amorite.

32 And Moſes ſent to ſpy out Jaazer m, and they took the villages thereof, and drove out the Amorite that was there.

m One of the Cities of Moab formerly taken from them by Sihon, and now taken from him by the Iſraelites, Numb. 32. 1, 3, 35. and after the decay or deſtruction of the Kingdom of the Ten Tribes, repoſſeſſed by the Moabites, Jer. 48. 32.

33 * And they turned, and went up by the way of Baſhan: and Og n the King of Baſhan o went out againſt them, he, and all his People, to the battel at Edrei.

n Who alſo was a king of the Amorites, of whom ſee Deut. 3. 1, 11. And it may ſeem that Sihon and Og were the leaders or Captains of two great Colonies which came out of Canaan, and drove out the former Inhabitants of theſe places. o A rich Countrey, famous for its paſtures and breed of Cattle, Deut. 32. 14. Pſal. 22. 12. Jer. 50. 19. and for its Oaks, Ezek. 27. 6.

34 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Fear him not p: for I have delivered him into thy hand, and all his people, and his land, and * thou ſhalt do to him, as thou didſt unto Sihon King of the Amorites, which dwelt at Heſhbon.

*Pſal. 10, 11. 136.

p A neceſſary caution, for he was a great Giant, Deut. 3. 11. likely to ſtrike them with terrour.

35 So they ſmote him, and his Sons, and all his people, until there was none left him alive, and they poſſeſſed his land.

CHAP. XXII.

The Iſraelites pitch in the Plains of Moab, 1. Balak the King ſends for Balaam to curſe Iſrael, 2——8. He enquires of the Lord, who forbids him to go: He goes not, 9——14. Balak ſends again: The Lord permits Balaam to go, 15——21. An Angel ſtands in the way; which his Aſs perceives: His eyes are at length opened to ſee the Angel, who rebukes him, 22——33. He confeſſes his fault, and offers to go back: He is commanded to go on, and ſpeak as ſhould be revealed to him, 34, 35, Balak comes to meet him; receives him; expoſtulates with him; he declares he has no power but to ſpeak the Word which God ſhould put into his mouth, 36——41.

1 AND * the children of Iſrael ſet forward, and pitched in the plains of Moab a, on this ſide Jordan by Jericho b.

a Which ſtill retained their antient title, though they had been taken away from the Moabites by Sihon, and from him by the Iſraelites. b (i. e.) Over againſt Jericho. Or, near the paſſage over Jordan to Jericho, or its Territories.

2 And Balak the ſon of Zippor c ſaw all that Iſrael had done to the Amorite.

c The ſon or ſucceſſour of him whom Sihon had ſpoiled of part of his Kingdom, Numb. 21. 26. Of him ſee Judg. 11. 25. Mich. 6. 5.

3 And Moab was ſore afraid d of the people becauſe they were many, and Moab was diſtreſſed becauſe of the children of Iſrael.

d As it was foretold both in general of all Nations, Deut. 2. 25. and particularly concerning Moab, Exod. 15. 15.

4 And Moab ſaid unto the elders of Midian e: Now ſhall this company lick up f all that are round about us g, as the ox licketh up the graſs of the field. And Balak the ſon of Zippor was King of the Moabites at that time.

e Called the Kings of Midian, Numb. 31. 8. and Princes of Midian, Joſ. 13. 21. who though divided into their Kingdoms, yet were now united upon the approach of the Iſraelites their common Enemy, and being, as it ſeems, a potent and crafty people, and Neighbours to the Moabites, theſe ſeek Confederacy with them. We read of Midianites near Mount Sinai, Exod. 2. and 3. which ſeem to have been a part or colony of this people, that went out to ſeek new quarters, as the manner of thoſe times was, but the body of that people were ſeated in thoſe parts, as is evident from many Scriptures. f (i. e.) Conſume and utterly deſtroy, in which ſenſe the fire is ſaid to lick up the water and ſacrifices, 1 King. 18. 38. The meaning is, we can expect no mercy from them, they will utterly root us out as they did the Amorites, if we do not make a ſtout and timely oppoſition. g (i. e.) All our people, who lived in the Countrey and Territory adjoyning to each City, where the Princes reſided.

5 * He ſent meſſengers therefore unto Balaam h the ſon of Beor i to Pethor k, which is by the river of the land of the children of his people l, to call him, ſaying, Behold, there is a people come out from Egypt: behold, they cover the † face of the earth, and they abide over againſt me m.

h Who is called a Prophet, 2 Pet. 2. 16. becauſe God was pleaſed to inſpire and direct him to ſpeak the following prophecie, as he did inſpire Caiphas to ſpeak thoſe words, Joh. 11. 51, 52. and as ſometimes he did for a time inſpire other wicked men, but in truth he was a ſoothſayer, as he is called, Joſ. 13. 22. See Numb. 24. 1. i Or, Boſor, 2 Pet. 2. 15. for he had two names, as many others had. k A City in Moſopotamia or Aram, ſee Numb. 23. 7. Deut. 23. 4. l. (i. e.) By Euphrates, which is oft called the River, by way of eminency, as Gen. 15. 18. Joſ. 24. 2, 15. and here the River of Balaam's land or country, to wit, of Moſopotamia or Aram, Numb. 23. 7. m They are encamped in my neighbourhood, ready to invade my Kingdom.

6 Come now therefore, I pray thee, curſe me n this people, for they are too mighty for me: peradventure I ſhall prevail, that we may ſmite them o, and that I may drive them out of the land: for I wot that he whom thou bleſſeſt, is bleſſed, and he whom thou curſeſt, is curſed p.

n (i. e.) Curſe them for my ſake and benefit; uſe thy utmoſt power, which thou haſt with thy Gods or infernal Spirits, to blaſt and ruine them. o Thou by thy magical imprecations, and I by my ſword joyned with them. p He had ſome experience of, or, at leaſt, a great confidence in Balaam's skill and power in theſe matters.

7 And the elders of Moab, and the elders of Midian departed, with the rewards of divination q in their hands, and they came unto Balaam, and ſpake unto him the words of Balak.

q Heb. with divinations, by which he underſtands not the Inſtruments of Divination, which it was needleſs and abſurd to bring to ſo eminent a Diviner, who doubtleſs was throughly furniſhed for his own trade; but the Rewards of it, as it is explained 2 Pet. 2. 15. and as in the Hebrew, 2 Sam. 4. 10. good tydings is put for the reward of good tydings. Nor is it probable, they would go to, or could expect to prevail with ſuch a perſon, eſpecially being noted for his covetouſneſs, as appears from the ſtory, without that powerful engine.

8 And he ſaid unto them, Lodge here this night r, and I will bring you word again, as the LORD s ſhall ſpeak unto me: and the princes of Moab t abode with Balaam.

r The Night was the time when God uſed to reveal his mind by dreams. Here is the firſt diſcovery of his Wickedneſs, that he takes time to conſider, and doth his endeavour to effect that wicked motion of curſing the Iſraelites, which he ſhould have rejected and abhorred at the firſt mention of it. s Heb. Jehovah, the true God, whom he here mentions, either for his own greater reputation, as if he conſulted not with inferiour ſpirits, as other Soothſayers did, but with the ſupream God; or rather becauſe this was Iſrael's God, and the only poſſible way of ruining them was by engaging their God againſt them: as the known way of the Romans and other Heathens, when they went to beſiege any City, they uſed Inchantments to call forth that God under whoſe peculiar protection they were. t And of Midian too, as is manifeſt from ver. 7. which was needleſs to repeat here.

9 And God came unto Balaam u, and ſaid, What men are theſe with thee x?

u Not to gratifie his covetous deſire, but to advance his own honour and ſervice, even by the Counſels of his enemies. x He asketh not this for his own Information, but partly that Balaam by repeating the thing in God's preſence might be convinced and aſhamed of his ſin and folly in offering his Service in ſuch a curſed buſineſs; and partly for a foundation to the following anſwer.

10 And Balaam ſaid unto God, Balak the ſon of Zippor, King of Moab, hath ſent unto me, ſaying, 11 Behold, there is a people come out of Egypt, which covereth the face of the earth: come now, curſe me them; peradventure † I ſhall be able to overcome them, and drive them out.

† Heb. I ſhall prevail in fighting againſt him.

12 And God ſaid unto Balaam y, Thou ſhalt not go with them; thou ſhalt not curſe the people, for they are bleſſed z.

y To whom God revealeth his mind, not for any love to him, but for the ſake of his people concerned in it, as he did to Pharaoh, Gen. 41. 25. and to Nebuchadnezzar, Dan. 2. 45. z By my irrevocable decree and ſentence, and therefore it is in vain for men to curſe them.

13 And Balaam roſe up in the morning, and ſaid unto the Princes of Balak, get ye into your land: for the LORD refuſeth to give me leave to go with you a.

a He conceals the principal things, to wit, the reaſon of God's prohibition, which might have given a ſtop to their further courſe and counſels in this matter, and ſecretly intimates his own good will and readineſs to comply with them, if God had not hindred him.

14 And the Princes of Moab roſe up, and they went unto Balak, and ſaid, Balaam refuſeth to come with us b.

b Thus they lay the blame upon Balaam, which he imputed to God.

15 And Balak ſent yet again princes, mo, and more honourable than they.

16 And they came to Balaam, and ſaid to him, Thus ſaith Balak the ſon of Zippor, † let nothing c, I pray thee, hinder thee from coming unto me.

† Heb. be not thou letted from, &c.

c No counſel nor ſuggeſtion either of God or Man.

17 For I will promote thee unto very great honour d, and I will do whatſoever thou ſayeſt unto me: come therefore, I pray thee, curſe me this people.

d Before he wrought upon his covetouſneſs, now upon his ambition.

18 A Balaam anſwered and ſaid unto the ſervants of Balak, * If Balak would give me his houſe full of ſilver and gold, I cannot e go beyond the word of the LORD my God f, to do leſs or more.

* chap. 24. 13.

e You deſire and expect that from me which is out of my power, to reſiſt the Will of the great God. He ſlily inſinuates, That he wanted not Will, but Power only. f So he calls him, partly to magnifie himſelf as the ſervant of the great Jehovah; partly, that by profeſſing this reſpect unto God he might the ſooner induce him to grant his Deſire; and partly becauſe he worſhipped the true God, together with Idols, as many in thoſe times and places did.

19 Now therefore, I pray you, tarry ye alſo here this night, that I may know what the LORD will ſay unto me more g.

g Poſſibly he may change his mind, or yield to my renewed ſuit. Thus he ſought to make God and his conſcience ſtoop to the ſervice of his pride and covetouſneſs, which was abominable.

20 And God came unto Balaam at night, and ſaid unto him, If the men come to call thee, riſe up and go with them h: but yet the word which I ſhall ſay unto thee: that ſhalt thou do i.

h Since this is thy great deſire and purpoſe, as far as thou canſt, take thy courſe; I will, according to thy wiſh, withdraw my reſtraint, and leave thee to thy ſelf and thy own choice. Compare Pſal. 81. 11, 12. i Theſe words ſignifie not ſo much his duty, as the event and his diſappointment, Thou ſhalt not do what thou deſireſt, to wit, curſe my people and ſo enrich and advance thy ſelf, but I will ſo over-rule thy mind and bridle thy tongue, that thou ſhalt ſpeak nothing but what is contrary to thy deſire and intereſt; and therefore though I permit thee to go, thou ſhalt loſe thy deſign in it.

21 And Balaam roſe up in the morning, and ſadled his aſs, and went with the princes of Moab.

22 And God's anger was kindled becauſe he went k: and the Angel of the LORD ſtood in the way † for an adverſary againſt him l: now he was riding upon his aſs, and his two ſervants were with him. m.

k Either 1. Becauſe he went of his own accord, with the Princes of Moab, and did not wait till they came to call him, i. e. urged him to go, which was the ſign and condition of Gods permiſſion, v. 20. but rather himſelf roſe and called them, as it may ſeem from, v. 21. Or 2. Becauſe thoſe words, v. 20. did contain no approbation nor licence, but a bare permiſſion, and that in anger, as Balaam might eaſily have underſtood, if he had conſidered his own heart, or the circumſtances of his conceſſion. This was no more an approbation than that paſſage of Chriſt to Judas, John 13. 27. That thou doeſt, do quickly. Or 3. Becauſe he went with ill deſign, and deſire to do contrary to what God had charged him, to wit, to curſe the people, as plainly appears from the following ſtory, and from Deut. 23. 5. For God hath been oft and juſtly angry with thoſe who have done what God bad them, when they did it in evil manner, or for evil ends, as appears from Iſa. 10. 6, 7. and many other places. l (i. e.) To oppoſe and terrifie, if not to kill him. m The reſt of the company being probably gone before them. For in thoſe ancient times there was more of ſimplicity, and leſs of ceremony, and therefore it is not ſtrange that Balaam came at ſome diſtance, after the reſt, and attended only by his own ſervants.

23 And * the aſs ſaw the Angel n of the LORD ſtanding in the way, and his ſword drawn in his hand, and the aſs turned aſide out of the way, and went into the field: and Balaam ſmote the aſs, to turn her into the way.

* 2 Pet. 2 16. Jud. 11.

n Which Balaam ſaw not, becauſe God withheld his eyes as he did the eyes of Daniel's companions, Dan. 10. 7. It is a truth, which meer Philoſophers own, that when God withdraws his concourſe or help from any of his creatures, they cannot perform their natural acts and offices; the eye cannot ſee, as Gen. 19. nor the ear hear, nor the fire burn, as Dan. 3.

24 But the angel of the LORD ſtood in a path of the vineyards: a wall being on this ſide, and a wall on that ſide:

25 And when the aſs ſaw the angel of the LORD, ſhe thruſt her ſelf unto the wall, and cruſht Balaams foot againſt the wall: and he ſmote her again.

26 And the angel of the LORD went further, and ſtood in a narrow place, where was no way to turn either to the right hand or to the left.

27 And when the aſs ſaw the angel of the LORD, ſhe fell down under Balaam, and Balaams anger was kindled, and he ſmote the aſs with a ſtaff.

29 And the LORD opened the mouth of the aſs o, and ſhe ſaid unto Balaam, What have I done unto thee, that thou haſt ſmitten me theſe three times?

o (i. e.) Conferred upon her the power of Speech and reaſoning for that time. Impudent are thoſe heathens that disbelieve and ſcoff at the Scripture for this and ſome ſuch relations contained in it, when there are examples of the ſame kind of Prodigies, to wit, of Oxen and other brute-creatures ſpeaking ſome few words, in the greateſt and moſt approved writers of the Roman Hiſtory, as Plutarch, Polybius, Livy, and others. See the particulars in my Latin Synopſis on this place.

29 And Balaam ſaid unto the aſs p, Becauſe thou haſt mocked me; I would there were a ſword in mine hand, for now would I kill thee.

p Balaam was not much terrified with the Aſſes ſpeaking, becauſe he was much accuſtomed to converſe with evil Spirits which oft appeared to him and diſcourſed with him in the ſhape of ſuch creatures.

30 And the aſs ſaid unto Balaam, Am not I thine aſs, † upon which thou haſt ridden || ever ſince I was thine, unto this day? was I ever wont to do ſo unto thee? and he ſaid, Nay.

† Heb who haſt ridden upon me.
|| Or, ever ſince thou waſt, &c.

31 Then the LORD opened the eyes of Balaam, and he ſaw the angel of the LORD ſtanding in the way, and his ſword drawn in his hand: and he bowed down his head, and || fell flat on his face q.

q In token of reverence and ſubmiſſion.

32 And the Angel of the LORD ſaid unto him, Wherefore haſt thou ſmitten thine aſs theſe three times? Behold, I went out † to withſtand thee, becauſe thy way is perverſe before me r.

r Howſoever thou mayeſt deceive thy ſelf or others, I ſee the perverſeneſs of thy heart and way; the wickedneſs of thy deſign and deſires in this journey, which thou haſt undertaken, not to pleaſe me, but to gratifie Balak, and, if it be poſſible, to curſe my people.

33 And the aſs ſaw me, and turned from me theſe three times: unleſs ſhe had turned from me, ſurely now alſo I had ſlain thee, and ſaved her alive s.

s I had ſlain thee alone, and not her, and therefore her turning aſide and falling down was wholly for thy ſake and benefit, not for her own, and thy anger againſt her was unjuſt and unreaſonable.

34 And Balaam ſaid unto the angel of the LORD, I have ſinned, for I knew not that thou ſtoodeſt in the way againſt me: now therefore if it † diſpleaſe thee t, I will get me back again.

t A frivolous ſuppoſition; for it was apparently diſpleaſing to God, who had now ſaid that his way was perverſe, and had therefore oppoſed him and ſought to ſlay him: but hereby he ſhews how loth he was to go back and loſe the hopes he had conceived, and beſides he ſpeaks of deſiſting from the outward action, but ſhews no ſenſe of the plague of his heart, his vile affections, which were the root of this ill deſigned journey.

35 And the angel of the LORD ſaid unto Balaam Go with the men u: but only the word that I ſhall ſpeak unto thee, that thou ſhalt ſpeak x: ſo Balaam went with the princes of Balak.

u This may be either 1. A meer permiſſion, ſince neither the convictions of thy own conſcience, nor the experience of thy danger have weaned thee from thy baſe deſigns and inclinations, I ſhall no further reſtrain thee; my Angel ſhall give thee no more diſturbance; go on and proſper. Or 2. a conceſſion; I allow thee to go, upon the following terms. For the words here are more abſolute and unconditional than thoſe, ver. 20. x Theſe words may expreſs either 1. The event; Or, 2. His duty. See above on ver. 20.

36 And when Balak heard that Balaam was come, he went out to meet him y unto a city of Moab, which is in the border of Arnon, which is in the utmoſt coaſt z.

y That by this great honour he might give him a taſte and earneſt of thoſe great rewards he deſigned him, and thereby oblige him to uſe his utmoſt skill and intereſt for him. z Not far from the Camp of the Iſraelites, whom he deſired him to curſe.

37 And Balak ſaid unto Balaam, Did I not earneſtly ſend unto thee, to call thee? wherefore cameſt thou not unto me? Am I not able indeed to promote thee to honour?

38 And Balaam ſaid unto Balak, Lo, I am come unto thee: have I now any power at all to ſay any thing a? the word that God putteth in my mouth, that ſhall I ſpeak b.

a To wit, agreeable to thy expectation or my own Inclination. b I am forced to do ſo by his ſuperiour power, and therefore be not offended with me, if I ſpeak things unpleaſing to thee

39 And Balaam went with Balak, and they came unto || Kirjath huzoth.

40 And Balak offered c oxen and ſheep, and ſent to Balaam d, and to the princes that were with him e.

c Or, killed, either for ſacrifice: or rather for a feaſt: for the ſacrifices were offered after this, Numb. 23 1. 2. d To invite him to the feaſt. e Whom the King had left to accompany him and attend upon him.

41 And it came to paſs on the morrow, that Balak took Balaam, and brought him up into the high places of Baal f, that thence he might ſee the utmoſt part of the people g.

f (i. e.) Conſecrated to the Worſhip of Baal, i. e of Baal Peor, who was their Baal or God, Numb. 25. 2, 3. or of Chemeſh. g (i.e.) All that people, even to the utmoſt and remoteſt of them, as appears by comparing this with Numb 23. 13. He hoped that the ſight of ſuch a numerous hoſt ready to break in upon his country would ſtir up his paſſion and further his charms.

CHAP. XXIII.

Balak and Balaam ſacrifice: God meets him, and he bleſſes Iſrael, 1—10. Balak is troubled: they go to another place to curſe them: they ſacrifice again: Balaam conſults God, who meets him, and he again bleſſes Iſrael, 11—24. They go to a third place and ſacrifice again, 27—30.

1 AND Balaam ſaid unto Balak, Build me here ſeven altars a, and prepare me here ſeven oxen, and ſeven rams b.

a Either 1. To Baal, in whoſe high places this was done, and to whom alone Balak uſed to ſacrifice. Or rather 2. To the true God, otherwiſe he would not have mentioned it to God as an argument why he ſhould grant his requeſts, as he doth, ver. 4. And though Balak was averſe from God and his Worſhip, yet he would be eaſily over-ruled by Balaam, who doubtleſs told him that it was in vain to make an addreſs to any other than the God of Iſrael, who alone was able either to bleſs or curſe them, as he pleaſed. And therefore when Balaam loſt his deſign this way, he tried it another way with greater ſucceſs, but ſtill uſed the ſame method, in provoking their own God to deſtroy the Iſraelites, Numb. 25. But though he direct his ſacrifices to a right object, he chooſeth a wrong place, and, to comply with Balak's deſire, makes uſe of the high places of Baal for this end, and mingles his own ſuperſtitions with the Worſhip of God, in erecting divers Altars, according to the manner of Heathens and Idolaters, 2 King. 18. 22. Iſa. 17. 8. Jer. 11. 13. Hoſ. 8. 11. and 10. 1. and 12. 11. whereas God appointed and holy men uſed but one Altar, though many ſacrifices were to be offered upon it, Gen. 8. 20. Exod. 17. 15. and 24. 4. b This being the ſolemn and uſual number in ſacrifices, 1 Chron. 15. 26. 2 Chron. 29. 21. Job 42. 8.

2 And Balak did as Balaam had ſpoken, and Balak and Balaam c offered on every altar a bullock and a ram.

c Balak by procuring them, and Balaam by offering them: though in antient times Kings were Prieſts alſo, and ſo might perform a prieſtly work, as this was.

3 And Balaam ſaid unto Balak, Stand by thy burnt-offering d, and I will go e: peradventure the LORD will come to meet me: and whatſoever he ſheweth me f, I will tell thee. And || he went to an high place g.

d As in God's preſence, as one that offers thy ſelf as well as thy ſacrifices to obtain his favour. e To ſome ſolitary and convenient place, where I may by my inchantments prevail with God to appear to me, and to anſwer thy and my deſires in curſing this people. f (i. e.) Reveals to me, either by word or ſign. g Or, into the plain, as that word properly ſignifies, for he was now in an high place, Numb. 22. 41. But this is not material, it was doubtleſs ſome ſolitary place, where he might uſe ſome geſtures and ceremonies which he would not have others ſee, and where he might more reaſonably expect to meet with God; for both good and evil ſpirits moſt commonly appeared to perſons in ſuch places.

4 And God met Balaam h; and he ſaid unto him, I have prepared ſeven altars, and I have offered upon every altar a bullock and a ram i.

h Not to comply with Balaam's charms, nor to gratifie, but to oppoſe, his wicked deſires, and to force him againſt his own inclination and intereſt to utter the following words. i Which I pray thee accept, and give me leave to curſe thy people, as their abundant wickedneſs deſerves.

5 And the LORD put a word in Balaams mouth k, and ſaid, Return unto Balak, and thus thou ſhalt ſpeak, k He ſuggeſted what he ſhould ſay, even thoſe words, ver. 8. 9. 10.

6 And he returned unto him, and lo, he ſtood by his burnt-ſacrifice, he, and all the princes of Moab.

7 And he took up l his parable m, and ſaid, Balak the King of Moab hath brought me from Aram n, out of the mountains of the eaſt o, ſaying, Come, curſe me Jacob p, and come, defie Iſrael.

l To wit into his mouth; he expreſſed or ſpoke. m (i e.) His oracular and prophetical ſpeech; which he calls a parable, becauſe of the weightineſs of the matter, and the majeſty and ſmartneſs of the expreſſions which is uſual in parables. n From Aram, Naharaim, or Meſopotamia, Deut. 23. 4. 8 How ſhall I curſe whom God hath not † curſed q? or how ſhall I defie, whom the LORD hath not defied?

q God hath not curſed but bleſſed Iſrael, and therefore it is a vain and ridicolous attempt for me to curſe them in ſpight of God.

9 For from the top of the rocks r I ſee him s, and from the hills I behold him: lo, * the people ſhall dwell alone, and ſhall not be reckoned among the nations t.

r Upon which I now ſtand. s I ſee the people, according to thy deſire, chap. 22. 41. but cannot improve that ſight to the end for which thou didſt deſign it, to wit to curſe them. t This people are of a diſtinct kind from others, God's peculiar people, ſeparated from all other nations, as in Religion and Laws, ſo alſo in divine protection; and therefore my inchantments cannot have that power againſt them which they have againſt other perſons and people. See Exod. 19. 5. Levit. 20. 24. 26.

10 Who can count the duſt of Jacob u, and the number of the fourth part of Iſrael x: Let † me dye * the death of the righteous y, and let my laſt end z be like his.

† Heb. my ſoul or life. *Pſal. 15.

u (i. e.) The numberleſs people of Jacob or Iſrael, who according to God's promiſe, Gen. 13. 16. and 28. 14. are now become as the duſt of the earth. x (i. e.) Of one of the camps of Iſrael; for they were divided into four camps, Numb. 2. which Balaam from this height could eaſily diſcover: much leſs can any man number all their hoſt. y (i. e.) Of this righteous and holy people, the Iſraelites, called Jeſurun, Deut. 32. 15. which word ſignifies upright or righteous. The ſenſe is, they are not only happy above other Nations in this life, as I have ſaid, and therefore in vain ſhould I curſe them, but they have this peculiar privilege, that they are happy after death: their happineſs begins where the happineſs of other people ends; and therefore I heartily wiſh that my ſoul may have its portion with theirs when I dye. But it was a vain wiſh, for as he would not live as God's people did, ſo he died by the ſword, as others of God's enemies did, Numb. 31. 8. Joſ. 13. 22. z (i. e.) My death, as the word is uſed. Or, My poſterity, as this Hebrew word ſignifies, Pſal. 109. 13. Dan. 11. 4. Amos 4. 2. And as the covenant and bleſſing of God given to Abraham did reach to his poſterity, ſo this might not be unknown to Balaam, which might give him occaſion for this wiſh. Or, my reward, as the word is taken, Prov. 23. 18. and 24. 20. But the firſt ſenſe ſeems the moſt true, becauſe it agrees beſt with the uſage of Scripture to repeat the ſame thing in other words, and this includes the third ſenſe, to wit, the reward, which is here ſuppoſed to follow death; and for poſterity, it doth not appear that he had any, or, if he had, that he was ſo very ſolicitous for them; or that he knew the tenour of Gods covenant with Abraham and his poſterity. Nay he rather ſeems to have had ſome hope of ruining Abraham's poſterity, which he attempted both here and afterwards.

11 And Balak ſaid unto Balaam, What haſt thou done unto me? I took thee to curſe mine enemies, and behold, thou haſt bleſſed them altogether.

12 And he anſwered and ſaid, Muſt I not take heed to ſpeak that which the LORD hath put in my mouth a?

a I ſpeak not theſe words by my own choice, but by the conſtraint of an higher power which I cannot reſiſt.

13 And Balak ſaid unto him, Come, I pray thee, with me unto another place, from whence thou mayeſt ſee them: thou ſhalt ſee but the utmoſt part of them, and ſhalt not ſee them all b: and curſe me them from thence.

b He thought the ſight of the people neceſſary both to excite Balaam's paſſions, and to ſtrengthen and direct his conjurations, but he would now have him ſee but a part of the people, and not all, becauſe the ſight of all of them might diſmay and diſcourage him, and, as it did before, raiſe his fancy to an admiration of the multitude and of the felicity of the people, ver. 9. 10.

14 And he brought him into the field of Zophim c to the top of ‖ Piſgah d, and built ſeven altars, and offered a bullock and a ram on every altar.

c A place ſo call'd from the ſpies & watches which were kept there. d An high hill in the land of Moab, ſo called, Deut. 3. 27. and 34. 1.

15 And he ſaid unto Balak, Stand here by thy burnt-offering, while I meet the LORD e yonder.

e To conſult him, and to receive an anſwer from him, if peradventure thoſe renewed ſacrifices will melt him into ſome compliance with our deſires.

16 And the LORD met Balaam f, and * put a word in his mouth, and ſaid, go again to Balak, and ſay thus.

* chap. 22. 35.

f See above on verſe 4. and Numb. 22. 35.

17. And when he came to him, behold, he ſtood by his burnt-offering, and the princes of Moab with him, And Balak ſaid unto him, What hath the LORD ſpoken?

18 And he took up his parable, and ſaid, Riſe up g, Balak, and hearken unto me, thou ſon of Zippor:

f This word implies, either 1. The reverence wherewith he ſhould hear and receive God's meſſage, as Ehud did, Judg. 3. 20. which might have been probable, if Balak had been now ſitting, as Ehud there was: but he was ſtanding, ver. 15. or rather 2. The diligent attention required; rouſe up thy ſelf and carefully mind what I ſay.

* 1 Sam. 15. 29. Mal. 3. 6. Rom. 11. 29. Jam. 1. 17.

h (i. e.) Break his Faith and Promiſes made to his People for their preſervation and benediction. i (i. e.) Change his counſels or purpoſes; which men do, either becauſe they are not able to execute them or becauſe they are better informed and their minds changed by ſome unexpected occurrent, or by their luſts and paſſions, none of which have place in God. And therefore I plainly ſee that all our endeavours and repeated ſacrifices are to no purpoſe, and can make no impreſſion in God, nor induce him to curſe thoſe whom he hath purpoſed, and ſolemnly and frequently promiſed, to bleſs. k Is he like a man that oft ſpeaks and promiſes what he either never intends, or cannot or will not perform?

20 Behold, I have received commandment to bleſs l: and he hath bleſſed, and I cannot reverſe it.

l Or, I have received a bleſſing, to wit, a ſentence of bleſſing, which God hath put into my mind and mouth, and which I cannot forbear to utter. Heb. I have received to bleſs. The infinitive put for the noun, as is frequent.

21 He hath not beheld iniquity in Jacob, neither hath he ſeen perverſeneſs in Iſrael m: the LORD his God is with him n, and the ſhout of a King is among them o.

m He, (i. e.) God, underſtood, v. 20. and expreſſed, v. 19. hath not or doth not behold or ſee iniquity or perverſeneſs, i. e. any ſin, in Jacob or Iſrael; which cannot be meant of a ſimple ſeeing or knowing of him, for ſo God did ſee and obſerve, yea and chaſtiſe their ſins, as is manifeſt, Exod. 32. 9. Deut. 9. 13. but of ſuch a ſight of their ſins as ſhould provoke God utterly to forſake and curſe and deſtroy them, which was Balak's deſire, and Balaam's hope and deſign. For as Balaam knew that none but Iſraels God could curſe or deſtroy Iſrael, ſo he knew that nothing but their ſin could move him ſo to do; and therefore he took a right though wicked courſe afterwards, to tempt them to ſin, and thereby to expoſe them to ruine, Numb. 25. And Balaam had now hoped that God was incenſed againſt Iſrael for their ſins, and therefore would be prevailed with to give them up to the curſe and ſpoil. But, ſaith he, I was miſtaken, I ſee God hath a ſingular favour to this people, and though he ſees and puniſheth ſin in other perſons and people with utter deſtruction, as he hath now done in Sihon and Og and the Amorites, yet he will not do ſo with Iſrael; he winks at their ſins, forgets and forgives them, and will not puniſh them as their iniquities deſerve. In this ſenſe God is ſaid not to ſee ſin, as elſewhere he is ſaid to forget them, Iſa. 43. 25. Jer. 31 34. and, to cover them, Pſal. 32. 1. which keeps them out of ſight and ſo out of mind, and to blot them out, Pſal. 51. 1, 9. and to caſt them behind his back, Iſa. 38. 17. or, into the depth of the ſea, Mic. 7. 19. in which caſes they cannot be ſeen nor read. And men are oft ſaid not to know or ſee thoſe ſins in their children or others, which they do not take notice of ſo as to puniſh them. And this ſenſe beſt agrees with the context, God hath decreed and promiſed to bleſs this people, and he hath bleſſed them, and I cannot reverſe it, ver. 20. and he will not reverſe it, though provoked to do ſo by their ſins, which he will take no notice of. Others thus, He hath not beheld, as hitherto he hath not, ſo for the future he will not behold, i. e. ſo as to approve it, as that word is oft uſed, as Gen. 7. 1. Iſa. 66. 2. Hab. 1. 13. or ſo as to ſuffer it, injury againſt Jacob, &c. For aven here rendred iniquity, is oft uſed in that ſence, as Job 5. 6, 7. Prov. 12. 21. & 22. 8. And the other word amal rendred perverſeneſs oft notes vexation and trouble as Job 5. 6, 7. Pſal. 25. 17. & 36. 4. and the particle beth rendred in is oft uſed for againſt, as Exod. 14. 25. & 20. 16. Numb. 12. 1. So the ſenſe is, God will not ſee them wronged, or ruined by any of their adverſaries, whereof the following words may be a good reaſon, for God is with him, &c. n (i. e.) He hath a favour for this people, and will defend and ſave them. So the phraſe of God's being with a perſon or people ſignifies, as Judg. 6. 13. Pſal. 46. 7. Iſa. 8. 10. o (i. e.) Such joyful and triumphant ſhouts as thoſe wherewith a people congratulate the approach and preſence of their King when he appears among them upon ſome ſolemn occaſion, or when he returns from battel with victory and ſpoils. The expreſſion implies God's being their King and Ruler, and their abundant ſecurity and juſt confidence in him as ſuch. And here is an alluſion to the ſilver trumpets which were made by God's command, and uſed upon great ſolemnities, in which God their King was preſent in a ſpecial manner, Numb. 10. 9. Joſ. 6. 16, 20. 1 Sam. 4. 5. 2 Chron. 13. 12.

22 * God brought them out of Egypt p: he q hath as it were the ſtrength of an unicorn r.

p To wit, by a ſtrong hand, and in ſpight of all their enemies, and therefore it is in vain to ſeek or hope to overcome them. q Either 1. God, laſt mentioned. But ſo the compariſon is mean and unbecoming. Or rather, 2. Iſrael, whom God brought out of Egypt, ſuch change of numbers being very common in the Hebrew language. The ſence is, Iſrael is not now what he was in Egypt, a poor, weak, diſpirited, unarmed people, but high and ſtrong, and invincible. r Whoſe great ſtrength and fierceneſs is celebrated in Scripture, Numb. 24. 8. Deut. 33. 17. Job 39. 9. Pſal. 22. 21. & 92. 10. But whether it be an Unicorn, or a Rhinoceros, or a ſtrong and fierce kind of wild goat, which is here called reem, it is not needful here to determine.

23 Surely there is no inchantment ‖ againſt Jacob, neither is there any divination againſt Iſrael: according to this time t it ſhall be ſaid of Jacob, and of Iſrael, What hath God wrought u?

s I find by experience and ſerious conſideration that all mine and thine endeavours to enchant Iſrael are in vain, being fruſtrated by their omnipotent God. I can do thee no ſervice by my art againſt them. t Not only in ſucceeding times and ages of which he ſpeaks, chap. 24. 17, &c. but even now, in this time and age, and forward. u (i. e.) How wonderful and glorious are thoſe works which God is now about to do for Iſrael, by drying up Jordan, ſubduing the Canaanites, &c. Theſe things will be matter of courſe and admiration to all ages.

24 Behold, the people ſhall riſe up x as * a great lion, and lift up himſelf as a young lion: he ſhall not lie down y, until he eat of the prey and drink the blood of the ſlain.

x As a lion rowzeth up himſelf to fight, or to go out to the prey, ſo ſhall Iſrael ſtir up themſelves to warlike attempts againſt all their enemies, as occaſion ſhall offer it ſelf. y (i. e.) Not reſt or ceaſe from fighting and purſuing.

25 And Balak ſaid unto Balaam, Neither curſe them at all, nor bleſs them at all.

26 But Balaam anſwered and ſaid unto Balak, Told I not thee, ſaying, all that the LORD ſpeaketh, that I muſt do?

27 And Balak ſaid unto Balaam, Come, I pray thee, I will bring thee unto another place: peradventure it will pleaſe God, that thou mayeſt curſe me them from thence.

28 And Balak brought Balaam unto the top of Peor z, that looketh toward Jeſhimon.

z An high place called Beth-Peor. Deut. 3 29. i. e. the houſe or temple of Peor, becauſe there they worſhipped Baal-peor.

29 And Balaam ſaid unto Balak, Build me here ſeven altars, and prepare me here ſeven bullocks and ſeven rams.

30 And Balak did as Balaam had ſaid, and offered a bullock and a ram on every altar.

CHAP. XXIV.

Balaam lays aſide his ſorceries, and the Spirit of God comes upon him: his Eyes are open: Hears the words of God; and ſees the Viſion of the Almighty, 1——4. Propheſies of Iſraels proſperity, 5——9. Balak is Angry: commands him to flye: his Anſwer, 10——14. He propheſies of the Meſſias the King, and of the deſtruction of the Nations, 15——24. He returns to his place; and Balak goes his way, 25.

1 AND when Balaam ſaw that it pleaſed the LORD to bleſs Iſrael, he went not as at * other times, † to ſeek for inchantments a; but he ſet his face toward the wilderneſs b.

* chap. 23. 3, 15.
† Heb. to the meeting of inchantments.

a (i. e.) To uſe enchantments, which he is ſaid to have done, either becauſe when he conſulted and ſacrificed to God, he did alſo uſe enchantments and conſult with the Devil, that if one would not, the other might help him; or, becauſe he conſulted God in a magical & ſuperſtitious way, by uſing ſuch poſtures or inſtruments or forms of words as inchanters uſed. b Where Iſrael lay encamped, either with intent to curſe Iſrael without Gods leave: or rather, expecting what God of his own accord would ſuggeſt to him concerning this matter.

2 And Balaam lift up his eyes, and he ſaw Iſrael abiding in his tents, according to their tribes c: and the ſpirit of God came upon him d.

c In the order appointed Numb. 2. d (i. e.) Inſpired him to ſpeak the following words, and ſo conſtrained him again to bleſs thoſe whom he deſired to curſe.

*chap. 23. 7, 18. †Heb. who had his eyes ſhut, but now open. 3 * And he took up his parable, and ſaid, Balaam the ſon of Beor hath ſaid, and the man † whoſe eyes are open e, hath ſaid ;

e The eyes, either 1. of his body, as in the following verſe: or 2. of his mind, which God had opened in a peculiar and prophetical manner, whence Prophets are called Seers, 1 Sam. 9. 9.. He implies that before he was blind and ſtupid, having eyes, but not ſeeing nor underſtanding. Some render the words, having his eyes ſhut, as the Hebrew verb Satham ſignifies, the letters Schin and Samech being frequently exchanged ; and ſo the meaning is, that he received this revelation either in a dream, when mens eyes are ſimply ſhut ; or in an extaſie or trance, when mens eyes, though open, are in a manner ſhut, to wit, as to the uſe and exerciſe of them.

4 He hath ſaid, which heard the words of God, which ſaw the viſion f of the Almighty, falling into a trance g, but having his eyes open:

f So called either ſtrictly and properly, beauſe he was awake when this was revealed to him : or largely and improperly, for any extraordinary diſcovery of Gods mind to him, whether ſleeping or waking. g Or, extaſy, fainting and falling upon the ground, as the Prophets uſed to do. See 1 Sam. 19. 24. Ezek. 1. 28. and 3. 23. and 43. 3. Dan 8. 17. 18. and 10. 16. Rev. 1. 17. Others, falling ſuddenly into a ſleep, as the Prophets ſometimes did, as Gen. 15. 12. Dan. 8. 18.

5 How goodly are thy tents, O Jacob, and thy tabernacles, O Iſrael ?

6 As the valleys h are they i ſpread forth, as gardens by the rivers ſide k, as the trees of lign-aloes l which the LORD hath planted m, and as cedar-trees n beſide the waters o.

h Which oft-times from a ſmall beginning are ſpread forth far and wide. Others, as the brooks, or rivers, as the word ſignifies, which ſtretch out and diſperſe their waters into ſeveral channels, and ſometimes further. i (i. e.) The Iſraelites laſt mentioned. k Pleaſant and fruitful and ſecured by a fence. l An Arabian and Indian tree of a ſweet ſmell, yeilding good ſhade and ſhelter both to man and beaſt ; ſuch is Iſrael, famous among the nations, and not only ſafe themſelves, but yeilding ſhelter to all that joyn themſelves to them. m Which are the beſt of the kind ; ſuch as not man but God might ſeem to have planted, as the beſt of all ſorts are aſcribed to God, as the trees, hills, cities, of God, &c. Compare Pſal. 104. 16. n Which are famous for growth and height and ſtrength and durableneſs, whence Solomons Temple was built of this wood, 1 King. 6. 9, 10. o Where trees thrive beſt.

* Deut. 8. 7. 7 He ſhall pour the water out of his buckets p, and his ſeed ſhall be in many * waters q, and his king r ſhall be higher than Agag s, and his kingdom ſhall be exalted.

p He (i. e.) God, will abundantly water the valleys, gardens and trees, which repreſent the Iſraelites, ver. 6. i. e. he will wonderfully bleſs his people, not only with outward bleſſings, of which a chief one in thoſe parts was plenty of water, but alſo with higher gifts and graces, with his word and ſpirit, which are often ſignified by waters, Joh. 3. 5. & 4. 10. & 7. 38, 39. and at laſt with eternal life, the contemplation whereof made Balaam deſire to die the death of the righteous. Others thus, God ſhall make his poſterity numerous : for the procreation of Children is oft ſignified by waters, fountains, ciſterns, &c. as Pſal. 68. 26. Prov. 5. 15, 18. & 9. 17. Iſa. 48. 1. But there is no neceſſity of flying to Metaphors here, and therefore the other being the literal and proper ſenſe, is by the laws of good interpretation to be preferred before it. q This alſo may be literally underſtood of their ſeed, which ſhall be ſown in wateriſh ground, and therefore bring forth a better encreaſe, Iſa. 32. 20. Others thus, His ſeed ſhall be ſo numerous, that it ſhall branch forth into many people, the ſeveral tribes being reckoned and ſometimes called ſeveral people. Or, his ſeed ſhall rule over many people or nations, which are ſometimes ſignified by many waters, as Pſal. 144. 7. Iſa. 57. 20. Jer. 47. 2. Rev. 17. 15. But here alſo the literal ſenſe ſeems beſt. r (i. e.) The King of Iſrael, either God, who was in a peculiar manner their King or Ruler, Numb. 23. 21. Judg. 6. 13. 1 Sam. 8. 7. Iſa. 33. 22. or their chief Governour or Governours, whether King or others : for Moſes is called their king, Deut. 33. 5. and the Judges were in a manner Kings. s (i. e.) Than the King of the Amalekites, which King and people were famous and potent in that age, ver. 20. as may be gueſſed by their bold attempt upon ſo numerous a people as Iſrael was. And it is probably thought by the Jewiſh and other Interpreters, that Agag was the common name of the Amalekitiſh Kings, as Abimelech was of the Philiſtines, and Pharaoh of the Egyptians, and Cæſar of the Romans. But though this King only be inſtanced in, yet other Kings, to wit, ſuch as did or ſhould border upon the Iſraelites, are doubtleſs to be underſtood, above whom the Kings and People of Iſrael ſometimes were advanced, and oftener ſhould have been, if they had not been their own hindrance by their ſins. Some make this a prophecy of Saul's conquering Agag and his people, 1 Sam. 15. 7, 8. But the words ſeem to be more general and to ſignifie a greater honour and advantage to Iſrael than that was.

*chap. 23. 22. 8 * God brought him forth out of Egypt, he hath as it were the ſtrength of an unicorn: he ſhall eat up the nations his enemies, and ſhall break s their bones, and pierce them through with his arrows.

s Or, unbone, or, take out, i. e. ſhall eat the fleſh to the very bones, and then break them alſo.

*Gen. 49. 9 *Gen. 12. 3 & 27. 29. 9 * He couched, he lay down t as a lion, and as a great lion : who ſhall ſtir him up u? * Bleſſed is he that bleſſeth thee, and curſed is he that curſeth thee.

t Having conquered his enemies the Canaanites, and their land he ſhall quietly and ſecurely reſt and ſettle himſelf their. u (i. e.) Awake or provoke him

10 And Balaks anger was kindled againſt Balaam, and he ſmote his hands together x: and Balak ſaid unto Balaam, I called thee to curſe mine enemies, and behold, thou haſt altogether bleſſed them theſe three times.

x A ſign of great anger, Ezek. 21. 17. and 22. 13.

11. Therefore now, flee thou to thy place y: I thought to promote thee unto great honour, but lo, the LORD z hath kept thee back from honour.

y Whence I ſent for thee, Numb. 22. 5. z Whoſe commands thou haſt preferred before my deſires and intereſt ; and therefore ſeek thy recompence from him, and not from me.

12 And Balaam ſaid unto Balak, Spake I not alſo to thy meſſengers which thou ſenteſt unto me, ſaying, 13 * If Balak would give me his houſe full of ſilver and gold, I cannot go beyond the commandment of the LORD, to do either good or bad † of mine own mind ; but what the LORD ſaith that will I ſpeak.

14 And now behold, I go unto my people: come therefore, and * I will advertiſe thee a what this people ſhall do to thy people in the latter days b.

a Or, inform thee, to wit, concerning future things, as it here follows, for this word ſeems inſeparably joyned with the following. Others, give thee counſel, and tell thee what this people, &c. So it is a ſhort and defective ſpeech, ſuch as we have, Exod. 4. 5. and 13. 8. And by counſel they underſtand that which is related, Numb. 25. 1, 2. which was done by Balaam's counſel, Numb. 31. 16. Revel. 2. 14. But the former ſenſe is more unforced and agreeable to the following words, as they ly. b Not in thy time, therefore thou haſt no reaſon to fear, but in ſucceeding ages, as 2 Sam. 8. 2. &c.

15 And he took up his parable, and ſaid, Balaam the ſon of Beor hath ſaid, and the man whoſe eyes were open hath ſaid:

16 He hath ſaid, which heard the words of God, and knew the knowledge of the moſt High, which ſaw the viſion of the Almighty, falling into a trance, but having his eyes open:

17 I ſhall c ſee him d but not now e : I ſhall behold him, but not nigh: there ſhall come a * ſtar f out of Jacob, and a ſcepter g ſhall riſe out of Iſrael, and ſhall ‖ ſmite the corners h of Moab, and deſtroy all the children of Sheth i.

c Or, I have ſeen, or do ſee, for the future is oft put for other times or tenſes : he ſpeaks of a prophetical ſight, like that of Abraham's, who ſaw Chriſt's day, Joh. 8. 56. d To wit, the ſtar, and ſcepter as it here follows, i. e. a great and eminent Prince, which was to come out of Iſrael's loyns, either 1. David, who firſt did the things here ſpoken of, 2 Sam. 8. 2. Pſal. 60. 8. and 108. 9. and ſome of the Kings of Judah and Iſrael after him, for it is not neceſſarily underſtood of one particular perſon : or 2. the Meſſias, as both Jewiſh and Chriſtian Interpreters expound it, who moſt eminently and fully performed what is here ſaid, in deſtroying the enemies of Iſrael or of God's Church, who are here deſcribed under the names of the neareſt and fierceſt enemies of Iſrael : which he doth partly by himſelf, by his word and ſpirit, and ſpiritual plagues; and partly by his miniſters, thoſe princes whom he makes nurſing fathers to his Church, and ſcourges to his Enemies. And to him alone agrees the foregoing verb properly, I ſhall ſee him, to wit, in my own perſon, or with the eyes of my own body, as every eye ſhall ſee him, Rev. 1. 7. when he comes to judgment. Nor can it ſeem ſtrange that Balaam ſhould ſpeak of ſuch high and remote things, ſeeing he foreſaw and foretold theſe things by the revelation of the ſpirit of God, by which alſo he foreſaw the great felicity of good men, and the miſerable ſtate of bad men after death and judgment, Numb. 23. 10. e Not yet, but after many ages. f A title oft given to Princes and eminent and illuſtrious perſons, and particularly to the Meſſias, Rev. 2. 28. and 22. 16. g (i. e.) A ſcepter-bearer, a king or ruler, even that ſcepter mentioned Gen. 49. 10. h Either 1 literally, the borders, which by a Synecdoche are oft uſed in Scripture for the whole country to which they belong, as Exod. 8. 2. Pſal. 74. 17. and 147. 14. Jer. 15. 13. and 17. 3. Or 2. metaphorically, to wit, princes and rulers, who are ſometimes compared to corners, as Zach. 10 4. and Chriſt himſelf is called a corner-ſtone, becauſe he unites and ſupports the building. But I prefer the former ſenſe. i Which ſeems to be the name of ſome then eminent, though now unknown, place or prince in Moab, where there were many princes, as appears from Numb. 23. 6. Amos 2. 3. there being innumerable inſtances of ſuch places or perſons ſometimes famous, but now utterly loſt as to all monuments and remembrances of them.

18 And * Edom ſhall be a poſſeſſion d, Seir e alſo ſhall be a poſſeſſion for his Enemies f, and Iſrael ſhall do valiantly g :

d Which was alſo foretold, Gen. 25. 23. and in part fulfilled, 2 Sam. 8. 14. 1 Chron. 18. 13. but more fully by Chriſt, Amos 9. 12. Obad. ver. 18. who ſhall ſubdue and poſſeſs all his enemies ; here ſignified by the name of Edom, as Jacob or Iſrael, his brother, ſignifies all his Church and people. e A part and mountain of Edom, Gen. 36. 8. which may be here mentioned as the ſtrongeſt part of Edom, to ſhew that not only the reſt of Edom, which is more acceſſible, but even the rocks and beſt munitions of it, ſhall be taken. f The Iſraelites. g Or, gain power, or riches, or victory, all which are comprehended in this phraſe.

19 Out of Jacob h ſhall come he that ſhall have dominion i, and ſhall deſtroy him that remaineth of the city k.

h Out of Jacob's loyns. i David, and eſpecially Chriſt. k Or, from or out of this city, i. e. the cities, the ſingular number for the plural, which hath been oft noted before. The ſence is, He ſhall not only ſubdue thoſe Moabites and Edomites which meet him in the field, but he ſhall purſue them even to their ſtrongeſt holds and cities, and ſhall pull them out thence. Poſſibly he may note ſome eminent city in which they confided moſt, their Metropolis or royal city as may be gueſſed from Pſal. 60. 9.

20 And when he looked l on Amalek, he took up his parable, and ſaid, Amalek was ‖ the firſt m of the nations, but his latter end ‖ ſhall be that he periſh for ever n.

l From the top of Piſgah, which was exceeding high, and gave him the proſpect of parts of all theſe kingdoms. m Heb. the firſt fruits; ſo called either, 1. becauſe they were the firſt of all the neighboring nations which were embodied together in one government: or, 2. becauſe they were the moſt powerful and eminent of them, as is implied above, ver. 7. the beſt things in each kind being oft ſignified by the name of firſt-fruits. Or, 3. becauſe he was the firſt who fought againſt Iſrael and was vanquiſhed by them, in that famous battel Exod. 17. which victory was an earneſt and firſt-fruits of that large harveſt of victories which the Iſraelites ſhould in due time get over all their enemies, and among others, over Amalek himſelf, 1 Sam. 15: 3. n He began with God and with Iſrael, but God will end with him, and the firm purpoſe and will of God is, that he ſhall be utterly deſtroyed, Exod. 17. 14. ſo that Saul loſt his kingdom for not executing this decree and God's command purſuant thereunto, 1 Sam. 15.

21 And he looked on * the Kenite o, and took up his parable, and ſaid, Strong is thy dwelling-place, and thou putteſt thy neſt p in a rock:

* 1 Sam. 15. 6.

o The poſterity or kindred of Jethro; not that part of them which dwelt among the Iſraelites, to whom the following words do not agree, but thoſe of them who were mingled with the Amalekites and Midianites. See Exod. 3. 1. Judg. 1. 16. & 4. 11. 1 Sam. 15. 6. p (i.e.) Thy dwelling-place, ſo called, either becauſe it was in an high place, as neſts commonly are: or from their ſecurity and confidence of continuing long and ſafe in it: See Job 29. 18. or in alluſion to their name, for ken in Hebrew ſignifies a neſt.

q Heb. Kain, i. e. the Kenite, ſo called, either by a tranſpoſition of letters, which is very uſual in the Hebrew tongue: or from the name of ſome eminent place where they lived, or perſon from whom they were deſcended, though now the memory of them be utterly loſt, as it hath fared with innumerable other places and perſons famous in their generations mentioned in ancient heathen writers. r (i. e) Shall be by degrees diminiſhed and waſted by the incurſions of divers enemies, till at laſt the Aſſyrian comes to compleat the work and carries them into captivity. For the Kenites lived partly among the ten tribes, Joſ. 19. 33. compared with Judg. 4. 11. and partly with the two tribes, Judg. 1. 16. & 4. 16, 17. and were carried captive with them, part by Salmaneſer, the king of Aſſyria, 2 King. 17. 6. and part by Nebuchadnezzar, who alſo is called an Aſſyrian, Ezra 6. 22. Iſa. 52. 4. The words may be rendred thus, ſhall be waſted. How long? to wit, ſhall they be thus waſted? (theſe particles being oft uſed abruptly and pathetically in the ſame manner, Pſal. 6. 3. & 90. 13. Iſa. 6. 11.) till Aſhur comes, Aſhur ſhall carry thee away captive.

23 And he took up his parable, and ſaid, Alas? who ſhall live s when God doth this?

s How calamitous and miſerable will the ſtate of the World be, when the Aſſyrian, and after him the Chaldean, ſhall over-run and over-turn all theſe parts of the World? who will be able to live and keep his heart from fainting under ſuch grievous preſſures? how few will then eſcape the deſtroying ſword?

24 And ſhips ſhall come from the coaſt of Chittim t, and ſhall afflict Aſhur, and ſhall afflict Eber u, and he alſo x ſhall periſh for ever.

t A place or people ſo called from Chittim the ſon of Javan, Gen. 10. 4. whoſe poſterity were very numerous, and were firſt ſeated in the leſſer Aſia, and from thence ſent forth colonies into the iſlands of the Ægean ſea, and into Cyprus, and afterwards into Macedonia and other parts of Greece, and then into Italy. Whence it comes to paſs that by this name is underſtood ſometimes Macedonia, as appears from 1 Macc. 1. 1. and 1 Macc. 8. 5. and ſometimes Italy, as is manifeſt, from Dan. 11. 29, 30. and ſometimes both, as in this place: for he ſpeaks here of the ſcourge that God hath appointed for the Aſſyrian after he had done God's work in puniſhing of his people and the bordering nations. Now although the Aſſyrian and Chaldean empire was ſubdued by the Medes and Perſians, yet the chief afflictions and calamities of that people came from two hands, both beyond the ſea and brought to them by ſhips, as is here expreſſed; firſt from the Grecians under Alexander and his ſucceſſors, by whom that people were grievouſly oppreſſed and waſted; then from the Romans, who ſubdued all the Grecian empire, one great part whereof were the Aſſyrians largely ſo called, and after many bloody wars made them a colony. u (i. e.) The poſterity of Eber, Gen. 10. 24. the Hebrews, who were the chief and flower of Ebers children, and therefore are here deſigned by that general name, ſuch general expreſſions being oft uſed concerning one particular and the moſt eminent of its kind. And it pleaſed God to expreſs it thus darkly here, becauſe though he would foretel this for the comfort and inſtruction of his people in after ages, yet he would not have Balak, nor Balaam neither, underſtand or utter any thing which might ſeem to thwart that happy eſtate of Iſrael, which Balaam clearly ſaw and openly applauded. x Not the Hebrews, as ſome underſtand, for his affliction was now mentioned before, and other Scriptures tell us they ſhall have a better end, and that all Iſrael ſhall be ſaved, and therefore not periſh for ever, but the afflicter or ſcourge of Aſher and Eber, to wit, the Grecian and Roman Empire.

25 And Balaam roſe up, and went, and returned to his place y: and Balak alſo went his way.

y (i.e.) To Meſopotamia. Obj. He went only to Midian, where he was ſlain, Numb. 31. 8. Anſw. 1. He is ſaid to return home, becauſe he intended and began to do ſo, tho' he was diverted by the Midianites: for men in Scripture are oft ſaid to do what they deſign or attempt to do, as Exod. 8. 18. Numb. 14. 40. Anſw. 2. He did go home firſt, tho' afterwards he returned to the Midianites, either becauſe they ſent for him, or to recover his loſt credit, and to do that by policy which he could not do by charms, to which purpoſe he gave them that deviliſh counſel which was put in practice, Numb. 25. and that by his advice, Num. 31. 16. Rev. 2. 14.

CHAP. XXV.

The Iſraelites Whoredom and Idolatry: God commands the guilty to be put to death, 1—5. A Plague: Phinehas his zeal; for which God promiſes him the Prieſthood, 6—15. God commands the Midianites to be ſlain for this their Treachery in drawing the People to ſin, 16—18.

1 AND Iſrael abode in * Shittim a, and the people b began to commit whoredom c with the daughters of Moab d.

* ch. 33. 49.

a A place called more largely, Abel-Shittim, Numb. 33. 49. it being uſual with the Hebrews to abbreviate long proper names, as Hermon is put for Baal-hermon, Judg. 3. 3. Tholad for El-tholad, Joſ. 19. 4. Nimrim, Iſa. 15. 6. for Beth-nimrim, Numb. 32. 36. And this was their laſt ſtation, from whence they paſſed immediately into Canaan. So this is here noted as a great aggravation of their ſin, that they committed it, when God was going to put them into the poſſeſſion of their long-expected and much-deſired land. b Not all, but many of them, as appears from Deut. 4. 3, 4. 1 Cor. 10. 8. c Both corporally and ſpiritually, either becauſe they proſtituted themſelves to them upon condition of worſhipping their God: or becauſe their filthy God was worſhipped by ſuch filthy acts, as Priapus and Venus were. d And of Midian too, as is evident from ver. 6 17, 18. and Numb. 31. 16. for both theſe people being confederated in this wicked deſign, the one is put for the other, and the daughters of Moab may be named, either becauſe they began the tranſgreſſion, or becauſe they were the chief perſons, poſſibly, the relations or courtiers of Balak king of Moab.

2 And * they called e the people unto the ſacrifices e of their gods f: and the people did eat, and bowed down g to their gods h:

* Joſh. 22. 17. Pſal. 106. 28. Hoſ. 9. 10.

e This may be noted, either 1. as the conſequent of their whoredom, an invitation to further ſociety in their ſacred feaſts; or rather 2. as the cauſe or occaſion of their whoredom, the Hebrew vau here ſignifying for, as it oft doth. The Moabites being now neighbours to the Iſraelites, and finding themſelves unable to effect their deſign againſt Iſrael by war and witchcraft, they now fell another way to work, by contracting familiarity with them, and, perceiving their evil and luſtful inclinations, they, i. e. their daughters, laſt mentioned, invited them to their feaſts. e (i.e.) Unto the feaſts which were made of their parts of their ſacrifices, after the manner of the Jews and Gentiles too, the participation whereof, was reckoned a participation in the worſhip of that God to whom the ſacrifices were offered, 1 Cor. 10. 8. and therefore was forbidden to the Iſraelites when ſuch feaſts and ſacrifices belonged to a falſe God, Exod. 34. 15. Yet this was a leſs and more modeſt kind of Idolatry, and therefore is fitly uſed to uſher in what was more groſs and impious. f (i.e.) Of their God, Baal-peor, the plural Elohim being here uſed, as commonly it is, for one God. g Which properly notes the outward act of worſhip, which here conſiſting in, or being accompanied with filthy actions, may either ſignifie or connote them. h Before their Gods, or, to the honour and worſhip of their Gods.

3 And Iſrael joyned himſelf i unto Baal-peor k: and the anger of the LORD was kindled l againſt Iſrael.

i The word implies a forſaking of God to whom they were and ſhould have been joyned, and a turning to, embracing of, ſtrict conjunction with, and fervent affection after, this falſe God. Compare Hoſ. 9. 10. and 2 Cor. 6. 14. k Called Baal, by the name common to many falſe Gods, and eſpecially to thoſe that repreſented any of the heavenly bodies, and Peor, either from the hill Peor, where he was worſhipped, Numb. 23. 28. or rather from a verb ſignifying to open and uncover, either becauſe of the obſcene poſture in which poſſibly the Idol was ſet, as Priapus was: or becauſe of the filthineſs which was exerciſed in his worſhip. l (i.e.) Diſcovered it ſelf in a dreadful plague, Pſal. 106. 29.

4 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, * Take all the heads of the people, and hang them up m before the LORD n againſt the ſun o, that the fierce anger of the LORD may be turned away from Iſrael.

* Deut. 4. 3 Joſ. 22. 17.

m The ſenſe is, either 1. Take, to wit, to thy ſelf and thy aſſiſtance, all the heads, i. e. the Judges, as they are called ver. 5. Or Rulers, of the People, and in their preſence, and by their help, hang them, i. e. the people, now mentioned, to wit, ſuch of them as were guilty, as was ſaid ver. 2. And this ſenſe ſeems to be favoured by the next verſe, where the execution of this command is mentioned, Moſes ſaid unto the Judges of Iſrael, whom he had taken to himſelf and called together, Slay ye every one his man, i. e. Each of you execute this command of God, and hang up the delinquents under your ſeveral juriſdictions. Or 2. Take, i. e. apprehend, all the heads, i. e. the chief, of the people, ſuch as were chief, either in this tranſgreſſion, or rather in place and power, who are ſingled out to this exemplary puniſhment either for their neglect in not preventing, reſtraining or puniſhing the offenders according to their power and duty, or for their concurrence with others in this wickedneſs, which was more odious and miſchievous in them than in others. And then this muſt be neceſſarily limited to ſuch heads as were guilty, which is evident from the nature of the thing, and from the words of the verſe. And ſo theſe heads of the people differ as in name and title, ſo in place and dignity from the Judges of the people, ver. 5. which may ſeem to note the ſuperior Magiſtrates, even the 70 Elders, which, being perſons of great worth and piety, choſen by God, and endowed with his ſpirit, moſt probably kept themſelves from this contagion,and therefore were fitter to puniſh others ; and the heads of the People, ſeem to be the inferior Magiſtrates, the rulers of tens or hundreds, or the like, who as they did many of them, partake with the people in other rebellions, ſo probably were involved in this guilt. Now theſe are to be hanged up as other malefactors, and condemned perſons were, Deut. 21. 23. 2 Sam. 21. 6. n To the vindication of God's honour and juſtice. o (i. e.) Publickly, as their ſin was publick and ſcandalous, and ſpeedily before the Sun go down. But withal this phraſe may ſignifie,that theſe alſo muſt be taken down about Sun-ſetting, as other malefactors were, Deut. 21. 23.

*Exod.32. 27.

5 And Moſes ſaid unto the judges of Iſrael, * ſlay ye every one his men p that were joined unto Baal-Peor.

p (i.e.) Thoſe under his charge: for as theſe 70 were choſen to aſſiſt Moſes in the government, ſo doubtleſs the care and management of the people was diſtributed among them by juſt and equal proportions.

6 And behold q one of the children of Iſrael came, and brought into his brethren r a Midianitiſh woman,in the ſight of Moſes s, and in the ſight of all the congregation t of the children of Iſrael, who were weeping u before the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

q This was done, either 1. Before God's command to Moſes,and by him to the Judges, ver. 4, 5. ſuch tranſpoſitions and diſorders being not unuſual in ſacred ſtory. Or rather, 2. In the order it is related, to wit, when Moſes had given the charge to the Judges, and, as it may ſeem, before the execution of it, otherwiſe it is probable he would not have been ſo bold and fooliſh to have run upon preſent and certain ruin, when the examples were freſh and frequent before his eyes. r (i. e.) Into the camp of the Iſraelites, or to his Friends and Relations in his tent,whither he carried her,ver. 8. for his or their fleſhly ſatisfaction. s An argument of intolerable impudence and contempt of God and of Moſes. t (i.e.) The rulers of the congregation with divers of the people. u Bewailing the abominable wickedneſs of the people, and the dreadful judgments of God, and imploring God's mercy and favour.

*Pſal.106. 30.
*Exod. 6. 25.
‖ Or, brothel.

7 And * when Phinehas the * ſon of Eleazar, the ſon of Aaron the prieſt, ſaw it, he roſe up from amongſt the congregation, and took a javelin in his hand,

8 And he went after the man of Iſrael into the ‖ tent x, and thruſt both of them through y, the man of Iſrael and the woman through her belly z: ſo the plague a was ſtayed from the children of Iſrael.

x Or, Brothel-houſe : For ſince they gave way to ſuch lewd practices,no doubt they ſingled out convenient places for their wickedneſs. y Which is no warrant for private perſons to take upon them the execution of juſtice upon any, though the greateſt malefactors, becauſe Phinehas was himſelf a man in great authority and power, and did this after the command given by Moſes to the rulers to ſlay theſe tranſgreſſors, and in the very ſight, and no doubt, by the conſent of Moſes himſelf, and alſo by the ſpecial inſtinct and direction of God's ſpirit. z Or in her brothel-houſe, for the word is the ſame before uſed, and tranſlated tent, and it may be called hers, becauſe ſhe choſe or uſed that place for her wicked purpoſes, as the reſt doubtleſs did other places of like nature. a Either the peſtilence, or ſome other ſudden and grievous mortality.

9 And * thoſe that died in the plague, were twenty and four thouſand b.

b Object. They were but 23000. 1 Cor. 10. 8. Anſw. The odd thouſand here added were ſlain by the Judges according to the order of Moſes, the reſt by the immediate hand of God, but both ſorts died of the plague, the word being uſed, as oft it is, for the ſword, or hand, or ſtroke of God.

*Pſal.106. 30.

11 * Phinehas the ſon of Eleazar, the ſon of Aaron the prieſt hath turned my wrath away from the children of Iſrael, (while he was zealous c for my ſake d among them) that I conſumed not the children of Iſrael in my jealouſie.

c Fervent and reſolute and valiant. d For my ſatisfaction and vindication.

12 Wherefore ſay, Behold, I give unto him my covenant of peace e.

e (i.e.) The covenant of an everlaſting prieſthood, as it is expounded, v. 13. which is called a covenant of peace, partly with reſpect to the happy effect of this heroical action of his, whereby he made peace between God and his people ; and partly with regard to the principal end and uſe of the Prieſtly office, which was conſtantly to do that which Phinehas now did, even to mediate between God and Men, to obtain and preſerve his own and Iſrael's peace and reconciliation with God, by offering up ſacrifices and incenſe, and prayers, to God on their behalf, Numb. 16. 47, 48. as alſo by turning them away from iniquity, which is the only peace-breaker,and by teaching and preſſing the obſervation of that Law,which is the only bond of their peace, Mal. 2. 5, 6, 7.

13 And he ſhall have it, and his ſeed after him f,even the covenant of an everlaſting prieſthood g, becauſe he was zealous for his God, and made an atonement for the children of Iſrael.

f Queſt. What advantage had he by this promiſe,ſeeing the thing here promiſed was due to him by birth? Anſw. 1. The ſame bleſſing may be oft-times promiſed, as the Kingdom was to David ; and the renewing of this promiſe might ſeem convenient here, to ſignifie that bloodſhed was ſo far from polluting him, and thereby caſting him out of the Prieſthood, that it was a mean to confirm him in it. 2. This promiſe ſecured him and his againſt divers contingences, which otherwiſe might have befallen him or them, as that he ſhould live longer than his father, elſe he could not have been the High-prieſt ; that he ſhould be preſerved from thoſe blemiſhes which might have rendred him uncapable of the Prieſthood, which were many ; that he ſhould have a ſeed,and they ſuch as were fit for that office. g (i.e.) To continue as long as the Law and Commonwealth of the Jews did. Queſt. How was this verified,ſeeing the Prieſthood went from Eleazar's to Ithamar's line in Eli and three or four of his Succeſſors? Anſw. 1. This promiſe, as others of the like nature, was conditional, and therefore might be made void and of none effect, by the miſcarriages of Phinehas his ſons, as it ſeems it was, and thereupon a like promiſe was made to Eli of the line of Ithamar, that he and his ſhould walk before the Lord,to wit,in the office of High-prieſt, for ever, which alſo for his and their ſins was made void,1 *Sam.*2.30. Anſw. 2. That was but a ſhort interruption, and not conſiderable in ſo long a ſucceſſion, for the Prieſthood returned to Phinehas his line in the time of Solomon,1 *King.*2.26,27,34. 1 *Chron.*24.3. and continued in that line till the captivity of Babylon, as is evident, and afterward too, 1 Chron 6.4. Ezra 7.1,5. even until Chriſt's time, for any thing which appears to the contrary.

14 Now the name of the Iſraelite that was ſlain, even that was ſlain with the Midianitiſh woman, was Zimri the ſon of Salu,a prince h of † a chief houſe i among the Simeonites k.

h This is added as a proof of Phinehas his zeal that he durſt venture upon ſo great a perſon,who was likely to have many avengers of his blood. i Heb. Of the houſe of his Father. Every Tribe was divided into great Houſholds called the houſes of their Fathers, *Numb.*1. 2. and he was the Prince or chief of one of theſe,though not of the whole Tribe. k Of the Tribe of Simeon, which ſeems to have been too much influenced by his and other ſuch examples, ſo that for 59300. which were numbred, Numb. 1. 22, 23. there were now only 22200. Numb. 26. 14.

15 And the name of the Midianitiſh woman that was ſlain, was Cozbi the daughter of Zur l ; he was head over a people, and of a chief houſe m in Midian.

l One of the Kings or Princes of Midian, *Numb.*31.8. Joſ. 13.21. m Or, and over her fathers houſe.

17 * Vex the Midianites n and ſmite them o.

n And why not the Moabites, who were as guilty,*ver.*1. Anſw. 1. Becauſe God will reſerve to himſelf a liberty of puniſhing or ſparing, according to his own good pleaſure. 2 God had a kindneſs for the Moabites for Lot's ſake,*Deut.*2.9. 3. God puniſhed the Moabites in another manner, partly by his own immediate hand, whereby it is probable he cut off thoſe Moabitiſh women that were guilty of this fact,partly by a particular and dreadful kind of excommunication,*Deut.*23.3 and partly by impunity, which in its conſequences is commonly worſe and more pernicious than any or all temporal puniſhments, which none that believes the Bible can deny. 4. It is probable the Midianites were moſt guilty, as in perſwading Balak to ſend for Balaam, as may be gathered from Numb. 22.4,7. So in the reception of Balaam after Balak had diſmiſſed him, *Numb.*31.8. and in further conſultation with him, and in contriving the means for the executing of this wicked plot. o (i. e.) Kill them : in which words as there is a command to war againſt them, ſo there is a promiſe of ſucceſs.

18 For they vex you with their wiles p, wherewith they have beguiled you in the matter of Peor, and in the matter of Cozbi q, the daughter of a prince of Midian, their ſiſter r, which was ſlain in the day of the plague for Peors ſake.

p For under pretence of Kindred and Friendſhip and Leagues, yea and Marriages, which they offered to them, inſtead of that War which the Iſraelites expected from them, they ſought only an opportunity to inſinuate themſelves into their familiarity, and execute their helliſh plot of bringing that curſe upon the Iſraelites, which they had in vain attempted to bring another way. q By drawing you both to ſpiritual and corporal whoredom. r In a large ſenſe, to wit, their Country woman.

CHAP. XXVI.

Iſrael numbred: ſuch as were fit for War: of every Tribe: Levi excepted: their Number, 1——51. The Land to be diſtributed according to their Number, 52——56. The Levites numbred by themſelves, becauſe they had no Inheritance, 57——62. All that were numbred by Moſes and Aaron at Sinai, ſave only Caleb and Joſhua, died in the Wilderneſs, 63——65.

1 AND it came to paſs after the plague a that the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, and unto Eleazar b the ſon of Aaron the prieſt, ſaying, a Laſt mentioned, chap. 25. 8, 9. b Who, his father being dead, was High-prieſt.

2 Take the ſum c of all the congregation of the children of Iſrael * from twenty years old and upward, throughout their fathers houſe, all that are able to go to war in Iſrael.

c They were numbred twice before, Exod. 30. 11,12. and Numb. 1.1,2. Now they are numbred a third time, partly to demonſtrate the faithfulneſs of God, both in cutting all thoſe off whom he had threatned to cut off,*Numb.*14.29. and in a ſtupendious increaſe and multiplication of the people according to his promiſe, notwithſtanding all their ſins, and the ſweeping judgments inflicted upon them ; and partly to prepare the way for the equal diviſion of the Land which they were now going to poſſeſs.

d See Numb. 22. 1. & 33. 48. e See Numb. 22. 1.

4 Take the ſum of the people f, from twenty years old and upward as the LORD * commanded Moſes, and the children of Iſrael which went forth out of the land of Egypt.

f Which words are eaſily ſupplied and neceſſarily to be underſtood from ver. 2.

* Gen.46. 8. Exod.6. 14. 1 Chro. 5. 1. 5 * Reuben the eldeſt ſon of Iſrael: the children of Reuben; Hanock, of whom cometh the family of the Hanochite: of Pallu, the family of the Palluite:

6 Of Heſron, the family of the Heſronite: of Carmi, the family of the Carmite.

7 Theſe are the families g of the Reubenite: and they that were numbred of them, were forty and three thouſand and ſeven hundred and thirty h

g (i. e.) The chief houſes, which were ſubdivided into divers leſſer families. h Whereas in their laſt numbring they were 46500, Numb. 1. 21. for Korah's conſpiracy, as well as other provocations of theirs had cut off many of them.

8 And the ſons i of Pallu; Eliab.

i For, ſon, of which change of the number. See Gen. 21. 7. & 46. 7.

9 And the ſons of Eliab; Nemuel, and Dathan, and Abiram: this is that Dathan, and Abiram, which were * famous in the congregation, who ſtrove againſt Moſes, and againſt Aaron in the company of Korah, when they ſtrove againſt the LORD. * ch.16.2.

10 And the earth opened her mouth, and ſwallowed them up together with Korah k, when that company died, what time the fire devoured two hundred and fifty men: and they became a ſign l:

k According to this tranſlation Korah was not conſumed by fire with his 250 men, Numb. 16. but ſwallowed up by the Earth. But others rather think he was devoured by the fire, of which ſee on Numb. 16. 32, 35. and render theſe words, and the things of Korah, or belonging to Korah, to wit, his tent and goods, and family, children excepted as here follows. Which interpretation receives ſtrength by comparing this place with Numb. 16. 32. And the earth opened her mouth, and ſwallowed them (to wit, Dathan and Abiram, as is manifeſt from ver. 24. 25, 27.) up and their houſes, and all the men that appertained unto Korah, which variation of the phraſe plainly ſhews that Korah himſelf was not ſwallowed up with them, but only his men and his tabernacle, which is mentioned there together with the tabernacles of Dathan and Abiram, ver. 24. 27. but his perſon is not there mentioned with their perſons. Nor is it unuſual both in ſacred and profane authors, by the name of a man who is the head and maſter to underſtand only his houſe and family, though himſelf be not included. But this difficulty may be cleared another way. The Hebrew particle eth may be here the note of a Nominative caſe, as it is 2 Kings 6. 5. Neh. 9. 19. Jer. 38. 16. Ezek. 39. 14. & 43. 7. and there may be a defect of a verb, which is moſt frequent, and ſo the place may be rendred thus, and the earth opened her mouth, and ſwallowed them up, to wit, Dathan and Abiram, ver. 9. and Korah, or, and as for Korah he died (which verb is eaſily underſtood out of the following noun, of which Ellipſis there are many inſtances in Scripture, ſome whereof have been given before, and more will follow in their places) in the death of that company, or when that company died, what time the fire devoured the two hundred and fifty men. And ſo this place, and Numb. 16. 35. explain one another, and whereas there is mention only of 250 men conſumed by that fire, Korah is here added to the number. l (i. e) God made them a monument or example, to warn others not to rebel againſt God nor againſt Magiſtracy, nor to uſurp the Prieſtly Office.

m God being pleaſed to ſpare them, either becauſe they diſowned their fathers fact, and thereupon ſeparated themſelves both from his tent and company, or becauſe Moſes interceded for them, or becauſe God would glorifie his own free mercy in ſparing ſome, while he puniſhed others, according to his declaration in a like caſe, Exod. 33. 19. Hence the ſons of Korah are mentioned, 1 Chron. 6. 22, 38. and oft in the book of Pſalms.

12 The ſons of Simeon after their families: of Nemuel n, the family of the Nemuelite: of Jamin, the family of the Jaminite: of Jachin o, the family of the Jachinite:

n Called Jemuel, Gen. 46. 10. Exod. 6. 15. o Called alſo Jarib, 1 Chron. 4. 24. And ſuch names might be either added or changed upon ſome ſpecial occaſion not recorded in Scripture.

13 Of Zerah o, the family of the Zarhite: of Shaul, the family of the Shaulite.

o Called alſo Zohar, Gen. 46 10. Exod. 6. 15. There is another of his ſons, Ohad, mentioned Gen. 46. 10. not here, poſſibly becauſe his family was extinct before this time.

14 Theſe are the families of the Simeonite: twenty and two thouſand and two hundred p.

p Whereas there were 35400 in Numb. 1. 23. It is thought the example of Zimri, one of their princes, Numb. 25. and ſome others among them, did infect the generality of the Tribe, and ſo cauſed this great diminution, in their numbers.

15 The children of Gad q after their families: of Zephon r, the family of the Zephonite; of Haggi, the family of the Haggite: of Shuni, the family of the Shunite.

q Who is placed next, becauſe he was joined with Reuben and Simeon in the ſame camp and quarters, Numb. 2. 10, 14. r Called Zephion, Gen. 46. 16.

16 Of Ozni s, the family of the Oznites: of Eri, the family of the Erites:

s Called Ezbon, Gen. 46. 16.

17 Of Arod t, the family of the Arodites: of Areli, the family of the Arelites.

t Called Arodi, Gen. 46. 16.

18 Theſe are the families of the children of Gad, according to thoſe that were numbred of them, forty thouſand and five hundred u.

u Fewer by above 5000 than there were in their laſt numbring, Numb. 2. 15.

19 * The ſons of Judah were Er and Onan: and Er and Onan died in the land of Canaan. * Gen. 38. 2. &c. and 46. 12. 1 Chro. 2. 3.

20 And the ſons of Judah after their families were; of Shelah, the family of the Shelanites: of Pharez, the family of the Pharzites: of Zerah, the family of the Zarhites.

21 And the ſons of Pharez x were; of Heſron, the family of the Heſronites: of Hamul, the family of the Hamulites.

x Which though Judahs Grandchildren are here mentioned among his ſons, becauſe they are put in the ſtead of Er and Onan, which died before.

22 Theſe are the families of Judah, according to thoſe that were numbred of them, threeſcore and ſixteen thouſand and five hundred y.

y About 2000 more than they were, Num. 1. 27. whereas the foregoing Tribes were all diminiſhed, this Tribe was now encreaſed, and the bleſſing promiſed to that Tribe above the reſt, Gen. 49. 8. doth herein begin to ſhew it ſelf.

23 * Of the ſons of Iſſachar after their families: of Tola, the family of the Tolaites: of Pua z, the family of the Punites. * 1 Chron. 7. 1.

z Called alſo Phuvah, Gen. 46. 13. as his brother Jaſhub, ver. 24. is called Job, Gen. 46. 13.

24 Of Jaſhub, the family of the Jaſhubites: of Shimron, the family of the Shimronites.

25 Theſe are the families of Iſſachar, according to thoſe that were numbred of them, threeſcore and four thouſand and three hundred a.

a A great increaſe. Compare Numb. 2. 6.

26 Of * the ſons of Zebulun, after their families, of Sered, the families of the Sardites: of Elon, the family of the Elonites: of Jahleel, the family of the Jahleelites. * Gen. 46. 14.

27 Theſe are the families of the Zebulunites, according to thoſe that were numbred of them, threeſcore thouſand and five hundred b.

b Whereas before they were but 57400 in Numb. 1. 31. & 2. 8. So that Judahs camp was much encreaſed, as Reubens was much diminiſhed.

28 * The ſons of Joſeph, after their families, were Manaſſeh and Ephraim. * Gen. 46. 20.

29 Of the ſons of Manaſſeh: of * Machir, the family of the Machirites: and Machir begat Gilead: of Gilead come the family of the Gileadites c. * Joſh. 17. 1.

c Gilead is here mentioned as Machirs only ſon, and therefore ſome conceive that the family of the Machirites, and of the Gileadites, are one and the ſame family, only called by two names, firſt Machirites, but afterwards Gileadites. Others make them diſtinct families, becauſe Machir had other children, Gen. 50. 23. 1 Chron. 7. 14, 15, 16. which are called by their fathers name, Machirites, whereas the children of his eldeſt ſon Gilead are called by his name, Gileadites. But though Machir had other children, it ſeems they and their poſterity were extinct at this time, and that Machir alone was left and his poſterity, as may be gathered by comparing this and the following verſes with Joſ. 17. 1, 2, 3. & 1 Chron. 7. 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19.

30 Theſe are the ſons of Gilead, of Jeezer d, the family of the Jeezerites: of Helek, the family of the Helekites.

d Called alſo Abiezer, Joſ. 17. 2. Judg. 6. 11, 34. 1 Chron. 7. 18.

31 And of Aſriel, the family of the Aſrielites: and of Sechem, the family of the Sechemites:

32 And of Shemida, the family of Shemidaites: and of Hepher, the family of the Hepherites.

33 And * Zelophead the ſon of Hepher had no ſons but daughters: and the names of the daughters of Zelophead, were Mahlah, and Noah, Hoglah, Milcah, and Tirzah. * ch. 27. 1. & 36. 11.

34 Theſe are the families of Manaſſeh, and thoſe that were numbred of them, fifty and two thouſand and ſeven hundred e.

e Whereas they were but 32200. in Numb. 1. 35. So they are now increaſed above 20000. according to that prophecy, Gen. 49. 22.

35 Theſe are the ſons of Ephraim, after their families: of Shuthelah, the family of the Shuthalhites: of Becher f, the family of the Bachrites: of Tahan, the family of the Tahanites.

f Called alſo Bered, 1 Chron. 7. 20.

36 And theſe are the ſons of Shuthelah: of Eran g, the family of the Eranites.

g Called Edan or Hadan, 1 Chron. 7. 26. the letters Daleth and Reſh being alike in the Hebrew tongue, and therefore oft changed, as is evident from Scripture-inſtances.

37 Theſe are the families of the ſons of Ephraim, according to thoſe that were numbred of them, thirty and two thouſand and five hundred. Theſe are the ſons of Joſeph after their families.

* 1 Chron. 7. 6. 38 * The ſons of Benjamin [b] after their families: of Bela, the family of the Belaites: of Aſhbel [i], the family of the Aſhbelites: of Ahiram [k], the family of the Ahiramites:

[b] Who were ten, Gen. 46. 21. whereof only five are here mentioned, the reſt probably, together with their families, being extinct ere this time. [i] Called alſo Jedaiel, 1 Chron. 7. 6. [k] Called alſo Aharah, 1 Chron. 8. 1. and Ehi, Gen. 46. 21.

39 Of Shupham [l], the family of the Shuphamites: of Hupham [m], the family of the Huphamites.

[l] Called alſo Shuppim, 1 Chron. 7. 12. and Muppim, Gen. 46. 21. [m] Called Huppim, Gen. 46. 21. 1 Chron. 7. 12.

40 And the ſons of Bela were Ard and Naaman: of Ard [n], the family of the Ardites: and of Naaman, the family of the Naamites.

[n] Or, Arde, and by tranſpoſition, Adar, 1 Chron. 8. 3.

41 Theſe are the ſons of Benjamin after their families: and they that were numbred of them, were forty and five thouſand and ſix hundred.

42 Theſe are the ſons of Dan after their families: of Shuham [o], the family of the Shuhamites. Theſe are the families of Dan after their families [p].

[o] Called, by tranſpoſition, Huſhim, Gen. 46. 23. [p] The greater families ſubdivided into leſſer families.

43 All the families of the Shuhamites, according to thoſe that were numbred of them, were threeſcore and four thouſand and four hundred [q].

[q] All from one ſon and family, whereas of Benjamin who had ten ſons, and here five families, there were only 45600. to ſhew that the increaſe of families depends ſingly upon God's bleſſing and good pleaſure.

* 1 Chron. 7. 30. 44 * Of the children of Aſher after their families: of Jimna, the family of the Jimnites: of Jeſui [r], the family of the Jeſuites; of Beriah, the family of the Berilites.

[r] Called Iſui, Gen. 46. 17. where alſo there is another ſon of Aſher named, to wit, Iſhuah, whoſe family ſeems now to be loſt.

45 Of the ſons of Beriah: of Heber, the family of the Heberites: of Malchiel, the family of the Malchielites.

46 And the name of the daughter of Aſher, was Sarah [s].

[s] Who ſeems to be here mentioned becauſe ſhe was a woman of maſculine wiſdom, or courage, or other vertue.

47 Theſe are the families of the ſons of Aſher, according to thoſe that were numbred of them, who were fifty and three thouſand and four hundred [t].

[t] Whereas they were only 41500 in Numb. 1. 41.

* Gen. 46. 24. 1 Chron. 7. 13. 48 * Of the ſons of Naphtali after their families: of Jahzeel, the family of the Jahzeelites: of Guni, the family of the Gunites:

* 1 Chron. 7. 13. Shallum. 49 Of Jezer, the family of the Jezerites: of * Shillem, the family of the Shillemites.

50 Theſe are the families of Naphtali, according to their families: and they that were numbred of them, were forty and five thouſand and four hundred.

51 Theſe were the numbred of the children of Iſrael, ſix hundred thouſand, and a thouſand ſeven hundred and thirty [u].

[u] Very nigh as many as there were before, Numb. 1. 46. So wiſely and marvellouſly did God at the ſame time manifeſt his juſtice in cutting off ſo vaſt a number, and his mercy in giving ſuch a ſpeedy and numerous ſupply, and his truth in both.

52 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

53 Unto theſe [x] the land ſhall be divided [y] for an inheritance, according to the number of names [z].

[x] To theſe families now mentioned. [y] By lot, ver. 55. The land was divided into nine parts and an half, reſpect being had in ſuch diviſion to the goodneſs as well as to the largeneſs of the ſeveral portions, and the lot gave each tribe their part. [z] (i. e.) Of the perſons, names being oft put for perſons, as Act. 1. 15. Phil. 2. 9. Rev. 3. 4. & 11. 13. The meaning is, that the ſhare of each tribe was divided amongſt the ſeveral families, to ſome more, to ſome leſs, according to the number of the perſons of each family, Numb. 33. 54. And withal, if one of the lots or portions proved too large or too little for all the families and perſons of that tribe, in this caſe they might either give part of their portion to another tribe, as Simeon and Dan had parts of Judahs ſhare, Joſ. 19. 4, 40. or take away a part from the portion belonging to another tribe.

* ch. 33. 54. † Heb. multiply his inheritance. † Heb. diminiſh his inheritance. 54 * To many thou [a] ſhalt † give the more inheritance, and to few thou ſhalt † give the leſs inheritance: to every one ſhall his inheritance be given, according to thoſe that were numbred of him [b].

[a] Thou Moſes, partly by thy ſelf, for he divided the land beyond Jordan to the two tribes and an half, and partly by thy ſucceſſor Joſhua, whom thou ſhalt empower and command to do it. [b] According to the number of the families and perſons now numbred and being 20 years old, no regard being to be had either to any increaſe of the number by thoſe who came up to that age between this time and the diviſion of the land, or to the diminution of this number by the ſword of Canaanites or otherwiſe.

* ch. 33. 54. Joſh. 11. 23. & 14. 2. 55 Notwithſtanding, the land ſhall be * divided by lot [c]: according to the names of the tribes of their fathers [d] they ſhall inherit.

[c] Which lots ſeem to have been caſt only for the tribes, not as ſome would have it for the ſeveral families, for the diſtribution of it to them was left to the rulers wiſdom according to the rule now given, ver. 54. Yet, if any lot was too large for the Tribe, they might give up part of their right to others, with the Rulers conſent, as Judah gave a ſhare to Simeon and to Dan within his lot. [d] (i. e.) The lots ſhall go under the names of each tribe or each Patriarch.

56 According to the lot ſhall the poſſeſſion thereof be divided between many and few [e].

[e] (i. e.) That ſhare, which ſhall by Lot fall to each tribe, ſhall be diſtributed to the ſeveral families and perſons in ſuch proportions as their numbers ſhall require.

57 * And theſe are they that were numbred of the Levites: of Gerſhon the family of the Gerſhonites: of Kohath, the family of the Kohathites: of Merari, the family of the Merarites. * Gen. 4 11. Exod. 6. 16, 1 18, 19. 1 Chron. 6. 1, 16.

58 Theſe are the families of the Levite [f]: the family of the Libnites, the family of the Hebronites, the family of the Mahlites, the family of the Muſhites, the family of the Korhites: and Kohath begat Amram.

[f] Which are here numbred by themſelves, becauſe they were not to have a diſtinct ſhare of the land, whence it is that they are not ſo diſtinctly and exactly mentioned as the other tribes, but confuſedly and imperfectly, ſome of them being wholly omitted here. See Exod. 6. 17, 18, 19.

59 And the name of Amrams wife was * Jochebed, the daughter of Levi, whom her mother [g] bare to Levi in Egypt: and ſhe bare unto Amram, Aaron and Moſes, and Miriam their ſiſter. * Exod. 1, 2. & 6. 20.

[g] To wit, Levi's wife, which muſt neceſſarily be underſtood.

60 And unto Aaron was born Nadab and Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar.

61 And * Nadab and Abihu died, when they offered ſtrange fire before the LORD. * Lev. 2. ch. 1 Chron. 24. 2.

62 And thoſe that were numbred of them, were twenty and three thouſand [h], all males from a month old and upward [i]: for they were not numbred among the children of Iſrael, becauſe there was no inheritance given them among the children of Iſrael.

[h] One thouſand more than they were, Numb. 3. 39. [i] The reaſon of which different way of numbring, ſee on Numb. 3. 15.

63 Theſe are they that were numbred by Moſes and Eleazar the prieſt, who numbred the children of Iſrael in the plains of Moab, by Jordan near Jericho.

64 But among theſe there was not a man of them whom Moſes and Aaron the prieſt numbred, when they numbred the children of Iſrael in the wilderneſs of Sinai.

65 For the LORD had ſaid of them, They * ſhall ſurely die in the wilderneſs: and there was not left a man of them [i], ſave Caleb the ſon of Jephunneh, and Joſhua the ſon of Nun. * ch. 14. 28, 29. 1 Cor. 5, 6.

[i] To wit, of thoſe who then murmured and rebelled againſt God, as plainly appears both becauſe this threatning and puniſhment is confined to thoſe tranſgreſſors, and becauſe otherwiſe this had not been true, for of thoſe that were then numbred there were now left Eleazar and Ithamar, and poſſibly many of the Levites, and ſome others, who being not guilty of that ſin did not partake of their judgment. Caleb and Joſhua are mentioned here, as alſo Numb. 14. not by way of exception, as if theſe were murmurers, which is utterly denied, Numb. 14. 24. but by way of oppoſition, to ſignify that they, though they were two of the Spies, and companions of them who were the chief authors and ringleaders of that mutiny, yet they kept themſelves from their ſin, and therefore God kept them from their plague and deſtruction, as alſo he did ſome others for the ſame reaſon.

CHAP. XXVII.

The Law of Inheritance: for Daughters on defect of Sons: and on defect of them to the Brother: and if there be none, to the next Kinſman, 1——11. God Commands Moſes to go up into a Mountain to view the Land of Canaan, and die there: The Reaſon, 12——14. Moſes prays to the Lord to appoint an able Succeſſor, 15——17. Joſhua choſe, and confirm'd in his Office by Impoſition of hands before all the People, 18——23.

1 THen came the daughters of * Zelophehad [a], the ſon of Hepher, the ſon of Gilead, the ſon of Machir, the ſon of Manaſſeh, of the families of Manaſſeh, the ſon of Joſeph; and theſe are the names of his daughters; Mahlah, Noah and Hoglah, and Milcah, and Tirzah. * ch. 33. & 11. J 17. 3.

[a] Perceiving that the males only were numbred, and that the land was to be divided to them only, they put in their claim for a ſhare in their fathers inheritance.

2 And they ſtood before Moſes, and before Eleazar the prieſt, and before the princes, and all the congregation, by the door of the tabernacle of the congregation [b], ſaying,

[b] Nigh unto which it ſeems was the place where Moſes and the chief rulers aſſembled for the adminiſtration of publick affairs, which alſo was very convenient, becauſe they had frequent occaſion of recourſe to God for his aſſiſtance and direction therein.

3 Our father * died in the wilderneſs, and he was not in the company of them that gathered themſelves together againſt the LORD * in the company of Korah [c]: but died in his own ſin [d], and had no ſons. * ch. 14. & 26. 65. * ch.

c Nor in any other rebellion of the people, which muſt be underſtood, becauſe all of them are oppoſed to his own ſin, in which alone he is ſaid to die. But they mention this only either 1. becauſe he might poſſibly be accuſed to be guilty of this: Or 2. becauſe, he being an eminent perſon might be thought guilty of that rather than of any other, becauſe the great and famous men were more concerned in that rebellion than others: Or 3. to gain the favour of Moſes, againſt whom that rebellion was more particularly directed, and more deſperately proſecuted than any other. Or 4. becauſe peradventure he died about that time, and therefore might be preſumed guilty of that crime. Or, rather, 5. becauſe that ſin, and, as it may ſeem, that only of all the ſins committed in the wilderneſs, was of ſuch a flagitious nature, that God thought fit to extend the puniſhment not only to the perſons of thoſe rebels, but alſo to their children and families, Numb. 16. 27, 32. as was uſual in like caſes, as Deut. 13. 15. Joſ. 7. 24. Whence it is noted as a ſingular priviledge granted to the children of Korah, that they died not, Numb. 26. 11. whereas the children of their confederates died with them. And this makes their argument here more proper and powerful, that he did not die in that ſin for which his poſterity were to be cut off, and to loſe either their lives or their inheritances, and therefore their claim was more juſt. d Either 1. for that ſin mentioned Numb. 14. which they call his own ſin, in oppoſition not to the reſt of the people, for it was a common ſin, but to his children, i. e. the ſin for which he alone was to ſuffer in his perſon and not in his poſterity, as God had appointed, Numb. 14. 33. Or rather 2. for his own perſonal ſins, for 1. theſe were more properly his own ſins. 2. It was a truth, and that believed by the Jews, that death was a puniſhment for mens own ſins. 3. The puniſhment of that common ſin was not directly and properly death, but excluſion from the land of Canaan, and death only by way of conſequence upon that.

4 Why ſhould the name of our father be † done away e from among his family, becauſe he hath no ſon? give unto us therefore a poſſeſſion f among the brethren of our father.

e As it will be, if it be not preſerved by an inheritance given to us in his name and for his ſake. Hence ſome gather, that the firſt ſon of each of theſe heireſſes was called by their fathers name, by vertue of that law Deut. 25. 6. whereby the brothers firſt ſon was to bear the name of his elder brother, whoſe widow he married. f In the land of Canaan upon the diviſion of it, which, though not yet conquered, they concluded would certainly be ſo, and thereby gave glory to God by believing.

5 And Moſes brought their cauſe before the LORD g.

g (i. e.) Into the Tabernacle, where God was pleaſed to ſpeak with Moſes upon occaſions, Exod. 25. 22. Numb. 7. 89. For it was an hard caſe, and though their plea ſeemed reaſonable, yet Moſes ſhewed his humility and modeſty, that he would not determine it himſelf without Gods particular direction.

6 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

7 The daughters of Zelophead ſpeak right: thou ſhalt ſurely give them h a poſſeſſion of an inheritance among their fathers brethren, and thou ſhalt cauſe the inheritance of their fathers i to paſs unto them.

h In Hebrew it is of the maſculine gender, to ſhew that women in this caſe ſhould enjoy the mans priviledge, and that the heavenly Canaan, whereof this was a type, did belong no leſs to women than to men, Gal. 3. 28. i (i. e.) Which belonged to their fathers, in caſe they had lived.

8 And thou ſhalt ſpeak unto the children of Iſrael, ſaying, If a man die, and have no ſon, then ye ſhall cauſe his inheritance to paſs unto his daughter.

9 And if he have no daughter, then ye ſhall give his inheritance unto his brethren.

10 And if he have no brethren k, then ye ſhall give his inheritance unto his fathers brethren.

k Nor ſiſters, as appears from ver. 8.

11 And if his father have no brethren, then ye ſhall give his inheritance unto his kinſman, that is next to him of his family, and he ſhall poſſeſs it: and it ſhall be unto the children of Iſrael a ſtatute of judgment l, as the LORD commanded Moſes.

l A ſtatute or rule, by which the Magiſtrate ſhall give judgment in ſuch caſes.

* Deut. 3. 27. and 32. 49.

12 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, * Get thee up into this mount Abrim m, and ſee the land which I have given unto the children of Iſrael.

m The whole tract of mountains was called Abarim, Numb. 33. 47. whereof one of the higheſt was called Nebo, Deut. 32. 49. and the top of that Piſgah, Deut. 34. 1.

* chap. 20. 24. and 31. 2. Deut. 10. 6.

13 And when thou haſt ſeen it, thou alſo ſhalt be gathered unto thy people n, as * Aaron thy brother was gathered.

n Of which phraſe ſee Gen. 15. 15. and 25. 8.

* chap. 20. 24. Deut 1. 37. Pſal. 106. 32. * Exod. 17. 7.

14 For * ye rebelled againſt my commandment (in the deſert of Zin, in the ſtriſe of the congregation) to ſanctifie me at the water before their eyes: that is the * water of Meribah in Kadeſh o in the wilderneſs of Zin.

o This is added, to diſtinguiſh this miſcarriage of Moſes from that of the people in Rephidim, Exod. 17. 7.

15 And Moſes ſpake unto the LORD p, ſaying, p The words here following, and others too, which are recorded, Deut. 3. 23, 26.

* chap. 16. 22.

16 Let the LORD * God of the ſpirits of all fleſh q, ſet a man over the congregation;

q (i. e.) Of all men: the ſearcher of ſpirits, that knoweſt who is fit for this great employment; the father and giver and governour of ſpirits, who canſt raiſe and ſuit the ſpirits of men to the higheſt and hardeſt works, as thou didſt thoſe Numb. 11. 16, 17. See Numb. 16. 22.

17 which may go out before them, and which may go in before them r, and which may lead them out, and which may bring them in; that the congregation of the LORD be not * as ſheep which have no ſhepherd.

* Zech. 10. 2. Matth. 9. 36.

r (i. e.) Which may wiſely conduct them in all their affairs, both when they go forth to war, or upon other occaſions, and when they return home and live in peace. A metaphor from ſhepherds, as it here follows, which in thoſe places uſed not to go behind their ſheep, as ours now do, but before them, and to lead them forth to their paſture, and in due time to lead them home again. Of this phraſe ſee Deut. 28. 6. Act. 1. 21.

18 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Take thee Joſhua, the ſon of Nun, a man in whom is the ſpirit s, and lay thine hand upon him t; s The ſpirit of government, of wiſdom, and of the fear of the Lord, &c. t By which ceremony Moſes did both deſign the perſon and confer the power, and by his prayers, which accompanied that rite, obtain from God all the ſpiritual gifts and graces neceſſary for his future employment, as appears from Deut. 34. 9. See of this cuſtom Gen. 48. 14. Levit. 1. 4. Numb. 8. 10. 1 Tim. 4. 14.

19 And ſet him before Eleazar the prieſt, and before all the congregation u, and give him a charge x in their ſight.

u That they may be witneſſes of the whole action, and may acknowledge him for their ſupream ruler. x Thou ſhalt command him in my name to undertake the government of my people, which otherwiſe he will be afraid and unwilling to do, and thou ſhalt give him counſels and inſtructions for the right management of that great truſt.

y Thou ſhalt not now uſe him as a ſervant, as thou haſt done, but as a brother and thy partner in the government, ſhewing reſpect to him, and cauſing others to do ſo, and thou ſhalt impart to him the enſigns and evidences of thy own authority, whatſoever they be. Some underſtand this honour of theſe ſpiritual endowments which did adorn Moſes, which Moſes was now to confer upon him. But this Joſhua had before, for in him was the ſpirit, ver. 18. and he received a further meaſure of the ſpirit by Moſes his laying on of hands, from both which this honour is diſtinguiſhed, and, had he meant this, he would not have expreſſed it in ſo dark and doubtful a phraſe, but have called it a putting not of honour, but of the ſpirit, upon him, as it is called, Numb. 11. 17. And ſeeing the word honour here may very well be properly underſtood, why ſhould we run to figurative ſignifications?

21 And he ſhall ſtand before Eleazar the prieſt, who ſhall ask counſel for him z, * after the judgment ‖ of Urim † before the LORD *: at his word ‖ ſhall they go out, and at his word they ſhall come in, both he and all the children of Iſrael with him, even all the congregation.

* Exod. 28. 30.

z When he requires him to do ſo, and in important and difficult matters. See Joſ. 9. 14. Judg. 1. 1. and 20. 18. 1 Sam. 23. 9. ‖ Or, by or from the judgment, i. e. by ſeeking and receiving and communicating to him the judgment or ſentence thereby given: or, by the judgment is here put defectively for, by the breaſt-plate of judgment, as it is called, Exod. 28. 30. as the teſtimony is oft put for, the ark of the teſtimony. Or, concerning the judgment, or ſentence, i. e. what the mind and will of God is in the matter. Or, after the manner or rite, for ſo the Hebrew word miſhpat here uſed oft ſignifies. † Underſtand, and of Thummim, for theſe two generally go together, only here, as alſo 1 Sam. 28. 6. Urim is ſynecdochically put for both Urim and Thummim. For the manner of this enquiry and anſwer ſee on Exod. 28. 30. * Ordinarily in the Tabernacle near the ſecond vail ſetting his face to the Ark, or otherwiſe preſenting himſelf as in Gods preſence, as Abiathar did by Davids direction, 1 Sam. 23. 9. when they were both baniſhed from the Ark. ‖ (i. e.) The word of the Lord, laſt mentioned, delivered to him by the High-prieſt.

22 And Moſes did as the LORD commanded him and he took Joſhua, and ſet him before Eleazar the prieſt, and before all the congregation.

23 And he laid his hands upon him, and gave him a charge, as the LORD commanded by the hand of Moſes.

CHAP. XXVIII.

Offerings to be obſerved at ſet times: the daily burnt offering in the morning: together with it's meat and drink offering: and at evening, 1—8. The ſabbath-offering, 9, 10. The burnt-offering of the new moons, with it's meat, drink, and ſin-offering, 11——15. The Paſſover's, 16, 18. Sacrifices: their continuance, 19——25. The Pentecoſt and the ſacrifices thereof, 26——31.

1 AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 Command the children of Iſrael a, and ſay unto them, My offering and * my bread for my ſacrifices made by fire b for a † ſweet ſavour unto me, ſhall ye obſerve to offer unto me in their due ſeaſon.

* Lev. 3. 11. & 21. 6, 8. Mal. 1. 7, 12. † Heb. a ſavor of my reſt.

a God here repeats ſome of the former laws about ſacrifices, not without great reaſon, partly becauſe they had been generally diſcontinued for 38 years together; partly becauſe the generation to which the former laws had been given about theſe things was wholly dead, and it was fit the new generation ſhould be inſtructed about them, as their parents were; partly to renew the teſtimonies of Gods grace and mercy, notwithſtanding their frequent forfeitures thereof by their horrid Apoſtacies and Rebellions; and principally becauſe they were now ready to enter into that land, in which they were obliged to put theſe things in practice, Deut. 12. 8. &c. b According to this tranſlation the ſence is, My offering, i. e. my offering or ſacrifices, and my bread, i. e. either my ſhew-bread, or rather my meat-offering made of bread or meal, for my ſacrifices made by fire, i. e. which is to accompany my burnt-offerings. Or thus, My offering, to wit, my bread, (i. e.) my meat-offering, which was made of bread or meal, which is oft expreſſed by this very name of korban or offering, as Levit. 2. 1. and 6. 20. but becauſe korban ſignifies not only a meat-offering but other offerings alſo, as Lev. 7. 37, 38. therefore he limits that general word by adding, my bread) with (ſo the Hebrew Lamed is oft uſed, as Gen. 46. 26. Ezra 1. 5. and 2. 63. &c.) my ſacrifices made by fire, which may be underſtood either 1. generally for all the ſacrifices, as that phraſe is ſometimes taken, as 1 Sam. 2. 28. where it muſt needs be ſo meant, becauſe the burnt-offerings properly ſo called were not given to the Prieſt, but reſerved to God himſelf, and the Prieſts portion lay in the other ſacrifices only, or 2. ſpecially and properly for burnt-offerings; and ſo under them, as the moſt eminent kind, are contained all other ſacrifices; as under the meat-offering here is contained the drink-offering. And according to this tranſlation and explication theſe words contain a full and general rule, comprehending all the particulars following in this chapter, as in reaſon they ought to do, and which otherwiſe they do not.

* Exod. 29. 38.

3 And thou ſhalt ſay unto them, * This is the offering made by fire, which ye ſhall offer unto the LORD: two lambs of the firſt year without ſpot, † day by day, for a continual burnt-offering.

† Heb. between the two evenings.

4 The one lamb ſhalt thou offer in the morning, and the other lamb ſhalt thou offer † at even.

* Lev. 2. 4.

* Exod. 29. 40.

5 And a tenth part of an ephah of flour for a * meat-offering c, mingled with the fourth part of an * hin of beaten oyl.

x Which was an appendix or acceſſory to the principal ſacrifice. See on Lev. 2. 1 and Numb. 15. 4.

6 It is a continual burnt-offering, which was ordained d in mount Sinai for a ſweet ſavour, a ſacrifice made by fire unto the LORD.

d Or, preſcribed, inſtituted by God Or., made, i. e. offered at that place; though ſince omitted for 38 years.

† Heb. Shekar. Gr. Sicera. See Luk. 1. 15.

7 And the drink-offering thereof ſhall be the fourth part of an hin for the one lamb: in the holy place e ſhalt thou cauſe the † ſtrong wine f to be poured unto the LORD, for a drink-offering.

e i. e.) Upon the altar of burnt-offerings which was in the court of the Prieſts nigh to the entrance into the Sanctuary. See Exod. 29. 42. 2 Chron. 29. 7. f Heb. Shecar, which though it ſignifie in the general all kinds of ſtrong drink, yet is here put for the moſt famous of that kind, to wit, for wine, which alone was uſed in offerings, as appears below, ver. 18. Exod. 29. 40.

8 And the other lamb ſhalt thou offer at even: as the meat-offering of the morning, and as the drink-offering thereof, thou ſhalt offer it g, a ſacrifice made by fire, of a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD.

g Or, thou ſhalt offer with it. Or, with the meat-offering of the morning, and with the drink-offering thereof, thou ſhalt offer it; the letter caph being put for beth, which are alike in Hebrew, and the words are ſaid to be read with beth in ſome copies.

9 And on the ſabbath day two lambs h of the firſt year without ſpot, and two tenth-deals of flour for a meat-offering, mingled with oyl, and the drink-offering thereof.

h Beſides that for the daily ſacrifice, ver. 10.

10 This is the burnt-offering of every ſabbath, beſide the continual burnt-offering, and his drink-offering.

* chap. 10. 10. 1 Sam. 20. 5.

11 And * in the beginnings of your months i ye ſhall offer a burnt-offering unto the LORD: two young bullocks, and one ram, ſeven lambs of the firſt year without ſpot.

i Which, though not reckoned among the ſolemn feaſts, Lev. 23. yet were celebrated as ſuch, by the the ſound of trumpets, Numb. 10. 10. by extraordinary ſacrifices, by abſtinence from ſervile works, Amos 8. 5. and by attendance upon the miniſtry of Gods word, 2 King. 4. 23. And God ordained it thus, partly that by giving God the firſt fruits of every month, they ſhould acknowledge him as the Lord of all their time, and own his providence by which all times and ſeaſons and all the fruits and bleſſings of them, and actions done in them are ordered, and partly that it might be a type of the future renovation of the world by Chriſt.

12 And three tenth deals of flour for a meat-offering, mingled with oyl, for one bullock; and two tenth deals of flour for a meat-offering mingled with oyl, for one ram.

13 And a ſeveral tenth deal of flour mingled with oyl, for a meat-offering unto one lamb, for a burnt offering of a ſweet ſavour, a ſacrifice made by fire unto the LORD.

14 And their drink-offerings ſhall be half an hin of wine unto a bullock, and the third part of an hin unto a ram, and a fourth part of an hin unto a lamb: this is the burnt-offering of every month throughout the months k of the year.

k (i. e.) To be offered in the beginning of every month.

15 And one kid of the goats l for a ſin-offering unto the LORD m ſhall be offered, beſides the continual burnt-offering, and his drink-offering.

l An he-goat. See Numb. 15. 24. m Not unto the moon, to which the Gentiles offered it.

* Exod. 12. 18. Lev. 23. 5. chap. 9. 5. Deut. 16. 1.

16 * And in the fourteenth day of the firſt month is the paſſover of the LORD n.

n Inſtituted by him and to his honour and ſervice. See on Lev. 23. 5.

17 And in the fifteenth day of this month is the feaſt o, ſeven days ſhall unleavened bread be eaten.

o To wit, of unleavened bread; of which ſee on Lev. 23. 6.

* Exod. 12. 16. Lev. 23.

18 In the * firſt day ſhall be an holy convocation: ye ſhall do no manner of ſervile work therein.

19 But ye ſhall offer a ſacrifice made by fire for a burnt-offering unto the LORD, two young bullocks, and one ram, and ſeven lambs of the firſt year: they ſhall be unto you without blemiſh.

20 And their meat-offering ſhall be of flour mingled with oyl: three tenth deals ſhall ye offer for a bullock, and two tenth deals for a ram.

21 A ſeveral tenth deal ſhalt thou offer for every lamb throughout the ſeven lambs.

22 And one goat for a ſin-offering, to make an atonement for you.

23 Ye ſhall offer theſe beſide the burnt-offering in the morning p, which is for a continual burnt-offering.

p And that in the evening too, as is evident from the nature of the thing, and from other ſcriptures, but the morning-ſacrifice alone is mentioned, partly becauſe the celebration of the feaſt began with it, and principally becauſe this alone was doubtful, whether this might not be omitted when ſo many other ſacrifices were offered in that morning, whereas there was no queſtion but the evening ſacrifice ſhould be offered, when there were none other beſides it to be offered.

24 After this manner ye ſhall offer daily throughout the ſeven days † the meat of the ſacrifice made by fire q, of a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD: it ſhall be offered beſide the continual burnt-offering, and his drink offering.

q (i. e.) The ſacrifice made by fire, which is as it were my meat or food: for as God is ſaid to ſmell the ſacrifices, to wit, metaphorically, i. e. to accept of them, ſo is he ſaid to eat them, i. e. to devour or conſume them, and to be ſatisfied with them; ſuch things ſpoken of God after the manner of men are to be underſtood ſo as to agree with the majeſty of God.

25 And on the ſeventh day ye ſhall have an holy convocation: ye ſhall do no ſervile work.

* Exod. 23. 16. and 34. 22. Deut. 16. 10.

26 Alſo * in the day of the firſt-fruits r, when ye bring a new meat-offering unto the LORD, after your weeks be out t, ye ſhall have an holy convocation; ye ſhall do no ſervile work.

r In the feaſt of Pentecoſt, Act. 2. 1. s New fruits, two loaves made of your new corn, Levit. 23. 16. t (i. e.) The ſeven weeks which you are to number from the Paſſover, Lev. 23. 15. Heb. in the weeks, in being put for after, as it is Iſa. 20. 1. Luk. 9. 36. and 11. 37

27 But ye ſhall offer the burnt-offering u for a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD, two young bullocks, one ram, ſeven lambs of the firſt year.

u For the celebration of the feaſt over and beſides that other offering which was joined with the firſt-fruits, Lev. 23. 18. ſo here is a new additional ſacrifice preſcribed, which doth not deſtroy the former.

28 And their meat-offering of flour mingled with oyl, three tenth deals unto one bullock, two tenth deals unto one ram.

29 A ſeveral tenth deal unto one lamb, throughout the ſeven lambs.

30 And one kid of the goats to make an atonement for you.

31 Ye ſhall offer them beſides the continual burnt-offering, and his meat-offering, (they ſhall be unto you without blemiſh) and their drink-offerings.

* Lev. 23. 24.

1 AND in the ſeventh month a, on the firſt day of the month, ye ſhall have an holy convocation, Ye ſhall do no ſervile work: * it is a day of blowing the trumpets b unto you.

a So it was in their Eccleſiaſtical account, in which the month Abib was the firſt: but as to civil matters this was the firſt month. b Whereby the people were admoniſhed ſolemnly to prepare themſelves for the feaſts, which were as many in this month, as in all the year beſides.

2 And ye ſhall offer a burnt-offering c for a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD, one young bullock, one ram, and ſeven lambs of the firſt year without blemiſh.

c Beſides the offerings of every month and day, as is expreſſed, ver. 6.

3 And their meat-offering ſhall be of flour mingled with oyl, three tenth deals for a bullock, and two tenth deals for a ram:

4 And one tenth deal for one lamb, throughout the ſeven lambs:

5 And one kid of the goats for a ſin-offering, to make an atonement for you.

* chap. 28. 11. * chap. 28. 3. 6 Beſide * the burnt-offering of the month d, and his meat-offering, and * the daily burnt-offering, and his meat-offering, and their drink-offerings according to their manner e for a ſweet ſavour, a ſacrifice made by fire unto the LORD.

d Belonging to every new moon, of which ſee Numb. 28. 11, 12. 2 Chron. 2. 4. e According to the order, rites and ceremonies appointed by God.

* Lev. 16. 29. and 23. 27. 7 And * ye ſhall have on the tenth day of this ſeventh month an holy convocation; and ye ſhall afflict your ſouls f: ye ſhall not do any work therein.

f (i. e.) Your ſelves, by faſting and abſtinence from all delightful things, and by compunction and bitter ſorrow for your ſins and the judgments of God either deſerved by you or inflicted upon you for your ſins. See Levit. 16. 29. 30. and 23. 27.

8 But ye ſhall offer a burnt-offering unto the LORD, for a ſweet ſavour, one young bullock, one ram, and ſeven lambs of the firſt year: they ſhall be unto you without blemiſh.

9 And their meat-offering ſhall be of flour mingled with oyl, three tenth deals to a bullock, and two tenth deals to one ram:

10 A ſeveral tenth deal for one lamb, throughout the the ſeven lambs.

* Lev. 16. 3, 5. 11 One kid of the goats for a ſin-offering, beſide the * ſin-offering of atonement g, and the continual burnt-offering, and the meat-offering of it, and their drink-offerings.

g By which the High-prieſt made atonement; of which ſee Lev. 16. 9, 29, 30.

* Lev 23. 34. 12 And * on the fifteenth day of the ſeventh month, ye ſhall have an holy convocation, ye ſhall do no ſervile work, and ye ſhall keep a feaſt h unto the LORD ſeven days i.

h The feaſt of booths; of which ſee Lev. 23. 34, 35. Deut. 16. 13. i Not by abſtaining ſo long from all ſervile works, but by offering extraordinary ſacrifices each day.

* Ezra 3. 4. 13 And ye * ſhall offer a burnt-offering, a ſacrifice made by fire, of a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD, thirteen young bullocks k, two rams and fourteen lambs k of the firſt year: they ſhall be without blemiſh.

k More ſacrifices than at any other feaſt, partly becauſe this feaſt was in the cloſe of the year, when it was meet to ſupply the defects of the year paſt, and when they had gathered in all their fruits, Deut. 16. 13, 15. and therefore ought to make the larger returns and acknowledgment to God; partly becauſe it was Gods pleaſure ſo to order it, for reaſons known to himſelf, in whoſe will we ought to acquieſce. And the ſame reaſon holds why theſe ſacrifices grew fewer and fewer every day.

14 And their meat-offering ſhall be of flour mingled with oyl, three tenth-deals unto every bullock of the thirteen bullocks, two tenth deals to each ram of the two rams:

15 And a ſeveral tenth deal to each lamb of the fourteen lambs:

17 And on the ſecond day ye ſhall offer twelve young bullocks, two rams, fourteen lambs of the firſt year without ſpot.

l Of which ſee for meat-offerings, ver. 3, 4, 9, 10. and for drink-offerings, Numb. 28. 7, 14.

19 And one kid of the goats for a ſin-offering, beſide the continual burnt-offering, and the meat-offering thereof, and their drink-offerings.

20 And on the third day, eleven bullocks, two rams, fourteen lambs of the firſt year without blemiſh.

21 And their meat-offering, and their drink-offerings, for the bullocks, for the rams, and for the lambs, ſhall be according to their number, after the manner:

22 And one goat for a ſin-offering, beſide the continual burnt-offering, and his meat-offering, and his drink-offering.

23 And on the fourth day ten bullocks, two rams, and fourteen lambs of the firſt year without blemiſh.

24 Their meat-offering, and their drink-offerings, for the bullocks, for the rams, and for the lambs, ſhall be according to their number, after the manner:

25 And one kid of the goats for a ſin-offering, beſide the continual burnt-offering, his meat-offering, and his drink-offering.

26 And on the fifth day nine bullocks, two rams, and fourteen lambs of the firſt year without ſpot:

27 And their meat-offering, and their drink-offerings, for the bullocks, for the rams, and for the lambs, ſhall be according to their number, after the manner:

28 And one goat for a ſin-offering, beſide the continual burnt-offering, and his meat-offering, and his drink-offering.

29 And on the ſixth day eight bullocks, two rams, and fourteen lambs of the firſt year without blemiſh:

30 And their meat-offering, and their drink-offerings, for the bullocks, for the rams, and for the lambs, ſhall be according to their number, after the manner:

31 And one goat for a ſin-offering, beſide the continual burnt-offering, his meat-offering, and his drink-offering.

32 And on the ſeventh day ſeven bullocks, two rams, and fourteen lambs of the firſt year without blemiſh:

33 And their meat-offering, and their drink-offerings, for the bullocks, for the rams, and for the lambs, ſhall be according to their number, after the manner:

34 And one goat for a ſin-offering, beſide the continual burnt-offering, his meat-offering, and his drink-offering.

35 On the eighth day ye ſhall have a * ſolemn aſſembly: ye ſhall do no ſervile work therein. * Lev. 23. 36.

36 But ye ſhall offer a burnt-offering, a ſacrifice made by fire of a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD, one bullock, one ram, ſeven lambs m of the firſt year without blemiſh:

m This was the laſt and great day of the feaſt, as it is called, Joh. 7. 37. and yet the ſacrifices were fewer than any other day, to teach them not to truſt to the multitude of their ſacrifices, nor to expect remiſſion of ſins from them, but from the one and only ſacrifice of Chriſt.

37 Their meat-offering, and their drink-offerings for the bullock, for the ram, and for the lambs, ſhall be according to their number, after the manner:

38 And one goat for a ſin-offering, beſide the continual burnt-offering, and his meat-offering, and his drink-offering.

39 Theſe things ye ſhall ‖ do unto the LORD, in your ſet feaſts, beſides your * vows, and your free will-offerings n, for your burnt-offerings, and for your meat-offerings, and for your drink-offerings, and for your peace-offerings. ‖ offer. * Lev. 7. 11, 16.

n Your ordinary ſacrifices ſhall not be omitted becauſe of the extraordinary, which ye offer on ſpecial occaſions.

40 And Moſes told the children of Iſrael according to all that the LORD commanded Moſes.

a The chief Rulers of each Tribe, who were to communicate it to the reſt.

2 If a man b vow a vow c unto the LORD d, or ſwear an oath e to bind his Soul with a bond f, he ſhall not † break his word g; he ſhall do according to all that proceedeth out of his own mouth h. † Heb. profane.

b Which notes both the Sex, as appears by v. 3. and the Age, that he be grown up, for none can be ſo weak as to think the vow of a young Child would bind it. c i. e. A ſimple vow to do ſomething poſſible and lawful. d To the Honour and Service of God. e Confirm his Vow by an Oath. f To reſtrain himſelf from ſomething otherwiſe lawful, as ſuppoſe from ſuch a ſort of Meat or Drink; or to oblige himſelf to the performance of ſomething otherwiſe not neceſſary, as to obſerve a private day of faſting. g Heb. not pollute, or prophane his word, as the ſame phraſe is uſed, Pſal. 55. 20. and 89. 34. i. e. not render his word, and conſequently himſelf prophane, or vile and contemptible in the eyes of others. h And that without delay, Deut. 23. 21. Eccleſ. 5. 4. provided the thing be not unlawful and forbidden by God, Act. 23. 14. for it is an idle conceit that a man can give away Gods right, or that he can make void Gods commands by his own vows, which was the dotage of the Phariſees, Mark 6, 23, 26.

3 If a woman i alſo vow a vow unto the LORD, and bind her ſelf by a bond, being in her fathers houſe k, in her youth l:

i Or a man in the ſame circumſtances, a ſon or a ſervant, as plainly appears from hence, becauſe the reaſon of this Law is perfectly the ſame in both Sexes, which is, that ſuch perſons have given away what was not their own, but anothers, even their ſuperiours right, which is againſt the Rule and Law of Natural Reaſon, and againſt the Word of God, which binds all perſons to give to every one their due. He inſtanceth only in the Woman, becauſe that Sex is both by Creation and Sin put into a ſtate of ſubjection, but under the chief and moſt unqueſtionable kind all other Subjects in like circumſtances are comprehended, as is very uſual. k (i. e.) Under his Care, Power, and Government which ſhe is, whilſt ſhe continues in her Fathers Houſe, being a Virgin, as appears by the oppoſition of a married Woman, v. 6. and of a Widow, and Divorced Woman, v. 9. and by this Phraſe of being in her fathers houſe, for when ſhe marries, ſhe is removed into her Husbands houſe, Ruth. 1.9. Or, being in, or of her Fathers Family, the word Houſe being commonly uſed for Family, for when ſhe marries, ſhe is tranſlated and removed into another Family. l When not only her Sex, but her Age diſenables her for vowing; and this clauſe is added not by way of reſtriction, as if Virgins in their riper years were freed from their Parents juriſdiction, and at their own diſpoſal, (which undoubtedly they are not) but by way of addition, or amplification, q. d. eſpecially (which particle is here to be underſtood, ſuch defects of particles being frequent in the Hebrew Tongue) in her youth, which is commonly reckoned about her Twelfth or Thirteenth year.

4 And her father m hear her vow, and her bond, wherewith ſhe hath bound her ſoul, and her father ſhall hold his peace at her n: then all her vows ſhall ſtand, and every bond, wherewith ſhe hath bound her ſoul, ſhall ſtand o:

n Under which Title ſeem to be comprehended, as in other places of Scripture, Maſters, Magiſtrates, and all other ſuperiours, in ſuch caſes wherein their right is given away by the inferior's vow; as for inſtance, when a Servant vows to go a long journey for his Friend, and his Maſter will not permit him to do ſo; but not in other caſes; as if a Servant vows to do ſomething for another in that time which his Maſter alloweth to his own uſe and diſpoſal, in this caſe his vow binds him, but not in the former. n His ſilence being an interpretative conſent, and much more if he declares his approbation of it. o i.e. Be eſtabliſhed, or confirmed, or be in force.

5 But if her Father diſallow her in the day that he heareth p; not any of her vows, or of her bonds, wherewith ſhe hath bound her ſoul, ſhall ſtand: and the LORD ſhall forgive her q, becauſe her Father diſallowed her.

p i. e. Speedily, or without delay, allowing only neceſſary and convenient time for deliberation. And it is hereby intimated, that the day or time he had for diſallowing her vow, was not to be reckoned from her vowing, but from his hearing, or knowledge of her vow. q Or will forgive either her raſhneſs of making ſuch vows, or rather her not performing of it. But this is to be underſtood only of ſuch vows which could not be performed without invading the Fathers, or Superiours right; for if one ſhould vow to forbear ſuch, or ſuch a ſin, and all unneceſſary occaſions or means leading to it, and to perform ſuch, or ſuch duties, when he had opportunity, no Father, nor Superiour can diſcharge him from ſuch vows.

6 And if ſhe had at all an husband r when † ſhe vowed s, or uttered ought out of her lips t, wherewith ſhe bound her ſoul;

r To whoſe Will and Authority ſhe was thereby made ſubject. s To wit, when ſhe was in her Fathers houſe, as is evident by comparing v. 10. and this clauſe ſeems to be added by way of exception to that which was ſaid, v. 3, 4. to ſignifie, that though ſhe were in her Fathers houſe, yet if ſhe were married, her Husband only, and not her Father, could diſoblige her from her vow. t Either 1. By way of vow, and ſo this clauſe explains and determines the former, i. e. if ſhe expreſs her vow in words. Or 2. By way of Oath, concerning which this ſame phraſe is uſed Levit. 5. 4. and ſo this clauſe is diſtinct from the former, which the disjunctive particle, or, implies.

7 And her husband heard it, and held his peace at her in the day that he heard it: then her vows ſhall ſtand, and her bonds, wherewith ſhe bound her ſoul, ſhall ſtand.

8 But if her husband diſallow her, on the day that he heard it, then he ſhall make her vow which ſhe vowed, and that which ſhe uttered with her lips, wherewith ſhe bound her ſoul, of none effect, and the LORD ſhall forgive her.

9 But every vow of a widow, and of her that is divorced u, wherewith they have bound their ſouls, ſhall ſtand againſt her.

u Though ſhe be in her Fathers houſe, whether ſuch perſons oft returned: which limitation may be gathered both from the oppoſition of her being in her Husbands houſe, v. 10. and from hence, that this was the only doubtful caſe, for if ſuch a perſon was not in her Father's houſe, ſhe was unqueſtionably bound by it, but being now freed from her Husband, and returned to her Father, it was doubtful whether ſhe was not returned to the ſame ſtate of ſubjection in which ſhe was before, and conſequently unable to make or perform a vow without her Fathers conſent, as ſhe was before, which is here denied.

10 And if ſhe vowed in her husbands houſe x, or bound her ſoul by a bond with an oath;

x i. e. If ſhe that now is a Widow, or Divorced, made that vow whileſt her Husband lived with her; as ſuppoſe ſhe then vowed, that if ſhe was a Widow, ſhe would give ſuch a proportion of her eſtate to pious or charitable uſes, of which vow ſhe might repent when ſhe came to be a Widow, and might believe or pretend ſhe was free from it, becauſe that vow was made in her Husbands life time, which is here granted, in caſe her Husband then diſallowed it, but denied, in caſe by ſilence, or otherwiſe he conſented to it. And thus this Law is ſufficiently diſtinguiſhed from that above, v. 6, 7, 8.

11 And her husband heard it, and held his peace at her, and diſallowed her not: then all her vows ſhall ſtand, and every bond, wherewith ſhe bound her ſoul, ſhall ſtand.

12 But if her husband hath utterly made them void on the day he heard them, then whatſoever proceeded out of her lips, concerning her vows, or concerning the bond of her ſoul, ſhall not ſtand, her husband hath made them void, and the LORD ſhall forgive her.

13 Every vow, and every binding oath to afflict the ſoul y, her husband may eſtabliſh it, or her husband may make it void.

y i. e. Her ſelf by faſting, which oft goes under that name, as Levit. 16. 29, 31. and 23. 27, 32. Iſa. 58. 5. by watching, or the like. And theſe words are added not for limitation, for it is manifeſt from v. 5. 8, 10, 12. that the power of Parents and Husbands was more general and large, but for amplification, to ſhew that the Husband had this power not only in thoſe vows which concerned himſelf or his eſtate, but alſo in thoſe which might ſeem only to concern her own Perſon, or Body. And the reaſon hereof is, becauſe the Wives perſon or body being the Husbands right, ſhe might not do any thing to the injury of her body without his conſent.

14 But if her Husband altogether hold his peace at her, from day to day, then he eſtabliſheth all her vows, or all her bonds which are upon her: he confirmeth them, becauſe he held his peace at her, in the day that he heard them.

15 But if he ſhall any ways make them void after that he hath heard them z, then he ſhall bear her Iniquity †.

z And approved them by his ſilence from day to day, if now after that time ſpent, he ſhall upon further thoughts diſlike and hinder it, which he ought not to do. † Her non-performance of her vow ſhall be imputed to him, not to her.

16 Theſe are the ſtatutes which the LORD commanded Moſes, between a man and his wife, between the father and his daughter, being yet in her youth in her fathers houſe.

CHAP. XXXI.

God commands Moſes, before he die, to avenge Iſrael of the Midianites, 1, 2. he chooſes 12000 men: and Phinehas: The Kings of Midian and Balaam ſlain, 3—6. their Women and Cattle taken: and Cities burnt: they bring the ſpoil to Moſes and Eleazar, 7—12. Moſes is wroth with the Officers for ſaving the Women alive: commands them to kill every Male-child and Woman that had known man: the reſt ſaved alive: and to purifie themſelves and the captives, 13—24. a Law for dividing the Booty: executed: and the ſum of the Booty, 25—40. The Tribute-offering of the Lord given to the Prieſts and Levites, 41—47. The Captains make an Offering to the Lord: which is laid up in the Tabernacle for a memorial, 48—54.

1 AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 * Avenge the children of Iſrael of the Midianites: a afterwards ſhalt thou * be gathered unto thy people.

* Chap. 25.17.
* Chap. 27.13.

a For their malicious deſigns and practices againſt Iſrael, both by hiring Balaam to curſe them, and by ſending their Women to inſnare them. The Moabites alſo were guilty, but God out of his own good pleaſure, and in kindneſs to Lot, was pleaſed to ſpare them, the rather, becauſe the meaſure of their Iniquity was not yet full.

3 And Moſes ſpake unto the people, ſaying, Arm ſome of your ſelves unto the war, and let them go againſt the Midianites, and avenge the LORD b of Midian.

b For the affront and injury which they offered to God, partly by their own Idolatry and lewdneſs, and partly by ſeducing Gods people into Rebellion againſt him. Gods great care was to avenge the Iſraelites, v. 2. and Moſes his chief deſire was to avenge God rather than himſelf or the people. Withal he doth hereby inſinuate, that God and his people have the ſame cauſe, the ſame Friends and Enemies.

4 † Of every tribe a thouſand, throughout all the tribes of Iſrael, ſhall ye ſend to the war.

† Heb. thouſand a tribe, thouſand a tribe.

5 So there were delivered out of the thouſands of Iſrael, a thouſand of every tribe c, twelve thouſand armed for war.

c To prevent Emulations or Diviſions. d God would ſend no more, though it is apparent that the Midianites were numerous and ſtrong, becauſe he would try and exerciſe their truſt in him, and becauſe he would hereby give them an earneſt of their Canaanitiſh Conqueſts.

6 And Moſes ſent them to the war, a thouſand of every tribe; them and Phinehas e the ſon of Eleazar the Prieſt to the war, with the holy inſtruments f, and the trumpets to blow g in his hand.

e Who had the charge not of the Army, as General, (an Office never committed to any Prieſt in all the Old Teſtament) but of the Holy Inſtruments, &c. as is here expreſſed, and was alſo ſent to encourage, and quicken, and confirm them in their good enterprize. It is not here mentioned who was the general, whether Joſua, as ſome think, becauſe he is not named amongſt thoſe who went out to meet the returning hoſt, though that might be for other reaſons, or ſome other Prince, nor is it worth while to determine. f Either 1 the Ark, with the things belonging to it, which before the building of the Temple, they did ſometimes carry into the War for the encouragement of their Army. See Numb. 14. 44. Joſ. 6. 9. 1 Sam. 4. 4 and 14. 18. But why then is it thus ambiguouſly expreſſed, ſeeing in all the other places it is called by its proper Name? Nor is the Ark ever ſo called in Scripture. Or 2. The Trumpets, as it here follows, the words being thus to be read, the Holy Inſtruments, that is, the Trumpets: for and is oft times put exegetically for that is, or to wit, as Gen. 13 15.

1 Chron. 21.12. compared with 2 Sam. 24 13. Zach. 1.4. & 9. 9, &c. Or rather 3. The Holy Breaſt-plate, wherein was the Urim and Thummim, which was eaſily carried, and uſed, and very uſeful in War upon many emergent occaſions. See 1 Sam. 23. 9 & 30. 7. g Which were to be uſed in war as well as in the ſervice of the Tabernacle. See Numb. 10.9. 2 Chron. 13.12.

7 And they warred againſt the Midianites, as the LORD commanded Moſes, and they ſlew * all the males h.

h Namely all whom they took in that war; Or, all who lived in thoſe parts, for it is probable (and was then very uſual) ſome colonies of them were ſent forth to remoter places, which therefore had no hand either in their former ſin, or in this preſent ruine, of whom we read after this, Judg. 6. And herein they did according to God's own order concerning ſuch people, Deut. 20. 13. only their fault was, that they did not conſider the ſpecial reaſon and great obligation which they had to involve the Women in the deſtruction, for which reaſon Moſes blames them afterward, v. 15.16.

8 And they ſlew the Kings of Midian i, beſides the reſt of them that were ſlain; namely, * Evi, and Rekem, and Zur k, and Hur, and Reba, five Kings of Midian: Balaam alſo l the ſon of Beor, they ſlew with the ſword.

i Called Dukes or Princes of Sihon, Joſ. 13. 21. becauſe they were ſubject to him while he lived, but upon his death they reſumed their Kingly power. k The Father of Cozbi, Numb. 25. 15. l Obj. He was gone and returned to his own place, Numb. 24.25. which was Aram or Meſopotamia, Numb. 23 7. Anſw. Either he did go thitherward, but in his journey made ſome ſtay in Midian, where he was overtaken by divine vengeance: or underſtanding the ſucceſs of his wicked counſel left with Balaam, in the ſin and ſlaughter of the Iſraelites, he returned, partly to enjoy the reputation and reward of his counſel which he had loſt before, and partly to employ his Helliſh arts againſt Iſrael; now they were, as he thought forſaken by their God, and expoſed to his malice. Here Balaam dies the death of the wicked, and not of the righteous, as he deſired, Numb. 23. 10.

9 And the children of Iſrael took all the Women of Midian Captives, and their little ones, and took the ſpoil of all their cattel, and all their flocks, and all their goods

10 And they burnt all their cities m wherein they dwelt, and all their goodly caſtles with fire:

m Partly to blot out the name and memory of ſo lewd and vile a people; partly leſt any of the Iſraelites ſhould be tempted to ſettle there, and ſo be diſcouraged in their progreſs to Canaan; and partly leſt they ſhould be poſſeſſed by other people who might prove as bad Neighbors to them as theſe would have been.

11 And they took all the ſpoil, and all the prey both of men and of beaſts.

12 And they brought the captives, and the prey and the ſpoil unto Moſes, and Eleazar the Prieſt, and unto the congregation of the children of Iſrael, unto the camp at the plains of Moab, which are by Jordan near Jericho.

13 And Moſes, and Eleazar the Prieſt, and all the Princes of the congregation went forth to meet them without the camp n.

n Partly to put reſpect upon them, and congratulate with them for their happy ſucceſs; and partly to prevent the pollution of the Camp by the untimely entrance of the Warriors into it.

14 And Moſes was wroth with the officers of the hoſt o, with the captains over thouſands, and captains over hundreds, which came from the † battel.

o Becauſe they had ſpared thoſe who were moſt criminal, and who by the law of God and of Nature were worthy of Death.

*See Deut. 20. 23. 1 Sam. 15. 3.

16 Behold, * theſe cauſed the children of Iſrael, through the * counſel of Balaam, to commit treſpaſs againſt the LORD in the matter of Peor, and * there was a plague among the congregation of the LORD.

17 Now therefore, * kill every male among the little ones p, and kill every woman that hath known man q, by lying with † him.

p Which they were forbidden to do to other people, Deut. 20. 14. except the Canaanites, to whom this people had equalled themſelves by their horrid crimes, and therefore it is not ſtrange, nor unjuſt, that God, the ſupream Lord of all mens lives, who as he gives them, ſo may take them away when he pleaſeth, did equal them in the puniſhment. q Partly for puniſhment, becauſe the guilt was general, and though ſome of them only did proſtitute themſelves to the Iſraelites, yet the reſt made themſelves acceſſary by their conſent or concurrence, or approbation; and partly, for prevention of the like miſchief from ſuch an adulterous generation.

18 But all the women children that have not known a man r by lying with him, keep alive for your ſelves s.

r To wit, carnally See on Gen. 48. 1. & 19. 8. Levit. 18.22. s Either to ſell them as ſlaves to others, or to uſe them as Servants to your ſelves, or to marry them, when you have prepared and inſtructed them.

*Chap. 19. 11, &c.

19 And do ye abide without the camp ſeven days s: whoſoever hath killed any perſon, and * whoſoever hath touched any ſlain, purifie t both your ſelves, and your captives on the third day, and on the ſeventh day.

21 And Eleazar the prieſt ſaid unto the men of war which went to the battel, This is the ordinance of the Law which the LORD commanded Moſes.

22 Only the gold, and the ſilver, the braſs, the iron, the tin, and the lead.

* Chap. 19. 9, 17.

23 Every thing that may abide the fire, ye ſhall make it go thorow the fire, and it ſhall be clean: nevertheleſs, it ſhall be purified * with the water of ſeparation; and all that abideth not the fire, ye ſhall make go thro' the water.

24 And ye ſhall waſh your clothes on the ſeventh day, and ye ſhall be clean, and afterward ye ſhall come into the camp.

25 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

† Heb. Of the captivity.

26 Take the ſum of the prey † that was taken, both of man and of beaſt, thou and Eleazar the prieſt, and the chief fathers of the congregation;

* Joſh. 22. 8. 1 Sam. 30. 24.

27 And * divide the prey into two parts, between them that took the war upon them, who went out to battel, and between all the congregation y.

y The Congregation hath ſome ſhare, becauſe the Warriors went in the name of all, and becauſe all having been injured by the Midianites, all were to have ſome ſhare in the reparations: but the Warriors who were but 12000, have a far greater ſhare then others of their brethren, becauſe they underwent greater pains and dangers.

28 And levy a tribute unto the LORD of the men of war which went out to battel: one ſoul z. of five hundred, both of the perſons, and of the beeves, and of the aſſes, and of the ſheep.

z (i. e.) One perſon, as it follows here and ver. 30.

29 Take it of their half, and give it unto Eleazar the prieſt for an heave offering of the LORD a.

a In thankfulneſs to God for their preſervation and good ſucceſs.

|| Or goats. * chap. 3. 7, 8, 25, 31, 36.

30 And of the children of Iſraels half, thou ſhalt take one portion of fifty b, of the perſons, of the beeves, of the aſſes, and of the || ſheep, of all manner of beaſts, and give them unto the Levites, * which keep the charge of the tabernacle of the LORD.

b Whereas the former part was one of 500; the reaſon of the difference is, partly, becauſe this was taken out of the peoples portion, whoſe hazards being leſs than the others, their gains alſo in all reaſon were to be leſs; partly becauſe this was to be diſtributed into more hands, the Levites being now numerous, when the Prieſts were but few.

31 And Moſes and Eleazar the prieſt did as the LORD commanded Moſes.

32 And the booty, being the reſt of the prey c which the men of war had caught, was ſix hundred thouſand, and ſeventy thouſand, and five thouſand ſheep, b All which was now left of the prey. It is ſo expreſſed becauſe they took more, but ſome of the perſons were ſince killed, ver. 17. and ſome of the cattel was ſpent for the neceſſary proviſions of the army,

33 And threeſcore and twelve thouſand beeves,

34 And threeſcore and one thouſand aſſes,

35 And thirty and two thouſand perſons in all, of women that had not known man, by lying with him.

36 And the half, which was the portion of them that went out to war, was in number three hundred thouſand, and ſeven and thirty thouſand, and five hundred ſheep.

37 And the LORDS tribute of the ſheep was ſix hundred and threeſcore and fifteen.

38 And the beeves were thirty and ſix thouſand, of which the LORDS tribute was threeſcore and twelve.

39 And the aſſes were thirty thouſand and five hundred, of which the LORDS tribute was threeſcore and one.

40 And the perſons were ſixteen thouſand, of which the LORDS tribute was thirty and two perſons.

41 And Moſes gave the tribute which was the LORDS heave-offering unto Eleazar the prieſt, as the LORD commanded Moſes d.

d Either now upon his conſulting of God in the caſe, or formerly in general rules and laws for ſuch occaſions, ſuch as Numb. 18. 8.

42 And of the children of Iſraels half, which Moſes divided from the men that warred:

43 (Now the half that pertained unto the congregation, was three hundred thouſand and thirty thouſand, and ſeven thouſand and five hundred ſheep.

44 And thirty and ſix thouſand beeves:

45 And thirty thouſand aſſes, and five hundred,

46 And ſixteen thouſand perſons,)

47 Even of the children of Iſraels half, Moſes took one portion of fifty, both of man and of beaſt, and gave them unto the Levites, which kept the charge of the tabernacle of the LORD, as the LORD commanded Moſes.

48 And the officers, which were over thouſands of the hoſt, the captains of thouſands, and captains of hundreds came near unto Moſes,

49 And they ſaid unto Moſes, Thy ſervants have taken the ſum of the men of war which are under our † charge, and there lacketh not one man of us:

50 We have therefore brought an oblation for the LORD, what every man hath † gotten, of jewels of gold, chains and bracelets, rings, earings, and tablets, to make an atonement for our ſouls e before the LORD.

e For their error noted ver. 14. 15, 16. and withal for a memorial, as it is ſaid ver. 54. or by way of gratitude for ſuch a ſtupendious aſſiſtance and deliverance, as appears from the word therefore in the beginning of this verſe, and from ver. 49.

51 And Moſes and Eleazar the prieſt took the gold of them: even all wrought jewels.

52 And all the gold of the † offering that they offered up to the LORD, of the captains of thouſands, and of the captains of hundreds, was ſixteen thouſand ſeven hundred and fifty ſhekels.

53 (For the men of war had taken ſpoil, every man for himſelf.)

54 And Moſes and Eleazar the prieſt took the gold of the captains of thouſands and of hundreds, and brought it into the tabernacle of the congregation, for a memorial for the children of Iſrael before the LORD.

CHAP. XXXII.

The Reubenites and Gadites ſue for their Inheritance on that ſide Jordan, as being fit for Cattel, 1——5. Moſes reproves them as diſcouraging the People, and herein following their Father's ill example, 6——15. They promiſe to leave their Children and Cattel there, and go armed before their Brethren till Canaan ſhould be ſubdued, 16——19. On which condition, they, together with the half Tribe of Manaſſeh, obtain their deſire, 20——42

1 NOW the children of Reuben, and the children of Gad, had a very great multitude of cattel: and when they ſaw the land of Jazer a, and the land of Gilead b, that behold, the place was a place for cattel:

a A city and country taken from the Amorites, Numb. 21. 32. b A mountainous country, famous for paſturage, Jer. 50.19. Mich. 7. 14.

2 The children of Gad, and the children of Reuben, came and ſpake unto Moſes, and to Eleazar the prieſt, and unto the princes of the congregation, ſaying, 3 Ataroth c, and Dibon, and Jazer, and Nimrah d, and Heſhbon, and Elealeh, and Shebam e, and Nebo, and Beon f.

c Different from that Ataroth, Joſh. 16. 2, 7. which was on the other ſide of Jordan. d Called Beth-nimrah, ver. 36. and Joſ. 13. 27. and the waters of Nimrim, Iſa. 15.6. e Called Shibmah, ver. 38. f Which is thought to be the ſame place called Baal-meon, ver. 38. and Beth-meon, Jer. 48.23.

* ch. 21. 24, 34.

4 Even the countrey * which the LORD ſmote before the congregation of Iſrael g, is a land for cattel, and thy ſervants have cattel.

g And given to them for a poſſeſſion, in the ſame manner as he will give the land of Canaan.

5 Wherefore, ſaid they, if we have found grace in thy ſight, let this land be given unto thy ſervants for a poſſeſſion: and bring us not over Jordan h.

h To wit, to give us our poſſeſſion there, but let this land on this ſide Jordan be our whole poſſeſſion.

6 And Moſes ſaid unto the children of Gad, and to the children of Reuben, Shall your brethren go to war, and ſhall ye ſit here i?

i In eaſe and peace, whileſt your brethren are ingaged in a bloody war. Their words were ambiguous, and Moſes thought this to be an act of unbelief and ſloth, and ſelf-love and policy.

7 And wherefore † diſcourage ye the heart of the children of Iſrael, from going over into the land which the LORD hath given them?

* ch. 13. 3.
* Deut. 1. 22.
* ch. 13. 24

8 Thus did your fathers, when I * ſent them from Kadeſh-barnea * to ſee the land.

9 For * when they went up into the valley of Eſhcol, and ſaw the land, they diſcouraged the heart of the children of Iſrael, that they ſhould not go k into the land which the LORD had given them.

k That they ſhould not attempt to go, but rather return to Egypt, Numb. 14. 4.

10 And the LORDS anger was kindled the ſame time, and he ſware, ſaying,

* chap. 14. 24, 30.
† Heb. fulfilled after me.

11 Surely none of the men that came up out of Egypt, * from twenty years old and upward, ſhall ſee the land which I ſware unto Abraham, unto Iſaac, and unto Jacob, becauſe * they have not † wholly followed me:

12 Save Caleb the ſon of Jephunneh, the Kenezite l, and Joſhua the ſon of Nun: for they have wholly followed the LORD.

l So called from Kenaz, his grand-father, or one of his eminent anceſtors, Joſ. 15. 17. 1 Chron. 4 13, 14, 15.

13 And the LORDS anger was kindled againſt Iſrael, and he made them wander in the wilderneſs forty years, until all the generation that had done evil in the ſight of the LORD were conſumed.

14 And, behold, ye are riſen up in your fathers ſtead, an increaſe of ſinful men m, to augment yet the fierce anger of the LORD toward Iſrael.

m Succeeding your fathers, as in their places and eſtates, ſo alſo in their ſins.

15 For if ye turn away from after him, he will yet again leave them in the wilderneſs, and ye ſhall deſtroy all this people n.

n Who being moved by your counſel and example, will refuſe to go over Jordan, and to poſſeſs the land of Canaan.

16 And they came near unto him, and ſaid, We will build ſheep-folds here for our cattel, and cities for our little ones:

17 But we our ſelves o will go ready armed before the children of Iſrael, until we have brought them unto their place: and our little ones ſhall dwell in the fenced cities, becauſe of the inhabitants of the land p.

o Either all, or as many of us as ſhall be thought neceſſary, leaving only ſo many as may be neceſſary to provide for the ſuſtenance and defence of our wives and children here. See Joſ. 4. 12, 13. p The Moabites and Edomites, or other bordering people.

18 * We will not return unto our houſes, until the children of Iſrael have inherited every man his inheritance:

19 For we will not inherit with them on yonder ſide Jordan, or forward, becauſe our inheritance is fallen to us on this ſide Jordan eaſtward.

20 And * Moſes ſaid unto them, If ye will do this thing, if ye will go armed before the LORD p, to war, p Either 1. ſincerely and heartily, as in God's preſence. Or rather 2. before the Ark, which was the token of God's preſence. He alludes either to the order of the tribes in their march, whereby Reuben and Gad marched next and immediately before the Ark, as appears from Numb. 2. 10, 14, 16, 17. Or to the manner of their paſſage over Jordan, wherein the Ark went firſt into Jordan, and ſtood there whileſt all the tribes marched over Jordan by and before it, Joſ. 3. & 4. and theſe amongſt the reſt, as is expreſly noted in theſe very words, that they paſſed over before the Lord, Joſ. 4. 13.

21 And will go all of you armed over Jordan before the LORD, until he hath driven out his enemies from before him.

22 And * the land be ſubdued before the LORD q; then afterward ye ſhall return, and be guiltleſs before the LORD, and before Iſrael; and * this land ſhall be your poſſeſſion before the LORD.

q (i.e.) By his preſence and gracious and powerful aſſiſtance

23 But if ye will not do ſo, behold, ye have ſinned againſt the LORD; and be ſure your ſin r will find you out.

r (i. e.) The puniſhment of your ſin; as that word is very oft uſed.

24 Build your cities for your little ones, and folds for your ſheep, and do that which hath proceeded out of your mouth s.

s Which you have uttered and promiſed to do. See this or the like phraſe, Numb. 30. 2. Mat. 15. 18.

25 And the children of Gad, and the children of Reuben, ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, Thy ſervants will do as my lord commandeth.

26 Our little ones, our wives, our flocks, and all our cattel ſhall be there in the cities of Gilead t.

t Largely ſo called, as that word is oft uſed, for that whole country beyond Jordan, as in other places it is taken more ſtrictly for a part of it, as here below, ver. 39, 40. and elſewhere.

27 * But thy ſervants will paſs over, every man armed for war, before the LORD to battel, as my lord ſaith.

28 So * concerning them, Moſes commanded Eleazar the prieſt, and Joſhua the ſon of Nun, and the chief fathers of the tribes of the children of Iſrael:

29 And Moſes ſaid unto them, If the children of Gad, and the children of Reuben will paſs with you over Jordan, every man armed to battel before the LORD, and the land ſhall be ſubdued before you, then ye ſhall give them the land of Gilead for a poſſeſſion:

30 But if they will not paſs over with you armed, they ſhall have poſſeſſion among you in the land of Canaan u.

u They ſhall forfeit and loſe their poſſeſſions in Gilead, and ſhall be conſtrained to go over Jordan, and to ſeek poſſeſſions there among their brethren.

31 And the children of Gad, and the children of Reuben anſwered, ſaying, As the LORD hath ſaid x unto thy ſervants, ſo will we do.

x Either at this time by thy mouth: or formerly, where he commandeth us as well as our brethren to go into Canaan and poſſeſs it.

32 We will paſs over armed before the LORD into the land of Canaan, that the poſſeſſion of our inheritance on this ſide Jordan may be ours.

33 And * Moſes gave unto them, even to the children of Gad, and to the children of Reuben, and unto half the tribe of Manaſſeh y the ſon of Joſeph, the * Kingdom of Sihon king of the Amorite, and the kingdom of Og king of Baſhan, the land with the cities thereof, in the coaſts, even the cities of the country round about.

*Deut.3.2 Joſh.13.8. and 22.4. *ch.21. 24,33.

y Who are here added to the Tribes of Reuben and Gad, either becauſe upon the good ſucceſs of the two Tribes of Reuben and Gad, they were encouraged to make the ſame requeſt for themſelves, as having much cattel, as well as they: or becauſe upon further conſideration it was found that this portion of land was more than ſufficient for thoſe two tribes, and it was given by Moſes to theſe rather than to any other, becauſe they fought againſt the Amorites with great courage and ſucceſs, here ver. 39. & Joſ. 17. 1.

34 And the children of Gad built z Dibon, and Ataroth, and Aroer, z (i. e.) Repaired and fortified, as that word is oft uſed, as 1 King. 12.25. 2 *King.*14.22. 2 Chron. 8.4. & 11.5, &c. and 26.2. *Dan.*4.30. For they neither had need nor leiſure as yet to do more, the old cities not being burnt and ruined, as divers in Canaan were.

35 And Atroth, Shophan, and * Jaazer, and Jogbehah,

36 And * Beth-nimrah, and Beth-haran, fenced cities: and folds for ſheep.

*Ver.3. Nimrah.

37 And the children of Reuben * built Heſhbon, and Elealeh, and Kirjathaim,

*ch.21.27.

38 And Nebo a, and Baal-meon, (* their names being changed b) and Shibmah: and † gave other names unto the cities which they builded.

a Of which city ſee *Deut.*34.1 *Jer.*48.1. b Either becauſe conquerors of places uſe to do ſo: or becauſe the names of other Gods (which Nebo and Baal-meon unqueſtionably were) were not to be mentioned, *Exod.*23.13. eſpecially at the firſt ſettling of the Iſraelites there, that the very remembrance of the Idols might be blotted out, and ſo the temptation to Idolatry removed, though afterwards, when that danger was over, they were called by their old names again, Joſ. 13.17,20.

39 And the children of * Machir the ſon of Manaſſeh went to Gilead, and took it c, and diſpoſſeſſed the Amorite which was in it.

c (i. e.) Part of it, or Gilead is here taken more ſtrictly. See above on ver. 29. and Gen. 31. 21. Deut. 3.12,13.

40 And Moſes * gave Gilead unto Machir the ſon of Manaſſeh d, and he dwelt therein.

*Deut.3. 12,13, 15.

d (i.e.) Not to Machir himſelf, who doubtleſs was long ſince dead, (ſee *Gen.*50.23.) but the family or poſterity of Machir, which are called by their fathers name; as the names of Abraham, Act. 7. 16. of Iſaac, Amos 7. 9. of Jacob or Iſrael frequently, of Judah and Simeon, Judg. 1. 3. of David, 1 King. 12. 6. are manifeſtly put for their poſterity.

CHAP. XXXIII.

A relation of the marches and Campings of the Iſraelites from Egypt to Canaan, 1——50. They are commanded to drive out the Canaanites, and deſtroy their Pictures, Molten Images, and high Places, and to divide the Land by Lot, 51——54. The Canaanites, if not diſpoſſeſs'd, ſhould trouble and vex them; and God would do to them as he thought to do to the others, 55, 56.

1 THeſe are the journeys of the children of Iſrael, which went forth out of the land of Egypt with their armies a, under the hand of Moſes and Aaron.

b Who would have this done, partly to evince the truth of the hiſtory, partly to preſerve the remembrance of God's glorious and miraculous works both of judgment and mercy towards his people, and thereby to confirm their faith in their preſent difficult undertaking.

3 And they * departed from Rameſes c in the firſt month, on the fifteenth day of the firſt month: on the morrow after the paſſover the children of Iſrael went out * with an high hand, in the ſight of all the Egyptians d.

CHAP. XXXIV.

God deſcribes the Borders of Canaan, 1—15. And names thoſe who ſhould divide the ſame among the Children of Iſrael, 16—29.

1 AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 Command the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, When ye come into the land of Canaan (this is the land that ſhall fall unto you for an inheritance, even the land of Canaan with the coaſts a thereof.)

a Or, limits or bounds, to wit, of the land beyond Jordan. Which are here particularly deſcribed, 1. to direct and bound them in their wars and conqueſts, that they might not ſeek the enlargement of their empire, after the manner of other nations, but be contented with their own portion. 2. To encourage them in their attempt upon Canaan, and aſſure them of their ſucceſs. 3. To guide them in the approaching diſtribution of the land.

* Joſh. 15.1 * Gen. 14.3 3 Then * your ſouth-quarter b ſhall be from the wilderneſs of Zin, along by the coaſt of Edom c, and your ſouth-border ſhall be the outmoſt coaſt of * the ſalt ſea d eaſtward e.

b Which is here deſcribed from Eaſt to Weſt by divers windings and turnings, by reaſon of the mountains, rivers, &c. c Bordering all along upon the Edomites. d So called from the ſalt and ſulphurous taſt of its waters. e (i.e.) At the eaſtern part of that ſea, where the Eaſtern and Southern borders meet.

4 And your border ſhall turn from the ſouth to the aſcent of Akrabbim f, and paſs unto Zin: and the going forth thereof ſhall be from the ſouth g to Kadeſh-Barnea h, and ſhall go on to Hazar-addar i, and paſs on to Azmon k.

f Called Maaleh-akrabbim, Joſ. 15. 3. which was at the ſouth end of the ſalt or dead ſea. g Or, on the ſouth, i. e. proceeding onward towards the South. h Which was on the Southern part of Canaan, Numb. 13. 17. i Which in Joſ. 15. 3. may ſeem diſtinguiſhed into two places, Hezron and Addar, which here are united, becauſe peradventure they were contiguous, or joined together. Or, the village of Addar, and ſo this is the ſame place called Addar, Joſ. 15. 3. and for Hezron, that may be another place here omitted, and there ſupplied for more exactneſs. k Which is at the Weſt-end of the mount of Edom.

5 And the border ſhall fetch a compaſs from Azmon unto the river of Egypt l, and the goings out of it ſhall be at the ſea m.

l Called Sihor, Joſ. 13. 3. which divided Egypt from Canaan. See Gen. 15. 18. m The midland ſea, called the ſea emphatically, whereas the other ſeas there, as they are called, are indeed but lakes.

6 And as for the weſtern border, ye ſhall even have the great n ſea for a border: this ſhall be your weſt-border.

n The midland ſea from the ſouth to the North ſo far as runs parallel with mount Libanus.

7 And this ſhall be your north border: from the great ſea ye ſhall point out for you mount Hor o.

o Not that Hor where Aaron died, Numb. 20. 22. which was Southward, and bordering upon Edom, Numb. 33. 37, 38. and therefore could not be their northern border, but another mountain, and, as it is conceived, the mountain of Libanus, which is elſewhere mentioned as the Northern border of the land, and which, in regard of divers parts, or by divers people, is called by divers names, as Sirion and Senir, Deut. 3. 9. and Sion, Deut. 4. 48. and Hermon, Joſ. 13. 5. and here Hor, which ſignifies a mountain, and this may be called ſo by way of eminency. Certain it is, that as Hor here, ſo Hermon, Joſ. 13. 5. is joined with the entrance of Hamath, which makes it probable they are one and the ſame place.

8 From mount Hor, ye ſhall point out your border unto the entrance of Hamath p, and the goings forth of the border ſhall be to Zedad.

p Called Hamath the great, Amos 6. 2. which is among the Northern borders, Ezek. 47. 16, 17. See Gen. 10. 15, 18. Numb. 13. 21. Judg. 3. 3. 1 King. 8. 65.

9 And the border ſhall go unto Ziphron, and the goings out of it ſhall be at Hazar-enan? this ſhall be your north-border.

10 And ye ſhall point out your eaſt-border, from Hazar-enan to Shepham.

11 And the coaſt ſhall go down from Shepham to Riblah, on the eaſt-ſide of Ain: and the border ſhall deſcend, and ſhall reach unto the † ſide of the ſea of Chinnereth q eaſtward. † Heb. ſhoulder.

q Of this name we have a city, Joſ. 19. 35. and a country, Joſ. 11. 2. 1 King. 15. 20. and a Sea or Lake, here and Joſ. 12. 3. and 13. 27 which in the New Teſtament is called the ſea of Geneſareth, Luk. 5. 1. and of Galilee, and of Tiberias, Joh. 6. 1.

12 And the border ſhall go down to Jordan r, and the goings out of it ſhall be at the ſalt ſea: this ſhall be your land with the coaſts thereof round about.

r (i. e.) All along the river of Jordan even to the end of it, which is the eaſtern border.

13 And Moſes commanded the children of Iſrael, ſaying, This is the land which they ſhall inherit by lot, which the LORD commanded to give unto the nine tribes, and to the half tribe.

14 * For the tribe of the children of Reuben, according to the houſe of their fathers, and the tribe of the children of Gad, according to the houſe of their fathers, have received their inheritance, and half the tribe of Manaſſeh have received their inheritance. * ch. 32. 33. Joſh. 14. 3.

15 The two tribes, and the half tribe, have received their inheritance on this ſide Jordan near Jericho, eaſtward, toward the ſun-riſing.

16 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

17 Theſe are the names of the men which ſhall divide the land unto you: * Eleazar the prieſt s, and Joſhua the ſon of Nun. * Joſh. 14. & 19.

s Who was to act in God's name, to caſt lots, to prevent differences and contentions, to conſult with God in caſes of difficulty, to tranſact the whole buſineſs in a ſolemn and religious manner.

18 And ye ſhall take one prince of every tribe, to divide the land by inheritance.

19 And the names of the men are theſe: of the tribe of Judah t, Caleb the ſon of Jephunneh.

t The order of the Tribes is here differing from that Numb. 1. 7, 26. and in other places, being here, as alſo Joſ. 16. and 17. & 18. & 19. conformed to the order of their ſeveral inheritances, which afterwards fell to them by Lot. Which is an evident demonſtration of the infinite wiſdom of God's providence, and of his exact and peculiar care over his people.

20 And of the tribe of the children of Simeon, Shemuel the ſon of Ammihud.

21 Of the tribe of Benjamin, Elidad the ſon of Chisbon.

22 And the prince of the tribe of the children of Dan, Bukki the ſon of Jogli.

23 The prince of the children of Joſeph: for the the tribe of the children of Manaſſeh, Hanniel the ſon of Ephod.

24 And the prince of the tribe of the children of Ephraim, Kemuel the ſon of Shiphtan.

25 And the prince of the tribe of the children of Zebulun, Elizaphan the ſon of Parnach.

26 And the prince of the tribe of the children of Iſſachar, Paltiel the ſon of Azzan.

27 And the prince of the tribe of the children of Aſher, Ahihud the ſon of Shelomi.

28 And the prince of the tribe of the children of Naphtali; Pedahel the ſon of Ammihud.

29 Theſe are they whom the LORD commanded to divide the inheritance unto the children of Iſrael, in the land of Canaan.

CHAP. XXXV.

Eight and forty Cities given to the Levites: together with their ſuburbs: among which ſix Cities of Refuge: for an Iſraelite or Stranger who had kill'd another unawares, 1—15. Wilful murther decided: and the murtherer to be put to death, 16—21. The Man-ſlayer muſt abide in the City of Refuge till the death of the High-Prieſt: and if caught out of it might be killed, 25—29. Two witneſſes required to condemn a man to dye, 30. No ſatisfaction to be taken for the Life of a Murtherer, 31. nor that any one might return from a City of Refuge before the time, 32. that the land be not defiled and polluted and not cleanſed of the Blood ſhed in it, 33, 34.

1 AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes in the plains of Moab by Jordan, near Jericho, ſaying,

2 * Command the children of Iſrael, that they give unto the Levites of the inheritance of their poſſeſſion, cities to dwell in: and ye ſhall give alſo unto the Levites, ſuburbs for the cities round about them.

* Joſ. 14. 3, 4. and 21. 2.

a For paſturage for their cattel: where they might not build houſes, nor plant gardens, orchards or vineyards, no nor ſow corn, for which they were abundantly provided out of the firſt-fruits and tithes. And theſe ſuburbs did not belong to the Levites in common, but were diſtributed to them in convenient proportions, as may appear from Joſ. 21. 18. 1 Chron. 6. 60.

4 And the ſuburbs of the cities which ye ſhall give unto the Levites, ſhall reach from the wall of the city and outward, a thouſand cubits round about b.

b Obj. In the next verſe it is two thouſand. How do theſe agree? Anſw. 1. LXX Interpreters read both here and ver. 5. two thouſand cubits, whence ſome ſuppoſe this to be an error in the Hebrew Text, which, being in a matter neither concerning faith nor good manners, is not prejudicial to the authority of the holy Scriptures. Anſw. 2. The one thouſand cubits may be in length from the city, and the two thouſand cubits in breadth on each ſide of the city, and ſo they well agree; for a line of a thouſand cubits being drawn in length eaſtward and another weſtward and another northward and another ſouthward, a line, drawn at a thouſand cubits diſtance from the city, from eaſt to weſt muſt needs contain two thouſand cubits, and ſo muſt the other line from north to ſouth, and ſo on every ſide of the city there muſt be two thouſand cubits. Anſw. 3. This verſe and the next do not ſpeak to the ſame thing: this ſpeaks of the ſpace or place from whence the ſuburbs ſhall be meaſured, the next verſe ſpeaks of the ſpace unto which that meaſure ſhall be extended; and the words may very well be read thus, And the ſuburbs—— ſhall be (ſo it is only an ellipſis of the verb ſubſtantive, which is moſt frequent, and the meaning is, ſhall be taken or accounted) from the wall of the city and from (that particle being ſupplied or underſtood from the foregoing words, which is very uſual) without it, or, from the outward parts of it, (which being a general and indefinite expreſſion is limited and explained by the following words) even from a thouſand cubits round about. Which are mentioned not as the thing meaſured, for as yet there is not a word of meaſuring, but as the term or ſpace from which the meaſuring line ſhould begin. And then it follows ver. 5. And ye ſhall meaſure from without the city, (not from the wall of the city, as was ſaid before ver. 4. but from without it, i. e. from the ſaid outward part or ſpace of a thouſand cubits without the wall of the city round about) on the eaſt-ſide two thouſand cubits, &c. So in truth there were three thouſand cubits from the wall of the city, whereof one thouſand probably were for out-houſes, ſtalls for cattel, gardens, vineyards and olive yards, and the like, and the other two thouſand for paſture, which are therefore called the field of the ſuburbs, Lev. 25. 34. by way of diſtinction from the ſuburbs themſelves, which conſiſt of the firſt thouſand cubits from the wall of the city.

5 And ye ſhall meaſure from without the city on the eaſt-ſide two thouſand cubits, and on the ſouth-ſide two thouſand cubits, and on the weſt-ſide two thouſand cubits, and on the north-ſide two thouſand cubits: and the city ſhall be in the midſt: this ſhall be to them the ſuburbs of the cities.

6 And among the cities which ye ſhall give unto the the Levites, there ſhall be * ſix cities for refuge c, which ye ſhall appoint for the man-ſlayer d, that he may flee thither: and † to them ye ſhall add forty and two cities.

* Deut. 4. 41. Joſh. 20. 2. and 21. 3, 21.

c Or, of receit, or eſcape, or reſort, to wit, for man-ſlayers: And theſe cities are aſſigned among the Levites, partly becauſe they might be preſumed to be the moſt proper and impartial Judges between man-ſlayers, and wilful murderers; partly becauſe their preſence and counſel and authority would more effectually bridle the paſſions of the avenger of blood who might purſue him thither; and partly to ſignifie, that it is only in Chriſt (whom the Levitical Prieſts did repreſent) that ſinners find refuge and ſafety from the deſtroyer. The names of theſe Cities we have Deut. 4. 41, 43. Joſ. 20. 8. d Such as is here deſcribed, ver. 11, 15, 22, 23.

7 So all the cities which ye ſhall give to the Levites ſhall be forty and eight cities: them ſhall ye give with their ſuburbs.

8 And the cities which ye ſhall give, ſhall be of the poſſeſſion of the children of Iſrael: * from them that have many, ye ſhall give many e; but from them that have few, ye ſhall give few. Every one ſhall give of his cities unto the Levites according to his inheritance which † he inheriteth.

* chap. 26. 54.

e Compare Numb. 33 54. Joſ. 20. 2.

9 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

10 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, * When ye be come over Jordan, into the land of Canaan:

* Deut. 19. 2. Joſh. 20. 2.

11 Then * ye ſhall appoint you cities to be cities of refuge for you, that the ſlayer may flee thither, which killeth any perſon † at unawares f.

* Exod. 21. 13.

f (i. e.) Not wilfully, deſignedly or maliciouſly, but inconſiderately, through miſtake or indiſcretion or careleſneſs. See Levit. 4. 2.

12 And they ſhall be unto you cities for refuge from the avenger g, that the man-ſlayer die not h, until he ſtand before the congregation i in judgment k.

g To wit, of the party ſlain, or, of blood, as it is fully expreſſed below ver. 19, 25. Heb. from the redeemer, or, from the next kinſman, to whom by the law belonged the right of redemption of the lands of, and vindication of the injury done to, the perſon deceaſed. h (i. e.) Be not killed by the avenger meeting him in ſome other place. i (i. e.) Before the ſociety or convention of Judges or Elders who were appointed in every City for the deciſion of criminal cauſes, who were 23 who were to examine the matter, and that publickly before the people, whether the murder was wilful or caſual. Queſt. In what City was this cauſe to be tried? Anſw. Some ſay, in the City of refuge, others ſay, in the City in or near which the fact was committed. It ſeems to me it was done in both, at firſt in the City of refuge, as is manifeſt in Joſ. 20. 4. but if that trial and ſentence did not ſatisfie the avenger of blood, it was fully and finally determined in the other City, as is ſufficiently evident both by comparing this place with ver. 25. and Joſ. 20. 6. and from the uſual and moſt reaſonable courſe of Juſtice, which is that facts ſhould be examined, as far as may be, in or near the places where they were committed, and where the witneſſes and evidences were at hand. k Or, for judgment, i. e. to receive ſentence there according to the nature of the fact.

13 And of theſe cities which ye ſhall give, ſix cities ſhall ye have for refuge.

14 Ye ſhall give three cities on this ſide Jordan l, and three cities ſhall ye give in the land of Canaan, which ſhall be cities of refuge:

l Becauſe that land was as long as Canaan, though not ſo broad, and beſides theſe might be convenient for many of them that lived in Canaan.

15 Theſe ſix cities ſhall be a refuge, both for the children of Iſrael, and for the ſtranger m, and for the ſojourner among them: that every one that killeth any perſon unawares, may flee thither.

m Not the proſelyte only, but all ſtrangers, this being no matter of religious priviledge, but of common right and agreeable to the Law of nature and practice of wiſe heathens.

16 * And if he ſmite him with an inſtrument of iron n (ſo that he die o) he is a murderer: the murderer ſhall ſurely be put to death p.

* Exod. 21. 12, 14.

n Wittingly and wilfully, though not with premeditated malice or deſign, as appears by comparing this with ver. 20, 21, 22, 23. o To wit, ſuddenly, not ſo, if he walked abroad afterward, Exod. 21. 19, 20. p Yea though he were fled into the City of refuge.

17 And if he ſmite him † with throwing a ſtone q, (wherewith he may die) and he die, he is a murderer: the murderer ſhall ſurely be put to death.

q Heb. with the ſtone of the hand, i. e. caſt by the hand, and that knowingly, as appears by ver. 23.

18 Or if he ſmite him with an hand-weapon of wood (wherewith he may die) and he die, he is a murderer: the murderer ſhall ſurely be put to death.

19 The revenger of blood himſelf ſhall ſlay the murderer r: when he meeteth him, he ſhall ſlay him.

r Either 1. By himſelf, as the following words ſhew: ſo it is only a permiſſion, that he may do it without offence to God or danger to himſelf: Or 2. By the Magiſtrate, from whom he ſhall demand juſtice: ſo it is a command, as may appear by comparing this with ver. 31. and Deut. 19. 12, 13.

* Deut. 19. 11.

20 But * if he thruſt him of hatred, or hurl at him by laying of wait, that he die:

21 Or in enmity ſmite him with his hand that he die: he that ſmote him ſhall ſurely be put to death, for he is a murderer: the revenger of blood ſhall ſlay the murderer when he meeteth him.

* Exod. 21. 13.

22 But if he thruſt him ſuddenly s, * without enmity, or have caſt upon him any thing without laying of wait:

s Through ſudden paſſion, or provocation. Or, by chance, or unawares.

23 Or with any ſtone wherewith a man may die, ſeeing him not, and caſt it upon him that he die, and was not his enemy, neither ſought his harm:

24 Then u the congregation ſhall judge between the ſlayer, and the revenger of blood, according to theſe judgments.

u If the man ſlayer flee to the city of refuge.

* Exod. 29. 7. Lev. 4. 3. and 21. 10.

25 And the congregation ſhall deliver the ſlayer out of the hand of the revenger of blood, and the congregation ſhall reſtore him to the city of his refuge, whither he was fled: and he ſhall abide in it x, unto the death of the high prieſt y * which was anointed with holy oyl.

x Be confined to it, partly to ſhew the hatefulneſs of wilful murder in Gods account by ſo ſevere a puniſhment, as this in many caſes might prove, inflicted upon the very appearance of it, and partly for the ſecurity of the manſlayer, leſt the preſence of ſuch a perſon, and his converſation among the kindred of the deceaſed, might occaſion reproach and blood-ſhed. y Partly becauſe the publick grief for the loſs of ſo publick a perſon was likely to aſſwage the private griefs and paſſions of men, the rather, becauſe by this example they were minded of their own mortality, and thereby withheld from taking vengeance; and principally to ſhew that the death of Chriſt (the true High-Prieſt, whom the others did evidently and eminently repreſent and typifie) is the only mean whereby ſins are pardoned and ſinners are ſet at liberty.

26 But if the ſlayer ſhall at any time come without the border of his city of refuge, whither he was fled:

† Heb. no blood ſhall be to him.

27 And the revenger of blood find him without the borders of the city of his refuge, and the revenger of blood kill the ſlayer, he † ſhall not be guilty of blood z:

z i. e. Not liable to puniſhment from men, though not free guilt before God, becauſe he kills an innocent perſon, as appears from Deut. 19. 10. This God ordained to oblige the man-ſlayer to abide in his city of refuge. See ver. 32.

28 Becauſe he ſhould have remained in the city of his refuge, until the death of the high prieſt: but after the death of the high prieſt, the ſlayer ſhall return into the the land of his poſſeſſion.

29 So theſe things ſhall be for a ſtatute of judgment unto you, throughout your generations, in all your dwellings.

* Deut. 17. 6. and 19. 15. Matt. 18. 16. 2 Cor. 13. 1. Heb. 10. 28.

30 Whoſo killeth any perſon, the murderer ſhall be put to death by the * mouth of witneſſes: but one witneſs ſhall not teſtifie againſt any perſon to cauſe him to die a.

a No Judge ſhall condemn any man to death upon a ſingle teſtimony.

† Heb. faulty to die.

31 Moreover, ye ſhall take take no ſatisfaction for the life of a murderer b which is † guilty of death, but he ſhall be ſurely put to death.

b No interceſſion, nor ranſom ſhall be accepted to ſave his Life, or procure him a pardon.

32 And ye ſhall take no ſatisfaction for him that is fled to the city of his refuge, that he ſhould come again to dwell in the land, until the death of the prieſt c.

c Whereby God would ſignifie the abſolute and indiſpenſable neceſſity of Chriſts death to expiate ſin, and to redeem the ſinner.

* Mic. 4. 11.
† Heb. there can be no expiation for the land.

33 So ye ſhall not pollute the land wherein ye are: for blood, it * defileth the land: and † the land cannot be cleanſed of the blood that is ſhed therein, but by the blood of him that ſheddeth it d.

d Theſe words are added as a reaſon not of the laſt Law, ver. 32 for in that caſe the land was cleanſed without the blood of the man-ſlayer, but of the Law next foregoing that, ver. 31. in which caſe it holds, and the ſenſe is, if you ſhall ſpare the murderer or take any ſatisfaction for him, you do together with your ſelves involve your Land and People in guilt, and will certainly bring down Gods vengeance upon your ſelves and them.

34 Defile not therefore the land which ye ſhall inherit e, wherein I dwell: for I the LORD dwell among the children of Iſrael.

e Be not cruel to your own land by making it a den of murderers.

CHAP. XXXVI.

The inconvenience of Daughter's Inheriting is remedied by a general Command, that all ſuch marry in the tribe of their Fathers: to which of them they ſhall think beſt, 1 — 9. They obey, 10 — 12. Theſe Commands God gave by Moſes to Iſrael in the Plains of Moab, 13.

1 AND the chief fathers of the families a of the children of Gilead the ſon of Machir, the ſon of Manaſſeh, of the families of the ſons of Joſeph came near, and ſpake before Moſes, and before the princes, the chief fathers of the children of Iſrael.

a Who had the care and management of the publick affairs of that Tribe committed to them.

* chap. 26. 55.
* chap. 27. 1. Joſh. 17. 3.

2 And they ſaid, * The LORD commanded my lord to give the land for an inheritance by lot to the children of Iſrael: and * my lord was commanded by the LORD, to give the inheritance of Zelophehad our brother b unto his daughters.

b (i. e.) Our kinſman, one of our Tribe, Joſ. 17. 2, 3.

† Heb. unto whom they ſhall be.

3 And if they be married to any of the ſons of the other Tribes of the children of Iſrael, then ſhall their inheritance be taken from the inheritance of our fathers, and ſhall be put to the inheritance of the Tribe, † whereunto they are received c: ſo ſhall it be taken from the lot of our inheritance.

c For their inheritance will paſs to their children, who will be of another tribe by their fathers ſide, which alone is conſidered in this place.

* Lev. 25. 10.

4 And when the * jubile of the children of Iſrael ſhall be d, then ſhall their inheritance be put unto the inheritance of the Tribe whereunto they are received: ſo ſhall their inheritance be taken away from the inheritance of the tribe of our fathers.

d Which God appointed principally for this end to preſerve the inheritance in the hands of the Tribes and Families to which they were firſt given.

5 And Moſes commanded the children of Iſrael according to the word of the LORD, ſaying, The tribe of the ſons of Joſeph hath ſaid well e.

e Their plea is juſt and reaſonable. God did not take particular care about every occurrence that happened or might happen, but left divers things to be found out by humane prudence, which being his own gift it was meet there ſhould be opportunities left for the exerciſe of it, and God thought fit to approve and ratifie the prudent and profitable inventions of men by his own law or ſanction, as in the caſe of Jethro, Exod. 18. of Zelophehads Daughters, Numb. 27. and here of their brethren. But it is obſervable, that God allowed this only in civil affairs, but never in the matters of his worſhip, where he utterly forbids it.

6 This is the thing which the LORD doth command concerning the daughters of Zelophehad, ſaying, Let them † marry to whom they think beſt: only to the family of the tribe of their father f ſhall they marry.

f They ſeem hereby to be confined not only to the ſame Tribe, but alſo to the family of their Tribe, as appears from the reaſon of the Law, for God would have the inheritance of Families as well as Tribes kept entire and unmixed: and this was one reaſon of that Law of marrying the Brothers wife, Deut. 25. And although the next verſe may ſeem to thwart this interpretation, the reaſon of this Law being there given that inheritances might not go from Tribe to Tribe, yet ver. 8. confirms it, where the very ſame phraſe is repeated, and that more emphatically, that ſuch ſhall marry one of the family of the Tribe of her Father; and this further reaſon and reſtriction is added, that they may enjoy every man the inheritance (not only of his Tribe, but) of his Fathers, to wit, belonging to his fathers family.

7 So ſhall not the inheritance of the children of Iſrael remove from tribe to tribe: for every one of the children of Iſrael ſhall † keep himſelf to the inheritance of the tribe of his fathers.

g By which clauſe it ſeems that this Law was not general to forbid every woman to marry into another Tribe (as may be reaſonably concluded from the practice of ſo many Patriarchs, Kings, Prieſts, and other holy men, who have married women of other Tribes, yea ſometimes of other Nations, which it is not likely they would have done, if this had been a tranſgreſſion of Gods Law) but reſtrained to heireſſes, or ſuch as were likely to be ſo. See 1 Chron. 23. 22. But if they had brethren, it is probable they were free to marry into any Tribe, yet ſo that, if their brethren dyed, their puniſhment was, that the inheritance went from them to the next a kin of their fathers Tribe and Family. And the principal reaſon why God was ſolicitous to preſerve Tribes and Families unmixed was, that the Tribe and Family too, out of which the Meſſiah was to come, and by which he ſhould be known, might be evident and unqueſtionable.

9 Neither ſhall the inheritance remove from one tribe to another tribe: but every one of the tribes of the children of Iſrael ſhall keep himſelf to his own inheritance.

10 Even as the LORD commanded Moſes, ſo did the daughters of Zelophehad.

* chap. 27. 1.

11 * For Mahlah, Tirzah, and Hoglah, and Milcah, and Noah the daughters of Zelophehad, were married unto their fathers brothers ſons h.

h It is uncertain whether brothers or ſons be taken ſtrictly and properly, or more large, as thoſe words are oft uſed in Scripture.

† Heb. to ſome that were of the families.

12 And they were married † into the families of the ſons of Manaſſeh, the ſon of Joſeph and their inheritance remained in the tribe of the family of their father.

13 Theſe are the commandments, and the judgments which the LORD commanded by the hand of Moſes, unto the children of Iſrael in the plains of Moab, by Jordan near Jericho.

DEUTERONOMY.

The ARGUMENT.

MOſes, in the two laſt Months of his life, rehearſeth, what God had done for them, and their frequent murmurings, rebellions, and conſtant ingratitude; he begs to enter into the Land, but is permitted only to ſee it; he forbiddeth any communion with the Nations for ſeveral reaſons. Chap. 7. He gives a ſhort repetition of thoſe ſundry Laws, Moral, Ceremonial, Judicial, and Military, which he had given them, from whence this Book is called Deuteronomy. Then, after many Exhortations, he propheſieth of Chriſt, afterwards he ſhews how matters of War are to be managed, and, giving many other particular directions with reference to Duties, Conditions, and Perſons of both Sexes, he pronounceth Bleſſings on the Obedient, and Curſes on the Diſobedient; he then gives a charge for laying up, and reading of the Law at certain times, and every ſeven years to be ſolemnly read before all the people; he compoſeth a Song for common uſe, comprizing the wonderful things here mentioned; he propheſieth of Chriſts coming, and the calling of the Gentiles, ſeeth the Land, and dieth, leaving Joſhua, after he had conſecrated him, to ſucceed.

A Rehearſal of what had befallen Iſrael in their forty years march, as God's Command to depart, 1,—6. Moſes's inability to judge alone, 9—12. other Judges and Officers appointed, 13—16. Charge given the Judges, 17, 18. Their paſſage to Kadeſh-Barnea, 19, 20, 21. Spies ſent to ſearch the Land of the Amorites, 22. Their Return and Report, 23. The diſobedience of the people, 26. God's Wrath, 34. they ſmitten by the Amorites, 44. Their Complaint to God, which the Lord regards not, 45.

a Theſe are the Laws, Counſels and Admonitions delivered by Moſes from God to Iſrael, which are here repeated for the inſtruction and obligation of thoſe who by reaſon of their tender years were uncapable either of underſtanding them, or of entring into Covenant with God. b To wit, by the Heads or Elders of the ſeveral Tribes, or others, who were to communicate theſe diſcourſes to all the people in ſeveral Aſſemblies. c Either 1. In the vaſt deſert of Arabia. But that is no where called a plain. Or rather 2. In the plain of Moab, as may appear by comparing this with v. 5. and Numb. 22.1. and *Deut.*34.8. Obj. That was far from the Red-Sea here mentioned. Anſw. The word Suph here uſed doth not ſignifie the Red-Sea, which is commonly called jam-ſuph, and which was at too great a diſtance, but ſome other place now unknown to us (as alſo moſt of the following places are) ſo called from the Reeds or Flags, or Ruſhes (which that word ſignifies) that grew in or near it; which reaſon of the name being common to other places with the Red-Sea, it is not ſtrange if they got the ſame name. Compare Numb. 21. 14. d Not that Numb. 10. 12. Which there and elſewhere is called the Wilderneſs of Paran, and which was too remote, but ſome other place called by the ſame name, than which nothing more uſual. e Places not mentioned elſewhere. f Of which ſee Numb. 11. 35. and 33. 17, 18. 2 (There are eleven days journey g from Horeb h, by the way of mount Seir i, unto Kadeſh-barnea k) g This is added to ſhew that the reaſon why the Iſraelites in ſo many years were advanced no further from Horeb, than to theſe plains, was not the great diſtance of the places or length of the way, which was but a journey of eleven days at moſt, but becauſe of their rebellions, as is mentioned before and repeated in this book. h Or Sinai, the place where the Law was given, which is promiſcuouſly called by both thoſe names. i Or Mount Edom, i. e. the mountainous Country of Seir, which was firſt poſſeſſed by the Horims, and afterwards by the Edomites, Deut. 2. 12. k which was not far from the borders of Canaan. 18 And I commanded you at that time all the things which ye ſhall do z.

z I delivered unto you, and eſpecially unto your Judges, all the Laws, Statutes, and Judgments revealed unto me by the Lord in Horeb.

19 And when we departed from Horeb, we went through all that great and terrible † wilderneſs, which ye ſaw by the way of the mountain of the Amorite, as the LORD our God commanded us, and * we came to Kadeſh-Barnea.

† That is, of Paran, Numb. 10. 12. * Num. 13. 26.

21 Behold, the LORD thy God hath ſet the land before thee: go up, and poſſeſs it, as the LORD God of thy fathers hath ſaid unto thee: fear not, neither be diſcouraged.

22 And ye came near unto me every one of you, and ſaid, We will ſend men before us, and they ſhall ſearch us out the land, and bring us word again, by what way we muſt go up, and into what cities we ſhall come.

* Num. 13. 3.

* Num. 13. 24.

24 And * they turned and went up into the mountain, and came unto the valley c of Eſchol d, and ſearched it out.

26 Notwithſtanding ye would not go up, but rebelled againſt the commandment of the LORD our God.

27 And ye murmured in your tents, and ſaid, Becauſe the LORD hated us g, he hath brought us forth out of the land of Egypt, to deliver us into the hand of the Amorite, to deſtroy us.

And therefore now your diſtruſt is highly unreaſonable, when you have been hardned and fitted for military ſervice by your travels, diſciplined and experienced in ſome degree as to Martial Affairs, encouraged by frequent and glorious Miracles for 40 years together, and you are going into a Country divided into ſeveral Nations and Kingdoms.

† Heb. ye were preſumptuous, and went up.

43 So I ſpake unto you, and ye would not hear, but rebelled againſt the commandment of the LORD, and † went preſumptuouſly up into the hill.

44 And the Amorite which dwelt in that mountain came out againſt you, and chaſed you, as bees do y, and deſtroyed you in Seir, even unto Hormah.

6 Ye ſhall buy meat of them g for money, that ye may eat, and ye ſhall alſo buy water of them h for money, that ye may drink.

See Gen. 26. 18. Numb. 21. 18.

7 For the LORD thy God hath bleſſed thee i in all the works of thy hand; he knoweth k thy walking through this great wilderneſs: theſe forty years the LORD thy God hath been with thee, thou haſt lacked nothing.

i By Gods bleſſing thou art able to buy thy conveniencies, and therefore thy theft and rapine will be inexcuſable, becauſe without any pretence of neceſſity. k Heb. He hath known, i. e. obſerved, or regarded with care and kindneſs, which that word oft notes, as Pſal. 1. 6. and 31. 7. Which experience of God's ſingular goodneſs to thee, ſhould make thee truſt him ſtill, and not uſe any undirect and unjuſt practices to procure what thou wanteſt or deſireſt.

8 And when we paſſed by from our brethren, the children of Eſau which dwelt in Seir, through the way of the plain from Elah, and from Ezion-Gaber l, we turned m and paſſed by the way of the wilderneſs of Moab.

l Of which ſee Numb. 33. 35. which may be either that place upon the Red-ſea, 1 King. 9. 26. or another of the ſame name. m To wit, from our direct road which lay through Edoms land.

|| Or, uſe no hoſtility againſt Moab. 9 And the LORD ſaid unto me, || Diſtreſs not the Moabites, neither contend with them in battel: for I will not give thee of their land for a poſſeſſion, becauſe I have given Ar n unto the children of Lot o for a poſſeſſion.

n The chief City of the Moabites, Numb. 21. 15, 28. here put for the whole Country which depended upon it. o So called to ſignifie that this preſervation, was not for their ſakes, for they were a wicked people, but for Lots ſake whoſe memory God yet honours.

11 Which alſo were accounted giants; as the Anakims: but the Moabites call them Emims.

Things are oft ſaid to be done when they are only reſolved, or decreed, or attempted to be done, in which ſence Reuben is ſaid to deliver Joſeph, Gen. 37. 21. Balak to fight againſt Iſrael, Joſ. 24. 9. Abraham to have offered his ſon, Heb. 11. 17. 3. God may well be ſaid to have given it, not only becauſe he had purpoſed and promiſed to give it, but alſo becauſe he was now about to give it, and had already given them ſome part of it, and that as an earneſt of the whole. 4. This may be particularly underſtood of that part of Iſraels poſſeſſion which was beyond Jordan, which God had actually given to them, that is, to ſome of them, for even the land of Canaan on this ſide Jordan was not given to all of them, but only to ſome of the tribes.

* Numb. 21. 12. || Or, valley 13 Now riſe up, ſaid I, and get ye over * the || brook Zered: and we went over the brook Zered.

14 And the ſpace in which we came from Kadeſh-Barnea, until we were come over the brook Zered, was thirty and eight years, until all the generation of the men of war were waſted out from among the hoſt, as the LORD ſware unto them.

15 For indeed the hand of the LORD was againſt them, to deſtroy them from among the hoſt, until they were conſumed.

16 So it came to paſs when all the men of war were conſumed and dead from among the people.

17 That the LORD ſpake unto me, ſaying,

19 And when thou comeſt nigh over againſt the children of Ammon, diſtreſs them not, nor meddle with them: for I will not give thee of the land of the children of Ammon any poſſeſſion, becauſe I have given it unto the children of Lot for a poſſeſſion.

x A people a-kin to the Philiſtines, Gen. 10. 14. and confederate with them in this enterprize, and ſo dwelling together, and by degrees were probably united together by Marriages or otherways, and became one people, the Caphtorims being at laſt ſwallowed up in the Philiſtines. See Jer. 47. 4. Amos 9. 7. y Which is by the Learned thought to be Cappadocia. Whither theſe people might make an expedition out of Egypt either becauſe of the report of the great Riches of part of that Country which drew others thither from places equally remote, or after the manner of thoſe ancient times, or for ſome other reaſon now unknown.

* Numb. 21. 13, 16. † Heb. begin, poſſeſs. 24 Riſe ye up, take your journey, and * paſs over the river Arnon: behold, I have given into thy hand Sihon the Amorite, King of Heſhbon, and his land: † begin to poſſeſs it, and contend with him in battel.

25 This day will I begin to put the dread of thee, and the fear of thee upon the nations that are under the whole heaven z, who ſhall hear report of thee, and ſhall tremble, and be in anguiſh becauſe of thee.

z Which is a Synecdoche and an Hyperbole, but is explained by the following words which reſtrain the ſentence to thoſe nations that heard of them.

26 And I ſent meſſengers out of the wilderneſs of Kedemoth a, unto Sihon king of Heſhbon, * with words of peace b, ſaying, * ch. 20. 10.

a So called from a city of that name, Joſ. 13. 18. and called Jeſimon, Numb. 21. 20. b With offers of peace, which they refuſing, their deſtruction was highly juſt and reaſonable.

27 * Let me paſs through thy land; I will go along by the high way c, I will neither turn unto the right hand, nor to the left. * Numb. 21. 21, 22.

c In my direct road to Canaan, from which I will not turn aſide into thy Fields, or Vineyards, or Houſes.

28 Thou ſhalt ſell me meat for money, that I may eat, and give me water for money, that I may drink: only I will paſs through on my feet d:

d Or, with my foot-men, or with my company which are on foot: which is added ſignificantly, becauſe if their Army had conſiſted as much of Horſemen as many other Armies did, their paſſage through his land might have been more miſchievous and dangerous: but they were generally on foot.

29 (As the children of Eſau which dwell in Seir, and the Moabites which dwell in Ar, did unto me e) until I ſhall paſs over Jordan, into the land which the LORD our God giveth us.

e Obj. The king of Edom, i. e. of the children of Eſau, did not grant them paſſage, Numb. 20. Anſw. They did permit them to paſs quietly by the borders, though not through the heart of their Land, and in their paſſage the people ſold them meat and drink, being it ſeems more kind to them than their king would have had them; and therefore they here aſcribe this favour not to the king, though they are now treating with a king, but to the people, the children of Eſau.

30 But Sihon king of Heſhbon would not let us paſs by him f: for * the LORD thy God hardened his ſpirit, and made his heart obſtinate g, that he might deliver him into thy hand, as appeareth this day. * Joſh. 11. 20.

f i. e. By his Borders. g Unmoveable and inexorable to our deſires.

31 And the LORD ſaid unto me, Behold, I have begun to give Sihon and his land before thee, begin to poſſeſs, that thou mayeſt inherit his land.

32 * Then Sihon came out againſt us, he and all his people, to fight at Jahaz. * Numb. 21. 23.

33 And the LORD our God delivered him before us, and we ſmote him, and his ſons, and all his people.

34 And we took all his cities at that time, and utterly deſtroyed g the † men, and the women, and the little ones of every city, we left none to remain. † Heb. every city of men and women, and little ones.

g By Gods command, theſe being a part of thoſe people who were devoted by the Lord of Life and Death, to utter deſtruction for their abominable wickedneſs. See Deut. 7. 2. and 20. 16.

35 Only the cattel we took for a prey unto our ſelves, and the ſpoil of the cities which we took:

36 From Aroer h, which is by the brink of the river of Arnon, and from the city that is by the river i, even unto Gilead, there was not one city too ſtrong for us: the LORD our God delivered all unto us.

h Which was in the border of Moab, but now in the hands of the Amorites. i Heb. In the river, wherewith it was encompaſſed, Numb. 21. 15. 28. Joſ. 12. 2. and 13. 9. He ſpeaks excluſively for this was Ar, which now was in the Moabites juriſdiction, above v. 9.

37 Only unto the land of the children of Ammon thou cameſt not, nor unto any place of the river * Jabbok k, nor unto the cities in the mountains l, nor unto whatſoever the LORD our God forbad us m. * Gen. 32. 22.

k i. e. Beyond Jabbok: for that was the border of the Ammonites, Joſ. 12. 2. Obj. Half the land of the Ammonites is ſaid to be given to the tribe of Gad, Joſ. 13. 27. Anſw. This is true of that half of it which the Ammorites had taken from them, but not of the other half which yet was in the poſſeſſion of the Ammonites. l The mountainous Country of the Ammonites. m Heb Commanded us: commanding is put for forbidding, here, as Gen. 2. 16. and 3. 11. Lev. 4. 2. Deut. 4. 23. The words may be thus rendred, Concerning which the Lord gave us command or charge, to wit, that we ſhould not meddle with them, as was ſaid before. So it is only an ellipſis of the prepoſition, which is very frequent.

CHAP. III.

Their march to Baſhan, 1. Og its King is put to flight, they poſſeſs his land, 2 — 11. which is diſtributed to two Tribes and half, 12 — 17. who are commanded to aſſiſt their Brethren to poſſeſs the land beyond Jordan, 18 — 20. Moſes encourages Joſhuah, 21, 22. His Prayer to go into the promiſed land, 23 — 25. God grants not his requeſt, 26. He gives him a proſpect of it, 27. and bids him encourage Joſuah, 28.

1 THen we turned, and went up the way to Baſhan: and * Og the King of Baſhan came out againſt us, he, and all his people to battel at Edrei. * Num. 21. 33, &c. ch. 29. 7.

*Num. 21. 24.

2 And the LORD ſaid unto me, Fear him not a: for I will deliver him, and all his people, and his land into thy hand, and thou ſhalt do unto him, as thou didſt unto * Sihon King of the Amorite, which dwelt at Heſhbon.

a Though he be of ſo frightful a look and ſtature, v. 11.

*Num. 21. 33.

3 So the LORD our God delivered into our hands * Og alſo the King of Baſhan, and all his people: and we ſmote him, until none was left to him remaining.

4 And we took all his cities at that time, there was not a city which we took not from them; threeſcore cities, all the region of Argob b the kingdom of Og in Baſhan.

b A Province within Baſhan. or at leaſt ſubject and belonging to Baſhan, as appears from v. 13. and 1 King. 4. 13. called Argob, poſſibly from the name of a man its former Lord and owner.

5 All theſe cities were fenced with high walls, gates, and bars c, beſides unwalled towns a great many.

c Which may encourage you in your attempt upon Canaan, notwithſtanding the fenced cities which the ſpies told you of, and you muſt expect to find.

6 And we utterly deſtroyed them, as we did unto Sihon King of Heſhbon, utterly deſtroying the men, women, and children of every city.

7 But all the cattel, and the ſpoil of the cities, we took for a prey to our ſelves.

8 And we took at that time out of the hand of the two Kings of the Amorite, the land that was on this ſide Jordan d, from the river of Arnon, unto Mount Hermon e:

d So it was when Moſes wrote this book, but afterward when Iſrael paſſed over Jordan it was called the land beyond Jordan.

2 (Which Hermon the Zidonians call Sirion: and the Amorite call it Shenir e.

e Elſewhere called Mount Gilead, and Libanus or Lebanon, and here Shenir, and Sirion, and, by abbreviation, Sion, Deut. 4. 48. Which ſeveral names are given to this one mountain partly by ſeveral people, and partly in regard of ſeveral tops and parts of it, whence Schenir and Hermon are mentioned as diſtinct places, Cant. 4. 8.

* Joſh. 12. 5. and 13. 11.

10 All the cities of the plain, and all Gilead f, and * all Baſhan, unto Salchah and Edrei, cities of the kingdom of Og in Baſhan.

f Gilead is ſometimes taken largely for all the Iſraelites poſſeſſions beyond Jordan, and ſo it comprehends Baſhan, but here more ſtrictly for that part of it which lies in and near mount Gilead, and ſo it is diſtinguiſhed from Baſhan and Argob.

* Sam. 12. 26. Jer. 49. 2.

11 For only Og king of Baſhan remained of the remnant of giants g: behold, his bedſtead was a bedſtead of iron: is it not in * Rabbath of the children of Ammon i? nine cubits was the length thereof, and four cubits the breadth of it, after the cubit of a man k.

g The other giants of Baſhan were deſtroyed before; and therefore when Og was killed, the Iſraelites work was done. l Where it might now be, either becauſe the Ammonites in ſome former battel with Og had taken it as a ſpoil: or becauſe after Og's death, the Ammonites deſired to have this monument of his greatneſs, and the Iſraelites permitted them to carry it away to their chief city. k To wit, of ordinary ſtature. So his bed was four yards and an half long, and two yards broad.

12 And this land which we poſſeſſed at that time from Aroer, which is by the river Arnon, and half mount Gilead, and * the cities thereof, gave I unto the Reubenite, and to the Gadite.

Joſh. 13. 8. &c.

73 And the reſt of Gilead, and all Baſhan, being the kingdom of Og, gave I unto the half tribe of Manaſſeh: all the region of Argob, with all Baſhan, which was called the land of giants.

* 1 Chron. 2. 22. *Num. 32. 41.

14 * Jair the ſon of Manaſſeh took all the country of Argob, unto the coaſts of Geſhuri l, and Maachathi m, and called them after his own name Baſhan. *Havoth-Jair unto this day n.

l Or, Geſhurites, a people towards the North of Canaan, 2 Sam. 3. 3. and 15. 8. See alſo Joſ. 13. 13. m Of whom ſee 2 Sam. 3. 3. and 10. 6. n This muſt be put among thoſe other paſſages which were not written by Moſes, but added by thoſe holy men who digeſted the books of Moſes into this order and inſerted ſome very few paſſages to accommodate things to their own time and people.

15 And * I gave Gilead o unto Machir p. o (i. e.) The half part of Gilead, as appears from v. 12, 13. See on Numb. 32. 40. p (i. e.) Unto the children of Machir ſon of Manaſſeh, for Machir was now dead.

*Num. 21. 24. Joſh. 12. 2.

16 And unto the Reubenite, and unto the Gadite I gave from Gilead even unto the River Arnon, half the valley q, and the border, even unto the river Jabbok r, * which is the border of the children of Ammon s.

q Or rather to the middle of the River: for the word rendred half ſignifies commonly middle, and the ſame Hebrew word ſignifying both a valley and a brook or river, it ſeems more reaſonable to underſtand it of a River, as the ſame word is here rendred in the next foregoing clauſe of this verſe, than of a valley, which was not mentioned before, eſpecially ſeeing there is here an article added which ſeems to be emphatical, and to note that River, to wit, now mentioned. Add to this, that there was no ſuch valley, much leſs any half-valley, belonging both unto the Reubenites and Gadites. But according to the other tranſlation the ſenſe is plain and agreeable to the truth, that their Land extended from Gilead unto Arnon, and, to ſpeak exactly, to the middle of that River, for as that River was the border between them and others, ſo one half of it belonged to them, as the other half did to others. And that this is no ſubtil device, as ſome may think it, but the truth of the thing, and the real meaning of the place, will appear by comparing this place with two others, 1. with Joſ. 12. 2. where the ſame thing is expreſſed in the ſame words in the Hebrew which are here, though our tranſlators render the ſelf-ſame words there, from the middle of the River, which here they render, half of the valley; and where the bounds of Sihons kingdom, which was the ſame portion here mentioned as given to Reuben and Gad, are thus deſcribed, from Aroer, which is upon the bank of the River of Arnon, and from the middle of the River, and from half Gilead, even unto the river Jabbok, which is the border of the children of Ammon. 2. With Deut. 2. 36. From Aroer, which is by the brink of the river of Arnon, and from the city that is by the River, or rather, as the Hebrew hath it, in the River, i. e. from Ar, which was the chief city of the Moabites, and therefore denied to the Iſraelites, as is here implied, and more fully expreſſed, Deut. 2. 9. which City was ſeated in an Iſland in the middle of the River. So that here we have a juſt and full reaſon why the border of this Land given to Reuben and Gad is ſo nicely and critically deſcribed here, even to the middle of a River, which although in truth and ſtrictneſs it be the bound of thoſe Lands which are divided by a River, yet is not uſually expreſſed in the deſcription of borders, either in Scripture or other Authors, becauſe here was an eminent City of the Moabites in the middle of this River, which by this curious and exact deſcription is excepted from their poſſeſſion, as God would have it to be. r The meaning ſeems to be this, And the border, to wit, of their Land, was, which verb ſubſtantive is commonly underſtood, or went forth, (as the phraſe is, Joſ. 15. 6, 7, &c.) from thence, to wit, from the River Arnon, even unto the River Jabbok, for ſo indeed their border did proceed. s Object. This was the border between them and the Manaſſites, as is evident, and therefore not the border of the Ammonites. Anſw. It bordered upon the Manaſſites in one part, and upon the Ammonites in another part, to wit, in that part which is remoter from Jordan, and ſo both are true.

17 The plain t alſo, and Jordan, and the coaſt thereof from Chinnereth u, even unto the ſea of the plain x even the ſalt ſea, ‖ under Aſhdoth Piſgah y eaſtward.

t The Low Country towards Jordan. u Of which ſee on Numb. 34. 11. Joſ. 12. 3. x (i. e.) That ſalt Sea, as it here follows, which before that dreadful conflagration was a goodly plain, called the plain of Jordan, Gen. 13. 10. y The proper name of a City, of which, Joſ. 13. 20.

*Num. 32. 20. † Heb. ſons of power.

18 And I commanded you z at that time, ſaying, The LORD your God hath given you this land to poſſeſs it: * ye ſhall paſs over armed before your brethren, the children of Iſrael, all that are † meet for the war a.

z To wit, the Reubenites and Gadites mentioned, v. 16. to whom he now turns his ſpeech by an Apoſtrophe. a In ſuch number as your brethren ſhall judge neceſſary. See Joſ. 1. 14. and 4. 13.

19 But your wives, and your little ones, and your cattle (for I know that ye have much cattle) ſhall abide in your cities, which I have given you.

* Joſ. 22. 4.

20 Until the LORD have given reſt b unto your brethren, as well as unto you, and until they alſo poſſeſs the land which the LORD your God hath given them beyond Jordan: and then ſhall ye * return every man unto his poſſeſſion which I have given you.

b A peaceable and fixed poſſeſſion.

*Num. 27. 18.

21 And * I commanded Joſhua at that time, ſaying, Thine eyes have ſeen all that the LORD your God hath done unto theſe two kings: ſo ſhall the LORD do unto all the kingdoms whither thou paſſeſt.

22 Ye ſhall not fear them: for the LORD your God he ſhall fight for you.

23 And I beſought the LORD at that time, ſaying,

*Pſal. 86. 8. and 89. 6.

24 O LORD God, thou haſt begun to ſhew thy ſervant thy greatneſs, and thy mighty hand: for * what God is there in heaven or in earth, that can do according to thy works, and according to thy might?

25 I pray thee let me go over c, and ſee the good land that is beyond Jordan, that goodly mountain d, and Lebanon e.

c For he ſuppoſed Gods threatning might be conditional and reverſible, as many others were. d Or, that bleſſed mountain, which the Jews not improbably underſtand of that mountain on which the Temple was to be built. For as Moſes deſired and determined to prepare an habitation for God, Exod. 15. 2. and knew very well that God would chuſe a certain place for his habitation, and to put his name there, Deut. 12. 5. So he alſo knew that it was the manner both of the true worſhippers of God and of Idolaters to worſhip their God in high-places, and particularly that Abraham did worſhip God in the mount of Moria, Gen. 22. 2. and therefore did either reaſonably conjecture that God would chuſe ſome certain mountain for the place of his habitation, or poſſibly underſtood by revelation that in that very mount of Moria, where Abraham performed that eminent and glorious act of worſhip, there alſo the children of Abraham ſhould have their place of conſtant and ſettled worſhip. This he ſeems to call that mountain, emphatically and eminently, that which was much in Moſes his thoughts, though not in his eye, and the bleſſed (as the Hebrew tob oft ſignifies) or the goodly mountain. Or, the mountain may be here put for the mountainous countries, as that word is oft uſed, as Gen. 36. 9. Numb. 13. 29.

and 23. 7. Deut. 1. 7. Joſ. 10. 6. and 11. 16, 21, &c. And it is known that a great part of the glory and beauty and profit of this Country lay in its Hills or Mountains. See Deut. 11. 11. and 33. 15. And that goodly mountain may by an Enallage of the number be put for thoſe goodly mountains in Canaan, which were many. Thus alſo he proceeds gradually in this deſire and deſcription, and prays that he may ſee in general the good land that is beyond Jordan, and then particularly, the goodly mountains of it, and eſpecially that famous mount of Lebanon, which was ſo celebrated for its tall and large Cedars, and other Trees and excellent Plants. See Pſal. 29. 5. and 104. 16. Iſa. 2. 13. and 14. 8.

26 But the LORD * was wroth with me for your ſakes f, and would not hear me: and the LORD ſaid unto me, Let it ſuffice thee g, ſpeak no more unto me of this matter.

f By occaſion of your ſins which provoked me to unadviſed words and carriages, Pſal. 106. 32, 33. See Numb. 20. 12. Deut. 31. 2. and 34. 4. g That this is my pleaſure and unalterable reſolution. Compare 2 Cor. 12. 8, 9.

*Numb. 27. 12. ‖ Or, the hill.

27 * Get thee up into the top of ‖ Piſgah h, and lift up thine eyes i weſtward, and northward, and ſouthward, and eaſtward, and behold it with thine eyes: for thou ſhalt not go over this Jordan.

h Of which ſee on Numb. 27. 12. i Towards the Land of Canaan and its ſeveral quarters.

*Numb. 27. 18.

28 But * charge Joſhua k, and encourage him, and ſtrengthen him l: for he ſhall go over m before this people, and he ſhall cauſe them to inherit the land which thou ſhalt ſee.

k Give him commiſſion and authority, and a command to execute his truſt, and conduct the people. l With exhortations and promiſes and aſſurances of my preſence and help and of good ſucceſs. m It was not Moſes, but Joſhua or Jeſus that was to give the people reſt, Heb. 4. 8.

*Deut. 34. 6.

29 So we abode in * the valley over againſt Beth-Peor n.

n The Houſe or Temple of Peor, or of Baal-Peor, of which ſee Numb. 25. 3. whence this place or city had its name.

3 Your eyes have ſeen what the LORD did becauſe of * Baal-Peor: for all the men that followed Baal-Peor, the LORD thy God hath deſtroyed them from among you.

4 But ye that did cleave unto the LORD your God, are alive every one of you this day.

5 Behold, I have taught you ſtatutes and judgments, even as the LORD my God commanded me, that ye ſhould do ſo in the land whither ye go to poſſeſs it.

*Job 28. 28 Pſal. 111. 10 Prov. 1. 7.

6 Keep therefore, and do them, for this is * your wiſdom and your underſtanding in the ſight of the nations d, which ſhall hear all theſe ſtatutes, and ſay, Surely this great nation is a wiſe and underſtanding people.

d For though the generality of Heathen people in the latter and degenerate ages of the world did through inveterate prejudices and for their own luſts and intereſts condemn the Laws of the Hebrews as fooliſh and abſurd, yet it is moſt certain, that divers of the wiſeſt heathens did highly approve of them ſo far that they made uſe of divers of them, and tranſlated them into their own Laws and Conſtitutions; and Moſes, the giver of theſe Laws, hath been mentioned with great honour for his wiſdom and learning by many of them. And particularly the old Heathen Oracle expreſly ſaid, that the Chaldeans or Hebrews, who worſhipped the uncreated God, were the only wiſe men.

*2 Sam. 7. 23. † Heb. a God. So Gr. *Pſal. 46. 1 & 145. 18. & 148. 14. Iſa. 55. 6.

7 For * what nation is there ſo great, who hath † God * ſo nigh unto them e, as the LORD our God is in all things that we call upon him for?

e By glorious miracles, by the pledges of his ſpecial preſence, by the operations of his grace, and particularly, as it here follows, by his readineſs to hear our prayers, and to give us thoſe ſuccours which we call upon him for.

8 And what nation is there ſo great, that hath ſtatutes and judgments ſo righteous f, as all this law which I ſet before you this day?

f Whereby he implies that the true greatneſs of a nation doth not conſiſt in pomp or power, or largeneſs of empire, as commonly men think, but in the righteouſneſs of its Laws.

9 Only take heed to thy ſelf, and keep thy ſoul diligently, leſt thou forget the things which thine eyes have ſeen, and leſt they depart from thy heart all the days of thy life: but * teach them thy ſons and thy ſons ſons:

g Some of them ſtood there in their own perſons, though then they were but young, the reſt ſtood then in the loins of their Paronts, in whom they may well be ſaid to ſtand there, becauſe they are ſaid to have entred into covenant with God, becauſe their Parents did ſo in their name and for their uſe.

x A juſt and terrible God, who, notwithſtanding his ſpecial relation to thee, will ſeverely puniſh and deſtroy thee, if thou provokeſt him by Idolatry, or other ways. y Who being eſpouſed to thee, will be highly incenſed againſt thee, (if thou followeſt after other lovers, or committeſt whoredom with Idols,) and will bear no rival or partner.

25 When thou ſhalt beget children, and childrens children, and ſhalt have remained long in the land, and ſhall corrupt your ſelves, and make a graven image, or the likeneſs of any thing, and ſhall do evil in the ſight of the LORD z thy God, to provoke him to anger:

z Which words are here added, either 1. As a caution. Your Idolatry, though poſſibly ſecretly and cunningly managed, will not be hid from him; he ſees it, and he will puniſh it. Or 2. To aggravate their ſpiritual Whoredom, as being committed in the ſight and preſence of their Lord and Husband, whoſe eye is more peculiarly upon them in all their ways, than it is upon other people. Or 3. By way of oppoſition unto mens judgment. Idolatry ofttimes ſeems good, and reaſonable, and religious in the eyes of men, but, ſaith he, it is evil in the eyes of the Lord, whoſe judgment is moſt conſiderable.

26 I call heaven and earth a to witneſs againſt you this day, that ye ſhall ſoon utterly periſh from off the land whereunto ye go over Jordan to poſſeſs it; ye ſhall not prolong your days upon it; but ſhall utterly be deſtroyed.

a Either 1. Figuratively, i. e. God, and Angels, and Men. Or rarather 2. Properly; it being uſual in Scripture to call in the ſenſeleſs Creatures as witneſſes in ſuch caſes, as Deut. 32. 1. Iſa. 1. 2. Jer. 2. 12.

*Levit. 26. 33. ch. 28. 64. Neh. 1. 8

27 And the LORD * ſhall ſcatter you among the nations, and ye ſhall be left † few in number among the heathen, whither the LORD ſhall lead you.

†Heb. men of number. *ch. 28. 36, 64. Jer. 16. 13. *Pſal. 115 4, 5. and 135. 15. Iſa. 45. 20. and 46. 7.

28 And * there ye ſhall ſerve gods b, the work of mens hands, wood and ſtone, * which neither ſee, nor hear, nor eat, nor ſmell.

b (i. e.) Idols. You ſhall be compelled by men, and given up by me to Idolatry. So that very thing which was your choice, ſhall be your puniſhment: it being juſt and uſual for God to puniſh one ſin by giving them up to another, as is manifeſt from Rom. 1. 24, 25.

* Lev. 26. 40. ch. 30. 1 Neh. 1. 9.

29 * But if from thence thou ſhalt ſeek the LORD thy God, thou ſhalt find him, if thou ſeek him c with all thy heart d, and with all thy ſoul.

c If thou deſireſt his help and favour. See Deut. 30. 1. Iſa. 55. 6. d (i. e.) ſincerely and fervently.

30 When thou art in tribulation, and all theſe things † are come upon thee, even in the latter days e, if thou turn to the LORD thy God, and ſhalt be obedient unto his voice:

e Either in general, in ſucceeding Ages and Generations: or particularly, in the days of the Meſſias, which are commonly called in Scripture the latter, or laſt days, as Iſa. 2. 2. Hoſ. 3. 5. Mich. 4. 1. Dan. 2. 44. Heb. 1. 2. and 9. 26. And ſo this may reſpect the converſion and redemption of the Jewiſh Nation even in thoſe times when their caſe ſeems moſt deſperate, when they have forſaken their God, and rejected their Meſſias for many ages, to wit, towards the end of the World.

31 (For the LORD thy God is a merciful God) he will not forſake thee, neither deſtroy thee, nor forget the covenant of thy fathers f, which he ſware unto them.

f (i. e.) Made with thy fathers including their poſterity, as Gen. 17. 7.

32 For ask now of the days that are paſt, which were before thee, ſince the day that God created man upon the earth, and ask from the one ſide of heaven g unto the other, whether there hath been any ſuch thing, as this great thing is or hath been heard like it:

g (i. e.) Of the Earth under Heaven. Ask all the Inhabitants of the world. Compare Matt. 24. 31. with Mark 13. 27.

33 Did ever people hear the voice of God ſpeaking out of the midſt of the fire, as thou haſt heard, and live h?

h (i. e.) And was not overwhelmed and conſumed by ſuch a glorious appearance. See Exod. 24. 11. and 33. 20.

34 Or hath God aſſayed to go and take him a nation from the midſt of another nation, * by temptations i, by ſigns, and by wonders, and by war, and by a mighty hand, and by a ſtretched-out arm, and by great terrors k, according to all that the LORD your God did for you in Egypt before your eyes?

i By tribulations and perſecutions, which are commonly called temptations, which are here fitly mentioned, as one great occaſion firſt of their cries unto God, and then of Gods coming for their reſcue. Or, temptations is the general title, which is explained by the following particulars, ſigns, and wonders, &c. which are called temptations, becauſe they were trials both to the Egyptians and Iſraelites, whether thereby they would be induced to believe and obey God or no. k Raiſed in the minds of the Egyptians, as the Hiſtory ſheweth: compare Deut. 2. 25. and 34. 12. or, by terrible things done among them.

35 Unto thee it was ſhewed, that thou mighteſt know, that the LORD he is God, * there is none elſe beſides him.

36 * Out of heaven t he made thee to hear his voice, that he might inſtruct thee: and upon earth u he ſhewed thee his great fire, and thou heardeſt his words out of the midſt of the fire.

t (i. e.) Out of the air, above Mount Sinai. See Exod. 19. 9. and 20. 18, 22. u At the top of Mount Sinai.

37 And becauſe he loved thy fathers, therefore he choſe their ſeed after them, and brought thee out in his ſight x with his mighty power out of Egypt;

x Keeping his eye fixed upon him, as the Father doth on his beloved child. Or, with his preſence. i. e. He did not ſend them forth by Moſes, but he himſelf was preſent with them, and as it were marched along with them, in the pillar of cloud and fire.

38 To drive out nations from before thee, greater and mightier than thou art, to bring thee in, to give thee their land for an inheritance, as it is this day.

39 Know therefore this day, and conſider it in thine heart, that * the LORD he is God in heaven above, and upon the earth beneath, there is none elſe.

* Joſh. 2. 11.

40 Thou ſhalt keep therefore his ſtatutes, and his commandments, which I command thee this day, that it may go well with thee, and with thy children after thee: and that thou mayeſt prolong thy days upon the earth, which the LORD thy God giveth thee for ever.

41 Then Moſes ſevered three cities y on this ſide Jordan towards the ſun-riſing:

y As God had command him, Numb. 35. 6, 14.

42 That the ſlayer might flee thither, which ſhould kill his neighbour unawares, and hated him not in times paſt; and that fleeing unto one of theſe cities, he might live:

*Joſh. 20. 8

43 Namely, * Bezer in the wilderneſs, in the plain country of the Reubenite; and Ramoth in Gilead of the Gadite, and Golan in Baſhan of the Manaſſite.

44 And this z is the law of which Moſes ſet before the children of Iſrael:

z Which hath been generally intimated already, but is more particularly and punctually expreſſed in the following chapter, to which theſe words are a preface.

45 Theſe are the teſtimonies, and the ſtatutes, and the judgments which Moſes ſpake unto the children of Iſrael, after they came forth out of Egypt;

47 And they poſſeſſed his land, and the land of * Og king of Baſhan, two kings of the Amorite, which were on this ſide Jordan toward the ſun-riſing, 48 From Aroer, which is by the bank of the river Arnon, even unto Mount Sion, which is * Hermon;

49 And all the plain on this ſide Jordan, eaſtward, even unto the ſea of the plain under the * ſprings of Piſgah.

CHAP. V.

God upon Mount Horeb, makes a Covenant with Iſrael, 1——5. The Covenant or Ten Commandments is delivered to Moſes in two Tables, 6--22. The Iſraelites deſire, that not God, but Moſes may ſpeak to them, 23--27. which God approves of, 28, 29. Moſes exhorts them to Obedience, with a promiſe of life, 32, 33.

1 AND Moſes called all Iſrael a, and ſaid unto them, Hear, O Iſrael, the ſtatutes and Judgments, which I ſpeak in your ears this day, that ye may learn them, and † keep, and do them.

a To wit, by their Elders, who were to impart it to the reſt.

*Ex. 19. 5

2 * The LORD our God made a covenant with us in Horeb.

* See Mat. 13. 17. Heb. 8. 9.

3 The LORD * made not the covenant with our fathers b, but with us: even us, who are all of us here alive this day c.

b Either 1. Not only with them, the word only being here underſtood, as it is Gen. 32. 28. and 35. 10. 1 Sam. 8. 7. Jer. 7. 19. and 31. 34. Matt. 9. 13. Or, 2. Not at all with them. But then the word Covenant is not here to be taken for the Covenant of Grace in general, for ſo it was made with their fathers, Exod. 2. 24. but for this particular and mixed diſpenſation of the Covenant at Sinai, as appears both by the foregoing and following words. c He ſaith not, that all who made that Covenant at Sinai are now alive, for many of them were dead, but that this Covenant was made with all that are now alive, which is moſt true, for it was made with the elder ſort of them in their own perſons, and with the reſt in their Parents, who did covenant for them: for this phraſe with us, is put excluſively as to their fathers, but not as to their poſterity, as is evident from the nature of the Covenant, Act. 2. 39. and courſe of the ſtory.

4 * The LORD talked with you face to face d, in the mount out of the midſt of the fire.

d Not in a viſible ſhape, which was utterly denied, Deut. 4. 12, 15. but perſonally and immediately, not by the Mouth or Miniſtery of Moſes; plainly and certainly, as when two men talk face to face; freely and familiarly, ſo as not to overwhelm and confound you. Compare Exod. 33. 11. Numb. 12. 8.

5 (I ſtood between the LORD and you e at that time, to ſhew you the word of the LORD f: for ye were afraid, by reaſon of the fire, and went not up into the mount) ſaying, e As a Mediator or Meſſenger between you, according to your deſire, below v. 27. Compare Exod. 19. 16, &c. and 20. 19. Gal. 3. 19. f Not the ten Commandments, which God himſelf uttered, but the following ſtatutes and judgments.

*Ex.20. 2. &c. Lev. 26. 1. Pſal.81.10. † Heb. ſervants.

6 * I am the LORD thy God h, which brought thee out of the land of Egypt, from the houſe of † bondage.

h The ten Commandments delivered Exod. 20. are here repeated with ſome ſmall difference of words, but the ſence is perfectly the ſame, and therefore the explication of them muſt be fetched thence.

7 Thou ſhalt have none other gods before me.

8 Thou ſhalt not make thee any graven image, or any likeneſs of any thing that is in heaven above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the waters beneath the earth.

*Ex.34.7.

9 Thou ſhalt not bow down thy ſelf unto them, nor ſerve them: for I the LORD thy God am a jealous God, * viſiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children, unto the third and fourth generation of them that hate me;

*Jer.32.18

10 * And ſhewing mercy unto thouſands, of them that love me, and keep my commandments.

11 Thou ſhalt not take the Name of the LORD thy God in vain: for the LORD will not hold him guiltleſs that taketh his Name in vain.

12 Keep i the ſabbath-day to ſanctifie it, as the LORD thy God hath commanded thee k.

i To wit, in mind and memory, as it is Exod. 20. 8. k To wit, in Exod. 20. whither he directs them, and therefore he here omits the Argument of the Creation, which is urged there.

13 Six days thou ſhalt labour, and do all thy work.

*Gen.2.2. Heb.4. 4.

14 But the ſeventh day is the * ſabbath of the LORD thy God, in it thou ſhalt not do any work, thou, nor thy ſon, nor thy daughter, nor thy man-ſervant, nor thy maid-ſervant, nor thine ox, nor thine aſs, nor any of thy cattel, nor thy ſtranger that is within thy gates; that thy man-ſervant, and thy maid-ſervant may reſt as well as thou.

15 And remember that thou waſt a ſervant l in the land of Egypt, and that the LORD thy God brought thee out thence through a mighty hand, and by a ſtretched-out arm: therefore the LORD thy God commanded thee to keep the ſabbath-day.

l And therefore art highly obliged both to ſerve that God who redeemed thee, eſpecially upon his own day, and not to grudge thy ſervants their reſt upon that day.

ch.27.16. Coloſſ. . 20.

16 * Honour thy father and thy mother, as the LORD thy God hath commanded thee, that thy days may be prolonged, and that it may go well with thee, in the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee.

Mat. 5. 1. Luk. 18. o. Rom.13.

17 * Thou ſhalt not kill.

18 * Neither ſhalt thou commit adultery.

19 * Neither ſhalt thou ſteal.

20 Neither ſhalt thou bear falſe witneſs againſt thy neighbour.

Rom.7.7.

21 * Neither ſhalt thou deſire thy neighbours wife, neither ſhalt thou covet thy neighbours houſe m, his field, or his man-ſervant, or his maid-ſervant, his ox, or his aſs, or any thing that is thy neighbours.

m In Exod. 20. the order is contrary, and thy neighbours houſe is put before his wife, whereby it is evident, that Moſes intended this but for one Commandment, wherein the order of the words was an inconſiderable circumſtance: for if this were two Commandments, as ſome would have it, it would be altogether uncertain which is the Ninth, and which the Tenth Commandment, ſeeing the one is firſt, Exod. 20. and the other here.

22 Theſe words the LORD ſpake unto all your aſſembly in the mount, out of the midſt of the fire, of the cloud, and of the thick darkneſs, with a great voice, and he added no more n, and * he wrote them in two tables of ſtone, and delivered them unto me.

n He ceaſed for that time to ſpeak immediately, and with that loud voice unto the people, for the reſt were delivered to Moſes, and by him communicated to the people. This he did to ſhew the preeminency of that Law above the reſt, and its everlaſting Obligation.

23 * And it came to paſs, when ye heard the voice out of the midſt of the darkneſs, (for the mountain did burn with fire) that ye came near unto me, even all the heads of your tribes, and your elders,

*Ex.19.19 *ch.4.33.

24 And ye ſaid, Behold, the LORD our God hath ſhewed us his glory and his greatneſs, and * we have heard his voice out of the midſt of the fire: we have ſeen this day that God doth talk with man, and * he liveth.

25 Now therefore why ſhould we die o? for this great fire will conſume us, If we † hear the voice of the LORD our God any more, then we ſhall die.

o For though God hath for this ſeaſon kept us alive to our admiration, yet we ſhall never be able to endure any further diſcourſe from him in ſuch a terrible manner, but ſhall certainly ſink under the burden of it. Compare Gen. 16. 13. Judg. 6. 22.

26 For who is there of all fleſh p, that hath heard the voice of the living God, ſpeaking out of the midſt of the fire (as we have) and lived!

p Fleſh is here put for Man in his frail corruptible and mortal ſtate, as Mat. 16. 17. 1 Cor. 15. 50. Eph. 6. 12. Heb. 2. 14.

27 Go thou near, and hear all that the LORD our God ſhall ſay, and * ſpeak thou unto us all that the LORD our God ſhall ſpeak unto thee, and we will hear it, and do it.

* Deut. 18. 17.

28 And the LORD heard the voice of your words, when ye ſpake unto me, and the LORD ſaid unto me, I have heard the voice of the words of this people, which they have ſpoken unto thee: * they have well ſaid all that they have ſpoken.

†Heb. who will give their heart to be ſuch in them. *ch.32.29 Pſal.81.13 Iſa. 48.18. Mat. 23. 37.

29 † * O that there were ſuch an heart in them q that they would fear me, and keep all my commandments always, that it might be well with them, and with their children for ever!

q Heb. Who will give them ſuch an heart? This is ſpoken of God after the manner of men, to ſhew that ſuch an heart is deſirable to him, and required by him: otherwiſe it is certain that God can give ſuch an heart, and hath promiſed to give it, Jer. 32. 40. Ezek. 36. 27. And if God will work, who can hinder him? Job. 11. 10.

30 Go, ſay to them, Get ye into your tents again.

31 But as for thee, ſtand thou here by me, and I will ſpeak unto thee all the commandments, and the ſtatutes, and the judgments which thou ſhalt teach them, that they may do them in the land which I give them to poſſeſs it.

*ch.17.20 and 28.14. Joſh. 1. 7.

32 Ye ſhall obſerve to do therefore as the LORD your God hath commanded you: * ye ſhall not turn aſide to the right hand, or to the left r.

r Neither by ſuperſtitious additions to Gods Commands, nor by a bold or prophane rejection or contempt of any one of them.

33 Ye ſhall walk in all the ways which the LORD your God hath commanded you, that ye may live, and that it may be well with you, and that ye may prolong your days, in the land which ye ſhall poſſeſs.

CHAP. VI.

The end of the Commandment, Obedience, 1—2. He exhorts them thereto, 3. The Unity of the Divine Eſſence aſſerted, 4. The Duty required of the Iſraelites, 5. To Love God, 5, 6. And teach their Children, 7. To uſe Signs, as Memorials of it, 8, 9. Not to forget God in proſperity, 10—12. Not to worſhip other Gods, 13—15. Not to tempt God, 16. But keep his Commandments, 17. And to tranſmit the Knowledge of Gods works to their poſterity, 20——25.

1 NOW theſe are the commandments, the ſtatutes, and the judgments which the LORD your God commanded to teach you, that ye might do them in the land whither ye † go to poſſeſs it:

2 That thou mighteſt fear the LORD a thy God, to keep all his ſtatutes; and his commandments which I command thee, thou and thy ſon, and thy ſons ſon, all the days of thy life: and that thy days may be prolonged.

a Which he hereby implies to be the firſt principle of true Obedience.

3 Hear therefore, O Iſrael, and obſerve to do it, that it may be well with thee, and that ye may increaſe mightily, as the LORD God of thy fathers hath promiſed thee, in the land that floweth with milk and honey.

* Mark. 12. 29. † Heb. the LORD our God, the LORD is one. So Gr.

5 And * thou ſhalt love the LORD c thy God with all thine heart, and with all thy ſoul, and with all thy might.

c Now he ſhews another ſpring or principle of ſincere Obedience to God, even hearty love to God, which will make his work and ſervice eaſie, and that the fear he mentioned before, v. 2. was ſuch as would conſiſt with love to God, and not that ſlaviſh fear and honour which produceth hatred.

*ch. 11.18. Pſal. 37. 31. & 40. 8. & 119. 98. Iſa. 51. 7.

7 And thou ſhalt * † teach them diligently e unto thy children, and ſhalt talk of them when thou ſitteſt in thine houſe, and when thou walkeſt by the way, and when thou lieſt down, and when thou riſeſt up.

e Heb. Whet, or ſharpen them, ſo as they may pierce deep into their hearts. This Metaphor ſignifies the manner of inſtructing them, that it is to be done diligently, earneſtly, frequently, diſcreetly, and dexterouſly.

8 And thou ſhalt * bind them for a ſign upon thy hand, and they ſhall be † as frontlets between thy eyes f.

f Thou ſhalt give all diligence, and uſe all means to keep them in thy remembrance, as men oft times bind ſomething upon their hands, or put it before their eyes to prevent forgetfulneſs of a thing which they much deſire to remember, Compare Prov. 3. 3. and 6. 21. and 7. 3. See the notes on Exod. 13. 16.

14 Ye ſhall not go after other gods, of the gods of the people which are round about you:

16 Ye ſhall not tempt the LORD k your God * as ye tempted him in Maſſah.

k i. e. Not provoke him, as the following inſtance explains. Sinners, eſpecially preſumptuous ſinners, are oft ſaid to tempt God, i. e. to make a trial of God, whether he be what he pretends to be, ſo wiſe as to ſee their ſins, ſo juſt and true and powerful as to take vengeance on them for their ſins, concerning which they are very apt to doubt becauſe of the preſent impunity and proſperity of many ſuch perſons. See Numb. 14. 22. Pſal. 78. 18. Mat. 4. 7. Acts 5. 9.

17 Ye ſhall diligently keep the commandments of the LORD your God, and his teſtimonies, and his ſtatutes which he hath commanded thee.

18 And thou ſhalt do that which is right and good in the ſight of the LORD l that it may be well with thee, and that thou mayeſt go in, and poſſeſs the good land which the LORD ſware unto thy fathers:

l Not that which is right in thine own eyes, as many ſuperſtitious and ſinful practices ſeem right and good to evil minded men. Let Gods will and word, and not thine own fancy or invention, be thy rule in Gods ſervice. Good actions are oft ſaid to be right in Gods ſight, as Jer. 34. 15. Act. 4. 19. and evil actions are oft ſaid to be right in our own eyes, as Deut. 12. 8. Judg. 17. 6.

* Numb. 33. 52. † Heb. to morrow.

19 * To caſt out all thine enemies from before thee, as the LORD hath ſpoken.

*Ex 3.19. and 13. 3. †Heb.evil.

21 Then thou ſhalt ſay unto thy ſon, we were Pharaohs bondmen in Egypt, and the LORD brought us out of Egypt * with a mighty hand.

23 And he brought us out from thence, that he might bring us in, to give us the land which he ſware unto our fathers.

24 And the LORD commanded us to do all theſe ſtatutes, to fear the LORD our God for our good m always, that he might preſerve us alive as it is this day.

m The benefit of Obedience is ours, not Gods, Job 35. 7. and therefore our Obedience is highly reaſonable, & abſolutely neceſſary.

† Heb. and righteouſneſs ſhall be to us. Gr. mercy ſhall be to us. See ch. 24. 13. *Rom.10.5

25 † And it * ſhall be our righteouſneſs n, if we obſerve to do all theſe commandments, before the LORD our God, as he hath commanded us.

n Heb. Righteouſneſs ſhall be to us. We ſhall be owned and pronounced by God to be truly righteous and holy perſons, if we ſincerely obey him, otherwiſe we ſhall be declared to be unrighteous and ungodly perſons, and all our profeſſion of Religion will appear to be in Hypocriſie. Or, mercy ſhall be to us, or with us. For as the Hebrew word rendred righteouſneſs is very oft put for mercy, as Pſal. 24. 5. and 36. 10. and 51. 14. Prov. 10. 2. and 11. 4. Dan. 9. 16, &c. ſo this ſence ſeems beſt to agree both with the Scripture uſe of this phraſe, in which righteouſneſs, ſeldom or never, to my remembrance, but grace or mercy frequently, is ſaid to be to us or with us, as 2 Sam. 15. 20. Pſal. 89. 24. Prov. 14. 22. Gal. 6. 16. 2 Joh. 3. and with the foregoing verſe and argument, God, ſaith he, v. 24. commanded theſe things for our good, that he might preſerve us alive, as it is this day. And, ſaith he in this verſe, this is not all, for as he hath done us good, ſo he will go on to do us more and more good, and Gods mercy ſhall be to us, or with us, in the remainder of our lives, and for ever, if we obſerve, &c.

Iſrael is Commanded to caſt out the Hittites, the Perizites, &c. 1. All Communion with them forbidden, 2—3. For fear of Idolatry, 4. They muſt ruin the places of Idolatry, 5. The Iſraelites holineſs and relation to God, 6. His faithfulneſs to the Obedient, 9. And vengeance on them that hate him, 10. The Advantages of Obedience, 12—16. God encourages them, and promiſes to drive out the Nations before 'em, 17—24. They are commanded to deſtroy their Images, 25. And keep themſelves clean from their curſed things, 20.

1 WHen the * LORD thy God ſhall bring thee into the land whither thou goeſt to poſſeſs it, and hath caſt out many nations before thee, the Hittite, and the Girgaſhite, and the Amorite, and the Canaanite, and the Perizzite, and the Hivite, and the Jebuſite, ſeven Nations a greater and mightier than thou:

a There were ten in Gen. 15. 19. But this being ſome hundreds of years after that, it is not ſtrange if three of them were either deſtroyed by Foreign or Domeſtick wars, or by cohabitation and marriage united with, and ſwallowed up in ſome of the reſt.

2 And when the LORD thy God ſhall deliver them before thee, thou ſhalt ſmite them, and * utterly deſtroy them; * thou ſhalt † make no covenant with them b, nor ſhew mercy unto them.

b To ſpare them, or permit them to dwell with thee in the land. Other Nations had more favour, but theſe were for their great wickedneſs, and for the good of Iſrael devoted to utter deſtruction.

3 Neither ſhalt thou make marriages with them, thy daughter thou ſhalt not give unto his ſon, nor his daughter thou ſhalt not take to thy ſon.

4 For they will turn away thy ſon from following me, that they may ſerve other gods c: ſo will the anger of the LORD be kindled againſt you, and deſtroy thee ſuddenly.

c i. e. There is manifeſt danger of Apoſtacy and Idolatry from ſuch matches. Which reaſon doth both limit the Law to ſuch of theſe as were unconverted, otherwiſe Salmon married Rahab, Mat. 1. 5. and enlarge it to other Idolatrous Nations, as appears from 1 Kings 11. 2. Ezra 9. 2. Neh. 13. 23.

*ch.14.2. & 26.19. *Ex.19.5. Amos 3.2. 1 Pet. 2.9.

6 * For thou art a holy people unto the LORD thy God: * the LORD thy God hath choſen thee to be a ſpecial people unto himſelf, above all the people that are upon the face of the earth.

7 The LORD did not ſet his love upon you, nor chooſe you, becauſe ye were moe in number than any people: (for ye were the feweſt of all people e.)

e To wit, at that time when God firſt declared his love to you, and choice of you for his peculiar people, which was done to Abraham. For Abraham had but one Son concerned in this choice and covenant, to wit, Iſaac, and that was in his hundredth year; and Iſaac was 60 years old ere he had a Child, and then they had only two Children; and though Jacob had 12 Sons, yet it was a long time ere they made any conſiderable increaſe. Nor do we read of any great multiplication of them till after Joſeph's death, Exod. 1. 6, 7.

8 But becauſe the LORD loved you f, and becauſe he would keep the oath which he had ſworn unto your fathers, hath the LORD brought you out with a mighty hand, and redeemed you out of the houſe of bondmen, from the hand of Pharaoh King of Egypt.

f i. e. Becauſe it pleaſed him to love you, it was his free choice, without any cauſe or motive on your part. Compare Deut. 10. 15. 1 Sam. 12. 22. Pſalm 43. 4.

*Ex. 20.6.

9 Know therefore that the LORD thy God, he is God, the faithful God g, * which keepeth covenant and mercy with them that love him, and keep his commandments, to a thouſand generations:

g True to his word, and conſtant in performing all his promiſes.

h Not only thoſe who hate him directly and properly, (for ſo did few or none of the Iſraelites to whom he here ſpeaks,) but thoſe who hate him by conſtruction and conſequence; thoſe who hate and oppoſe his People, and Word, and Image, thoſe who preſumptuouſly and wilfully perſiſt in the breach of Gods Commandments, as appears from v. 9. where the love of God, to which this hatred is oppoſite, is deſcribed and expreſſed by the keeping of his commandments.
i i. e. Openly, and ſo as they ſhall ſee it, and not be able to avoid it.
k To wit, ſo as ſome men count ſlackneſs, 2 Pet. 3. 9. ſo as to delay it beyond the fit time or ſeaſon for vengeance, yet withal he is longſuffering, and ſlow to anger, as that and other places inform us.

11 Thou ſhalt therefore keep the commandments, and the ſtatutes, and the judgments which I command thee this day, to do them.

12 * Whereſore it ſhall come to paſs, † if ye hearken to theſe judgments, and keep and do them, that the LORD thy God ſhall keep unto thee the covenant and the mercy l which he ſware unto thy fathers.

m He will continue to love thee, and to manifeſt his love to thee, he will not repent of his love to thee.

14 Thou ſhalt be bleſſed above all people: * there ſhall not be male or female barren among you, or among your cattel.

*Exod.23. 26, &c.

1 ALl the commandments which I command thee this day, ſhall ye obſerve to do, that ye may live a, and multiply, and go in, and poſſeſs the land which the LORD ſware unto your fathers.

a i. e. Live comfortably and happily, as life is oft taken, as Gen. 17. 18. Prov. 3. 2. as on the contrary, troubles or afflictions are called Death, Exod. 10. 17. 2 Cor. 11. 23.

2 And thou ſhalt remember all the way b which the LORD thy God led thee thoſe fourty years in the wilderneſs, to humble thee, and to * prove thee, to know c what was in thine heart, whether thou wouldeſt keep his commandments or no.

b i. e. 3 And he humbled thee, and * ſuffered thee to hunger, and fed thee with * Manna (which thou kneweſt not, neither did thy fathers know) that he might make thee know, that man doth * not live by bread only, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of the LORD d doth man live.

m (i. e.) Solemnly praiſe him for thy food; which is a debt both of gratitude and juſtice, becauſe it is from his providence and favour that thou receiveſt both thy food and refreſhment and ſtrength by it. 11 Beware that thou forget not the LORD thy God, in not keeping his commandments, and his judgments, and his ſtatutes, which I command thee this day.

o By keeping thee in a conſtant dependance upon him for every days food, and convincing thee what an impotent, helpleſs, and beggerly Creature thou art in thy ſelf, having nothing whereon to ſubſiſt, but from hand to mouth, and being ſupported wholly by the alms of divine goodneſs given to thee from day to day. The mercies of God, if duly conſidered, are as powerful an argument or mean to humble us as the greateſt afflictions, becauſe they increaſe our debts to God, and manifeſt our dependance upon him, and inſufficiency without him, and by making God great, they make us little in our own eyes. Though this clauſe, as well as that which follows, may have reſpect to their afflictions, mentioned, v. 15. p (i. e.) That after he hath purged and prepared thee by afflictions, he may give thee, and thou mayeſt receive and enjoy his bleſſings with leſs diſadvantage, whilſt by the remembrance of former afflictions thou art made thankful for them, and more cautious not to abuſe and forfeit them again.

17 And thou ſay in thine heart, My power, and the might of mine hand hath gotten me this wealth.

18 But thou ſhalt remember the LORD thy God; for it is he that giveth thee power to get wealth q, that he may eſtabliſh his covenant which he ſware unto thy fathers, as it is this day.

q So this word is uſed, Numb. 24. 18. Job 20: 18. Prov. 31. 29.

19 And it ſhall be, if thou do at all forget the LORD thy God, and walk after other gods, and ſerve them, and worſhip them, I teſtifie againſt you this day that ye ſhall ſurely periſh.

20 As the nations which the LORD deſtroyeth before your face, ſo ſhall ye periſh; becauſe ye would not be obedient unto the voice of the LORD your God.

Iſrael's march over Jordan to poſſeſs Canaan, 1—3. But muſt not aſcribe it to their own Righteouſneſs, 4—6. A rehearſal of their manifold provocations at Horeb, 8. at Taberah, 22. and at Kadeſh-Barnea, 23, 24.

1 HEar, O Iſrael, thou art to paſs over Jordan this day a, to go in to poſſeſs nations b greater and mightier than thy ſelf c, cities great and * fenced up to heaven d. *ch. 1. 28.

a (i.e.) Shortly, within a little time, the word day being oft put for time, as Joh. 8. 56. 1 Cor. 4. 5. Revel. 16. 14. within two months: for Moſes ſpake this on the firſt day of the eleventh month, Deut. 1.3. and they paſſed over Jordan on the tenth day of the firſt month, Joſ. 4. 19. b (i. e.) The land of thoſe nations; for that only they were to poſſeſs, but as for the Nations or people they were not to poſſeſs, but to deſtroy them. Thus they are ſaid to inherit Gad, Jer. 49. 1. i. e. the Country and Cities of Gad, as it is there explained. c This he adds, partly that they might not be ſurpriſed when they find them to be ſuch: partly that they might not truſt to their own ſtrength, but wholly rely upon Gods help for the deſtroying of them, and, after the work was done, might aſcribe the praiſe and glory of it to God alone, and not to themſelves. d As the Spies reported, Deut. 1. 28. See on Gen. 11. 4.

*Numb. 13. 28, 29. 2 A people great and tall, the children of * the Anakims, whom thou knoweſt, and of whom thou haſt heard ſay e, Who can ſtand before the children of Anak?

e Either from the ſpies, or rather from common fame, for this ſeems to be a proverb uſed in thoſe times.

3 Underſtand therefore this day, that the LORD thy God is he which goeth over before thee as a * conſuming fire: he ſhall deſtroy them and he ſhall bring them down before thy face; ſo ſhalt thou drive them out, and deſtroy them quickly f as the LORD hath ſaid unto thee *ch. 4. 24. Heb. 12. 29

f Without great difficulty or long wars.

4 Speak not thou in thine heart, after that the LORD thy God hath caſt them out from before thee, ſaying, * For my righteouſneſs the LORD hath brought me in to poſſeſs this land: but * for the wickedneſs of theſe nations the LORD doth drive them out from before thee. *Rom. 11. 6, 20 1 Cor. 4, 4, 7. *Gen 15.16

5 Not for thy righteouſneſs, or for the uprightneſs of thine heart g, doſt thou go to poſſeſs their land; but for the wickedneſs of theſe nations the LORD thy God doth drive them out from before thee, and that he may perform * the word which the LORD ſware unto thy fathers, Abraham, Iſaac and Jacob h. *Gen. 12. 7 & 13. 15. & 15. 7. & 17. 8. & 26. 4. & 28. 13.

g Neither for thy upright heart, nor holy life, which are the two things which God above all things regards, 1 Chron. 29. 17. Pſal. 15. 1, 2. And conſequently he excludes all merit. And ſurely they who did not deſerve this earthly Canaan, could not merit the kingdom of Glory. h To ſhew my faithfulneſs in accompliſhing that promiſe which I graciouſly made and confirmed with my oath. By which words it is implied, that this land was not given to them for the righteouſneſs of their fathers, though they were righteous and holy perſons, and much leſs for their own righteouſneſs, which they had not, as it follows.

6 Underſtand therefore, that the LORD thy God giveth thee not this good land to poſſeſs it for thy righteouſneſs, for thou art a * ſtiff-necked people i. *Ex. 32. 9. & 34. 9.

i Rebellious and perverſe, and ſo deſtitute of all pretence of righteouſneſs; ſuch were the people, but there were divers particular perſons amongſt them truly righteous and holy, and yet even their righteouſneſs is denied to be the procuring cauſe of this land.

7 Remember, and forget not how thou provokedſt the LORD thy God to wrath in the wilderneſs: * from the day thou didſt depart out of the land of Egypt, until ye came unto this place, ye have been rebellious againſt the LORD. *Ex. 14. 11. & 16. 2. & 17. 2. Num. 11. 4. & 20. 2. & 25. 3.

8 Alſo * in Horeb k, ye provoked the LORD to wrath, ſo that the LORD was angry with you, to have deſtroyed you. *Ex. 32. 4. Pſ. 106. 19.

k When your miraculous deliverance out of Egypt was freſh in memory; when God had but newly manifeſted himſelf to you in ſo ſtupendious and dreadful a manner, and had taken you into covenant with himſelf, when God was actually conferring further mercies upon you.

9 * When I was gone up into the mount, to receive the tables of ſtone, even the tables of the covenant which the LORD made with you, then * I abode in the mount forty days and forty nights; I neither did eat bread, nor drink water l. *Ex. 24. 12, 15. *Ex 24. 18 & 34. 28.

l (i.e.) I wholly abſtained from all meat and drink. Compare 1 King. 13. 8, 9, 13. 2 King. 6. 22.

10 * And the LORD delivered unto me two tables of ſtone, written with the finger of God m, and on them was written according to all the words which the LORD ſpake with you in the mount, out of the midſt of the fire, * in the day of the aſſembly n. *Ex. 31. 18 *Ex. 19. 17. & 20. 1.

m Immediately and miraculouſly, which was done not only to procure the greater reverence to the Law, but alſo to ſignifie, that it was the work of God alone to write this Law upon the Tables of mens hearts. See Jer. 31. 33. 2 Cor. 3. 3, 7. n (i. e.) When the people were gathered by Gods command to the bottom of Mount Sinai, to hear and receive Gods Ten Commandments from his own mouth.

11 And it came to paſs at the end of fourty days, and fourty nights, that the LORD gave me the two tables of ſtone, even the tables of the covenant.

12 And the LORD ſaid unto me, * Ariſe, get thee down quickly from hence; for thy people which thou haſt brought forth out of Egypt, have corrupted themſelves: they are quickly turned aſide out of the way which I commanded them; they have made them a molten image. *Ex. 32. 8.

13 Furthermore, the LORD ſpake unto me, ſaying, I have ſeen this people, and behold, it is a ſtiff-necked people.

14 Let me alone o, that I may deſtroy them, and blot out their name from under heaven: and I will make of thee a nation greater and mightier than they.

a Stop not the courſe of my fury by thy interceſſion.

15 So I turned and came down from the mount, and the mount burned with fire: and the two tables of the covenant were in my two hands.

16 And * I looked, and behold, ye had ſinned againſt the LORD your God, and had made you a molten calf: ye had turned aſide quickly out of the way which the LORD had commanded you. *Ex. 32. 19.

17 And I took the two tables, and caſt them out of my two hands, and brake them before your eyes p.

p Not by an unbridled paſſion, but in zeal for Gods honour, and by the direction of Gods ſpirit, to ſignifie to the people, that the covenant between God and them contained in thoſe tables was broken and made void, and they were now quite caſt out of Gods favour, and could expect nothing from him but fiery indignation and ſevere juſtice. See on Exod. 32. 19.

18 And * I fell down q before the LORD, as at the firſt, forty days, and forty nights; I did neither eat bread, nor drink water, becauſe of all your ſins, which ye ſinned, in doing wickedly in the ſight of the LORD, to provoke him to anger. * Pſal. 106. 23.

q In way of humiliation and ſupplication, on your behalf.

19 (For I was afraid of the anger and hot diſ-pleaſure wherewith the LORD was wroth againſt you, to deſtroy you) But the LORD hearkned unto me at that time alſo.

20 And the LORD was very angry with Aaron r, to have deſtroyed him: And I prayed for Aaron alſo the ſame time.

r Though he was only acceſſary, as being perſwaded, and in a manner compelled to comply with your deſire.

21 And * I took your ſin s, the calf which ye had made, and burnt it with fire, and ſtamped it, and ground it very ſmall, even until it was as ſmall as duſt: and I caſt the duſt thereof into the brook t that deſcended out of the mount. *Ex. 32. 20 s (i. e.) The object and matter of your ſin, as ſin is taken Iſa. 31. 7. t That there might be no monument or remembrance of it left.

22 And at * Taberah, and at * Maſſa, and at * Kibroth-hattaavah, ye provoked the LORD to wrath. *Num. 11. 1, 3. *Ex. 17. 7. *Num. 11. 34.

23 Likewiſe * when the LORD ſent you from Kadeſh-barnea, ſaying, Go up, and poſſeſs the land which I have given you, then ye rebelled againſt the commandment of the LORD your God, and ye believed him not, nor hearkned to his voice. * Num. 13. 3.

24 Ye have been rebellious againſt the LORD, from the day that I knew you.

25 Thus I fell down before the LORD forty days and forty nights u, as I fell down * at the firſt, becauſe the LORD had ſaid, he would deſtroy you. ver. 18.

u The ſame mentioned before, v. 18. as appears, 1. By comparing this with Exodus, where this Hiſtory is more fully related, and where this is ſaid to be done twice only. 2. By the occaſion and matter of Moſes his prayer here following, which is the ſame with the former. 3. By the words here following, as I fell down at firſt, which ſhew that this was the ſecond time of his ſo doing.

26 I prayed therefore unto the LORD and ſaid, O LORD God, deſtroy not thy people, and thine inheritance, which thou haſt redeemed through thy greatneſs x, which thou haſt brought forth out of Egypt with a mighty hand.

x (i.e.) Through the greatneſs of thy power. which appeared moſt eminently in that work, as is noted, v. 29.

27 Remember thy Servants y, Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob: look not unto the ſtubbornneſs of this people, nor to their wickedneſs, nor to their ſin.

y (i.e.) The promiſe made and ſworn to thy Servants, which was mentioned above, v. 5.

28 Leſt the land whence thou broughteſt us out, ſay, * Becauſe the LORD was not able to bring them into the land which he promiſed them, and becauſe he hated them, he hath brought them out to ſlay them in the wilderneſs. Num.14.

29 Yet they are thy people z, and thine inheritance, which thou broughteſt out by thy mighty power, and by thy ſtretched-out arm.

z Whom thou haſt choſen to thy ſelf out of all mankind, and publickly owned them for thine, and haſt purchaſed and redeemed them from the Egyptians.

CHAP. X.

Moſes repeats God's mercies in reſtoring the two Tables, 1——5. Aaron's death. Eleazar his Son officiates in his ſtead, 6, 7. The Tribe of Levi is ſeparated for the Prieſthood, 8, 9. God hearkning to Moſes not to deſtroy them, 10. He is commanded to lead towards Canaan, 11. God requires their Obedience, 12—15. To circumciſe their Hearts, 16, 17. To help the Fatherleſs and Widow, 18. To love ſtrangers, 19. To fear and ſerve the Lord for his Mercies towards them, 20——22.

1 AT that time a the LORD ſaid unto me, * Hew thee two tables of ſtone like unto the firſt, and come up unto me into the mount, and make thee an ark of wood b. xod.34.

a When God was newly appeaſed by my interceſſion. b Either a temporary Ark for this uſe, till the other was finiſhed: or the famous Ark, as may ſeem by comparing this with v, 5. It is not evident in what order theſe things were done, nor is it ſtrange if Moſes in this ſhort and general relation neglect the order of time, as being nothing to his preſent purpoſe.

2 And I will write on the tables, the words that were in the firſt tables which thou brakeſt, and thou ſhalt put them in the ark.

3 And I made an ark of * Shittim wood, and hewed two tables of ſtone like unto the firſt, and went up into the mount, having the two tables in mine hand. od.25. o.

4 And * he wrote on the tables according to the firſt writing, the † ten commandments, which the LORD ſpake unto you in the mount, out of the midſt of the fire, in the day of the aſſembly; and the LORD gave them unto me. od.34. Heb. s.

5 And I turned my ſelf: and came down from the mount, and put the tables in the ark which I had made, and there they be, as the LORD commanded me.

6 And the children of Iſrael took their journey c from Beeroth of the children of Jaakan to * Moſera d; * there Aaron died e, and there he was buried, and Eleazar his ſon miniſtred in the prieſts office in his ſtead. m.33. m.20.

c This following Hiſtory comes in manifeſtly by way of Parentheſis, as may appear from ver. 10. where he returns to his former diſcourſe; and it ſeems to be here inſerted, either, 1. Becauſe the Prieſts and Levites here mentioned were the Guardians and Keepers of the Ark and Tables here mentioned. Or rather, 2. As an evidence of God's gracious anſwer to Moſes his prayers, and of his reconciliation to the people, notwithſtanding their late and great provocation. For, ſaith he, after this they proceeded by God's guidance in their Jorrneys, ſome eminent ſtages whereof he names for all: and though Aaron died in one of them, yet God made up that Breach, and Eleazar came in his place, and miniſtred as Prieſt, one branch of which office was to intercede for the people. Then, ſaith he, God brought them from the barren parts of the wilderneſs to a land of rivers of waters, v. 7. a pleaſant and fruitful Soil. Then he adds, God ſeparated the Levites, &c. v. 8. d Obj. This place ſeems directly contrary to that, Numb. 33. 31. where their journey is quite contrary to this, even from Moſeroth to Bene-jaakan. This indeed is a great difficulty, and prophane wits take occaſion to cavil. And if a ſatisfactory anſwer be not yet given to it by Interpreters, it ought not therefore to be concluded unanſwerable, becauſe many things formerly thought unanſwerable, have been ſince fully cleared, and therefore the like may be preſumed concerning other doubts yet remaining. And it were much more reaſonable to acknowledge here a tranſpoſition of the words through the Scribe's miſtake, than upon ſuch a pretence to reject the divine Authority of thoſe ſacred Books, which hath been confirmed by ſuch irreſiſtable Arguments. But there is no need of theſe general pleas, ſeeing particular anſwers are and may be given to this difficulty ſufficient to ſatisfie modeſt and impartial enquirers. Anſw. 1. The places here mentioned are differing from thoſe, Numb. 33. it being very frequent in Scripture for divers perſons and places to be called by the ſame names, and yet the names are not wholly the ſame; for there it is Bene-jaakan, and here Beeroth bene-jaakan, or Beeroth of the children of Jaakan; there Moſeroth, here Moſerah; there Hor-hagidgad, here Gudgodah; there Jotbathah, here Jotbath. If the places were the ſame, it may juſtly ſeem ſtrange why Moſes ſhould ſo induſtriouſly make a change in every one of the names. And therefore theſe may be other Stations, which being omitted in Numb. 33. are ſupplied here, it being uſual in ſacred Scripture to ſupply the defects of one place out of another. Anſw. 2. Admitting theſe two places to be the ſame with thoſe, Numb. 33. 31. yet the journeys are divers. They went from Beeroth of the children of Jaacan to Moſera, which is omitted in Numbers, and therefore here ſupplyed; and then back again from Moſerah or Moſeroth to Bene jaakan, as is there ſaid: for which return there might then be ſome ſufficient reaſon, though now unknown to us, as the reaſons of many ſuch like things are: or God might order it ſo for his own pleaſure, and it is not impoſſible he might do it for this reaſon, that by this ſeeming contradiction, as well as ſome others, he might in juſt judgment do what he threatned to the Jews, Jer. 6. 21. even lay ſtumbling blocks before prophane and proud wits, and give them that occaſion of deceiving and ruining themſelves, which they ſo greedily ſeek and gladly embrace; which is the reaſon given by ſome of the antients why God hath left ſo many difficulties in Scripture. Anſ. 3. The words may be otherwiſe rendred, from Beeroth of the children of Jaakan, and from Moſerah: where the order of the places is not obſerved, as was noted before of the order of time, v. 1. becauſe it was nothing to the purpoſe here, and becauſe that might be eaſily fetched from Numb. 33. where thoſe journeys are more particularly and exactly deſcribed. For the conjunction and, that may be here wanting, and to be ſupplied, as it is, Exod. 6. 23. 1 Sam. 4. 7. Pſal. 133. 3. Iſa. 63. 11. Hab. 3. 11. And the prepoſition from is eaſily ſupplied from the foregoing words, as is moſt uſual. Nor ſeems there to be any more reaſon to render it to Moſerah, than from Moſerah, ſeeing the Hebrew letter He in the end is made a part of the proper name, and therefore is not local. e Qu. How is this true? when Aaron dyed not in Moſerah, but in Mount Hor, Numb. 33. 37. Anſ. 1. Moſerah may be a different place from Moſeroth, and that may be the name of a Town or Region in which Mount Hor was, or to which it belonged. Or, the ſame mountain, in reſpect of divers parts and oppoſite ſides of it, might be called by divers names, here Moſerah, and there Hor. And it is poſſible they might go ſeveral journeys, and paſs to divers ſtations, and by fetching a compaſs (which they oft did in their wilderneſs travels) come to the other ſide of the ſame Mountain. Anſ. 2. The Hebrew particle, ſcham, may here note the time, and not the place of Aaron's death, and may be rendred then, as it is taken, Gen. 49. 24. Pſal. 14. 5. Eccleſ. 3. 17. Zephan. 1. 14. And then is not to be taken preciſely, but with ſome latitude, as it is oft uſed in Scripture; that is, about that time, after a few removes more; as the words, at that time, v. 8. muſt neceſſarily be underſtood.

7 * From thence e they journeyed unto Gudgodah, and from Gudgodah to Jotbath, a land of rivers of waters. *Num.33. 32.34.

e Either, 1. From that place, and that either from Moſera, laſt mentioned: or from Bene-jaakan: for relatives many times in Scripture belong to the remoter antecedent. Or, 2. From that time: for this particle ſometimes notes not place, but time, as 2 King. 2. 21. Iſa. 65. 20. So the meaning is, At, or about that time, as it is v. 8. which being conſidered, may ſerve to clear the great difficulty diſcourſed upon the laſt verſe concerning the ſeeming contradiction of this place, and Numb. 33. 31, 32.

8 At that time f * the LORD ſeparated the tribe of Levi to bear the ark of the covenant of the LORD, to ſtand before the LORD g to miniſter unto him, and to bleſs in his name h unto this day. *Num. 3. 6. & 4. 4. & 8. 14.

f About that time, i. e. when I was come down from the Mount, as was ſaid v. 5. For theſe words manifeſtly look to that verſe, the 6 & 7 verſes being put in by way of Parentheſis, as was ſaid before. Or, if it relate to the words immediately foregoing, this may be meant of a ſecond ſeparation of them upon Aaron's Death, and having mentioned the ſeparation of Eleazar to the Office of the high Prieſt in his Father's ſtead, v. 6. he now repeats it, that the Levites who were his, as they had been his Father's Servants, were ſeperated as before, or were confirmed in their Office. g A phraſe uſed concerning the Prophets, 1 Kin. 17. 1. & 18. 15. this being the poſture of Miniſters. Hence the Angels are ſaid to ſtand, 2 Chron. 18. 18. Luk. 1. 19. h Either, 1. Particularly, to pronounce the ſolemn bleſſing of God upon the Congregation, which was done in God's name, of which ſee Levit. 9. 23. Numb. 6. 23. &c. But that work was peculiar to the Prieſts, not common to all the Levites. Or, more generally, to bleſs, Either 1. God, i. e. to praiſe him, which being a conſiderable part of the Levites work, 1 Chron. 16. it is not probable it would be omitted here, where their Office is ſo particularly deſcribed. Or, 2. The people, whom they did bleſs by performance of thoſe holy miniſtrations for the people, and giving thoſe inſtructions to them, to which God's bleſſing was promiſed and uſually given; and this they did in Gods name, i. e. by command, and commiſſion from him.

9 * Wherefore Levi hath no part nor inheritance with his brethren; the LORD is his inheritance i, according as the LORD thy God promiſed him. *Num. 18. 20.

i (i.e.) The Lord's portion, to wit, tithes and offerings, which belong to God, are given by him to the Levites for their ſubſiſtence from generation to generation, as inheritances run

10 And * I ſtayed in the mount, according to the ‖ firſt time, forty days, and forty nights: and the LORD * hearkened unto me at that time alſo, and the LORD would not deſtroy thee. *Exod. 34. 28. ‖ Or, former days. *Exod. 32. 32, 33. & 33. 17.

*Exod.32. 34.& 33.1. † Heb. go in journey.

11 * And the LORD ſaid unto me, Ariſe, † take thy journey before the people, that they may go in k, and poſſeſs the land, which I ſware unto their fathers to give unto them.

k This ſhews, that God was appeaſed and reconciled to the people, whom therefore he led forwards towards Canaan.

l By way of duty and gratitude to God for ſuch amazing mercies.

13 To keep the commandments of the LORD, and his ſtatutes, which I command thee this day for thy good?

14 Behold * the heaven m, and the heaven of heavens n is the LORD thy God's, * the earth alſo, with all that therein is o.

m The airy and ſtarry heaven. n The higheſt or third heaven, 1 King. 8. 27. 2 Cor. 12. 2. called the heaven of heavens for its eminency, as the ſong of ſongs, king of kings, holy of holies, &c. o With all creatures and all men, which being all his, he might have choſen what Nation he pleaſed to be his people.

15 Only the LORD had a delight in thy fathers to love them p, and he choſe their ſeed after them, even you, above all people, as it is this day.

p He ſhews that God had no particular reaſon nor obligation to their fathers any more than to other perſons or people, all being equally his creatures, and that his choice of them out of and above all others, proceeded only from God's good pleaſure and free love.

CHAP. XI.

Moſes exhorts them to Obedience by rehearſing God's Works, 1——9. and by the Excellency of the Land they were to poſſeſs, 10——12. A Promiſe of Bleſſings to their Obedience, 13——15. They are warned againſt Idolatry, 16, 17. To teach it their Children, 19. And keep Memorials of it, 20. for their own Benefit, 21. God promiſes again, upon their Obedience, to drive out the Nations, 22, 25. A Bleſſing and a Curſe is ſet before them, 26,— 28. They are bid to bleſs on Mount Gerizim, but curſe on Mount Ebal, 29.

1 THerefore thou ſhalt love the LORD thy God, and keep his charge, and his ſtatutes, and his judgments, and his commandments alway.

2 And know a ye this day: for I ſpeak not with your children, which have not known, and which have not ſeen the chaſtiſement of the LORD your God, his greatneſs, his mighty hand, and his ſtretched-out arm:

a (i. e.) Acknowledge and conſider it with diligence and thankfulneſs.

3 And his miracles, and his acts, which he did in the midſt of Egypt, unto Pharaoh the king of Egypt, and unto all his land.

*Ex. [illegible]

4 And what he did unto the army of Egypt, unto their horſes, and to their chariots, * how he made the water of the Red-ſea to overflow them, as they purſued after you, and how the LORD hath deſtroyed them unto this day b:

b The effect of which deſtruction continueth to this day, in their weakneſs and fear, and our ſafety from all their further attempts againſt us.

5 And what he did unto you in the wilderneſs, until ye came unto this place:

*Num. 16. 31 & 27. 3. Pſ. 106. 17. || Or, living ſubſtance which follow'd them. † Heb. was at their feet.

6 And * what he did unto Dathan and Abiram the ſons of Eliab, the ſon of Reuben: how the earth opened her mouth, and ſwallowed them up, and their houſholds, and their tents, and all the || ſubſtance that † was in their poſſeſſion c, in the midſt of all Iſrael:

c Heb. At their feet, i. e. under their power, Pſal. 8. 6. which followed them or belonged to them.

7 But your eyes have ſeen all the great acts of the LORD d, which he did.

d All of them had ſeen ſome, and ſome of them had ſeen all the great things done in Egypt and at the Red-ſea, and in the Wilderneſs.

8 Therefore ſhall ye keep all the commandments which I command you this day, that ye may be ſtrong, and go in, and poſſeſs the land whither ye go to poſſeſs it:

9 And that ye may prolong your days in the land which the LORD ſware unto your fathers to give unto them, and to their ſeed, a land that floweth with milk and honey.

10 For the land whither thou goeſt in to poſſeſs it, is not as the land of Egypt, from whence ye came out, where thou ſowedſt thy ſeed, and wateredſt it with thy foot e as a garden of herbs:

e (i. e.) With great pains and labour of thy feet, partly by going up and down to fetch water and diſperſe it, and partly by digging furrows with thy foot, and uſing engines for diſtributing the water, which engines they thruſt with their feet. For though the River Nilus did once in a year overflow the grounds, and made them fruitful, yet oft times it failed or ſcanted them, and then they were put to great pains about their ground; and when it did overflow ſufficiently, and left its mud upon the earth, yet that Mud was in a little time hardned, and needed another watering and much digging and labour both of the hand and feet, eſpecially in places ſomething higher or more remote from that River; which inconvenience Can[illegible]n was free from.

11 But the land whither ye go to poſſeſs it, is a land of hills and vallies f and drinketh water of the rain of heaven g:

f And therefore much more healthful than Egypt was, which as it was enriched, ſo it was annoyed, with Nilus, which overflowed the land in ſummer time, and thereby made the Country both unpleaſant, and, which is much worſe, unhealthful. And health being the greateſt of all outward bleſſings, Canaan muſt therefore needs be a more deſirable habitation than Egypt, which is the thing here implyed. g Which is more honourable, becauſe this comes not from man's art or induſtry, but immediately from God's power and goodneſs; more eaſie, being given thee without thy charge or pains; more ſweet and pleaſant, not hindering thy going abroad upon thy occaſions, as the overflow of Nilus did, whereby the Egyptians were confined in a great meaſure to their ſeveral houſes; more ſafe and healthful, being free from that Mud which attends upon the waters of Nilus; and more certain too, the former and the later rain being promiſed to be given to them in their ſeveral ſeaſons, upon condition of their obedience, which condition, though it may ſeem a clog and inconvenience, yet indeed was a great benefit, that by their own neceſſities and worldly intereſt they ſhould be obliged to that obedience, upon which their happineſs depended both for this life and for the next.

12 A land which the LORD thy God † careth for h: * the eyes of the LORD thy God are always upon it from the beginning of the year, even unto the end of the year i.

h To wit, in a ſpecial manner, watering it immediately as it were by his own hand, without man's help, and giving peculiar bleſſings to it, which Egypt enjoys not. i To give it the rain, and other bleſſings proper to the ſeveral ſeaſons. But all theſe mercies, and the fruitfulneſs of the land conſequent upon them, were ſuſpended upon their diſobedience, as it here follows. And therefore it is not at all ſtrange that ſome later writers decry the land of Canaan as in great part a barren ſoyl, which is ſo far from affording any ground to queſtion the divine authority of the holy Scriptures, in which its fruitfulneſs is declared, that it doth much more confirm it, this being but an effect of that threatning that God would turn a fruitful land into barrenneſs for the wickedneſs of thoſe that dwell in it, Pſal. 107. 34. and elſewhere; and the wickedneſs of the Iſraelites in ſucceeding ages being notorious, it is but juſt and fit that the barrenneſs of their land ſhould be as evident and infamous.

13 And it ſhall come to paſs, if ye ſhall hearken diligently unto my commandments, which I commanded you this day, to love the LORD your God, and to ſerve him with all your heart, and with all your ſoul;

14 That I will give you the rain of your land k in his due ſeaſon, the firſt rain, and the latter rain l, that thou mayeſt gather in thy corn, and thy wine, and thine oil.

k (i. e.) which is needful and ſufficient for your land; or which is proper to your land, not common to Egypt, where, as all authors agree, there is little or no rain. l The firſt fell in ſeed time, to make the corn ſpring, the other a little before harveſt, to ripen it. See Jer. 5. 24. Joel 2. 23. Amos 4. 7. Jam. 5. 7.

Heb. ive. 15 And I will † ſend graſs in thy fields for thy cattle, that thou mayeſt eat and be full.

16 Take heed to your ſelves, that your heart be not deceived m, and ye turn aſide, and ſerve other gods, and worſhip them:

m By the ſpecious pretences of Idolaters, who will plead the general conſent of all nations, except yours, in the worſhip of creatures, and that they worſhip the creatures only for God's ſake, and as they are glorious works of God, whom they worſhip in and by them: which, and the like arguments, being commonly alledged by Heathens for their Idolatries, as their own writers declare, might poſſibly ſeduce an unwary Iſraelite: and therefore they are here cautioned againſt ſuch deceit, and withal it is implyed, that if a man's mind be corrupted and deceived, ſo as he believes Idolatry to be lawful, this will not excuſe him in the ſight of God.

17 And then the LORD's wrath be kindled againſt you, and he ſhut up the heaven n, that there be no rain, and that the land yeild not her fruit, and leſt ye periſh quickly from off the good land which the LORD giveth you.

n Which is compared ſometimes to a bottle, Job 38. 37. which may be either ſtopped or opened: ſometimes to a great ſtore-houſe wherein God lays up his treaſures of rain, Job 38. 22. Pſal. 33. 7. the doors whereof God is ſaid to open when he gives rain, and to ſhut when he with-holds it. g Which were wiſely appropriated to that one and publick place, partly for the ſecurity of the true Religion, and for the prevention of Idolatry and Superſtition, which otherwiſe might more eaſily have crept in: and partly to ſignifie that their Sacrifices were not accepted for their own worth, but by God's gracious appointment, and for the ſake of God's Altar, by which they were ſanctified, and for the ſake of Chriſt, whom the Altar did manifeſtly repreſent. h Of which ſee below on ver. 17. i (i. e.) Your firſt-fruits, to wit, of the earth, as of corn and wine and oyl and other fruits, as plainly appears by comparing this place with Deut. 18. 4. and 26. 2. where theſe are commanded to be brought thither; and ſeeing here is an exact and particular enumeration of all ſuch things, and theſe cannot be put under any of the other branches, theſe muſt needs be intended here, the rather, becauſe the other kind of firſt-fruits, to wit, of the herds and flocks, are here expreſly mentioned. And theſe are called here the heave-offerings of their hand, becauſe the offerer was firſt to take theſe into his hands, and to heave them before the Lord (as other places tell us) and then to give them to the Prieſt, as appears from Deut. 18. 3, 4. and 26. 4. k Even for your voluntary oblations, which were not due by my preſcription, but only by your own choice and voluntary engagement: you may chuſe what kind of offering you pleaſe to vow and offer, but not the place where you ſhall offer them. l Either 1. the holy firſtlings or firſt-born, as appears by Numb. 18. where they are commanded to be brought to this one place here deſigned, and to be offered upon God's altar, v. 17. It is objected by ſome, that thoſe were given to the Prieſts, Numb. 18. 18. but theſe were to be eaten by the people here, ver. 7. But that the next verſe doth not ſay, but only in general, there ſhall ye eat, to wit, ſuch of the offerings mentioned ver. 6. as they were allowed to eat, but not ſuch as were the Prieſts peculiar, for theſe they might not eat, nor all there expreſſed; for it is evident they might not eat any of the burnt offerings, nor ſome parts of the other ſacrifices, which are here mentioned. Or, 2. the ſecond births, which were the peoples firſt-born, or the firſt which they could eat of, which they were to eat before the Lord by way of acknowledgement of his favour in giving them to them and all their ſucceeding births. See more on ver. 17.

7 And there m ye ſhall eat n before the LORD o your God, and ye ſhall rejoyce in all that ye put your hand unto p, ye and your houſholds, wherein the LORD thy God hath bleſſed thee.

m Not in the moſt holy place, wherein only the Prieſts might eat, Numb. 18. 10. but more generally in places allowed to the people for this end in the holy city. n To wit, your part of the things mentioned, ver. 6. o (i. e.) In the place of God's preſence, where God's Sanctuary ſhall be. p Either to beſtow your pains and labour upon it: or, to take and uſe or enjoy it. The ſenſe is, You thus doing ſhall be bleſſed and enabled to rejoyce, or to take comfort in all your labours and enjoyments, which otherwiſe would be accurſed to you. We have the ſame phraſe below, ver. 18. and Deut. 15. 10.

8 Ye ſhall not do after all the things that we do here q this day, every man whatſoever is right in his own eyes ‖.

q Where the inconveniency of the place and the uncertainty of our abode in and removal from ſeveral places, would not permit exact order in ſacrifices and feaſts and ceremonies, which therefore God was pleaſed then to diſpenſe with; but, ſaith he,, he will not do ſo there. ‖ Not that univerſal liberty was given to all perſons to worſhip whom and how they liſted, but that in many things their unſetled condition gave every one opportunity to do ſo, if he thought good.

9 For ye are not as yet come to the reſt, and to the inheritance which the LORD your God giveth you.

10 But when ye go over Jordan, and dwell in the land which the LORD your God giveth you to inherit, and when he giveth you reſt from all your enemies round about, ſo that ye dwell in ſafety, *1Ki. 8. 29. Pſ. 78. 68. 11 Then there ſhall be * a place which the LORD your God ſhall chuſe to cauſe his Name r to dwell there, thither ſhall ye bring all that I command you: your burnt-offerings, and your ſacrifices, your tithes, and the heave-offerings of your hand, and all † your choice vows s, which ye vow unto the LORD.

r (i. e.) His Majeſty and glory, his worſhip and ſervice, his ſpecial and gracious preſence, and the tokens of it. s Heb. the choice of your vows, i. e. your ſelect or choſen vows; ſo called, becauſe things offered for vows were to be perfect, whereas ſuperfluous or defective creatures were accepted in free-will offerings, as appears from Lev. 22. 21, 22, 23.

12 And ye ſhall rejoyce before the LORD your God, ye, and your ſons, and your daughters t, and your men-ſervants, and your maid-ſervants, and the Levite that is within your gates, foraſmuch as * he hath no part nor inheritance with you.

t Hence it appears, that though the males only were obliged to appear before God in their ſolemn feaſts, Exod. 23. 17. yet the women alſo were permitted to come, as they did. See Judg. 21. 19, 21. 1 Sam. 1, 3, 7, 21, 22, 23.

13 Take heed to thy ſelf, that thou offer not thy burnt-offerings u in every place that thou ſeeſt x:

u Nor the other things mentioned above, this one and moſt eminent kind being put for all the reſt, as is uſual: for being all expreſſed before, it was needleſs to repeat them again x To wit, with complacency and approbation, which thou thinkeſt very fit and proper for ſuch a work, as one might poſſibly judge of ſome high-places or groves or gardens.

14 But in the place which the LORD ſhall chuſe in one of thy tribes, there thou ſhalt offer thy burnt-offerings, and there thou ſhalt do all that I command thee.

15 Notwithſtanding thou mayeſt kill and eat fleſh y in all thy gates z, whatſoever thy ſoul luſteth after a, according to the bleſſing of the LORD thy God, which he hath given thee b: the * unclean c and the clean may eat thereof d, as of the roe-buck, and as of the hart.

*Gen. 9. 4. Le. 7. 2. ch. 15. 23. 16 * Only ye ſhall not eat the blood, ye ſhall pour it out upon the earth as water.

17 Thou e † mayeſt not eat within thy gates f the tithe of thy corn, or of thy wine, or of thy oil g, or the firſtlings of thy herds, or of thy flock h, nor any of thy vows which thou voweſt, nor thy free will offerings, or heave-offerings of thine hand.

e Either 1. thou, O Levite: or rather 2. thou, O Iſraelite, whom he diſtinguiſheth from the Levite, ver. 18, accordingly as the following particulars agree to the one or to the other of you. f (i. e.) In your private habitations, here oppoſed to the place of God's Worſhip, ver. 18. g Here ſeems to be a great difficulty, not yet ſufficiently obſerved nor cleared by Interpreters. There were divers kinds of tithes, 1. The tithes given to the Levites out of all, of which Numb. 18. 21, 24. Deut. 14. 22. Neh. 10. 37. 2. The tithe of thoſe tithes, which were to be given by the Levites to the Prieſts, of which Numb. 18. 26, 28. Neh. 10. 38. 3. The third years tithe, of which Deut. 14. 28. To which ſome add another tithe, which they call the ſecond tithe which they ſay was taken after the Levites tithe was laid by. Now each of theſe hath its difficulty. It ſeems this place cannot be underſtood 1. of the Levites tithe, partly becauſe it might ſeem a great and wholly ſuperfluous trouble to carry all their tithes up to Jeruſalem, and to carry them back to their ſeveral habitations for their uſe; partly becauſe thoſe were holy to the Lord, Lev. 27. 30. and not to be eaten by the people, ver. 31. whereas theſe belonged principally to the people, the Levites being only taken in as acceſſories to eat with them, as it is here ver. 18. and partly becauſe thoſe might be eaten in every place, as it is expreſly affirmed, Numb. 18. 31. Nor 2 of the tithe of the tithe, which was the Prieſt's, and neither Levites nor others might eat of it, except they were of or in the Prieſts houſhold. Nor 3. of the third years tithe, becauſe that was to be eaten within their gates, Deut. 14. 28. 29. as this was not. I do therefore humbly conceive, that this is meant of the ſecond tithe, ſpoken of Deut. 14. 22. and that this was the very ſame tithe with that third years tithe, with this only difference, that in the third year they were to eat them, together with the Levites within their gates, Deut. 14. 28, 29. but in the two firſt years they were to eat them, together with the Levites alſo, in the place of God's Worſhip, as it is preſcribed here and Deut. 14. 23. And that it is one and the ſame tithe which is ſpoken of, Deut. 14. 22. and ver. 28. ſeems more than probable, both becauſe they are called by the ſame name, all the tithe of their increaſe, and becauſe that ver. 28. manifeſtly looks back to that ver. 22. and becauſe otherwiſe every third year the Iſraelites were to pay three ſeveral tithes one after another, which Scripture no where affirms, and it ſeems to make the peoples burdens and the Levites Proviſions too great. For the objection taken from Deut. 26. 12. 13. it ſhall be conſidered in its place. And the reaſon of that difference of place, and why the ſame tithes were eaten for two years together in Jeruſalem, and the third year in their own gates, ſeems to be this, That in the two firſt years there was a more ſpecial regard had to the Levites, who were very much converſant in Jeruſalem, where thoſe tithes were then eaten, and in the third year there is a reſpect had to the ſtranger, and the fatherleſs, and the widow, who are mentioned as joynt-ſharers with the Levites in this third years tithe, whoſe occaſions and obligations of coming to Jeruſalem were not ſo many nor ſtrong as thoſe of the Levites, and therefore they were to be found generally within their gates, where theſe were to be eaten. And whereas the objection made before againſt the chargeable and uſeleſs carrying of the firſt tithes to Jeruſalem might be applied here, it is anſwered there, and it is provided, that when they lived at a great diſtance from Jeruſalem they might turn it into money and beſtow it there, Deut. 14. 24,, 25, 26. which both confirms the objection as to the firſt tithe, for which no ſuch proviſion was made, and anſwers it as to this, where ſuch a remedy is expreſſed. And whereas it may be pleaded on the behalf of the firſt, or the Levitical tithe, that thoſe tithes were brought to Jeruſalem, and that there were ſtore-houſes or chambers in the Temple appointed for the receiving of the tithes, 2 Chro. 31. 5, 6, 11, 12. Neh. 10. 37, 38. and 12. 44. it may be anſwered, That thoſe chambers, being only 38 in number, and each of them, except two, but ſix cubits broad, and twelve cubits long, were altogether uncapable of all thoſe tithes, and ſeem principally, if not ſolely appointed for the Prieſts tithes, and not for all them neither, but only for ſo much of them as would ſerve for the uſe and neceſſity of thoſe Prieſts and Levites too that were in the actual miniſtration. h As the tithes now mentioned were not the Levitical, but ſecond tithes, as hath been diſcourſed, ſo theſe firſtlings do not ſeem to be the firſt firſtlings, which being appropriated to the Levites were not to be eaten by any of the people, except thoſe of or in the Levites Families, but the ſecond firſtlings, which were the firſt which the owner could diſpoſe of, and which, in conformity to the ſecond tithes, he is required to ſet apart for this uſe.

18 But thou muſt eat them before the LORD thy God, in the place which the LORD thy God ſhall chuſe, thou, and thy ſon, and thy daughter, and thy man-ſervant, and thy maid-ſervant, and the Levite that is within thy gates: and thou ſhalt rejoyce before the LORD thy God, in all that thou putteſt thine hands unto.

19 * Take heed to thy ſelf i, that thou forſake not the Levite, † as long as thou liveſt upon the earth.

i Leſt a worldly mind and ſelf-love make thee rob the Levites of their dues, as afterwards the ungodly Jews did. See Mal. 3. 8.

20 When the LORD thy God ſhall enlarge thy border k, * as he hath promiſed thee, and thou ſhalt ſay, I will eat fleſh; (becauſe thy ſoul longeth to eat fleſh) thou mayeſt eat fleſh, whatſoever thy ſoul luſteth after.

k Which will make it inconvenient and impoſſible to do what now thou doſt, and becauſe of the narrow bounds of thy Camp canſt conveniently do, to wit, to bring all the cattle thou uſeſt to the Tabernacle, which it ſeems probable they did, to prevent their eating of blood. Compare Levit. 17. 3. 1 Sam. 14. 34.

21 If the place which the LORD thy God hath choſen to put his name there, be too far from thee ‖, then thou ſhalt kill of thy herd, and of thy flock, which the LORD hath given thee, as I have commanded thee l, and thou ſhalt eat in thy gates whatſoever thy ſoul luſteth after.

‖ In which caſe being obliged to carry their ſacrifices to the place of worſhip, that the blood might be there poured forth, &c. they might think themſelves obliged, for the ſame reaſon, to carry their other cattle thither to be killed. They are therefore releaſed from all ſuch obligations, and left at liberty to kill them at home, whether they lived nearer to that place, or further from it; only the latter is here mentioned, as being the matter of the Scruple, and as containing the former in it. l In ſuch manner as the blood may be poured forth, as above, ver. 16. and below, ver. 24.

e Not receive his doctrine, though the ſign come to paſs. For although when ſuch a ſign or wondet foretold did not follow or come to paſs, it was a ſign of a falſe prophet, as is ſaid, Deut. 18. 22. yet when it did come to paſs, it was no ſufficient or infallible ſign of a true one, eſpecially in ſuch a caſe when he brings in new Gods. The reaſon of the difference is, becauſe many cauſes muſt concur to make a thing good and true, but any one failure is ſufficient to make a thing bad or falſe. And particularly there are many ſigns, yea ſuch as men may think to be wonders, which may be wrought by evil ſpirits, God ſo permitting it for divers wiſe and juſt reaſons, not only for the trial of the good, as it here follows, but alſo for the puniſhment of ungodly men, who would not receive Divine Truths, though atteſted by many evident and unqueſtionable miracles, and therefore are moſt juſtly expoſed to theſe temptations to believe lies. f (i. e.) Tryeth your faith and love and obedience, examineth your ſincerity by your conſtancy. See Matt. 24. 24. 2 Theſ. 2. 11. Rev. 13. 14. See on Gen. 22. 1. Deut. 8. 2, 7. g That he may know it, to wit, judicially, or in a publick manner, ſo as both you and others may know and ſee it, that ſo the juſtice of his judgments upon you may be more evident and glorious.

He ſhews that the chiefeſt and moſt certain character of a true Prophet, is to be taken from his doctrine rather than from his miracles. l This phraſe notes the great force and power of ſeducers to corrupt mens minds. Compare Deut. 4. 19. 2 King. 17. 21. Mat. 24. 24. m Either 1. that evil thing, that wicked doctrine and practice. Or 2. that wicked and ſcandalous man, that Idolater and Seducer.

n This is added, to reſtrain the ſignification of the word brother, which is oft uſed generally for one near akin, and to expreſs the nearneſs of the relation, the mother's ſide being the ſureſt, and uſually the ground of the trueſt and moſt fervent affection. See Gen. 20. 12. o Thy piety muſt overcome both thy affection to thy neareſt relation, and thy compaſſion to the weaker Sex. p Either 1. that is near to thy heart, that hath thy deareſt love. Or rather 2. that lyeth in thy boſom, as it is expreſſed, Mic. 7. 5. Compare Gen. 16. 5. Prov. 5. 20. Deut. 28. 54. So we read of the husband of her boſom, Deut. 28. 56. q As dear to thee as thy ſelf. The father and mother are here omitted, not, as ſome fancy, becauſe children might not in this nor in any caſe accuſe their parents, for certainly they owe more reverence and duty to God, who is injured in this caſe, than to their parents, and Levi is commended for neglecting his father and mother in this caſe; but becauſe they are ſufficiently contained in the former examples; for ſince mens love doth uſually deſcend more ſtrongly than it aſcends, and the relation of a wife is and ought to be nearer and dearer than of a parent, that favour which is denied to wives and children cannot be thought fit to be allowed to parents. r Though it be without ſucceſs, becauſe the very attempt of ſuch an abominable crime deſerved death, as it is judged in caſe of treaſon. s Unknown and obſcure and new Gods; which greatly aggravates the crime, to forſake a God whom thou and thy fathers have long known, and had great and good experience of, for ſuch upſtarts.

For others, they may well enough want the knowledge of them, both becauſe theſe are the ſmaller matters of the Law, and becauſe this diſtinction of clean and unclean beaſts is now out of date.

f Not to the proſelyte, for ſuch were obliged by this Law, Lev. 17. 15. but to ſuch as were ſtrangers in Religion as well as in Nation.

22 * Thou ſhalt truly tithe all the encreaſe of thy ſeed g, that the field bringeth forth year by year. * chap. 12. 6, 17.

g This is to be underſtood of the ſecond tithes, which ſeem to be the ſame with the tithes of the third year, mentioned here below, ver. 28. and Deut. 26. 12. on which ſee above, on chap. 12. ver. 17. And to confirm this opinion, (though I would not lay too great a ſtreſs upon criticiſmes) yet I cannot but obſerve that this tithing is ſpoken of only as the peoples act here, and Deut. 26. 12. and the Levites are not at all mentioned in either place as receivers or takers of them, but only as partakers of them together with the owners, and therefore they are ſo ſeverely charged here upon their conſciences, thou ſhalt truly tithe all thine encreaſe, becauſe the execution of this was left wholly to themſelves, whereas the firſt tithes were received by the Levites, who therefore are ſaid to take or receive thoſe tithes, Numb. 18. 26. Neh. 10. 38. Heb. 7. 5.

23 And thou ſhalt eat before the LORD h thy God, in the place which he ſhall chuſe to place his Name there, the tithe of thy corn, of thy wine, and of thine oil, and * the firſtlings of thy herds, and of thy flocks, that thou mayeſt learn to fear the LORD thy God always. * chap. 15. 19, 20.

25 Then ſhalt thou turn it into money, and bind up the money in thine hand i, and ſhalt go unto the place which the LORD thy God ſhall chuſe.

i (i.e.) In a bag to be taken into thy hand and carried with thee.

26 And thou ſhalt beſtow that money for whatſoever thy ſoul luſteth after, for oxen, or for ſheep, or for wine, or for ſtrong drink, or for whatſoever thy ſoul † deſireth: and thou ſhalt eat there before the LORD thy God, and thou ſhalt rejoyce, thou and thine houſhold. †Heb. eth of thee.

k Thou ſhalt give him a ſhare in ſuch tithes or in the product of them.

28 At the end of three years l thou ſhalt bring forth all the tithe of thine increaſe m the ſame year n, and ſhalt lay it up within thy gates, l (i. e.) In the third year, as it is expreſſed, Deut. 26. 12. So, in the end of three years, or of ſeven years, is the ſame with in the third or ſeventh year, as appears by comparing Deut. 31. 10. Joſ. 9. 16, 17. 2 King. 18. 9, 10. and 17. 6. m I joyn with thoſe Expoſitors who make this the ſame tithe with the former, ver. 22. as being called by the ſame title without any diſtinction between them, ſave only as to the place of eating them. See above on ver. 22. and Deut. 12. 17. n This is added to ſhew that he ſpeaks of the third year, and not of the fourth year, as ſome might conjecture from the phraſe, at the end of three years.

29 And the Levite (becauſe he hath no part nor inheritance with thee) and the ſtranger, and the father-leſs, and the widow, which are within thy gates, ſhall come, and ſhall eat, and be ſatisfied, that * the LORD thy God may bleſs thee in all the work of thine hand which thou doeſt. See Mal. 10.

CHAP. XV.

The ſeventh Year a Year of Releaſe, 1. to their Brethren only, 2. God promiſeth to bleſs them in the Land of Canaan, 4——6 And commandeth them to lend freely to the poor, 14——18. The Firſtlings to be ſanctified and eaten before the Lord, 19——23.

Lev. 25. 4. 1 AT the end of * every ſeven years a thou ſhalt make a releaſe.

a (i. e.) In the laſt year of the ſeven, as is moſt evident from ver. 9. Exod. 21. 2. Jer. 34. 14. So the like phraſe is oft uſed, as Deut. 14. 28. Joſ. 3. 2. Jer. 25. 12. Luk. 2. 21. Act. 2. 1. And this year of releaſe, as it is called below, ver 9. is the ſame with the Sabbatical year, Exod. 23. 11. Levit. 25. 4.

Heb. ma- r of the ding of s hand. 2 And this is the manner of the releaſe. Every † creditor that lendeth ought unto his neighbour, ſhall releaſe it b: he ſhall not exact it of his neighbour, or of his brother c, becauſe it is called the LORD's releaſe d.

b Not abſolutely and finally forgive it, but forbear it for that year, as may appear, 1. becauſe the word doth not ſignifie a total diſmiſſion or acquitting, but an intermiſſion for a time, as Exod. 23. 11. He ſhall not exact it, as it here follows, i. e. force it from him by courſe of Law or otherwiſe, to wit, that year, which is eaſily underſtood out of the whole context. 2. Becauſe the perſon releaſing is called a creditor, and his communicating to him what he deſires and needs is called lending here and ver. 8. whereas it were giving, and the perſon giving it were no creditor, but a donor, if it were to be wholly forgiven to him. 3. Becauſe the reaſon of this Law is temporary and peculiar to that year, wherein there being no ſowing, nor reaping, they were not in a capacity to pay their Debts. 4. Becauſe it ſeems unjuſt and unreaſonable, and contrary to other Scriptures, which require men to pay what they borrow, as Pſal. 37. 21. Yet I deny not that in caſe of poverty the debt was to be forgiven; but that was not by vertue of this law, but of other commands of God. c This is added to explain and limit the word neighbour, which is more general, unto a brother, to wit, in Nation and Religion; to an Iſraelite, who is oppoſed to a foreigner, ver. 3. Heb. and a brother, for, that is a brother, the particle and being oft ſo uſed, as Gen. 13. 15. &c. d Or, a releaſe to or for the Lord, in obedience to his command, for his honour, and as an acknowledgment of his right in your eſtates, and of his kindneſs in giving and continuing them to you. If you are unwilling to releaſe this for your brother's ſake, yet do it for God's ſake, your Lord and the chief creditor.

3 Of a forreigner e thou mayeſt exact it again: but that which is thine f with thy brother, thine hand ſhall releaſe.

e Or ſtranger, yea though a proſelyte. For 1. they are oft called by this name, as Gen. 17. 12. Ruth. 2. 10. 2. Though proſelytes were admitted to the Church-privileges of the Iſraelites, yet they were not admitted to all their civil immunities or privileges. See 1 Chron. 22. 2. and 2 Chron. 2. 17. 3. Such were not then freed from their perſonal debt, to wit, of their ſervice, Levit. 25. 44. Deut. 15. 12. Jer. 34. 14. therefore not from their real debt. f To wit, by right though lent to him.

g So the words are an exception to the foregoing clauſe, which they reſtrain to the poor, and imply that if his brother was rich, he might exact his debt of him in that year. And indeed this Law ſeems to be chiefly, if not wholly, deſigned and given in favour to the poor and to the borrower, as is manifeſt from ver. 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11. But the words are and may be rendred thus, as in the margent of our Bibles, To the end that there be no poor among you. And ſo they contain a reaſon of this Law, to wit, that none be impoveriſhed and ruined by a rigid and unſeaſonable exaction of Debts. They may alſo be tranſlated thus, Nevertheleſs of a truth, or aſſuredly (as the particle chi is oft uſed) there ſhall be no poor among you, and the ſenſe may be this, Though I impoſe this Law upon you, which may ſeem hard and grievous, yet the truth is, ſuppoſing your performance of the conditions of God's Covenant, you ſhall not have any great occaſion to exerciſe your charity and kindneſs in this matter, for God will greatly bleſs you, &c. ſo as you ſhall be in a capacity of lending, and few or none of you will have need to borrow, and thereby to expoſe his brethren to the inconvenience and burden of this Law. Thus the connexion is plain and eaſie, both with the foregoing and following words. Object. It is ſaid, the poor ſhould never ceaſe, ver. 11. Anſw. That alſo is true, and affirmed by God, becauſe he foreſaw they would not perform their duty, and therefore would bereave themſelves of the promiſed bleſſing. h And therefore this will be no great inconvenience nor burden to thee.

5 Only if thou carefully hearken unto the voice of the LORD thy God, to obſerve to do all theſe commandments which I command thee this day.

6 For the LORD thy God bleſſeth thee, as he promiſed thee, and * thou ſhalt lend unto many nations i, but thou ſhalt not borrow; and thou ſhalt reign over many nations, but they ſhall not reign over thee. hap. 28. 44.

i Thou ſhalt be rich and able to lend not only to thy poor brother, but even to ſtrangers of other Nations, yea to many of them.

7 If there be among you a poor man, of one of thy brethren, within any of thy gates, in thy land which the LORD thy God giveth thee, thou ſhalt not harden thy heart, nor ſhut thine hand from thy poor brother:

8 * But thou ſhalt open thine hand wide unto him k, and ſhalt ſurely lend him ſufficient for his need, in that which he wanteth. *Mat. 5. 42. Luk. 6. 34, 35.

k (i. e.) Deal bountifully and liberally with him, giving him as it were by handfuls.

9 Beware that there be not a † thought in thy † wicked heart l, ſaying, The ſeventh year, the year of releaſe is at hand, and thine eye be evil m againſt thy poor brother, and thou giveſt him nought, and he cry unto the LORD againſt thee, and it be ſin n unto thee. † Heb word † Heb Belial.

l Suppreſs the firſt riſings and inward motions of ſuch uncharitableneſs. m (i. e.) Envious, unmerciful, unkind, as this phraſe is uſed, Prov 23. 6. Matth. 20. 15. as a good eye notes the contrary diſpoſition, Prov. 22. 9. n. (i. e) It be charged upon thee as a ſin, and as a great ſin, as the word ſin ſometimes ſignifies, as Prov. 24. 9. John 15. 24. Jam. 4. 17.

10 Thou ſhalt ſurely give him, and thine heart ſhall not be grieved when thou giveſt unto him o: becauſe that for this thing the LORD thy God ſhall bleſs thee in all thy works, and in all that thou putteſt thine hand unto p.

o (i. e.) Thou ſhalt give, not only with an open hand, but with a willing and chearful mind and heart, Rom. 12. 8. 2 Cor. 9. 7. without which thy very Charity is uncharitable and not accepted by God, who requires the heart in all his ſervices. p (i. e.) In all thy works, as before, for the hand is the great inſtrument of action.

11 For * the poor ſhall never ceaſe out of the land q: therefore I command thee, ſaying, Thou ſhalt open thine hand wide unto thy brother, to thy poor, and to thy needy in the land. *Mat. 26. 11. Joh. 12. 8.

q God by his providence will ſo order it, partly for the puniſhment of your diſobedience, and partly for the tryal and exerciſe of your obedience to me and charity to your brother, both which are beſt diſcovered by your performance of coſtly duties.

12 And * if thy brother, an Hebrew man, or an Hebrew woman be ſold unto thee r, and ſerve thee ſix years s, then in the ſeventh year thou ſhalt let him go free from thee. *Ex. 21. 2. Jer. 34. 14.

r See on Exod. 22. 3. s To be computed, either, 1. From the year of releaſe; as they gather from hence that perſonal and real debts were both releaſed together. But that ſeems to be ſuppoſed rather than proved; nay there is a manifeſt difference between them, for the releaſe of real debts is expreſly mentioned and required in the year of releaſe, but ſo is not the releaſe of the perſonal debt of ſervitude, either here or elſewhere. Or rather, 2 From the beginning of this ſervitude, which is every where limited unto the ſpace of ſix years, as here and below, ver 18. and Exod. 21. 2. Jer. 34. 14. And it ſeems a ſtrange and forced expoſition, to take theſe ſix years, for ſo much of the ſix years as remains until the year of releaſe, which poſſibly might not be one quarter of a year, whereas an hired ſervant ſerves for a far longer time, and this is ſaid to be worth a double hired ſervant, in regard of the longer time of his ſervice, ver. 18. Add to this, that it is mentioned as the peculiar privilege of the year of Jubilee, that ſuch ſervants were then freed though their ſix years of ſervice were not expired.

13 And when thou ſendeſt him out free from thee, thou ſhalt not let him go away empty.

14 Thou ſhalt furniſh him liberally out of thy flock, and out of thy floor, and out of thy wine-preſs, of that wherewith the LORD thy God hath bleſſed thee, thou ſhalt give unto him.

15 And thou ſhalt remember that thou waſt a bondman in the land of Egypt, and the LORD thy God redeemed thee t: therefore I command thee this thing to day.

t And brought thee out with triumph and with riches, which becauſe they would not, God did, give to thee as a juſt recompence for thy ſervice, and therefore thou ſhalt follow his example, and ſend out thy ſervant furniſhed with all convenient proviſions.

16 And it ſhall be if he ſay unto thee, I will not go away from thee (becauſe he loveth thee, and thine houſe, becauſe he is well with thee) u, o Becauſe he is ſenſible that he fares well with thee. Or, becauſe it is good, i. e. acceptable in his eyes, or pleaſing to him, to be with thee.

17 * Then thou ſhalt take an awl, and thruſt it through his ear unto the door, and he ſhall be thy ſervant for ever x: and alſo unto thy maid-ſervant thou ſhalt do likewiſe y. *Ex. 21. 6.

x (i. e.) All the time of his life, or, at leaſt, till the year of Jubile. See on Exod. 21. 6. y (i. e.) Either diſmiſs her honourably, and with plenty of proviſions; or engage her to perpetual ſervitude in the ſame manner and by the ſame Rites. Whence it appears, that this caſe differs from that, Exod. 21. 7. and that the maid-ſervant there was taken in upon other and better terms than this here.

18 It ſhall not ſeem hard unto thee, when thou ſendeſt him away free from thee: for he hath been worth a double * hired ſervant to thee z, in ſerving thee ſix years, and the LORD thy God ſhall bleſs thee in all that thou doeſt. * See Iſa. 16. 14.

z Or, he deſerves double wages to an hired ſervant, becauſe he ſerved thee upon better terms, both without wages, which hired ſervants require, and for a longer time, even for 6 years, as it here follows, whereas ſervants were ordinarily hired but from year to year, Levit. 25. 53. or at moſt but for 3 years, as they gather from this place and Iſa. 16. 14.

*Exod.34. 19. Lev.27 26. Num. 3. 13. 19 * All the firſtling males that come of thy herd, and of thy flock, thou ſhalt ſanctifie unto the LORD thy God: thou ſhalt do no work with the firſtling a of thy bullock, nor ſhear the firſtling of thy ſheep.

a This is meant, either, 1. Of the male firſtlings; which, they ſay, is forbidden here, becauſe ſome did plow with the firſtlings of their oxen, and ſhear the firſtlings of their ſheep, before they were offered. But this ſeems abſurd and incredible, becauſe they were to be offered upon the eighth day, Exod. 22. 30. when they were very unfit for ſuch uſes. Or, rather 2. The ſecond firſtlings, of which ſee on Deut. 12. 17.

20 Thou b ſhalt eat it c before the LORD thy God year by year d, in the place which the LORD ſhall chuſe, thou and thy houſhold.

b Either, 1. Thou, O Prieſt. Or rather, 2. Thou, O Iſraelite. For it is evident that the ſame perſon who was forbidden to work with theſe, verſe 19. is here commanded to eat them, &c. c Together with the Levites, as it is to be underſtood from Deut. 12. 18. & 14. 27, 29. where that is expreſſed in like caſes. d To wit, in the ſolemn feaſts which returned upon them every year. See Deut. 16. 11, 14.

* Lev. 22. 20. ch. 17. 1. 21 * And if there be any blemiſh therein, as if it be lame, or blind, or have any ill blemiſh, thou ſhalt not ſacrifice it unto the LORD thy God.

*ch. 12. 15. 22 Thou ſhalt eat it within thy gates: the * unclean and the clean perſon ſhall eat it alike, as the ro-buck, and as the hart.

*ch. 12. 16, 23. 23 * Only thou ſhalt not eat the blood thereof: thou ſhalt pour it upon the ground as water.

*Exod. 12. 2. &c. *Ex. 13. 4. *Ex. 12. 29. 42. 1 OBſerve the * month of Abib, and keep the paſſover unto the LORD thy God: for * in the month of Abib the LORD thy God brought thee forth out of Egypt by * night a.

a Object. They came out of Egypt by day, and in the morning, as appears from Exod. 12. 22. and 13. 3. Numb. 33. 3. Anſw. They are ſaid to be brought out by night, becauſe in the night Pharaoh was forced to give them leave to depart, and accordingly they made preparation for their departure, and in the morning they perfected the work.

2 Thou ſhalt therefore ſacrifice the paſſover b unto the *ch. 12. 5. LORD thy God, of the flock, and the herd, in the * place which the LORD ſhall chuſe to place his Name there.

b (i. e.) Either 1. properly and ſtrictly ſo called, which was the Paſchal Lamb, and ſo the Sheep and Oxen, which here follow, are mentioned only as additional ſacrifices, which were to be offered in the ſeven days of the Paſchal ſolemnity, Numb. 28. 18, 19, &c. Or 2. largely, to wit, for the Paſſeover-offerings, to wit, which were offered after the Lamb in the ſeven days, and ſo this very word is uſed, 2 Chron. 35. 8, 9. And this ſignification ſeems neceſſary here, partly becauſe it is here ſaid to conſiſt of the flock and of the herd, or, of Sheep and Oxen, and partly becauſe it follows, v. 3. Thou ſhalt eat no leavened bread with it, ſeven days ſhalt thou eat unleavened bread therewith, i. e. with the Paſſeover, which could not be done with the Paſſeover ſtrictly ſo called, which was to be wholly ſpent in one day. Or 3. The Feaſt of the Paſſeover, and ſo the place may be rendred, Thou ſhalt therefore obſerve or keep the Feaſt of the Paſſeover (as thoſe ſame Hebrew words are taken, Numb. 9. 5. Joſ. 5. 10. 2 Chron. 35. 1, 17, 18, 19.) unto the Lord thy God, with Sheep, and with Oxen, as is preſcribed, Numb. 28. 18, &c.

*Ex. 12. 15. 3 * Thou ſhalt eat no leavened bread with it c: ſeven days ſhalt thou eat unleavened bread therewith, even the bread of affliction d (for thou cameſt forth out of the land of Egypt in haſte) that thou mayeſt remember the day when thou cameſt forth out of the land of Egypt, all the days of thy life.

c To wit, with the Paſſeover, in the ſenſe delivered: Or, in it, i. e. during the time of the Feaſt of the Paſſeover. d (i. e) Bread which is not uſual nor pleaſant, but unſavoury and unwholeſome, to put thee in mind both of thy miſeries endured in Egypt, and of thy haſty coming out of it, which allowed thee no time to leaven or to prepare thy Bread.

*Exod. 34. 25. †Heb. leaven. *Exod. 12. 10. 4 * And there ſhall be no † leavened bread ſeen with thee in all thy coaſts ſeven days, * neither ſhall there any thing of the fleſh which thou ſacrificeſt the firſt day at even e remain all night until the morning, e (i. e.) Of the Paſſeover properly ſo called, and by theſe words plainly deſcribed; which circumlocution may ſeem to inſinuate that the word Paſſeover, v. 1. was improperly uſed, and therefore he choſe rather to deſcribe it, then to name it, leſt the ambiguity of the word ſhould occaſion ſome miſtake.

† Heb. canſt not. ch. 12. 17. ‖ Or, kill. 5 Thou † mayeſt not ‖ ſacrifice the paſſover within any of thy gates f which the LORD thy God giveth thee.

f (i. e.) Of thy cities, as that word is oft uſed, as Gen. 22. 17 and 24. 60. Deut. 17. 2. Ruth. 4. 10.

6 But at the place which the LORD thy God ſhall chuſe to place his name in, there thou ſhalt ſacrifice the paſſover g, at even, at the going down of the ſun, at the ſeaſon h that thou cameſt forth out of Egypt.

g To wit, in the Court of the Tabernacle or Temple. This he preſcribed, partly that this great work might be done with more ſolemnity and care in ſuch manner as God required; partly, becauſe it was not only a Sacrament, but alſo a ſacrifice, as appears becauſe it is ſo called, Exod. 12. 27. and 23. 18. and 34. 25. Numb. 9. 7. and becauſe here was the ſprinkling of blood, which is the eſſential part and character of a ſacrifice; and partly to deſign the place where Chriſt, the true Paſſeover or Lamb of God, was to be ſlain. h Underſtand this with ſome latitude, as ſuch phraſes are commonly taken, about that ſeaſon, when you had received command from me to go out of Egypt, and were preparing your ſelves for the journey.

7 And thou ſhalt roſt i, and eat it it in the place which the LORD thy God ſhall chuſe, and thou ſhalt turn in the morning k and go unto thy tents l.

i So that word is uſed alſo, 2 Chron. 35. 13. k Either 1. The morning after the ſeventh day, as appears, partly by the following verſe, which is added to explain and limit this ambiguous word; partly by the expreſs command of God that the people ſhould come to Jeruſalem to keep this Feaſt, which by Gods appointment laſted for ſeven days; partly from the examples of the people ſtaying there the whole time of the feaſt, 2 Chron. 30. 21. and 35. 17. and partly from the nature and buſineſs of this feaſt, wherein there being ſo many extraordinary ſacrifices to be offered, and feaſts made by the people upon the ſacrifices, and two days of ſolemn aſſemblies, it is not probable, that they would abſent themſelves from theſe ſolemn ſervices, for the performance whereof they came purpoſely to Jeruſalem. Or 2. The morning after the firſt day, and ſo they were permitted to go then, and poſſibly ſome that lived near Jeruſalem might go and return again to the laſt day of the ſolemn aſſembly. But the former ſeems more probable. l (i. e.) Thy dwellings, which he calls Tents, as reſpecting their preſent ſtate, and withal to put them in mind afterwards when they were ſettled in better habitations, that there was a time when they dwelt in Tents.

8 Six days m thou ſhalt eat unleavened bread, and on the ſeventh day ſhall be a † ſolemn aſſembly to the LORD thy God, thou ſhalt do no work therein. † Heb. re ſtrain.

m To wit, beſides the firſt day, on which the Paſſeover was killed: or rather beſides the ſeventh and the laſt day, which is here mentioned apart, not as if leavened bread might be eaten then, for the contrary was evident from many places, but becauſe there was ſomething more to be done, to wit a ſolemn aſſembly to be kept So in all there were ſeven days, as it is ſaid, Exod. 12. 15. Lev. 23. 6. Numb. 28. 17.

9 * Seven weeks n thou ſhalt number unto thee: begin to number the ſeven weeks from ſuch time as thou beginneſt to put the ſickle to the corn o. *Ex. 23. 19. Lev. 23. 15. Num. 28. 26.

12 And thou ſhalt remember that thou waſt a bondman in Egypt; and thou ſhalt obſerve and do theſe ſtatutes.

15 Seven days ſhalt thou keep a ſolemn feaſt unto the LORD thy God, in the place which the LORD ſhall chuſe: becauſe the LORD thy God ſhall bleſs thee in all thy increaſe, and in all the works of thine hands, therefore thou ſhalt ſurely rejoyce s.

k Either laid upon his head to deſign the perſon, or ſtretched out to throw the firſt ſtone at him. m He ſpeaks to the inferiour Magiſtrates, who were erected in ſeveral Cities, as appears by the oppoſition of theſe to them at Jeruſalem. If, ſaith he, thou haſt not skill or confidence to determine ſo weighty and difficult a cauſe. n (i. e.) in capital cauſes in matter of bloodſhed, whether it be willful or caſual murder, whether puniſhable or pardonable by thoſe laws, Exod. 21. 13, 20. 22, 28. and 22. 2. Numb. 35. 11, 16, 19. Deut. 19. 4, 10. o In civil cauſes or ſuits between plaintiffs and defendants about words or Eſtates. p (i. e.) Either firſt in Ceremonial cauſes, between plague and plague, between the true leproſie, which is oft times called the plague, and the ſeeming and counterfeit leproſie; which was oft times hard to determine. And under this as the moſt eminent of the kind, may ſeem to be contained all ceremonial uncleanneſſes. But this ſeems not probable. 1. Becauſe the final determination of the matter of leproſie is manifeſtly left to any particular Prieſt, Levit. 13. and 14. 2. becauſe the perſon, ſuſpected of leproſie was not to be brought to Jeruſalem, to be tryed there, but was to be ſhut up in his own city and houſe, Levit. 13. 4, 5. and the Judges at Jeruſalem neither could nor would determine his caſe without once ſeeing the perſon: 3. Becauſe the caſe of leproſie was not hard or difficult, as thoſe cauſes are ſaid to be, but plain and evident, and ſo particularly and punctually deſcribed, that the Prieſt needed only eyes to decide it. Or rather 2. In Criminal Cauſes, concerning blows, or wounds inflicted by one man upon another, and to be requited to him by the ſentence of the Magiſtrate according to that law, Exod. 21. 23, 24, 25. wherein there might be many caſes of great difficulty and doubt, about which ſee the Annotations there. q (i. e.) Such things or matters of blood and pleas and ſtrokes being doubtful, and the Magiſtrates divided in their opinions about it, for if it was a clear caſe, this was not to be done. Some make this an additional clauſe to comprehend theſe and all other things, thus as if he had ſaid, and in general, any words or matters of ſtrifes or contentions. r To wit, to ſet up his Worſhip and Tabernacle, or Temple there; becauſe there was the abode, both of their Sanhedrim, or chief Councel, which was conſtituted of Prieſts and civil Magiſtrates, who were moſt able to determine all controverſies, and of the High-Prieſts, who were to conſult God by Urim, Numb. 27. 21. in great matters, which could not be decided otherwiſe.

9 And thou ſhalt come unto the prieſts the Levites s, and unto the judge t that ſhall be in thoſe dayes, and enquire, and they ſhall ſhew thee the ſentence of judgment u.

s (i. e.) Unto the great councel, which it is here denominated from, becauſe it conſiſted chiefly of the Prieſts and Levites, as being the beſt Expoſitors of the Laws of God, by which all thoſe Controverſies mentioned v. 8. were to be decided. And the High-Prieſt was commonly one of that number, and may ſeem to be underſtood here under the Prieſts whereof he was the chief. t This Judge here is, either 1. The ſupream civil Magiſtrate, who was made by God the keeper of both tables, and was by his Office to take care of the right adminiſtration both of Juſtice and of Religion, who was to determine cauſes and ſuits by his own skill and authority in civil matters, and by the Prieſts direction in ſpiritual or ſacred cauſes. But this ſeems obnoxious to ſome difficulties, becauſe this Judge was obliged to dwell in the place of Gods Worſhip, which the civil Magiſtrate was not, and oft times did not. 2. This Judge was one whoſe Office it was to expound and teach others the law of God, as it here follows, v. 11. therefore not the civil Magiſtrate. Or 2. The High-Prieſt who was obliged to live in this place, to whom it belonged to determine ſome at leaſt of thoſe controverſies mentioned v. 8. and to teach and expound the Law of God. And he may be diſtinctly named, though he be one of the Prieſts, partly becauſe of his eminency and ſuperiority over the reſt of them, as after all Davids enemies Saul is particularly mentioned, Pſal. 18 title. and partly to ſhew that amongſt the Prieſts, he eſpecially was to be conſulted in ſuch caſes. But this alſo ſeems liable to objections. 1. That he ſeems to be included under that general expreſſion of the Prieſts and Levites. 2. That the High-Prieſt is never in all the Scripture called ſimply the Judge, but generally called the Prieſt, or the High-Prieſt, or chief-Prieſt, or the like; and it is moſt probable if Moſes had meant him here, he would have expreſſed him by ſome of his uſual Names and Titles, and not by a ſtrange Title which was not likely to be underſtood,

3. That divers controverſies between blood and blood, plea and plea, ſtroke and ſtroke, were not to be determined by the High-Prieſt, but by other Perſons, as appears, by Exod. 18. 22. Deut. 1. 16. 17. Or 3. The Sanhedrim or Supreme Councel, which as was ſaid before, conſiſted partly of Prieſts, and partly of wiſe and learned perſons of other tribes, as is confeſſed by all the Jewiſh, and moſt other writers. And ſo this is added by way of explication, partly to ſhew that the Prieſts and Levites here mentioned, as the perſons to whom all hard controverſies are to be referred, are not all the Prieſts and Levites which ſhould reſide in Jeruſalem, but only ſuch of them as were or ſhould be Members of that great Councel by whom, together with their fellow-Members of other Tribes theſe cauſes were to be decided; partly to intimate, that that great Councel, which had the chief and final determination of all the abovesaid controverſies, was a mixed aſſembly conſiſting of wiſe and good men, ſome Ecclesiaſtical, and ſome Secular; as it was moſt meet it ſhould be, becauſe many of the cauſes which were brought unto them were mixed cauſes. As for the Conjunctive particle, and, that may be taken either disjunctively for or, as it is Exod. 21. 15. 17. compared with Matt. 15. 4. and Numb. 30. 5, 6. compared with Matt. 12. 37. and Lev. 6 3, 5. 2. Sam. 2. 19, 21. or exegetically, for, that is, or, to wit, as Judg. 7. 24. 1 Sam. 17. 40. and 28. 3. 2 Chron. 35. 14. and ſo the ſence may be, the Prieſts, the Levites, or the Judge, as it is, v. 12. or, the Prieſts, the Levites, that is, the Judge, or the Judges appointed for this work. And though the word Judge be in the ſingular number, and may ſeem to denote one perſon, yet it is onley an Enallage, or change of the number, the ſingular for the plural, Judges, which is moſt frequent, as Gen. 3. 2, 7. and 49. 6. 1 Sam. 31. 1. 1 King. 10. 22 and 2 King. 11. 10. compared with 2 Chron. 9. 21. and 23. 9 and in the Hebrew, 1 Chron. 4. 42. where divers Officers are called one Head. And ſo it is moſt probably here. 1. Becauſe the following words which belong to this, run altogether in the plural number, they, they, they, &c. here and v 10. 11. 2. Becauſe here is the ſame Enallage in the other branch, the ſame perſon or perſons being called the Prieſts here, and the Prieſt, v. 12. 3. Becauſe for the Judge, here is put the Judges, Deut. 19. 17. where we have the ſame phraſe uſed upon the ſame or a like occaſion, the Men between whom the controverſie is ſhall ſtand before the Lord, before the Prieſts and the Judges, which ſhall be in thoſe days. Nor is it ſtrange, but very fit and reaſonable, that ſo many perſons being all united in one body, and to give judgment or ſentence by the conſent of all, or the greateſt part ſhould be here called by the name of one Judge, as indeed they were; and for that reaſon the Prieſts are ſpoken of in the plural number, becauſe they were many, as alſo the other members of that Aſſembly were, and the Judge in the ſingular number, becauſe they all conſtituted but one Judge. u Heb. The Word, or matter of Judgment, i. e. the true ſtate and right of the cauſe, and what judgment or ſentence onght to be given in it.

10 And thou ſhalt x do according to the ſentence, which they of that place (which the LORD ſhall chooſe) ſhall ſhew thee, and thou ſhalt obſerve to do y according to all that they inform thee:

x (i. e.) Thou ſhalt paſs ſentence: for he ſpeaks to the inferiour Magiſtrates; as was before noted, who were to give ſentence, and came hither to be adviſed about it. y It is very obſervable that this place doth not ſpeak of all controverſies of faith; as if they were to believe every thing which they ſhould teach, but only of ſome particular matters of practice and ſtrife between man and man, to which it is plainly limited, v. 8. And they are not here commanded to believe, but only to do, which is thrice repeated.

11 According to the ſentence of the law which they ſhall teach thee z, and according to the judgment which they ſhall tell thee thou ſhalt do: thou ſhalt not decline from the ſentence which they ſhall ſhew thee, to the right hand, nor to the left.

z Theſe words are a manifeſt limitation of the foregoing aſſertion, that they were to do according to all that the Judge or Judges informed him. And they ſeem to limit and regulate. 1. The judges in their ſentence, that they ſhall not, upon pretence of this Supreme Authority put into their hands, preſume to teach or direct otherwtherwiſe than the Law preſcribes: 2. The People in their obedience: that they ſhall not ſimply obey them in all things, but ſo far forth as their ſentence is according to the Law and Word of God, but not when their commands are evidently contrary to Gods Law, for then, ſay even Popiſh Commentators on this place, they muſt obey God rather than Man. And this cannot be denied by any man of ſenſe, upon ſuppoſition that this place ſpeaks of, and this power given to the Prieſt or Judge reacheth to, all controverſies or queſtions of faith and manners, as the Papiſts would extend it: For put caſe theſe Prieſts or Judges ſhould give a ſentence directly contrary to the expreſs words of Gods Law, Thou ſhalt worſhip a graven Image, as Aaron did in the caſe of the calf; thou ſhalt prophane the Sabbath, thou ſhalt diſhonour thy Father and Mother, thou ſhalt Murder, Steal, commit Adultery, &c. I ask, were the People in this caſe bound to do as the Judge determined, or not? If any ſay they were, ſuch a bold and wicked aſſertion muſt needs ſtrike all ſober Chriſtians with horrour; and if they ſay they were not, then this muſt needs be taken for a limitation. But if this place ſpeak onely of particular ſuits between man and man, as is apparent from the notes on v, 8. And in all ſuch caſes although the Judge be hereby confined and tied to his rule in giving the ſentence, yet it ſeems but fit and reaſonable that people ſhould be bound ſimply to acquieſce in the ſentence of their laſt and higheſt Judge, or elſe there would have been no end of ſtrife.

*Hoſ. 4. 4. 12 And * the man that will do preſumptuouſly a, †Heb. not to hearken. † and will not hearken unto the Prieſt (that ſtandeth to Miniſter there before the LORD thy GOD) or unto the judge, even that man ſhall die, and thou ſhalt put away the evil b from Iſrael.

a (i. e.) That will proudly and obſtinately oppoſe the ſentence given againſt him. This is oppoſite to ignorance and errour, Exod. 21. 13, 14. b either 1. The Evil thing, that ſcandal, that pernicious example. Or, 2. That evil, refractory, pernicious perſon, whoſe practice herein tends to the diſſolution of all Government, and the ruine of the Common-wealth of Iſrael.

13 And all the people ſhall hear, and fear, and do no more preſumptuously.

14 When thou art come into the land which the LORD thy GOD giveth thee, and ſhalt poſſeſs it, and ſhalt dwell therein, and ſhalt ſay, I will ſet a King over me c, like as all the nations that are about me:

c He only foreſees and foretells what they would do, but doth not ſeem to approve of it, becauſe when they did this thing for this very reaſon here alledged, he declares his utter diſlike of it, 1 Sam. 8. 7.

15 Thou ſhalt in any wiſe ſet d him king over thee, whom the LORD thy God ſhall chuſe e. One * from a- *Jer. 30.
mong thy brethren f ſhalt thou ſet king over thee: thou 21.
mayeſt not ſet a ſtranger over thee g, which is not thy brother.

d (i. e.) Appoint, or inſtal. If you will chooſe a King, which I ſhall ſuffer you to do, I command you to mind this in your choice. e Approve of, or Appoint. So it was in Saul, and in David. God reſerved to himſelf the nomination both of the Family, and of the Perſon. See 1 Sam. 9. 15. & 10. 24. and 16. 12. 1 Chron. 28. 4, 5. f Of the ſame nation and religion; partly becauſe ſuch a perſon was moſt likely to maintain true religion, and to rule with righteouſneſs, gentleneſs, and kindneſs to his ſubjects; and partly that he might be a fit type of Chriſt their ſupream King, who was to be one of their brethren. g To wit, by thy own choice and conſent; but if God by his providence and for their Sins ſhould ſet a ſtranger over them, they might ſubmit to him, as appears from Jer. 38. 17. Ezek. 17. 12. Mat. 22 17.

16 But he ſhall not multiply horſes to himſelf g, nor cauſe the people to return to Egypt h, to the end that he ſhould multiply horſes: foraſmuch as the LORD hath ſaid i unto you, * Ye ſhall henceforth no more return *chap. 28.
that way k. 68. Hoſ. 11. 5.

g To wit, exceſſively, beyond what the State and Majeſty of his place required. Hereby God would prevent many ſins and miſchiefs, as 1. Pride of heart, and contempt of his people. 2. Oppreſſion and Tyranny, and the Impoſition of unneceſſary burdens upon his people. 3. Carnal confidence, which by this means would be promoted. See Pſal. 33. 17. Prov. 21. 31. 4. Much commerce with Egypt, as it here follows, which was famous for horſes, as appears from Exod. 14, 23. 1 King. 10. 26, 28. 2 Chron. 1. 16. and 9. 28. Iſa. 31. 1, 3. Ezek. 17. 5. h Either for habitation; or for trade. This God forbad to prevent, 1. Their unthankfulneſs for their deliverance out of Egypt; 2. Their confederacies with the Egyptians, their truſting to them for aid, which they were very prone to, and their infection by the Idolatry and other manifold wickedneſſes, for which Egypt was infamous. 3. Their multiplication of Horſes, as it here follows, i When or where? Anſw. Either implicitely, when he ſhewed his diſlike of their return to Egypt, as Exod. 13. 17. Numb. 14. 3, 4. or expreſly at this time, The Lord hath now ſaid it to me, and I in his name, and by his command declare it to you. k In the way that leads to that place.

17 Neither ſhall he multiply wives to himſelf l, that his heart turn not away m: neither ſhall he greatly multiply to himſelf n ſilver and gold.

l As the manner of other Kings was. m To wit, from God and his law, Either 1. To Idolatry and Superſtition, to which women are oft times prone, and eſpecially ſuch women as he was likely to chuſe; even the Daughters of Neighbouring and Idolatrous Kings and Princes, as Salomon did: Or, 2. To other manifold Sins and violations of his duty to his people, either by neglect and contempt of his buſineſs through effeminacy and ſloath, or by oppreſſing his people, and perverting Juſtice to comply with the vaſt and exorbitant deſires of his Wives. m Leſt this ſhould lift up his heart in confidence and pride, which God abhorrs, and beget in him a contempt of his people; and leſt it ſhould encline or engage, or enable him to burden his people with immoderate exactions. They are not ſimply forbidden to be rich, if God made them ſo either by the voluntary gifts of their ſubjects, or by the ſpoils of their enemies, which was the caſe of David and Solomon, and Jehoſhaphat, &c. but they are forbidden either inordinately to deſire, or irregularly to procure great riches by grinding the faces of their poor people, or by other wicked arts and courſes, as the manner of their neighbouring Kings was.

18. And it ſhall be when he ſitteth upon the throne of his kingdom, that he ſhall write o him a † a copy of †Heb. duplicate.
this law in a book, out of that which is before the prieſts the Levites p.

o Either with his own hand, as the Jews ſay, or, at leaſt by his command and procurement. p (i. e.) Out of the Original, which was carefully kept by the Prieſts in the Sanctuary; Deut. 31. 26. 2 King. 22. 8. partly that it might be a true and perfect copy, and partly that it might have the greater authority and influence upon him, coming to him, as from the hand and preſence of God.

19 And * it ſhall be with him, and he ſhall read there- *Joſ. 1. 8.
in all the dayes of his life q, that he may learn to fear the LORD his God, to keep all the words of this law, and theſe ſtatutes, to do them:

q (i. e.) Diligently and conſtantly, neither the greatneſs of his place, nor the weight and multitude of his buſineſs ſhall excuſe or hinder him.

20 That his heart be not lifted up above his brethren r, and that he turn not aſide from the commandment, to the right hand, or to the left: to the end that he may prolong his days in his kingdom, he, and his children in the midſt of Iſrael.

r He intimates, that the Scriptures diligently read and ſtudied, are a powerful and probable means to keep him humble, becauſe they ſhew him that, though a king, he is ſubject to an higher Monarch, to whom he muſt give an account of all his adminiſtrations and actions, and receive from him his ſentence and doom agreeable to their quality, which is ſufficient to abate the pride of the haughtieſt perſon in the world, if he duly conſider it.

CHAP. XVIII.

The Lord is the Prieſts and Levites Inheritance, 1, 2. Their due from the people, 3—5. A Levites portion that came to ſerve voluntarily, 6—8. All unlawful arts prohibited, 9—14. Chriſt is promiſed, whom they muſt hearken to, 15—19. Falſe prophets threatned, 20. The mark of a falſe prophet, 21, 22.

1 THE prieſts, the Levites, and all the tribe of Levi, * ſhall have no part nor inheritance with Iſrael: they * ſhall eat the offerings of the LORD made by fire a, and his inheritance b.

* Numb. 18. 20. Chap. 10. 9. * 1 Cor. 9. 13.

a By which phraſe we here manifeſtly ſee that he means not burnt-offerings, which were wholly conſumed by fire, and no part of them eaten by the Prieſts; but other Sacrifices, whereof part was offered to the Lord by fire, and part was allotted to the Prieſts for their food. b (i. e.) The Lords portion or inheritance, which God had reſerved to himſelf, as Tithes and firſt Fruits, and other oblations diſtinct from thoſe which were made by fire, and ſo theſe two branches make up the whole of that which belonged to God, and was by him given to the Levites.

2 Therefore ſhall they have no inheritance among their brethren: the LORD c is their inheritance, as he hath ſaid unto them.

c (i. e.) The Lords part and right, as was now ſaid.

3 And this ſhall be the prieſts due from the people, from them that offer a ſacrifice d, whether it be ox or ſheep, and they ſhall give unto the prieſt the ſhoulder, and the two cheeks, and the maw e.

d To wit, a Sacrifice of Thankſgiving, or a Peace-Offering, as appears from Levit. 7. 31, 33. which is oft times called ſimply a Sacrifice, as Exod. 18. 12. Levit. 17. 5, 8. Numb. 15. 3. Deut. 12. 27. e Qu. How doth this agree with other Texts, in which the ſhoulder and the breaſt, and thoſe parts only are the Prieſts due, not the cheeks and maw? Anſw. 1. Who ſhall tie Gods hands: what if he now makes an addition, and enlargeth the Prieſts commons? Nothing more uſual than for one Scripture to ſupply what is lacking in another, and for a latter Law of God to add a former. 2. The Breaſt may be here omitted, becauſe it is comprehended under the Shoulder, to which it is commonly joined, and with which it was waved before the Lord. 3. The Hebrew word here rendred Maw or Stomach, which was reckoned among dainties by the Ancients, is not to my remembrance uſed elſewhere, and therefore it may have another ſignification, and ſome render it the breaſt, others take it for the uppermoſt part of the ſtomach, which lies under the breaſt.

4 The * firſt fruit alſo of thy corn, of thy wine, and of thy oil, and the firſt of the fleece of thy ſheep ſhalt thou give him.

* Num. 18. 12, 24.

5 For * the LORD thy God hath choſen him out of all thy tribes, to ſtand to miniſter in the Name of the LORD f, him, and his ſons for ever.

* Exod. 28. 1. Num. 3. 10.

f (i. e.) Either by Authority and Commiſſion from him, or for his Honour, Worſhip or Service.

6 And if a Levite come from any of thy gates out of all Iſrael, where he ſojourned, and come with all the deſire of his mind unto the place which the LORD ſhall chuſe g;

g Either for any private occaſions, or to ſojourn there for a ſeaſon, or rather with full purpoſe to fix his abode, and to ſpend his whole time and ſtrength in the ſervice of God, as appears by the ſale of his patrimony mentioned, v. 8. It ſeems probable that the ſeveral Prieſts were to come from their Cities to the Temple by turns, before David's time, and it is certain they did ſo after it. But if any of them were not contented with this ſeldom attendance upon God in his Tabernacle, or Temple, and deſired more intirely and conſtantly to devote himſelf to Gods ſervice there, he was permitted ſo to do, becauſe this was an eminent act of piety joyned with ſelf-denial to part with thoſe great conveniencies which he could and did enjoy in the City of his poſſeſſion, and to oblige himſelf to more conſtant and laborious work about the Sacrifices, &c.

7 Then he ſhall miniſter in the Name of the LORD his God, as all his brethren the Levites do, which ſtand there before the LORD.

8 They ſhall have like portions h to eat, beſide † that which cometh of the ſale of his patrimony i.

h To wit, with their Brethren who were in actual miniſtration: as they ſhare with them in the work, ſo ſhall they alſo in the incouragements. i Though he have an eſtate whereby he may ſubſiſt raiſed by the ſale of his Houſe in his City, and his Cattel, and other moveables, yet you ſhall not upon this ground either deny or diminiſh their part of your maintenance. The reaſon of this Law was, partly, becauſe he that waited on the Altar, ought to live by the Altar: and partly becauſe it was fit he ſhould keep his money, wherewith he might redeem what he ſold, if afterwards he ſaw occaſion for it. Heb. Beſides his ſales by the fathers, i. e. Of that which came to him by his Fathers, or, according to his Fathers, or, his Fathers houſe; and theſe words may be joyned not with the word immediately foregoing, but with the former part of the verſe, the next word coming in by a kind of parentheſis, in this manner, and order, Beſides that which cometh by the ſale of their goods, they ſhall have like portions to eat to what their Brethren have, each of them eating according to his Fathers houſe, i. e. A Gerſhonite ſhall eat with his Brethren the Gerſhonites who are then miniſtring, and a Merarite with the Merarites, &c. and ſo there ſhall be no diſturbance nor change in the appointed courſes by their acceſſion to the number.

9 When thou art come into the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee, thou ſhalt not learn to do after the abominations of thoſe nations.

10 There ſhall not be found among you any one that maketh his ſon, or his daughter * to paſs through the fire k, or that * uſeth divination l, or an obſerver of times m, or an inchanter n, or a witch o,

But Chriſt was truly, and in all commendable parts like him, in being both a Prophet and a King and a Prieſt and Mediatour, as Moſes was, in the excellency of his Miniſtry and work, in the glory of his miracles, in his familiar and intimate converſe with God, &c. And this place is expounded of Chriſt alone by God himſelf in the New Teſtament, Act. 3. 22. and 7. 37. He ſaith, in the midſt of the land, either for, in the land, as in the midſt of the city, Jer. 52. 25. is the ſame with that, in the city, 2 King. 25. 19. or to deſign the places, that they ſhould be ſituated in the midſt of the ſeveral parts of their land, to which they might conveniently and ſpeedily flee from all the parts of the land.

3 Thou ſhalt prepare thee a way b, and divide the coaſts of thy land (which the LORD thy God giveth thee to inherit) into three parts c, that every ſlayer may flee thither.

b Diſtinguiſh it by evident marks, and make it plain and convenient, to prevent miſtakes and delays. c Not into more, becauſe it was fit that theſe places ſhould, as far as it was poſſible, be at ſome conſiderable diſtance from the friends of the ſlain perſon, leſt the ſight of the manſlayer might have provoked their paſſion and occaſioned his ruine.

4 And this is the caſe of the ſlayer which ſhall flee thither, that he may live, whoſo killeth his neighbour ignorantly, whom he hated not † in time paſt. † Heb. from yeſterday the third day.

5 As when a man goeth into the wood with his neighbour to hew wood, and his hand fetcheth a ſtroke with the ax to cut down the tree: and the † head ſlippeth from the † helve, and lighteth upon his neighbour that he die, he ſhall flee unto one of thoſe cities, and live: † Heb. iron. † Heb. wood. † Heb. findeth.

6 Leſt the avenger of blood purſue the ſlayer d, while his heart is hot, and overtake him, becauſe the way is long, and † ſlay him e; whereas he was not worthy of death, inaſmuch as he hated him not † in time paſt. † Heb. ſmite him in ſoul. † Heb. from yeſterday third day.

d This verſe is to be joyned with ver. 3. as is evident, the 4th and 5th verſes, coming in as a parentheſis, which is uſual, in Scripture and other authors. e Which is ſuppoſed, but not allowed, as appears from the following words. But the avenger of blood is not to be puniſhed with death for killing the manſlayer in caſe he found him without the borders of the city of refuge after he had been received there, Numb. 35. 26, 27. becauſe then he was guilty of a new crime, to wit, a contempt of Gods ordinance, and a groſs neglect of the duty of ſelf-preſervation, and therefore deſerved death from God, who might permit it to be inflicted by the avenger of blood.

7 Wherefore I command thee, ſaying, Thou ſhalt ſeparate three cities for thee.

*chap. 12. 20. 8 And if the LORD thy God * enlarge thy coaſt f (as he hath ſworn unto thy fathers) and give thee all the land which he promiſed to give unto thy fathers:

f As far as Euphrates. See Gen. 15. 18. Exod. 23. 31. Deut. 1. 7.

9 (If thou ſhalt keep all theſe commandments to do them, which I command thee this day, to love the LORD thy God, and to walk ever in his ways) * then ſhalt thou add three cities moe for thee, beſide theſe three: *Joſh. 20. 7.

10 That innocent blood be not ſhed in thy land, which the LORD thy God giveth thee for an inheritance, and ſo blood be upon thee.

11 But if any man hate his neighbour, and lie in wait for him, and riſe up againſt him, and ſmite him † mortally, that he die, and fleeth into one of theſe cities: † Heb. in ſoul.

12 Then the elders of his city g ſhall ſend, and fetch him thence h, and deliver him into the hand of the avenger of blood, that he may die.

g Either of the ſlain perſon, who were moſt likely to proſecute the murderer: or, of the murderer, becauſe God would oblige even his own fellow citizens to proſecute him to death, that it might appear how hateful murder and the murderer is to God and ought to be to all men. h Demand him of the Elders of the city of refuge, who upon the hearing of the cauſe and the evidence of the murder were obliged to deliver the offender to juſtice.

13 Thine eye ſhall not pity him, but thou ſhalt put away the guilt of innocent blood from Iſrael, that it may go well with thee.

14 * Thou ſhalt not remove thy neighbours † land-mark i, which they of old time have ſet in thine inheritance, which thou ſhalt inherit, in the land that the LORD thy God giveth thee to poſſeſs it. * chap. 27. 17. † Heb. bound.

i By which the ſeveral portions of lands diſtributed to ſeveral families were diſtinguiſhed one from another. See Job 24. 2. Prov. 22. 28. Hoſ. 5. 10.

15 * One witneſs ſhall not riſe up k againſt a man for any iniquity, or for any ſin, in any ſin that he ſinneth: at the mouth of two witneſſes, or at the mouth of three witneſſes ſhall the matter be eſtabliſhed. * Num. 35. 30. chap. 17. 6. Mat. 18. 16. Joh. 8. 17. 2 Cor. 13. 1. Heb. 10. 28

k Or, not ſtand, or, not be eſtabliſhed, accepted, owned as ſufficient: it is the ſame word which in the end of the verſe is rendred be eſtabliſhed.

16 If a falſe witneſs l riſe up againſt any man to teſtifie againſt him ‖ that which is wrong: ‖ Or, falling away.

l A ſingle witneſs, though he ſpeak truth, is not to be accepted for the condemnation of another man, but if he be convicted of falſe witneſs, this is ſufficient for his own condemnation.

17 Then both the men between whom the controverſie is, ſhall ſtand before the LORD, before the prieſts, and the judges m, which ſhall be in thoſe days:

m See on Deut. 17. 9, 12. and obſerve that the controverſies both here and there referred to and to be determined by the Prieſts and Judges, are only between man and man, and not doctrines of faith and manners, as the Papiſts for their own advantage pretend.

18 And the judges ſhall make diligent inquiſition: and behold, if the witneſs be a falſe witneſs, and hath teſtified falſly againſt his brother:

19 * Then ſhall ye do unto him, as he had thought to have done unto his brother: * ſo ſhalt thou put the evil away from among you. * Prov. 19. 5, 9. * chap. 13. 5. and 17. 7.

20 And thoſe which remain n ſhall hear and fear, and ſhall henceforth commit no more any ſuch evil among you.

n (i. e.) The reſt of the people. See Deut. 13. 11. and 17. 13.

21 And thine eye ſhall not pity, but * life ſhall go for life, eye for eye o, tooth for tooth, hand for hand, foot for foot. * Exod. 21. 23. Lev. 24. 20. Mat. 5. 38.

o What puniſhment he intended or the law allotted to the accuſed, if he had been convicted, the ſame ſhall the falſe accuſer bear. Of this law ſee on Exod. 21. 24. Lev. 24. 20.

CHAP. XX.

The prieſts exhortation to encourage the people to fight their enemies, 1—4. The Officers Proclamation, who are to be diſmiſſed from the war, 5—9. A proclamation of peace to be made to beſieged cities, 10. and to deal with'em as they accept or refuſe it, 11—18. What trees were to be cut down for the ſiege, and what not, 19, 20.

1 WHen thou goeſt out to battel a againſt thine enemies, and ſeeſt * horſes, and chariots, and a people more than thou, be not afraid of them: for the LORD thy God is with thee, which brought thee up out of the land of Egypt. * Pſal. 20. 7. Iſa. 31. 1.

a Upon a juſt and neceſſary cauſe, as upon great provocation, or for thy own defence.

2 And it ſhall be when ye are come nigh unto the battel, that the prieſt b ſhall approach, and ſpeak unto the people c, b An eminent Prieſt appointed for this work, and to blow with the holy trumpets, Numb. 10. 9. and 31. 6. c Either ſucceſſively to one regiment of the army after another, or to ſome by himſelf, to others by his brethren or deputies, which accompanied him for that end.

3 And ſhall ſay unto them, Hear, O Iſrael, ye approach this day unto battel againſt your enemies: let not your heart † faint d, fear not, and do not † tremble, neither be ye terrified becauſe of them.

d Heb. be ſoft or tender. Softneſs or tenderneſs of heart towards God is commended, 2 King. 22. 19. but towards enemies it is condemned, here and ver. 8. Levit. 26. 36. 2 Chron. 13. 7. Iſa. 7. 4.

4 For the LORD your God is he that goeth with you, to fight for you againſt your enemies, to ſave you.

5 And the officers ſhall ſpeak unto the people, ſaying, What man is there that hath built a new houſe, and hath not dedicated it e? let him go and return to his houſe f, leſt he die in the battel, and another man dedicate it g.

e Which was done by feaſting and thankſgiving to God. See the title of Pſal. 3. and Nehem. 12. 27. Heb. hath initiated it, i. e. entred upon it, taken poſſeſſion of it, dwelt in it. f Leſt his heart be ſet upon it, and thereby he be negligent or timerous in the battel to the ſcandal and prejudice of others. g And ſo he ſhould loſe and another get the fruit of his labours, which might ſeem unjuſt or hard. And God provides even for mens infirmities. But this and the following exceptions are to be underſtood only of a War allowed by God, not in a War commanded by God, not in the approaching War with the Canaanites, from which even the Bridegroom was not exempted, as the Jewiſh writers note.

6 And what man is he that hath planted a vineyard h, and hath not yet † eaten of it i? let him alſo go and return unto his houſe, leſt he die in the battel, and another man eat of it.

† Heb. ade it mmon. ee Lev: 23,24.

h This and the former diſpenſation were generally convenient, but more neceſſary in the beginning of their ſettlement in Canaan, for the encouragement of thoſe who ſhould build houſes or plant vineyards, which was chargeable to them, and beneficial to the commonwealth. i Heb. made it common, to wit, for the uſe of himſelf and family and friends, which it was not till the fifth year, Levit. 19. 23, &c. Jer. 31. 5.

7 * And what man is there that hath betrothed k a wife, and hath not taken her? let him go and return unto his houſe, leſt he die in the battel, and another man take her.

* chap. 4. 5.

k Which was done by a ſolemn and mutual promiſe, but not by an actual contract. See Gen. 19. 14. Deut. 22. 23.

8 And the officers ſhall ſpeak further unto the people: and they ſhall ſay, * What man is there that is fearful and faint-hearted? let him go and return unto his houſe, leſt his brethrens heart † faint as well as his heart.

Judg. 3. Heb. elt.

9 And it ſhall be when the officers have made an end of ſpeaking unto the people, that they ſhall make captains of the armies † to lead the people l.

Heb. to e in the ead of the eople.

l Or rather, as the Hebrew hath it, they ſhall ſet or place the captains of the armies in the head or front of the people under their charge, that they may conduct and manage them, and by their example incourage their ſouldiers But it is not likely they had their captains to make or chuſe when they were juſt going to battel.

10 When thou comeſt nigh unto a city to fight againſt it, then * proclaim peace unto it m.

m This ſeems to be underſtood not of the cities of the Canaanites, as is manifeſt from ver. 16, 17, 18. who were under an abſolute ſentence of utter deſtruction, Exod. 23. 32, 33. Deut. 7. 1, 2. whence they are blamed that made any league or peace with them, Judg. 2. 2. but of the cities either of other nations who injured or diſturbed them, or commenced war againſt them, or aided their enemies, or oppreſſed their friends and allies; or of the Hebrews themſelves, if they were guilty or abettors of Idolatry or Apoſtacy from God, or of ſedition or rebellion againſt authority, or of giving protection and defence to capital offenders. See Gen. 14. Judg. 20. 2 Sam. 20. &c.

11 And it ſhall be, if it make thee anſwer of peace, and open unto thee, then it ſhall be, that all the people that is found therein, ſhall be tributaries unto thee, and they ſhall ſerve thee n.

n By their purſes, and by their labours too, as appears from 1 King. 9. 15. 2 Chron. 8. 7.

12 And if it will make no peace with thee, but will make war againſt thee, then thou ſhalt beſiege it.

13 And when the LORD thy God hath delivered it into thine hand, thou ſhalt ſmite every male thereof with the edge of the ſword o.

o A juſt puniſhment of their obſtinate refuſal of peace offered.

14 But the women, and the little ones p, and * the cattel, and all that is in the city, even all the ſpoil thereof, ſhalt thou † take unto thy ſelf, and thou ſhalt eat the ſpoil of thine enemies, which the LORD thy God hath given thee.

Joſh. 8. Heb. il.

p Excuſed by their ſex or age, as not involved in the gilt, nor being likely to revenge their quarrel.

15 Thus ſhalt thou do unto all the cities which are very far off from thee, which are not of the cities of theſe nations.

16 But * of the cities of theſe people which the LORD thy God doth give thee for an inheritance, thou ſhalt ſave alive nothing that breatheth q:

Num. 3. 52. hap. 7. , 2.

q Heb. no ſoul, i. e. no man, as that word is oft uſed. Compare Joſ. 10. 40. with 11. 14. For the beaſts, ſome few excepted as being under a ſpecial curſe, were given them for a prey.

17 But thou ſhalt utterly deſtroy them, namely, the Hittites, and the Amorites, the Canaanites, and the Perizzites, the Hivites, and the Jebuſites, as the Lord thy God hath commanded thee:

18 That they teach you not to do after all their abominations which they have done unto their gods: ſo ſhould ye ſin againſt the LORD your God.

19 When thou ſhalt beſiege a city a long time in making war againſt it, to take it, thou ſhalt not deſtroy the trees thereof r, by forcing an ax againſt them, for thou mayeſt eat of them, and thou ſhalt not cut them down (‖ for the tree of the field is mans life s,) † to imploy them in the ſiege.

‖ Or, for, O man, the tree of the field is to be imployed in the ſiege. † Heb. to go from before thee.

r To wit, the fruit trees, as appears from the following words. Which is to be underſtood of a general deſtruction of them, not of the cutting down of ſome few of them, as the conveniency of the ſiege might require. s (i. e.) The ſuſtenance or ſupport of his life, as life is taken Deut. 24. 6. But this place may be otherwiſe tranſlated, as it is in the Margent of our Engliſh Bibles: For, O man (the Hebrew letter He being here the note of a vocative caſe, as it is Pſal. 9. 7.) the tree (or, trees, the ſingular number for the plural, as is common) of the field is (or ought, as the Hebrew Lamed is uſed Eſth. 9. 1. Pſal. 62. 10.) to be employed in the ſiege, or, as it is in the Hebrew, to go before thy face, i. e. to make fences for thy ſecurity, in the ſiege. The trees of the field, I here underſtand not its general ſignification of all trees including fruit-bearing trees, as that phraſe is commonly uſed, but in its more ſpecial and diſtinct ſignification, for unfruitful trees, as it is taken Iſa. 55. 12. or ſuch as grow only in open fields, ſuch as are elſewhere called the trees of the wood, 1 Chron. 16. 33. Iſa. 7. 2. or the trees of the foreſt, Cant. 2. 3. Iſa. 10. 19. which are oppoſed to the trees of the gardens, Gen. 3. 2, 8. Eccl. 2. 5. Ezek. 31. 9. as the flower of the field, Pſal. 103. 15. Iſa. 40. 6. and the lilies of the field, Mat. 6. 28. are oppoſed to thoſe that grow in Gardens, and are preſerved and cultivated by the gardners art and care. And ſo it is a very proper argument to diſſwade from the deſtroying of fruit-trees, becauſe the wild and unfruitful trees were ſufficient for the uſe of the ſiege. And this ſence fitly agrees with the following words, where the conceſſion or grant which here is delivered in more ambiguous terms of the tree of the field is repeated and explained concerning the trees which thou knoweſt that they be not trees for meat.

20 Only the trees which thou knoweſt that they be not trees for meat, thou ſhalt deſtroy, and cut them down, and thou ſhalt build bulwarks againſt the city that maketh war with thee, until † it be ſubdued.

CHAP. XXI.

How to expiate an uncertain murder, 1—9. The uſage of a Captive taken to Wife, 10—14. The firſt-born, though the ſon of the hated, is not to be diſinherited, 15—17. The puniſhment of a ſtubborn ſon, viz. Death, 18—21. The curſed death of them that are hanged, 22, 23.

1 IF one be found ſlain in the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee to poſſeſs it, lying in the field a, and it be not known who hath ſlain him:

a Or, in the city, or any place: only the field is named, as the place where ſuch murders are moſt commonly committed, and moſt eaſily concealed.

2 Then thy elders and thy judges b ſhall come forth, and they ſhall meaſure c unto the cities which are round about him that is ſlain.

b Thoſe of thy Elders who are Judges: for the latter word explains and reſtrains the former, the Judges or Rulers of all the neighbouring cities, who were all concerned in this enquiry. c Unleſs it be evident and confeſſed which city is neareſt, for then meaſuring was ſuperfluous.

3 And it ſhall be that the city which is next unto the ſlain man, even the elders of that city ſhall take an heifer which hath not been wrought with, and which hath not drawn in the yoke d.

d A fit vicegerent and repreſentative of the murderer, in whoſe ſtead it was killed, who by this act hath ſhewn himſelf to be a ſon of Belial, who would not bear the yoke of Gods law. A type alſo of Chriſt, who was obliged to no work, and under no yoke, but what he had voluntarily taken upon himſelf.

4 And the elders of that city ſhall bring down the heifer unto a rough valley, which is neither eared nor ſowen e, and ſhall ſtrike off the heifers neck f there in the valley.

e Partly to repreſent the hard and unprofitable and untutoured heart of the murderer; and partly that ſuch a deſert and horrid place might beget an horrour of murder and of the murderer. f To ſhew what they would and ſhould have done to the murderer if they had found him.

5 And the prieſts the ſons of Levi ſhall come near g (for * them the LORD thy God hath choſen to miniſter unto him, and to bleſs in the Name of the LORD) and * by their † word ſhall every controverſie h, and every ſtroke be tried.

* chap. 10. 8. * chap. 17. 8, 9. † Heb. mouth.

g Both to direct them in all the circumſtances of action and to ſee that the law was obſerved, and to bleſs them in Gods name, by praying for them, and abſolving or pronouncing them guiltleſs in this matter. h Not abſolutely all manner of controverſies that could poſſibly ariſe, as if their word were to determine whether there were a God or providence or no, whether God ſhould be worſhipped, and his commands obſerved or no, whether Moſes was a true Prophet or an impoſtour, whether Apoſtate and Idolatrous Iſraelites ſhould be puniſhed or no; which is apparently abſurd and ridiculous; but every ſuch controverſie as might ariſe about the matter here ſpoken of; nothing being more uſual than to underſtand univerſal expreſſions in a limited ſenſe; and indeed this is limited and explained by the following words, and every ſtroke, the particle and being put expoſitively; of which inſtances have been formerly given, i. e. every controverſie which ſhall ariſe about any ſtroke, whether ſuch a mortal ſtroke as is here ſpoken of; a murder, which may well be called a ſtroke, as to ſmite is oft uſed for to kill, as Gen. 4. 15. Levit. 24. 17. &c. or any other ſtroke or wound given by one man to another.

* See Pſ. 19. 12. 6 And all the elders of that city that are next unto the ſlain man, * ſhall waſh their hands i over the heifer that is beheaded in the valley, i In teſtimouy of their innocency. See on Mat. 27. 24.

7 And they ſhall anſwer k, and ſay, Our hands have not ſhed this blood l, neither have our eyes ſeen it m.

k To wit, to the Prieſts who ſhall examine them and determine this controverſie. l This about which the preſent enquiry is made: or this which is here preſent: for it is thought the Corps of the ſlain man was brought into the ſame place where the heifer was ſlain. m Nor have we ſeen or underſtood how or by whom this was done.

8 Be merciful, O LORD, unto thy people Iſrael
* Judg. 9. 24. whom thou haſt redeemed, and * lay not innocent blood † Heb. in the midſt. † unto thy people of Iſraels charge: and the blood ſhall be forgiven them n.

n (i.e.) Not imputed to them nor puniſhed in them: for God is ſometimes ſaid to forgive, when he doth not puniſh, as Pſal. 78. 38. Beſides though there was no mortal guilt in this people, yet there was a ceremonial uncleanneſs in the land, which was to be expiated and forgiven.

9 So ſhalt thou put away the guilt of innocent blood from among you, when thou ſhalt do that which is right in the ſight of the LORD.

10 When thou goeſt forth to war againſt thine enemies o, and the LORD thy God hath delivered them into thine hand, and thou haſt taken them captive;

o Of other nations, but not of the Canaanites, for they might not ſpare their women, and much leſs marry them, Exod. 34. 16. Deut. 7. 3.

11 And ſeeſt among the captives a beautiful woman, and haſt a deſire unto her p, that thou wouldeſt have her to thy wife:

p Or, haſt cleaved to her, to wit, in love: or haſt taken delight in her. Which may be a modeſt expreſſion for lying with her, and ſeems probable, becauſe it is ſaid v. 14. that he had humbled her, to wit, by military inſolence when he took her captive, not after he had married her, for then he would have expreſſed it thus, becauſe thou haſt married her, which had been more emphatical than to ſay, becauſe thou haſt humbled her. And here ſeem to be two caſes ſuppoſed, and direction given what to do in both of them, 1. that he did deſire to marry her, of which he ſpeaks ver. 11, 12, 13. 2. that he did not deſire this, or not delight in her, of which he ſpeaks, ver. 14.

12 Then thou ſhalt bring her home to thine houſe,
|| Or, ſuffer to grow. and ſhe ſhall ſhave her head, and || † pare her † Heb. make or dreſs. nails q.

q Either 1. to take off his affections from her by rendring her uncomely and deformed, but then the laſt words muſt not be rendred, ſhall pare her nails, but ſhall nouriſh them or ſuffer them to grow, as the Chaldee, Arabick and divers of the learned Jews and other Interpreters render it. Or 2. to expreſs her ſorrow for the loſs of her father and mother, as it follows ver. 13. it being the antient cuſtom of mourners in moſt nations to ſhave themſelves, and in ſome to pare their nails, in others to ſuffer them to grow. Or rather 3. in token of her renouncing her heatheniſh Idolatry and ſuperſtition, and of her becoming a new woman, and embracing the true religion. Which her captive condition and ſubjection to his will would make her inclinable to do in profeſſion.

13 And ſhe ſhall put the raiment of her captivity r from off her, and ſhall remain in thine houſe, and bewail her father and mother s a full month: and after that thou ſhalt go in unto her, and be her huſband, and ſhe ſhall be thy wife t.

r (i.e.) Either 1. thoſe goodly raiments in which ſhe was when ſhe was taken captive, in ſtead of which ſhe now muſt put on a ſervile habit, as this is generally underſtood, or rather 2. thoſe ſervile and ſordid raiments which were put upon her when ſhe was taken captive, as the manner was to do with captives, as the phraſe it ſelf ſeems to intimate, as priſon-garments, Jer. 52. 33. are ſuch garments as priſoners uſe to wear; and garments of praiſe are praiſeworthy or glorious garments, and it ſeems harſh to call thoſe garments of captivity, which are made for and generally worn by free perſons only, and which are uſually taken away from perſons when they come into captivity; Add, that this doth not ſeem to be any part or token of her ſorrow, but rather a mending of her condition, and exchanging her ſervile habit for a better and more decent one, which might be, though this were a mourning habit. s Either their death, or, which was in effect the ſame, her final ſeparation from them. Withall this ſignified her alienation from them or from their ſuperſtitious and Idolatrous courſes, and her tranſlation of her love from all other perſons to her huſband and to the true religion. Compare Pſal. 45. 11. t Suppoſing what might very rationally be ſuppoſed of one in her circumſtances, and what ſhe ſignified by the foregoing rites, that ſhe ſhould ſubmit to her huſbands Religion, in which caſe the marriage might be tolerable. Or this was a permiſſion and indulgence given to them for the hardneſs of their hearts, as in the caſe of Divorce, Deut. 24. 1. Mat. 19. 8.

14 And it ſhall be, if thou have no delight in her u, then thou ſhalt let her go whether ſhe will; but thou ſhalt not ſell her at all for money, thou ſhalt not make merchandiſe of her x, becauſe thou haſt humbled her y.

u Either 1. after thou haſt married her, and ſo this is a permiſſion of a Divorce, which being indulged towards an Iſraelitiſh woman, was not likely to be denied towards a ſtranger. Or rather 2. before thy marriage: for it is not probable, that God having given him competent time for the trial of his affections to her before he was permitted to marry her, would ſuffer him upon ſo ſlight an occaſion within a day or two after ſo ſolemn a contract, to ſend her away: nor is there a word ſpoken here of any Divorce. x (i. e.) Make gain of her, either by uſing her to thy own ſervile works, or by proſtituting her to the luſts or to the ſervice of others. y (i. e.) Lain with her as this phraſe is oft uſed, as Gen. 34. 2. Deut. 22. 24, 29. Judg. 19. 24. Ezek. 22. 10, 11.

15 If a man have two wives z, one beloved, and and another hated a, and they have born him children, both the beloved, and the hated: and if the firſt-born ſon be hers that was hated:

z Either 1. both together: which practice, though tolerated, is not hereby made lawful, but only proviſion is made for the children in that caſe. Or 2. one after another. a Comparatively, i. e. leſs loved, as Gen. 29. 31. Mat. 6. 24. Luk. 14. 26.

16 Then it ſhall be, when he * maketh his ſons to * 2 Chro inherit that which he hath, that he may not b make the 11.19,22.
ſon of the beloved, firſt-born, before the ſon c of the hated, which is indeed the firſt-born.

b It is not lawful, becauſe contrary to the rights and law of nature. c Or, before the face of the ſon, i. e. in his life time, as this phraſe is underſtood, Gen. 11. 28. and 16. 12. and 25. 18. And when this phraſe is rendred before another it ſignifies only in the preſence of another, but never notes the preference of one perſon to another, which the Hebrews expreſs in another manner. And this may be added to intimate, that if the eldeſt ſon were dead and had left a child, the father was free to give the right of his firſt-born unto his ſecond ſon rather than to the child of the eldeſt. Or this phraſe may be an aggravation of the fact, whereby his father did in a manner ſpit in his face, and faſten a reproach upon him in his very ſight and preſence.

17 But he ſhall acknowledge d the ſon of the hated for the firſt born, by giving him a double portion e of all the right of the firſt-born is his. * Gen. 4 3.
† that he hath: for he is the * beginning of his ſtrength f; † Heb. that is found with him.

d (i.e.) Make it appear that he owns him. e For the phraſe ſee 2 King. 2. 9. Zach. 13. 8. and for the thing ſee Gen. 25. 31. 1 Chron. 5. 1. f (i. e.) The firſt evidence of his manly ſtrength and ability for procreation.

18 If a man have a ſtubborn and rebellious ſon, which will not obey the voice of his father, or the voice of his mother, and that when they have chaſtened him, will not hearken unto them:

19 Then ſhall his father and his mother g lay hold of him, and bring him out unto the elders of his city h, and unto the gate of his place,

g The conſent of both is required to prevent the abuſe of this Law to cruelty. And it cannot reaſonably be ſuppoſed that both would agree without manifeſt neceſſity and the ſons abominable and incorrigible wickedneſs, in which caſe it ſeems a fit and righteous law, becauſe the crime of Rebellion againſt his own Parents was ſo high in it ſelf, and did ſo fully ſignifie what a pernicious Member, and ſon of Belial he would be in the Commonwealth of Iſrael, who had diſſolved all his Natural Obligations. Yet the Jews ſay this Law was never put in practice, and therefore it might be made for terrour and prevention, and to render the authority of Parents more ſacred and powerful. h Which was a ſufficient caution to preſerve Children from the malice of any hard-hearted Parents, becauſe theſe Elders were firſt to examine the cauſe with all exactneſs, and then to pronounce the ſentence.

20 And they ſhall ſay unto the elders of his city, This our ſon is ſtubborn and rebellious i, he will not obey our voice: he is a glutton, and a drunkard k:

i Adds incorrigibleneſs to all his wickedneſs. k Under which two offences others of a like or worſe nature are comprehended by a Synechdoche.

21 And all the men of his city ſhall ſtone him l with ſtones that he die: ſo ſhalt thou put evil away from among you, and all Iſrael ſhall hear, and fear.

l Which was the puniſhment appointed for blaſphemers and Idolaters; which if it ſeem ſevere, it is to be conſidered that Parents are in Gods ſtead, and entruſted in good meaſure with his authority over their Children, and that Families are the matter and foundation of the Church and Commonwealth, and they who are naughty Members and Rebellious children in them, do commonly prove the bane and plague of theſe; and therefore no wonder if they are nipped in the bud.

22 And if a man have committed a ſin worthy of death, and he be put to death, and thou hang him on a tree m:

m Which was done after the Malefactor was put to death ſome other way, this publick ſhame being added to his former puniſhment. See Joſ. 7. 25. and 8. 29. and 10. 26. 2 Sam. 4. 12.

23 His body ſhall not remain all night upon the tree, but thou ſhalt in any wiſe bury him that day (for * he that is hanged, is † accurſed of God n) that thy land be not defiled o, which the LORD thy God giveth thee for an inheritance.

And this curſe is here appropriated to thoſe that are hanged, partly becauſe this puniſhment was inflicted only upon the moſt notorious and publick Offenders, and ſuch as brought the curſe of God upon the community, as Numb. 25. 4. 2 Sam. 21. 6. and principally to foreſignifie that Chriſt ſhould undergo this execrable puniſhment, and be made a curſe for us, Gal. 3. 13. which though it was yet to come in reſpect to men, yet was preſent unto God, and in his eye at this time. And ſo this is delivered with reſpect unto Chriſt, as many other paſſages of Scripture manifeſtly are. o To wit, morally, either by inhumanity towards the dead: or rather by ſuffering the monument or memorial of the mans great wickedneſs, and of Gods curſe, to remain publick and viſible a longer time than God would have it, whereas it ſhould be put out of ſight, and buried in oblivion.

a So called by communion not of Religion, but of nature, as having one Father, even God, Mal. 2. 10. as appears, 1. Becauſe the ſame Law is given about their Enemies ox, &c. Exod. 23. 4. 2. Becauſe elſe the obligation of this Law had been uncertain, ſeeing men could not ordinarily tell whether the ſtraying Ox or Sheep belonged to a Jew or to a ſtranger. 3. Becauſe this was a duty of common juſtice and charity, which the Law of Nature taught even Heathens, and it is abſurd to think that the Law of God delivered to the Jews ſhould have leſs charity in it than the law of nature given to the Gentiles. b (i.e) Diſſemble or pretend that thou doſt not ſee them; or neglect or paſs them by as if thou hadſt not ſeen them.

2 And if thy brother be not nigh unto thee c, or if thou know him not d, then thou ſhalt bring it unto thine own houſe e, and it ſhall be with thee until thy brother ſeek after it, and thou ſhalt reſtore it to him again f.

c Which may make the duty more troubleſome or chargeable. d Which implies, that if they did know the owner, they ſhould reſtore it to him. e To be uſed like thine own Cattel. f The owner, as it may be preſumed, paying the charges.

3 In like manner ſhalt thou do with an Aſs, and ſo ſhalt thou do with his raiment, and with all loſt things oof thy brothers, which he hath loſt, and thou haſt found, ſhalt thou do likewiſe; thou mayeſt not hide thy ſelf g.

4 Thou ſhalt not ſee thy brothers aſs, or his ox fall down by the way, and hide thy ſelf from them: thou ſhalt ſurely help him h to liſt them up again.

5 The woman ſhall not wear that which pertaineth unto a man, neither ſhall a man put on a womans garment i: for all that do ſo, are abomination unto the LORD thy God.

i To wit, ordinarily or unneceſſarily, for in ſome caſes this may be lawful, as to make an eſcape for ones life. Now this is forbidden, partly for decency ſake, that men might not confound, nor ſeem to confound thoſe Sexes which God hath diſtinguiſhed, that all appearance of evil might be avoided, ſuch change of garments carrying a manifeſt umbrage or ſign of ſoftneſs and effeminacy in the man, of arrogance and impudency in the woman, of lightneſs and petulancy in both; and partly to cut off all ſuſpicions and occaſions of evil, which this practice opens a wide door unto.

6 If a birds neſt chance to be before thee in the way, in any tree, or on the ground, whether they be young ones, or eggs, and the dam ſitting upon the young, or upon the eggs, thou ſhalt not take the dam with the young.

7 But thou ſhalt in any wiſe let the dam go k, and take the young to thee, that it may be well with thee, and that thou mayeſt prolong thy days.

k Partly for the Birds ſake, which ſuffered enough by the loſs of its young; for God would not have cruelty exerciſed towards the brute Creatures: and partly for mens ſake to reſtrain their greedineſs and covetouſneſs that they ſhould not monopolize all to themſelves, but might leave the hopes of a future ſeed for others.

8 When thou buildeſt a new houſe, then thou ſhalt make a battlement l for thy roof, that thou bring not blood m upon thine houſe, if any man fall from thence.

l (i.e.) A fence or breaſtwork, becauſe the roofs of their houſes were made flat or plain, that men might walk on them. See Judg. 16. 27. 1 Sam. 9. 25. 2 Sam. 11. 2. Neh. 8. 16. Mat. 10. 27. m (i.e.) The guilt of blood, by a mans fall from the top of thy houſe, through thy neglect of this neceſſary proviſion.

9 * Thou ſhalt not ſow thy vineyard with divers ſeeds n: leſt the † fruit of thy ſeed o which thou haſt ſown, and the fruit of thy vineyard be defiled p.

n Either 1. With divers kinds of ſeed mixed and ſowed together between the rows of Vines in thy Vineyard: which was forbidden to be done in the Field, Levit. 19. 19. and here, in the Vineyard. Or 2. With any kind of ſeed differing from that of the Vine, which would produce either Herbs, or Corn, or Fruit-bearing Trees, whoſe Fruit might be mingled with the Fruit of the Vines. Now this and the two following precepts, though in themſelves ſmall and trivial, are given, according to that time and ſtate of the Church, for documents or inſtructions in greater matters, and particularly to commend to them ſimplicity and ſincerity in all their carriages towards God and Men, and to forbid all mixture of their Inventions with Gods Inſtitutions in Doctrine or Worſhip. o Heb. The fulneſs of thy ſeed, i. e. that ſeed when it is ripe and full. See Exod. 22. 29. Numb. 18. 27. p Either 1. Naturally, corrupted or marred, whileſt one ſeed draws away the fat and nouriſhment of the Earth from the other, and ſo both are ſtarved and ſpoiled. Or rather 2. Legally and Morally, as being prohibited by Gods Law, and thereby made unclean; as on the contrary, things are ſanctified by Gods word, allowing and approving them, 1 Tim. 4. 5. Heb. be ſanctified, or, be as a ſanctified thing, by an Ellipſis of the particle, as, i. e. unlawful for the owners uſe, as things ſanctified were. Or, ſanctifying is put for polluting, by a figure called Euphemiſmus, which is frequent in Scripture, as when bleſſing is put for curſing, as Job 2.9. and in other Authors, as when they uſe ſacred for execrable.

10 Thou ſhalt not plow with an ox and an aſs together q.

q Either 1. Becauſe the one was a clean beaſt, the other unclean; whereby God would teach men to avoid polluting themſelves by the touch of unclean perſons or things, 2 Cor. 6. 14. Or 2. Becauſe of their unequal ſtrength, whereby the weaker, the aſs, would be oppreſſed and over-wrought. Or 3. For myſtical reaſons, of which ſee on v. 9. and Levit. 19. 19.

11 * Thou ſhalt not wear a garment of divers ſorts, as of woolen and linnen together.

* Lev. 19. 19.

12 Thou ſhalt make thee * fringes r upon the four † quarters of thy veſture, wherewith thou covereſt thy ſelf s.

* Numb. 15. 38.

r Or Laces, or Strings, partly to bring the commands of God to their remembrance, as it is expreſſed, Numb. 15. 38. and partly as a publick profeſſion of their Nation and Religion, whereby they might be diſcerned and diſtinguiſhed from ſtrangers, that ſo they might be more circumſpect to behave themſelves as became the people of God, and that they ſhould not be aſhamed to own their God and Religion before all the World. s Theſe words are either reſtrictive to the upper Garment wherewith the reſt were covered; or argumentative, why they ſhould uſe theſe things, becauſe herewith they might poſſibly faſten their Garments, and prevent the uncovering themſelves, as might eaſily happen, when they wore no Breeches, but only looſe Garments.

13 If any man take a wife, and go in unto her t, and hate her, t (i.e.) Hath had carnal knowledge of her.

14 And give occaſions of ſpeech u againſt her, and bring up an evil name upon her, and ſay, I took this woman, and when I came to her, I found her not a maid;

u Heb. of words, i. e. of diſcourſes or diffamations.

15 Then ſhall the father of the damſel, and her mother, take and bring forth the tokens of the damſels virginity x, unto the elders of the city, in the gate.

x (i e.) The linnen cloth or ſheet, as is expreſſed v. 17. which in the firſt congreſs was infected with blood, as is natural and uſual. But becauſe this is not now conſtant, the enemies of Scripture take occaſion to quarrel with this Law, as unreaſonable and unjuſt, and ſuch as might oppreſs the innocent, and hence take occaſion to reject the Holy Scriptures. It were much more reaſonable for theſe men either to expound this place metaphorically of producing thoſe proofs and teſtimonies of her virginity which ſhould be as ſatisfactory as if that cloth were produced, as ſome of the Jews underſtand it, or modeſtly to acknowledge their own Ignorance in this, as they are forced to do in many other things, and not impudently to conclude it is inſoluble, becauſe they cannot reſolve it. But there is no need of ſuch general anſwers, many things may be particularly ſaid for the vindication of this law. 1. That it was neceſſary for that people, becauſe of their hard-heartedneſs towards their Wives, and their levity and deſire of change of Wives. 2. That either this tryal, or at leaſt the proof of her Virginity, was to be taken preſently after the day of marriage, and that proof was to be admitted afterwards upon occaſion. 3. That this Law was ſeldom or never put in execution, as the Jews note, and ſeems to be made for terrour and caution to Huſbands and Wives, as many other Laws have been in like caſes. 4. That that God who gave this Law, did by his Providence govern all Affairs, and rule the Tongues and Hearts of Men, and therefore fore would doubtleſs take care ſo to order matters that the innocent ſhould not ſuffer by this means, which he could prevent many ways. 5. That there is a great difference in times and climates. Who knows not that there are many things now by our Moderns thought uncertain or falſe, which by the Ancient Phyſicians were thought and affirmed to be true and certain in their times and Countreys, and that many ſigns of Diſeaſes and other things do generally hold true in thoſe more Southernly and warmer parts of the World, which are many times deceitful in our Northern and colder Climates? 6. That this very way of tryal of Virginity hath been uſed not only by the Jews, but alſo by the Arabians and Egyptians, as is affirmed by divers Learned Writers, among whom yet it was more doubtful and hazardous than among the Jews, who might promiſe to themſelves that God would guide the execution of his own Law to a juſt and good iſſue. 7. That this ſign if it were uncertain in perſons of riper years, yet it may be reaſonably thought certain and conſtant in Virgins of young and tender age, and that the Jews did ordinarily marry their Daughters when they were about 12 or 13 years old, as is confeſſed, as making haſte to roll away that reproach which they thought to be in an unmarried ſtate.

16 And the damſels father ſhall ſay unto the elders, I gave my daughter unto this man to wife, and he hateth her:

17 And lo, he hath given occaſions of ſpeech againſt her, ſaying I found not thy daughter a maid: and yet theſe are the tokens of my daughters virginity: and they ſhall ſpread the cloth before the elders of the city.

18 And the elders of that city ſhall take that man, and chaſtiſe him x.

x Either 1. By the following mulct. Or, 2. By ſevere reproofs, which that word oft ſignifies. Or, 3. By ſtripes, as is expreſſed, Deut. 25. 2, 3. Which is not ſtrange, conſidering how pretious a thing ones good Name is, of which he endeavoured to deprive his Wife.

19 And they ſhall amerce him in an hundred ſhekels of ſilver, and give them unto the father of the damſel y becauſe he hath brought up an evil name upon a virgin of Iſrael: and ſhe ſhall be his wife, he may not put her away all his days z.

y Becauſe this was a reproach to his family, and to himſelf, becauſe ſuch a miſcarriage of his daughter would have been aſcribed to his evil education. z Which ſeems to have been his deſign in this falſe accuſation, and therefore that liberty of a divorce which is permitted to others, Deut. 24. 1. ſhall be denied to him.

20 But if this thing be true, and the tokens of virginity be not found for the damſel:

21 Then they ſhall bring out the damſel to the door of her fathers houſe, and the men of her city ſhall ſtone her with ſtones that ſhe die a, becauſe ſhe hath wrought folly in Iſrael, to play the whore in her fathers houſe: ſo * ſhalt thou put evil away from among you. * Chap. 13. 5.

a Qu. Why ſhould ſhe die when her crime was only Fornication, which was not puniſhed in a woman with death, Exod. 22, 16, 17? Anſw. Becauſe there was not only Fornication in this caſe, as Exod. 22. but this was accompanied with deep diſſimulation and injury to her Husband in the falſe profeſſion of Virginity, and it might be preſumed that ſhe committed this folly after ſhe was betrothed to him, and therefore ſo obſtinately denied it, as knowing the danger of it in that caſe; Or God ordered it thus for the honour and cuſtody of the matrimonial bed from all defilement, that ſhe, who being defiled before ſhe was married or betrothed, and therefore not puniſhable by death, yet if ſhe ſhould preſume to carry her defilement into the married eſtate with a pretence of Virginity, ſhe ſhould then be put to death.

* Lev. 20. 10. 22 * If a man be found lying with a woman married b to an husband, then they ſhall both of them die: both the man that lay with the woman, and the woman: ſo ſhalt thou put away evil from Iſrael.

b If he be convicted of this fault, though not taken in the very act.

23 If a damſel that is a virgin be betrothed unto an husband c, and a man find her in the city, and lie with her:

c For by this betrothing ſhe had actually engaged her ſelf to another man, and was in ſome ſort his Wife, and therefore is ſometimes ſo called, as Gen. 29. 21 Mat. 1. 20.

24 Then ye ſhall bring them both out unto the gate of that city, and ye ſhall ſtone them with ſtones, that they die: the damſel becauſe ſhe cried not d, being in the city: and the man becauſe he hath humbled his neighbors wife: ſo thou ſhalt put away evil from among you.

d And therefore is juſtly preſumed to have conſented to it.

25 But if a man find a betrothed damſel in the field, and the man ‖ force her e, and lie with her: then the man only that lay with her ſhall die

e Which was to be examined and determined by the conſideration of all the circumſtances.

26 But unto the damſel thou ſhalt do nothing; there is in the damſel no ſin worthy of death: for as when a man riſeth againſt his neighbour and ſlayeth him, even ſo is this matter f.

f Not an act of choice, but of force and conſtraint.

27 For he found her in the field, and the betrothed damſel cried g, and there was none to ſave her.

g Which is in that caſe to be preſumed; charity obliging us to believe the beſt till the contrary be manifeſt.

28 * If a man h find a damſel that is a virgin, which * Exod. 22. 16. is not betrothed, and lay hold on her i, and lie with her, and they be found:

h (i. e.) An unmarried man, as appears, 1. From his obligation to marry the perſon he abuſed, which it is not probable would have been impoſed upon him had he been married. 2. Becauſe if the man had been married, this had been adultery, and ſo had been puniſhed with death. i Which notes ſome kind of force or artifice whereby ſhe was overpowred; whereas Exod. 22. 16. ſhe was enticed, which implies conſent, and therefore the man doth here receive a greater puniſhment, becauſe he uſed hoſtile violence towards her, which was the greater ſin.

29 Then the man that lay with her ſhall give unto the damſels father fifty ſhekels of ſilver k, and ſhe ſhall be his wife l, becauſe he hath humbled her: he may not put her away all his days m.

k Beſides the dowry, as Philo the Learned Jew notes, which is here omitted, becauſe that was common and cuſtomary, and becauſe it might eaſily be gathered out of Exod. 22. 16. it being ſufficient here to mention what was peculiar to this caſe. l To wit, if her Father conſent to it, which is to be ſuppoſed out of Exod. 22. 16. it being not likely that the Father ſhould loſe his paternal right of diſpoſing his Child when ſhe was in ſome ſort forced, rather than when ſhe was inticed. m Which others were ſuffered to do, Deut. 24. 1. and he who inticed the maid, Exod. 22. 16. was not prohibited to do.

30 * A man ſhall not take n his fathers wife o, nor diſcover his fathers skirt p. * Lev. 18. 8.

n To wife. So this reſpects the ſtate, and the next branch ſpeaks of the act only. o His Mother in law. See Levit. 18. 8. and 20. 11. 1 Cor. 5. 1. p (i. e.) The skirt of the mothers Garment, i. e. the nakedneſs, which is here called his fathers skirt, becauſe his Father and Mother were one fleſh, or becauſe his Father alone had the right to uncover it. The phraſe is taken from the ancient cuſtom or ceremony of the Bridegrooms ſpreading the skirt of his Garment over the bride, to ſignifie his right to her, and authority over her, and his obligation to the marriage duty. See Ruth. 3. 9. Ezek. 16. 8.

1 HE that is wounded in the ſtones a, or hath his privy members cut off, ſhall not enter into the congregation of the LORD b.

a Heb. wounded by compreſſion or attrition or contuſion, to wit, of the ſtones, which was the courſe the Gentiles took with Infants to make them Eunuchs. And theſe Eunuchs and Baſtards, v. 2. ſeem to be not only thoſe of other Nations, as ſome underſtand it, without any foundation for ſuch reſtriction, but alſo of the Iſraelites, the reaſon of this law being the ſame in all, to wit, that God would bring into diſgrace thoſe heatheniſh practices of making Eunuchs, and getting Baſtards, which doubtleſs he would eſpecially do among his own people. b Which phraſe cannot be underſtood, ſo that they might not come into the Church, or Holy Aſſemblies to worſhip God, to pray, or hear, &c. becauſe Proſelytes of any Nation being admitted to common Church-priviledges, no leſs than the Jews, (as is evident from Exod. 12. 48. Levit. 22. 18. Numb. 9. 14. and 15. 15.) it were abſurd to think that any of the Iſraelites, for ſuch a natural or involuntary defect, ſhould be ſhut out from all Gods ordinances; nor ſo that they were to be put out of the muſter-roll of Gods people, or to loſe the Priviledges common to all Iſraelites, to wit, the benefit of the year of releaſe or Jubile; which it is not probable the Iſraelites were to forfeit meerly for this unculpable imperfection; but either, 1. That they ſhould not be incorporated into the Body of Iſrael by marriage; for ſo this phraſe may ſeem to have been underſtood by the whole Congregation of Iſrael, Nehem. 13. 1, 2, 3, 23, 24, 25. Although at that time the Government was in part in the hands of ſuch perſons as are here mentioned, v. 3. or of their children, ſeeing it is apparent from Ezra 10. that many Prieſts and Levites and other Officers and Rulers of Iſrael were married to ſtrange Women, whoſe iſſue are by this Law excluded from all ſhare in the Government, and for that, among other reaſons, Nehemiah ſeparated them from Iſrael by vertue of the Law here following. Or 2. That they ſhould not be admitted to Honours and Offices either in the Church or Commonwealth of Iſrael, and ſo the congregation of the Lord doth not here ſignifie, as commonly it doth, the body of the people, but the ſociety of the Elders or Rulers of the people, who, as they repreſent the whole Congregation, and act in their name, and for their ſervice and good, ſo they are ſometimes called by the name of the Congregation, as Num. 35. 12, 24, 25. Joſ. 20. 6, 9. 1 King. 8. 5. compared with v. 1, 2, 3. and 1 Chron. 13. 1, 2, 4. and 29. 1, 10, 20. compared with 1 Chron. 28. 1. and 29. 6. and of the congregation of God, as it is in the Hebrew of Pſal. 82. 1. Howſoever, ſeeing they are oft called the congregation, they may very well be called in a ſpecial manner the congregation of the Lord, becauſe they were appointed by God, and act in his name and ſtead, and for his work and ſervice, and did alſo oft aſſemble near the Tabernacle where God was eminently preſent. Add to this, that the Hebrew word, Kahal, generally ſignifies a Congregation or Company of men met together, and therefore this cannot ſo conveniently be meant of all the body of the people, which could never meet in one place, but of the chief Rulers, which frequently did ſo. Nor is it ſtrange that Eunuchs are excluded from government, partly becauſe ſuch perſons are commonly obſerved to want that courage which is neceſſary for a Governour, Exod. 18. 21. and partly becauſe as ſuch perſons ordinarily were deſpicable, ſo the Office and Authority in their hands was likely to be expoſed to the ſame contempt.

2 A baſtard c ſhall not enter into the congregation of the LORD: even to his tenth generation d ſhall he not enter into the congregation of the LORD.

c So the word is commonly rendred, and ſo it notes a perſon baſe-born, or born in Fornication or Adultery, or by inceſtuous or any prohibited mixtures of man and woman. Obj. 1. This Law ſeems harſh, and too ſevere for the innocent Baſtard. Anſ. 1. It was only an excluſion from Government, which was a tolerable burden. 2. It was a neceſſary caution to prevent and brand the ſin of uncleanneſs, to which the Jews were more than ordinarily prone. Obj. 2. Pharez and Jephthe were both Baſtards, yet advanced to great Honour and Authority. Anſ. God gives laws to us, and not to himſelf; and therefore he might, when he ſaw fit, confer what favour or power he pleaſed upon any ſuch perſon, as he did to theſe. But ſome add, that the Hebrew word mamzer ſignifies not every Baſtard, but a Baſtard born of any ſtrange woman, as the word may ſeem to intimate; and as ſuch perſons generally ſeem to have been, becauſe of that ſpecial proviſion, that there ſhould be no whore of the daughters of Iſrael, as it is here below, v. 17. d Or, his tenth generation, as it is in the Hebrew, and ſo in the following verſes.

Neh. 13.

3 * An Ammonite, or Moabite e ſhall not enter into the congregation of the LORD; even to their tenth generation ſhall they not enter into the congregation of the LORD for ever f.

e This may be underſtood either 1. Of the Males only, or the children of ſuch fathers, as Interpreters commonly take it. Or rather 2. Of Females alſo, or of all that were born either of ſuch Fathers or Mothers, as may be gathered from Ezra 10. and Nehem. 13. where the Children of ſtrange Wives were ſeperated from Iſrael no leſs than the Children of ſtrange Fathers. And it is an allowed maxim, that the birth follows the belly. And whereas the Children of Rahab and Ruth are produced to the contrary, it may be ſaid as it was before, that theſe were extraordinary inſtances, and that God when he pleaſed might exempt any particular perſon of them from this curſe, though the Iſraelites might not do ſo. f So it ſeems to note the immutability and perpetuity of this Law, that it ſhould be inviolably obſerved in all ſucceeding ages, and not diſpenſed with for any merit in the perſons, or any pretence whatſoever. But why then ſhould this clauſe be added only here, ſeeing the foregoing Laws are as inviolable as this? It ſeems therefore to extend the duration of this excluſion of them from the Congregation of the Lord beyond what was ſaid at firſt, and to be added by way of aggravation, even to their tenth generation ſhall they not enter ——yea, even for ever; i. e they ſhall never enter, as it is expreſſed, without any mention of the tenth generation, Neh. 13. 1. that they ſhall not come into the Congregation of God for ever.

4 Becauſe they met you not with bread and with water in the way g when ye came forth out of Egypt, and * becauſe they hired againſt thee Balaam the ſon of Beor of Pethor of Meſopotamia, to curſe thee.

g As the manner of thoſe times was to wait and provide for ſtrangers and travellers, ſee Gen. 14. 18. and 18. 2, 3. and 19. 1, 2. Judg. 19. 18, 19, 20, 21. which was the more neceſſary, becauſe in thoſe times and countries there were no ſuch publick houſes of entertainment, as now there are among us. Their fault then was unmercifulneſs to ſtrangers and pilgrims, and afflicted perſons which was aggravated both by their relation to the Iſraelites, as being the children of Lot, and by the ſpecial kindneſs of God, and of the Iſraelites to them, in not fighting againſt them, as they had juſt occaſion to do, and as they did by others, Deut. 2. Obj. Qu. How doth this agree with Deut. 2. 28. 29. where the Moabites which dwelt in Ar are ſaid to have ſold them meat and drink? Anſ. 1. It is one thing voluntarily to meet them, and kindly to relieve them with bread and water, which they are here denied to have done, and a quite differing thing to ſell them bread and water when they are upon their very borders, and their own intereſt forced them to do ſo. 2. It may ſeem that it was only thoſe Moabites that dwelt in Ar did ſo, as is ſaid Deut. 2. 29. and that all the reſt of the people neglected or refuſed to do it; and therefore the ſin being ſo general and national, no wonder if the puniſhment be ſo too. 3. Theſe and the following words, both here and Nehem. 13. 1. are to be taken diſtributively, and this firſt member of the verſe belongs to the Ammonites, who did not meet them with bread, &c. and the later part to the Moabites, who, together with the Midianites, but not with the Ammonites, hired Balaam, &c.

5 Nevertheleſs the LORD thy God would not hearken unto Balaam; but the LORD thy God turned the curſe into a bleſſing unto thee h becauſe the LORD thy God loved thee.

h (i.e.) Forced Balaam to bleſs thee, who was hired and inclined to curſe thee, if poſſibly he could.

6 Thou ſhalt not ſeek their peace i, nor their † proſperity all thy days for ever.

i (i. e.) Make no Contracts either by Marriages or Leagues, or commerce with them, but rather ſhalt conſtantly keep a jealous eye over them, as enemies who will watch every opportunity to enſnare or diſturb thee. This counſel was now the more neceſſary, becauſe a great part of the Iſraelites lived beyond Jordan in the borders of thoſe people, and therefore God ſets up this wall of partition betwixt them, as well knowing the miſchief of bad Neighbours, and Iſrael's proneneſs to receive infection from them. Each particular Iſraelite is not hereby forbidden to perform any Office of humanity to them, but the body of the Nation are forbidden all friendly and familiar converſation with them.

7 Thou ſhalt not abhor an Edomite k, for he is thy brother l: thou ſhalt not abhor an Egyptian, becauſe thou waſt a ſtranger in his land m.

k The children of Edom. only the Amalekites are excepted by God's particular order, and upon ſpecial reaſon, Deut. 25. 17, 18, 19. l By Eſau, Jacob's Brother. m And didſt receive habitation, protection and proviſion from them a long time, which kindneſs thou muſt not forget for their following perſecution. It is ordinary with great men and others, that one injury or offence blots out the remembrance of twenty courteſies; but God doth not deal ſo with us, nor will he have us to deal ſo with others, but commands us to overlook and forget injuries, and to remember kindneſſes.

8 The children that are begotten of them, ſhall enter into the congregation of the LORD in their third generation n.

n Suppoſing their Grand-father, or great Grand-father turned Proſelyte, and the children continue in that faith received by ſuch anceſtors.

9 When the hoſt goeth forth againſt thine enemies then keep thee from every wicked thing o.

o Then eſpecially take heed, becauſe that is a time and ſtate of confuſion and licentiouſneſs; when, as one ſaid, the Laws of God and Man cannot be heard for the noiſe of Arms; and becauſe the ſucceſs of thy Arms and Enterprizes depends upon God's bleſſing, which wicked men have no reaſon to expect; and becauſe thou doſt then carry thy life in thy hand, and therefore haſt need to be well prepared for Death and Judgment.

p Of which ſee, Levit. 25. 4, 16, 17. or by uncleanneſs of any like kind, one kind being here, as oft, put for all. q Qu. Why doth this uncleanneſs oblige a man to go out of the Camp, when it did not oblige him to ſuch a removal, Levit. 15? Anſ. 1. It is not unreaſonable if they were obliged to greater ſtrictneſs and purity when they were undertaking ſo difficult and dangerous a work. 2. There is a manifeſt reaſon of the difference, becauſe in their houſes they had private Chambers, where they could in ſuch caſes keep themſelves from converſe with others, whereas in the Camp their conveniencies were ſo ſmall, and their occaſions of action ſo many, that it was very hard for his fellow-Soldiers that continued with him in the ſame Tent, or part of the Camp, to avoid the touching of him, which yet was infectious, Levit. 15. 7, 22.

11 But it ſhall be when evening † cometh on, he ſhall waſh himſelf with water: and when the ſun is down, he ſhall come into the camp again.

12 Thou ſhalt have a place alſo without the camp, whither thou ſhalt go forth abroad q.

q To wit, to eaſe thy ſelf, as it follows, ver. 13.

13 And thou ſhalt have a paddle r upon thy weapon: and it ſhall be when thou † wilt eaſe thy ſelf abroad, thou ſhalt dig therewith, and ſhalt turn back, and cover that which cometh from thee s.

r The nature of which may be known from the uſe, which here follows. s Partly to prevent the annoyance of our ſelves or others; partly to preſerve and exerciſe Modeſty and natural Honeſty; and principally that by ſuch outward rites they might be inured to the greater reverence of the Divine Majeſty, and the greater caution to avoid all real and moral uncleanneſs, eſpecially now when it was moſt neceſſary ſo to do.

14 For the LORD thy God walketh in the midſt of thy camp t to deliver thee, and to give up thine enemies before thee: therefore ſhall thy camp be holy, that he ſee no † unclean thing in thee, and turn away from thee.

t Either becauſe the Ark was commonly preſent with them, or at leaſt ſome of the holy Inſtruments, which were pledges of God's preſence: or, becauſe God had promiſed to go forth with them, when they engaged in a juſt and neceſſary war.

15 * Thou ſhalt not deliver unto his maſter the ſervant which is eſcaped from his maſter unto thee u.

* 1 Sam. 30. 15.

u This is not to be underſtood univerſally, as if all ſervants that flee from their maſters, though without any ſufficient cauſe or colour of juſtice, might be detained from them by any perſon to whom they fled for refuge, for this is apparently contrary to all the Laws of Religion and Juſtice and Charity, and would open a door to infinite diſorders and miſchiefs; but it is to be underſtood, 1. Of the Servants of Strangers, becauſe it follows, ver. 16. he ſhall dwell with thee, even among you, which ſhews that he had dwelt with and belonged to another people. 2. Of ſuch as belonged to the Canaanites, or other neighbouring Nations, becauſe if he had lived in remote Countries, it is not probable that he would flee ſo far to avoid his Maſter, or that his Maſter would follow him ſo far to recover him. And for the Canaanites this ſentence was moſt juſt, becauſe both they and theirs were all forfeited to God and to Iſrael, and whatſoever they enjoyed was by ſpecial indulgence. And for the other Neighbours it may ſeem juſt alſo, partly, becauſe ſome of them were within the larger limits of the land belonging to Iſrael by God's grant or deed of gift, Gen. 15. 18. Joſ. 1. 4. partly becauſe by their hoſtile carriages they had given Iſrael a right to much more of theirs, than a few Servants that might poſſibly run away from their Maſters; and eſpecially becauſe both Maſters and Servants of theſe and other Nations are unqueſtionably at the diſpoſe of the Lord their Maker and Sovereign Ruler. 3. Of ſuch as upon enquiry appear to have been unjuſtly oppreſſed by their Maſters, as is implied by that phraſe of his, making an eſcape, which ſuppoſeth a deliverance from danger or vexation. Now it is not ſtrange nor unjuſt, if the great God, who hates all Tyranny, and ſtiles himſelf the refuge of the oppreſſed, doth interpoſe his authority and help to reſcue ſuch perſons from their cruel Maſters, who otherwiſe would be roo ſtrong for them. 4. Of ſuch as came to them out of a deſire to embrace the true Religion, which poſſibly his Maſter perceiving, endeavoured by force to reſtrain him from, as it may be probably thought from his chuſing and liking to live among the Iſraelites, expreſſed v. 16. Now if this great and ſupreme Maſter, to whom all other Maſters are but Servants, and they and theirs are abſolutely in his power, ſhall receive and protect one that gives up himſelf to his Service againſt the Will of the under-Maſter, who in this caſe rebels againſt his Sovereign Lord, what ſhadow is there of injuſtice in the caſe?

e Taking advantage from his low and afflicted condition to be unreaſonable or injurious to him.

|| Or, Sodomiteſs.

17 There ſhall be no || whore f of the daughters of Iſrael g, nor a Sodomite h of the ſons of Iſrael.

f No common proſtitute, ſuch as were tolerated and encouraged by the Gentiles, and uſed even in their religious worſhip. g Not that ſuch practices were allowed to the ſtrangers among them, as is evident from many Scriptures and Reaſons, but that it was in a peculiar manner, and upon ſpecial reaſons, forbidden to them, as being much more odious in them than in ſtrangers. Though the words may be rendred among the daughters, and ſo in the following clauſe, among the ſons, for the Hebrew Mem is ſometimes uſed in that ſenſe, as Numb. 32. 22. Pſal. 31. 12. and ſo it notes that none of that ſort ſhould be permitted among them, whether Jews or Strangers. h Or buggerer, who defileth or ſuffereth himſelf to be defiled with mankind. See Gen. 19. 5. Levit. 18. 12. 1 King. 14. 24. and 22. 47. Rom. 1. 27.

18 Thou ſhalt not bring the hire of a whore g, or the price of a dog h into the houſe of the LORD thy God for any vow i: for even both theſe k are abomination unto the LORD thy God.

g This is oppoſed to the practice of the Gentiles, who allowed both ſuch perſons and their oblations they made out of their wicked and infamous gains; and ſome of them kept lewd Women, who proſtituted themſelves in the Temples, and to the honour of their falſe Gods, and offered part of their profit to them. See Mich. 1. 7. Baruch 6. 43. Herod. in the end of his firſt book, and Strabo in his eighth book. h Either I. Properly; the dog being a vile and contemptible creature in thoſe Eaſtern parts, 1 Sam. 17. 43. and 24. 15. and 2 Sam. 3. 8. Eccleſ. 9. 4. and unclean by God's deſignation, which yet ſhould have been redeemed by virtue of that Law, Num. 18. 15. had it not been for this prohibition. And this may be here prohibited, either 1. That by this one inſtance, put for all others of the like kind, they might be taught not to offer to God what coſt them nothing, or was worth nothing: or 2. to bring contempt upon the Creature, which divers of the Gentiles offered up to their Gods, and the Egyptians worſhipped as Gods. Or, 3. That by comparing Whores and Dogs together, and equalling the prices of them, he might expoſe Whores to the higheſt diſgrace and infamy. Or, II. Metaphorically, as that word is oft uſed in Scripture, as 1 Sam. 24. 14. Pſal. 22. 16, 20. Iſa. 56. 10, 11. Mat. 7. 6. Phil. 3. 2. and particularly it is uſed for unclean or filthy perſons, 2 Pet. 2. 22. Revel. 22. 15. as Horace alſo calls Whores Bitches. Which name doth moſt properly agree to them in reſpect of that impudence and filthineſs, and inſatiableneſs, for which both of them are branded. And this ſenſe may ſeem moſt proper in this place, becauſe it agrees with all the other expreſſions, and as the hire of a whore anſwers to the whore, v. 17. ſo the price of a dog may ſeem to anſwer to the Sodomite, v. 17. and ſo all concern the ſame thing, whereas the price of a dog, properly ſo called, may ſeem to be quite incongruous and foreign to the place. It is true which is objected, that Law-givers uſe to deliver their Laws in proper and not in metaphorical terms, to prevent miſtake and ambiguity: But there ſeems to be no great danger of miſtake here, where the Metaphor is ſo clearly explained and determined by ſo many words joyned with it. i And much leſs in other ſacrifices, which being of an higher Nature, and preſcribed by God, muſt needs require more exactneſs than thoſe which depended much upon a mans Will and choice, as vows and free-will-offerings did. k (i. e.) The Whore and the Dog, and therefore the price of either of them cannot be acceptable. And this may ſeem to favour the latter opinion, that the Dog is here taken metaphorically rather than properly, becauſe there is no mention in the Law (ſave in this place which is in queſtion) of any abominableneſs of a dog unto God, more than of an aſs, or any other unclean creature; but how abominable Sodomites are to God is ſufficiently evident from other Scriptures, and from undeniable Reaſons.

19 *Thou ſhalt not lend upon uſury l to thy brother, uſury of money, uſury of victuals, uſury of any thing that is lent upon uſury.

l (i. e.) So as to receive thy principal mony or thing lent with ſuch encreaſe or improvement of it, as was uſual and allowed among the Gentiles. But whether all uſury be unlawful to Chriſtians is too great a queſtion to be determined in a work of this nature. See Exod. 22. 25. Deut. 15. 3. Pſal. 15. 5. Nehem. 5. 2. Luke 6. 34.

20 Unto a ſtranger m thou mayeſt lend upon uſury, but unto thy brother thou ſhalt not lend upon uſury: that the LORD thy God may bleſs thee in all that thou ſetteſt thine hand to, in the land whither thou goeſt to poſſeſs it.

m (i. e.) To a perſon of any other Nation, for ſo that word is generally uſed, and therefore they who reſtrain it to the curſed Canaanitiſh Nations ſeem to do ſo without any ſolid or ſufficient grounds. And though the word brother is ofttimes uſed in a general ſenſe for every man, yet I think I may affirm that whereſoever the words brother and ſtranger are oppoſed in the Jewiſh Law, the brother ſignifies the Iſraelite only, and the ſtranger ſignifies any perſon of what Nation or Religion ſoever, whether proſelyted to the Jewiſh Religion or not, and ſo it ſeems to be meant here. And the reaſon why uſury is permitted to a ſtranger, not to an Iſraelite, may ſeem to be this, becauſe the Iſraelites generally employed themſelves in the management of land and Cattle, and therefore could not make any advantage of borrowed money to ballance the uſe they ſhould pay for it, and conſequently it may be preſumed that they would not borrow money upon uſe but for want and poverty, and in that caſe, and principally for that reaſon, uſury ſeems to be forbidden to them, as may be thought from Levit. 25. 35, 36. But the ſtrangers made uſe of their money in way of Trade and Traffick with the Iſraelites, which was more gainful, and could much better bear the burden of uſury, and reap advantage from money ſo borrowed, and theſe ſtrangers here ſpoken of are ſuppoſed to be competently rich, and not poor, as may plainly appear by comparing this place with Levit. 25. 35, 36. where they are no leſs forbidden to take uſury of a ſtranger than of a brother, in caſe of poverty.

21 * When thou ſhalt vow a vow unto the LORD thy God, thou ſhalt not ſlack to pay it n: for the LORD thy God will ſurely require it of thee: and it would be ſin in thee o.

n To wit, if the matter of it be lawful and in thy own power See Numb. 30. 2. Not ſlack or delay, becauſe delays may make thee both unable to pay it, and unwilling too, the ſenſe of ones obligation growing every day weaker than other, &c. o (i. e.) It would be laid to thy charge as a ſin, and bring judgment upon thee.

22 But if thou ſhalt forbear to vow, it ſhall be no ſin in thee.

23 That which is gone out of thy lips, thou ſhalt keep and perform; even a free-will-offering p, according as thou haſt vowed unto the LORD thy God, which thou haſt promiſed with thy mouth.

p Which though thou didſt freely make, yet being made, thou art no longer free, but obliged to perform it.

24 When thou comeſt into thy neighbours vineyard, then thou mayeſt eat grapes thy fill, at thine own pleaſure q: but thou ſhalt not put any in thy veſſel.

q Which was allowed in thoſe parts, becauſe of the great plenty and fruitfulneſs of Vines there.

*Mat 12.1. Mar.2.23. Luke 6.1.

25 When thou comeſt into the ſtanding corn of thy neighbours, * then thou mayeſt pluck the ears with thine hand: but thou ſhalt not move a ſickle unto thy neighbours ſtanding corn.

The husband is not here commanded to put her away, but if he do put her away, he is commanded to write and give her a bill of divorcement, before he ſend her out of his houſe. And though it be true, as our Saviour obſerves, that Moſes did ſuffer theſe divorces, to wit, without puniſhing them, which alſo is here implyed, yet it muſt be acknowledged, that if we conſult the Hebrew words, thoſe three firſt verſes may ſeem to be only a ſuppoſition, and the words rendred, then let him write her, in the Hebrew run thus, and hath written her, and ſo it follows, ver. 2. And ſhe be departed out of his houſe, and be gone and become another mans wife; then follows ver. 3. which even according to our tranſlation carries on the ſuppoſition, And if the later husband hate her, &c. Then follows the poſition or prohibition, ver. 4.

2 And when ſhe is departed out of his houſe ſhe may go and be another mans wiſe d.

d For although he could not cauſeleſly put her away without ſin, yet ſhe being put away, and forſaken by her husband, might marry another without ſin, as is determined in the ſame or a like caſe, 1 Cor. 7. 15.

z Underſtand it thus, if the one be free from the guilt of the others ſin, and except in thoſe caſes where the ſovereign Lord of Life and Death, before whom none is innocent, hath commanded it, as Deut. 13. Joſ. 7. 24. For this Law is given to men, not to God, and though God do viſit the fathers ſins upon the children, Exod. 20. yet he will not ſuffer men to do ſo. a Underſtand only, and not for any other man's ſin.

b Nor of the widow, which is to be ſupplied out of the laſt member; nor indeed of any other perſon, but he particularly mentions theſe, partly becauſe men are moſt apt to wrong ſuch helpleſs perſons, and partly becauſe God is pleaſed eſpecially to charge himſelf, and ſo to charge others, with the care of thoſe who have no other refuge. See Iſa. 1. 23. Jer. 5. 28. c To wit, ſuch an one as ſhe hath daily and neceſſary uſe of, as being poor, as may appear by comparing this with ver. 12, 13. and with other places. But this concerns not rich perſons, nor ſuperfluous raiment.

18 But thou ſhalt remember d that thou waſt a bondman in Egypt, and the LORD thy God redeemed thee thence: therefore I command thee to do this thing e.

d To wit, affectionately and practically, and by the compaſſionate ſenſe of others miſeries, thou ſhalt make it evident that thou haſt not forgotten thy own diſtreſſes and deliverances. e I having thereby authority to command thee, and thou having obligations on that account, both to obey me, and to pity others in the ſame calamities which thou haſt felt.

Judges muſt do juſtly, 1, 2. Stripes not to exceed forty, 3. The threſhing Ox not to be muzzled, 4. The Duty of raiſing Seed unto a Brother, 5. 10. The Puniſhment of an immodeſt Woman, 11, 12. A juſt weight and meaſure, 13——16. The memory of Amalek is to be blotted out, 17——19.

d About criminal matters, as it follows. b (i. e.) Acquit him from guilt and falſe accuſations, and free him from puniſhment. c Declare him guilty, and paſs Sentence of Condemnation to ſuitable Puniſhments upon him.

†Heb. a ſon of beating, 1 Sam. 26. 16

2 And it ſhall be, if the wicked man be † worthy to be beaten d, that the judge ſhall cauſe him to lie down, and to be beaten before his face e, according to his fault by a certain number.

d Which the Jews ſay was the caſe of all thoſe crimes which the law commands to be puniſhed, without expreſſing the kind or degree of the puniſhment. e That the puniſhment may be duely inflicted, without exceſs or defect, which otherwiſe might eaſily happen through the Executioner's Paſſion or partiality.

*2 Cor. 11. 24.

3 * Forty ſtripes he may give him, and not exceed f: leſt if he ſhould exceed, and beat him above theſe, with many ſtripes, then thy brother g ſhould ſeem vile unto thee h.

5 * If brethren k dwell together l, and one of them m die, and have no child n, the wife of the dead ſhall not marry without, unto a ſtranger o : her ‖ husbands brother ſhall go in unto her p, and take her to him to wife, and perform the duty of an husbands brother unto her.

k Strictly ſo called, as is evident from ver. 7. Gen. 38. 8. Ruth 1. 15. Matt. 22. 24, 25. l Either 1. ſtrictly, in the ſame houſe or family: which is not probable, becauſe the married brother may be preſumed to have left his fathers houſe and ſet up a family of his own. Or, 2. more largely, in the ſame Town or City, or, at leaſt, Countrey. This is added for a Relief of their Conſciences, that if the next brother had removed his Habitation into remote parts, or were carried thither into Captivity, which God foreſaw would be their caſe, then the Wife of the dead had her liberty to marry to the next kinſman that lived in the ſame place with her. m Either 1. the firſt and eldeſt of them, as it was practiſed, Gen. 38. 6. &c. and expounded, Matt. 22. 25. one being oft put for the firſt, as Gen. 1. 5. and 2. 11. Hag. 1. 1. Mark 16. 2. And the chief care was about the firſt-born, who were inveſted with ſingular Privileges, and were Types of Chriſt. Or 2. any of them, for the words are general, and ſo the practice may ſeem to have been, Ruth 3. and the reaſon of the Law may ſeem to be in a great meaſure the ſame, which was to keep up the diſtinction as of Tribes and Families, that ſo the Meſſias might be diſcovered by the Family from which he was appointed to proceed, ſo alſo of Inheritances, which were divided among all the Brethren, the firſt-born having only a double Portion. n Heb. no ſon. But ſon is oft put for any child, Male or Female, both in Scripture and other Authors; and therefore the Hebrew no ſon is rendred no child here, as it is in effect, Mat. 22. 24. Mark 12. 19. Luke 20. 28. And indeed this Caution was not neceſſary, when there was a daughter, whoſe child might be adopted into the Name and Family of its Grandfather. o (i.e.) To one of another Family, as that word is oft uſed. p Except he was married himſelf, as may appear by other Scriptures, and by the reaſon of the thing, and, as ſome add, from the Phraſe of dwelling together, to wit, in their Fathers Family.

6 And it ſhall be that the firſt-born which ſhe beareth, ſhall ſucceed in the name of his brother q which is dead, that his name be not put out of Iſrael r.

q Shall be called and reputed his ſon. See Ruth 4. 17. r That a Family be not loſt. So this was a proviſion that the number of their Families might not be diminiſhed.

* Ruth 4. 7.

7 And if the man like not to take his ‖ brothers wife, then let his brothers wife go up to the gate, unto the elders, and ſay, * My husbands brother refuſeth to raiſe up unto his brother a name ſ in Iſrael: he will not perform the duty of my husbands brother.

ſ To revive his Brother's Name and memory.

8 Then the elders of his city ſhall call him, and ſpeak unto him t; and if he ſtand to it u, and ſay, I like not to take her:

t To convince him of the duty, and perſwade him to it. u If he obſtinately refuſe it.

9 Then ſhall his brother's wife come unto him in the preſence of the elders, and looſe his Shoe from off his foot x, and ſpit in his face y, and ſhall anſwer, and ſay, So ſhall it be done unto that man, that will not build up z his brothers houſe.

x Partly, as a ſign of his reſignation of all his Right to the Woman, and to her husband's Inheritance; for as the Shoe was a ſign of ones Power and Right, Pſal. 60. 8. and 108. 9. ſo the parting with the Shoe was a token of the Alienation of ſuch Right, and that he would not and henceforth might not enter upon his brothers land; and partly as a note of Infamy, to ſignifie that by this unnatural and diſingenuous action he was unworthy to be amongſt Free-men, and fit to be reduced to the condition of the meaneſt Servants or Captives, who uſed to go barefoot, Iſa. 20. 2, 4. y As a return of his contempt upon himſelf. See Numb. 12. 14. Iſa. 50. 6. Mat. 26. 67. and 27. 30. This was not done, Ruth 4. either becauſe he was not a Brother, but a remoter Kinſman, and ſo deſerved leſs ſhame; or becauſe Ruth did not proſecute him to the utmoſt, but freely conſented to this exchange. z A Phraſe oft uſed for the Procreation of Children and the encreaſe of a Family. See Gen. 16. 2. Exod. 1. 21. 1 Kings 11. 38. 1 Chron. 17. 25.

10 And his name ſhall a be called in Iſrael, The houſe of him that hath his ſhoe looſed.

a (i. e.) His perſon, names being oft put for perſons, and his poſterity alſo. So it was a laſting blot.

11 When men ſtrive together one with another, and the wife of the one draweth near for to deliver her husband out of the hand of him that ſmiteth him, and putteth forth her hand, and taketh him by the ſecrets:

12 Then thou ſhalt cut off her hand b; thine eye ſhall not pity her c.

b Partly becauſe of the great miſchief ſhe did to him, both to his Perſon and Poſterity, and partly to deter all Women from all immodeſt and impudent carriages, and to ſecure that modeſty, which which is indeed the guardian of all the Virtues, as immodeſty is an inlet to all Vices, as the ſad experience of this degenerate age ſhews; and therefore it is not ſtrange that it is ſo ſeverely reſtrained and puniſhed. c Which thou wilt be very apt to do, becauſe of the infirmity of her Sex and the urgency of the occaſion, this being done for the neceſſary preſervation of her Husband.

13 * Thou ſhalt not have in thy bag † divers weights, a great and a ſmall d.

* Lev. 19. 35. 36.

d The great, either to buy with, or openly to make ſhew of; the ſmall, for their private uſe in ſelling.

14 Thou ſhalt not have in thine houſe † divers meaſures, a great and a ſmall.

† Heb. Ephah and an Ephah.

15 But thou ſhalt have a perfect and juſt weight, a perfect and juſt meaſure ſhalt thou have: that thy days may be lengthned in the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee.

16 For * all that do ſuch things, and all that do unrighteouſly, are an abomination unto the LORD thy God. * Pro. 11. 1

17 * Remember what Amalek did unto thee by the way, when ye were come forth out of Egypt e. * Ex. 17. 8.

e Which circumſtance greatly aggravates their ſin, that they ſhould do thus to a people, who had been long exerciſed with ſore afflictions, to whom pity and help was due by the Laws of Nature and Humanity, and for whoſe Reſcue God had in ſo glorious a manner appeared, which they could not be ignorant of. So this was barbarouſneſs to Iſrael, and ſetting the great Jehovah at defiance.

18 How he met thee by the way, and ſmote the hindmoſt of thee f, even all that were feeble behind thee, when thou waſt faint and weary: and he feared not God.

f Which God permitted, both for the puniſhment of Iſraels ſins, and to harden and prepare them for the difficulties of their Expedition.

19 Therefore it ſhall be, * when the LORD thy God hath given thee reſt from all thine enemies round about, in the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee for an inheritance to poſſeſs it; that thou ſhalt blot out the remembrance of Amalek g from under heaven, thou ſhalt not forget it. * 1 Sa. 15.

g Which was in great meaſure done afterward. See 1 Sam. 15. and 27. 8. and 30. 1, 17. 1 Chron. 4. 43. Eſth. 9. 12, 13.

CHAP. XXVI.

The Confeſſion, Thankſgiving, and Rejoycing before the Lord, of him who offereth firſt-fruits, 1 — 11. As alſo of the three years Tythes, 12, 16. The Covenant between God and his People ratified, 17 — 19.

1 AND it ſhall be when thou art come in unto the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee for an inheritance, and poſſeſſeſt it, and dwelleſt therein.

2 * That thou ſhalt take a of the firſt of all the fruit of the earth b, which thou ſhalt bring of thy land that the LORD thy God giveth thee, and thou ſhalt put it in a basket, and ſhalt go unto the place which the LORD thy God ſhall chuſe to place his Name there. * Ex. 23. 19. ch. 16. 10.

a This ſeems to be required of each particular Maſter of a Family, either upon his firſt Settlement, or once every year at one of their three feaſts, when they were obliged to go up to Jeruſalem, as here they are. b Either of their Corn, or of the Fruit of Trees.

3 And thou ſhalt go unto the prieſt c that ſhall be in thoſe days, and ſay unto him, I profeſs this day unto the LORD thy God, that I am come unto the countrey which the LORD ſware unto our fathers for to give us.

c (i. e.) To any of the Prieſts, who ſhall be appointed in God's ſtead to receive theſe oblations and acknowledgments.

4 And the prieſt ſhall take the basket out of thine hand, and ſet it down before the altar of the LORD thy God.

5 And thou ſhalt ſpeak, and ſay before the LORD thy God, A Syrian d ready to periſh e was my father, and * he went down into Egypt, and ſojourned there with a few, and became there a nation, great, mighty, and populous. * Gen. 46.

d So Jacob was, partly by his original, as being born of Syrian Parents, as were Abraham and Rebecca, both of Chaldea or Meſopotamia, which was a part of Syria largely ſo called, as is confeſſed by Strabo, b. 16. and by Pliny, b. 5. c. 12. partly by his education and converſation, for which reaſon Chriſt is called a Nazarite, and a Capernaite; and partly by his relations, his wives being ſuch, and his children too by their Mothers. e Either through want and poverty; ſee Gen. 28. 11, 20. and 32. 10. or through the rage of his brother Eſau, and the treachery and cruelty of his father in law Laban.

6 And * the Egyptians evil intreated us, and afflicted us, and laid upon us hard bondage. * Ex. 1.

7 And * when we cried unto the LORD God of our fathers, the LORD heard our voice, and looked on our affliction, and our labour, and our oppreſſion. * Ex. 2.

8 And * the LORD brought us forth out of Egypt with a mighty hand, and with an out-ſtretched arm, and with great terribleneſs, and with ſigns, and with wonders. * Exod. 12. 36, 37.

9 And he hath brought us into this place, and hath given us this land, even a land that floweth with milk and honey.

10 And now, behold, I have brought the firſt-fruits of the land, which thou, O LORD, haſt given me: and thou ſhalt ſet e it f before the LORD thy God, and worſhip before the LORD thy God.

e To wit, mediately, by the Prieſt who was to ſet it there, v. 4. f (i. e.) the basket of firſt-fruits, v. 2.

11. And thou ſhalt rejoyce g in every good thing which the LORD thy God hath given unto thee, and unto thine houſe, thou, and the Levite, and the ſtranger that is among you.

g (i. e.) Either 1. thou ſhalt hereby be enabled to rejoyce and take comfort in all thy enjoyments, when thou haſt ſanctified them by giving God his portion. Or 2. thou ſhalt feaſt, (which is oft expreſſed by rejoycing) with the Levites and ſtrangers upon the oblations which at theſe ſolemn times were offered. Which expoſition is confirmed by comparing Deut. 16. 10, 11, 14, 15.

*Chap. 14. 28. 12 When thou haſt made an end of tithing all the tithes h of thine increaſe, the third year, which is * the year of tithing i, and haſt given it unto the Levite, the ſtranger, the fatherleſs, and the widow, that they may eat within thy gates, and be filled:

h Of which ſee on Deut. 14. 28. i Heb. the year of that tithe, ſo called, either 1. becauſe theſe tithes were gathered only in that year. Or rather, 2. becauſe then only they were ſo beſtowed or uſed; and whereas theſe ſecond tithes for two years together were eaten only by the owners and Levites, and that in Jeruſalem, in the third year they were eaten alſo by the ſtrangers, fatherleſs, and widows, and that in their own dwellings. The ſeventy joyn theſe words with the following, and for Shenath, the year, read Shenith, the ſecond, and take Vau for redundant, as ſometimes it is, and read the place thus, The ſecond tithe thou ſhalt give to the Levite, &c.

13 Then thou ſhalt ſay before the LORD thy God k, I have brought away l the hallowed things m out of mine houſe, and alſo have given them unto the Levite, and unto the ſtranger, to the fatherleſs, and to the widow, according to all thy commandments which thou haſt commanded me: I have not tranſgreſſed thy commandments, neither have I forgotten them.

k (i. e.) Either before the Tabernacle or Temple: or rather, in thy private and domeſtick Addreſſes to God; for this is to be ſaid preſently upon the diſtribution of theſe tithes, which was not done at Jeruſalem, but in their own private gates or dwellings; except we will ſuppoſe that after he had given away theſe tithes at home he ſhould go up to Jeruſalem meerly to make this acknowledgment, which ſeems improbable. And this is to be ſpoken before the Lord, i. e. ſolemnly, ſeriouſly, and in a religious manner, with due reſpect to God's preſence and will and glory, which is a ſufficient ground for that Phraſe. l Or, ſeparated, or removed, to wit, from my own proper and private Fruits. m (i.e.) The tithes which have been ſanctified and ſet apart for theſe uſes.

14 I have not eaten thereof in my mourning n, neither have I taken away ought thereof for any unclean uſe o, nor given ought thereof for the dead p: but I have hearkened to the voice of the LORD my God, and have done according to all that thou haſt commanded me.

n (i. e) Either 1. in my funeral ſolemnities for the dead But this falls in with the laſt branch. Or 2. in my diſtreſs or poverty, or upon pretence of my own want, in which caſe men are tempted and inclined to fall upon ſacred or forbidden things. Or 3. in ſorrow, or grieving that I was to give away ſo much of my profits to the poor, but I have chearfully eaten and feaſted with them, as I was obliged to do. For though it be taken for granted by ſome learned Expoſitors, from Deut. 14. 28, 29. that the owner was not to eat any part of the third years tithe, but to give it all away to the ſtranger and fatherleſs, &c. the contrary ſeems to me more probable from that very place, where it is ſaid, thou ſhalt lay it up within thy gates, and then it follows, that the Levite, ſtranger, &c. ſhall come, to wit, to thy gates, and ſhall eat, to wit, there, as is expreſſed v. 12. that they may eat within thy gates, and be filled; which implies, that theſe tithes, or ſome part of them, were eaten in the owners gates or dwelling, with holy rejoycing and feaſting, wherein it is moſt probable the owner had his ſhare, though it be not there expreſſed, becauſe it was evident in it ſelf from the foregoing paſſage, Deut. 14. 23. &c. where the owner is allowed and commanded to eat thoſe tithes together with the Levites. And howſoever ſome think the third years tithes, v. 28. were not the ſame with thoſe v. 23. yet it cannot with any colour of reaſon be thought that thoſe tithes which were to be eaten, not only by the Levites, but alſo by the ſtrangers, v. 29. were more ſacred than thoſe that were to be eaten by none but the Levites and the owners, v. 23. 27. or that the owner might eat of the one, and not of the other. o (i.e.) For any common uſe; the words common and unclean being oft indifferently uſed one for the other, or for any other uſe than that which thou haſt appointed, which would have been a pollution of them. p (i.e.) For any funeral pomp or ſervice or feaſt; for the Jews uſed to ſend in proviſions to feaſt with the neareſt relations of the Party deceaſed, of which ſee Jer. 16 7. Ezek. 24. 17. Hoſ. 9. 4. and in that caſe both the gueſts and food were legally polluted, Numb. 19. 11, 14. and therefore the uſe of theſe tithes in ſuch caſes had been a double fault, both the defiling of ſacred food, and the imploying of thoſe proviſions upon ſorrowful occaſions, which by God's expreſs command were to be eaten with rejoycing, Deut. 14. 26. and 26. 11.

63.15. ch.2.13. 15 * Look down q from thy holy habitation, from heaven, and bleſs thy people Iſrael, and the land which thou haſt given us, as thou ſwareſt unto our fathers, a land that floweth with milk and honey.

q After that ſolemn profeſſion of their obedience to God's commands, they are taught to pray for God's bleſſing upon their land, whereby they are inſtructed how vain and ineffectual the prayers of unrighteous or diſobedient perſons are.

16 This day the LORD thy God hath commanded thee to do theſe ſtatutes and judgments: thou ſhalt therefore keep and do them with all thine heart, and with all thy ſoul.

17 Thou haſt avouched r the LORD this day ſ to be thy God, and to walk in his ways, and to keep his ſtatutes, and his commandments, and his judgments, and to hearken unto his voice.

r Or declared, or, profeſſed, or, owned. ſ (i. e) At this time, in this wilderneſs, where thou haſt accepted and ratified God's covenant.

18 And * the LORD hath avouched thee t this day to be his peculiar people, as he hath promiſed thee, and that thou ſhouldeſt keep all his commandments. *Chap 7.6 and 14. 2.

t Hath owned thee for ſuch before all the world by eminent and glorious communications and manifeſtations of his power and grace and favour in thee and for thee, by a ſolemn entring into covenant with thee, and giving peculiar laws, promiſes, and privileges to thee above all mankind. u Which is here mentioned as an act of God's, becauſe though this be Man's duty, yet it is the work of God's grace that he will vouchſafe to give us ſuch commands, that he doth require and will accept of our obedience to them, and that we have any power or will to obey them, Ezek. 36. 26, 27.

19 And to make thee high above all nations which he hath made, in praiſe, and in name, and in honour, and that thou mayeſt be an holy people unto the LORD thy God, as he hath ſpoken.

CHAP. XXVII.

A Command to ſet up ſtones for a Remembrance, and to write the Law upon them: They muſt build the Altar of the Lord with whole ſtones, 1 — 8 To pronounce the Bleſſing on Gerizzim, and the Curſe on Eball, 9 — 26.

1 AND Moſes with the elders of Iſrael commanded the people, ſaying, Keep all the commandments which I command you this day.

2 And it ſhall be on that day a * when ye ſhall paſs over Jordan, unto the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee, that * thou ſhalt ſet thee up great ſtones, and plaiſter them with plaiſter b. *Joſ. 4. 1. *Joſ. 8.32.

a (i. e.) About that time, for it was not done till ſome days after their paſſing over. Day is oft put for time, as hath been noted before. b For conveniency of writing upon them.

3 And thou ſhalt write upon them all the words of this law c when thou art paſſed over that thou mayeſt go in into the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee, a land that floweth with milk and honey, as the LORD God of thy Fathers hath promiſed thee.

c Either 1. all the words of this book of Deuteronomy. But that ſeems too large for this place. Or 2. the bleſſings and curſes here following. But they are mentioned as a different thing. Or 3. the law properly ſo called, i. e. the ſum and ſubſtance of the precepts or laws of Moſes, eſpecially ſuch as were moral and general, as may be gueſſed from the following part of the chapter, where the curſes pronounced againſt all that confirm not all the words of this law to do them are particularly applied unto the tranſgreſſours of moral laws only, v. 15, 16, &c. And eſpecially the Decalogue, which oft goes under that name. Compare Joſ. 8. 32. &c.

4 Therefore it ſhall be when ye are gone over Jordan, that ye ſhall ſet up theſe ſtones, which I command you this day, in mount Ebal ‖ and thou ſhalt plaiſter them with plaiſter.

‖ The mount of curſing. Here the law is written, to ſignifie that a curſe was due to the violatours of it, and that no man could expect juſtification or bleſſing from the works of the law, by the ſentence whereof all men are juſtly accurſed, as being all guilty of the tranſgreſſion of it in one kind and degree or other. Here the ſacrifices are to be offered, to ſhew that there is no way to be delivered from this curſe, but by the blood of Chriſt, which all theſe ſacrifices did typifie, and by Chriſt's being made a curſe for us, Gal. 3. 13

5 And there thou ſhalt build an altar unto the LORD thy God, an altar of ſtones: * thou ſhalt not lift up any iron tool upon them. *Ex.20.25 Joſh. 8.31.

6 Thou ſhalt build the altar of the LORD thy God of whole ſtones d: and thou ſhalt offer burnt-offerings thereon unto the LORD thy God.

d (i.e.) Rough, not hewed nor poliſhed.

7 And thou ſhalt offer peace-offerings, and ſhalt eat there, and rejoyce before the LORD thy God.

8 And thou ſhalt write upon the ſtones all the words of this law very plainly e.

e So as to be eaſily read by all.

9 And Moſes, and the Prieſts the Levites, ſpake to all Iſrael, ſaying, Take heed, and hearken, O Iſrael; this day thou art become the people of the LORD f thy God.

f By thy ſolemn renewing of thy Covenant with him.

10 Thou ſhalt therefore obey the voice of the LORD thy God, and do his commandments, and his ſtatutes which I command thee this day.

11 And Moſes charged the people the ſame day, ſaying

12 Theſe ſhall ſtand upon mount Gerizzim g, to bleſs the people h, when ye are come over Jordan; Simeon, and Levi, and Judah, and Iſſachar, and Joſeph, and Benjamin i.

g Obj. In Joſ. 8. 33. they ſtood over againſt Mount Gerizzim. Anſ. 1. Both are true: they who ſtood upon the one mount, ſtood over againſt the other. 2. Theſe words may be rendred beſide or near to (as the Hebrew al oft ſignifies) mount Gerizzim, which might be over againſt it. h Whence it appears that the Bleſſings alſo were pronounced as well as the Curſes, though they be not here mentioned. See Joſ. 8. 33. i All theſe were the children of the freewomen, Leah and Rachel, to ſhew both the Dignity of the Bleſſings above the Curſes, and that the Bleſſings belong only to thoſe as are Evangelically ſuch, as this is expounded and applied, Gal. 4. 22, &c. even to thoſe that receive the Spirit of Adoption and Liberty. Joſeph is here put for both his Sons and Tribes Manaſſeh and Ephraim, which are here reckoned as one tribe, becauſe Levi is here numbred; but when Levi is omitted, as it is where the diviſion of the Land is made, there Manaſſeh and Ephraim paſs for two tribes.

13 And * theſe ſhall ſtand upon mount Ebal † to curſe k: Reuben, Gad and Aſher, and Zebulun, Dan, and Naphtali l:

k He ſaith, to bleſs the people, ver. 12. but here only to curſe, not expreſſing whom, either becauſe he was loath to mention the people as Objects of the Curſe; or becauſe he preſumed and hoped that though ſome particular perſons might deſerve the Curſe, yet the generality of the people would keep out of the reach of it: or to intimate, that though the Bleſſing was peculiar to the people of Iſrael, yet the Curſe was indefinite and common to all Nations, as may appear from the particular ſins here numbred, which are ſuch as made the Gentiles guilty and abominable to God, as is elſewhere affirmed. See Lev. 18. 28. l Four of theſe are the children of the Bondwomen, to ſhew that the Curſe belongs to thoſe of ſervile and diſingenuous ſpirits and carriages to God. With theſe are joyned Reuben, who by his ſhameful ſin fell from his Dignity, Gen. 49. 4. and Zabulon, as the youngeſt of Leah's Children, who was neceſſary to be joyned with thoſe, that the numbers might be equal.

14 And * the Levites m ſhall ſpeak, and ſay unto all the men of Iſrael with a loud voice n:

m (i. e.) Some of the Levites, to wit, the Prieſts, which bare the Ark, as it is expreſſed Joſ. 8. 33. for the body of the Levites ſtood upon Mount Gerizim, v. 12. But theſe ſtood in the Valley between Gerizim and Ebal, looking towards the one or the other Mountain as they pronounced either the Bleſſings or the Curſes, as may be gathered from Joſ. 8. 33. n So as they might be heard by a great number of the people, by whom the reſt were informed and directed by ſome Signal when they ſhould anſwer.

*Exod. 20. 4, 23. and 34. 17. Lev. 19. 4. * 1 Cor. 14. 16.

15 * Curſed be the man that maketh any graven or molten image o, an abomination unto the LORD, the work of the hands of the craftſmen, and p putteth it in a ſecret place q: and all the people ſhall anſwer and ſay, * Amen r.

o Under this particular he underſtands all the groſs Violations of the firſt Table, as under the following Branches he comprehends all other Sins againſt the ſecond Table, as is manifeſt from hence, that there are other Sins, not here mentioned, which are as ſinful as theſe, and will as certainly expoſe a man to the Curſe as any of the reſt. p Or, although, as that Particle ſometimes ſignifies. q He takes ſpecial notice of ſuch, partly to ſhew the folly of thoſe men who think to hide their Sins by this means; and partly to deter men from ſuch Practices, which men could not ſee nor puniſh, by making them their own Condemners and Executioners. r (i. e.) So let it be: I wiſh this Curſe may befal me if I be guilty of this Crime. See Numb. 5. 22. Jer. 11. 5.

16 * Curſed be he that ſetteth light ſ by his father or his mother: and all the people ſhall ſay, Amen.

ſ Or, deſpiſeth in his heart: or reproacheth or curſeth, to wit, ſecretly, as before: for if the fact was notorious, it was puniſhed with death, Levit. 20. 9.

17 * Curſed be he that removeth his neighbours landmark t: and all the people ſhall ſay, Amen.

t To wit, deſignedly, to defraud his Neighbour, or enlarge his own portion.

18 * Curſed be he that maketh the blind to wander out of the way u: and all the people ſhall ſay, Amen.

u That miſleadeth ſimple ſouls, giving them pernicious Counſel, either for this life, or for the next.

* Ex. 22. 21, 22. chap. 10. 18

19 * Curſed be he that perverteth the judgment of the ſtranger, fatherleſs, and widow: and all the people ſhall ſay, Amen.

*Le. 18. 8.

20 Curſed be he that lieth with his fathers wife; becauſe he uncovereth his fathers skirt x: and all the people ſhall ſay, Amen.

x See Deut. 22. 20.

*Le. 18. 23.

21 * Curſed be he that lieth with any manner of beaſt: and all the people ſhall ſay, Amen.

*Le. 18. 9.

22 * Curſed be he that lieth with his ſiſter, the daughter of his father, or the daughter of his mother: and all the people ſhall ſay, Amen.

*Le. 18. 17. & 20. 14.

23 * Curſed be he that lieth with his mother in law: and all the people ſhall ſay, Amen.

*Ex. 20. 13. & 21. 12, 14. Le. 24. 17. Nu. 35. 31.

24 * Curſed be he that ſmiteth y his neighbour ſecretly: and all the people ſhall ſay, Amen.

y (i. e.) Killeth, as that word is oft uſed.

*Ex. 23. 8. ch. 10. 17. & 16. 19. Eze. 22. 12.

25 * Curſed be he that taketh reward to ſlay an innocent perſon: and all the people ſhall ſay, Amen.

*Jer. 11. 3. Gal. 3. 10.

26 * Curſed be he that confirmeth not z all the words of this law to do them: and all the people ſhall ſay, Amen.

z (i. e.) Performeth not: for he that tranſgreſſeth doth in ſome ſort deſtroy and make void the Law of God, as to the main end for which it was given, even to the Regulation of his life and actions, and as far as lies in him diſanuls the authority and force of God's Law.

CHAP. XXVIII.

The Bleſſings of Obedience, 1——14. Curſes for Diſobedience, 15——38.

1 AND it ſhall come to paſs, * If thou ſhalt hearken diligently unto the voice of the LORD thy God, to obſerve, and to do all his commandments which I command thee this day, that the LORD thy God will ſet thee on high a above all nations of the earth.

a (i. e.) Advance and honour thee with divers Priviledges and Bleſſings, as it here follows.

2 And all theſe bleſſings ſhall come on thee, and overtake thee b, if thou ſhalt hearken unto the voice of the LORD thy God.

b Thoſe bleſſings which others greedily follow after, and ofttimes never overtake, they ſhall follow after thee, and ſhall be thrown into thy lap by my ſpecial kindneſs.

3 Bleſſed ſhalt thou be in the city, and bleſſed ſhalt thou be in the field.

*Gen. 49. 25. Pſ. 127. 3. †Heb. belly

4 Bleſſed ſhall be * the fruit of thy † body, and the fruit of thy ground, and the fruit of thy cattel, the increaſe of thy kine, and the flocks of thy ſheep.

‖Or, dough, or kneading-trough.

5 Bleſſed ſhall be thy basket, and thy ‖ ſtore c.

c (i. e.) It ſhall always be well repleniſhed, and the Proviſion thou haſt there ſhall be preſerved for, and in due time brought forth to, thy uſe and ſervice. See Deut. 26. 2, 10.

6 * Bleſſed ſhalt thou be when thou comeſt in d, and bleſſed ſhalt thou be when thou goeſt out d.

d (i. e.) In all thy affairs and adminiſtrations, which are oft expreſſed by this Phraſe, as Numb. 27. 17. Deut. 31. 2. 2 Sam. 3. 25. 2 Chron. 1. 10. Act. 1. 21. and 9. 28.

7 The LORD ſhall cauſe thine enemies that riſe up againſt thee, to be ſmitten before thy face: they ſhall come out againſt thee one way, and flee before thee ſeven ways e.

e (i. e.) Many ways, as is uſual when an Army is totally overthrown and diſſipated.

‖Or, barns.

8 The LORD ſhall command f the bleſſing upon thee in thy ‖ ſtore-houſes, and in all that thou ſetteſt thine hand unto, and he ſhall bleſs thee in the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee.

f (i. e.) Shall by his ſovereign and powerful Providence give it, even when it ſeems furtheſt from thee, and not likely to come to thee without a Word of Command from God himſelf.

* Exod. 19. 5, 6.

9 * The LORD ſhall eſtabliſh thee an holy people unto himſelf g, as he hath ſworn unto thee: if thou ſhalt keep the commandments of the LORD thy God, and walk in his ways.

g (i. e.) Shall confirm and eſtabliſh his Covenant with thee, by which he ſeparated thee to himſelf as an holy and Peculiar people, and ſhall publickly own thee for ſuch, as it follows, ver. 10.

*Gen. 22. 22, 23. & 26. 28.

10 And all the people of the earth ſhall ſee that thou art called by the Name of the LORD h, * and they ſhall be afraid of thee.

h (i. e.) That you are in deed and truth his People and Children: See Deut. 14. 1. and 26. 18. For to be called oft-times ſignifies to be, as Iſa. 47. 1, 5. and 56. 7. Mat. 5. 9, 19. and 21. 13.

* chap. 30. 9, &c. ‖ Or, for good. †Heb. belly

11 And * the LORD ſhall make thee plenteous ‖ in goods, in the fruit of thy † body, and in the fruit of thy cattel, and in the fruit of thy ground i, in the land which the LORD ſware unto thy fathers, to give thee.

i The ſame things which were ſaid before are repeated, to ſhew that God would repeat and multiply his bleſſings upon them.

12 The LORD ſhall open unto thee his good treaſure k, the heaven to give the rain unto thy land in his ſeaſon, and to bleſs all the work of thine hand: and * thou ſhalt lend unto many nations, and thou ſhalt not borrow.

k To wit, the Heaven or the Air, as it here follows, which is God's Storehouſe, where he treaſures up Rain or Wind or other things for Man's uſe. See Job. 38. 22. Pſal. 33. 7.

13 And the LORD ſhall make thee the head l, and not the tail, and thou ſhalt be above only, and thou ſhalt not be beneath: if that thou hearken unto the commandments of the LORD thy God, which I command thee this day, to obſerve and to do them:

l The chief of all People in Power, or at leaſt in Dignity and Privileges; ſo that even they that are not under thine Authority ſhall reverence thy Greatneſs and Excellency. So it was in David's and Salomon's time, and ſo it ſhould have been much oftner and much more, if they had performed the Conditions here required. For the Phraſe ſee Iſa. 9. 13, 14. and 19. 15.

14 And thou ſhalt not go aſide from any of the words which I command thee this day, to the right hand or to the left, to go after other gods to ſerve them.

15 But it ſhall come to paſs, * if thou wilt not hearken unto the voice of the LORD thy God, to obſerve to do all his commandments, and his ſtatutes, which I command thee this day, that all theſe curſes ſhall come upon thee, and overtake thee m.

m So as thou ſhalt not be able to eſcape them, as thou ſhalt vainly hope and endeavour to do.

16 Curſed ſhalt thou be in the city, and curſed ſhalt thou be in the field.

17 Curſed ſhall be thy basket and thy ſtore.

18 Curſed ſhall be the fruit of thy body, and the fruit of thy land, the increaſe of thy kine, and the flocks of thy ſheep.

19 Curſed ſhalt thou be when thou comeſt in, and curſed ſhalt thou be when thou goeſt out.

20 The LORD ſhall ſend upon thee curſing, vexation n, and rebuke o, in all that thou ſetteſt thine hand unto † for to do, until thou be deſtroyed, and until thou periſh quickly, becauſe of the wickedneſs of thy doings, whereby thou haſt forſaken me.

n Or, diſturbance. This ſeems chiefly to concern the mind, and its torment ariſing from the diſappointment of hopes and the preſages of its approaching miſeries. o To wit, from God, not ſo much in words as by his actions, by croſs providences, by ſharp and ſore afflictions, which are oft called rebukes, as 2 King. 19. 3. Pſal. 18. 15. and 39. 11. and 80. 17. Iſa. 51. 20. and 66. 15. Ezek. 5. 15. and 25. 17.

21 The LORD ſhall make the peſtilence cleave unto thee, untill he have conſumed thee from off the land whither thou goeſt to poſſeſs it.

22 * The LORD ſhall ſmite thee with a conſumption, and with a feaver, and with an inflammation, and with an extream burning, and with the ‖ ſword, and with blaſting, and with mildew p: and they ſhall purſue thee until thou periſh.

p Two plagues or evil affections of corn. See 1 King. 8. 37. 2 Chr. 6. 28. Amos 4. 9. Hag. 2. 17.

23 And the heaven that is over thy head ſhall be braſs q, and the earth that is under thee ſhall be iron r.

q (i. e.) Like braſs, hard and dry, and ſhut up from giving rain. See Levit. 26. 19. r Hard and chapt and barren.

24 The LORD ſhall make the rain of thy land powder and duſt r: from heaven ſhall it come down upon thee, until thou be deſtroyed s.

r Either 1. thy rain ſhall be as unprofitable to thy ground and ſeed as if it were only ſo much duſt. Or 2. In ſtead of rain ſhall come nothing but duſt from heaven, which being raiſed and carried up by the wind in great abundance, doth return and fall upon the earth as it were in clouds or ſhowrs. s To wit, by famine following theſe great droughts.

25 * The LORD ſhall cauſe thee to be ſmitten before thine enemies: thou ſhalt go out one way againſt them, and flee ſeven ways before them, and * ſhalt be † removed t into all the Kingdoms of the earth.

t Heb. for a removing; to be toſſed like a football from place to place, and from people to people.

26 And * thy carcaſe ſhall be meat unto all fowls of the air, and unto the beaſts of the earth, and no man ſhall fray them away.

27 The LORD will ſmite thee with * the botch of Egypt, and with the * Emerods, and with the ſcab, and with the itch, whereof thou canſt not be healed.

28 The LORD ſhall ſmite thee with madneſs, and blindneſs u, and aſtoniſhment of heart x.

u To wit, of mind, ſo that they ſhall not know what to do: ſee Job 5. 13, 14. ſo as they ſhall commonly chuſe and follow the worſt counſels and courſes, to their own ruine. x They ſhall be filled with wonder and horror becauſe of the ſtrangeneſs and ſoreneſs of their calamities.

29 And thou ſhalt * grope at noon days y, as the blind gropeth in darkneſs, and thou ſhalt not proſper in thy ways z, and thou ſhalt be only oppreſſed, and ſpoiled evermore, and no man ſhall ſave thee.

y (i. e.) In the moſt clear and evident matters thou ſhalt groſly miſtake and miſs thy way. z Thy counſels and enterprizes ſhall be fruſtrated and turn to thy deſtruction.

30 * Thou ſhalt betroth a wife, and another man ſhall lie with her a: thou * ſhalt build an houſe, and another ſhall dwell therein: * thou ſhalt plant a vineyard, and ſhalt not † gather the grapes thereof.

a Before thou canſt conſummate thy marriage, and enjoy her as thy wife. And ſo in the following branches.

31 Thine ox ſhall be ſlain before thine eyes, and thou ſhalt not eat thereof: thine aſs ſhall be violently taken away from before thy face, and † ſhall not be reſtored to thee: thy ſheep ſhall be given unto thine enemies, and thou ſhalt have none to reſcue them.

32 Thy ſons and thy daughters ſhall be given unto another people b, and thine eyes ſhall look, and fail c with longing for them all the day long: and there ſhall be no might d in thine hand.

b By thoſe who have conquered them, and taken them captives, who ſhall give or ſell them to other perſons, as the manner was. c Or, be conſumed, partly with grief and plentiful tears ſhed for them; and partly with earneſt deſire, and vain and long expectation of their return. See Pſal. 119. 82. d (i. e.) No power to reſcue them, nor money to ranſom them.

33 The fruit of thy land and all thy labours ſhall a nation which thou knoweſt not e eat up: and thou ſhalt be only oppreſſed and cruſhed alway f.

e Which ſhall come from a far country, which thou didſt not at all expect or fear, and therefore will be the more dreadful when they come; a nation whoſe language thou underſtandeſt not, and therefore canſt not plead with them for mercy, nor expect any favour from them. f Not ſometimes conquered, and ſometimes conquering, as the courſe of War commonly is, but in all times, and in all thy actions and attempts, foiled and worſted.

34 So that thou ſhalt be mad for the ſight of thine eyes which thou ſhalt ſee.

35 The LORD ſhall ſmite thee in the knees, and in the legs, with a ſore botch that cannot be healed, from the ſole of thy foot unto the top of thy head.

36 The LORD ſhall bring thee, and * thy king g which thou ſhalt ſet over thee, unto a nation which neither thou nor thy fathers have known, and * there ſhalt thou ſerve other gods h, wood and ſtone. *2 Kin. 17. 4, 5. & 24. 12. & 25. 7. 2 Chro. 33. 11. Jer 17 3.

g The calamity ſhall be both univerſal, which even thy King ſhall not be able to avoid, much leſs the ſubjects, who have far leſs advantage and opportunity for eſcape; and irrecoverable, becauſe he who ſhould protect or reſcue them is loſt with them. See Lam. 4. 20. h Either being corrupted by their examples and counſels, or compelled to it by their tyranny. So what formerly was their choice and delight now becomes their plague and miſery. And this doubtleſs was the condition of many Iſraelites under the Aſſyrian and Babyloniſh captivities, as we may gather from Jer. 44. 17, 18, 19. and other places, tho' many of them kept themſelves free from that infection.

37 And thou ſhalt become * an aſtoniſhment, a proverb, and a by-word, among all nations i whither the LORD ſhall lead thee. *1 Kin. 9. 7. Jer. 24. 9. & 25. 9. Zech. 8. 13.

i All other nations ſhall wonder to ſee ſuch calamities befall ſuch a people, and when they would expreſs any dreadful affliction in a proverbial way, they ſhall make uſe of thy example: They ſhall alſo ſport themſelves in thy miſeries, and ſay, theſe are the people of the Lord, the only Saints upon earth, &c.

38 * Thou ſhalt carry much ſeed out into the field, and ſhalt gather but little in: for the locuſt ſhall conſume it. *Mic. 6. 15 Hag. 1. 6.

39 Thou ſhalt plant vineyards, and dreſs them, but ſhalt neither drink of the wine, nor gather the grapes: for the worms ſhall eat them.

40 Thou ſhalt have olive-trees throughout all thy coaſts, but thou ſhalt not anoint thy ſelf with the oil: for thine olive ſhall caſt his fruit.

41 Thou ſhalt beget ſons and daughters, but † thou ſhalt not enjoy them: for they ſhall go into captivity. †Heb. they ſhall not be thine.

42 All thy trees and fruit of thy land ſhall the locuſts ‖ conſume. ‖Or, poſſeſs.

43 The ſtranger that is within thee k, ſhall † get up above thee very high, and thou ſhalt come down very low. † Heb. aſcend above thee up, up; and thou ſhalt deſcend down, down.

k (i. e.) Within thy gates; who formerly honoured and ſerved thee, and were ſome of them glad of the crums which fell from thy table.

44 He ſhall lend to thee, and thou ſhalt not lend to him: * he ſhall be the head, and thou ſhalt be the tail. * Lam. 1. 5.

45 Moreover, all theſe curſes ſhall come upon thee, and ſhall purſue thee, and overtake thee, till thou be deſtroyed, becauſe thou hearkenedſt not unto the voice of the LORD thy God, to keep his commandments, and his ſtatutes which he commanded thee,

46 And they l ſhall be upon thee for a ſign, and for a wonder m, and upon thy ſeed for ever:

l (i. e.) Theſe curſes now mentioned. m (i. e.) Signal and wonderful to all that hear of them.

47 Becauſe thou ſervedſt not the LORD thy God with joyfulneſs, and with gladneſs of heart, * for the abundance of all things n: *ch. 32. 15.

n Or, in the abundance of all things; for this is oppoſed to in hunger, in thirſt, &c. v. 48. And the Hebrew Mem oft ſignifies in, as Exod. 25. 18. and Job 19. 26. Pſal. 72. 16.

48 Therefore ſhalt thou ſerve thine enemies, which the LORD ſhall ſend againſt thee, in hunger, and in thirſt, and in nakedneſs, and in want of all things, and he ſhall put a yoke of Iron o upon thy neck, until he have deſtroyed thee.

o Which thou canſt neither well bear, nor break. See Jer. 28. 13, 14.

49 * The LORD ſhall bring a nation againſt thee from far, from the end of the earth, as * ſwift as the eagle flieth p; a nation whoſe tongue thou ſhalt not † underſtand: *Jer. 5. 15 & 6. 22. Luk. 19. 43 *Je. 48. 40. & 49. 22. Lam. 4. 19. Hoſ. 8. 1. †Heb. hear

p Heb. as the Eagle flies, (i. e.) not only ſwiftly, as is expreſſed in our tranſlation, for which the Babylonian is noted and compared to an Eagle, Jer. 4. 13. Ezek. 17. 3. Dan. 7. 4. but alſo fiercely and greedily, as the Eagle to its prey; alſo ſtrongly and irreſiſtibly. Poſſibly this may be underſtood of the Romans, who did come from far, from the end of the earth, more truly and literally than the Chaldeans, whoſe Country was not far from Judea, and this may allude to the Eagle, which was in their Enſigns.

† Heb. ſtrong of face. 50 A nation † of fierce countenance p, which ſhall not regard the perſon of the old, nor ſhew favour to the young:

p Heb. ſtrong of face or countenance, i. e. bold and impudent, hardy and undaunted, cruel and uncompaſſionate and inflexible, ſparing no Age nor Sex, &c.

51 And he ſhall eat the fruit of thy cattel, and the fruit of thy land, until thou be deſtroyed; which alſo ſhall not leave thee either corn, wine, or oil, or the increaſe of thy kine, or flocks of thy ſheep, until he have deſtroyed thee.

52 And he ſhall beſiege thee in all thy gates, until thy high and fenced walls come down, wherein thou truſtedſt, throughout all thy land, and he ſhall beſiege thee in all thy gates, throughout all thy land which the LORD thy God hath given thee.

*Lev. 26. 29. 2King 6. 28, 29. Jer. 19. 9. Lam. 2. 20 & 4. 10. †Heb belly. 53 And * thou ſhalt eat the fruit of thine own † body, the fleſh of thy ſons, and of thy daughters (which the LORD thy God hath given thee) in the ſiege, and in the ſtraitneſs wherewith thine enemies ſhall diſtreſs thee.

* ch. 13. 6. 54 So that the man that is tender among you, and very delicate, his eye ſhall be evil q toward his brother, and toward * the wife of his boſom, and toward the remnant of his children, which he ſhall leave:

q (i. e.) Unkind, envious, covetous to monopolize theſe dainty bits to themſelves, and grudging that their deareſt relations ſhould have any part of them.

55 So that he will not give to any of them, of the fleſh of his children whom he ſhall eat: becauſe he hath nothing left him in the ſiege, and in the ſtraitneſs wherewith thine enemies ſhall diſtreſs thee in all thy gates.

56 The tender and delicate woman among you, which would not adventure to ſet the ſole of her foot upon the ground, for delicateneſs and tenderneſs, her eye ſhall be evil r towards the husband of her boſom, and towards her ſon, and towards her daughter, r (i. e.) Unmerciful: ſhe will deſire or deſign their deſtruction for her food.

† Heb. after-birth. 57 And towards her † young one s, that cometh out from between her feet, and towards her children which ſhe ſhall bear t: for ſhe ſhall eat them for want of all things ſecretly in the ſiege, and ſtraitneſs wherewith thine enemy ſhall diſtreſs thee in thy gates.

s Heb. after-birth: that which was loathſome to behold, will now be pleaſant to eat; and together with it ſhe ſhall eat the child which was wrapt up in it, and may be included in this expreſſion. t Or, which ſhe ſhall have born, i. e. her more grown children.

58 If thou wilt not obſerve to do all the words of this law, that are written in this book, that thou mayeſt fear this glorious and fearful Name u, THE LORD THY GOD:

*ch. 7. 15. 60 Moreover, he will bring upon thee all the * diſeaſes of Egypt; which thou waſt afraid of: and they ſhall cleave unto thee.

61 Alſo every ſickneſs, and every plague which is not written in the book of this law, them will the LORD † bring upon thee, until thou be deſtroyed.

†He. cauſe to aſcend. *ch. 4. 27. *ch. 10. 22. 62 And ye * ſhall be left few in number, whereas ye were * as the ſtars of heaven for multitude: becauſe thou wouldeſt not obey the voice of the LORD thy God.

x His juſt indignation againſt you will be ſo great, that it will be a pleaſure to him to take vengeance on you. For though he doth not delight in the death of a Sinner in it ſelf, yet he doth doubtleſs delight in the glorifying of his Juſtice upon incorrigible ſinners, ſeeing the exerciſe of all his attributes muſt needs pleaſe him, elſe he were not perfectly happy. y Which was no ordinary land, but a moſt pleaſant land, a land of promiſe, a token of God's favour, and a pledge of their eternal inheritance, which was a great aggravation of their loſs of it.

66 And thy life ſhall hang in doubt before thee a, and thou ſhalt fear day and night: and ſhalt have none aſſurance of thy life.

a Either becauſe thou art in the hands of thy enemies that have power, and want not will, to deſtroy thee: or becauſe of the terrors of thy own mind, and the guilt of thy conſcience making thee to fear, even where no great cauſe to fear is.

*Job 7. 4. 67 * In the morning thou ſhalt ſay, Would God it were even: and at even thou ſhalt ſay, Would God it were morning: for the fear of thine heart wherewith thou ſhalt fear, and for the ſight of thine eyes, which thou ſhalt ſee.

b Whence he hath now ſo gloriouſly delivered thee, as repenting of all his kindneſs to thee, and reſolved to undo what he hath done for thee. And the remembrance of what they endured in Egypt could not but make the thoughts of returning thither again very terrible to them. c Which was literally fulfilled under Titus, when multitudes of them were carried thither in ſhips, and ſold there for Slaves, as Joſephus relates. And this expreſſion ſeems to mind them of that time when they went over the Sea without ſhips, God miraculouſly drying up the Sea before them, &c. which now they would have occaſion ſadly to remember. d Or, to the way: the Hebrew Beth here ſignifying to, as it doth, Gen. 11. 4. Levit. 16. 22. Pſal. 19. 5. and 91. 12. Iſa. 9. 8. And the way ſeems not to be meant here of the uſual road-way from Canaan to Egypt, which was wholly by land, but to be put for the end of the way or journey, even the land of Egypt, for to this, and not to the road-way between Canaan and Egypt, agree the words here following, whereof I ſpake unto thee, thou ſhalt ſee it, (i. e. Egypt) no more again. And ſo that way is put for to that land in a place parallel to this, where the very ſame words are uſed, Deut. 17. 16. to which this place palpably alludes. e Either becauſe the number of you captives ſhall be ſo great, that the market ſhall be glutted with you; or becauſe you ſhall be ſo loathſome and contemptible that men ſhall not be willing to have you for Slaves. And this was the condition of the Jews after the deſtruction of Jeruſalem, as Joſephus the Jew hath left upon record.

CHAP. XXIX.

The manifold Works and Mercies of God a Motive to Obedience, 1—9
Moſes ſolemnly engageth them to keep covenant with God, 10—17
Unbelief, careleſs Contempt, and breach of Covenant, ſhall be ſeverely puniſhed, 18—28. The end and uſe of the revealed Will of God.

*ch. 6. 1 THeſe are the words of the covenant a, which the LORD commanded Moſes to make with the children of Iſrael in the land of Moab, * beſide the covenant b which he made with them in Horeb.

a Theſe are the terms or conditions upon which God hath made, i. e. renewed Covenant with you. b (i. e.) That entring into or ſtriking of Covenant. The Covenant was but one in ſubſtance, but various in the time and manner of its diſpenſation.

*Ex. 19. 4. 2 And Moſes called unto all Iſrael, and ſaid unto them, * Ye have ſeen all that the LORD did before your eyes in the land of Egypt, unto Pharaoh, and unto all his ſervants, and unto all his land:

* chap. 4. 34. & 7. 19. 3 * The great temptations which thine eyes have ſeen, the ſigns, and thoſe great miracles:

4 Yet the LORD hath not given you an heart to perceive, and eyes to ſee, and ears to hear, unto this day c:

c This verſe comes in by way of correction or exception to the foregoing clauſe in this manner, I ſaid indeed, ye have ſeen, &c. v. 2. and thine eyes have ſeen, &c. but I muſt recall my words, for in truth you have not ſeen them; in ſeeing you have not ſeen, and perceiving you have not perceived them: you have perceived and ſeen them with the eyes of your body, but not with your minds and hearts; you have not ſeen them to any purpoſe: you have not yet learned rightly to underſtand the word and works of God, ſo as to know them for your good, and to make a right uſe of them, and to comply with them: which he expreſſeth thus, the Lord hath not given you, &c. not to excuſe their wickedneſs, but partly to direct them what courſe to take, and to whom they muſt have recourſe for the amending of their former errours, and for a good underſtanding and improvement of God's works; and partly to aggravate their ſin, and to intimate that although the hearing ear, and the ſeeing eye, and the underſtanding heart, be the workmanſhip of God, Prov. 20. 12. and the effects of his ſpecial grace, Deut. 30. 6. Jer. 31. 33. and 32. 39. &c. yet their want of this grace was their own fault, and the juſt puniſhment of their former ſins; their preſent caſe being like theirs in Iſaia's time, who firſt ſhut their eyes and ears that they might not ſee and hear, and would not underſtand, and then by the tremendous but righteous Judgment of God, had their hearts made fat, and their eyes and ears cloſed that they ſhould not be able to ſee and hear, and underſtand, as is manifeſt from the hiſtory of their carriage in the wilderneſs.

5 And I have led you forty years in the wilderneſs, your cloths are not waxen old upon you, and thy ſhoe is not waxen old upon thy foot d.

d So far, that it was neceſſary for you to throw them away, and to get new ones. See on Deut. 8. 4.

6 Ye have not eaten bread e, neither have ye drunk wine or ſtrong drink f, that ye might know that I am the LORD your God g.

e (i.e.) Common bread purchaſed by your own money, or made by your own hands, but Heavenly and Angelical bread, Deut. 8. 3. Pſal. 78. 24, 25. You have ſubſiſted without bread the ſtaff of life. f But only water out of the rock. g The Lord Omnipotent and All-ſufficient for your proviſion without the help of any Creatures, and your God in covenant with you who hath a true affection to you, and fatherly care of you, even when ordinary means fail.

* Num. 21. 24, 33. chap. 2. 32. and 3. 1.

7 And when ye came unto this place, * Sihon the King of Heſhbon, and Og the King of Baſhan came out againſt us unto battel, and we ſmote them,

* Num. 32. 33.

8 And we took their land, and * gave it for an inheritance unto the Reubenite, and to the Gadite, and to the half tribe of Manaſſeh.

* chap. 4. 6. Joſh. 1. 7. 1 King. 2. 3.

† Heb. deal prudently. So Gr.

9 * Keep therefore the words of this covenant, and do them, that ye may † proſper in all that ye do.

10 Ye ſtand this day all of you before the LORD your God h: your captains of your tribes, your elders, and your officers, with all the men of Iſrael.

h In his preſence, who ſees your hearts and carriages, and before his Tabernacle, where it is probable they were now called together, and aſſembled for this work. See v. 2.

11 Your little ones, your wives, and thy ſtranger i that is in thy camp, from the hewer of thy wood, unto the drawer of thy water k:

i Such ſtrangers as had embraced their Religion. k All ſorts of perſons, yea, even the meaneſt of them, ſuch as theſe were, Joſ. 9. 27. all ſorts and ranks of ſervants.

† Heb. paſs.

12 That thou ſhouldeſt † enter into covenant l with the LORD thy God, and into his oath l, which the LORD thy God maketh with thee this day:

l (i.e.) Into covennat or agreement confirmed by a ſolemn oath.

13 That he may eſtabliſh thee to day for a people unto himſelf, and that he may be unto thee a God, as he hath ſaid unto thee, and as he hath ſworn unto thy fathers, to Abraham, to Iſaac, and to Jacob.

14 Neither with you only do I make this covenant, and this oath:

* See Act. 2. 39. 1 Cor. 7. 14.

15 But with him that ſtandeth here with us this day, before the LORD our God, * and alſo with him that is not here with us this day m:

m (i.e.) With your proſperity. For ſo the covenant was made at firſt with Abraham and his ſeed, by which as God engaged himſelf to continue the bleſſing of Abraham upon his poſterity, ſo he alſo engaged them to the ſame duties and conditions which were required of Abraham. So it is even among men, where a King confers an eſtate upon a Subject and his Heirs for ever, upon ſome certain conditions, all his Heirs who enjoy that benefit, are obliged to the ſame conditions. But whatſoever becomes of mans right, God the Creatour and Soveraign Lord of all men and things hath an unqueſtionable right and power to oblige all perſons that are or ſhall be, to ſuch conditions as he pleaſeth, and eſpecially to ſuch conditions as are for their own benefit, which is the preſent caſe.

16 (For ye know how we have dwelt in the land of Egypt n, and how we came through the nations o which ye paſſed by.

n Where you have ſeen their Idolatries, and learned too much of them, as the Golden Calf ſhewed, and therefore need to renew your covenant with God; where alſo we were in dreadful bondage whence God alone hath delivered us, to whom therefore we are deeply obliged, and have all reaſon to renew our covenant with him. o (i.e.) With what hazards, if God had not appeared for us.

17 And ye have ſeen their abominations, and their † idols p, wood and ſtone, ſilver and gold, which were among them.)

p What ſorry tools they are, what ſenſeleſs and ridiculous deities; ſo that you have great reaſon to value your God, and to cleave to him in covenant, and to take heed of ſuch abominable Idolatries.

* Heb. 12. 15.

‖ Or, a poiſonful herb: Heb. roſh.

18 Leſt there ſhould be q among you, man or woman, or family, or tribe, whoſe heart turneth away r this day from the LORD our God, to go, and ſerve the gods of theſe nations: * leſt there ſhould be among you a root s that beareth ‖ gall and wormwood t:

q Or take heed or beware leſt there be. For it ſeems to be an Ellipſis, or defect of a verb which is uſual in Scripture, and which we have in a caſe paralel to this, Gen. 3. 22. And now we muſt take care leſt he put forth, &c. Or this particle, leſt, may be joined with v. 14, 15. to this purpoſe, I now renew the covenant with you, and with your poſterity, leſt any of you or yours ſhould be tempted to depart from God, &c. r (i.e.) Who turneth away from God to Idols not by conſtraint, but by choice, and the inclination of his own heart. By this phraſe he leads them to the ſpring of their ſin and ruine, even their own hearts, which he admoniſheth them hereby to look to above all things. s Either 1. An evil heart enclining you to ſuch curſed Idolatry, and bringing forth bitter fruits. Or, rather 2. Some ſecret and ſubtle Apoſtate who lurks and works like a root under ground, and ſliely conveys his poiſon to the infection of others; for both the foregoing and following words ſpeak of ſome particular perſon. t (i.e.) Which though for the preſent it may pleaſe your fancy, yet in the end, aſſure your ſelves, will produce bitter fruits, not only diſtaſteful to God, but alſo poiſonful and deſtructive to your ſelves.

† Heb. the drunken to the thirſty.

19 And it come to paſs when he u heareth the words of this curſe x, that he bleſs himſelf in his heart y, ſaying, I ſhall have peace z, though I walk in the ‖ imagination of mine heart a, to add † drunkenneſs to thirſt b:

* Ezek. 14. 7, 8.

20 * The LORD will not ſpare him, but then the anger of the LORD, and his jealouſie ſhall ſmoke c againſt that man, and all the curſes that are written in this book ſhall lie upon him: and the LORD ſhall blot out his name from under heaven d.

c (i. e.) Shall, burn and break forth with flame and ſmoak as it were from a furnace. Compare Pſal. 18. 8. d (i. e.) Deſtroy his perſon and memory from amongſt men.

† Heb that is written.

21 And the LORD ſhall ſeparate him unto evil e, out of all the tribes of Iſrael, according to all the curſes of the covenant f, that † are written in this book of the law:

e (i.e.) Unto ſome peculiar and exemplary plague; he will make him a monument of his diſpleaſure to the whole land. f He intimates that the covenant of grace, which God made with them, hath not only bleſſings belonging to it, as this fooliſh perſon imagined, but curſes alſo to the tranſgreſſours of it.

† Heb. wherewith the LORD hath made it ſick.

g The words following, v. 24, 25, &c.

* Gen. 19. 24, 25.

23 And that the whole land thereof is brimſtone, and ſalt, and burning h, that it is not ſowen, nor beareth, nor any graſs groweth therein, * like the overthrow of Sodom and Gomorrah, Admah, and Zeboiim, which the LORD overthrew in his anger, and in his wrath:

h (i. e.) Is burnt up and made barren, as with brimſtone and ſalt. See Judg. 9. 45. Pſal. 107. 34. Jer. 17. 6. Ezek. 47. 11.

* 1 King. 9. 8. Jer. 22. 8.

24 Even all nations ſhall ſay, * Wherefore hath the LORD done thus unto this land? what meaneth the heat of this great anger?

25 Then men ſhall ſay, Becauſe they have forſaken the covenant of the LORD God of their fathers, which he made with them, when he brought them forth out of the land of Egypt.

‖ Or, who had not given unto them any portion. † Heb. divided.

26 For they went and ſerved other gods, and worſhipped them; gods whom they knew not, and ‖ whom he had not † given unto them i.

red to an Eagle, Jer. 4. 13. Ezek. 17. 3. Dan. 7. 4. but alſo fiercely and greedily, as the Eagle to its prey; alſo ſtrongly and irreſiſtibly. Poſſibly this may be underſtood of the Romans, who did come from far, from the end of the earth, more truly and literally than the Chaldeans, whoſe Country was not far from Judea, and this may allude to the Eagle, which was in their Enſigns.

And the remembrance of what they endured in Egypt could not but make the thoughts of returning thither again very terrible to them. c Which was literally fulfilled under Titus, when multitudes of them were carried thither in ſhips, and ſold there for Slaves, as Joſephus relates. And this expreſſion ſeems to mind them of that time when they went over the Sea without ſhips, God miraculouſly drying up the Sea before them, &c. which now they would have occaſion ſadly to remember. d Or, to the way: the Hebrew Beth here ſignifying to, as it doth, Gen. 11. 4. Levit. 16. 22. Pſal. 19. 5. and 91. 12. Iſa. 9. 8. And the way ſeems not to be meant here of the uſual road-way from Canaan to Egypt, which was wholly by land, but to be put for the end of the way or journey, even the land of Egypt, for to this, and not to the road-way between Canaan and Egypt, agree the words here following, whereof I ſpake unto thee, thou ſhalt ſee it, (i. e. Egypt) no more again. And ſo that way is put for to that land in a place parallel to this, where the very ſame words are uſed, Deut. 17. 16. to which this place palpably alludes. e Either becauſe the number of you captives ſhall be ſo great, that the market ſhall be glutted with you; or becauſe you ſhall be ſo loathſome and contemptible that men ſhall not be willing to have you for Slaves. And this was the condition of the Jews after the deſtruction of Jeruſalem, as Joſephus the Jew hath left upon record.

CHAP. XXIX.

The manifold Works and Mercies of God a Motive to Obedience, 1——9
Moſes ſolemnly engageth them to keep covenant with God, 10——17
Unbelief, careleſs Contempt, and breach of Covenant, ſhall be ſeverely puniſhed, 18——28. The end and uſe of the revealed Will of God.

1 THeſe are the words of the covenant a, which the LORD commanded Moſes to make with the children of Iſrael in the land of Moab, * beſide the covenant b which he made with them in Horeb. * ch. 6. 2, 3.

a Theſe are the terms or conditions upon which God hath made, i. e. renewed Covenant with you. b (i. e.) That entring into or ſtriking of Covenant. The Covenant was but one in ſubſtance, but various in the time and manner of its diſpenſation.

* Ex. 19. 4.

2 And Moſes called unto all Iſrael, and ſaid unto them, * Ye have ſeen all that the LORD did before your eyes in the land of Egypt, unto Pharaoh, and unto all his ſervants, and unto all his land:

* chap. 4. 34. & 7. 19.

3 * The great temptations which thine eyes have ſeen, the ſigns, and thoſe great miracles:

4 Yet the LORD hath not given you an heart to perceive, and eyes to ſee, and ears to hear, unto this day c:

c This verſe comes in by way of correction or exception to the foregoing clauſe in this manner, I ſaid indeed, ye have ſeen, &c. v. 2. and thine eyes have ſeen, &c. but I muſt recall my words, for in truth you have not ſeen them; in ſeeing you have not ſeen, and perceiving you have not perceived them: you have perceived and ſeen them with the eyes of your body, but not with your minds and hearts; you have not ſeen them to any purpoſe: you have not yet learned rightly to underſtand the word and works of God, ſo as to know them for your good, and to make a right uſe of them, and to comply with them: which he expreſſeth thus, the Lord hath not given you, &c. not to excuſe their wickedneſs, but partly to direct them what courſe to take, and to whom they muſt have recourſe for the amending of their former errours, and for a good underſtanding and improvement of God's works; and partly to aggravate their ſin, and to intimate that although the hearing ear, and the ſeeing eye, and the underſtanding heart, be the workmanſhip of God, Prov. 20. 12. and the effects of his ſpecial grace, Deut. 30. 6. Jer. 31. 33. and 32. 39. &c. yet their want of this grace was their own fault, and the juſt puniſhment of their former ſins; their preſent caſe being like theirs in Iſaia's time, who firſt ſhut their eyes and ears that they might not ſee and hear, and would not underſtand, and then by the tremendous but righteous Judgment of God, had their hearts made fat, and their eyes and ears cloſed that they ſhould not be able to ſee and hear, and underſtand, as is manifeſt from the hiſtory of their carriage in the wilderneſs.

5 And I have led you forty years in the wilderneſs, your cloths are not waxen old upon you, and thy ſhoe is not waxen old upon thy foot d.

d So far, that it was neceſſary for you to throw them away, and to get new ones. See on Deut. 8. 4.

6 Ye have not eaten bread e, neither have ye drunk wine or ſtrong drink f, that ye might know that I am the LORD your God g.

e (i.e.) Common bread purchaſed by your own money, or made by your own hands, but Heavenly and Angelical bread, Deut. 8. 3. Pſal. 78. 24, 25. You have ſubſiſted without bread the ſtaff of life. f But only water out of the rock. g The Lord Omnipotent and All-ſufficient for your proviſion without the help of any Creatures, and your God in covenant with you who hath a true affection to you, and fatherly care of you, even when ordinary means fail.

* Num. 21. 24, 33. chap. 2. 32. and 3. 1.

8 And we took their land, and * gave it for an inheritance unto the Reubenite, and to the Gadite, and to the half tribe of Manaſſeh.

9 * Keep therefore the words of this covenant, and do them, that ye may † proſper in all that ye do.

10 Ye ſtand this day all of you before the LORD your God h: your captains of your tribes, your elders, and your officers, with all the men of Iſrael.

h In his preſence, who ſees your hearts and carriages, and before his Tabernacle, where it is probable they were now called together, and aſſembled for this work. See v. 2.

11 Your little ones, your wives, and thy ſtranger i that is in thy camp, from the hewer of thy wood, unto the drawer of thy water k:

i Such ſtrangers as had embraced their Religion. k All ſorts of perſons, yea, even the meaneſt of them, ſuch as theſe were, Joſ. 9. 27. all ſorts and ranks of ſervants.

l (i. e.) Into covennat or agreement confirmed by a ſolemn oath.

13 That he may eſtabliſh thee to day for a people unto himſelf, and that he may be unto thee a God, as he hath ſaid unto thee, and as he hath ſworn unto thy fathers, to Abraham, to Iſaac, and to Jacob.

14 Neither with you only do I make this covenant, and this oath:

* See Act. 2. 39. 1 Cor. 7. 14.

15 But with him that ſtandeth here with us this day, before the LORD our God, * and alſo with him that is not here with us this day m:

m (i.e.) With your proſperity. For ſo the covenant was made at firſt with Abraham and his ſeed, by which as God engaged himſelf to continue the bleſſing of Abraham upon his poſterity, ſo he alſo engaged them to the ſame duties and conditions which were required of Abraham. So it is even among men, where a King confers an eſtate upon a Subject and his Heirs for ever, upon ſome certain conditions, all his Heirs who enjoy that benefit, are obliged to the ſame conditions. But whatſoever becomes of mans right, God the Creatour and Soveraign Lord of all men and things hath an unqueſtionable right and power to oblige all perſons that are or ſhall be, to ſuch conditions as he pleaſeth, and eſpecially to ſuch conditions as are for their own benefit, which is the preſent caſe.

16 (For ye know how we have dwelt in the land of Egypt n, and how we came through the nations o which ye paſſed by.

n Where you have ſeen their Idolatries, and learned too much of them, as the Golden Calf ſhewed, and therefore need to renew your covenant with God; where alſo we were in dreadful bondage whence God alone hath delivered us, to whom therefore we are deeply obliged, and have all reaſon to renew our covenant with him. o (i.e.) With what hazards, if God had not appeared for us.

17 And ye have ſeen their abominations, and their † idols p, wood and ſtone, ſilver and gold, which were among them.)

p What ſorry tools they are, what ſenſeleſs and ridiculous deities; ſo that you have great reaſon to value your God, and to cleave to him in covenant, and to take heed of ſuch abominable Idolatries.

* Heb. 12. 15.

18 Leſt there ſhould be q among you, man or woman, or family, or tribe, whoſe heart turneth away r this day from the LORD our God, to go, and ſerve the gods of theſe nations: * leſt there ſhould be among you a root s that beareth ‖ gall and wormwood t:

q Or take heed or beware leſt there be. For it ſeems to be an Ellipſis, or defect of a verb which is uſual in Scripture, and which we have in a caſe paralel to this, Gen. 3. 22. And now we muſt take care leſt he put forth, &c. Or this particle, leſt, may be joined with v. 14, 15. to this purpoſe, I now renew the covenant with you, and with your poſterity, leſt any of you or yours ſhould be tempted to depart from God, &c. r (i. e.) Who turneth away from God to Idols not by conſtraint, but by choice, and the inclination of his own heart. By this phraſe he leads them to the ſpring of their ſin and ruine, even their own hearts, which he admoniſheth them hereby to look to above all things. s Either 1. An evil heart enclining you to ſuch curſed Idolatry, and bringing forth bitter fruits. Or, rather 2. Some ſecret and ſubtle Apoſtate who lurks and works like a root under ground, and ſliely conveys his poiſon to the infection of others; for both the foregoing and following words ſpeak of ſome particular perſon. t (i. e.) Which though for the preſent it may pleaſe your fancy, yet in the end, aſſure your ſelves, will produce bitter fruits, not only diſtaſteful to God, but alſo poiſonful and deſtructive to your ſelves.

19 And it come to paſs when he u heareth the words of this curſe x, that he bleſs himſelf in his heart y, ſaying, I ſhall have peace z, though I walk in the ‖ imagination of mine heart a, to add † drunkenneſs to thirſt b:

* Ezek. 14. 7, 8.

20 * The LORD will not ſpare him, but then the anger of the LORD, and his jealouſie ſhall ſmoke c againſt that man, and all the curſes that are written in this book ſhall lie upon him: and the LORD ſhall blot out his name from under heaven d.

c (i. e.) Shall, burn and break forth with flame and ſmoak as it were from a furnace. Compare Pſal. 18. 8. d (i. e.) Deſtroy his perſon and memory from amongſt men.

† Heb that is written.

21 And the LORD ſhall ſeparate him unto evil e, out of all the tribes of Iſrael, according to all the curſes of the covenant f, that † are written in this book of the law:

e (i.e.) Unto ſome peculiar and exemplary plague; he will make him a monument of his diſpleaſure to the whole land. f He intimates that the covenant of grace, which God made with them, hath not only bleſſings belonging to it, as this fooliſh perſon imagined, but curſes alſo to the tranſgreſſours of it.

† Heb. wherewith the LORD hath made it ſick.

g The words following, v. 24, 25, &c.

* Gen. 19. 24, 25.

23 And that the whole land thereof is brimſtone, and ſalt, and burning h, that it is not ſowen, nor beareth, nor any graſs groweth therein, * like the overthrow of Sodom and Gomorrah, Admah, and Zeboiim, which the LORD overthrew in his anger, and in his wrath:

h (i. e.) Is burnt up and made barren, as with brimſtone and ſalt. See Judg. 9. 45. Pſal. 107. 34. Jer. 17. 6. Ezek. 47. 11.

* 1 King. 9. 8. Jer. 22. 8.

24 Even all nations ſhall ſay, * Wherefore hath the LORD done thus unto this land? what meaneth the heat of this great anger?

25 Then men ſhall ſay, Becauſe they have forſaken the covenant of the LORD God of their fathers, which he made with them, when he brought them forth out of the land of Egypt.

‖ Or, who had not given unto them any portion.

27 And the anger of the LORD was kindled againſt this land, to bring upon it all the curſes that are written in this book.

28 And the LORD rooted them out of their land in anger, and in wrath, and in great indignation, and caſt them into another land, as it is this day.

20 The ſecret things belong unto the LORD our God k: but thoſe things which are revealed, belong unto us, and to our children l for ever, that we may do all the words of this law.

k Having now mentioned the dreadful and amazing Judgments of God upon the whole land and people of Iſrael, and foreſeeing by the Spirit of prophecy the utter extirpation and deſtruction which would come upon them for their wickedneſs, he breaks out into this pathetical exclamation, either to bridle their curioſity, who hearing this, would be apt to enquire into the time and manner of ſo great an event; or to quiet his own mind, and ſatisfie the ſcruples of others, who perceiving God to deal ſo ſeverely with his own people, when in the mean time he ſuffered thoſe Nations which were guilty of groſſer Atheiſm and Idolatry, and Impiety than the generality of the Jewiſh people were, to live and proſper in the world, might thence take occaſion to deny or reproach his providence or queſtion the equity of his proceedings. To this he anſwers, that the ways and judgments of God, though never unjuſt, are oft times ſecret and hidden from us, and unſearchable by our ſhallow capacities, and are matter for our admiration, not for our enquiry. l But the things which are revealed by God and his word, theſe are the proper object of our enquiries and ſtudies, that thereby we may come to the knowledge of our duty, by the practice whereof we may be kept from ſuch terrible puniſhments and calamities as theſe now mentioned.

CHAP. XXX.

A Promiſe of Gracious Deliverance to the Jews upon their Repentance, in future times, 1—10. The Law of God manifeſt and juſt, 11—14. Life and Death ſet before them, 15—20.

*Lev. 26. 40.

1 * AND it ſhall come to paſs, when all theſe things are come upon thee, the bleſſing a and the curſe b, which I have ſet before thee c, and thou ſhalt call them to mind d among the nations whither the LORD thy God hath driven thee.

a When thou art obedient. b When thou becomeſt rebellious and Apoſtatical. c Heb. placed before thy face, i. e. propounded to thy conſideration and choice. d Or, bring them back to thy heart, (i. e.) deeply affect thy heart with the ſenſe of theſe things, to wit, of the bleſſings offered and given to them by Gods mercy, and the curſes brought upon themſelves by their ſins.

2 And ſhalt return unto the LORD thy God, and ſhall obey his voice, according to all that I command thee this day, thou and thy children, with all thine heart, and with all thy ſoul:

*Pſal. 126. 1. *Pſal. 147. 2.

3 * That then the LORD thy God will turn thy captivity e, and have compaſſion upon thee, and will return, and * gather thee f from all the nations whither the LORD thy GOD hath ſcatered thee.

e (i. e.) Bring back thy captives, as captivity is taken, Pſal. 14. 7. Eph 4. 8. f (i. e.) Thy children, either ſpiritually ſuch, as it is explained Joh. 11. 51, 52. or literally ſuch, as it is promiſed Rom. 11.

*Neh. 1. 9. *Jer. 32. 37

4 * If any of thine be driven out unto the utmoſt parts of heaven, from thence will the LORD thy God gather thee, and from thence will he fetch thee.

5 And the LORD thy God will bring thee into the land which thy fathers poſſeſſed, and thou ſhalt poſſeſs it, and he will do thee good, and multiply thee above thy fathers.

Ezek. 11. 19. & 39. 26.

6 And * the LORD thy God will circumciſe thine heart f, and the heart of thy ſeed, to love the LORD thy God with all thine heart, and with all thy ſoul, that thou mayeſt live.

f Or, For the Lord will circumciſe thine heart, i. e. will by his Word and Spirit change and purge thy heart from all thine Idolatry and Superſtition and Wickedneſs, and encline thy heart to love him, as it here follows. See Deut. 10. 16. And ſo this is produced to ſhew why and how thoſe great things ſhould be accompliſhed, God would firſt convert and ſanctifie them, the fruit whereof ſhould be this, that they ſhould return and obey Gods commandments, and v. 8 and then ſhould proſper in all things, v. 9. The Hebrew Vau is oft rendred for, and notes the reaſon of a thing, as 1 King. 1. 21. and 18. 3, 4. Pſal. 1. 3. and 5. 12. Iſa. 16. 2. and 64. 5. And this promiſe principally reſpects the times of the Goſpel, and the Grace which was to be then imparted to all Gods Iſrael by Chriſt, by whom alone this circumciſion is obtained. Col. 2. 11. Add ſo having fully deſcribed to them the Law of God, the rule of their obedience here, and in foregoing chapters, and conſidering their great inſtability in the performance of their obedience to it he now reaſonably adds a glorious Goſpel promiſe, and directs their faith to the Meſſias by whom alone they could expect or receive the eſtabliſhment of their hearts in the ways of God againſt Apoſtacy.

7 And the LORD thy God will put all theſe curſes upon thine enemies, and on them that hate thee, which perſecuted thee.

8 And thou ſhalt return, and obey the voice of the LORD, and do all his commandments which I command thee this day.

9 * And the LORD thy God will make thee plenteous in every work of thine hand, in the fruit of thy body, in the fruit of thy cattel, and in the fruit of thy land for good g, for the LORD will again rejoyce over thee for good h, as he rejoyced over thy fathers.

g Whereas thou didſt formerly receive and enjoy theſe mercies for thy hurt, through thy own wicked and fooliſh heart, when thou waſt full and fat, forgetting God, and kicking againſt him, Deut. 31. 20. and 32. 15. now thou ſhalt have them for thy good, thy heart ſhall be ſo changed by the grace of the Goſpel that thou ſhalt not now abuſe them, but imploy them to the more chearful and faithful ſervice of God the giver of them. h (i. e.) To do thee good; as he did rejoyce to deſtroy thee, Deut. 28 63.

10 If thou ſhalt hearken i unto the voice of the LORD thy God to keep his commandments and his ſtatutes which are written in this book of the law, and if thou turn unto the LORD thy God with all thine heart, and with all thy ſoul.

i This caution and condition is added to warn them that they ſhould not receive the Grace of God in vain, and to teach them that the Grace of God doth not diſcharge mans obligation to his duty, nor excuſe him for the neglect of it, and that Converſion and Sanctification, though it be Gods work, yet it is mans duty.

*chap. 27. 8. Iſa. 45. 19.

11 For this commandment which I command thee this day k, it * is not hidden from thee l, neither is it far off m.

k He ſeems to ſpeak of the law, or of that great command of loving and obeying God, mentioned here v. 2, 6, 10, 16. which is the ſum of the law, of which yet he doth not here ſpeak ſimply, or as it is in its ſelf, but as it is mollified and accompanied with the Grace of the Goſpel, whereby God circumciſeth mens hearts to do this, as is expreſſed, v. 6. The meaning is, that although the practcie of Gods law ſtrictly and ſeverely be now far from us, and above our ſtrength, yet, conſidering the advantage of Goſpel Grace, whereby God enables us in ſome meaſure to our duty, and accepts of our ſincere endeavours in ſtead of perfection, and imputes Chriſts perfect righteouſneſs unto us that believe, now it is near and eaſie to us. And ſo this place well agrees with Rom. 10. 6, &c. where St. Paul expounds or applies this place to the righteouſneſs of faith; by which alone the Law is ſuch as it is here deſcribed. l Heb. Is not too wonderful for thee, as Deut. 17. 8. Prov, 30. 18. Jer. 32. 17. (i. e.) not too hard for thee to know and do. the Will of God, which is but darkly manifeſted to other nations: Act. 17. 27. is clearly and fully revealed unto thee: thou canſt not pretend ignorance or invincible difficulty. m i. e. Out of thy reach.

*Rom. 10. 6, &c.

12 * It is not in heaven n that thou ſhouldeſt ſay, Who ſhall go up for us to heaven, and bring it unto us that we may hear it, and do it?

n (i. e.) Shut up there, but it hath been thence delivered and publiſhed in thy hearing.

13 Neither is it beyond the ſea o, that thou ſhouldeſt ſay, Who ſhall go over the ſea for us, and bring it unto us that we may hear it, and do it?

o The knowledge of this commandment is not to be fetched from far diſtant places, to which divers of the wiſe Heathens travelled for their wiſdom, but it was brought to thy very doors and ears, and declared to thee in this Wilderneſs.

14 But the word is very nigh unto thee, in thy mouth p, and in thy heart q that thou mayeſt do it.

p Thou knoweſt it ſo well, that it is the matter of thy common diſcourſe; thou profeſſeſt thy knowledge and belief of it: or, in the mouths of thy Prieſts and Levites, who are daily preaching of it, and inſtructing thee in it. q (i. e.) In thy mind, (as the heart is very commonly taken,) to underſtand and believe it.

15 * See, I have ſet before thee this day, life and good r and death and evil.

r (i. e.) A good or an happy life. A figure called, Hendiaduo, Or, life, and all the bleſſings of life, as good is oft uſed, as Job. 7. 7. Pſal. 4. 9. and 128. 5. Eccleſ. 2. 24. and 4. 8. and 6. 3.

16 In that I command thee this day, to love the LORD thy God, to walk in his ways and to keep his commandments, and his ſtatutes, and his judgments, that thou mayeſt live and multiply; and the LORD thy God ſhall bleſs thee in the land, whither thou goeſt to poſſeſs it.

17 But if thine heart turn away, ſo that thou wilt not hear, but ſhalt be drawn away s, and worſhip other gods, and ſerve them:

s Either by thy own evil mind, or by the examples or perſwaſions of others.

18 I denounce unto you this day, that ye ſhall ſurely periſh, and that ye ſhall not prolong your days upon the land whither thou paſſeſt over Jordan to go to poſſeſs it.

19 * I call heaven and earth to record this day againſt you t, that I have ſet before you life and death, bleſſing and curſing: therefore chuſe life, that both thou and thy ſeed may live.

t Compare Deut. 4. 26. Joſ. 24. 27. Pſal. 50. 4. Iſa. 1. 2.

20 That thou mayeſt love the LORD thy God, and that thou mayeſt obey his voice, and that thou mayeſt cleave unto him: (for he is thy life u, and the length of thy dayes) that thou mayeſt dwell in the land which the LORD ſware unto thy fathers, to Abraham, to Iſaac, and to Jacob to give them.

Moſes declares to the People his Approaching death, and encourageth them, and Joſhuah 1—8. He delivereth the Law unto the Prieſts to read it every 7th year to the People 9—13. God putteth Joſhua into his Office; foretelleth to Moſes and him the future diſobedience and miſery of the People, enjoyneth Moſes a ſong to teſtify againſt the People, 14—23. Moſes chargeth the Levites to lay up the Book of the Law beſide the Ark of the Covenant 24—27. Aſſembleth all the People to hear his ſong 28.—30.

1 AND Moſes went and ſpake a theſe words unto all Iſrael.

a (i. e.) Proceeded or continued to ſpeak an uſual Hebrew phraſe. Or, went to the place where he had aſſembled the People that he might ſpeak to them.

2 And he ſaid unto them, * I am an hundred and twenty years old this day: I can no more go out and come in b: alſo the LORD hath ſaid unto me, * Thou ſhalt not go over this Jordan.

*chap. 34. 7.
*Num. 20. 12. chap. 3. 27.

b (i. e.) Perform the Office of a Leader or Governour, either becauſe I now find a decay of my mind and body: which ſeems not well to agree with Deut. 34. 7. or becauſe I foreſee the time of my death approaches.

3 The LORD thy God he will go over before thee, and he will deſtroy theſe nations from before thee, and thou ſhalt poſſeſs them: and Joſhua, he ſhall go over before thee, * as the LORD hath ſaid.

*Num 27. 21.

4 And the LORD ſhall do unto them, * as he did to Sihon, and to Og, kings of the Amorite, and unto the land of them c whom he deſtroyed.

*Num. 21. 24, 33.

c Which he gave to you to poſſeſs.

5 And * the LORD ſhall give them up before your face d, that ye may do unto them according unto all the commandments which I have commanded you.

d (i. e.) Into your power. See no Deut. 1. 8.

6 Be ſtrong and of a good courage, fear not, nor be afraid of them: for the LORD thy God he it is that doth go with thee, * he will not fail thee, nor forſake thee.

*Joſh. 1. 5. Heb. 13. 5.

7 And Moſes called unto Joſhua, and ſaid unto him in the ſight of all Iſrael, be ſtrong, and of a good courage; for thou muſt go with this people unto the land which the LORD hath ſworn unto their fathers to give them, and thou ſhalt cauſe them to inherit it.

8 And the LORD he it is that doth go before thee, he will be with thee, he will not fail thee, neither forſake thee: * fear not, neither be diſmayed.

*Joſh. 1. 9.

9 And Moſes wrote this law e, and delivered it unto the prieſts, the ſons of Levi f, which bare the ark g of the covenant of the LORD, and unto all the elders of Iſrael h.

e Largely ſo called, the whole Law or Doctrine delivered unto Moſes contained in theſe five books. f That they might keep it carefully and religiouſly, and bring it forth upon occaſion, and read it, and inſtruct the people out of it. g To wit, ſometimes in great ſolemnities, as Joſ. 3. 13, 17. and 6. 12. 1 King. 8. 3. though the Levites alſo might bear it, as appears from Numb. 3. and 4. and 10. 1 Chron. 15. 2. h Who were Aſſiſtants to the Prieſts, and overſeers to take care that the Law ſhould be kept, and read, and obſerved.

10 And Moſes commanded them, ſaying, At the end of every ſeven years, in the ſolemnity of the * year of releaſe i, in the feaſt of tabernacles,

i When they were freed from debts and troubles, and cares of wordly matters, and thereby fitter to attend upon God and his ſervice.

11 When all Iſrael is come to appear before the LORD thy God in the place which he ſhall chuſe, * thou ſhalt read k this law before all Iſrael in their hearing.

*Joſh. 8. 34, 35.

k Thy ſelf in part, for the Jews tell us that the King was in perſon to read ſome part of it, or at leaſt, thou ſhalt cauſe it to be read by the Prieſts or Levites, for he could not read it himſelf in the hearing of all Iſrael, but this was to be done by ſeveral perſons, and to the people met in ſeveral congregations. See Nehem. 8. 1, &c.

12 Gather the people together l, men, and women m, and children n and thy ſtranger o, that is within thy gates, that they may hear, and that they may learn p, and fear the LORD your God, and obſerve to do all the words of this Law.

l Not into one place. where all could not hear, but into divers Aſſemblies or Synagogues. m Who hereby are required to go to Jeruſalem at this ſolemnity, as they were permitted to do in other ſolemnities, when the Males only were enjoyned to go, Exod. 23. 17. n To wit, ſuch of them as could underſtand, as appears from Neh. 8. 2, 3. o (i. e.) The Proſelytes, though others alſo were admitted. p That they may then certainly and conſtantly do ſo, though they had alſo other opportunities to do ſo, as upon the Sabbath-days. Act. 15. 21. and other ſolemn feaſts, yea even in their private houſes.

13 And that their children which have not known any thing, may hear and learn to fear the LORD your God, as long as ye live in the land, whither ye go over Jordan to poſſeſs it.

14 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Behold, thy dayes approach that thou muſt die: call Joſhua and preſent your ſelves in the tabernacle q of the congregation, that * I may give him a charge r. And Moſes and Joſhua went and preſented themſelves in the Tabernacle of the congregation.

*Num. 27. 19.

q Either properly ſo called, for though the Prieſts only might ordinarily enter there, yet others might go in upon a call and command from God, which here they had: or in the court of the Tabernacle, at the door of which God ſtood in the cloudy pillar, v. 15. the Court coming here under the name of the Tabernacle, as elſewhere it comes under the name of the Temple. r Immediately from my ſelf for his greater encouragement, and to gain him more authority with the People.

15 And * the LORD appeared in the tabernacle, in a pillar of a cloud: and the pillar of the cloud, ſtood over the door of the tabernacle.

*Exod 33. 9.

16 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Behold, thou ſhalt † ſleep s with thy fathers, and this people will riſe up, and go a whoring t after the gods of the ſtrangers of the land u, whither they go to be amongſt them, and will forſake me, and break my covenant which I have made with them.

† Heb. lie down.

s The death of men, both good and bad, is oft called a ſleep, becauſe they ſhall certainly awake out of it by reſurrection. See Pſal. 76. 5. Dan. 12. 2. 1 Theſ. 4. 13, &c. 2 Pet. 3. 4. t God certainly foreſees all things to come, yea, even thoſe which depend upon the wills of men, or contingencies of the things, as this unqueſtionably did. u (i. e.) Of the Canaanites, who now are poſſeſſours, but ſhortly will be turned out of their poſſeſſions, and become as ſtrangers in their own land. This aggravates their folly to worſhip ſuch Gods as could neither preſerve their friends, nor annoy their enemies.

17 Then my anger ſhall be kindled againſt them in that day, and I will forſake them, and I will * hide my face x from them, and they ſhall be devoured, and many evils and troubles ſhall † befall them, ſo that they will ſay in that day, Are not theſe evils come upon us, becauſe our God is not amongſt us?

*Pſal. 104. 29.
† Heb. find them.

x (i. e.) Withdraw my favour and help.

18 And I will ſurely hide my face in that day, for all the evils which they ſhall have wrought, in that they are turned unto other gods.

19 Now therefore write ye this ſong y for you, and teach it the children of Iſrael; put it in their mouths z, that this ſong may be a witneſs for me a againſt the children of Iſrael.

y Which is contained Deut. 32. and is put into a ſong that it may be better learned, and more fixed in their minds and memories. z Cauſe them to learn it, and ſing it one to another, to oblige them to more circumſpection and watchfulneſs. a. Of my kindneſs in giving them ſo many bleſſings, of my patience in bearing ſo long with them, of my clemency in giving them ſuch fair and plain warnings, and my juſtice in puniſhing ſuch an unthankful perverſe and incorrigible people.

20 For when I ſhall have brought them into the land which I ſware unto their fathers, that floweth with milk and honey, and they ſhall have eaten and filled themſelves, and waxen fat; * then will they turn unto their gods, and ſerve them, and provoke me, and break my covenant.

*chap. 6. 10, &c. and 8. 10 and 32. 15.

21 And it ſhall come to paſs, when many evils and troubles are befallen them, that this ſong ſhall teſtify † againſt them as a witneſs: for it ſhall not be forgotten b out of the mouths of their ſeed: for I know their Imagination, which they † go about even now c, before I have brought them into the land which I ſware.

b This ſeems not to be a precept that they ſhould remember it, but a prediction, that God would give them ſad occaſion to remember it, by bringing upon them the dreadful calamities mentioned in it. c Either their inward Inclinations to Idolatry, which they do not check, as they ought, but rather entertain with delight, and ſome of them do not only cheriſh it in their hearts, but as far as they can and dare, ſecretly practiſe it, as may be gathered from Amos 5. 25. Act. 7. 43. or their ſecret purpoſes to allow themſelves therein, when they are ſettled in their land, which were clearly known to God, though it may be not fully evident to themſelves.

22 Moſes therefore wrote this ſong the ſame day, and taught it the children of Iſrael.

23 And he gave Joſhua the ſon of Nun a charge and ſaid, * Be ſtrong and of a good courage: for thou ſhalt bring the children of Iſrael into the land which I ſware unto them d: and I will be with thee.

*Joſh. 1. 6.

d This wickedneſs of theirs which I now foreſee and foretel ſhall not hinder me from bringing them into Canaan.

24 And it came to paſs, when Moſes had made an end of writing the words of this law in a book, until they were finiſhed;

25 That Moſes commanded the Levites e which bare the ark of the covenant of the LORD, ſaying, e (i. e.) The Prieſts, ver. 9. who alſo were Levites.

26 Take this book of the law, and put it in the ſide f of the ark of the covenant of the LORD your God, that it may be there for a witneſs againſt thee g:

f (i.e.) In the outſide, in a little cheſt fixed to it, for nothing but the Tables of ſtone were contained in the Ark, 1 King. 8. 9. Here it was kept for greater ſecurity and reverence. g (i. e. Againſt thy people, to whom he turns his ſpeech that they might be more affected with it.

27 For I know thy rebellion, and thy ſtiff-neck; behold, while I am yet alive with you this day, ye have been rebellious againſt the LORD, and how much more after my death?

28 Gather unto me all the elders of your tribes, and your officers, that I may ſpeak theſe words in their ears, and call heaven and earth to record againſt them.

29 For I know that after my death ye will utterly corrupt your ſelves, and turn aſide from the way which I have commanded you: and evil will befall you in the latter days, becauſe ye will do evil in the ſight of the LORD, to provoke him to anger through the work of your hands.

30 And Moſes ſpake in the ears of all the congregation of Iſrael the words of this ſong until they were ended.

a Either 1. Angels and men. Or 2. You lifeleſs and ſenſeleſs creatures, heaven and earth, which he calls upon partly to accuſe the ſtupidity of Iſrael, that were more dull of hearing than theſe: and partly as witneſſes of the truth of his ſayings and the juſtice of Gods proceedings againſt them.

* Iſa. 55. 10, 11. 1 Cor. 3. 6, 7, 8.

2 * My doctrine ſhall drop as the rain b, my ſpeech ſhall diſtil as the dew, as the ſmall rain upon the tender herb, and as the ſhowers upon the graſs.

b Look what effect rain and dew have upon herbs and graſs which they make freſh and fragrant and growing, the ſame effect I may juſtly expect and hope that my diſcourſe will have upon your hearts, i. e. to make them ſoft and pliable and fruitful. Or this may be a prayer, Let my doctrine drop, &c. O that it might do ſo, that my diſcourſe might not be loſt upon you, but be profitable to you; the future tenſe of the indicative mood being put for the imperative mood, as is uſual.

3 Becauſe I will publiſh the Name of the LORD c, aſcribe ye greatneſs unto our God d.

c (i. e.) His glorious excellencies and righteous and worthy actions, by which he hath made himſelf known as a man is known by his name, and by which it will appear both that there is no blame to be laid upon him whatſoever befalls you, and that it is groſs madneſs to forſake ſuch a God for dumb Idols and meer vanities. d As I am about to publiſh the great power and Majeſty and glory of God, ſo do you alſo own and acknowledge it, as you have reaſon to do; or do you attend to the words which God hath commanded me to ſpeak to you in his Name with that diligence, reverence and godly fear which the preſence of ſo great and glorious a Majeſty calls for.

e Or, a rock, as for the ſtability and everlaſtingneſs of his nature, and invincibleneſs of his power, ſo alſo for his fixedneſs and immutability in his counſels and promiſes and ways; ſo that if there ſhall be a ſad change in your affairs from an high and proſperous, to a calamitous and deplorable, condition, as there will be, remember that this proceeds from your ſelves and from the change of your ways and carriages towards God, and not from God, in whom there is no variableneſs nor ſhadow of change, Jam. 1. 17. f All his works and actions are unblameable, as being perfect wiſe and righteous, as it follows. g All his adminiſtrations in the world and particularly all his dealings with you are managed with judgment and juſtice. h Conſtant to his promiſes: you cannot accuſe him of any levity or unfaithfulneſs towards you to this day.

Their deſtruction is not from God, who is juſt and true, &c. as was now ſaid, but wholly and ſolely from themſelves, and from their own wickedneſs, as it here follows. l (i. e.) Their blemiſhes or ſins are not committed through ignorance or frailty or ſurprizal, as good men ſometimes ſin, but they proceed from deſign and deliberation, are accompanied with malice and wilfulneſs and contempt, and followed with obſtinacy, impenitency and incorrigibleneſs. So that they carry themſelves not like my children and people as they ſeem to be and profeſs to be, but like mine enemies. m Not only ſome few of them but the whole body or generation of them are perverſe, (i. e.) froward and untractable, and crooked, (i. e.) irregular and diſorderly, not agreeing with the ſtraight and righteous nature of God and of his law. Compare 1 Cor. 10. 20. The Gentiles pretended to worſhip God in thoſe Idols, and the Devils which inſpired them deluded the nations with falſe pretences that they were a ſort of lower Gods. Moſes therefore takes off this mask, and ſhews the Iſraelites that theſe pretended Gods were really Devils, thoſe great enemies of mankind, and therefore that it was the height of madneſs to honour or worſhip them. u This he ſaith, either becauſe though at firſt they joined God and Idols together in worſhip, yet at laſt they quite forſook God and adhered to Idols only: or becauſe God utterly rejected thoſe ſacrifices which they offered to him together with Idols, and took them for no ſacrifices. See 1 Cor. 10. 21. x Or, who never knew them, i. e. never ſhewed any kindneſs to them, or did them any good: for ſo words of knowledge are oft uſed, as Pſal. 1. 6. Hoſ. 13. 5. y Not ſimply or abſolutely, for ſome of theſe Gods had been worſhipped for many generations and had a fair pretence of long antiquity, but comparatively to the true God, who is the antient of days, Dan. 7. 9. and who was worſhipped from the beginning of the world. To this original and firſt antiquity Moſes recalls them; as alſo our Saviour doth recall the Jews to the firſt inſtitution, Mat. 19. 8. And therefore we may ſafely follow both their patterns in deſpiſing all pretences of antiquity which are contrary to Gods firſt inſtitutions contained (as all confeſs) in the holy Scriptures. z (i. e.) Served not, worſhipped not, but juſtly deſpiſed and abhorred them.

f (i. e.) With the Gentile or Heatheniſh nations, who are none of my people, who ſcarce deſerve the name of a people, as being without yoke, without the knowledge and fear of God which is the foundation of all true policy and government, and without righteous and neceſſary laws; and many of them are deſtitute of all government and laws and order, barbarous and rude and ſavage and brutiſh in their manners. And yet theſe people I will prefer before you, and take in your ſtead, receive them and reject you; which, when it came to paſs how deſperately it provoked the Jews to jealouſie, may be gathered from Mat. 21. 43, &c. Act. 11. 2, 3. and 22. 21, 22, 23. 1 Theſ. 2. 15, 16. g So the Gentiles were both in the opinion of the Jews, and in truth and reality, notwithſtanding all their pretences to wiſdom, Rom. 1. 22. there being nothing more fooliſh or brutiſh than the worſhip of Idols. 30 How ſhould * one chaſe a thouſand t, and two put ten thouſand to flight, except their Rock u * had ſold them x, and the LORD had ſhut them up y?

t Whence ſhould this miraculous change come, that whereas God had promiſed that five Iſraelites ſhould chaſe an hundred of their enemies, &c. Levit. 26. 8. now on the contrary one enemy ſhould chaſe a thouſand Iſraelites. u (i. e.) Their God, as before ver. 4. 18. who was their only refuge and defence. x To wit, for bondſlaves, had quitted his right and relation to them, and given them up into their enemies hands. y As it were in the net which their enemies had laid for them.

a Or, But; for theſe words ſeem to contain an anſwer to that queſtion, ver. 30. how ſhould, &c. To this he anſwers, 1. Negatively it was not from impotency in God, for if he had not forſaken and delivered them up, they could not have been ſo eaſily chaſed. 2. Poſitively, But, ſaith he, the true reaſon was this, their vine, &c. b The People of Iſrael, which I planted and brought up as a choice vine, are now degenerated and become like the vine of Sodom, their principles and practices are all corrupt and abominable. *Jer. 2. 22. Hoſ. 13. 12.

34 Is not this f * laid up in ſtore with me, and ſealed up among my treaſures?

f (i. e.) All their wickedneſs mentioned before. My long ſuffering towards them may make them and others think that I have forgotten their ſins, but I remember them punctually, they are ſealed up as in a bag, Job 14. 17. and as men ſeal up their treaſures, that nothing be loſt; and I ſhall bring them to their remembrance alſo.

*Rom. 12. 19. Heb. 10. 30. * 2 Pet. 2. 3.

35 To me belongeth * vengeance g and recompence; their feet ſhall ſlide h in due time i: for * the day of their calamity is at hand k, and the things that ſhall come upon them, make haſte.

g It is my office to puniſh ſin and therefore as I know their ſins ſo I will aſſuredly puniſh them. h They who now think they ſtand faſt and unmoveable, they ſhall fall into utter deſtruction. i Though not ſo ſoon as ſome may expect it, yet in that time when it ſhall be moſt proper and ſeaſonable, when they have filled up the meaſure of their ſins. This due time may be the ſame with that fulneſs of time, Gal. 4. 4. when Chriſt came into the world, whom this people by wicked hands crucified and ſlew, Act. 2. 23. for which wrath came upon them to the uttermoſt, 1 Theſ. 2. 15, 16. k Heb. is near. So the Scripture oft ſpeaks of thoſe things which are at many hundred years diſtance, to meet with objections ariſing in mens minds from the delays of them, and to ſignifie, that though they may be afar off as to our meaſures of time and expectation of the things, yet in Gods account they are near, they are as near as may be, as ſoon as ever the fit and the full time is come, they come inſtantly, they are nearer than ſinners would have them; when the meaſure of their ſins is once full, the judgment ſhall not be deferred.

l Or, Nevertheleſs, or, But yet, as the particle, chi, is ſometimes uſed, as Job 5. 7. Iſa. 9. 1. and 49. 25. Having now ſpoken of the dreadful calamity which would come upon his people, he now turns his diſcourſe into a more comfortable ſtrain, according to the uſual method of the Prophets, and here begins to ſhew that after God had humbled and ſorely chaſtiſed his People, yet at laſt he would have mercy upon them and turn their captivity, as it here follows. m (i. e.) Shall plead their cauſe, ſhall protect and deliver them, as that phraſe is oft uſed. See Pſal. 7. 8. and 10 18. Iſa. 1. 17. and 11. 4. Jer. 5. 28. and 22 16. n (i. e.) Repent of the evils he hath brought upon them, will change his courſe and carriage towards them. o None ſhut up, either in their ſtrong cities or caſtles or other hiding places, or in the enemies hands or priſons, whence there might be ſome hope or poſſibility of redemption; and none left, as the poor and contemptible people are neglected and uſually left by the Conquerours in the conquered land, as 2 King. 25. 12. but all ſeem to be cut off and the people quite deſtroyed. So this phraſe is uſed 1 King. 14. 10. and 21. 21. and 2 King. 9. 8. and 14. 26.

a Whom my ſword hath ſorely wounded, though not utterly killed. b (i. e.) When once I begin to revenge my ſelf and my people upon mine and their enemies, I will go on and make a full end. Or, with the head, or with the blood of the head, i. e. of the chief or chiefs, of the revenges of the enemy, i. e. of the revengeful or malicious enemy of God and of his people. The noun Subſtantive is oft put for the Adjective, as Gen. 17. 5. a multitude of nations, is put for many nations, Rom. 4. 17. and Gen. 45. 22. changes of raiment, i. e. changeable raiment; and Pſal. 99. 4. the Kings ſtrength, i. e. the ſtrong and mighty king. And ſo here, the revenges of the enemy, i. e. the revengeful enemy. And by the head may be here underſtood either the Devil, or the heads and rulers of thoſe Empires which were enemies to Gods people. Or, of the head ſhall be the revenges upon the enemies i. e. I will take vengeance upon all mine enemies, yea upon the head or heads of them.

c This tranſlation is juſtified by St. Paul, Rom. 15. 10 the particle with, being oft underſtood, as Lev. 26. 42 He calls upon the nations to rejoyce and bleſs God for his favours and eſpecially for the laſt wonderful deliverance which ſhall be given to the Jews when they ſhall be converted unto the Goſpel in the laſt days, which they have all reaſon to do not only from that duty of ſympathy which they owe to all people, and eſpecially to Gods ancient people, whereby they are to rejoyce with them that rejoyce, but becauſe of that ſingular advantage and happineſs which all nations will have at that time and upon that occaſion. Or, rejoyce, O ye Gentiles, his people i. e. O you Gentiles, who once were not Gods people, but now are his people, do you rejoyce for Gods mercies to the Jews his ancient people, bleſs God for their converſion and ſalvation.

CHAP. XXXIII.

The Majeſty of God, 1——5. Bleſſings propheſied of the 12 Tribes, 6——25. The Excellency of Iſrael, 26——29.

1 AND this is the bleſſing, wherewith Moſes the man of God bleſſed a the children of Iſrael b before his death.

a He is ſaid to bleſs them miniſterially, partly by praying to God with faith for his bleſſing upon them; partly by foretelling the bleſſings which God would confer upon them: for the Prophets are oft ſaid to do what they foretel ſhould be done, as Gen. 49. 7. Jer. 1. 10. Ezek. 43. 3. Hoſ. 6. 5. And Moſes calls himſelf here the man of God, i. e. the ſervant or prophet or miniſter of God, as this phraſe ſignifies, 1 Sam. 9. 6, 7. 1 Tim. 6. 11. to acquaint them that the following prophecies were not his own inventions, but divine inſpirations. b (i. e.) The ſeveral Tribes: only Simeon is omitted, either 1. in deteſtation of their parent Simeon his bloody and wicked carriage, for which Jacob alſo gives that Tribe a curſe rather than a bleſſing, in Gen. 49. But as for Levi, who is joyned with him in that cenſure and curſe, Gen. 49. 5, 6, 7. he is here ſeparated from him and exempted from that curſe and bleſſed with an eminent bleſſing for a ſingular and valuable reaſon expreſſed here v. 8, 9. whereas Simeons Tribe had been ſo far from expiating their fathers crime that they added new ones, their Prince being guilty of another notorious crime, Numb. 25. 6, 14. and his Tribe too much concurring with him in ſuch actions, as interpreters gather from the great diminution of the numbers of that Tribe, which were 59300 in Num. 1. 23. and but 22200 in Num. 26. 14. which was near 40 years after. Or 2. becauſe that Tribe had no diſtinct Inheritance, but was to have his portion in the Tribe of Judah, as he had Joſ. 19. 1. and therefore he muſt needs partake with them in their bleſſings.

2 And he ſaid, The LORD came c from Sinai d, and roſe up e from Seir f unto them: he ſhined forth from mount Paran g, and he came with † ten thouſands of Saints h: from his right hand i went † a fiery law k for them.

Or, to Sinai, the particle, mem, oft ſignifying, to, as is evident by comparing Iſa. 59. 20. with Rom. 11. 26. 1 King, 8, 30. with 2 Chron. 6. 21. and 2 Sam. 6. 2. with 1 Chron. 13. 6. Or, in Sinai, mem being put for beth, in, as Exod. 25. 18. Deut. 15. 1. Job 19. 26. Pſal. 68. 29. and 72. 16. e He appeared or ſhewed himſelf, as the Sun doth when it riſeth. f i. e. From the mountain or land of Edom, which is called Seir, Gen. 32. 3. and 36. 8. Deut. 2. 4. to which place the Iſraelites came Num. 20. 14, &c. and from thence God led them on towards the land of promiſe, and then glorioufly appeared for them in ſubduing Sihon and Og before them and giving their countries unto them. Which glorious work of Gods is particularly celebrated Judg. 5. 4. But becauſe the land of Seir or Edom is ſometimes taken more largely, and ſo reacheth even to the Red-ſea, as appears from 1 King. 9. 26. and therefore mount Sinai was near to it, and becauſe Paran, which here follows, was alſo near Sinai, as being the next ſtation into which they came from the wilderneſs of Sinai, Num. 10. 12. all this verſe may belong to Gods appearance in mount Sinai, where that glorious light which ſhone upon mount Sinai directly did in all probability ſcatter its beams into adjacent parts, ſuch as Seir and Paran were, and ſo this is only a Poetical and Prophetical variation of the phraſe and expreſſion of the ſame thing in divers words, and God coming or riſing or ſhining from or to or in Sinai and Seir and Paran note one and the ſame illuſtrious action of God appearing there with ten thouſands of his Saints or holy Angels, and there giving a fiery law to them, as it here follows. And this interpretation may receive ſome ſtrength from Hab. 3. 3. where this glorious march of God before his people is remembred, only Teman, which ſignifies the South is put for Seir, which is here, poſſibly to ſignify, that that Seir which is here mentioned was to be underſtood of the Southern part of the country of Seir or Edom, which was that part adjoyning to the Red-ſea. Others refer this of Seir to the Brazen Serpent, that eminent type of Chriſt, which was erected in this place. g A place where God eminently manifeſted his preſence and goodneſs both in giving the people fleſh which they deſired, and in appointing the 70 Elders and pouring forth his Spirit upon them, Num. 11. Though the Expoſition mentioned in the foregoing branch may ſeem more probable. h (i. e.) With a great company of holy Angels, Pſal. 68. 17. Dan. 7. 10. which attended upon him in this great and glorious work of giving the law, as may be gathered from Act. 7. 53. Gal. 3. 19. Heb 2. 2. and 12. 22. i Which both wrote the law and gave it to men. An Alluſion to men who ordinarily write and give gifts with their right, and not with their left, hand. k The law is called fiery, partly becauſe it is of a fiery nature, purging and ſearching and inflaming, for which reaſons Gods word is compared to fire, Jer. 23. 29. partly to ſignify that fiery wrath and curſe which it inflicteth upon ſinners for the violation of it, 2 Cor. 3. 7, 9. and principally becauſe it was delivered out of the midſt of the fire, Exod. 19. 16. 18. Deut. 4 11. and 5. 22, 23.

3 Yea, he loved the people l: all his ſaints m are in thy hand n, and they ſat down at thy feet o: every one ſhall receive of thy words p.

l (i. e.) The Tribes of Iſrael, which are called people, Gen. 48. 19. Judges 5. 14. Act. 4. 27. The ſenſe is, This law, though delivered with Fire and Smoak and Thunder, which might ſeem to portend nothing but hatred and terrour, yet in truth it was given to Iſrael in great love, as being the great mean of their temporal and eternal Salvation. And although God ſhews a general and common kindneſs to all men, yet he loved this people in a ſingular and peculiar manner. m All Gods Saints or holy ones, (i. e.) his People, as they are now called, the people of Iſrael who are all called holy, Exod. 19. 6. Num. 16. 3. Deut. 7. 6. Dan. 7. 25. and 8. 24. and 12. 7. becauſe they all profeſſed to be ſo, and were obliged to be ſo, and many of them were ſuch. Though ſome appropriate this to the true Saints in Iſrael, n Or, were in thy hand, i. e. under Gods care to protect and direct and govern them, as that phraſe ſignifies, Numb. 4. 28, 33. Joh. 10. 28, 29. Theſe words are ſpoken to God, and for the change of perſons, his and thy, that is moſt frequent in the Hebrew tongue. See Dan. 9. 4. This clauſe may farther note Gods kindneſs to Iſrael in upholding and preſerving them when the fiery law was delivered. which was done with ſo much dread and terrour, that not only the People trembled and were ready to ſink under it, Exod. 20. 18. 19. but even Moſes himſelf did exceedingly fear and quake, Heb. 12. 21. But in this fright God ſuſtained both Moſes and the people, in or by his hand, whereby he in a manner hid and covered them that no harm might come to them by this terrible apparition. o Like Scholars to receive inſtructions and councels from thee. He alludes either 1. To the manner of Diſciples among the Jews who uſed to ſit at their Maſters feet, Luk. 10. 39 Acts 22. 3. See alſo Gen. 49. 10. 2 King. 4 38. But it is doubtful whether this cuſtom was ſo ancient as Moſes. Or, 2. To the place where the people waited when the Law was delivered, which was at the foot of the mount.. p The people, eaſily underſtood from the foregoing words, did or will receive or ſubmit to thy inſtructions and commands. This may reſpect either 1. The peoples promiſe when they heard the Law, that they would hear and do all that was commanded, Deut. 5. 27. Or 2. The peoples duty to do ſo. 3. The peoples Priviledge that they were admitted to receive ſo great a Priviledge as the words and Laws of God were.

4 Moſes commanded us a law q, even the inheritance of the congregation of Jacob r.

q Moſes ſpeaks this of himſelf in the third perſon, which is very uſual in the Hebrew language. r The Law is called their Inheritance, partly becauſe the obligation of it was hereditary, paſſing from Parents to their children, and partly becauſe this was the beſt part of all their inheritance and poſſeſſions, the greateſt of all thoſe gifts and favours which God beſtowed upon them.

5 And he was * king s in Jeſurun t, when the heads of the people, and the tribes of Iſrael were gathered together u.

*See Gen. 36. 31. chap. 32. 15.

s Moſes was their King not in Title, but in reality, being under God, their ſupream and uncontroulable Governour, and Lawgiver. Though the word oft ſignifies only a Prince or chief Ruler, as Judg. 19. 1. Jer. 19. 3. and 46. 25. t i. e. In Iſrael, ſo called Deut. 32. 15. u When the Princes and People met together for the management of publick Affairs, Moſes was owned by them as their King and Lawgiver, and he directed and ruled them as their ſuperiour. This he ſaith to ſhew that the people approved and conſented to the Authority and Law of Moſes.

6 Let Reuben live, and not die, and let not his men be few x.

x Though Reuben deſerve to be cut off or greatly diminiſhed and obſcured, according to Jacobs prediction, Gen. 49. 4. Yet God will ſpare them and give them a name and portion among the Tribes of Iſrael, and bleſs them with increaſe of their numbers.

7 And this is the bleſſing of Judah: and he ſaid, Hear, LORD, the voice of Judah y, and bring him unto his people z: let his hands be ſufficient for him a, and be thou an help to him from his enemies b.

y i. e. God will hear his prayer for the accompliſhment of thoſe great things promiſed to that Tribe, Gen. 49. 8, 9, 10, 11. This implies the delays and difficulties Judah would meet with herein, which would drive him to his prayers, and that thoſe prayers ſhould be crowned with ſucceſs. z Either 1. When he ſhall go forth to Battle againſt God's and his enemies and ſhall fall fiercely upon them, as was foretold, Gen. 49. 8, 9. bring him back with honour and Victory and ſafety to his people, i. e. either to the reſt of his Tribe who were left at home when their brethren went to battle: or to his brethren the other Tribes of Iſrael. Or 2. When that Tribe ſhall go into captivity, let them not always be kept in captivity, as the ten Tribes are like to be, but do thou bring him again to his people. Or 3. As thou haſt promiſed the gathering of the people to him, even to the Shiloh, who was to come out of his loyns, Gen. 49. 10. ſo do thou bring him, i. e. the Meſſias who may be underſtood out of that parallel propheſie, and who may be here called Judah, becauſe he was come from him, as he is for that reaſon called David in divers places, to his people, i. e. to that people which thou haſt given to him. Or 4. Bring him in, to wit, as a Prince and Governour, as thou haſt promiſed Gen. 49. to his people, i. e. to thy people of Iſrael, now to be reckoned as his people, becauſe of their ſubjection to him. Or rather 5. Bring him in to his people, to that people which thou haſt promiſed and given to him, i. e. to that portion of Land which thou haſt alloted to him, ſettle him in his poſſeſſion: the people or inhabitants being here put for the Land inhabited by them, as the Iſraelites are told they ſhould poſſeſs the Nations or people of Canaan, Deut. 11. 23. and 12. 2. i. e. their Land as it is explained, Deut. 17. 14. and 30. 18. for the people they were not to poſſeſs but to diſpoſeſs and to root out. a This Tribe ſhall be ſo numerous and potent and valiant that it ſhall ſuffice to defend it ſelf without any aid either from forreign Nations or from other Tribes: as appeared when this Tribe alone was able to grapple with nine or ten of the other Tribes. b Thou wilt preſerve this Tribe in a ſpecial manner, ſo as his enemies ſhall not be able to ruine it, as they will do other Tribes, and that for the ſake of Meſſias who ſhall ſpring out of it.

8 And of Levi he ſaid, * Let thy Thummim and thy Urim be with thy holy one c, * whom thou didſt prove d at Maſſah e, and with whom thou didſt ſtrive f at the waters of Meribah;

*Exod. 28. 30.
*Num. 20. 13.

c The Thummim and the Urim, which are thine, O Lord by ſpecial inſtitution and conſecration, by which he underſtands the Ephod in which they were put, Exod. 28. 30 by a ſynecdoche, and the High Prieſthood, to which they were appropriated, by a Metonymie; and withal the gifts and graces ſignified by the Urim and Thummim, and neceſſary for the diſcharge of that high-office, ſhall be with thy holy one, i. e. with that Levite, that Prieſt, which thou haſt conſecrated to thy ſelf, and which is holy in a more peculiar manner than all the people were, i e. The Prieſt-hood ſhall be confined to and continued in Aarons Family. d This ſeems added by way of anticipation, although thou didſt try him, and rebuke him, and ſhut him out of Canaan for his miſcarriage about fetching water out of the rock, yet thou didſt not therefore take away the Prieſthood from him. e Not at that Maſſah mentioned Exod. 17. which is alſo called Meribah where neither Moſes nor Aaron are reproved, nor is Aaron ſo much as named, but at that other Meribah, Numb. 20. where this is expreſſed, which as it is called by one of the names of that place, Exod. 17. to wit, Meribah, Numb. 20. ſo it may be here called by its other name, Maſſah; and well may the ſame names be given to thoſe two places, becauſe the occaſion of them was in a great meaſure one and the ſame. Though this place may be otherwiſe rendred, whom thou didſt try in trying or with trial, i. e. whom thou didſt exactly and throughly try, ſuch repetitions being very frequent and elegant in the Hebrew language. And it may be obſerved, that in the Hebrew text here are two ſeveral prepoſitions, though the Engliſh tranſlation render them both by at, here, beth, in or with, and in the next branch, al, at or near or concerning the waters of Meribah; which may ſeem to intimate that the former is not the name of the place as the latter is: why elſe ſhould they not have been expreſſed by the ſame prepoſition? f Or, contend, i. e. whom thou didſt reprove and chaſtiſe, as that phraſe ſignifies, Iſa. 49. 25. Jer. 2. 9.

9 Who ſaid to his father, and unto his mother, I g (i.e.) I have no reſpect unto them, for ſo knowledge is oft uſed, as Job 9. 21. Prov. 12. 10, 11. 1 Theſſ. 5. 12. The ſenſe is, who followed God and his command fully, and executed the judgment enjoyned by God without any reſpect of perſons, Exod. 32. 26, 27. This ſeems better than to refer it, either to their not mourning for their next kindred, for that was allowed to all but the high Prieſt in caſe of the Death of Father or Mother, and that was only a ceremonial rite and no matter of great commendation; or to their impartiality in executing the judgments committed to them, Deuteronomy 17. 9. of which they had as yet given no conſiderable proof. h (i.e.) When the reſt broke their covenant with God by that foul ſin of Idolatry with the calf, that Tribe kept themſelves more pure from that infection, and adhered to God and his Worſhip and Service, as appears from Exod. 32. 26, 28. Compare Mal. 2. 6, 7.

Or, His Hoſt or Army, as the word is uſed Ezek. 37. 10. The Prieſts that attended upon Gods ſervice in the Tabernacle or Temple are oft compared to an hoſt or army in regard of their exquiſite order and courſes and conſtant watches there. See Numb. 4. 3. m (i. e.) All his holy adminiſtrations which he fitly calls the works of his hands, either more largely, the hand, one great inſtrument of action being put for all the reſt; Or becauſe a great part of the ſervice of the Levites and Prieſts was done by the labour of their hand and body, whereas the ſervice of Evangelical Miniſters is more ſpiritual and heavenly. n He prays thus earneſtly for them, partly becauſe he foreſaw they who were to teach and admoniſh, and reprove, and chaſtiſe others who would have many enemies, Jer. 15. 10. Amos 5. 10. and partly becauſe they were, under God, the great preſervers and upholders of Religion, and their Enemies were the Enemies of Religion it ſelf, as is evident from the hiſtory of the Old Teſtament.

12 And of Benjamin he ſaid, The beloved of the LORD o ſhall dwell in ſafety by him p, and the LORD q ſhall cover him all the day long r, and he ſhall dwell between his ſhoulders s.

o (i. e.) This beloved Tribe, ſo called partly in alluſion to their Father Benjamin who was the beloved of his Father Jacob: and partly becauſe of the love and kindneſs of God towards this Tribe which appeared both in this, that they dwelt in the fatteſt and beſt part of the Land, as Joſephus affirms, and eſpecially in the following priviledge. p (i.e). Shall have his lot nigh unto Gods Temple, which was both a ſingular comfort and ſafeguard to him. q Who may well be underſtood here becauſe he was expreſſed in the former member. r Shall protect that Tribe continually while they cleave to him. s The Lord ſhall dwell, i. e. his Temple ſhall be placed, between his ſhoulders, i. e. in his portion, or between his borders, or ſides as the word Shoulder is oft uſed, as Exod. 28. 7. Numb. 34. 11. Joſ. 15. 8, 10. Ezek. 47. 1, 2. And this was truly the ſituation of the Temple, on both ſides whereof was Benjamins portion, and though mount Sion was in the Tribe of Judah, yet mount Moriah, on which the Temple was built, was in the Tribe of Benjamin.

18 And of Zebulun he ſaid, Rejoyce l Zebulun, in thy going out m, and Iſſachar n in thy tents o.

l Thou ſhalt proſper and have cauſe of rejoycing. m Either 1. To war, as this phraſe is oft uſed, as Gen. 14. 18. which was in part verified, Judg. 5. 18. Or 2. To Sea, in way of Traffick, becauſe their portion lay near the Sea. Or both may be joined, and in both reſpects his courſe is oppoſite to that of Iſſachar, who was a lover of peace and paſturage. See Gen. 49. 14, 15. n Who is here joined with Zebulun, both becauſe they were brethren by Father and Mother too, and becauſe their poſſeſſions lay near together. o (i. e.) Thou ſhalt give thy ſelf to the management of Land and Cattle, living quietly in thy own poſſeſſions, diſliking the troubles of war and of merchandiſe. So the phraſe is uſed, Gen. 25. 27. Joſ. 22. 4. Judg. 5. 24. and 7. 8.

19 They p ſhall call the people q unto the mountain r, there they ſhall offer ſacrifices of righteouſneſs s: for they ſhall ſuck of the abundance of the ſea t, and of treaſures hid in the ſand u.

p Either 1. Zebulum and Iſſachar. Or rather 2. Zebulun only, as the following matter ſhews, and it was Zebulun that Moſes takes more ſpecial notice of ver. 18. bringing in Iſſachar only by the by, in conjunction with him, or in oppoſition to him. And ſo having diſpatched Iſſachar in two words, he returns to Zebulun, a more active Tribe. q (i. e.) The Gentiles, either thoſe of Galilee, which was called Galilee of the Gentiles, who were their Neighbours; or people of other nations, with whom they had commerce, which they endeavoured to improve in perſwading them to the true God and his Worſhip and Service. r (i. e.) To the Temple, which Moſes knew was to be ſeated upon a mountain. s (i. e.) Such as God requires and Righteouſneſs obligeth them to offer. Their trafficking abroad with Heathen nations ſhall not make them forget or neglect their duty at home, nor ſhall their diſtance from the place of ſacrifice hinder them from coming to it to diſcharge that duty. t They ſhall grow rich by the traffick of the ſea, and their riches ſhall not make them the worſe as they do others, but they ſhall conſecrate themſelves and their riches to the ſervice of God. u Such precious things as either 1. Are contained in the ſand of the ſea and Rivers, in which ſometimes there is mixed a conſiderable quantity of Gold and Silver. Or 2. Such as grow in the Sea, or are fetched from the ſandy bottom of it, as pearls, coral, ambergreaſe, &c. Or 3. Or 2 bring him out of his ſtraits and troubles, which he was likely to be oft engaged in, becauſe he was encompaſſed with potent Enemies. And in this ſenſe the phraſe is uſed Pſ. 4. 2. compare Pſ. 31. 8. and 118. 5. k He ſhall have numerous and thoſe ſtrong and healthful and comely Children. Or, ſhall be bleſſed or praiſed of or above the ſons, i. e. the other Sons of Iſrael, or his brethren, as it here follows, i. e. His portion ſhall fall in an excellent part, where he may have the benefits both of his own fat ſoil, and of the Sea, by his neighbours, Tyrus and Sidon. l By his ſweet diſpoſition and winning carriage and communication of his excellent commodities to his brethren he ſhall gain their affections. m He ſhall have ſuch plenty of Oil that he may not only waſh his face but his feet alſo in it. Moſes from Mount Nebo vieweth the Land, 1—4. He dieth there, 5. His Burial, 6. His age, 7. Thirty days mourning for him, 8. Joſhua ſucceedeth him, 9. The praiſes of Moſes, 10—12.

1 AND Moſes went up a from the plains of Moab, unto the mountain of Nebo b to the top of || Piſgah, that is over againſt Jericho: and the LORD ſhewed him * all the land of Gilead c unto Dan d.

a In compliance with Gods will that he ſhould then and there reſign up his ſoul to God. b Of which ſee Num. 27. 12. and 32. 38. & Deut. 32. 49. c Whereof Moſes had as yet ſeen and enjoyed but a ſmall part. Of this Land ſee Gen. 31. 21. Numb. 32. 1, 19. &c. d To that City which after Moſes his death was called Dan, Joſ. 19. 47. Judg. 18. 29. So that here is an anticipation. But it ſeems moſt probable, and is commonly believed, that this chapter was not written by Moſes but by Eleazar or Joſhua or Ezra or ſome other man of God directed herein by the Holy Ghoſt; this being no more impeachment to the divine authority of this chapter, that the penman is unknown, which alſo is the lot of ſome other Books of Scripture, than it is to the authority of the Acts of the King or Parliament, that they are Written or Printed by ſome unknown perſon.

2 And all Naphtali e, and the land of Ephraim, and Manaſſeh, and all the land of Judah, unto the utmoſt ſea f.

e (i. e.) The land of Naphtali, which together with Dan, was in the North of Canaan, as Ephraim and Manaſſeh were in the midland parts, and Judah on the South, and the Sea on the weſt. So theſe parts lying in the ſeveral quarters are put for all the reſt. He ſtood in the Eaſt and ſaw alſo Gilead, which was in the Eaſtern part of the land, and thence he ſaw the North and South and Weſt. f (i. e.) The midland Sea, which was the utmoſt bound of the land of promiſe on the weſt.

3 And the ſouth g, and the plain of the valley of Jericho h, the city of palm-trees i, unto Zoar.

g (i. e.) The ſouth quarter of the land of Judah, which is towards the ſalt ſea, which is deſcribed Num. 34. 3, 4, 5. Joſ. 15. 1, 2, 3, 4. as the weſtern quarter of Judah was deſcribed in the words next foregoing. h Or, in which lies Jericho: which was in the Tribe of Benjamin. i (i. e.) Jericho, ſo called both here and Judg. 1. 16. and 3. 13. 2 Chron. 28. 15. from the multitude of Palmtrees which were in thoſe parts, as Joſephus and Strabo write. From whence and the balm there growing it was called Jericho, which ſignifies, odoriferous or ſweet ſmelling.

4 And the LORD ſaid unto him, * This is the land which I ſware unto Abraham, unto Iſaac, and unto Jacob, ſaying, I will give it unto thy ſeed: I have cauſed thee to ſee it with thine eyes k, but thou ſhalt not go over thither.

* Gen. 12. 7. and 13. 15.

k To wit, by a miraculous power ſtrengthning thy ſight or making a clear repreſentation of all theſe parts to thy view.

5 So Moſes the ſervant of the LORD died there in the land of Moab l, according to the word of the LORD.

l (i. e.) in the land which Iſrael took from the Amorites, which antiently was the land of Moab.

6 And he m buried him in a valley in the land of Moab, over-againſt Beth-Peor: but no man knoweth of his ſepulchre n unto this day.

m (i. e.) The Lord, laſt mentioned, buried him either immediately, or by the miniſtery of Angels, whereof Michael was the Chief or Prince, Jude ver. 9. n (i. e.) Of the particular place of the Valley where he was buried: which God hid from the Iſraelites, to prevent their Superſtition and Idolatry, to which he knew their great proneneſs. And for this very reaſon the Devil endeavoured to have it known and contended with Michael about it, Jude ver. 9. And ſeeing God would not endure the worſhip of the Relicks or Tomb of ſo eminent a perſon as Moſes was, it is ridiculous to think God would permit this Honour to be given to any of the ſucceeding Saints who were ſo far inferior to him.

7 And Moſes was an hundred and twenty years old when he died: his eye was not dim, nor his † natural force † abated o.

o By a miraculous work of God in mercy to his Church and People.

8 And the children of Iſrael wept for Moſes in the plains of Moab thirty days p: ſo the days of weeping and mourning for Moſes were ended.

p Which was the uſual time of mourning for perſons of high place and eminency. See Gen. 50. 3, 10. Num. 20. 29. For others ſeven days ſufficed.

9 And Joſhua the ſon of Nun was full of the ſpirit of wiſdom q: for Moſes had laid his hands upon him r, and the children of Iſrael hearkned unto him, and did as the LORD commanded Moſes.

q And other gifts and graces too, as appears from the Hiſtory, but Wiſdom is mentioned as being moſt neceſſary for the Government to which he was now called. r Which God had appointed as a ſign to Moſes and Joſhua and the Iſraelites that this was the perſon whom he had appointed and qualified for his great work. See Numb. 27. 18, &c. Compare Gen. 48. 10. Numb. 8. 10.

10 And there aroſe not a prophet ſince in Iſrael like unto Moſes s, whom the LORD knew face to face t:

s In the priviledges here following. t (i. e.) Whom God did ſo freely and familiarly and frequently converſe with. See on Exod. 33. 11. Numb. 12. 8. Deut. 5. 4.

11 In all the ſigns u, and the wonders which the LORD ſent him to do in the land of Egypt, to Pharaoh, and to all his ſervants, and to all his land.

u This is to be joyned either 1. with the words immediately foregoing, as an eminent inſtance wherein God did know or acknowledge and own or converſe ſo familiarly with Moſes, namely in the working of all his ſigns and wonders in Egypt, where God ſpake to him ſo oft, and ſometimes even in Pharaoh's preſence, and anſwered his requeſts, ſo particularly and punctually whether he called for vengeance or for deliverance. Or 2. With the more remote words, there was none like unto Moſes in regard of all the ſigns, &c. the words, whom the Lord knew face to face, coming in by way of parentheſis.

12 And in all that mighty hand, and in all the great terrour which Moſes ſhewed in the ſight of all Iſrael.

JOSHUA.

The ARGUMENT.

IT is not material to know who was the Pen-man of this Book, whether Joſhua, as ſeems moſt probable from Chap. 24. 26. or ſome other holy Prophet. It is ſufficient, that this Book was a part of the Holy Scriptures or Oracles of God committed to, and carefully kept by the Jews, and by them faithfully delivered to us; as appears by the concurring Teſtimony of Chriſt and his Apoſtles, who owned and approved of the ſame Holy Scriptures which the Church of the Jews did. But this is certain, that divers Paſſages in this Book, were put into it after Joſhua's death, as Joſh. 10. 13: compared with 2 Sam. 1. 18. and Joſh. 19. 47. compared with Judg. 18. 1. and Joſh. 24. 29, 30. And ſuch like Inſertions have been obſerved in the five Books of Moſes.

CHAP. I.

God commands Joſhua to lead the people unto the Land of Canaan, 1—3. It's Borders, 4. God promiſes to aſſiſt him, 5, 6. Commanding him to obſerve the Law, 7—9. He prepares the people to paſs over Jordan, 10, 11. Reminds the Reubenites, Gadites, and half tribe of Manaſſeh of their promiſe to Moſes, 12. 15. Which they are ready to do; and all promiſe to obey, 16—18.

1 NOW after the death of Moſes a, the ſervant of the LORD b, it came to paſs, that the LORD ſpake c unto Joſhua the ſon of Nun, Moſes * miniſter d, ſaying, a Either immediately after it, or when the days of mourning for Moſes were expired. Joſhua was appointed and declared Moſes his Succeſſor in the Government before this time; and therefore doubtleſs entred upon the Government inſtantly after his death; and here he receives confirmation from God therein. b This title is given to Moſes here and v. 2. as alſo Deut. 34. 5. and is oft repeated not without cauſe, partly to reflect Honour upon him, partly to give Authority to his Laws and Writings, in publiſhing whereof he only acted as Gods Servant, in his name and ſtead: and partly that the Iſraelites might not think of Moſes above what was meet, remembring that he was not the Lord himſelf, but only the Lords Servant; and therefore not to be worſhipped, nor yet to be too pertinaciouſly followed in all his Inſtitutions, when the Lord himſelf ſhould come and aboliſh part of the Moſaical Diſpenſation; it being but reaſonable that he who was only a Servant in Gods houſe, ſhould give place to him who was the Son, and Heir, and Lord of it, as Chriſt was. See Heb. 3. 3, 5, 6. c Either in a Dream or Viſion, or by Urim, Numb. 27. 21. d (i. e.) Who had waited upon Moſes in his great Employments, and thereby been privy to his Managery of the Government, and ſo fitted and prepared for it.

* Deut. 1. 38.

2 Moſes my ſervant is dead: now therefore ariſe, go over this Jordan e, thou, and all this people, unto the land which I do give f to them, even to the children of Iſrael.

e This which is now near thee, which is the only obſtacle in thy way to Canaan. f (i. e.) Am now about to give the actual Poſſeſſion of it, as I formerly gave a right to it by promiſe.

3 * Every place g that the ſole of your foot ſhall tread upon, that have I given unto you, as I ſaid unto Moſes.

* Deut. 11. 24. Chap. 14. 9.

g To wit, within the following bounds.

4 * From the wilderneſs, and this Lebanon h, even unto the great river, the river Euphrates, all the land of the Hittites i, and unto the greater ſea k, toward the going down of the ſun, ſhall be your coaſt l.

* Exod. 23. 31. Numb. 34. 3.

h This emphatically, as being the moſt eminent Mountain in Syria, and the Northern border of the Land: or this which is within thy view; as if the Lord appeared to him in the form of a man, and pointed to it. i (i. e.) Of the Canaanites, who elſewhere are all called Amorites; as Gen. 15. 16. and here Hittites by a Senecdoche: the Hittites being the moſt conſiderable and formidable of all, as may appear from Numb. 13. 33. and 14. 1. 2 King. 7. 6. and many of them being of the race of the Giants, dwelling about Hebron: See Gen. 25. 9, 10. and 26. 34. and 27. 46. k The Midland Sea, great in it ſelf, and eſpecially compared with thoſe leſſer Collections of waters, which the Jews called Seas. l Obj. The Iſraelites never poſſeſſed all this Land. Anſ. 1. That was from their own ſloth and cowardize, and diſobedience to God, and breach of thoſe Conditions upon which this Promiſe was ſuſpended: See Judg. 2. 20. 2. This land was not all to be poſſeſſed by them at once, but by degrees, as their numbers and neceſſities increaſed; but Canaan being fully ſufficient for them, and many of the Iſraelites being from time to time either cut off, or carried captive for their ſins, there was never any need of enlarging their Poſeſſions. 3. Though their Poſſeſſions extended not to Euphrates, yet their Dominion did, and all thoſe Lands were tributary to them in David's and Solomon's time.

5 There ſhall not any man be able to ſtand before thee all the days of thy life: as I was with Moſes, m ſo I will be with thee; * I will not fail thee, nor forſake thee n.

* Heb. 13. 5. Deut. 3

m To aſſiſt him againſt all his enemies, and in all the difficulties of governing this ſtiff necked people, which Joſhua might juſtly fear no leſs than the Canaanites. n I will not leave thee deſtitute neither of inward ſupport, or of outward aſſiſtance.

* Deut. 31. 23.
† Or, thou ſhalt cauſe this people to inherit the land, &c.

6 * Be ſtrong, and of a good courage o: for † unto this people ſhalt thou divide for an Inheritance, the land p which I ſware unto their fathers to give them.

o Joſhua, though a perſon of great Courage and Reſolution, whereof he had given ſufficient Proof, yet needs theſe Exhortations, partly becauſe his work was great, and difficult, and long, and in a great meaſure new; partly becauſe he had a very mean opinion of himſelf, eſpecially if compared with Moſes; and remembring how perverſe and ungovernable that people were, even under Moſes, he might very well ſuſpect the burden of ruling them would be too heavy for his ſhoulders. p Which ſuppoſeth the full Conqueſt of the land. That Honour and Aſſiſtance which I denied to Moſes, I will give to thee.

q Remember, that though thou art the Captain and Commander of my people, yet thou art my Subject, and obliged to obſerve all my commands. r (i. e.) In any kind, or upon any pretence. s Which plainly ſhews, That Gods aſſiſtance promiſed to him and to the Iſraelites, was conditional, and might juſtly be withdrawn upon their breach of the Conditions. s Or, That thou mayeſt do wiſely. Whereby he inſtructs him in the true Art of Government; and that his greateſt Wiſdom will lie in the obſervation of all Gods Commands, and not in that pretended reaſon of State which other Princes govern all their Affairs by. t (i. e.) Whatſoever thou doeſt. Mens actions are oft compared to ways, or journeys, or ſteps by which they come to the end they aim at.

8 * This book of the law ſhall not depart out of thy mouth u, but * thou ſhalt † meditate therein day and night x, that thou mayeſt obſerve to do according to all that is written therein y: for then thou ſhalt make thy way proſperous, and then thou ſhalt † have good ſucceſs.

u (i.e.) Thou ſhalt conſtantly read it, and upon occaſion diſcourſe of it, and the ſentence which ſhall come out of thy mouth, ſhall in all things be given according to this Rule. x (i.e.) Diligently ſtudy, and frequently and upon all occaſions conſider what is Gods Will and thy Duty. The greatneſs of thy place and employments ſhall not hinder thee from this Work, becauſe this is the only Rule of all thy private Actions, and publick Adminiſtrations. y Whereby he teacheth him, that it is his Duty to ſee with his own eyes, and to underſtand the Mind and Law of God himſelf, and not blindly to follow what any other ſhould adviſe him to.

9 * Have not I commanded thee z? Be ſtrong, and of a good courage, be not afraid, neither be thou diſmayed; for the LORD thy God is with thee whitherſoever thou goeſt.

z I whom thou art obliged to obey: I who can carry thee through every thing I put thee upon: I of whoſe Faithfulneſs and Almightineſs thou haſt had large experience?

10 Then Joſhua commanded the Officers of the people, ſaying, 11 Paſs through the hoſt, and command the people, ſaying, Prepare you victuals a: for within three days b ye ſhall paſs over this Jordan, to go in to poſſeſs the land which the LORD your God giveth you to poſſeſs it.

a For although Manna was given them to ſupply their want of ordinary Proviſions in the Wilderneſs; yet they were allowed, when they had opportunity, to purchaſe other Proviſions, and did ſo, Deut. 2. 6, 28. And now having been ſome time in the land of the Amorites, and together with Manna uſed themſelves to other food which that Country plentifully ſupplied them with; they are warned to furniſh themſelves therewith for their approaching march. b Qu. How can this be, when the Spies, who were not yet ſent away, continued three days hid in the Mountains, Joſh. 2. 22. and the people paſſed not over till three days after the Spies returned? Joſh. 3. 2. Anſ. Theſe words, though placed here, ſeem not to have been delivered by Joſhua till after the return of the Spies; ſuch Tranſpoſitions being ſo frequent in Scripture, that Interpreters have formed this general Rule, That there is no certain Order, no former nor latter in the Hiſtories of the Scripture. And hence it comes, that theſe three days mentioned here below, after the Hiſtory of the Spies, are again repeated, Joſh. 3. 2. Beſides, the Septuagint render the words, Yet three days; and the Chaldee, In the end of three days; others, After three days, as it is, Joſh 3. 2. Or, theſe three days may be the ſame with thoſe, Joſh. 2. 22. and the matter may be conceived thus, Joſhua gives the people notice of their Paſſage over Jordan within three days, here, and at the ſame time ſends away the Spies, who return ere thoſe three days be ended. For the three days, Joſh. 2. 22. may be underſtood of one whole day, and part of two other days, as it is in that famous inſtance, Matth. 27. 63, of which ſee more on that place, and on Matth. 12. 40. The Spies came to Jericho in the Evening of the firſt day, and intended to lie there, Joſh. 2. 8. but being diſturbed and affrighted by the ſearch made after them, they go away that night into the Mountains, and there abide the time mentioned. Joſhua having delivered this meſſage from God to the Iſraelites, and ſent away the Spies, removes from Shittim to Jordan, Joſh. 3. 1. being ſufficiently aſſured of his ſafe paſſage over Jordan, whatſoever became of the Spies; and after thoſe three days mentioned here were paſt, Joſh. 3. 2. he ſends the Officers to the people with a ſecond meſſage about the manner of their actual paſſing over.

12 And to the Reubenite, and to the Gadite, and to half the tribe of Manaſſeh, ſpake Joſhua, ſaying,

* Numb. 32. 23. Deut. 3. 18.

13 Remember * the words which Moſes the ſervant of the LORD commanded you c, ſaying, The LORD your God hath given you reſt d, and hath given you this land.

c His charge to you, and your promiſe to him, which they were obliged to keep; and Joſhua was to ſee that they did ſo. d (i. e.) A place of reſt, as that word ſignifies; See on Gen. 49. 15.

† Heb. marſhalled by five.

14 Your wives, your little ones, and your cattel ſhall remain in the land which Moſes gave you on this ſide Jordan: but ye ſhall paſs e before your brethren f † armed g, all the mighty men of valour h, and help them:

14 e To wit, over Jordan. f Either, 1. in their preſence. Or, 2. In the front of all of them; which was but reaſonable; partly, becauſe they had the advantage of their brethren, having actually received their Portion, which their Brethren had only in hope, and therefore were obliged to more ſervice, the rather to prevent the envy of the other Tribes; partly becauſe they were freed from thoſe Impediments which the reſt were expoſed to, their Wives, and Children, and Eſtates being ſafely lodged; and partly to prevent their retreat and withdrawing themſelves from the preſent ſervice, which they otherwiſe ſhould have had opportunity and temptation to do, becauſe of the nearneſs of their Habitations. g For by this time they were well furniſhed with Arms, which they had either from the Egyptians, or Amalekites, or Amorites, from whom they had taken them; or by purchaſe from thoſe people by whoſe borders they paſſed. Or, in military order: See on Exod. 13. 18. h All ſuch were obliged to go over if occaſion required it, but Joſhua took only ſome of them, partly becauſe they were ſufficient for his purpoſe, and partly becauſe ſome were fit to be left, both to ſecure their own Wives, Children, and Poſſeſſions, and to prevent their enemies on that ſide from giving them diſturbance or hindrance in their enterprize upon Canaan.

15 Until the LORD have given your brethren reſt, as he hath given you, and they alſo have poſſeſſed the land which the LORD your God giveth them: then ye ſhall return unto the land of your poſſeſſion, and enjoy it, which Moſes the LORD's Servant gave you on this ſide Jordan, toward the ſun-riſing.

16 And they anſwered h Joſhua, ſaying, All that thou commandeſt us, we will do, and whitherſoever thou ſendeſt us, we will go.

h (i. e.) The Reubenites, &c. mentioned v. 12. to whom Joſhua's Diſcourſe is confined v. 13, 14, 15. No doubt the other Tribes expreſſed the ſame thing; but this is only recorded concerning theſe, becauſe that might ſeem moſt doubtful, and the obedience of the reſt was unqueſtionable.

17 According as we hearkned unto Moſes in all things, ſo will we hearken unto thee i: only the LORD thy God be with thee, as he was with Moſes k.

i The ſame obedience which we owed, and thoſe of us who are now alive generally performed to Moſes, we promiſe unto thee. k This is not a limitation of their obedience, as if they would not obey him any further or longer than he was proſperous or ſucceſsful; but an additional Prayer for him. As we have hereby promiſed thee our obedience, ſo our Prayer ſhall be, That God would bleſs and proſper thee, as he did Moſes.

18 Whoſoever he be that doth rebel againſt thy commandment, and will not hearken unto thy words in all that thou commandeſt him l, he ſhall be put to death; only be ſtrong, and of a good courage.

l Not repugnant to Gods commands; for none can be ſo fooliſh to think, that if he had commanded the people to blaſpheme God, or worſhip Idols, the people were obliged to obey him therein.

† Heb. lay

1 AND Joſhua the ſon of Nun ſent a out of Shittim b two men c, to ſpy d † ſecretly e, ſaying, Go view the land, even Jericho f: and they went*, and * came into an harlots g houſe, named * Rahab, and † lodged h there.

a Or, had ſent, as that Tenſe is oft uſed: See on Joſh. 1. 11. b Called alſo Abel-ſhittim, Numb. 33. 49. c Not twelve, as Moſes did, partly becauſe the people of Canaan were now more alarm'd than in Moſes his time, and more ſuſpicious of all ſtrangers; and partly becauſe thoſe were to view the whole land, theſe but a ſmall parcel of it. d (i. e.) To learn the ſtate of the land and people, and what way and method they ſhould proceed in. It is evident enough, That Joſhua did not this out of diſtruſt, as the people did, Deut. 1. and it is moſt probable, he had Gods Command and Direction in it for the encouragement of himſelf and his Army in their preſent Enterprize. e With reference not to his Enemies, which being the conſtant and neceſſary practice of all Spies, was needleſs to be mentioned; but to the Iſraelites, without their knowledge or deſire. And this ſeems added by way of oppoſition unto the like Action, Deut. 1. where it was done with the people's privity, and upon their motion; and therefore an Account was given not only to Moſes, but alſo to the Congregation; whereas here it was given to Joſhua only, v. 23. which was a good Caution to prevent the Inconveniency which poſſibly might have ariſen, if their Report had been doubtful or diſcouraging. f (i. e.) The land about Jericho, together with the City. Heb. The land and Jericho, i. e. eſpecially Jericho. So and is uſed, 2 Sam. 2. 30. 1 King. 11. 1. Pſal. 18. 1. * They obeyed Joſhua's Command, even with the hazard of their own lives, conſidering that they were under the protection of divine Providence, which could very eaſily many ways ſecure them; or being willing to ſacrifice their lives in their Countreys ſervice. g So the Hebrew word is uſed, Judg. 11. 1. and 16. 1. 1 King. 3. 16. Ezek. 23. 44. and ſo it is rendred by two Apoſtles, Heb. 11. 31. Jam. 2. 25. ſuch ſhe either now was, or formerly had been; and ſuch a perſons houſe they might come to with leſs obſervation than to an Hoſteſs, as ſome render it, or to a publick Victualling-Houſe. And ſuch a courſe of life was very common among the Gentiles, who eſteemed Fornication to be either no ſin, or a very ſmall and trivial one. h Or, lay down; as the ſame word is rendred, v. 8. intended and compoſed themſelves to reſt; but they were diſturbed and hindred from their Intentions upon the following Diſcovery.

2 And it was told the King of Jericho, ſaying, Behold, there came in men hither to night i, of the children of Iſrael, to ſearch out the Country.

i This evening, by comparing this with v. 5.

3 And the King of Jericho ſent unto Rahab, ſaying, Bring forth the men that are come to thee, which are entred into thine houſe: for they be come to ſearch out all the country.

4 And the woman took the two men, and hid them k, and ſaid thus, There came men unto me, but I wiſt not whence they were l:

k Or, But the Woman had taken—— and had hid them, to wit, before the Meſſengers came from the King; as ſoon as ſhe underſtood from her Neighbours or common Rumor, that there was a ſuſpicion of the matter, and gueſſed that ſearch would be made. And this is juſtly mentioned as a great and generous act of Faith, Heb. 11. 31. for ſhe did apparently venture her life upon a ſtedfaſt perſwaſion of the Truth of Gods Word and Promiſe given to the Iſraelites. l Her Anſwer contained in theſe and the following words, was palpably falſe, and therefore unqueſtionably ſinful; howſoever, her intention was good therein: See Rom. 3. 8. But it is very probable, ſhe being an Heathen, might think, what ſome Chriſtians have thought and ſaid, That an officious Lie is not unlawful. Or at worſt, this was her Infirmity, which was graciouſly pardoned by God, and her Faith was amply rewarded.

5 And it came to paſs about the time of ſhutting of the gate m, when it was dark, that the men went out: whither the men went, I wot not: purſue after them quickly, for ye ſhall overtake them.

m Either of her houſe, or rather of the City which was ſhut at a certain time.

* See 2 Sam. 17. 19.

6 But * ſhe had brought them up to the roof n of the houſe, and hid them with the ſtalks of flax, which ſhe had laid in order upon the roof o.

n Which was plain after the manner: See Deut. 22. 8. Mat. 10. 27. Act. 10. 9. Mark 2. 4. o That they may be dried by the heat of the Sun.

7 And the men purſued after them the way to Jordan unto the foords p: and aſſoon as they which purſued after them were gone out, they ſhut the gate q.

p Or paſſages, i. e. The uſual places where people uſed to paſs over Jordan, whether by Boats or Bridges; or rather, becauſe of the ſhallowneſs of the River, which a little after this, ſwelled higher, as the Hiſtory will tell us; and as it is very uſual for Rivers to do. q Of the City, partly for their ſecurity againſt their approaching Enemies; and partly to prevent the eſcape of the Spies, if peradventure Rahab was miſtaken, and they yet lurked in the City.

8 And before they were laid down r, ſhe came up unto them upon the roof, r To reſt or ſleep, as they intended, being now, after the departure of the Searchers, come from their hiding-place to their reſting place.

9 And ſhe ſaid unto the men s, I know that the LORD hath given you the land, and that * your terror t is fallen upon us, and that all the inhabitants of the land † faint becauſe of you.

s Qu. How could they underſtand one the other? Anſ. 1. The Hebrew and the Canaan or Phœnician Languages have a very great reſemblance, and are thought to be but differing Dialects of one and the ſame Tongue, as the learned prove by a multitude of words which are common to both of them. Or, 2. ſome of the Hebrews had either out of curioſity, or by Joſhua's order and direction, learnt that Language for this or other ſuch like Occaſions. t (i. e.) The dread of you: See Exod. 23. 27. and 34. 24. Deut. 11. 25. and 28. 7.

10 For we have heard how the LORD * dried up the water of the Red-ſea for you, when ye came out of Egypt, and what ye did unto the two Kings of the Amorites, that were on the other ſide Jordan, * Sihon and Og whom ye utterly deſtroyed.

11 And aſſoon as we had heard theſe things, * our hearts did melt u, neither † did there remain any more courage in any man, becauſe of you: for * the LORD your God, he is God in heaven above, and in the earth beneath * x.

u (i. e.) Was diſſolved, loſt all conſiſtency and courage. This Phraſe is oft uſed, as Deut. 1. 28. and 20. 8. Joſh. 5. 1. and 7. 5. x He can do whatſoever he pleaſeth in Heaven and Earth; whereas our Gods are incloſed in Heaven, and can do nothing to us upon Earth.

* See 1 Tim. 5. 8.

12 Now therefore, I pray you, ſwear unto me by the LORD y, ſince I have ſhewed you kindneſs, that ye will alſo ſhew kindneſs unto * my fathers houſe z, and give me a true token a:

y By your God who is the only true God; ſo ſhe ſhews her Converſion to God, and owns his Worſhip, one eminent Act whereof is ſwearing by his Name. z My near Kindred, which ſhe particularly names, v. 13. Husband and Children it ſeems ſhe had none. And for her ſelf, it was needleſs to ſpeak, it being a plain and undeniable Duty to ſave their Preſerver. a Either an aſſurance that you will preſerve me and mine from the common Ruine: or a Token which I may produce as a Witneſs of this agreement, and a mean of my ſecurity.

13 And that ye will ſave alive my father, and my mother, and my brethren, and my ſiſters, and all that they have b, and deliver our lives from death

b (i. e.) Their Children, as appears from Joſh. 6. 23.

* Judg. 1. 24.

14 And the men anſwered her, Our life † for yours c, if ye utter not this our buſineſs d. And it ſhall be when the LORD hath given us the land, that * we will deal kindly and truly with thee.

c We pawn and will venture our lives for the ſecurity of yours. Or, may we periſh, if you be not preſerved. d (i. e.) This Agreement of ours, and the way and condition of it, leſt others under this pretence, ſecure themſelves. By which they ſhew both their Piety and Prudence in managing their Oath with ſo much Circumſpection and Caution, that neither their own Conſciences might be enſnared, nor the publick Juſtice obſtructed.

15 Then ſhe let them down by a cord through the window: for her houſe was upon the Town-wall e, and ſhe dwelt upon the wall f.

e Which gave her the opportunity of diſmiſſing them when the gates were ſhut. f Her particular dwelling was there: which may poſſibly be added, becauſe the other part of her Houſe was reſerved for the entertainment of Strangers.

16 And ſhe ſaid unto them, Get ye to the mountain g, leſt the Purſuers meet you: and hide your ſelves there three days h, until the Purſuers be returned, and afterward may ye go your way.

g (i. e.) To ſome of the Mountains wherewith Jericho was encompaſſed, in which alſo there were many Caves where they might lurk. h Not three whole days, but one whole day, and parts of two days: See on Joſh. 1. 11.

17 And the men ſaid i unto her, We will be blameleſs k of this thine oath, which thou haſt made us ſwear:

i Or, had ſaid; namely, before ſhe let them down; it being very improbable, either that ſhe would diſmiſs them before the Condition was expreſſed and agreed; or that ſhe would diſcourſe with them, or they with her, about ſuch ſecret and weighty things after they were let down, when others might over-hear them; or that ſhe ſhould begin her diſcourſe in her Chamber, and not finiſh it till they were gone out of her Houſe. Obj. They ſpoke this after they were let down; for it follows, v. 18. this--thread--which thou didſt let us down by. Anſ. Thoſe words may be thus rendred, which thou doſt let us down by; i. e. art about to do it: it being frequent for the Preter Tenſe to be uſed of a thing about to be done, by an Enallage of Tenſes, as Joſh. 10. 15. k (i. e.) Free from guilt or reproach if it be violated, namely, if the following Condition be not obſerved.

18 Behold, when we come into the land l, thou ſhalt bind this line of ſcarlet threed in the window m, which thou didſt let us down by: and thou ſhalt † bring thy Father, and thy Mother, and thy Brethren, and all thy Fathers Houſhold home unto thee.

l (i. e.) Over Jordan, and near the City. m That it may be eaſily diſcerned by our Soldiers.

19 And it ſhall be, that whoſoever ſhall go out of the doors of thy houſe into the ſtreet, his blood ſhall be upon his head n, and we will be guiltleſs: and whoſoever ſhall be with thee in the houſe, his blood ſhall be upon our head o, if any hand be upon him p.

n The blame of his death ſhall reſt wholly upon himſelf, as being occaſioned by his own neglect or contempt of the means of ſafety. o We are willing to bear the ſin, and ſhame, and puniſhment of it. p To wit, ſo as to kill him, as this Phraſe is uſed, Eſth. 6. 2. Job 1. 12.

20 And if thou utter this our buſineſs, then we will be quit of thine oath, which thou haſt made us to ſwear.

21 And ſhe ſaid, According unto your words, ſo be it. And ſhe ſent them away, and they departed: and ſhe bound the ſcarlet line in the window q.

q Forthwith, partly that the Spies might ſee it hung out before their departure, and ſo the better know it at ſome diſtance; partly leſt ſome accident might occaſion a miſtake or neglect about it; and partly for her own comfort, it being pleaſant and encouraging to her to have in her eye the pledge of her deliverance.

22 And they went, and came unto the mountain, and abode there three days r, until the Purſuers were returned. And the Purſuers ſought them throughout all the ways s, but found them not.

r Supporting themſelves there with the Proviſions which after the manner of thoſe times and places they carried with them, which Rahab furniſhed them with. s i. e. In the Road to Jordan, and the places near it, but not in the Mountains.

23 So the two men returned, and deſcended from the mountain, and paſſed over t, and came to Joſhua the ſon of Nun, and told him u all things that befel them.

t To wit, Jordan unto Joſhua. u Him alone, not the people, as they did, Numb. 13.

24 And they ſaid unto Joſhua, Truly the LORD hath delivered into our hand all the land: for even all the Inhabitants of the country do † faint becauſe of us.

† Heb. melt.

CHAP. III.

Joſhua comes with the Iſraelites to Jordan, 1. The officers inſtruct the people and prieſts for the paſſage, 2—6. God encourages Joſhua, and he encourageth the peolpe, giving them for a ſign, the dividing the waters of Jordan, till the Ark and people ſhould paſs over, 7—13. The people paſs over; the prieſts ſtanding all the time in the midſt of Jordan, 14—17.

1 AND Joſhua roſe early in the morning a, and they removed from Shittim, and came to Jordan, he, and all the children of Iſrael, and lodged there b before they paſſed over.

a Not after the return of the Spies, as may ſeem at firſt view; but after the three days, as it follows, v. 2. b That night, that they might go over in the day time, partly that the Miracle might be more evident and unqueſtionable; and partly to ſtrike the greater terror into their Enemies.

2 And it came to paſs after three days c, that the officers went through the hoſt d; c Either, 1. at the end of the three days mentioned, Joſh. 1. 11. or upon the laſt of them, as this Phraſe is uſed. See on Deut. 15. 1. Or, 2. after thoſe days were expired: See on Joſh. 1. 11. d The ſecond time to give them more particular Directions, as they had given them a general notice, Joſh. 1. 10, 11.

3 And they commanded the people e, ſaying, When ye ſee the ark of the covenant of the LORD your God, and the prieſts the Levites f bearing it, then ye ſhall remove from your place, and go after it g.

e In Joſhua's name, and by his Authority. f Who were not only Levites, but Prieſts allſo. For although the Levites were to carry the Ark, Numb. 4. yet the Prieſts might perform that Office, and did ſo upon ſome ſolemn occaſions, as here, and Joſh. 6. 6. ch. 3. 3 g Towards Jordan, to go over it in ſuch manner as I am about to deſcribe. Till this time the Ark went in the middle of the cloudy Pillar, probably being now vaniſhed; now it goes in the Front.

4 Yet there ſhall be a ſpace between you and it, about two thouſand cubits h by meaſure: come not near unto it i, that ye may know the way by which ye muſt go k: for ye have not paſſed this way † heretofore.

† Heb. ſince yeſterday and the third day.

h Which make a thouſand yards, and at which diſtance from it the Iſraelites ſeem to have been encamped in the Wilderneſs. And becauſe they generally went from their Tents to the Ark to worſhip God, eſpecially on the Sabbath-days; hence it hath been conceived, that a Sabbath-days journey reached only to 2000 Cubits. But that may be doubted; for thoſe who encamped neareſt the Ark, were at that diſtance from it, and came ſo far; but the moſt were further from it, and their Sabbath-days journey was conſiderably longer. i Partly from the reverent reſpect they ſhould bear to the Ark; and partly for the following reaſon. k That the Ark marching ſo far before you into the River, and ſtanding ſtill there till you paſs over, may give you the greater aſſurance of your ſafe paſſage.

* Exod. 19. 14, 15. Lev. 20. 7. Num. 11. 18. ch. 7. 13. 1 Sam. 16 5. Joel 2. 16.

5 And Joſhua ſaid l unto the people, * Sanctifie your ſelves m: for to morrow the LORD will do wonders among you.

l Or rather, had ſaid, to wit, the day before their paſſage; for it follows, to morrow. m Both in Soul and Body, that you may be meet to receive ſuch a favour, and with more Attention and Reverence obſerve and ponder this great Work, and fix it in your Hearts and Memories: See on Exod. 19. 10. Lev. 20. 7.

6 And Joſhua ſpake unto the prieſts, ſaying, Take up n the ark of the covenant, and paſs over before the people o. And they took up the ark of the covenant, and went before the people.

n To wit, upon your ſhoulders; for ſo they were to carry it, Numb. 7. 9. o Not in the middle of them, as you uſed to do.

7 And the LORD ſaid unto Joſhua, This day will I begin to magnifie thee in the ſight of all Iſrael p, that they may know that * as I was with Moſes, ſo I will be with thee.

* ch. 1. 5.

p i. e. To gain thee Authority and Reputation among them, as the perſon whom I have ſet in Moſes his ſtead, and by whom I will conduct them to the Poſſeſſion of the promiſed Land.

8 And thou ſhalt command the prieſts that bear the Ark of the Covenant, ſaying, When ye are come to the brink q of the water of Jordan, ye ſhall ſtand ſtill in Jordan r.

q Heb. to the extremity, ſo far as the River then ſpread it ſelf, which was now more than ordinary, v. 15. r Within the waters of Jordan, in the firſt entrance into the River; where they ſtood for a ſeaſon, till the River was divided, and then they went into the midſt of it, as it is implied, v. 17. and there abode till all the people were paſſed over, as it follows in the Hiſtory.

9 And Joſhua ſaid unto the children of Iſrael, Come hither s, and hear the words of the LORD your God t.

s To the Ark or Tabernacle, the place of publick Aſſemblies. t Who is now about to give a proof that he is both the Lord, the Omnipotent Governor of Heaven and Earth, and all Creatures, and your God, in Covenant with you, having a tender care and true affection for you.

10 And Joſhua ſaid, Hereby ye ſhall know u that the living God x is among you y, and that he will without fail drive out from before you the Canaanite, and the Hittite, and the Hivite, and the Perizzite, and the Girgaſhite, and the Amorite, and the Jebuſite.

u To wit, by experience and ſenſible evidence. x Not a dull, dead, ſenſeleſs and unactive God, ſuch as the gods of the Nations are; but a God of life, and power, and activity to watch over you, and work for you. y Is preſent with you to ſtrengthen and help you, as the Phraſe ſignifies, Exod. 17. 7. Deut. 31. 17. Joſh. 22. 31.

11 Behold, the ark of the covenant, of the LORD of all the earth, paſſeth over before you into Jordan z.

z Into part of the River.

12 Now therefore take ye twelve men a out of the Tribes of Iſrael, out of every Tribe a man.

a For the work deſcribed, Joſh. 4. 2, 3.

13 And it ſhall come to paſs aſſoon as the ſoles of the feet of the prieſts that bear the ark of the LORD b, the Lord of all the earth c, ſhall reſt in the waters of Jordan, that the waters of Jordan ſhall be cut off from the waters that come down from above d: and they * ſhall ſtand upon an heap e.

* Pſal. 114. 3.

b That ſo it may appear that this is the Lords doing, and that in purſuance, and for the accompliſhment of his Covenant made with Iſrael. c The Lord of all this terreſtrial Globe made of Earth and Water, who therefore can diſpoſe of this River and the adjoyning Land as he pleaſeth. d The Waters which now are united ſhall be divided, and part ſhall flow down the Channel towards the Dead-Sea, and the other part that is nearer the Spring or Riſe of the River, and flows down from it, ſhall ſtand ſtill. e Being as it were congealed, as the Red-Sea was, Exod. 15. 8. and ſo kept from overflowing all the Country.

14 And it came to paſs when the people removed from their tents, to paſs over Jordan, and the prieſts bearing the * ark of the covenant before the people;

* Act. 7. 45

15 And as they that bare the ark were come unto Jordan, and the feet of the prieſts that bare the ark were dipped in the brim of the water, (for * Jordan overfloweth all his banks all the time of harveſt) f.

* 1 Chron. 12. 15. Jer. 12. 5. & 49. 19.

f Which is alſo noted, 1 Chron. 12. 15. Eccluſ. 24. 36. and by Ariſtæas in the Hiſtory of the LXX Interpreters. This is meant not of the Wheat-harveſt, but of the Barley-harveſt, (which was before it, Ruth 1. 22. 2 Sam. 21. 9.) as is manifeſt from their keeping of the Paſſover at their firſt entrance, Joſh. 5. 10. which Feaſt was kept on the fourteenth day of their firſt Month, when they were to bring a Sheaf of their firſt-fruits, Lev. 23. 10. Deut. 16. 9, 10. which were of Barley, as Joſephus affirms, and is evident from the thing it ſelf. So that this Harveſt in thoſe hot Countries fell very early in the Spring, when Rivers uſe to ſwell moſt; partly becauſe of the rains which have fallen all the Winter, add partly becauſe of the Snows which then melt into Water and come into the Rivers; for which Reaſons the ſame overflowing of Water which is here aſcribed to Jordan, is by other Authors aſcribed to Euphrates, and Tygris, and the Rhine, and Maine, &c. And this time God choſe for this Work, partly that the Miracle might be more glorious in it ſelf, more obliging to the Iſraelites, and more amazing and terrible to the Canaanites; and partly that the Iſraelites might be entertained at their firſt entrance with more plentiful and comfortable Proviſions.

16 That the waters which came down from above, ſtood and roſe up upon an heap g very far from the city Adam that is beſide Zaretan h; and thoſe that came down toward the ſea of the plain. even the ſalt ſea failed, and were cut off: and the people paſſed over right againſt Jericho i.

g Which having been affirmed by Heathen Writers to have been done by Magicians, it is great impudence to disbelieve or doubt of Gods power to do it. h The City Adam being more obſcure, is deſcribed by its nearneſs to a more known place, Zaretan, or Sarthan, which ſome think is the ſame place mentioned, 1 King. 4. 12. and 7. 46. but it rather ſeems to have been another place then eminent, but now unknown, as many thouſands are. The meaning is, That the Waters were ſtopped in their courſe at that place, and ſo kept at a due diſtance from the Iſraelites whilſt they paſſed over. i Here God carried them over, becauſe this part was, 1. The ſtrongeſt, as having in its Neighbourhood an eminent City, a potent King, and a ſtout and Warlike people. 2. The moſt pleaſant and fruitful, and therefore more convenient both for the Refreſhment of the Iſraelites after their long and tedious Marches, and for their Encouragement to their preſent Expedition.

17 And the prieſts that bare the ark of the covenant of the LORD, ſtood firm k on dry ground in the midſt of Jordan l, and all the Iſraelites paſſed over on dry ground, until all the people were paſſed clean over Jordan.

k i. e. In one and the ſame place and poſture; their feet neither moved by any Waters flowing in upon them, nor ſinking into any mire, which one might think was at the bottom of the River. And this may be oppoſed unto their other ſtanding in the brink of the water when they came to it, commanded, ver. 8. which was but for a while, till the Waters were divided and gone away; and then they were to go further, even into the midſt of Jordan, as is here ſaid, where they are to ſtand conſtantly and fixedly, as this Hebrew word ſignifies, until all were paſſed over. If it be ſaid, that what is preſcribed, v. 8. is here ſaid to be executed; and therefore the midſt of Jordan here, is the ſame place with the brink of the water of Jordan, v. 8. It may be anſwered, That the manifeſt variation of the Phraſe ſhews, that it is not abſolutely the ſame thing or place which is ſpoken of there and here; but what is there enjoyned, is here executed with advantage; for when it is ſaid, that they ſtood firm—in the midſt of Jordan, it muſt needs be ſuppoſed, that they firſt came to the brink of the water, and that they ſtood there for a ſeaſon, till the Waters were cut off and dried up, as appears from the nature of the thing; and that then they went further, even into the midſt of Jordan. l Either, 1. within Jordan, as it is expreſſed above, v. 8. for that Phraſe doth not always ſignifie the exact middle of a place, but any part within it, as appears from Gen 45. 6. Exod. 8. 22. and 24. 18. Joſh. 7. 13. and 10. 13. Prov. 30. 19. Or rather, 2. in the middle and deepeſt part of the River. For, 1. words ſhould be taken properly, where they may without any inconveniency, which is the caſe here. 2 The Ark went before them to direct, and encourage and ſecure them in the dangers of their Paſſages, for which ends the middle was the fitteſt place. 3. In this ſenſe the ſame Phraſe is uſed, Joſh. 4 v. 3, 8. For certainly thoſe Stones which were to be Witneſſes and Monuments of their Paſſage over Jordan, ſhould not be taken from the brink or brim of the River, or from the ſhore which Jordan overflowed only at that ſeaſon, but from the moſt inward and deepeſt parts of the River; and v. 16, 17, 18. where the Prieſts are ſaid to aſcend or come up out of Jordan, and out of the midſt of Jordan unto the dry land; whereas had this been meant only of the firſt entrance into the River, they muſt have been ſaid firſt to go down into Jordan, and then to go up to the land.

CHAP. IV.

God commands them to carry 12 ſtones for a memorial, out of Jordan: Joſhua orders it: the people perform, 1—8. Twelve other ſtones ſet up for a Memorial in the midſt of Jordan, 9. The people paſs over: the order they obſerve, 10—13. God magnifies Joſhua, 14. The prieſts with the Ark are commanded to come up out of Jordan, 15—17. The waters return, 18. The time of this paſſage, 19. Twelve ſtones ſet up in Gilgal; to what purpoſe declared, 20—24.

2 Take ye twelve men out of the people, out of every tribe a man b, b For the greater evidence and certainty, and the more effectual ſpreading of the Report of this marvellous work among all the Tribes.

3 And command ye them, ſaying, Take ye hence out of the midſt of Jordan c, out of the place where the prieſts feet ſtood firm, twelve ſtones, and ye ſhall carry them over with you, and leave them in the lodging-place where ye ſhall lodge this night d.

c Of which ſee on Joſh. 3. 17. d i. e. In Gilgal, as is expreſſed below, ver. 19, 20.

4 Then Joſhua called the twelve men, whom he had prepared e of the children of Iſrael, out of every Tribe a man:

e i. e. Appointed or choſen for that work, and commanded them to be ready for it.

5 And Joſhua ſaid unto them, Paſs over before the ark f of the LORD your God into the midſt of Jordan, and take ye up every man of you a ſtone upon his ſhoulder, according unto the number of the Tribes of the children of Iſrael:

f i. e. Go back again to the place where the Ark ſtands.

6 That this may be a ſign g among you, that when † Heb. to morrow. your children aſk their fathers † in time to come, ſaying, What mean ye by theſe ſtones?

g A Monument or Memorial of this days work.

7 Then ye ſhall anſwer them, That the waters of Jordan were cut off before the ark h of the covenant of the LORD, when it paſſed over Jordan, the waters of Jordan were cut off: and theſe ſtones ſhall be for a memorial unto the children of Iſrael for ever.

h As it were at the ſight and approach of the Ark, to give it and the Iſraelites a ſafe paſſage.

8 And the children of Iſrael did ſo as Joſhua commanded, and took up twelve ſtones out of the midſt of Jordan, as the LORD ſpake unto Joſhua, according to the number of the Tribes of the children of Iſrael, and carried them over with them unto the place where they lodged, and laid them down there.

9 And Joſhua ſet up twelve ſtones in the midſt of Jordan i, in the place where the feet of the prieſts, which bare the ark of the covenant, ſtood: and they are there unto this day k.

i Properly ſo called, as Joſh. 3. 17. Queſt. How could theſe ſtones be a Monument of this work, when they were not ſeen, but generally covered with the Waters of Jordan? Anſw. Theſe ſtones are not the ſame with thoſe which a man could carry upon his ſhoulders, ver. 5. and therefore might be very much larger; and being ſet up in two rows one above another, they might poſſibly be ſeen, at leaſt ſome times when the Water was low, and eſpecially where the Water was commonly more ſhallow, as it might be ordinarily in this place, though not at this time, when Jordan overflowed all its banks. Add to this, That the Waters of Jordan are ſaid to be very pure and clear; and therefore theſe ſtones, though they did not appear above it, might be ſeen in it, either by thoſe who ſtood upon the ſhore, becauſe that River was not broad; or at leaſt by thoſe that paſſed in Boats upon the River, who could eaſily diſcern them by the peculiar noiſe and motion of the Water occaſioned by that heap of ſtones. And this was ſufficient, eſpecially conſidering that there was another more diſtinct and viſible Monument of this Miracle ſet up in Gilgal. k This might be written, either 1. by Joſhua who wrote this Book near 20 years after this was done: Or, 2. by ſome other holy man divinely inſpired and approved of by the whole Jewiſh Church, who inſerted this and ſome ſuch paſſages both in this Book, and in the Writings of Moſes.

10 For the prieſts which bare the ark, ſtood in the midſt of Jordan, until every thing was finiſhed that the LORD commanded Joſhua to ſpeak unto the people l, according to all that Moſes commanded Joſhua m: and the people haſted and paſſed over n.

l i. e. To command the people to do. m Which he did not particularly, but in the general; becauſe he commanded Joſhua to obſerve and do all that God had commanded him by Moſes. and all that he ſhould command him any other way. n i. e. Paſſed over with haſte. which is noted as an Argument of their fear, or weakneſs of their Faith; as on the contrary, the Prieſts are commended that they ſtood firm, and fixed, and ſettled in their minds, as well as in the poſture of their Bodies.

11 And it came to paſs when all the people were clean paſſed over, that the ark of the LORD paſſed over, and the prieſts in the preſence of the people o.

o The people looking on, and beholding this wonderful work of God with Attention and Admiration.

12 And * the children of Reuben, and the children *Numb. 32. 20. 27. of Gad, and half the Tribe of Manaſſeh, paſſed over armed before the reſt of the children of Iſrael, as Moſes ſpake unto them:

13 About forty thouſand † prepared for war, paſſed †Or, ready armed.
over before the LORD p unto battel, to the plains of Jericho.

p Either, 1. before the Ark, by which they, as well as the reſt, paſſed when they went over Jordan. Or 2. in the preſence of God who diligently obſerved whether they would keep their Promiſe and Covenant made with their Brethren, or not.

14 On that day the LORD * magnified Joſhua in *ch. 3. 7.
the ſight of all Iſrael, and they feared him, as they feared Moſes, all the days of his life.

15 And the LORD ſpake unto Joſhua, ſaying,

16 Command the Prieſts that bear * the ark of the *Ex. 25. 16, 22.
teſtimony, that they come up q out of Jordan.

q For being now in the middle, and loweſt, and deepeſt place of the River, (of which ſee on Joſh 3. 17.) they are moſt properly ſaid to aſcend or go up to the land; which word is thrice uſed in this and the two next following Verſes.

17 Joſhua therefore commanded the Prieſts r, ſaying, Come ye up out of Jordan.

r Who ſtayed contentedly in the River, till God by Joſhua called them out.

18 And it came to paſs, when the prieſts that bare the ark of the Covenant of the LORD, were come up out of the midſt of Jordan, and the ſoles of the prieſts feet were † lift up unto the dry land, that the waters † Heb. plucked up.
of Jordan returned unto their place s, and † flowed † Heb. went.
over all his banks, as they did before.

s Came down from their heaps, and returned with all convenient ſpeed into their proper Channel, according to their natural and uſual courſe.

19 And the people came out of Jordan on the tenth day of the firſt month t, and encamped in Gilgal u, in the eaſt border of Jericho.

t To wit, of Niſan, which wanted but 5 days of 40 years from the time of their coming out of Egypt, which was on the fifteenth day of this month. So punctual is God in the performing of his word, whether promiſed or threatned. And this day was very ſeaſonable for the taking up of the Lambs which were to be uſed four days after, according to the Law, Exod. 12. 3, 6. u A place ſo called hereafter upon a following occaſion, Joſh. 5. 9. So here it is an Anticipation.

20 And thoſe twelve ſtones which they took out of Jordan, did Joſhua pitch in Gilgal x.

x Which moſt probably were placed ſeverally and in order like ſo many little Pillars, which was moſt proper to keep up the remembrance of this miraculous Benefit vouchſafed to this people.

21 And he ſpake unto the children of Iſrael, ſaying,
When your children ſhall aſk their fathers † in time to † Heb. to morrow.
come, ſaying, What mean theſe ſtones?

22 Then ye ſhall let your children know, ſaying, Iſrael came over this Jordan on dry land.

23 For the LORD your God dried up the waters of Jordan from before you, until ye were paſſed over, as the LORD your God did to the Red-ſea *, which he dried up from before us y, until we were gone over:

* Exod. 14. 21.

y (i. e.) My ſelf and Caleb, and all of us here preſent; for this Benefit, though done to their Fathers, is juſtly and rightly ſaid to be done to themſelves, becauſe they were then in their Parents Joyns; and their very being, and all their Happineſs, depended upon that Deliverance.

24 That all the people of the earth might know the hand of the LORD, that it is mighty, that ye might fear the LORD your God † for ever.

† Heb. all days.

CHAP. V.

The Amorites and Canaanites hear of this and are afraid, 1. The Males born in the Wilderneſs are Circumciſed, 2—9. The Paſſover is celebrated, 10. They eat of the Corn of the Land, and the Manna ceaſeth, 11, 12. Chriſt appeareth to Joſhua in form of a Man of War; he worſhips him; the place of his preſence holy ground, 13—15.

1 AND it came to paſs when all the kings of the Amorite a which were on the ſide of Jordan weſtward b, and all the kings of the Canaanite c, which were by the Sea d, * heard that the LORD had dried up the waters of Jordan e from before the children of Iſrael, until we were paſſed over, that their heart melted f, neither was there ſpirit in them any more, becauſe of the children of Iſrael.

* Numb. 13. 29. Exod. 15. 14.

a Theſe and the Canaanites are mentioned for all the reſt, as being the chief of them for number, and power, and courage. b This is added to diſtinguiſh them from the other Amorites, Eaſtward from Jordan, whom Moſes had ſubdued. c So the proper place of this Nation was on both ſides of Jordan. d The mid-land Sea, all along the Coaſt of it, which was the chief ſeat of that people, though divers Colonies of them were come into, and ſettled in other places. e Which was their bulwark on the Eaſt-ſide, where the Iſraelites were; for it is very probable they had taken away all Bridges near thoſe parts; and the Iſraelites having been ſo long in that Neighbouring Countrey, and yet not making any attempt upon them, they were grown ſecure; eſpecially now, when Jordan ſwell'd beyond its ordinary bounds; and therefore they did not endeavour to hinder their paſſage. f They loſt all their courage, and durſt attempt nothing upon the Iſraelites; not without Gods ſpecial Providence, that the Iſraelites might quietly participate of the two great Sacraments of their Church, Circumciſion and the Paſſover, and thereby be prepared for their high and hard work, and for the poſſeſſion of the Holy and Promiſed Land, which would have been Defiled by an Uncircumciſed People.

2 At that time g the Lord ſaid unto Joſhua, Make h thee * ſharp knives † i, and circumciſe again the children of Iſrael the ſecond time k.

* Exod, 4. 25.

g As ſoon as ever they were come to Gilgal, which was on the tenth day; and ſo this might be executed the next, or the eleventh day, and that in the morning: on the thirteenth day they were ſore of their wounds, and on the fourteenth day they recovered, and at the Even of that day kept the Paſſover. h Or, prepare, or make ready, as this word is ſometimes uſed. As it was not neceſſary for thoſe who had ſuch Knives already to make others for that uſe; ſo it is not probable that ſuch were commanded to do ſo, but only to make them ſharp and fit for that work. i Called in Hebrew, Knives of Flints, not as if they were all neceſſarily to be made of Flints, but becauſe ſuch were commonly uſed, eſpecially in thoſe parts where there was but little Iron; and becauſe ſuch Knives were oft uſed in this work, as the Jewiſh Doctors note, and in ſuch like works, as the Heathen writers relate. Thus we call that an Ink-horn, which is made of Silver, becauſe thoſe Utenſils are commonly made of Horn. k He calleth this a ſecond Circumciſion, not as if theſe ſame perſons had been Circumciſed once before, either by Joſhua, or by any other, for the contrary is affirmed below, v. 7. but with reſpect unto the body of the People, whereof one part had been Circumciſed before, and the other at this time, which is called a ſecond time, in relation to ſome former time wherein they were Circumciſed, either, 1. in Egypt, when many of the people, who poſſibly for fear or favour of the Egyptians, had neglected this Duty, were by the command of Moſes (who had been awakened by the remembrance of his own neglect and danger thereupon) Circumciſed; which during the Ten Plagues, and the grievous confuſion and conſternation of the Egyptians, they might eaſily find opportunity to do. Or 2. at Sinai, when they received the Paſſover, Numb. 9. 5. which no uncircumciſed perſon might do, Exod. 12. 48. and therefore it may not ſeem improbable, that all the Children born in that firſt year after their coming out of Egypt, and all they who peradventure might come out of Egypt in their uncircumciſion, were now Circumciſed. Obj. 1. All that came out of Egypt were Circumciſed, v. 5. Anſ. 1. This may be true, but he doth not ſay when and where they were Circumciſed; nor doth he deny that this was done to ſome of them, either in time of the Plagues in Egypt, or at Sinai. 2. All is very oft uſed of the greateſt part, as is confeſſed. Obj. 2. All the people that were born in the Wilderneſs were not Circumciſed, v. 5. Anſ. 1. Underſtand this alſo of the greateſt part. 2. This is limited to them that were born by the way, as it is ſaid there, and emphatically repeated, v. 7. i. e. in their Journeys and Travellings; which inſinuates the reaſon why they were not Circumciſed, becauſe they were always uncertain of their ſtay in any place; and were conſtantly to be in a readineſs for a removal when God took up the Cloud: But this reaſon ceaſed at Sinai, where they knew they were to abide for a conſiderable time; and ſeeing they took that opportunity for the celebration of the Paſſover, it is likely they would improve it alſo to the Circumciſion of their Children or others, which they ought to prize highly, and to embrace all occaſions offered for it; which though the people might, it is not likely that Moſes would neglect. Obj. 3. They are ſaid to have remained uncircumciſed Forty whole Years in the Wilderneſs, v. 6. Anſ. i. e. for almoſt forty years; as the ſame Phraſe is uſed, Numb. 14. 33, 34. and 32. 13. when there was above one year of that number paſt and gone. Or 3. in Abraham, and ſo the ſenſe may be, The firſt Circumciſion conferred upon Abraham, and continued in his Poſterity, hath been for many years neglected or omitted; and ſo that great and ſolemn pledge of my Covenant with you, is in a manner wholly loſt, and therefore it is but fit and neceſſary to have this long interrupted practice of Circumciſion revived, and to have Abrahams Poſterity circumciſed a ſecond time for the renewing of the Covenant between them and me again.

3 And Joſhua made him ſharp knives, and circumciſed l the children of Iſrael m at the * hill of the foreskins.

* Or, Gibeah haaraloth.

l (i. e.) He cauſed this to be done; and, becauſe it was to be done ſpeedily, the Paſſover approaching, it was neceſſary to uſe many hands in it, either Prieſts and Levites, or other Circumciſed perſons, who, at leaſt in thoſe circumſtances, were permitted to do it. m (i. e.) Such of them as were uncircumciſed. And, though it be not mentioned, it is more than probable, that the Iſraelites beyond Jordan were Circumciſed at the ſame time.

4 And this is the cauſe why Joſhua did circumciſe: All the people that came out of Egypt m, that were males, even all the men of war died in the wilderneſs by the way, after they came out of Egypt.

m This is to be reſtrained to ſuch as were then above 20 years old, and ſuch as were guilty of that rebellion, Numb. 14. as it is expreſſed below, v. 6.

5 Now all the people that came out, were circumciſed: but all the people that were born in the wilderneſs by the way as they came forth out of Egypt, them they n had not circumciſed.

n Either their Parents, or the Rulers of Iſrael, whoſe omiſſion hereof was not through neglect; for then God, who had ordered the neglecter of Circumciſion to be cut off, Gen. 17. 14. would not have left ſo groſs a fault unpuniſhed: but by Divine Permiſſion and Indulgence; partly becauſe they were now in a Journey, in which caſe the Paſſover alſo might be neglected, Numb. 9. 10, 13. and in that Journey the Paſſover was but once obſerved; and partly, becauſe there was not ſo great a neceſſity of this note of Circumciſion to diſtinguiſh them from other Nations, whileſt they dwelt alone and unmixed in the Wilderneſs, as there was afterwards.

6 For the Children of Iſrael walked forty years in the wilderneſs, till all the people o that were men of war, which came out of Egypt, were conſumed, becauſe they obeyed not the voice of the LORD, unto whom the LORD ſware * that he would not ſhew them p the land which the LORD ſware unto their fathers, that he would give us a land that floweth with milk and honey.

* Numb. 14. 23.

o The Hebrew word commonly ſignifies the Gentiles; ſo he calls them, to note that they were unworthy of the name and priviledges of Iſraelites. p (i. e.) Not give them ſo much as a ſight of it, which he granted to Moſes, much leſs the poſſeſſion and enjoyment of it. Or ſhewing is put for giving, as it is Pſal. 4. 6. and 60. 3. Eccleſ. 2. 24.

7 And their children whom he raiſed up in their ſtead, them Joſhua circumciſed q, for they were uncircumciſed: becauſe they had not circumciſed them by the way.

q Which God would have now done, 1. as a Teſtimony of Gods reconciliation to the people, of which circumciſion was a ſign, and that God would not further impute their Parents Rebellions to them. 2. Becauſe the great impediment of Circumciſion was now removed, to wit, their continued Travels, and frequent and uncertain removal. 3. To prepare them for the approaching Paſſover. 4. To diſtinguiſh them from the Canaanites, into whoſe land they were now come. 5. To ratify the Covenant between God and them, whereof Circumciſion was a Sign and Seal, to aſſure them that God would now make good his Covenant, in giving them this Land; and to oblige them to perform all the Duties and Services to which that Covenant bound them, of which Circumciſion was the beginning and foundation, all which they were expreſly enjoyned to do, as ſoon as ever they came into Canaan, Exod. 12. 25. Levit. 23. 10. Numb. 15. 2.

8 And it came to paſs * when they had done circumciſing all the people, that they abode in their places in the camp, till they * were whole r.

* Heb. When all the people had made an end to be Circumciſed.
* Heb. lived.

r Free from that pain and ſore which Circumciſion cauſed, Gen. 34. 25. It was indeed an act of great Faith, to expoſe themſelves to ſo much pain and danger too, in this place where they were hemmed in by Jordan and their Enemies; but they had many conſiderations to ſupport their Faith, and ſuppreſs their Fears; the freſh experience of Gods power and readineſs to work Miracles for their preſervation; the great conſternation of all their Enemies, which they might obſerve and rationally preſume; the conſiderable number of the people who were above 40 years old, and therefore circumciſed before this time, their great General being one of this number; the time it would require for their Enemies to bring together a force ſufficient to oppoſe them.

* That is rolling.

9 And the LORD ſaid unto Joſhua, This day have I rolled away the reproach of Egypt ſ from off you: wherefore the name of the place is called * Gilgal, unto this day.

ſ (i. e.) Uncircumciſion, which was both in Truth, and in the opinion of the Jews, a matter of great reproach, Gen. 34. 14. 1 Sam. 14. 6. and 17. 26. And although this was a reproach common to moſt Nations of the World, yet it is particularly called the reproach of Egypt, either, 1. becauſe the other neighbouring Nations, being the children of Abraham by the Concubines, are ſuppoſed to have been Circumciſed, which the Egyptians at this time were not, as may be gathered from Exod. 2. 6. where they knew the Child to be an Hebrew by this mark. Or 2. becauſe they came out of Egypt, and were eſteemed to be a ſort of Egyptians, Numb. 22. 5. which they juſtly thought a great reproach; but by their Circumciſion they were now diſtinguiſhed from them, and manifeſted to be another kind of people. Or 3. Becauſe many of them lay under this reproach in Egypt, having wickedly neglected this Duty there for worldly reaſons; and others of them continued in the ſame ſhameful condition for many years in the Wilderneſs.

* Exod. 12. 6.

10 And the children of Iſrael incamped in Gilgal, and kept the Paſsover, on the fourteenth * day of the month at even, in the plains of Jericho.

t Which was their third Paſsover: the firſt was in Egypt, Exod. 12. the ſecond at Mount Sinai, Numb. 9. the third here; for in their Wilderneſs-Travels, theſe and all other Sacrifices were neglected, Amos 5. 25.

11 And they did eat of the old corn u of the land, on the morrow after the Paſsover x; unleavened cakes, and parched corn y, in the ſelf-ſame day z.

u The Corn of the laſt year, which the Inhabitants of thoſe parts had left in their Barns, being doubtleſs fled for fear of the Iſraelites into their ſtrong Cities, or other remoter and ſafer parts. x (i. e.) On the ſixteenth day; for the Paſsover was killed between the two Evenings of the fourteenth day, and was eaten in that evening or night, which, according to the Jewiſh computation, whereby they begin their days at the evening, was a part of the fifteenth day, all which was the feaſt of the Paſsover; and ſo the morrow of the ſixteenth day, was the morrow after the Paſsover, when they were obliged to offer unto God the firſt ſheaf, and then were allowed to eat of the reſt. y Of that years Corn, which was moſt proper and cuſtomary for that uſe. z Having an eager deſire to enjoy the Fruits of the Land.

* Exod. 16. 35.

12 And the * Manna ceaſed a on the morrow after they had eaten of the old corn of the land, b neither had the children of Iſrael Manna any more, but they did eat of the fruit of the land of Canaan that year.

a Which God now withheld, 1. To ſhew that Manna was not an ordinary production of Nature, as by the long and conſtant enjoyment of it, they might be prone to think; but an extraordinary and ſpecial gift of God to ſupply their neceſſity. 2. Becauſe God would not be prodigal of his favours, nor expoſe them to contempt by giving them ſuperfluouſly, or by working Miracles where ordinary means were ſufficient. b (i. e.) On the ſeventeenth day.

* Exod. 23. 23. Zech. 1. 8.

13 And it came to paſs when Joſhua was by Jericho c, that he lift up his eyes, and looked, and behold, there ſtood * a man d over againſt him with his ſword drawn e in his hand: and Joſhua went unto him, and ſaid unto him, Art thou for us, or for our Adverſaries?

c Heb. In Jericho, i. e. in the Country or Territory adjoining to Jericho; whither he went to view thoſe parts, and diſcern the fitteſt places for his attempt upon Jericho, as Generals uſually do. d One in the appearance of man. e In readineſs to fight, not, as Joſhua thought, againſt him, but for him and his people.

† Or, Prince.

14 And he ſaid, Nay f, but as † Captain of the hoſt of the LORD g am I now come. And Joſhua fell on his face to the earth, and did worſhip, and ſaid unto him, What ſaith my Lord unto his ſervant h?

f I am neither Iſraelite, nor Canaanite. g Either, 1. of all Creatures in Heaven and Earth, which are Gods Hoſts. Or, 2. of the Angels, who are called the Hoſt of Heaven, 1 King. 22. 19. 2 Chron. 18. 18. Luke 2. 13. Or, 3. of the hoſt or people of Iſrael, which are called the Lords Hoſt, Exod. 12. 41. The ſenſe is, I am the chief Captain of this people, and will conduct and aſſiſt thee and them in this great undertaking. Now this perſon is none other than Michael the Prince, Dan. 10. 21. and 12. 1. not a created Angel but the Son of God, who went along with the Iſraelites in this Expedition, 1 Cor. 10. 4. not ſurely as an underling, but as their Chief and Captain. And this appears, 1. by his acceptance of Adoration here, which a created Angel durſt not admit of, Rev. 22. 8, 9. 2. Becauſe the place was made holy by his preſence, v. 15. which was Gods Prerogative, Exod. 3. 5. 3. 15 And the Captain of the LORD's hoſt ſaid unto Joſhua, * Looſe thy ſhoe from off thy foot i, for the place whereon thou ſtandeſt is holy k: and Joſhua did ſo.

i In token of reverence and ſubjection: See on Exod. 3. 5. k Conſecrated by my preſence; which when it was withdrawn, it was no more holy than any other place, the reaſon of its holineſs being removed.

CHAP. VI.

Jericho is ſhut up by the Iſraelites, 1. The People and 7 Prieſts with the Ark, go round it 7 days, 2—14. On the 7th day they go round 7 times; the Prieſts blow the Trumpets; the People ſhout; the City Accurſed; nothing to be taken, but all conſecrated; the Walls fall down; Men, Women, and Cattel deſtroyed, 15—21. Rahab and her kindred are ſaved, 22—25. Joſhua curſeth the Man who ſhould rebuild Jericho, 26.

1 NOW Jericho † was ſtraitly ſhut up a, becauſe of the children of Iſrael, none went out, and none came in. † Heb. did ſhut up, and was ſhut up.

a Not only by night, as before, Joſh. 2. 5. but conſtantly and diligently.

2 And the LORD ſaid unto Joſhua, See, I have given into thine hand Jericho, and the king thereof, and the mighty men of valour b.

b Who are in it, reſolved and ready to defend it with their utmoſt ſtrength.

3 And ye ſhall compaſs the City, all ye men of war, and go round about the City once c: thus ſhalt thou do ſix days d.

c At convenient diſtance, out of the reach of their Arrows. d Every day once. This and the following courſe might ſeem ridiculous and abſurd, and is therefore preſcribed and uſed by God, that they might learn to take new meaſures of things, and to expect ſucceſs not from their own valour, or skill, or probable means, but meerly from Gods appointment and bleſſing; and in general, not to judge of any of Gods Inſtitutions by meer carnal reaſon, to which divers of their Ceremonies would ſeem no leſs fooliſh than this action; and that they might have a full Demonſtration of the All-ſufficiency of that God who can do what he pleaſeth, even by the moſt contemptible means.

4 And ſeven prieſts ſhall bear before the ark ſeven trumpets of rams horns e: and the ſeventh day ye ſhall compaſs the City ſeven times, and the Prieſts ſhall blow with the trumpets.

e Or, of the Jubilees; i. e. ſuch Trumpets wherewith they were to ſound in the years of Jubile, Lev. 25. 9. Either this, or one of the other ſix was certainly a Sabbath-day; and it is not material which was it, for the Command of the Lord of the Sabbath was ſufficient to legitimate any Action.

5 And it ſhall come to paſs, that when they make a long blaſt f with the rams horns, and when ye hear the ſound of the trumpet, all the people ſhall ſhout with a great ſhout: and the wall of the City g ſhall fall down † flat, h and the people ſhall aſcend up every man ſtraight before him. † Heb. under it.

f As is uſual in the cloſe of muſical ſounds. g Not all of it; which was not only unneceſſary, but inconvenient, and might have given the people better opportunity of eſcaping, but only a conſiderable part of it where the Iſraelites might fitly enter: for Rahabs houſe was not overthrown, v. 22. h Heb. under it, i. e. below the place they ſtood in: Or, in its place: it was not battered down with Engines, which would have made part of it fall out of its place; but it fell out without any force, and of its own accord, and therefore in the place it did formerly ſtand in.

6 And Joſhua the ſon of Nun called the prieſts, and ſaid unto them, Take up the ark of the covenant, and let ſeven prieſts bear ſeven trumpets of rams horns before the ark of the LORD.

7 And he ſaid unto the people, Paſs on, and compaſs the city, and let him that is armed i paſs on before the ark of the LORD.

i God would have them armed both for the defence of themſelves and the Ark, in caſe the Enemies ſhould make a ſally upon them, and for the Execution of the Lords vengeance upon that City.

8 And it came to paſs when Joſhua had ſpoken unto the people, that the ſeven prieſts bearing the ſeven trumpets of rams horns paſſed on before the LORD, and blew with the trumpets: and the ark of the covenant of the LORD followed them.

9 And the armed men went before the Prieſts that blew with the trumpets: and the † rereward came k after the ark, the prieſts l going on, and blowing with the Trumpets.

k Which being oppoſed to the armed men, may ſeem to note the unarmed people, who were deſirous to be Spectators of this wonderful work. l Which is rightly ſupplied here from v. 4.

10 And Joſhua commanded the people, ſaying, Ye ſhall not ſhout m, nor † make any noiſe with your voice, neither ſhall any word proceed out of your mouth, until the day I bid you ſhout, then ſhall ye ſhout.

m Becauſe ſhouting before the time appointed, would be ineffectual, and ſo might give them ſome Diſcouragement, and their Enemies matter of inſulting.

11 So the Ark of the LORD compaſſed the city, going about it once: and they came into the camp, and lodged in the camp.

12 And Joſhua roſe early in the morning, and the prieſts took up the ark of the LORD.

13 And ſeven prieſts bearing ſeven trumpets of rams horns before the ark of the LORD, went on continually, and blew with the trumpets: and the armed men went before them, but the rereward came after the ark of the LORD the prieſts going on, and blowing with the Trumpets.

14 And the ſecond day they compaſſed the City once, and returned into the camp: ſo they did ſix days.

15 And it came to paſs on the ſeventh day, that they roſe early about the dawning of the day, and compaſſed the city after the ſame manner, ſeven times: only on that day they compaſſed the city ſeven times.

16 And it came to paſs at the ſeventh time, when the prieſts blew with the trumpets, Joſhua ſaid unto the people, Shout [n], for the LORD hath given you the city.

[n] To teſtifie your faith in Gods promiſe, and thankfulneſs for this glorious mercy, and to encourage your ſelves and Brethren, and to ſtrike a terrour into your Enemies.

21 And they utterly deſtroyed all that was in the City, both man and woman, young and old [u], and ox, and ſheep, and aſs, with the edge of the ſword.

24 And they burnt the city with fire, and all that was therein: only the ſilver, and the gold, and the veſſels of braſs, and of iron, they put into the treaſury of the houſe of the LORD.

1 BUT the children of Iſrael [a] committed a treſpaſs in the accurſed thing [b]: for * Achan the ſon of Carmi, the ſon of Zabdi, [c] the ſon of Zerah [d] of the tribe of Judah, took of the accurſed thing: and the anger of the LORD was kindled againſt the children of Iſrael [e].

[a] (i. e.) One of them, by a very uſual Synecdoche or Enallage as Gen. 8. 4. and 19. 29. and Mat. 26. 8. where that is aſcribed to the Diſciples, which belonged to Judas only, John 12. 4. [b] (i. e.) In taking ſome of the forbidden and accurſed goods. [c] Called, alſo Zimri, 1 Chron. 2. 6. [d] Or, Zarah, who was Judah's immediate Son, Gen. 38. 30. who went with Judah into Egypt: and ſo for the filling up the 256 years that are ſuppoſed to come between that and this time, we muſt allow Achan to be now an Old-man, and his three Anceſtors to have begotten each his Son at about 60 years of Age; which at that time was not incredible nor unuſual. [e] Why did God puniſh the whole Society for this one mans ſin? Anſ. All of them were puniſhed for their own ſins, whereof each had a ſufficient proportion; but God took this occaſion to inflict the puniſhment upon the Society, partly becauſe divers of them might be guilty of this ſin, either by coveting what he actually did, or by concealing of his fault, which it is probable could not be unknown to others; or by not ſorrowing for it, and endeavouring to purge themſelves from it: partly to make ſin the more hateful; as being the cauſe of ſuch dreadful and publick Judgments: and partly to oblige all the members of every ſociety to be both more circumſpect in the ordering of their own actions, and more diligent to watch over one another, and to prevent the miſcarriages of their Brethren, which is a great benefit and bleſſing to them, and to the whole Society, and worthy to be purchaſed by a ſharp affliction upon the Society.

2 And Joſhua ſent men from Jericho to Ai [f], which is beſide [g] Beth-aven [h], on the eaſt-ſide of Beth-el [i], and ſpake unto them, ſaying, Go up and view the countrey And the men went up and viewed Ai.

3 And they returned to Joſhua, and ſaid unto him, Let not all the people go up: but let † about two or three thouſand men go up [k], and ſmite Ai, and make not all the people to labour thither, for they are but few.

[k] Which was done by the Wiſe contrivance of Divine Providence, that their Sin might be puniſhed, and they awakened and reformed with as little hazard, and miſchief, and reproach, as might be: For if the Defeat of theſe cauſed ſo great a conſternation in Joſhua, it is eaſie to gueſs what dread, and confuſion, and deſpair, it would have cauſed in the People, if a great Hoſt had been defeated.

4 So there went up thither of the people, about three thouſand men, and they fled [l] before the men of Ai.

[l] Not having their uſual Courage to ſtrike a ſtroke, which was a plain Evidence that God had forſaken them; and an uſeful inſtruction, to ſhew them what weak and inconſiderable

Creatures they were when God left them; and that it was God, not their own valour, that gave the Canaanites and their Land into their hands.

5 And the men of Ai ſmote of them about thirty and ſix men m: for they chaſed them from before the gate, even unto Shebarim, and ſmote them in the † going down n: wherefore the heart of the people melted, and became as water o.

† Or, in Morad.

m A dear Victory to them, whereby Iſrael was awakened, and reformed, and reconciled to their God and Shield, and they hardned to their own ruine. n By which it ſeems it was a down-hill way to Jericho, which was nearer Jordan. o Soft and weak, and full of fluctuation and trembling.

6 ¶ And Joſhua rent his Clothes p, and fell to the earth upon his face q, before the Ark of the LORD, until the even-tide r, he, and the Elders of Iſrael, and put duſt upon their heads s.

p In Teſtimony of great Sorrow, as Gen. 37. 34. and 44. 13. for the loſs felt, the conſequent miſchief feared, and the ſin which he ſuſpected. q In deep humiliation and fervent ſupplication. r Continuing the whole day in Faſting and Prayer. ſ As was uſual in caſe of grief and aſtoniſhment, 1 Sam. 4. 12. 2 Sam. 1. 2. and 13. 19. Jon. 3. 6. Mich. 1. 10.

7 And Joſhua ſaid, Alas, O LORD GOD; wherefore haſt thou at all brought this people over Jordan t, to deliver us into the hand of the Amorite to deſtroy us? would to God we had been content, and dwelt on the other ſide Jordan.

t This and the following Clauſe, though well intended, and offered to God only by way of Expoſtulation and Argument, yet do ſavour of Humane Infirmity, and fall ſhort of that reverence, and modeſty, and ſubmiſſion, which he owed to God; and are mentioned as inſtances that the Holy men of God were ſubject to like paſſions and infirmities with other men.

8 O LORD, what ſhall I ſay u, when Iſrael x turneth their † backs before their Enemies?

† Heb. necks.

u In anſwer to the reproaches caſt by our inſulting Enemies upon us, and upon thy name. x Gods own people, which he hath ſingled out of all Nations for his own peculiar.

9 For the Canaanite, and all the inhabitants of the land ſhall hear of it, and ſhall environ us round, and cut off our name from the earth: and what wilt thou do unto thy great Name y?

y Which will upon this occaſion be Blaſphemed and charged with inconſtancy, unkindneſs, and unfaithfulneſs to thine own people, and with inability to reſiſt them, or to do thy people that good thou didſt intend them. Compare Exod. 32. 12. Numb. 14. 13. Deut. 33. 27. Joel 2. 17.

10 ¶ And the Lord ſaid unto Joſhua, Get thee up; wherefore † lieſt thou thus upon thy face z?

† Heb. falleſt.

z This buſineſs is not to be done by unactive Supplication, but by vigorous endeavours for reformation.

11 Iſrael a hath ſinned, and they have alſo tranſgreſſed my covenant b which I commanded them: for they have even taken of the accurſed thing c, and have alſo ſtollen d, and diſſembled e alſo, and they have put it even amongſt their own ſtuff f.

a Some or one of them, as before on v. 1. b (i. e.) Broken the conditions of my Covenant which I have commanded them, and they have promiſed to perform, viz. Obedience to all my Commands, Exod. 19. 8. and 24. 7. whereof this was one, not to meddle with the accurſed thing. c Which I charged them not to meddle with. d (i. e.) Taken my portion which I had reſerved, Joſ. 6. 19. e Covered the fact with deep diſſimulation, and a real, if not verbal profeſſion of their innocency. Poſſibly Achan might be ſuſpected, and being accuſed, had denied it, or was reſolved to deny it. f Converted it to their own uſe, and added obſtinacy and reſolvedneſs to the crime; thus he loads this Sin with divers aggravations.

12 Therefore the children of Iſrael could not ſtand before their enemies, but turned their backs before their enemies, becauſe they were accurſed g, neither will I be with you any more, except ye deſtroy the accurſed perſon from among you.

g As I warned and threatened them, Joſ. 6. 18. they have put themſelves out of my Protection and Bleſſing, and therefore are liable to the ſame deſtruction which belongs to this accurſed People.

13 Up, ſanctifie the people, and ſay, Sanctifie your ſelves h againſt to morrow: for thus ſaith the LORD God of Iſrael, There is an accurſed thing in the midſt of thee, O Iſrael: thou canſt not ſtand before thine enemies, until ye take away the accurſed thing from among you.

h Purifie your ſelves from that defilement which you have all in ſome ſort contracted by this accurſed fact, and prepare your ſelves to appear before the Lord, as it is moſt probable they were required to do; as imploring and expecting the Sentence of God for the Diſcovery and Puniſhment of the Sin, and that the guilty perſon might hereby be awakened and terrified, and brought to a free and ſeaſonable confeſſion of his fault. And it is a marvellous thing that Achan did not on this occaſion acknowledge his Crime; but this is to be imputed to the heart-hardening power of Sin, which makes men grow worſe and worſe; partly to his Pride, being loath to take to himſelf the ſhame of ſuch a miſchievous and infamous action; partly to his ſelf-flattering and vain conceit, whereby he might think many others were guilty as well as he, and ſome of them might be taken, and he eſcape; and partly to the juſt judgment of God, whereby he blinds and hardens Sinners to their own ruine. See a like inſtance, Mat. 26. 21, 22, 25.

14 In the morning therefore ye ſhall be brought according to your tribes: and it ſhall be that the tribe which the LORD taketh i, ſhall come according to the families thereof: and the family which the LORD ſhall take, ſhall come by houſholds: and the houſholds which the LORD ſhall take, ſhall come man by man i Which ſhall be diſcovered or declared guilty by the Lot, which is diſpoſed by the Lord, Prov. 16. 33. and which was to be caſt in the Lords Preſence before the Ark. Of ſuch uſe of Lots, ſee 1 Sam. 14. 41, 42. Jon. 1. 7. Act. 1. 26.

15 And it ſhall be, that he that is taken with the accurſed thing, ſhall be burnt with fire k, he and all that he hath l: becauſe he hath tranſgreſſed the covenant of the LORD, and becauſe he hath wrought † folly m in Iſrael n.

k As perſons and things accurſed were to be. See Numb. 15. 30, 35. Deut. 13. 16. l His Children and Goods, as is noted, v. 24. according to the Law, Deut. 13. 16. m So Sin is oft called in Scripture, as Gen. 34. 7. Judg. 20. 6. &c. in oppoſition to the idle opinion of ſinners, who commonly eſteem it to be their wiſdom and intereſt. n (i. e.) Among the Church and people of God who had ſuch excellent Laws to direct them, and ſuch an All-ſufficient and gracious God to provide for them, without any ſuch indirect and unworthy practices.

16 ¶ So Joſhua roſe up early in the morning, and brought Iſrael by their tribes, and the tribe of Judah was taken.

17 And he brought the family o of Judah, and he took the family of the Zarhites: and he brought the family of the Zarhites, man by man p, and Zabdi was taken.

o Either, 1. the Tribe or people, as the word Family ſometimes ſignifies, as Judg. 13. 2. Zech. 12. 13. Amos 3. 1. Act. 3. 25. compared with Revel. 1. 7. Or, 2. the Families, as v. 14. the ſingular Number for the plural, the chief of each of their five Families, Numb. 26. 20, 21. p Not every individual perſon, as is evident from v. 18. but every Head of the ſeveral Houſes, or leſſer Families of that greater Family of the Zarhites, of which ſee 1 Chron. 2. 6.

18 And he q brought his houſhold, man by man, and Achan the ſon of Carmi, the ſon of Zabdi, the ſon of Zerah, of the tribe of Judah was taken.

q Either Joſhua, or Zabdi by Joſhua's appointment.

19 And Joſhua ſaid unto Achan, My ſon r give, I pray thee, glory to the LORD God of Iſrael s, and † make confeſſion unto him, and tell me now what thou haſt done; hide it not from me.

† Or, give praiſe.

r So he calls him, to ſhew, that this ſevere Inquiſition and Sentence did not proceed from any hatred to his perſon, which he loved as a Father doth his Son, and as a Prince ought to do each of his Subjects. s As thou haſt highly diſhonoured him, now take the ſhame and blame to thy ſelf, and aſcribe unto God the Glory of his Omniſcience in knowing thy ſin, of his Juſtice in puniſhing it in thee, and others for thy ſake; of his Omnipotency, which was obſtructed by thee; and of his Kindneſs and Faithfulneſs to his people, which was eclipſed by thy Wickedneſs; all which will now be evident by thy ſin confeſſed and puniſhed.

20 And Achan anſwered Joſhua, and ſaid, Indeed, I have ſinned t againſt the LORD u God of Iſrael x, and thus and thus have I done.

t He ſeems to make a ſincere and ingenuous Confeſſion, and loads his ſin with all juſt Aggravations. u Againſt his expreſs Command, and juſt Rights, and glorious Attributes. x The true God, who hath choſen me and all Iſrael to be the people of his peculiar love and care.

21 When I ſaw y among the ſpoil a goodly Babyloniſh garment z, and two hundred ſhekels a of ſilver, and a † wedge of gold, of fifty ſhekels weight; then I coveted them, and took them, and behold, they are hid in the earth in the midſt of my tent, and the ſilver under it b.

y He accurately deſcribes the progreſs of his ſin, which began at his eye, which he permitted to gaze and fix upon them, which inflamed his deſire, and made him covet them; and that deſire put him upon Action, and made him take them; and having taken, reſolve to keep them; and to that end hide them in his Tent. z Which were compoſed with great art with divers Colours, and of great price, as appears both from Scripture, Ezek. 23. 15. and from divers Heathen Authors. [See my Latin Synopſis] a To wit, in Weight, not in Coin; for as yet they received and payed Money by weight. b (i. e.) Under the Babyloniſh Garment; covered with it, or wrapt up in it.

22 So Joſhua ſent meſſengers c, and they ran d unto the tent, and behold, it e was hid in his tent, and the ſilver under it.

c That the truth of his Confeſſion might be evident and unqueſtionable, which ſome, peradventure might think was forced from him. d Partly longing to free themſelves and all the people from the Curſe under which they lay: and partly that none of Achans Relations or others might get thither before them, and take away thoſe things. e (i. e.) The parcel of things mentioned, v. 21. and 24.

23 And they took them out of the midſt of the tent, and brought them unto Joſhua, and unto all the children of Iſrael, and † laid them out before the LORD f.

† Heb. poured.

f Where Joſhua and the Elders continued yet in their Aſſembly waiting for the iſſue of this buſineſs.

24 And Joſhua, and all Iſrael with him, took Achan the ſon of Zereh, and the ſilver, and the garment, and the wedge of gold, and his ſons, and his daughters g, and his oxen, and his aſſes, and his ſheep h, and his tent, and all that he had: and they brought them unto the valley of Achor.

g But this ſeems hard and unjuſt, and therefore forbidden by God himſelf, Deut 24. 16. Anſ. 1. That Law was given to men, not to God, who certainly hath a more abſolute Right and Soveraignty over men, than one man hath over another. 2. Their Death was a Debt they owed to nature and to their own ſins, which Debt God may require when he pleaſeth; and he could not take it in more honourable and excellent Circumſtances than theſe, That the death of a very few in the beginning of a new Empire, and of their ſettlement in the land, might be uſeful to prevent the death of many thouſands who took warning by this dreadful Example, whom, if the fear of God did not, yet the love of their own, and of their dear Childrens lives would reſtrain from ſuch dangerous and pernicious practices. 3. It is very probable they were conſcious of the fact, as the Jewiſh Doctors affirm. If it be pretended that ſome of them were Infants; the Text doth not ſay ſo, but only calls them Sons and Daughters. And conſidering that Achan was an old man, as is moſt probable, becauſe he was the fifth perſon from Judah, (of which ſee on v. 1.) it ſeems moſt likely, that the Children were grown up, and ſo capable of knowing, and concealing, or diſcovering this Fact. Nor doth it follow, that they were not guilty, becauſe it is not ſaid ſo; for it is apparent, that many Circumſtances are omitted in divers hiſtorical Relations in Scripture, which ſometimes are ſupplied in other places. h Which, though not capable of ſin, nor of puniſhment properly ſo called, yet as they were made for mans uſe, ſo they are rightly deſtroyed for mans good; and being daily killed for our bodily food, it cannot ſeem ſtrange to kill them for the Inſtruction of our minds, that hereby we might learn the deteſtable and contagious nature of ſin, which involves innocent Creatures in its Plagues; and how much ſorer Puniſhments are reſerved for man, who having a Law given to him, and that excellent gift of Reaſon and Will to reſtrain him from the Tranſgreſſions of it, his guilt muſt needs be unſpeakably greater, and therefore his ſufferings more ſevere and terrible. Further, by this enumeration it appears, that he had no colour of neceſſity to induce him to this Fact, but was wholly inexcuſable.

25 And Joſhua ſaid, Why haſt thou troubled us? the LORD ſhall trouble thee this day. And all Iſrael ſtoned him with ſtones i, and burned them with fire, after they had ſtoned them with ſtones k.

i And burned him with fire; which is eaſily underſtood both out of the following words, and from Gods Command to do ſo, v. 15. which doubtleſs was here executed. k Qu. How could both theſe Deaths be inflicted upon them? Anſ. It ſeems they were ſtoned to death, which was the Puniſhment of ſuch Offenders, Lev. 24. 14. Numb. 15. 35. and not burned to death; and therefore the ſtoning only of Achan is mentioned here, and not his burning: and God would have their dead Carkaſſes burned to ſhew his utmoſt Deteſtation of ſuch perſons as break forth into ſins of ſuch a publick Scandal and Miſchief. And for the burning of Achan commanded v. 15. it ſeems not likely to be meant of his burning alive, becauſe that burning is common to him, and all that he hath, as is there expreſſed; but of the burning of his dead Carcaſs, and other lifeleſs things, as the manner was with accurſed things, Deut. 13. 16.

26 And they raiſed over him a great heap of ſtones l unto this day: ſo the LORD turned from the fierceneſs of his anger: wherefore the name of that place was called, * the valley of † Achor m unto this day.

* Iſa. 65. 10. Hoſ. 2. 15. † That is, trouble.

l As a Monument of the ſin and Judgment here mentioned, that others might be inſtructed and warned by the Example; and as a Brand of Infamy, as Joſh. 8. 29. 2 Sam. 18. 17. m Or, the valley of trouble, from the double trouble expreſſed v. 25.

CHAP. VIII.

God puts new courage into Joſhua: commands him to go and beſiege Ai, promiſing he ſhould take it, 1, 2. The Stratagem whereby it is taken, 3. It is burnt, 5—22. The King is taken priſoner: The inhabitants are put to the ſword: The cattel and goods ſpoiled: The King is hanged, 23—29. Joſhua builds an Altar, 30. Offers thereon, 31. Writes the Law on Stones, 32. It and it's Bleſſings and Curſes are read before the people, 33—35.

* Deut. 1. 21. & 7. 18.

1 AND the LORD ſaid unto Joſhua, * Fear not, neither be thou diſmayed: take all the people of war with thee a, and ariſe, and go up to Ai: ſee, I have given into thine hand the king of Ai, and his people, and his city, and his land.

a Partly, to ſtrengthen them againſt thoſe fears which their late Defeat had wrought in them; and partly that all of them might be partakers of this firſt ſpoil, and thereby be encouraged to proceed in their work. The weak multitude were not to go, becauſe they might have hindred them in the following Stratagem; and it was but fit that the Military Men who run the greateſt hazards, ſhould have the Precedency and Priviledge in the ſpoils.

* Chap. 6. 21. * Deut. 20. 14.

2 And thou ſhalt do to Ai b and her King, as thou didſt unto * Jericho and her King c: * only the ſpoil thereof, and the cattel thereof, ſhall ye take for a prey unto your ſelves: lay thee an ambuſh for the city behind it.

b (i. e.) The City and people of Ai. c (i. e.) Overcome and deſtroy them. This was enjoyned partly to chaſtiſe their laſt Inſolence, and the Triumphs and Blaſphemies which doubtleſs their ſucceſs produced: and partly to revive the dread and terrour which had been impreſſed upon the Canaanites by Jericho's ruine, and had been much abated by the late ſucceſs of Ai; and their confidence and expectation of further and greater ſucceſs much raiſed.

3 So Joſhua aroſe, and all the people of war, to go up againſt Ai c: And Joſhua choſe out thirty thouſand mighty men of valour, and ſent them away by night.

c (i.e.) To conſider and conclude about this Expedition of going againſt Ai; not as if all the people of war did actually go up, which was both unneceſſary and burdenſom, and might hinder their following deſign: but it ſeems to be reſolved by Joſhua and and all the Council of War, That the 30000 here following ſhould be ſelected for the Enterprize. Either, 1. the 30000 now mentioned; Or, 2. part of them; to wit, ſuch as were to lie in wait; as ſeems moſt probable both from the next verſe, which limits it to thoſe who were to lie in wait, and from v. 9. where what is here mentioned only by anticipation, is actually put in execution; and it is ſaid of them that were ſent forth, that they went to lie in ambuſh, and did ſo; and theſe were only 5000 men, as is expreſſed, v. 12. And the only inconvenience of this Expoſition is, That the Pronoun Relative them, is put without, or before its Antecedent; which is left to be gathered out of the following words, which is not unuſual in the Hebrew Tongue, as plainly appears from Exod. 14. 19. Numb. 18, 9. and 24. 17. Pſal. 87. 1. and 105. 19. and 114. 2. Prov. 7. 8. and 14. 26.

4 And he commanded them d, ſaying, Behold, ye ſhall lie in wait againſt the city, even behind the city: go not very far from the city, but be ye all ready:

d The ſame party laſt ſpoken of v. 3. even the 5000 mentioned v. 12. This hiſtorical Narration ſeems obſcure and intricate, and at firſt view to make three parties, one of 30000, v. 3. one of 5000, v. 12. which may ſeem to be two ſeveral Ambuſhes; and a third of all the people, v. 5. 11. But if it be more narrowly and conſiderately obſerved, it will appear, that there are only two parties ingaged in the taking of Ai, and but one Ambuſh, as plainly appears by comparing v. 9. (which manifeſtly ſpeaks of that party which is mentioned v. 3.) with v. 12. which ſpeaks only of 5000, which is juſtly ſuppoſed to be a part of thoſe 30000 named v. 3. and that part which was to lie in ambuſh; unleſs we will ſuppoſe that there were two Ambuſhes, one of 30000, and the other of 5000, both lying in wait in the ſame quarter, even between Bethel and Ai, on the weſt ſide of Ai, the only place where the Ambuſh lay, as is ſaid both v. 9 and 12, 13. which ſeems abſurd and incredible. And beſides, in the execution of this Command, there is mention but of one Ambuſh v. 12, 13, 14, 19. and they are ſaid to conſiſt only of 5000, v. 12. and they only take and burn the City, v. 19. ſo that the other ſuppoſed Ambuſh of 30000 is perfectly vaniſhed and loſt, and did nothing in this work; which alſo is very improbable. And therefore, that 30000 v. 3 are the ſame who are called the people, and the people of war that were with Joſhua, v. 5, 11. which is pitched on the North-ſide of Ai, v. 11. 13. as the Ambuſh did on the weſt-ſide; but for any other ſide of the City, or a third party placed elſewhere about Ai, we read not one word; and therefore it may well be preſumed there were no more imployed to take it.

5 And I, and all the people that are e with me, will approach unto the city: and it ſhall come to paſs, when they come out againſt us, as at the firſt, that we f will flee before them.

e Or, that ſhall be: for at preſent he ſent them away, v. 9. but the next morning followed them, and joyned himſelf with them, v. 10, 11. f I and the 25000 with me.

6 (For they will come out after us) till we † have drawn them from the city; for they will ſay, They flee before us, as at the firſt: therefore we will flee before them.

† Heb. pulled.

7 Then ye ſhall riſe up from the ambuſh f, and ſeize upon the city: for the LORD your God will deliver it into your hand.

f To wit, upon the ſignal given, of which v. 18.

8 And it ſhall be when ye have taken the city, that ye ſhall ſet the city on fire g: according to the commandment of the LORD ſhall ye do. See, I have commanded you.

g To wit, part of it, as a ſign to their Brethren of their ſucceſs; for the whole City was not burnt now, but afterwards; as is ſaid v. 28.

9 Joſhua therefore ſent them h forth, and they went to lie in ambuſh, and abode between Bethel and Ai, on the weſt-ſide of Ai: but Joſhua lodged that night among the people i.

h The ſame party deſigned by the Pronoun them, v. 3. of which ſee the Notes there. i Heb. that people, to wit, the people of war, as they are called, v. 11. to wit, the main body of that hoſt conſiſting of 30000.

10 And Joſhua roſe up early in the morning, and numbred the people k, and went up; he, and the elders of Iſrael l, before the people to Ai.

k Heb. that people, not all the people of Iſrael; which was needleſs, and required more time than could now be ſpared; but the reſt of that hoſt of 30000, whereof 5000 were ſent away; and now the remainder are numbred, partly to ſee whether ſome of them had not withdrawn themſelves, taking the advantage of the night, and of the deſign of laying an Ambuſh; and partly that it might be evident, that this work was done without any loſs of men, and thereby they might be encouraged to truſt in God, and to proceed vigorouſly and reſolutely in their work. l Either, 1. the military Elders, the chief Commanders of his Army. But they ſeem to be included in the 30000. v. 3. which are ſuppoſed to be furniſhed and led by their ſeveral Commanders; and ſuch perſons are ſcarce ever called the Elders of Iſrael. Or rather, 2. the chief Magiſtrates and Rulers of Iſrael under Joſhua, who are commonly ſo called; and theſe, I ſuppoſe, went with Joſhua, and with the Army, to take care that the Cattel and the Spoil of the City, which was given by God to all Iſrael for a prey, v. 2, 27. might be juſtly and equally divided between thoſe that went to battel, and the reſt of the people, according to the Example and Preſcript, Numb. 31. 27. and that they who were preſent and aſſiſtant in the taking of that City, might not ingroſs the whole to themſelves, as is uſual for Soldiers in thoſe caſes to do.

11 And all the people, even the people of war that were with him m, went up, and drew nigh, and came before the city, and pitched on the north-ſide of Ai: now there was a valley between them and Ai.

m To wit, the 30000 mentioned, v. 3. or the moſt of them.

12 And he took n about five thouſand men, and ſet them to lie in ambuſh between Bethel, and Ai, on the weſt-ſide † of the city.

† Or, of Ai.

n Or rather, but he had taken, to wit, out of the ſaid number of 30000, for this is added by way of Recapitulation and further Explication of what is ſaid in general, v. 9.

13 And when they had ſet the people, even all the hoſt that was on the north-ſide of the city, and † their liers in wait on the weſt of the city, Joſhua went o that night into the midſt of the valley p.

o To wit, accompanied with a ſmall part of the hoſt now mentioned, i. e. Very early in the morning, when it was yet dark, as is ſaid in a like caſe, Joh. 20. 1. whence it is here called Night, though it was early in the morning, as is ſaid, v. 10. for it ſeems moſt probable, that all was done in one Nights ſpace, and in this manner; Joſhua ſends away the Ambuſh by night, v. 3. and lodgeth that night with 25000 men, v. 9. not far from the city. But not able nor willing to ſleep all night, he riſes very early, v. 20. and numbers his men, which by the help of the ſeveral Officers was quickly done, and ſo immediately leads them towards Ai; and while it was yet duskiſh or night, he goes into the midſt of the valley, v. 13. and when the day dawns he is diſcovered by the King and people of Ai, who thereupon roſe up early to fight with them, v. 14. Though others conceive this was the ſecond night, and ſo the Ambuſh had lain hid a night and a day together. But then there might be danger of their being diſcovered, although that danger may ſeem to be the leſs, becauſe Ai might be ſhut up, that none might go out nor come in, but by Order, and upon Neceſſity, becauſe of the nearneſs of their Enemies, as Jericho formerly was for the ſame reaſon, Joſh. 6. 1. p Which was near the City, thereby to allure them forth.

14 And it came to paſs when the king of Ai ſaw it, that they haſted, and roſe up early, and the men of the city went out againſt Iſrael to battel, he, and all his people q, at a time appointed r, before the plain s, but he wiſt not that there were liers in ambuſh againſt him t, behind the city.

q To wit, all his men of war, for the reſt were left in Ai, v. 16. r At a certain hour agreed upon between the King and People of Ai, and of Bethel too, who were their Confederates in this Enterprize, as it may ſeem from v. 16. Poſſibly they might appoint the ſame hour of the day on which they had fought againſt Iſrael with ſuch good ſucceſs, looking upon it as a lucky hour. s (i. e.) Towards or in ſight of that plain or valley in which the Iſraelites were, that ſo they might put themſelves in Battel-array. t The former ſucceſs having made him more careleſs and ſecure, as is uſual in ſuch Caſes; God alſo blinding his mind, and infatuating him, as he uſeth to do with thoſe which he intends to deſtroy.

15 And Joſhua and all Iſrael made as if they were beaten before them u, and fled by the way of the wilderneſs x.

u (i. e.) Fled from them, as it were for fear of a ſecond blow: and peradventure ſome of them might be wounded, though none were killed; and might make that the pretence of their fleeing away. x Which lay between Ai and Jericho, whither they now ſeemed to flee.

16 And all the people y that were in Ai, were called together to purſue after them, and they purſued after Joſhua, and were drawn away from the city.

y To wit, all that were able to bear Arms, for old men and Children were unfit for the purſuit or fight; and that they were yet left, may ſeem from v. 24, 25.

17 And there was not a man z left in Ai, or Bethel a, that went not out after Iſrael: and they left the city open, and purſued after Iſrael.

z To wit, fit for war. a Which, being a neighbouring City, and incouraged by the former ſucceſs, had ſent ſome Forces to aſſiſt them; and now, upon notice ſent to them of the flight of their common Enemies, or upon ſome other ſignal given, which might eaſily be done, having been appointed before-hand, as is uſual in ſuch Caſes, all their men of War join with thoſe of Ai in the purſuit.

18 And the LORD ſaid unto Joſhua, Stretch out the ſpear b, that is in thy hand toward Ai, for I will give it into thine hand. And Joſhua ſtretched out the ſpear that he had in his hand toward the city.

b Or, thy banner: or there might be ſome banner in the end of his Spear. This was preſcribed and practiſed, either 1. for a ſign to his Hoſt preſent with him, to ſtop their flight, and make head againſt the purſuers: Or 2. for a ſignal to the liers in wait, as may ſeem from v. 19. who, though they were at ſome diſtance, might know this from perſons whom they had ſet in ſome high and convenient places to obſerve Joſhua's motion, and to give notice from one to another, and that ſpeedily, as is common in ſuch caſes, until it came to the whole ambuſh: Or 3. as a myſtical token of Gods preſence and aſſiſtance with them, and of their Victory; or as a mean by Gods appointment contributing to their good ſucceſs, as the like poſture of Moſes lifting up his hand was, Exod. 17. 11, 12. which may be the reaſon why he continued this poſture till the Enemies were all deſtroyed, v. 26. whereas if it had been a ſignal only, it was ſufficient to do it for a little while. I know no reaſon why all theſe ends might not be joined together.

19 And the ambuſh aroſe quickly out of their place, and they ran aſſoon as he had ſtretched out his hand: and they entred into the city, and took it, and haſted, and ſet the city c on fire.

c (i.e.) Not all of it, as appears both from v. 28. and becauſe then they had loſt that Prey which God had allowed them; but ſome part of it, enough to raiſe a ſmoke, and give notice to their Brethren of their ſucceſs.

20 And when the men of Ai looked behind them, they ſaw, and behold, the ſmoak of the city aſcended up to heaven, and they had no * power d to flee this way, or that way, and the people that fled to the wilderneſs, turned back upon the purſuers.

* Heb. Hand.

d Or, place, for ſo the Hebrew word is oft uſed, as Numb. 2. 17. Neh. 7. 4. Job 37. 7. Pſal. 104. 25. Iſa. 22. 18. and 56. 5.

21 And when Joſhua and all Iſrael e ſaw that the ambuſh had taken the city, and that the ſmoak of the city aſcended, then they turned again, and ſlew the men of Ai.

e (i. e.) All the Iſraelites there preſent, or all thoſe who ſeemed to flee away before.

22 And the other f iſſued out of the city againſt them, ſo they were in the midſt of Iſrael, ſome on this ſide, and ſome on that ſide, and they ſmote them ſo that they * let none of them remain or eſcape g.

* Deut. 7. 2.

f They who lay in Ambuſh. g So their late ſucceſs was a real miſchief to them, as being the occaſion of their total ruine.

23 And the king of Ai they took alive h, and brought him to Joſhua.

h Reſerving him to a peculiar and more ignominious puniſhment, for the terror of the other Kings, who were the chief cauſes of all that oppoſition and diſturbance which Iſrael met with in gaining the Poſſeſſion of the Promiſed Land.

24 And it came to paſs when Iſrael had made an end of ſlaying all the inhabitants of Ai, in the field, in the wilderneſs wherein they chaſed them, and when they were all fallen on the edge of the ſword, until they were conſumed, that all the Iſraelites returned unto Ai, and ſmote it i with the edge of the ſword.

i (i.e.) The inhabitants of it, the men, who through age or infirmity were unfit for War, and the women, v. 25.

25 And ſo it was, that all that fell that day, both of men and women, were twelve thouſand, even all the men of Ai k.

k Not ſtrictly, but largely ſo called, who were now in Ai, either as conſtant and ſettled Inhabitants, or as Sojourners and ſuch as came to them for their help, ſuch as being confederate with them, are eſteemed as one with them; for it is evident that the men of Bethel are included in this number, v. 17. the Iſraelites who took this number, being unable to diſtinguiſh who belonged to the one City, and who to the other.

26 For Joſhua drew not his hand back, wherewith he ſtretched out the ſpear l, until he had utterly deſtroyed all the inhabitants of Ai.

l Either 1. he ceaſed not to Fight with that Hand. Or 2. He kept his Hand and Spear in the ſame poſture, both ſtretched out and lifted up, as a Sign both to encourage them, and to direct them to go on in the work. See on v. 18.

27 * Only the cattel, and the ſpoil of that city, Iſrael took for a prey unto themſelves, according unto the word of the LORD, which he * commanded Joſhua.

* Numb. 31. 22, 26.
* Verſ. 1.

28 And Joſhua burnt Ai, and made it an heap for ever m, even a deſolation unto this day.

m Or, for a long time, as that word oft ſignifies, as Gen. 6. 3. Iſa. 42. 14. For that it was after ſome Ages rebuilt, may ſeem from Nehem. 11. 31. unleſs that were another City built near the former, there being ſome little difference in the name alſo.

29 And the king of Ai he hanged on a tree n, until even-tide: and aſſoon as the ſun was down, Joſhua commanded, that they ſhould take his carcaſe down from the tree o, and caſt it at the entring of the gate of the city p, and * raiſe thereon a great heap of ſtones, that remaineth unto this day.

* Chap. 7. 26.

n He dealt more ſeverely with the Kings of Canaan than with the people, partly becauſe the abominable wickedneſs of that people was not reſtrained and puniſhed (as it ſhould have been) but countenanced and encouraged by their evil examples and adminiſtrations; and partly becauſe they were the principal Authors of the deſtruction of their own people, by engaging them in an obſtinate oppoſition againſt the Iſraelites. o According to Gods command in that caſe, Deut. 21. 22. p Which place he choſe either as moſt commodious, now eſpecially when all the city within the gate was already turned into an heap of Stones and Rubbiſh; or becauſe this was the uſual place of Judgment; and therefore proper to bear the monument of Gods juſt ſentence againſt him, not without reflection upon that Injuſtice which he had been guilty of in that place.

30 Then q Joſhuah built an altar r unto the LORD God of Iſrael into mount Ebal ſ.

q To wit, after the taking of Ai. For they were obliged to do this, when they were brought over Jordan into the Land of Canaan, Deut. 11. 29. and 27. 2, 3. which is not to be underſtood ſtrictly, as if it were to be done the ſame moment or day; for it is manifeſt they were firſt to be Circumciſed, and to eat the Paſſover, which they did, and which was the work of ſome days; but as ſoon as they had opportunity to do it, which was now when theſe two great Frontier Cities were taken and deſtroyed, and thereby the Coaſt cleared, and the bordering people under great conſternation and confuſion, that all the Iſraelites might ſecurely march thither. And indeed this work was fit to be done as ſoon as might be, that thereby they might renew their covenant with, and profeſs their ſubjection to that God by whoſe help alone they could expect Succeſs in their great and difficult enterpriſe. r To wit, for the Offering of Sacrifices, as appears from the following verſe, and from Deut. 27. 5, 6, 7. ſ Why not on mount Gerizim alſo? Anſ. becauſe Gods Altar was to be but in one place, Deut. 12. 13, 14, and this place was appointed to be Mount Ebal, Deut. 27. 4, 5. which alſo ſeems moſt proper for it, that in that place whence the Curſes of the Law were denounced againſt Sinners, there might alſo be the tokens and means of Grace, and Peace, and Reconciliation with God, for the removing of the Curſes, and the procuring of Gods Bleſſing unto Sinners.

*Exod. 20. 25. Deut. 27. 5.

31 As Moſes the ſervant of the LORD commanded the children of Iſrael, as it is written in the *book of the law of Moſes, an altar of whole ſtones, over which no man hath lift up any iron; and they offered thereon burnt-offerings unto the LORD, and ſacrificed peace-offerings.

32 And he wrote there upon the ſtones t a copy of the law of Moſes u, which he wrote in the preſence of the children of Iſrael.

t Not upon the Stones of the Altar, which were to be rough and unpoliſhed, v. 13. but upon other Stones, ſmooth and plaiſtered, as is manifeſt from Deut. 27. 2. u Not certainly the whole five Books of Moſes, for what Stones and time would have ſufficed for this! nor the Bleſſings and the Curſes here following, which never are nor can without great impropriety be called the Law of Moſes, ſeeing they preſuppoſe the Law, and the Obſervation or Tranſgreſſion thereof, to which they belong, only as rewards of the one, and puniſhments of the other: but the moſt weighty and ſubſtantial parts of the Law, as may be gathered from the Laws which are mentioned, and to the violaters whereof the Curſes are applied, Deut. 27. 15, &c. and eſpecially the Law of the Ten Commandments.

*Deut. 11. 29. and 27. 12.

33 And all Iſrael x, and their elders, and officers, and their judges ſtood on this ſide the ark, and on that ſide y before the prieſts and Levites, which bare the ark of the covenant of the LORD, as well the ſtranger, as he that was born among them: half of them over againſt mount Gerizim z, and half of them over againſt mount Ebal * as Moſes the ſervant of the LORD had commanded before, that they ſhould bleſs a the people of Iſrael.

x (i. e.) The whole congregation, old and young, male and female, as it follows, v. 35. y (i. e.) Some on one ſide of it, and ſome on the other. z Theſe two places were in the Tribe of Ephraim, not far from Shechem, as appears both from Scripture, Deut. 11. 29, 30. and 27. 12. Judg. 9. 7. and from other Authors who lived in thoſe parts, as Joſephus and the Jewiſh Doctors. a Or Curſe, which is eaſily underſtood out of the following verſe, and from Deut. 27. 13, &c.

34 And afterward b he read c all the words of the law, the bleſſings and curſings d, according to all that is written in the book of the law e.

b After the Altar was built, and the Stones plaiſtered and writ upon. c (i. e.) He commanded the Prieſts or Levites to read, Deut. 27. 14. d Which words come in not by way of Explication, as if the words of the law were nothing elſe beſides the Bleſſings and Curſes; but by way of addition, to note that theſe were read over and above the words of the Law. e He ſaith not, according to all that was written upon thoſe Stones, but in the Book of the Law, which ſhews the miſtake of them that think the ſame things were both read and written upon theſe Stones.

*Deut. 31. 12.
*Heb. walked.

35 There was not a word of all that Moſes commanded, which Joſhua read not f before all the congregation of Iſrael, * with the women and the little ones, and the ſtrangers that * were converſant among them g.

f Therefore he read not the Bleſſings and Curſes only, as ſome think, but the whole Law, as the manner was when all Iſrael, Men and Women, were Aſſembled together, as we read Deut. 31. 10, 11, 12. g i. e. Who were Proſelytes, for no others can be ſuppoſed to be with them at this time.

CHAP. IX.

The Kings of Canaan hear of Joſhua's exploits; conſult together, and conclude to fight againſt Iſrael, 1——2. the Gibeonites feigning themſelves to be of a far country, obtain a League, 3——15. The Craft is diſcovered; the Promiſe which was confirmed with an oath remains firm, 16——20. But for a puniſhment they are condemned to perpetual ſlavery, 21——27.

1 AND it came to paſs when all the kings which were on this ſide Jordan, in the hill, and in the valley, and in all the coaſt of the great ſea over againſt Lebanon, the Hittite, and the Amorite, the Canaanite, the Perizzite, the Hivite and the Jebuſite heard thereof:

2 That they gathered themſelves together a to fight with Joſhua, and with Iſrael with one * accord. *Heb. Mouth.

a Not actually, as the following Hiſtory ſhews; but they entred into a league or confederation to do this.

3 And b when the inhabitants of Gideon c heard what Joſhua had done unto Jericho, and to Ai, b Or, But; for he ſhews that theſe took another and a wiſer courſe. c A great and royal city of the Hivites, Joſ. 10. 2. and 11. 19.

4 They did work wilily, and went and made as if they had been ambaſſadours d, and took old ſacks upon their aſſes, and wine-bottles, old and rent, and bound up, d Sent from a far country, as they ſay, v. 6.

5 And old ſhooes and clouted upon their feet, and old garments upon them; and all the bread of their proviſion was dry and mouldy:

6 And they went to Joſhua, unto the camp at Gilgal e, and ſaid unto him, and to the men of Iſrael f, We be come from a far country: now therefore g make ye a league with us e The place of their Head-quarters. f To wit, thoſe who uſed to meet in Counſel with Joſhua, to whom it belonged to make Leagues, as it here follows, even the Princes of the Congregation; not the common people, as appears both from v. 15, 18, 19, 21. and from common uſage of all Ambaſſadors, who generally deliver their meſſage to, and treat with Princes, not people. And the Hebrew word iſch, here uſed, ſometimes notes men of eminency and dignity. g Becauſe we are not of this people, whom, as we are informed, you are obliged utterly to deſtroy; that which appeared ſufficiently, by the Iſraelites practice in deſtroying the Amorites beyond Jordan, and the people of Jericho and Ai, without any allowance for Sex or Age; and by common rumour, and the report of the Iſraelites and other perſons who dwelt among them, or had converſe with them, as Rahab and all her kindred; and by the nature of the thing, becauſe they were to poſſeſs that whole Land, and were not to mix themſelves with the people of it.

7 And the men of Iſrael ſaid unto the Hivite g, Peradventure ye dwell among us h, and how ſhall we make a league with you?

g i. e. The Gibeonites who were Hivites, Joſ. 11. 19. h i. e. In this Land, and ſo are of that people with whom we are forbidden to make any League or Covenant, Exod. 23. 32, 33, 34. Deut. 7. 2. and 20. 15, 16.

8 And they ſaid unto Joſhua, We are thy ſervants i. And Joſhua ſaid unto them, Who are ye? and from whence come ye k?

i We deſire a League with you upon your own terms; we are ready to accept of any conditions. k For this free and general conceſſion of theirs gave Joſhua juſt cauſe to ſuſpect that they were of the curſed Canaanites.

9 And they ſaid unto him, From a very far country thy ſervants are come, becauſe of the Name of the LORD l thy God: for we have heard the fame of him, and all that he did in Egypt m.

l Being moved thereunto by the report of his great and glorious nature and works; ſo they gave them hopes that they would embrace their Religion. m They cunningly mention thoſe things only which were done ſome time ſince, and ſay nothing of the dividing of Jordan, nor of the deſtruction of Jericho and Ai, as if they lived ſo far off that the fame of thoſe things had not yet reached them.

10 And * all that he did to the two kings of the Amorites, that were beyond Jordan, to Sihon king of Heſhbon, and to Og, king of Baſhan, which was at Aſhtaroth. *Num. 21. 24, 33.

11 Wherefore our Elders and all the inhabitants of our country, ſpake to us, ſaying, Take Victuals * with you for the journey, and go to meet them, and ſay unto them, We are your ſervants, therefore now make ye a league with us. *Heb. in your hand.

12 This our bread we took hot for our proviſion out of our houſes, on the day we came forth to go unto you: but now behold, it is dry, and it is mouldy.

13 And theſe bottles of wine which we filled, were new, and behold, they be rent: and theſe our garments and our ſhooes are become old, by reaſon of the very long journey.

* Or, they receiv'd the men by reaſon of their victuals.

14 And * the men n took of their victuals o, and asked not counſel at the mouth of the LORD p.

n i. e. The Princes as before v. 7. o Not from their want or any deſire they could have to ſuch unpleaſant and unwholeſome food: nor in a Ceremony uſual in making Leagues, for that was not now done, but in the next verſe: but that they might examine the truth of what they ſaid. p As they ought to have done upon all ſuch weighty and doubtful occaſions. So they are accuſed of raſhneſs and neglect of their Duty. For though it is probable, if God had been conſulted, he would have conſented to the ſparing of the Gibeonites; yet it ſhould have been done with more caution, and an obligation left upon them to embrace the true Religion which here was omitted.

15 And Joſhua made peace with them, and made a league with them, to let them live q: and the princes of the congregation ſware unto them.

q (i. e.) That they would not deſtroy them. Some queſtion whether this League was lawful and obliging, becauſe it is contrary to a poſitive and precedent Law of God, by which they were enjoyned to make no peace with them, but utterly to deſtroy them, Exod. 23. 32. and 34. 12, &c. But this law ſeems to admit of ſome exception and favourable interpretation, and that taken from the reaſon and ſoul of that Law; which was this, that the Iſraelites might not be tainted with their Idolatry and other Abominations by cohabitation with them; and therefore when that reaſon ceaſed, (i. e.) if they were willing to relinquiſh their Poſſeſſions and Idolatry, and other wickedneſs, and to embrace the true Religion, they might be ſpared. And tho this Law was delivered in general terms, becauſe God foreſaw that the Iſraelites would be moſt prone to err on that hand, by ſparing thoſe whom they ſhould deſtroy; yet that it was to be underſtood with an exception of Penitents, and true Converts, might eaſily be gathered both from the example of Rahab, and from the Tenor of Divine Threatnings, which though abſolutely delivered, allow of this exception; as appears from Jer. 18. 7, 8. Jonah 3. 4. and from the great kindneſs and favour which God hath manifeſted unto all true Penitents, in delivering them from evils threatned to them, and inflicted upon others; which kindneſs of God we alſo are obliged to imitate by virtue of that natural and moral Law of God implanted in us, and revealed to us, to which ſuch poſitive Commands as this of killing the Canaanites muſt give place. And that this League was lawful and obliging, may ſeem probable, 1. Becauſe Joſhua and all the Princes upon the review concluded it ſo to be, and ſpared them accordingly, v. 19, 20, 22, 23. 2. Becauſe God puniſhed the violation of it long after, 2 Sam. 21. 1. 3 Becauſe God is ſaid to have hardened the hearts of all other Cities, not to ſeek Peace with Iſrael, that ſo he might utterly deſtroy them, Joſ. 11. 19, 20. which ſeems to imply that their utter Deſtruction did not neceſſarily come upon them by vertue of any abſolute and peremptory Command of God to deſtroy them, but by their own obſtinate hardneſs, whereby they neglected and refuſed to make peace with the Iſraelites. Obj. This League was grounded upon a Deceit and Errour of the Perſons, which alſo they had entred a caution againſt, v. 7. Anſ. Their ſuppoſition that they were Canaanites, was indeed a part of the foregoing Diſcourſe, v. 7. and the Iſraelites reſted ſatisfied with their Anſwer, and believed they were not, and ſo entered into the League; but that League was abſolute, not ſuſpended upon that or any other condition; and the error was not about the perſons, but about the country and People to which they belonged, which was not material to this Contract, no more than it is to a Contract of Marriage, that the one perſon believed the other to be of another Country or Family than indeed they were.

16 ¶ And it came to paſs at the end of three days r, after they had made a league with them, that they heard that they were their neighbours, and that they dwelt among them.

r (i. e.) At the laſt of them, or upon the third day, as it is ſaid, v. 17. ſo this phraſe is elſewhere uſed, as Deut. 14. 28. and 31. 10. Or it may be properly underſtood, that after three days they heard this, and on the day after they heard this, they came to their Cities, as is ſaid, v. 17.

17 And the children of Iſrael journeyed, and came unto their cities on the third day: now their cities were Gibeon, and Chephirah, and Beeroth and Kirjath-jearim ſ.

ſ Which Cities were ſubject to Gibeon, which was the Royal City, Joſ. 10. 2.

18 And the children of Iſrael ſmote them not, becauſe the princes of the congregation had ſworn unto them by the LORD God of Iſrael: and all the congregation murmured againſt the Princes t.

t Partly from that proneneſs which is in people to cenſure the actions of their Rulers; partly becauſe they might think the Princes by their raſhneſs had brought them into a ſnare, that they could neither Kill them for fear of the Oath, nor Spare them for fear of Gods Command to the contrary; and partly from their deſire of the poſſeſſion and ſpoil of theſe Cities, of which they thought themſelves hereby deprived.

19 But all the Princes ſaid unto all the congregation, We have ſworn unto them by the LORD u God of Iſrael: now therefore we may not touch them x.

u They plead not the lawfulneſs, or the prudence of the action; but only the Obligation of an Oath; of which, though it was procured by Fraud, they perceived the people ſufficiciently ſenſible. x (i. e.) Not hurt them, as that word is oft uſed, as Gen. 26. 11. Pſal. 105. 15. and 144. 5. or not ſmite them, as is ſaid v. 18.

20 This y we will do to them: we will even let them live, leſt wrath be upon us, becauſe of the breach of the Oath which we ſware unto them.

y Which follows, v. 21.

21 And the princes ſaid unto them, Let them live (but let them be hewers of wood, and drawers of water unto all the congregation z) as the princes had * promiſed them a. *Ver. 15.

z i.e. Let them be publick Servants, and employed in the meaneſt Offices and Drudgeries (ſuch as this was, this one kind being put for all the reſt, as it is Deut. 29. 11.) for the uſe and benefit of the Congregation; to do this partly for the Sacrifices and Services of the Houſe of God, as it is expreſſed v. 23. which otherwiſe the Iſraelites themſelves muſt have done; partly for the Service of the Camp or body of the people; and ſometimes upon occaſion, even to particular Iſraelites: whence they are made Bond-men, which is mentioned as a thing diſtinct from their ſervice in the Houſe of God, v. 23. And ſo they are in effect ſtripped of all their Poſſeſſions, whereby the main ground of the Peoples Quarrel was taken away. a Or, becauſe or ſeeing that (as the Hebrew word ſometimes ſignifies) the Princes (i. e. we our ſelves, they ſpeak of themſelves in the third perſon, which is very frequent in the Hebrew Language) had promiſed it to them, to wit, that they ſhould live; and confirmed their promiſe by an Oath. So the Princes ſpeaking here to the People, alledge the Promiſe or Oath of the Princes, when they met among themſelves, and apart from the People. And this change of perſons may poſſibly ariſe from hence, becauſe ſome of the Princes who were preſent in the Aſſembly of the Princes, might now be abſent upon ſome occaſion. And this clauſe relates not to the next words, which are fitly encloſed within a Parentheſis, but to the foregoing clauſe, let them live, becauſe the Princes have promiſed them their Lives.

22 And Joſhua called for them, and he ſpake unto them, ſaying, Wherefore have ye beguiled us, ſaying, We are very far from you: when ye dwell among us?

23 Now therefore ye are curſed b, and there ſhall † † Heb. not none of you be freed from being bondmen c, and hew- be cut off ers of wood, and drawers of water for the houſe of my from you.
God d.

b You ſhall not eſcape the Curſe of God which by Divine Sentence belongs to all the Canaanites, who are a People devoted by God to ruine; but only change the quality of it, you ſhall feel that Curſe of Bondage and Servitude, which is proper to your race by vertue of that ancient decree, Gen. 9 25. you ſhall live indeed, but in a poor, vile and miſerable condition. c The Slavery which is upon you ſhall be entailed to your poſterity. d This only Service they mention here, becauſe it was their principal and moſt durable ſervitude, being firſt in the Tabernacle, and then in the Temple, whence they were called Nethinims, 1 Chron. 9. 2. Ezra 2. 43. whereas their ſervitude to the whole congregation would in a great meaſure ceaſe when the Iſraelites were diſperſed to their ſeveral habitations.

24 And they anſwered Joſhua and ſaid, Becauſe it was certainly told thy ſervants, how that the LORD thy God * commanded his ſervant Moſes, to give you all the *Deut. 7. land, and to deſtroy all the inhabitants of the land from 1, 2.
before you, therefore we were ſore afraid of our lives, becauſe of you, and have done this thing.

25 And now behold, we are in thine hand e: as it ſeemeth good and right unto thee to do unto us, do f.

e i. e. In thy power to uſe as as thou wilt. f We refer our ſelves to thee and thy own Piety, and Probity, and Faithfulneſs to thy Word and Oath; If thou wilt deſtroy thy humble Suppliants, we ſubmit.

26 And ſo did he unto them, and delivered them out of the hand of the children of Iſrael, that they ſlew them not.

g So as was ſaid, v. 23. and ſo as here follows.

27 And Joſhua made them that day hewers of wood, and drawers of water for the congregation, and for the altar of the LORD h, even unto this day, in the place which he ſhould chuſe.

h By which it appears, that they were not only to do this Service in Gods Houſe, but upon all other occaſions, as the Congregation needed or required their help.

CHAP. X.

Five of the Kings of Canaan afraid of Joſhua, are angry with the Gibeonites and wage war againſt them, they ſend to Joſhua for Succours 1—6. He Reſcues them, 7—10. God caſts down Hailſtones upon the Enemy, 11. Joſhua Prays to God and commands the Sun to ſtand ſtill, which it does for the ſpace of a day, 13—15. The five Kings hide themſelves in Caves where Joſhua cauſeth them to be ſhut up, afterwards to be brought forth, ſcornfully uſed and hanged, and thrown into a Cave by Makkeda, 16—27. This place taken, the King, City, and all therein are burnt; Joſhua doth the ſame to Libnah and Lachiſh, 28—32. To Gezer, Eglon, Hebron, Debir, and all the Land, 33—42. Joſhua returns to Gilgall, 43.

NOW it came to paſs, when Adoni-zedek king of Jeruſalem had heard how Joſhua had taken Ai, and had utterly deſtroyed it (* as he had done to Jericho and * Chap. 6. her king, ſo he had done to * Ai, and her king) and how 15.
the inhabitants of Gibeon had made peace with Iſrael, * Chap. 8. and were among them a. 3.

a i.e. Were converſant with them, had yielded themſelves to their diſpoſal, ſubmitted themſelves to their Laws, had mingled intereſts with them.

2 That they b feared greatly, becauſe Gibeon was a great city, as one of the † royal cities c, and becauſe it † Heb. Cities of the was greater than Ai, and all the men thereof were mighty. Kingdom.

b i. e. He and his people, the King being ſpoken of v. 1. as a publick perſon repreſenting all his people. Or, He and the following Kings, v. 3. But this fear is mentioned, v. 2. as the cauſe why he ſent to thoſe Kings. c Either 1. really a Royal City, the Hebrew particle Caph oft ſignifying the truth of a thing, as Hoſ. 4. 4. and 5. 10. and oft elſewhere. Or, 2. equal to one of the Royal Cities, though it had no king, but ſeems to be governed Ariſtocratically by their Elders, Joſ. 9. 11.

3 Wherefore Adoni-zedec king of Jeruſalem ſent d, unto Hoham king of Hebron, and unto Piram king of Jarmuth, and unto Japhia king of Lachiſh, and unto Debir king of Eglon, ſaying, d Either becauſe he was Superior to them in Power or Dignity, or becauſe he was neareſt the danger, and moſt forward in the work.

4 Come up unto me, and help me, that we may ſmite Gibeon: for it hath made peace with Joſhua, and with the children of Iſrael.

5 Therefore the five kings of the Amorites e, the king of Jeruſalem, the king of Hebron, the king of Jarmuth, the king of Lachiſh, the king of Eglon gathered themſelves together and went up, they, and all their hoſts, and encamped before Gibeon, and made war againſt it.

e This name being here taken largely or generally for any of the Canaanites, as is frequent; for to ſpeak ſtrictly, the Citizens of Hebron here mentioned, v. 3. were Hittites; thus the Gibeonites, who were Hivites, Joſ. 11. 19. are called Amorites, 2 Sam. 21. 2. It is reaſonably ſuppoſed, that the Amorites being numerous and victorious beyond Jordan, did pour forth Colonies or Forces into the land of Canaan, and there ſubdued divers places, and ſo communicated their name to all the reſt.

6 ¶ And the men of Gibeon ſent f unto Joſhua to the camp to Gilgal, ſaying, Slack not thy hand g from thy ſervants h, come up to us quickly, and ſave us, and help us: for all the kings of the Amorites, that dwell in the mountains i, are gathered together againſt us.

f Or, had ſent, when their Enemies were drawn towards them, which they could eaſily learn. g Do not neglect nor delay to help us. h Whom thou art obliged to protect both in Duty as thou art our Maſter and Ruler; and by thy own Intereſt, we being part of thy Poſſeſſions; and in ingenuity, becauſe we have given our ſelves to thee, and put our ſelves under thy Protection. i In the mountainous Country.

7 So Joſhua aſcended k from Gilgal, he, and all the people of war with him, and l all the mighty men of valour.

Having, no doubt, asked advice of God firſt, which is implied by the Anſwer God gives to him, v. 8. l Or, even, or that is, as this particle is oft uſed. hath been noted before. So it ſeems put here by way of Explication and Reſtriction; having ſaid all the people of war, he now adds, even all the mighty men, &c. i. e. an Army of the moſt valiant men picked out from the reſt; for it is not probable, either that he would take ſo many hundred thouſands with him, which would have hindred one another, or that he would leave the Camp without an Army to defend it.

8 ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Joſhua, Fear them not: for I have delivered them into thine hand; there ſhall not a man of them ſtand before thee.

9 Joſhua therefore came unto them ſuddenly m, and went up from Gilgal all night n.

m Though aſſured by God of the Victory, yet he uſeth all prudent means, and ſurprizeth them. n It is not ſaid, that he went from Gilgal to Gibeon in a nights ſpace; but only that he travelled all night: unto which you may add part either of the foregoing, or of the following day.

10 And the LORD * † diſcomfited them before Iſrael, and ſlew them o with a great ſlaughter at Gibeon p, and chaſed them along the way that goeth up to Bethoron, and ſmote them to Azekah, and unto Makkedah. *Iſa. 28. 21. †Or, terrified. So Gr.

o Or, he ſlew them; either God, or Iſrael; for Gods work is deſcribed v. 11. p Heb. in Gibeon, not in the City, but in the Territory belonging to it; as Joſhua is ſaid to be in Jericho, Joſh. 5. 13.

11 And it came to paſs as they fled from before Iſrael, and were in the going down to Bethoron, that the LORD caſt down great ſtones q from heaven upon them unto Azekiah, and they died; They were moe which died with hailſtones, than they whom the children of Iſrael ſlew with the ſword.

q i. e. Hailſtones of extraordinary greatneſs and hardneſs, caſt down with that certainty, as to hit the Canaanites, and not their Purſuers the Iſraelites; and with that force as to kill them. Joſephus affirms, That Thunder and Lightning were mixed with the Hail, which may ſeem probable from Hab. 3. 11.

12 ¶ Then ſpake Joſhua to the LORD r in the day when the LORD delivered up the Amorites before the children of Iſrael, and he ſaid in the ſight of Iſrael s, * Sun † ſtand thou ſtill upon Gibeon t, and thou moon in the valley u of Ajalon x. *Iſa. 28. 21 Hab. 3. 11. †Heb. be ſilent.

r To wit, in way of Petition for this Miracle: being moved to beg it out of zeal to deſtroy Gods Enemies, and directed to it by the motion of Gods Spirit, and receiving a gracious Anſwer, and being filled with holy Confidence of the ſucceſs, he ſpeaks the following words before the people, that they might be Witneſſes of it. s (i. e.) In the preſence and audience of Iſrael; ſeeing being ſometimes put for hearing, as Gen. 42. 1. compare with Act. 7. 12. Although theſe words may ſeem rather to be joyned with the following, thus, in the ſight of Iſrael, ſtand ſtill, O Sun, &c. which ſenſe the Hebrew accents favour. t i. e. Over and above, or againſt Gibeon (i. e.) In that place and poſture in which now it ſtands towards and looks upon Gibeon. Let it not go down lower, and by degrees, out of the ſight of Gibeon. It may ſeem, that the Sun was declining, and Joſhua perceiving that his work was great and long, and his time but ſhort, begs of God the lengthning out of the day, and that the Sun and moon might ſtop their courſe, and keep the place in which they now were. u Or, upon the valley; as before, upon Gibeon; the Prepoſition being the ſame there and here. x Either, 1. that Ajalon which was in the Tribe of Zebulon, Judg. 12. 12. Northward from Gibeon. Or rather, 2. that Ajalon which was in the Tribe of Dan, Joſh. 19. 42. Judg. 1. 35 Weſtward from Gibeon. For, 1. this was nearer Gibeon than the other. 2. This was moſt agreeable to the courſe of the Sun and Moon, which is from Eaſt to Weſt. 3. This way the battle went from Gibeon Weſtward to Ajalon, and ſo further Weſtward even to Lachiſh, v. 31. And he mentions two places, Gibeon and Ajalon, not as if the Sun ſtood over the one and the Moon over the other, which is abſurd and ridiculous to affirm, eſpecially theſe places being ſo near the one to the other; but partly to vary the phraſe, as is common in Poetical Paſſages; partly becauſe he was in his March in the Purſuit of his Enemies, to paſs from Gibeon to Ajalon; and he begs that he may have the help and benefit of longer light to purſue them, and to that end that the Sun might ſtand ſtill, and the Moon alſo; not that he needed the Moon's light when he had the Suns; but becauſe it was fit, either that both Sun and Moon ſhould go, or that both ſhould ſtand ſtill to prevent Diſorder and Confuſion in the heavenly Bodies.

13 And the Sun ſtood ſtill y, and the moon ſtayed, until the people had avenged themſelves upon their enemies z. Is not this written in the book of † Jaſher a? ſo the Sun ſtood ſtill b in the midſt of heaven c, and haſted not to go down about a whole day d. † Or, the upright.

y Heb. was ſilent; i. e. ſtill, as this Phraſe is commonly uſed, as 1. Sam. 14. 9. Pſal. 4. 4. Jonah. 1. 12. the ceſſation of the Tongue's motion being put ſynecdochically for the ceſſation of any other Motion or Action. z i. e. Till they had utterly deſtroyed them, as is mentioned in the following Chapter. a Either of a man ſo called, or of the righteous or upright, wherein poſſibly the memorable Actions of worthy men were recorded, and this amongſt the reſt. And this Book was written and publiſhed before Joſhua wrote his, and ſo is fitly alledged here But this, as well as ſome few other Hiſtorical Books, is loſt, not being a Canonical Book, and therefore not preſerved by the Jews with the ſame care as they were. b Here is no mention of the Moon, becauſe the Suns ſtanding was the only thing which Joſhua deſired and needed; and the Moons ſtanding he deſired only by accident to prevent irregularity in the motions of thoſe celeſtial Lights. Some take this to be but a Poetical Phraſe and Relation of the Victory, that Joſhua did ſo many and ſuch great things in that day, as if the Sun and Moon had ſtood ſtill and given him longer time for it. But the frequent repetition, and magnificent Declaration of this wonder, manifeſtly confutes that fancy. That the Sun and Moon did really ſtand ſtill, is affirmed Hab. 3. 11. and Sirach 46. 5, 6. And if it ſeem ſtrange to any one, that ſo wonderful a Work obſerved by the whole World that then was, ſhould not be mentioned in any Heathen Writers; he muſt needs be ſatisfied, if he conſiders, that it is confeſſed by the generallity of Writers, Heathens and others, that there is no certain Hiſtory or Monument in Heathen Authors of any thing done before the Trojan Wars, which was a thouſand years after Joſhua's time; and that all time before that, is called by the learnedſt Heathens, the uncertain, unknown, or obſcure time. c Not Mathematically, in the very Meridian or middle part of that Hemiſphere; but morally, and with ſome Latitude, when it had begun a little to decline, the conſideration whereof ſeems to have given Joſhua occaſion for his deſire. d i. e. For the ſpace of a whole day. Underſtand an artificial day between Sun-riſing and Sun-ſetting; for that was the day which Joſhua needed and deſired, a day to give him light for his work.

14 And there was no day like that e, before it, or after it, that the LORD hearkned unto the voice of a man f: for the LORD fought for Iſrael g.

e To wit, In thoſe parts of the World in which he here ſpeaks, and about which the Compariſon is here made: vain therefore is that Objection, that the days are longer near the Northern and Southern Poles, where they are conſtantly longer at certain ſeaſons, and that by the order of nature; whereas the length of this day was purely contingent, and granted by God in Anſwer to Joſhua's Prayer, as is here added. Obj. In Hezekiah's time, and at his Prayer there was a day which may ſeem to have been longer; for the Sun went back ten Degrees in ten hours, and then returned again ten Degrees in ten hours, and ſo it was 20 hours longer than a common day, and ſo longer than this. Anſ. It is not certain, either that each Degree deſigned an hour, and not rather half an hour, or a quarter, as others think; or that the Sun returned thoſe ten Degrees as ſlowly as he went down before or after. Beſides, it was now near Summer Solſtice, when the day was longeſt, and about 14 hours; and that being doubled, the Artificial day was 28 hours: and becauſe there is not the leaſt evidence that Hezekiahs day was longer, but rather of the contrary; it is much more reaſonable to believe this Scripture-aſſertion, than to deny or queſtion upon meer Suppoſitions or idle Conjectures. f To wit, in ſuch a manner to alter the Courſe of nature, and of the heavenly Bodies, that a man might have more time to purſue and deſtroy his Enemies. g This is added as the reaſon why God was ſo ready to anſwer Joſhua's Petition herein, becauſe he was engaged and reſolved to fight for Iſrael, and that in a more than ordinary manner.

15 ¶ And Joſhua returned h, and all Iſrael with him, unto the camp to Gilgal.

h Not immediately, or upon the ſame day, but after he had diſpatched the matter which here follows; as appears by v. 43. where the very ſame words are repeated to ſhew, that that was the meaning of them. And they are put here to cloſe the general diſcourſe of the fight which begun v. 10. and ends here; which being done he particularly deſcribes ſome remarkable Paſſages, and cloſeth them with the ſame words.

16 But theſe five kings [i] fled, and hid themſelves in a cave [k] at Makkedah [l].

[i] Named above, v. 3. [k] As a place of moſt ſecrecy or ſecurity; but there is no eſcaping the eye or hand of God, who here brought them into a net of their own making. [l] Heb. in Makkedah, not in the city, for that was not yet taken; but in the Territory of it; as in Gibeon, v. 10.

17 And it was told Joſhua, ſaying, The five kings are found hid in a cave at Makkedah.

18 And Joſhua ſaid, Roll great ſtones upon the mouth of the cave, and ſet men by it, for to keep them.

19 And ſtay ye not [m], but purſue after your enemies, and † ſmite the hindmoſt of them [n]; ſuffer them not to enter into their cities [o]; for the LORD your God hath delivered them into your hand [p].

† Heb. cut off the tail.

[m] Loſe not your opportunity by your ſloth or negligence. [n] Their rereward, all whom you can overtake. [o] Whereby they will recover their ſtrength, and renew the War. [p] Your work will be eaſie, God hath already done the work to your hands.

20 And it came to paſs when Joſhua and the children of Iſrael [q] had made an end of ſlaying them with a very great ſlaughter, till they were conſumed that the reſt which remained of them, entred into fenced cities.

[q] i. e. Joſhua by the Children of Iſrael; or the Children of Iſrael, i. e. a Party of them by the Command, Direction and Encouragement of Joſhua; for Joſhua himſelf went not with them, but abode in the Siege before Makkedah, v. 21.

21 And all the people returned to the camp [r] to Joſhua at Makkedah in peace: * none moved his tongue [s] againſt any of the children of Iſrael.

*Exod. 11. 7.

[r] To the body of the Army which were encamped there with Joſhua to beſiege that place. [s] Not ſo much as a Dog, as it is expreſſed Exod. 11. 7.. Not only their men of war could not find their hands, but they were all ſo confounded, that they could not move their tongues in way of Inſultation and Reproach, as doubtleſs they did when the Iſraelites were repulſed and ſmitten at Ai; but now they were ſilenced as well as conquered: they durſt no more provoke nor injure the Iſraelites.

22 Then ſaid Joſhua, Open the mouth of the cave, and bring out thoſe five kings unto me out of the cave.

23 And they did ſo, and brought forth thoſe five kings unto him out of the cave, the king of Jeruſalem, the king of Hebron, the king of Jarmuth, the king of Lachiſh, and the king of Eglon.

24 And it came to paſs when they brought out thoſe kings unto Joſhua, that Joſhua called all the men of Iſrael, and ſaid unto the captains of the men of war which went with him, Come near, put your feet upon the necks of theſe kings [t]. And they came near, and put their feet upon the necks of them.

[t] This he did not from Pride and Contempt of their Dignity in it ſelf; but partly as a puniſhment of their impious Rebellion againſt their Sovereign Lord; partly in purſuance of that Curſe of ſervility due to all this people, Gen. 9. 25. partly as a token to aſſure his Captains, that God would ſubdue the proudeſt of them all under their feet; and partly to oblige and teach his people ſeverely to execute the Judgment of God upon them, and not to ſpare any of them, either out of a fooliſh Pity, or out of reſpect to their Dignity, as Saul afterwards ſpared Agag to his own ruine.

25 And Joſhua ſaid unto them, Fear not, nor be diſmayed, be ſtrong, and of good courage: for thus ſhall the LORD do to all your enemies againſt whom ye fight.

26 And afterward Joſhua ſmote them, and ſlew them, and hanged them [u] on five trees: and they were hanging upon the trees * until the evening.

* Chap. 8. 29.

[u] After they were dead as a brand of Infamy, and for the Terror and Inſtruction of others.

27 And it came to paſs at the time of the going down of the ſun, that Joſhua commanded, and they * took them down off the trees, and caſt them into the cave, wherein they had been hid, and laid great ſtones in the caves mouth [x], which remain unto this very day.

*Deut. 21. 23. chap. 8. 29.

[x] That neither wild beaſts could come at them to devour them, nor any of their people to give them honourable Burial.

28 ¶ And that day [y] Joſhua took Makkedah, and ſmote it with the edge of the ſword, and the king thereof he utterly deſtroyed; them, and all the ſouls that were therein, he let none remain: and he did to the king of Makkedah, * as he did unto the king of Jericho [z].

*chap. 21.

[y] On which the Sun ſtood ſtill, or on which the five Kings were hanged. Nor is it ſtrange that ſo much work was done, and places ſo far diſtant, taken in one day, when the day was ſo long, and the Cananites ſtruck with ſuch a terror. [z] Who was hanged, or otherwiſe killed, as appears from Joſh. 6. 2.

29 Then Joſhua paſſed down from Makkedah, and all Iſrael [a] with him, unto Sibnah [b], and fought againſt Libnah.

[a] To wit, who were with him in this Expedition. [b] A City of Judah, Joſh. 15. 42.

30 And the LORD delivered it alſo, and the king thereof, into the hand of Iſrael, and he ſmote it with the edge of the ſword, and all the ſouls [c] that were therein; he let none remain in it, but did unto the king thereof, as he did unto the king of Jericho.

[c] i. e. The human Souls; for all the Cattel they had for a prey.

31 ¶ And Joſhua paſſed from Libnah, and all Iſrael with him, unto Lachiſh, and encamped againſt it, and fought againſt it.

32 And the LORD delivered Lachiſh into the hand of Iſrael, which took it on the ſecond day [d], and ſmote it with the edge of the ſword, and all the ſouls that were therein, according to all he that had done to Libnah.

[d] Either the day after his firſt laying of the Siege; or, after the taking of Makkedah and Libnah.

33 ¶ Then Horam king of Gezer [e] came up to help Lachiſh, and Joſhua ſmote him and his people, until he had left him none remaining.

[e] Either that in Ephraim, of which Joſh. 16. 3. Judg. 1. 29. But that ſeems too remote from the other places; or rather, that in Judah, which was near Lachiſh, 1 Chron. 14 16. whoſe King therefore was more capable, and more obliged to help them for his own ſake.

34 ¶ And from Lachiſh Joſhua paſſed unto Eglon [f], and all Iſrael with him, and they encamped againſt it, and fought againſt it.

[f] A City of Judah, Joſh. 15. 39.

35 And they took it on that day [g], and ſmote it with the edge of the ſword, and all the ſouls that were therein, he utterly deſtroyed that day, according to all he had done to Lachiſh.

[g] On which they firſt attempted it.

36 And Joſhua went up from Eglon, and all Iſrael with him unto Hebron [h], and they fought againſt it.

[h] Which though they took and killed all its inhabitants, yet they did not keep it; and therefore when Joſhua and his Army had forſaken it, and were returned to Gilgal, it ſeems the Giants and other Canaanites being burnt out, or driven away from their former ſeats, planted and fortified themſelves there; which made it neceſſary for Caleb to take it a ſecond time, as is recorded Joſh. 15. 14. Judg. 1. 10. Or, this is the ſame Story, and the ſame Conqueſt of Hebron which is here generally related, and afterwards repeated, and more particularly deſcribed, Joſh. 15. 13, 14.

37 And they took it, and ſmote it with the edge of the ſword, and the king thereof [i], and all the cities thereof [k], and all the ſouls that were therein; he left none remaining, according to all he had done to Eglon: but † deſtroyed it utterly, and all the ſouls that were therein.

†Heb. made it a curſe. Or, anathematized it.

[i] Either him mentioned before, v. 23. whoſe death is here repeated in this account of the general Deſtruction of all the Inhabitants of that place or his Heir or Succeſſor. [k] Which were ſubject to its Juriſdiction; this being, it ſeems, a Royal City as Gibeon was, v. 2. and having Cities under it as that had, Joſh. 9. 17.

38 And Joſhua returned, and all Iſrael with him to Debir [l], and fought againſt it, [l] He is ſaid to return thither, not as if he had been there before, but becauſe having gone as far Weſtward and Southward as he thought fit, even as far as Gaza, v. 41. he now returned towards Gilgal, which lay Northward and Eaſtward from him, and in his return fell upon Debir, ſee on Joſh. 15. 15.

39 And he took it, and the king thereof, and all the cities thereof, and they ſmote them with the edge of the ſword, and utterly deſtroyed all the ſouls that were therein, he left none remaining: as he had done to Hebron, ſo he did to Debir, and to the king thereof, as he had done alſo to Libnah, and to her king.

40 ¶ So Joſhua ſmote all the country of the hills, and of the ſouth, and of the vale, and of the ſprings, and all their kings, he left none remaining, but utterly deſtroyed † all that breathed [m], as the LORD God of Iſrael * commanded [n].

† Heb. all breath.
†Deut. 20. 16, 17.

[m] i. e. All mankind, by a Synecdoche: for they reſerved the Cattel for their own uſes. [n] This is added for the Vindication of the Iſraelites, whom God would not have to ſuffer in their Reputation for executing his Commands; and therefore he acquits them of that implacable hatred and heinous cruelty, which they might be thought guilty of, and aſcribes it to himſelf and his own juſt Indignation againſt this moſt wicked people.

41 And Joſhua ſmote them from Kadeſh-barnea [o], even unto Gaza [p], and all the country of * Goſhen [q], even unto Gibeon.

[o] Which lay in the South of Canaan, Numb. 34. 4. Deut. 1. 19. Joſh. 15. 3. [p] Which was in the South-weſt of Canaan. So he here ſignifies, that Joſhua did in this expedition ſubdue all thoſe parts which lay South and Weſt from Gilgal. [q] Not that Goſhen in Egypt, but another in Judah, Joſh. 11. 16. and 15. 51.

42 And all theſe kings and their land did Joſhua take at one time, becauſe the the LORD God of Iſrael fought for Iſrael.

43 And Joſhua returned, and all Iſrael with him, unto the camp to Gilgal.

CHAP. XI.

The other Kings and Cities of Canaan gather themſelves together to fight againſt Iſrael, 1—5. God encourages Joſhua, promiſing him Victory, 6. The Canaanites deſtroyed, their Cities taken and burnt: Hazor: the Enakims, 7—20. thoſe in Gaza, Gath, and Aſhdod excepted, 21—23.

1 AND it came to paſs when Jabin king of Hazor a had heard thoſe things b, that he ſent to Jobab king of Madon, and to the king of Shimron c, and to the king of Achſhaph d, a The chief City of all thoſe parts, v. 10. b This was a remarkable inſtance of the Wiſdom and Goodneſs of Divine Providence, which ſo governed the minds and hearts of the Canaanites, that they were not at all united under one King, but divided amongſt many petty Kings; and next, that theſe did not all unanimouſly join their Counſels and Forces together to oppoſe the Iſraelites at their firſt entrance, which their own Wiſdom and Intereſt obliged them to do, but quietly ſuffered the deſtruction of their Brethren, thereby preparing the way for their own. c Called Shimronmeron, Joſh. 12. 10. d A place in the Tribe of Aſer, the furtheſt part of the land toward the North and Weſt.

2 And to the kings that were on the north of the mountains e, and of the plains, ſouth of Cinneroth f, and in the vale, and in the borders of Dor g, on the weſt, e Heb. on the North, (which may be the general deſignation of all the particular places following, that they were in the Northern parts of Canaan, as thoſe mentioned Joſh. 10. were in the Southern parts) in the mountain, either in or near the famous mountain of Lebanon, called the Mountain by way of eminency; or in the mountainous Country. f Heb. in the plain lying Southward from Cinneroth, or the Lake of Geneſareth; See Deut. 3. 17. Luke 5. 1. g A place upon the coaſt of the Midland-ſea.

3 And to the Canaanite on the eaſt, and on the weſt h, and to the Amorite, and the Hittite, and the Perizzite, and the Jebuſite in the mountains, and to the Hivite under Hermon i, in the land of Mizpeh k.

h The Canaanites properly ſo called, lived part of them on the Eaſt near Jordan, and part on the Weſt near the Sea, and both are here united. i That dwelt under Mount Hermon in the North of Canaan, whereby they are differenced from thoſe Hivites who lived in Gibeon, of which before. k That Mizpeh which was in the Northern part of Gilead, of which Gen. 31. 49. Judg. 11. 29. But there were other Cities called by that name, which ſignifying a Watching-place, might be eaſily applied to ſeveral places of good proſpect. Beſides this, there is one Mizpeh of Judah, Joſh. 15. 38. another of Benjamin, Joſh. 18. 26. a third in Moab, 1 Sam. 22. 3.

4 And they went out, they, and all their hoſts with them, much people, even as the ſand that is upon the ſea ſhore in multitude, with horſes and charets very many.

5 And when all theſe kings were † met together, they came and pitched together at the Waters of Merom l, to fight againſt Iſrael.

† Heb. aſſembled by appointment.

l A lake made by the River Jordan in the Northern part of it, which was in the Territory of the King of Schimron, or Schimron-Meron, and near Hazor, Jabins royal City, and almoſt in the middle of theſe confederate Kings.

6 ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Joſhua, Be not afraid becauſe of them: for to morrow about this time will I deliver them up all ſlain before Iſrael: though ſhalt hough their horſes m, and burn their charets with fire.

m (i. e.) Cut their Hamſtrings that they may be unfit for War. For God forbad them to have, or keep many Horſes, Deut. 17. 16. now eſpecially, that they might not truſt to their Horſes, as men are apt to do, nor diſtruſt God for want of ſo neceſſary an help in Battel; nor aſcribe the Conqueſt of the land to their own ſtrength, but wholly to God, by whoſe power alone a company of raw and unexperienced Footmen were able to ſubdue ſo potent a people, which beſides their great Numbers, and Giants, and walled Cities, had the advantage of many thouſands of Horſes and Chariots.

7 So Joſhua came, and all the people of war with him, againſt them by the waters of Merom ſuddenly n, and they fell upon them.

n When they leaſt expected them, intending there to refreſh, and prepare, and order themſelves for the offenſive War which they deſigned.

8 And the LORD delivered them into the hand of Iſrael, who ſmote them, and chaſed them unto † great Zidon o, and unto † * Miſrephoth-maim p, and unto the valley of Miſpeh q eaſtward, and they ſmote them, until they left them none remaining.

† Or, Zidon-Rabbah. † Or, ſalt-pits. * Heb. burnings of waters.

o A great and famous City in the Northweſt part of Canaan, and upon the Sea. p A place not far from Zidon, ſuppoſed to be ſo called from the Salt or Glaſs which they made there. q Under Mount Hermon, as appears by comparing this with v. 3. and 17. where it ſeems to be called the valley of Lebanon. This lay on the Eaſt, as Sidon did on the Weſt; and ſo it ſeems they fled ſeveral ways, and the Iſraelites alſo divided themſelves into two Bodies, one purſuing Eaſt, and the other Weſt.

9 And Joſhua did unto them, as the LORD bade him: he houghed their horſes, and burnt their charets with fire.

10 ¶ And Joſhua at that time turned back, and took Hazor, and ſmote the king thereof r with the ſword: for Hazor before time was the head of all thoſe kingdoms ſ.

r Either in the former Battel, though it be mentioned here: or rather, in his Royal City, to which he fled out of the Battel. ſ Not of all Canaan, but of all thoſe who were confederate with him in this Expedition.

11 And they ſmote all the ſouls that were therein with the edge of the ſword, utterly deſtroying them: there was not * any t left to breathe, and he burnt Hazor with fire.

* Heb. any breath.

t (i. e.) No Humane Perſon.

12 And all the cities of thoſe kings, and all the kings of them did Joſhua take, and ſmote them with the edge of the ſword, and he utterly deſtroyed them, * as Moſes the ſervant of the LORD commanded.

* Numb. 33. 52. Deut. 7. 2. and 20. 16, 17.

13 But as for the cities that ſtood ſtill † in their ſtrength u, Iſrael burned none of them, ſave Hazor onely x, that did Joſhua burn y.

† Heb. on their heap.

u Heb. with (for ſo this Prepoſition is oft uſed, as Exod. 35. 12. Levit. 2. 2. Ezek. 16. 37. &c.) their Fence or Fences, Walls or Bulwarks, i. e. which were not utterly ruined together with their Walls in the taking of them. x Which though taken by the Iſraelites, was not ſo much deſtroyed as other places were. y Becauſe this City began the War, and being the chief and Royal City, might renew the War if the Canaanites ſhould ever ſeize upon it.

14 And all the ſpoil of theſe cities, and the cattel, the children of Iſrael took for a prey unto themſelves: but every man they ſmote with the edge of the ſword, until they had deſtroyed them, neither left they any to breathe.

15 ¶ * As the LORD commanded Moſes his ſervant: ſo * did Moſes command Joſhua, and ſo did Joſhua, † he left nothing undone of all that the LORD commanded Moſes.

* Exod. 34. 11. * Deut. 7. 2. † Heb. he removed nothing.

16 So Joſhua took all that land z, the hill a, and all the ſouth countrey b, and all the land of Goſhen c, and the vale d, and the plain e, and the mountain of Iſrael f and the vale of the ſame g:

z Of Canaan, whoſe parts here follow. a Or, the Mountain, i. e. the Mountainous Country, to wit, of Judea, as may ſeem, 1. Becauſe in the following enumeration he begins in the South parts, where there was an eminent Mountain, Numb. 13. 17. 2. Becauſe a conſiderable part of Judea was called the Hilly or the Mountainous Country, Luke 1. 39, 65. which is not likely to be omitted in this particular deſcription of the Land; the rather becauſe Hebron, one of the places taken by Joſhua, chap. 10. 36, 37. was in the mountain of Judah, Joſ. 20. 7. 3. Becauſe this is here diſtinguiſhed from the Mountain of Iſrael, and therefore moſt likely to be the Mountain of Judah, eſpecially if you compare this with v. 21. where having mentioned the Mountain in general, from which Joſhua cut off the Anakims, he comes to particularize, and names only two, all the Mountain of Judah, and all the Mountain of Iſrael. b (i. e.) Not only the Mountainous part, but all the Country of Judea, which lay in the Southern part of Canaan, and oft comes under the name of the South, as Numb. 13. 22, 29. and 21. 1. Joſ. 10. 40. and 18. 5. &c. c Of which ſee Joſ. 10. 41. d The low Countries. e The Fields or Champion grounds. f Either 1. Some one particular and eminent Mountain, poſſibly the Hill of Samaria, mentioned 1 Kings 16. 24. or rather 2. The Mountains or Mountainous Country of Iſrael. See the ſecond note on this verſe. g (i. e.) Of Iſrael.

17 Even from the mount Halak, that goeth up to Seir h, unto Baal-Gad i, in the valley of Lebanon under mount Hermon: and all their kings he took, and ſmote them, and ſlew them.

* Or, the ſmooth Mountain.

h (i. e.) To the country of Seir or Edom; to wit, that part of it which was South from Judea, not that which was Eaſtward from it, as appears from hence, that here, as alſo Joſ. 12. 7. is mention of the two extream bounds of the Land conquered by Joſhua; whereof the other which follows being in the North, this muſt needs be in the South of the Land. i A part of Mount Lebanon.

18 Joſhua made war a long time k with all thoſe kings.

k For divers years together, as is evident by the following Hiſtory, and by comparing Deut. 2. 14. with Joſ. 14. 7, &c. And this is here expreſſed, leſt it ſhould be thought that as all theſe Wars are here recorded in a ſhort Narration, ſo they were diſpatched in a ſhort time. And God would have the Land to be Conquered gradually, for many weighty reaſons; 1. Leſt the ſudden extirpation of thoſe Nations ſhould have made a great part of the Land Deſert, and thereby have encreaſed the Numbers of Wild Beaſts, Deut. 7. 22. 2. Leſt being done ſuddenly and eaſily, it ſhould ſoon be forgotten and deſpiſed, as the nature of man is apt to do in thoſe caſes. 3. That by long exerciſe the Iſraelites might grow skilful in the Art of War, which was very uſeful and needful for them in that Land. 4. For the trial and exerciſe of their Patience and Courage, and Truſt in God. 5. To oblige them to the greater care to pleaſe and obey God, whom they yet needed for their help againſt their Enemies.

19 There was not a city that made peace with the children of Iſrael, ſave * the Hivites the inhabitants of Gibeon; all other l they took in battel. * Chap. 9. 3.

l To wit, all that were taken by Joſhua, were taken by the Sword, and therefore it is no wonder that the War was long, when the enemy was ſo obſtinate.

20 For it was of the LORD to harden their hearts m, that they ſhould come againſt Iſrael in Battel, that he might deſtroy them utterly, and that they might have no favour: but that he might deſtroy them, * as the LORD commanded Moſes. * Deut. 20.16,17.

m It was the deſign of Gods Providence not to ſoften their hearts to a compliance with the Iſraelites, but to give them up to their own Animoſity, Pride, Confidence and Stubbornneſs; that ſo both their abominable and incorrigible wickedneſs might be ſeverely puniſhed, and that the Iſraelites might not be mixed with them, but be intire among themſelves in the poſſeſſion of the Land. Compare Deut. 2. 30. and for the Phraſe Exod. 7. 13. and 9. 12. and 14. 17.

21 And at that time * came Joſhua, and cut off the Anakims from the mountain o, from Hebron, from Debir p, from Anab q, and from all the mountain of Judah, and from all the mountain of Iſrael r: Joſhua deſtroyed them utterly with their cities ſ.

* i. e. In that War, for it cannot be meant of any particular and ſhort time, becauſe the work here related was done in divers times and years. n A race of Giants, of which ſee Numb. 13. 33. o Or, Mountains, the Singular Number for the Plural; Theſe Barbarous and Monſtrous perſons either choſe to live in the Dens or Caves, which were frequent in the Mountains of thoſe parts; or elſe they were driven thither by the Arms and Succeſs of the Iſraelites. p Either, 1. From the Territories belonging to theſe Cities, as we have oft ſeen in this Hiſtory, Cities mentioned for the Country ſubject to them; for the Cities were taken before by Joſhua, chap. 10. 36, 37, 38. or 2. From the Cities themſelves; and ſo either the Cities were re-taken by the Giants, which it is not probable that God would permit in Joſhua's time; or he ſpeaks here of that time when he took thoſe places mentioned here, and chap. 10. which Hiſtory he here in part repeats and enlargeth with this memorable circumſtance, That, together with the reſt, he deſtroyed alſo the Giants which were in thoſe places. q A place in the Tribe of Judah, Joſ. 15. 50. r It doth not follow from hence, which ſome conclude, that this Book was written by ſome other perſon long after Joſhua's Death, even after the diviſion of the Iſraelites into two Kingdoms, of Iſrael and Judah; but only that this was one of thoſe clauſes which were added or altered, and ſuited to the ſtile of the preſent times by Ezra, or ſome other Prophet; though that be not neceſſary: for ſince it was evident to Joſhua, from Gen. 49. 10, &c. That the Tribe of Judah was to be the chief of all the Tribes, and ſome dawnings of its Eminency appeared in that time, in their having the firſt Lot in the Land of Canaan, Joſ. 15. 1. and the largeſt inheritance, Joſ. 19. 9. It is no wonder that it is mentioned apart, and diſtinguiſhed from the reſt of the Tribes of Iſrael, though that alſo be one of them; even as the Daughters of Pharaoh is diſtinguiſhed from the Strange Women, 1 King. 11. 1. and Saul from all Davids Enemies, Pſal. 18. title. and Peter from the Diſciples, Mark 16. 7. though they were each of the ſame nature and quality with the reſt. ſ Qu. How could Joſhua utterly deſtroy theſe, when Caleb and Othoniel deſtroyed ſome of them after Joſhua's Death? Joſ. 14. 12. Judg. 1. 10, 11, 12. Anſ. This might be, either 1. Becauſe theſe places being in part deſtroyed and neglected by the Iſraelites, might be re-poſſeſſed by the Giants, either in Joſhua's time, or after his Death, and by them kept till Caleb diſpoſſeſſed and deſtroyed them. Or rather 2. Becauſe this work, though done by the particular valour and induſtry of Caleb, is aſcribed to Joſhua as the General of the Army, according to the manner of all Hiſtorians; and therefore it is here attributed to Joſhua, though afterwards, that Caleb might not loſe his deſerved Honour, the Hiſtory is more particularly deſcribed, and Caleb owned as the great Inſtrument in the atchievement of it, Joſ. 14. and Judg. 1.

22 There was none of the Anakims left in the land of the children of Iſrael: only in Gaza, in Gath, and in Aſhdod t there remained.

t Three Cities of the Philiſtines, to which they retired, and where we find ſome of them afterwards, 1 Sam. 17. 4. and 2 Sam. 21. 16. Which may be one reaſon why the Iſraelites durſt not make an attempt upon theſe places, though they were a part of their Poſſeſſion.

23 So Joſhua took the whole land u, according to all that the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, and Joſhua gave it for an inheritance unto Iſrael, * according to their diviſions by their tribes: and the land reſted from war x. * Numb. 26. 53.

u Synecdochically, i. e. the greateſt and the beſt part of it, for ſome parts and places are expreſſly excepted in the following Hiſtory. x From actual War, ſo far that they could now quietly ſurvey, and diſtribute, and poſſeſs the Land.

CHAP. XII.

1 NOW theſe are the kings of the Land, which the children of Iſrael ſmote, and poſſeſſed their land on the other ſide Jordan, toward the riſing of the Sun: from the river Arnon, unto mount Hermon, and all the plain on the eaſt a.

a On the Eaſt of Jordan, called the Plain, Deut. 1. 1. and the Plains of Moab, Deut. 34. 1.

2 * Sihon king of the Amorites, who dwelt in Heſhbon, and ruled from Aroer, which is upon the bank of the river of Arnon, and from the middle of the river b, and from half Gilead c, even unto the river Jabbok, which is the border of the children of Ammon: * Numb. 21. 24. Deut.

b It is not unuſual even amongſt us, for a River to be divided between two Lords, and for their Territories or Juriſdictions to meet in the middle of the River: And beſides, here is a very particular reaſon for this expreſſion, becauſe the city Ar, which was no part of Sihons Dominions, but belonged to the Moabites, Deut. 2. 9, 18. was in the middle of the River Arnon, Deut. 2. 36. and 3. 16. and therefore the middle of the River is moſt fitly and properly here mentioned, as the bound of Sihons Dominion on that ſide. c Heb. and the half Gilead, i. e. half of the Country of Gilead; the particle from is not in the Original, and this doth not ſeem to denote the term or bound from which his Dominion begun, as our Verſion implies, for ſo indeed it was not, but the place or Country, in and over which his Dominion was, which, as is here ſaid, began at Arnon, and took in half Gilead, and ended at Jabbok, beyond which was the other half of Gilead, which belonged to Og, as is expreſly ſaid, v. 5. where the words being wholly the ſame that are here, it is moſt reaſonable to underſtand and tranſlate them in the ſame manner.

3 And * from the plain unto the ſea of Cinneroth on the eaſt d, and unto the ſea of the plain e, even the ſalt ſea on the eaſt, the way to Beth-jeſhimoth: and from * the ſouth f under † * Aſhdothpiſgah. * Deut. 3. 17. * Or, Teman. † Or, the ſprings of Piſgah, or the hill. * Deut. 3. 17. and 4. 49.

d Which words deſcribe the ſituation not of the ſea of Cinneroth, which was part of the Weſtern border of Sihons Dominion, but of the Plain, which is here ſaid to lye eaſtward from the ſea of Cinneroth, and alſo eaſtward from the Salt Sea, as it here follows. And this was indeed the ſituation of the Plains of Moab, which are here ſpoken of, to wit, that they lay between the two Seas, that of Cinneroth and the Salt Sea, and eaſtward to them both. e The Salt-Sea is ſo called becauſe it was a famous Plain, pleaſant and fruitful, before it was turned into a Salt Sea. f Or, on, or towards the South.

4 ¶ And the coaſt of Og king of Baſhan which was of the † remnant of the giants, that * dwelt at Aſhtaroth, and at Edrei g, † Deut. 3. 11. Chap. 13. 12.

g To wit, ſucceſſively, ſometimes at the one, ſometimes at the other City; both being his Royal Manſions.

5 And reigned in mount Hermon, and in Salcah, and in all Baſhan, unto the border of the Geſhurite h, and the Maacathite, and half Gilead, the border of Sihon king of Heſhbon, * Deut. 1. 4.

h Of which ſee Deut. 3. 13. Joſ. 13. 13. 2 Sam. 13. 37. and 15. 8.

6 * Them did Moſes the ſervant of the LORD, and the children of Iſrael ſmite, and * Moſes the ſervant of the LORD gave it for a poſſeſſion unto the Reubenite, and Gadite, and the half tribe of Manaſſeh. * Numb. 21. 24. * Numb. 32. 29. Deut. 3. 12. Chap. 13. 8.

7 And theſe are the kings of the countrey, which Joſhua and the children of Iſrael ſmote on this ſide Jordan, on the weſt, from Baal-gad in the valley of Lebanon, even unto * the mount Halak, that goeth up to Seir, which Joſhua gave unto the tribes of Iſrael for a poſſeſſion according to their diviſions. * Chap. 11. 17.

8 In the mountain, and in the vale, and in the plain, and in the ſprings, and in the wilderneſs i, and in the ſouth country; the Hittite, the Amorite, and the Canaanite, the Perizzite, the Hivite, and the Jebuſite.

i This word here and elſewhere in Scripture notes not a Land wholly deſart and uninhabited, but one thin of Inhabitants, as 1 King. 2. 34. and 9. 18. Mat. 3. 1, 3.

9 ¶ * The king of Jericho, one: * the king of Ai which is beſide Beth-el k, one: * Chap. 7. 2. * Chap. 8. 29.

k This is added to diſtinguiſh it from Ai of the Ammonites, of which Jer. 49. 3.

10 * The king of Jeruſalem, one: the king of Hebron, one: * Chap. 10. 23.

11 The king of Jarmuth, one: the king of Lachiſh, one:

12 The king of Eglon, one: * the king of Gezer, one: * Chap. 10. 33.

13 * The king of Debir, one: the king of Geder, one: * Chap. 10. 38.

14 The king of Hormah, one: the king of Arad, one:

15 The king of Libnah, one: the king of Adullam, one: * Chap. 10. 29.

16 * The king of Makkedah, one: the king * of Beth-el, one: * Chap. 10. 28. * Chap. 8. 17.

* ch. 11. 10.

19 The king of Madon, one: * the king of Hazor, one:

20 The king of Shimron-meron, one: the king of Achſhaph, one:

21 The king of Taanach, one: the king of Megiddo, one:

22 The king of Kedeſh, one: the king of Jokneam of Carmel, one:

* Gen. 14. 1.

23 The king of Dor l, in the coaſt of Dor, one: the king of * the nations of Gilgal m, one:

l Of which, Joſ. 11. 2. m Not of that Gilgal where Joſhua firſt lodged after his paſſage over Jordan; where it doth not appear, that there was either King or City; but of another city of the ſame Name, (as was frequent in thoſe parts) probably in Galilee towards the Sea, whither divers people might poſſibly reſort for Trade and Merchandiſe, over whom this was King, as formerly Tidal ſeems to have been, Gen. 14. 1.

24 The king of Tirzah, one: all the kings thirty and one n.

n Each being confined to a narrow compaſs, and being King only of one City, or ſmall Province belonging to it, which was by the wiſe and ſingular Providence of God, that they might be more eaſily and ſucceſſively conquered by the Iſraelites one after another, as they were.

CHAP. XIII.

God makes known to Joſhua the bounds of the Land not yet conquered, 1—6. Commands it to be divided among the nine Tribes and an half, 7. The Inheritance of the two Tribes and an half on the other ſide Jordan, 8, 13. The Lord and his Sacrifices the Inheritance of Levi, 14. The Portion of the Reubenites, 15——23. Of the Gadites, 24——28. Of the half Tribe of Manaſſeh, 29——32.

* See chap. 14. 10.

† Heb. to poſſeſs it.

1 NOW Joſhua * was old, and ſtricken in years, and the LORD ſaid unto him, Thou art old a, and ſtricken in years, and there remaineth yet very much land † to be poſſeſſed b.

a Therefore delay not to do the work which I have appointed and commanded thee to do. b To be conquered, and ſo poſſeſſed by the people.

* Judg. 3. 3.

2 * This is the land that yet remaineth c: all the borders of the Philiſtines, and all Geſhuri d.

c Unconquered by thee, and to be conquered by the Iſraelites, if they behave themſelves aright. d A People in the North-eaſt of Canaan, of which ſee Deut. 3. 14. as the Philiſtines are on the South-weſt.

* Zech 9. 5.

* Deut. 2. 23.

3 From Sihor e, which is before Egypt, even unto the borders of Ekron northward, which is counted to the Canaanite f: five lords of the Philiſtines; the * Gazathites, and the Aſhdothites, the Eſhkalonites, the Gittites, and the Ekronites, alſo the * Avites g.

e A River, of which ſee Iſa. 23. 3. and Jer. 2. 18. f (i. e.) Which, though now poſſeſſed by the Philiſtines, who drove out the Canaanites the old inhabitants of it, Deut. 2. 23. Amos 9. 7. yet is a part of the Land of Canaan, and therefore belongs to the Iſraelites. g Or, the Avims, as they are called, Deut. 2. 23. who though they were expelled out of their antient Seat, and moſt of them deſtroyed by the Caphtorims or Philiſtines, as is there ſaid, yet many of them probably eſcaped, and planted themſelves in ſome other place not very far from the former.

† Or, the Cave.

4 From the ſouth, all the land of the Canaanites h, and † Mearah i, that is beſide the Sidonians, unto Aphek k, to the border of the Amorite l:

h (i. e.) From thoſe Southern parts of the Sea-coaſt, now poſſeſſed by the Philiſtines, all the more Northern parts of the Sea-Coaſt being yet inhabited by the Canaanites, almoſt as far as Sidon, as it here follows. For there is no mention made of any Conqueſts of Joſhua upon the Sea-Coaſt: The Canaanites, properly ſo called, are ſaid to dwell by the ſea, Numb. 13. 29. and theſe are here ſpoken of, though ſome of them dwelt in other parts of the Land. i A ſtrong place; it matters not whether it was a City, or an impregnable Cave, which ſome Writers mention to be in thoſe parts. k Not That of Juda, of which Joſ. 15. 53. but another in the Tribe of Aſer, of which Joſ. 12. 18. Judg. 1. 31. l The Amorites were a ſtrong and very numerous people, and we find them diſperſed in ſeveral parts, ſome within Jordan, and ſome without it, ſome in the South and others in the North, of whom he ſpeaks here.

* 1 Ki. 5. 18. Pſ. 83. 7.

5 And the land of the * Giblites m, and all Lebanon toward the Sun-riſing, from Baal-Gad under mount Hermon, unto the entring into Hamoth.

m A people dwelling near Sidon in Gebal, of which ſee 1 King. 5. 18. Ezek. 27. 9.

* chap. 11. 8.

6 All the inhabitants of the hill-countrey from Lebanon * unto Miſrephoth-maim, and all the Sidonians, them will I drive out from before the children of Iſrael n: only divide thou it by lot unto the Iſraelites for an inheritance o, as I have commanded thee.

n Preſently after thy Death, if the Iſraelites do not hinder it by their unbelief or wickedneſs. o Though they be now unconquered, yet divide them, partly as a pledge to aſſure them of my help in conquering them after thy death, partly to lay an obligation upon the Iſraelites to proceed in Conquering-work, and to bear witneſs againſt them in caſe they did not; and partly as a wall of partition between them and the Canaanites, to prevent all Agreements, Contracts and Confederacies with them, to which God ſaw they began to encline.

7 Now therefore divide this land for an inheritance unto the nine tribes, and the half tribe of Manaſſeh.

8 With whom p the Reubenites, and the Gadites have received their inheritance, * which Moſes gave them beyond Jordan eaſtward, even as Moſes the ſervant of the LORD gave them q.

* Num. 32. 33 Deut. 3 12. 13. chap. 22. 4.

p Heb. With him, i. e. with the half tribe of Manaſſeh, not that half which is expreſſed v. 7. as is evident from the thing; but the other half, which is ſufficiently and neceſſarily underſtood, the relative being here put for the antecedent, underſtood, as it is, Num. 7. 89. Pſ. 114. 2. Iſa. 8. 21. Jonah 1. 3. q Which Moſes gave them by my Command, and therefore do not thou diſturb them in their Poſſeſſions, but proceed to divide the other Poſſeſſions to the reſt.

9 From Aroer that is upon the bank of the river Arnon, and the city that is in the midſt of the river r, and all the plain of Medeba unto Dibon ſ.

r Of which ſee the notes on Deut. 3. 16 and on Joſ. 12. 2 Either this is the ſame City now mentioned, even Aroer, which is ſaid to have been a double City, as the very name ſeems to import, whereof one part was on the bank of the River, and the other in the middle of it, whence we read of the cities of Aroer, Iſa. 17. 2. or it is another City, poſſibly Ar, as it is elſewhere named. ſ Two Cities antiently belonging to the Moabites, and taken from them by the Amorites, Numb. 21. 30. and from them by the Iſraelites; and after the Iſraelites were gone into Captivity, recovered by the firſt Poſſeſſors the Moabites, as may ſeem from Iſa. 15. 2.

10 And all the cities of Sihon king of the Amorites, which reigned in Heſhbon, unto the border of the children of Ammon:

11 And Gilead, and the border of the Geſhurites, and Maacathites t, and all mount Hermon, and all Baſhan, unto Salcah:

t Whoſe Land God had given to the Iſraelites without Jordan, though they had not yet uſed the gift of God, nor taken Poſſeſſion of it, as is noted, v. 13.

12 All the kingdoms of Og in Baſhan, which reigned in Aſhtaroth, and in Endrei, who remained of * the remnant of the giants: for theſe u did Moſes ſmite, and caſt them out.

* Deut. 3. 11 chap. 12. 4.

u Not all now mentioned, as appears from v. 13. but Sihon and Og, and their people, and the generality of them, which he had now named, ſome of them being excepted.

13 Nevertheleſs, the children of Iſrael expelled not the Geſhurites, nor the Maacathites: but the Geſhurites and the Maacathites dwell among the Iſraelites unto this day x.

x This ſeems added by way of anticipation and reflection upon the preſent Iſraelites; implying, that although Moſes did and might permit them to remain, both becauſe the Land which he had conquered was more than enough for the Iſraelitiſh Poſſeſſors; and becauſe being intent upon their paſſage over Jordan into the Land of Canaan, he would not delay them, by ſearching their Enemies out of all their corners; yet they were in fault, in not going on and perfecting the work which was begun by Moſes, and carried on ſo far by Joſhua.

14 Only unto the tribe of Levi he y gave none inheritance z: the ſacrifices of the LORD God of Iſrael made by fire a are their inheritance, * as he ſaid unto them.

* ver. 33.

y i. e. Moſes. as is expreſſed v. 33. z To wit, in the Land beyond Jordan, where yet a conſiderable part of the Levites were to have their ſettled abode. This is mentioned as the reaſon both why Moſes gave all that land to the Reubenites and Gadites and Manaſſites; and why Joſhua ſhould divide the land only into nine parts and an half, as was ſaid, v. 7. becauſe Levi was otherwiſe provided for. a Which by a Synecdoche are here put for all thoſe Sacrifices and Oblations, including Firſt fruits and Tithes, which were aſſigned to the Levites; and this paſſage is ſo oft repeated and urged, to prevent thoſe Calumnies and Injuries which God foreſaw the Levites were likely to meet with from the Malice, Envy and Covetouſneſs of their Brethren; and to oblige all the other Tribes to a chearful and conſcionable giving to the Levites their Dues, to which they had as good a Right and Title as they had to their ſeveral Poſſeſſions.

15 And Moſes gave unto the tribe of the children of Reuben inheritance according to their families b.

b Dividing the Inheritance into as many parts as they had Families; But this is only ſpoken of the greater Families; for the leſſer Diviſions or Diſtributions to the ſeveral ſmall Families, was done by inferior Officers, according to the Rules which Moſes gave them.

16 And their coaſt was from Aroer that is on the bank of the river Arnon, and the city that is in the midſt of the river c, and all the plain by Medeba:

c Of which ſee Deut. 3. 16. and Joſ. 12. 2.

17 Heſhbon d, and all her cities that are in the plain: Dibon, and * Bamoth-baal e, and Beth-baal-meon f,

* Or, the high places of Baal, & houſe of Baal-meon.

d This City, and Dibon and Ataroth were upon the borders of Reuben and Gad, and therefore ſometimes are aſcribed to Reuben as here, and Numb. 32. 37. ſometimes to Gad, as Numb. 32. 34. 1 Chron. 6. 81. by whom Heſhbon is ſaid to be given to the Levites, Joſ. 21. 39. Poſſibly it and the reſt were joyntly inhabited by both Tribes, as Jeruſalem was by Jews and Benjamites. e Of which, Numb. 21. 28. f Called Beth-meon, Jer. 48. 23. and Baal-meon, Ezek. 25. 9. part of the Name being cut off, as is uſual with the Hebrews.

18 And Jahazah, and Kedemoth, and Mephaath,

19 And Kirjathaim, and Sibmah, and Zarethſhahar, in the mount of the valley g.

g In the Mountain bordering upon that Valley, which then was famous among the Iſraelites; whether that where Moſes was buried, which was near to the place here following, Bethpeor, Deut. 34. 1. 6. or ſome other. And this clauſe is thought to belong to all the Cities now mentioned.

20 And Beth-peor, and * † Aſhdoth-Piſgah, and Beth-jeſhimoth: *Deut. 3. 17. †Or, ſprings of Piſgah, or the hill.

21 And all the cities of the plain h, and all the kingdom of Sihon i king of the Amorite, which reigned in Heſhbon, whom Moſes ſmote * with the princes of Midian k, Evi, and Rekem, and Zior, and Hur, and Reba, which were dukes of Sihon l, dwelling in the countrey m. *Num. 31. 18.

h. Oppoſed to the foregoing Cities of the Mountain of the Valley. i A Synecdochical expreſſion, for a great part of it; in which ſenſe we read of all Judea, and all the Region round about Jordan, Mat. 3. 5. and all Galilee, Mat. 4. 23. and many others. Or, which all were the Kingdoms of Sihon, i. e. belonged to his Kingdom. The Hebrew conjunction and is oft put for the relative particle which, as Judg. 2. 21. Prov. 19. 1. Eccleſ. 6. 12. k Not in the ſame time or Battel, as appears by comparing Numb. 21. 23, 24. with Numb. 31. 8. but in the ſame manner. And they are here mentioned, partly becauſe they were ſlain not long after, and upon the ſame occaſion, even their enmity againſt Iſrael; and partly becauſe of their relation and ſubjection to Sihon, as it here follows. l Qu. How could they be ſo, when they were Kings of Midian? Numb. 31. 8. Anſw. There were divers petty Kings in thoſe parts, which were ſubject to greater Kings; and ſuch theſe were, but are here called Dukes or Princes of Sihon, becauſe they were Subject and Tributaries to him, and therefore did one way or other aſſiſt Sihon in this War, though they were not killed at this time. It is probable, that when Sihon deſtroyed thoſe Moabites which dwelt in theſe parts, he frighted the reſt of them, and with them their Neighbours and Confederates, the Midianites, into ſome kind of Homage or Tribute, which they were willing to pay to him. m Heb. inhabiting that Land, namely Midian, laſt mentioned; whereby he ſignifies, that though they were ſubject to Sihon, yet they did not dwell in his Land, but in another.

22 * Balaam alſo the ſon of Beor the † ſoothſayer n, did the children of Iſrael ſlay with the ſword, among them that were ſlain by them. *Num. 22. 25. † Or, diviner.

n So he was in truth, though a Prophet (2 Pet. 2. 16.) in Title and Profeſſion. See Numb. 24. 25.

23 And the border of the children of Reuben was Jordan, and the border thereof o: this was the inheritance of the children of Reuben after their families, the cities and villages thereof.

o (i. e.) Thoſe Cities or Places which bordered upon Jordan. Compare Numb. 34. 6.

24 And Moſes gave inheritance unto the Tribe of Gad, even unto the children of Gad, according to their families.

25 And their coaſt was Jazer, and all the cities of Gilead p, and half the land of the children of Ammon q, unto Aroer r, that is before Rabbah ſ.

p (i. e.) All the Cities of note and eminency; all Cities properly ſo called, which it ſeems lay in that part of Gilead; and ſo this may well agree with v. 31. where half the Countrey of Gilead is ſaid to be given to the Manaſſites; but there is no mention of any Cities there. q Not of that which now was theirs, for that they were forbidden to meddle with, Deut. 2. 9. but of that which was anciently theirs, but taken from them by the Amorites, Numb. 21. 26. from whom the Iſraelites took it. Judg. 11. 15. r The border between them and Moab. ſ The chief city of the Ammonites, 2 Sam. 11. 1. and 12. 26, 27.

26 And from Heſhbon t unto Ramath-mizpeh u, and Betonim: and from Mahanaim x, unto the border of Debir.

t Either excluſively or incluſively. See before on v. 17. u Called Ramoth-Gilead, or Ramoth in Gilead, Joſ. 20. 8. and elſewhere. x Excluſively; for Mahanaim was in the portion of Manaſſeh, beyond Jabbok, which was the border of Gad and Mnnaſſeh.

27 And in the valley, Beth-aram, and Beth-nimrah, and Succoth, and Zaphon, the reſt of the kingdom of Sihon y king of Heſhbon, Jordan and his border, even unto the edge of the ſea of Cinnereth, on the other ſide Jordan eaſtward.

y The Northern part of his Kingdom.

28 This is the inheritance of the children of Gad, after their families, the cities and their villages.

29 And Moſes gave inheritance unto the half tribe of Manaſſeh z: and this was the poſſeſſion of the half tribe of the children of Manaſſeh by their families.

z Not that they deſired it, as Reuben and Gad did, Numb. 32. 1. but partly as a recompence to Machir the Manaſſite, for his valiant acts againſt Og; and partly for the better Security and Defence of the other two Tribes, by ſo conſiderable an acceſſion to them, which alſo was without any inconvenience to them, becauſe the Country was too large for the two Tribes of Reuben and Gad.

30 And their coaſt was from Mahanaim, all Baſhan, all the kingdom of Og king of Baſhan, and all the Towns of Jair a, which are in Baſhan, threeſcore cities.

a Who, though of the Tribe of Judah, by the Father, 1 Chr. 2. 21, 22. yet is called the Son of Manaſſeh, Numb. 32. 41. becauſe he married a Daughter of Manaſſeh, and wholly aſſociated himſelf with thoſe valiant Manaſſites; and with their help took Sixty Cities or great Towns, Deut. 3. 4, 14. which thence were called the Towns of Jair.

31 And half Gilead, and Aſhtaroth, and Endrei, cities of the kingdom of Og in Baſhan, were pertaining unto the children of Machir the ſon of Manaſſeh, even to the one half of the * children of Machir b, by their families. *Num. 32. 39.

b Whom before he called the children of Manaſſeh, he now calls the children of Machir, becauſe Machir was the moſt eminent, and as it may ſeem, the only ſurviving Son of Manaſſeh, Numb. 26. 29. 1 Chron. 7. 14, 15, 16. For the other half of Machir's, or Manaſſeh,s Children, ſee Joſh. 17. 1. &c.

32 Theſe are the countreys which Moſes did diſtribute for inheritance in the Plains of Moab, on the other ſide Jordan by Jericho eaſtward.

33 * But unto the tribe of Levi Moſes gave not any inheritance: the LORD God of Iſrael was their inheritance, * as he ſaid unto them. *Ch. 18. *Num. 18. 20.

CHAP. XIV.

The Land and its Inheritances to be divided by Lot, 1——5. Caleb, having on his Return from ſpying the Land encouraged the People, Moſes then promiſed him the Land of Hebron; which he now claims of Joſhua, 6——12. Who grants his Requeſt, 13——15.

1 AND theſe a are the countreys which the children of Iſrael inheritted in the land of Canaan, * which Eleazer the Prieſt b, and Joſhua the ſon of Nun, and the heads of the fathers of the tribes c of the children of Iſrael diſtributed for inheritance to them. *Num. 34. 17.

a Mentioned, Chap. 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19. b See on Joſh. 8. 33. and 9. 15, 18. and 19. 51. He beſt underſtood the Laws of God by which this Diviſion was to be regulated; and he was to conſult God upon any difficult Occurrence. c Twelve perſons, each the head of his Tribe, which were appointed and named by God, Numb. 34. 19. and if any of them were now dead, no doubt Joſhua and Eleazer, by God's Direction, put others in their ſtead.

2 * By Lot was their inheritance d, as the LORD commanded by the hand of Moſes, for the nine tribes, and for the half tribe. *Num. 26. 55. & 33. 54.

d This courſe God ordained, partly to prevent Diſcontents, Enmities, Animoſities and Quarrels among the Tribes, about the quality of their ſeveral Portions; and partly to demonſtrate the Truth and Wiſdom of his Providence, by which alone thoſe Parts fell to each of them, which Jacob long ſince, and Moſes lately, foretold; ſo that as a learned Man ſaith, He muſt be more ſtupid than Stupidity, and more impudent than Impudence it ſelf, that doth not acknowledge and confeſs a Divine Hand and Providence in this matter. The Lot did only determine the ſeveral Parts or Provinces to the ſeveral Tribes, but did not preciſely fix all the Bounds of it, but theſe might be either enlarged or diminiſhed according to the greater or ſmaller number of the Tribes, Numb. 26. 53, 56. and 33. 54. and that by the direction of thoſe perſons mentioned v. 1. and Joſh. 17. 14——18.

3 For Moſes had given the inheritance of two tribes, and a half tribe, on the other ſide Jordan: but unto the Levites he gave none inheritance among them.

4 For the children of Joſeph were two tribes e, Manaſſeh and Ephraim: therefore they gave no part unto the Levites in the land, ſave cities to dwell in with their ſuburbs, for their cattel, and for their ſubſtance.

e i. e. Had the double Portion, or the Portion of two Tribes, 1 Chron. 5. 1, 2. and therefore though Levi was excluded, there remained nine Tribes and a half, as was ſaid v. 2. to be provided for in Canaan.

5 * As the LORD commanded Moſes, ſo the children of Iſrael did, and they divided the land f. *Num. 34. 2. Ch. 21. 2.

f They, i. e. the perſons named, ver. 5. who repreſented and acted in the name of the Children of Iſrael, divided it, either now, or preſently after; which is here ſpoken by Anticipation.

6 ¶ Then g the children of Judah came h unto Joſhua in Gilgal i: and Caleb the ſon of Jephunneh k the Kenezite l, ſaid unto him, Thou knoweſt the thing that the LORD ſaid unto Moſes m the man of God n concerning me and thee in Kadeſh-barnea.

g Either 1. at that time when Joſhua and the reſt were conſulting about the diviſion of the Land, though they did not yet actually and fully divide it. Or, 2. when Joſhua, and himſelf, and the Iſraelites, were proceeding in their Conqueſts, and were going againſt Hebron, Joſh. 10. 36. which Expedition there mentioned in a general manner, may be particularly deſcribed in this Chapter, and Joſh. 15. 13, 14. But the former ſeems more probable, becauſe this was done when Joſhua was in Gilgal, and not when he was purſuing his Enemies. h Not ſo much to intercede for Caleb, which was not needful with Joſhua, eſpecially in a thing already promiſed by God, but only to juſtifie and countenance him in his deſire. i Where the diviſion of the Land was deſigned and begun, though it was executed and finiſhed at Shiloh, Joſh. 18. 1. &c. [k] So he is called here, and 1 Chron. 4. 15. to difference him from Caleb the Son of Hezron, 1 Chron. 2. 18. [l] Of the Poſterity of Kenaz, of whom ſee Judg. 1. 13. 1 Chron. 4. 13. 15. [m] In general, the gracious and comfortable promiſe he made us of poſſeſſing this Land; and in particular, for my part, that which is expreſſed here, v. 9. [n] Whoſe words therefore thou art obliged to make good.

7 Forty years old was I [o], when Moſes the ſervant of the LORD ſent me from Kadeſh-barnea to eſpy out the land, and I brought him word again, as it was in mine heart [p].

[o] See on Joſh. 11. 18. [p] I ſpake my opinion ſincerely, without flattery and fear, when the other Spies were biaſſed by their own fears, and the dread of the people, to ſpeak otherwiſe than in their Conſciences they believed; as appears from Numb. 13. 30, 31, 32. and 14. 36.

*Num. 13. 31. 32.
*Num. 14. 24.

8 Nevertheleſs * my brethren that went up with me, made the heart of the people melt: but I wholly * followed the LORD my God [q].

[q] Which ſelf-commendation is juſtifiable, becauſe it was neceſſary, as being the ground and foundation of his Petition.

9 And Moſes ſware on that day, ſaying, Surely the land whereon thy feet have trodden ſhall be thine inheritance [r], and thy childrens for ever, becauſe thou haſt wholly followed the LORD my God.

[r] See Numb. 14. 24. Deut. 1. 36.

*Num. 14. 30.
† Heb. walked.

10 And now behold, the LORD hath kept me alive, as * he ſaid, theſe forty and five years [ſ] even ſince the LORD ſpake this word unto Moſes, while the children of Iſrael † wandred in the wilderneſs: and now, lo, I am this day fourſcore and five years old.

[ſ] Whereof 38 years were ſpent in the Wilderneſs, and ſeven ſince they came into Canaan.

*Ec. 46. 9.

11 As yet I am as ſtrong this day, as I was in the day that Moſes ſent me: as my ſtrength was then, even ſo is my ſtrength now, for war [t], both to go out, and to come in [u].

[t] Not only for Counſel, but for Action; for marching and fighting. And therefore this gift will not be caſt away upon an unprofitable and unſerviceable perſon. [u] To perform all the Duties belonging to my place.

*Num. 13. 28, 32, 33.

12 Now therefore give me this mountain [x], whereof the LORD ſpake in that day; (for thou heardeſt [y] in that day, how the * Anakims were there, and that the cities were great and fenced) if ſo be the LORD will be with me [z], then I ſhall be able to drive them out [a] as the LORD ſaid.

[x] i. e. This mountainous Countrey, in which was Hebron, Joſh. 11. 21. and 20. 7. and Deber, and Anab. He names the Countrey rather than the Cities, either 1. becauſe the Giants here following were already driven out of their Cities, but yet abode in their Caves or Holds in the mountains, whence they much moleſted the Iſraelites. Or 2. becauſe the Cities were given to the Levites, Joſ. 21. 11. 13. [y] i. e. Didſt underſtand, both by the Reports of others, and by thy own obſervation, as I alſo did. Hearing, the ſenſe by which we get knowledg, is oft put for knowing or underſtanding, as Gen. 11. 7. & 42. 23. 2 King. 18. 26. [z] A modeſt, and humble, and pious Expreſſion, ſignifying both the abſolute neceſſity of Gods help, and his godly fear, leſt God for his ſins ſhould deny his Aſſiſtance to him, as he might juſtly do; for although he was well aſſured in general, that God would crown his people with ſucceſs in this War, yet he might doubt of his particular ſucceſs in this or that Enterprize. [a] Out of their Faſtneſſes where they yet remain. Caleb deſires this difficult work as a Teſtimony of his own Faith, and as a Motive to quicken and encourage his Brethren to the like attempts.

13 And Joſhua bleſſed him [b], and gave unto Caleb the ſon of Jephunneh, Hebron for an inheritance.

[b] Either 1 prayed to God to bleſs and help him according to his own deſire. Or, 2. acknowledged his praiſe-worthy Carriage in the matter of the Spies, and the reaſonableneſs of his Requeſt. Or, 3. conſented to his deſire, and, as it follows, gave it to him; as God's Bleſſing is oft put for his actual conferring of favours upon Men.

*Chap. 21. 12.

14 * Hebron therefore became the inheritance of Caleb the ſon of Jephunneh, the Kenezite unto this day: becauſe that he wholly followed the LORD God of Iſrael.

*Ch. 15. 13.

15 And * the name of Hebron before was Kirjath-arba, which Arba was a great man [c] among the Anakims: and the land had reſt from war [d].

[c] In ſtature, and ſtrength, and dignity, and authority, as being the Progenitor of Anak, the father of thoſe famous Giants called Anakems, Joſh. 14. 15. [d] Which gave them opportunity for the diſtribution of the Land.

CHAP. XV.

The Borders of the Lot of Judah, 1——12. Among them Kirjath-Arba Caleb's Inheritance: He drives thence the three ſons of Anak; promiſes to give his daughter in marriage to him who ſhould ſmite Kirjath-Sepher; which Othniel does, and obtains her: She requeſts of her Father ſome Land for a Dowry; which he grants, 13——19. The Cities of Judah, 20——62. The Jebuſites could not be conquered by them, 63.

*Nu. 34. 3.
*Num. 33. 36.

THis then was the lot [a] of the tribe of the children of Judah [b] by their Families, * even to the border of Edom [c]; the * wilderneſs of Zin ſouthward was the uttermoſt part of the ſouth-coaſt.

[a] For the general underſtanding of this buſineſs, it muſt be known 1. That this work of caſting Lots was tranſacted with great ſerioutneſs and ſolemnity, in God's preſence, with Prayer and Appeal to him for the deciſion of the matter. 2. That although an exact Survey of this Land was not taken till Joſh. 18. 4, 5. yet there was, and muſt needs be a general deſcription of it, and a diviſion thereof into nine parts and a half; which, as far as they could gueſs, were equal either in Quantity or in Quality. 3. That the Lot did not at this time ſo peremptorily and unchangeably determine each Tribe, that their portion could neither be encreaſed nor diminiſhed; as is manifeſt, becauſe after Judah's Lot was fixed, Simeon's Lot was taken out of it, Joſh. 19. 9. though after the Land was more diſtinctly known and ſurveyed, Joſhua 18. it is likely the Bounds were more certain and fixed. 4. That the Lot determined only in general what part or quarter of the Land belonged to each Tribe, but left the particulars to be determined by Joſhua and Eleazar, &c. For the manner of this Lottery, it is probably conceived, that there were two Urns or Pots, into one of which were put the Names of all the Tribes, each in a diſtinct Paper, and into the other the Names of each Portion deſcribed; then Eleazar, or ſome other Perſon, drew out firſt the Name of one of the Tribes out of one Pot, and then the Name of one Portion out of the other Pot, and that Portion was appropriated to that Tribe; and ſo in the reſt. And with reſpect to theſe Pots, in the bottom of which the Papers lay, theſe Lots are oft ſaid to come up, or come forth. [b] Whoſe Lot came out firſt by God's diſpoſition, as a note of his Preeminency above his Brethren. [c] Which lay South-eaſt from Judah's Portion.

2 And their ſouth-border was from the ſhore of the ſalt-ſea, from the † bay [d] that looketh ſouthward. † Heb. tongue.

[d] Heb. the Tongue: By which he underſtands either a Creek or Arm of that Sea; or a Promontory, which by learned Authors is ſometimes called a Tongue; it is not material to know which of theſe it was.

3 And it went out to the ſouth-ſide [e] to † Maaleh-acrabbim, and paſſed along to Zin, and aſcended up on the ſouth-ſide unto Kadeſh-barnea: and paſſed along to Hezron, and went up to Adar, and fetched a compaſs to Karkaa. † Or, the going up to Acrabbim.

[e] Concerning this deſcription of the Southern-Coaſt of Judah ſee Numb. 34. 3, 4, 5.

4 From thence it paſſed toward Azmon, and went out unto the River of Egypt, and the goings out of that coaſt were at the ſea: this ſhall be your ſouth-coaſt,

5 And the eaſt-border was the ſalt ſea, even unto the end of Jordan [f]: and their border in the north quarter was from the bay of the ſea, at the uttermoſt part of Jordan.

[f] i. e. The place where Jordan runs into the Salt-ſea.

6 And the border went up to Beth-hogla, and paſſed along by the North of Beth-arabah [g], and the border went up to the ſtone of Bohan the ſon of Reuben [h].

[g] Or, on the North, or Northward to Beth-arabah. Which place is attributed to Judah here, ver. 61. and to Benjamin, Joſh. 18. 22. becauſe it was a Frontier Town in the borders of Judah and Benjamin, and therefore promiſcuouſly belonging to both; which alſo was the Caſe of ſome other Places: And this Cohabitation was convenient to maintain brotherly Love and Union between the ſeveral Tribes, eſpecially in the borders, where differences oft ariſe. [h] A place ſo called, not from Bohan's dwelling there, (for the Reubenites had no Portion on this ſide Jordan) but from ſome notable Exploit which he did there, though it be not recorded in Scripture.

7 And the border went up toward Debir [i] from the valley of Achor, and ſo northward, looking toward Gilgal [k], that is before the going up to Adummim, which is on the ſouth ſide of the river [l]: and the border paſſed towards the waters of En-ſhemeſh, and the goings out thereof were * at Enrogel. * 1 Kin. 1. 9.

[i] A differing place from that Debir, ver. 15. which was near Hebron, and remote from Judah's border; as alſo from that Debir, Joſh. 13. 26. which was beyond Jordan. [k] Either that Gilgal nigh Jordan, Joſh. 4. 19. or another place of that name. [l] Or, brook, or valley.

8 And the border went up [m] by the valley of the ſon of Hinnom [n], unto the ſouth ſide of the * Jebuſite [o], the ſame is Jeruſalem [p]: and the border went up to the top of the mountain, that lieth before the valley of Hinnom, weſtward, which is at the end of the valley of the giants, northward.

[m] Properly, for the Line went from Jordan and the ſalt Sea, to the higher grounds nigh Jeruſalem; and therefore the Line is ſaid to go down, Joſh. 18. 16. becauſe there it takes a contrary courſe, and goes downwards to Jordan and the Sea. [n] A very pleaſant place, but afterward made infamous, 2 King. 23. 10. [o] (i. e.) Of the City of the Jebuſites, which was antiently called Jebuſſi, Joſh. 18. laſt, Judg. 19. 10. [p] It may ſeem hence, and from Deut. 33. 12. Joſh. 18. laſt, Judg. 1. 21. that Jeruſalem properly, or at leaſt principally, belonged to Benjamin; and yet it is aſcribed to Judah alſo here, verſe 63. and elſewhere, either becauſe a part of the City was allotted to Judah; or becauſe the Benjamites needed or deſired the Help and Conjunction of this powerful Tribe of Judah, for the getting and keeping of this moſt important place.

And when the Benjamites had in vain attempted to drive out the Jebusites, this work was at laſt done by the Tribe of Judah, who therefore had an intereſt in it by the Right of War; as Ziglag which belonged to the Tribe of Simeon, being gotten from the Philiſtines by David, was adjoyned by him to his Tribe of Judah, 1 Sam. 27. 6.

9 And the border was drawn from the top of the hill, unto the fountain of the water of Nephtoah, and went out to the cities of mount Ephron q, and the border was drawn to Baalah, which is Kirjath-jearim r.

q (i. e.) belonging to, or bordering upon Mount Ephron. r Called Kiriath-baal, v. 60. and Joſh. 18. 14.

10 And the border compaſſed from Baalah weſtward unto mount Seir s, and paſſed along unto the ſide of mount Jearim, (which is Cheſalon) on the north ſide, and went down to Beth-ſhemeſh r, and paſſed on to Timnah.

s Not that of Edom, but another ſo called from ſome reſemblance it had with that in quality. t There were divers Cities of this Name; this in Judah here, and Joſh. 21. 16. 2 Kings, 14. 11. another in Iſſachar, and a third in Naphtali, Joſh. 19. 22, 38.

11 And the border went out unto the ſide of Ekron northward, and the border was drawn to Shicron, and paſſed along to mount Baalah, and went out unto Jabneel: and the goings out of the border were at the ſea.

12 And the weſt border was to the great ſea, and the coaſt thereof: this is the coaſt of the children of Judah round about, according to their families.

13 ¶ And unto Caleb the ſon of Jephunneh he u gave a part among the children of Judah, according to the commandment of the LORD to Joſhua, even * † the city of Arba x the father of Anak, which city is Hebron.

*Ch. 14. 15.
† Or, Kirjath-arba.

u i. e. Joſhua, as appears by comparing this with Joſh. 14. 6. 12. 13. x Or, Kiriath-arba. Not the City which was the Levites, but the Territory of it, Joſh. 21. 13.

*Judges 1. 10.

14 And Caleb drove thence y * the three ſons of Anak, Sheſhai, and Ahiman, and Talmai z, the children of Anak.

y (i. e.) From the ſaid Territory, from their Caves and Forts in it; compare Joſh. 14. 12. This and the following work was done either in Joſhua's life-time, as may ſeem from Joſh. 11. 21. or after his death, as is related Judg. 1. 10. Theſe Giants having either recovered their Cities, or defended themſelves in the mountains. z Either the ſame who are mentioned, Numb. 13. 33. and ſo they were long-liv'd men, ſuch as many were in thoſe times and places: or their Sons, called by their Fathers names, which is very uſual.

15 And he went up thence to the inhabitants of Debir a, and the name of Debir before was Kirjath-ſepher b.

a The ſame mentioned above, v. 7. b This clauſe ſeems to be added to diſtinguiſh this from the other Debir ſubdued by Joſhua, Joſh. 10. 38, 39.

16 ¶ And Caleb ſaid, He that ſmiteth Kirjath-ſepher, and taketh it, to him will I give Achſah my daughter to wife c.

c Which is to be underſtood with ſome Conditions, as, if he were one who could marry her by God's Law; for every promiſe contrary to that, is void; and if ſhe were willing; for though Parents had a great Power over their Children, they could not force them to marry any perſon againſt their own Wills. He might otherwiſe be an unfit and unworthy perſon; but this was no ordinary motion propounded to the imitation of others, but a divine impulſe, that Othniel's valour might be more manifeſt, and ſo the way prepared for his future Government of the People, Judg. 3. 9.

*Judg. 1. 13 and 3. 9.

17 And * Othniel the ſon of Kenaz, the brother of Caleb d took it: and he gave him Achſah his daughter to wife.

d Obj. This Marriage was unlawful. Anſw. No, for it was not Othniel, but Kenaz, who was Caleb's Brother; and beſides, the word Brother is commonly uſed for any Kinſman; And that Caleb was not properly Othniel's Brother, ſufficiently appears, becauſe Caleb is conſtantly called the Son of Jephunneh; and Othniel, the Son of Kenaz here, and 1 Chron. 4. 13.

18 And it came to paſs as ſhe came unto him e, that ſhe moved him to ask f of her father a field; and ſhe lighted off her aſs g, and Caleb ſaid unto her, What wouldeſt thou?

e Or, as ſhe went, to wit, from her Father's houſe to her Husband's, as the manner was: See on Matth. 1. 18. f She perſuaded her Husband, either, 1. That he would ask: or rather, 2. That he would ſuffer her to ask, as ſhe did. g That ſhe might addreſs her ſelf to her Father in an humble poſture, and as a Suppliant, which he underſtood by her geſture.

19 Who anſwered, Give me a bleſſing h: for thou haſt given me a ſouth land i, give me alſo ſprings of water k. And he gave her the upper ſprings, and the nether ſprings l.

h (i.e.) A gift, as that word ſignifies, Gen. 33. 11. i (i. e.) A dry land, which was much expoſed to the South-wind, which in thoſe parts was very hot and drying, as coming from the Deſarts of Arabia. k (i. e.) A Field, as ſhe deſired, v. 18. wherein are Springs of Water, which in that Countrey were of great Price; for it is not probable, that he would give her the Springs, and give to another the grounds in which the Springs were; who could thereby at their pleaſure deprive her of the uſe and benefit of her Springs: So ſhe begs a well moiſtened Field, which alſo might give ſome relief to that which was dry and barren. l. (i. e.) Springs both in the higher and in the lower grounds; or two Fields, one in high, another in low grounds; or rather, one above, and the other below that South and dry ground which ſhe complained of, that by this means it might be watered on both ſides.

20 This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Judah, according to their families.

21 And the uttermoſt cities m of the tribe of the children of Judah toward the coaſt of Edom, ſouthward, were Kabzeel n, and Eder, and Jagur;

m Thoſe which were on the borders of the Land, not the midland cities. It is apparent, that all the Cities belonging to this Tribe, are not mentioned in this Catalogue. n Called Jekabzeel, Neh. 11. 25.

63 As for the Jebuſites the Inhabitants of Jeruſalem i, the children of Judah could not drive them out k : but the Jebuſites dwell with the children of Judah at Jeruſalem l unto this day d.

i For though Jeruſalem was in part taken by Joſhua before this ; yet the upper and ſtronger part of it, called Zion, was ſtill kept by the Jebuſites, even until Davids time ; and it ſeems from thence they deſcended to the lower Town called Jeruſalem, and took it ; ſo that the Iſraelites were forced to win it a ſecond time ; yea, and a third time alſo : for afterwards it was poſſeſſed by the Jebuſites, Judg. 19. 11. 2 Sam. 5. 6, 7. k Namely, becauſe of their unbelief, as Chriſt could do no mighty work——becauſe of the peoples unbelief, Mark 6. 5, 6. Mat. 13. 58. and becauſe of their Sloth, and Cowardice, and Wickedneſs, whereby they forfeited Gods help, and then they muſt needs be impotent ; but this inability was wilful, and brought upon them by themſelves. l The ſame things which are here ſaid of the children of Judah, are ſaid of the Benjamites, Judg. 1. 21. Hence ariſeth a queſtion, To which of the Tribes Jeruſalem belonged ? whether to Benjamin, as is gathered from Gen. 49. 27. Deut. 33. 12. Jer. 6. 1: or to Judah, as is implied here, and Pſal. 78. 68, 69. Some think, that being in the Borders of both, it was common to both, and promiſcuouſly inhabited by both ; and it is certain, that after the Captivity it was poſſeſſed by both. Neh. 11. 4. But for the preſent, though it did belong to Benjamin, yet the Children of Judah being poſſibly very active in the firſt taking of it by Joſhua, as they certainly were after his Death, Judg. 1. 8. they might thereby get ſome right ſhare with the Benjamites in the Poſſeſſion of it. It ſeems moſt probable, that part of it, and indeed the greateſt part, and main body of it, ſtood in the Tribe of Benjamin ; and hence this is mentioned in the Liſt of their Cities, and not in Judah's Liſt ; and part of it ſtood in Judah's ſhare, even Mount Moriah, on which the Temple was built ; and Mount Sion, when it was taken from the Jebuſites. m When this Book was written, whether in Joſhuah's Life and Old Age, which continued many years after the taking of Jeruſalem ; or after his Death, when this Clauſe was added here and elſewhere in this Book by ſome other man of God, which muſt needs be done before David's time, when the Jebuſites were quite expelled, and their Fort taken.

The general Borders of the ſons of Joſeph, 1—4. The Borders of Ephraim, 5--9. Some of the Canaanites not expell'd, but made tributary, 10.

† Heb. Went forth.

1 AND the lot of the children of Joſeph a * fell from Jordan by Jericho, unto the † water of Jericho b on the eaſt, to the wilderneſs that goeth up from Jericho throughout mount Beth-el ;

a (i.e.) Of Ephraim, and the half Tribe of Manaſſeh, which are here put together in one ; not becauſe they had but one Lot, for Ephraim had one here, v. 5. and Manaſſeh another, Joſ. 17. 1. but becauſe in theſe firſt Verſes he ſpeaks of them in common, and of the South border, which ſeems to be the ſame, either wholly or in a great part : and then he comes to the particular deſcription of their ſeveral portions. It is here farther remarkable, that God ſo diſpoſed of theſe Lots, that they came forth in decent and due order ; Judah's firſt, to whom the Sovereignty was promiſed ; and then Joſeph's, who ſucceeded Reuben in the other Priviledge of the Birth-right, the double-portion, 1 Chron. 5. 1, 2. b Of which ſee 2 King. 2. 19, 20, 21, 22. c The Wilderneſs of Beth-aven, as appears by comparing Joſ. 18. 12. which ſpeaks of the very ſame border which was on the South of Ephraim, and on the North of Benjamin.

* Judg. 1. 26. 2 And goeth out from Beth-el to * Luz d, and paſſeth along unto the borders of Archi, to Ataroth, d Or, from Bethel-luzah, as the LXX. here join the words ; for Bethel was anciently called Luz, Gen 28. 19. and 48. 3. Though ſome think this was another Luz, ſpoken of Judg. 1. 26. Others make Bethel and Luz two neighbouring Towns, which afterwards being more built and inhabited, became one, as oft hath happened.

3 And goeth down weſtward to the coaſt of Japhleti, unto the coaſt of Beth-horon the nether e, and to Gezer : and the goings out thereof are at the ſea.

e Of the two Beth-horons, ſee Joſ. 10. 10, 11.

4 So the children of Joſeph, Manaſſeh f, and Ephraim, took their inheritance g.

f (i. e.) Half Manaſſeh, by a Synecdoche. g (i. e.) Their ſeveral Portions which here follow. Some think that they had but one Lot between them, and therefore they are now ſaid to take their inheritance, to wit, by dividing it between them according to the direction of Joſhua and Eleazar, &c. For that Phraſe being uſed of them, and not, to my remembrance, of any other Tribes, may ſeem to have ſome peculiar ſignification, which doth not agree to the other Tribes. But there being mention of a peculiar Lot taken out for Manaſſeh, Joſh. 17. 1. ſhews that their ſeveral inheritances fell to them, as the reſt did to the other Tribes, even by ſeveral Lots : and it is ſaid of them, that they took their inheritance, which alſo Judah had done before them, becauſe the Tribes of Judah and Joſeph did take their Inheritances before the reſt ; and it was fit they ſhould do ſo, for the ſecurity of the main Camp, and the body of the people which were at Gilgal. See Joſ. 18. 5.

5 ¶ And the border of the children of Ephraim, according to their families, was thus : even the border of their inheritance on the eaſt-ſide h, was from Ataroth-addar unto Beth-horon the upper.

g (i. e) The North-eaſt ſide. It is no wonder, if ſome of theſe Deſcriptions are dark and doubtful to us at this diſtance of time and place ; there having been ſo many alterations made in places, and ſo many circumſtances, being now altogether undiſcoverable. But this is evident to every man of common ſenſe, that this and all the deſcriptions here mentioned, were then certain and evident to the Iſraelites, becauſe theſe were the foundation of their preſent practice, and of all the poſſeſſions which then they took, and peaceably poſſeſſed in ſucceeding Ages.

6 And the border went out toward the ſea i, to Mickmethah on the north-ſide, and the border went about eaſtward unto Taanath-ſhiloh, and paſſed by it on the eaſt to Janohah :

i The Mid-land ſea, towards the Weſt.

7 And it went down from Janohah to Ataroth, and to Naarath, and came to Jericho k, and went out at Jordan.

k Not to the City of Jericho, which belonged to Benjamin's Lot, Joſ. 18. 21. but to its Territory.

8 The border went up from Tappuah weſtward unto the river Kanah ; and the goings out thereof were at the ſea. This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Ephraim by their families.

9 And the * ſeparate cities l for the children of Ephraim were among the inheritance of the children of Manaſſeh, all the cities with their villages. * Chap. 17. 9.

l (i. e.) Beſides thoſe Cities which were within Ephraim's bounds, he had ſome other Cities, to which all their Territories were annexed out of Manaſſeh's Portion, becauſe his Tribe was all here, and was larger than Manaſſeh's.

10 And they * drave out the Canaanites that dwelt in Gezer m : but the Canaanites dwell among the Ephramites unto this day, and ſerve under tribute n. * Judg. 1. 29.

m Nor were they driven out till Solomon's time, 1 King. 9. 16. n As Joſ. 17. 13. 1 King. 9. 16.

C H A P. XVII.

The Inheritance of Manaſſeh : and its Borders, 1—11. They could not drive out the Canaanites, but made them tributary, 12, 13. The Children of Joſeph complain, that their Borders are too narrow : Joſhua promiſes them the ſubduing of the Canaanites, 14--18.

1 THere was alſo a lot for the tribe of Manaſſeh, (for he was the * firſt born of Joſeph a) to wit, for † Machir b, the firſt-born c of Manaſſeh, the father of Gilead d : becauſe he was a man of war e, therefore he had Gilead and Baſhan f.

* Gen. 41. 51. and 46. 20.

a The ſenſe is, though Ephraim was to be more potent and numerous, yet Manaſſeh was the Firſt-born, and had the priviledge of the Firſt-born, which was tranſlrted to Joſeph, to wit, a double portion ; and therefore though this were but half the Tribe of Manaſſeh, yet they are not made Inmates to Ephraim, but have a diſtinct Lot of their own, as their Brethren, or other half Tribe had beyond Jordan. b The only Son of Manaſſeh, who therefore is here, and Judg. 5. 14. put for the whole Tribe. c So even onely Sons are ſometimes called, as Mat. 1. 25. See Exod. 4. 22. d Or, and the Father, or who was alſo the Father of Gilead ; not of the Land of Gilead, but of the man Gilead, who was Machir's Son, Numb. 26. 29. e He, i. e. Machir, had given great proof of his Valour in his Generation, (though the particular Hiſtory be not mentioned) and his Poſterity were no degenerate Sons, but had his valiant Blood ſtill running in their Veins. f (i. e.) Part of thoſe Countreys ; for part of them was alſo given to the Reubenites, and part to the Gadites, as appears from Joſ. 13. 30, 31. This may be added as a reaſon, either 1. Why he got thoſe places from the Amorites : or 2. Why they were allotted to him or his Poſterity, becauſe this was a Frontier Country, and the Out-works to the Land of Canaan, and therefore required ſuch valiant perſons to defend it.

Numb. 6. 29. 2 There was alſo a lot g for * the reſt of the children of Manaſſeh h by their families: for the children of Abiezer, and for the children of Helek, and for the children of Aſriel, and for the children of Shechem, and for the children of Hepher, and for the children of Shemida: theſe were the male-children i of Manaſſeh the the Son of Joſeph by their families.

g Or, a Portion, or diſtinct Inheritance. h To wit, thoſe of them which had not received their Poſſeſſions beyond Jordan, Numb. 26. 30, &c. i This expreſſion is uſed to bring in what follows, concerning his Female Children.

* Numb. 26, 33. and 27. 1. and 36. 2. 3 But * Zelophehad the ſon of Hephir, the ſon of Gilead, the ſon of Machir, the ſon of Manaſſeh, had no ſons but daughters k: and theſe are the names of his daughters, Mahlah, and Noah, Hoglah, Milcah, and Tirzah.

k Of whom ſee on Numb. 26. 33. and 27. 1.

4 And they came near before Eleazar the prieſt, and before Joſhua the ſon of Nun, and before the princes, ſaying, The LORD commanded Moſes to give us an inheritance among our brethren: therefore according to the commandment of the LORD he l gave them an inheritance among the brethren of their father.

l (i. e.) Eleazar, or Joſhua, with the conſent of the Princes appointed for that work.

5 And there fell ten portions m to Manaſſeh, beſide the land of Gilead, and Baſhan, which were on the other ſide Jordan:

m Either 1. Six portions for the ſix Sons, whereof one was Hepher; and becauſe he had no Sons, his part was ſubdivided into five equal parts, for each of the Daughters: Or 2. Ten Portions, five for the Sons, and five for the Daughters; for as for Hepher, both he and his Son Zelophehad was dead, and that without Sons, and therefore he had no Portion; but his Daughters had ſeveral Portions allotted to them.

6 Becauſe the daughters of Manaſſeh had an inheritance among his ſons n: and the reſt of Manaſſehs ſons had the land of Gilead.

n (i. e.) No leſs than the Sons, ſo their Sex was no bar to their Inheritance.

7 ¶ And the coaſt of Manaſſeh was from Aſher to Michmethah, that lieth before Shechem, and the border went along on the right hand, unto the inhabitants of En-tappuah.

8 Now Manaſſeh had the land of Tappuah: but the city of Tappuah on the border of Manaſſeh belonged to the children of Ephraim.

‖ Or, Brook of Reeds. * Chap. 16. 9. 9 And the coaſt deſcended unto the ‖ river Kanah ſouthward of the river: * theſe cities of Ephraim o are among the cities of Manaſſeh p; the coaſt of Manaſſeh alſo was on the north-ſide of the river, and the outgoings of it were at the ſea.

o Tappuah, and the cities upon the Coaſt deſcending to the River, &c. laſt mentioned. p (i. e.) Are intermixed with their Cities, which was not ſtrange nor unfit, theſe two being linked together by a nearer Alliance than the reſt.

10 Southward it was Ephraims, and northward it was Manaſſehs, and the ſea is his border q, and they met together in Aſher r on the north, and in Iſſachar on the eaſt.

q Either 1. Manaſſeh's, whoſe portion is here deſcribed, and whoſe Name was laſt mentioned. Or 2. Ephraim's and Manaſſeh's both expreſſed in the foregoing words, and implied in the following, they. r (i. e.) Upon the Tribe of Aſher; for though Zabulon came between Aſher and them for the greateſt part of their Land; yet it ſeems there were ſome Necks or Parcels of Land, both of Ephraim's and of Manaſſeh's, which jutted out farther than the reſt, and touched the borders of Aſher. And it is certain there were many ſuch incurſions of the Land of one Tribe upon ſome parcels of another, although they were otherwiſe conſiderably diſtant one from the other. See Joſ. 19. 34. And you muſt not judge of theſe things by the preſent Maps, which are drawn according to the Opinions of late Authors, which many times are falſe; and they are to be judged by the Scripture, and not the Scripture by them: But, that part of Manaſſeh did reach to Aſher, appears from hence, that Dor, a City of Manaſſeh, v. 11. was, as Joſephus witneſſeth, near Carmel, which belonged to Aſher, Joſ. 19. 26.

11 And Manaſſeh had in Iſſachar, and in Aſher t, Beth-ſhean and her towns, and Ibleam and her towns, and the inhabitants of Dor u and her towns, and the inhabitants of Endor and her towns, and the inhabitants of Taanach and her towns, and the inhabitants of Megiddo and her towns, even three Countreys x.

t Either 1. Bordering upon them, as in Aſher is taken v. 10. and as Aarons Rod is ſaid to be in the Ark, i. e. cloſe by it, Heb. 9. 4. or 2. Properly in them, as Ephraim had ſome Cities in the Tribe of Manaſſeh, Joſ. 16. 9. and as it was not unuſual, when the place allotted to any Tribe was too narrow for it, and the next too large, to give away part from the larger to the leſs portion; nay ſometimes one whole Tribe was taken into another; as Simeon was into Judah's Portion, when it was found too large for Judah, Joſ. 19. 9.

u Not the places only, but the people; whom, contrary to Gods Command, they ſpared and uſed for Servants, whom therefore they are ſaid to have or poſſeſs. x This may be referred either to ſome, to wit, the three laſt places, or to all the places named in this verſe, which are here ſaid, either to have three Countreys or Tracts of Land belonging to them, or to be in three ſeveral Countreys or Portions, as they ſeem to have been, ſome in Iſſachar, and ſome in Aſher, and yet both belonging to Manaſſeh. Or, the words may be rendred, the third part of that Countrey; for the Hebrew word is of the Singular Number, and the Article ſeems emphatical; and ſo the meaning may be, That the Cities and Towns here mentioned are a third part of that Countrey, i. e. of that part of Iſſachars and Aſhers Portion, in which thoſe places lay.

12 Yet * the children of Manaſſeh could not y drive out the inhabitants of thoſe cities, but the Canaanites would dwell z in that land. * Judg. 1. 27.

y See on Joſ. 15. 63. z Were reſolved to Fight, rather than be turned out of their ancient habitations.

13 Yet it came to paſs when the children of Iſrael were waxen ſtrong, that they put the Canaanites to tribute: but did not utterly drive them out a.

a Which they were obliged to, now they were ſtrong and numerous enough to poſſeſs thoſe places.

14 And the children of Joſeph b ſpake unto Joſhua c, ſaying, Why haſt thou given me but one lot, and one portion d to inherit, ſeeing I am a great e people, foraſmuch as the LORD hath bleſſed me hitherto?

b (i. e.) Of Ephraim and Manaſſeh, as is manifeſt, partly from v. 17. where it is ſo explained; and partly, becauſe they mention it as an unreaſonable thing, that they being two, ſhould have but one Lot. c (i. e.) Expoſtulated with him, when they went and ſaw that Portion which was allotted to them, and found it much ſhort of their expectation. d Either 1. Becauſe they really had but one Lot, which was afterwards divided by the Arbitrators between them. Or 2. Becauſe the Land ſeverally allotted to them, was no more than was little enough for one of them. e Or, numerous, for ſo the Hebrew word oft ſignifies.

15 And Joſhua anſwered them, If thou be a great people f, then get thee up to the wood-country g, and cut down h for thy ſelf there in the land of the Perizzites i, and of the ‖ giants k, if mount Ephraim be too narrow for thee l. ‖ Or, Rephaims.

f He retorts their own Argument; Seeing thou art a great and numerous People, turn thy Complaints into Actions and valiant Exploits, and enlarge thy Borders by thy own hand, to which thou maiſt confidently expect Gods aſſiſtance. g To the Mountain, as it is called v. 17. where among ſome Towns there is much Woodland, which thou maiſt without much difficulty poſſeſs, and ſo get the more room. h Either the Wood, v. 18. for thy own advantage and uſe; partly in building more Cities and Towns; and partly for preparing the Land for the uſe of Paſture and Tillage. i Suppoſed to be a ſavage and brutiſh kind of People, that lived in Woods and Mountains. k Who lived in Caves and Mountains, now eſpecially when they were driven out of their Cities. l Or, ſeeing Mount Ephraim is too narrow for thee, as thou complaineſt; take to thy ſelf the reſt of that Hilly and Wood Countrey. Mount Ephraim was a particular and eminent portion of the Land, belonging to the Tribe of Ephraim, as appears from Joſh. 19. 50. and 20. 7 and 21. 21. Judg. 4. 5. And this ſeems to be here mentioned Synecdochically, for all the Portion allotted to Ephraim and Manaſſeh, as appears from their complaint, which was not, that this part, but that their whole Portion was too ſtrait for them.

16 And the children of Joſeph ſaid, The hill is not enough for us m: and all the Canaanites that dwell in the land of the valley n, have * charets of iron o, both they who are of Beth-ſhean, and her towns, and they who are of the valley of Jezreel p. * Judg. 4. 3.

m If we ſhould Invade and Conquer it, and cut down both Wood and Men, yet it would not be ſufficient for us. Heb. The Hill will not be found, i. e. obtained by us; thoſe fierce and ſtrong people the Perizzites and the Giants will eaſily defend themſelves, and fruſtrate our attempts, having the advantage of the Woods and Mountains. n (i. e.) And if thou ſayeſt, as we know thou thou wilt reply, That if the Hill either cannot be Conquered, or be not ſufficient for us, we may go down and take more Land out of the pleaſant and fruitful Valleys, we ſhall meet with no leſs difficulty there than in the Mountains. Or thus, in going to the Hills to which thou directeſt us, we muſt paſs through Valleys, where we ſhall be way-laid by powerful and armed Enemies. o Not all made of Iron, but armed with Iron, not only for Defence, but for Offence alſo, having as it were Sithes and Swords faſtned to them, to cut down all that ſtood in their way. p Which was either in the Tribe of Iſſachar, or upon the Borders of it, Joſ. 19. 18.

17 And Joſhua ſpake unto the houſe of Joſeph, even to Ephraim, and to Manaſſeh, ſaying, Thou art a great people, and haſt great power: thou ſhalt not have one lot only q.

q Thou needeſt and deſerveſt more than that Lot, of which thou art actually poſſeſſed, and thou haſt Power to get more; which if thou endeavoureſt to do, God will bleſs thee, and give thee more.

18 But the mountain ſhall be thine: for it is a wood, and thou ſhalt cut it down: and the outgoings of it r ſhall be thine: for thou ſhalt drive out the Canaanites, nites, though they have iron chariots, and though they be ſtrong.

r Either 1. The Productions or Fruits of that Land, when it is cleared from the Wood, and purged: or rather, 2. The Valleys and Fields belonging or adjoining to it, for there the Canaanites were, v. 16.

CHAP. XVIII.

The Tabernacle is ſet up in Shiloh, 1. The remainder of the Land deſcribed and divided into ſeven parts, for the ſeven Tribes which as yet had no Inheritance, 2—9. Joſhua caſts the Lot at Shiloh: The firſt comes out for Benjamin, 10. Whoſe Borders and Cities are deſcribed, 11—28.

AND the whole congregation of the children of Iſrael aſſembled together at Shiloh, and ſet up the tabernacle of the congregation there a; and b the land was ſubdued before them.

a By God's appointment, as is manifeſt from Deut. 12. 5, &c. Jer. 7. 12. Hither it was removed from Gilgal, partly for the honour and conveniency of Joſhua, that he being of the Tribe of Ephraim, and ſeating himſelf there, might have the opportunity of conſulting with God as oft as he deſired and needed; and partly for the conveniency of all the Tribes, that being in the heart and center of them, they might more eaſily reſort to it from all places. Here the Tabernacle continued for above 300 Years, even till Samuels days, 1 Sam. 1. 3. b Or, for, becauſe theſe words contain a reaſon of the former action: the Particle and is oft uſed for for, as hath been ſhewed.

2 And there remained among the children of Iſrael ſeven tribes, which had not yet received their inheritance.

3 And Joſhua ſaid unto the children of Iſrael, How long are ye ſlack to go to poſſeſs the land c which the LORD God of your fathers hath given you?

c This ſlackneſs is ſuppoſed to ariſe, partly from their diſſatisfaction in the portions already allotted, Judah's being too large, as it appeared; and Joſeph's too narrow, as they complained; partly from an opinion of the impoſſibility of making any regular and equal diſtribution of the Parts, till the whole were better known, and more exactly ſurveyed, which accordingly is here done; and partly, becauſe being weary of War, and having ſufficient plenty of all things in their preſent condition, they grew ſlothful and ſecure, and were unwilling to run into new Hazards and Wars, as they perceived by Joſhua's anſwer to the Tribe of Joſeph, Joſ. 17. 15, &c. they were likely to do when they entred upon their ſeveral Poſſeſſions.

4 Give out from among you three men d of each tribe e: and I will ſend them, and they ſhall riſe, and go thorow the land f, and deſcribe it according to the inheritance of them, and they ſhall come again to me.

d Three, not One, for more exact obſervation both of the meaſure and quality of the ſeveral Portions, and for greater aſſurance and evidence of their care and faithfulneſs in giving in their Account. e Either One of each of theſe Tribes, who were yet unprovided for; or rather Two of all the Tribes, even of them who had already received their Portions; which was highly expedient, that in caſe it ſhould appear that there was not a ſufficiency for each of theſe Tribes who wanted their Portions, their Brethren might be more ready either to aſſiſt them in procuring more Land, or to part with ſome of their own Portion to them. f Which they might now ſafely do, becauſe the Terror of the late War was yet upon the Canaanites, who were loath to rouſe ſo near and potent an Enemy.

5 And they ſhall divide it into ſeven parts f: Judah ſhall abide in their coaſt on the ſouth g, and the houſe of Joſeph ſhall abide in their coaſt on the north h.

f Which were of equal extent or worth: for no Tribe was ſo great, but one of theſe parts in its full extent would abundantly ſuffice them; and there was no reaſon why the Portions ſhould be greater or leſs according as the Tribes at preſent were more or fewer in number, becauſe of the various changes which happened therein ſucceſſively; it being uſual for one Tribe to be more numerous than another in one Age, which was fewer in the next. And If the ſeveral Tribes had increaſed more, and not diminiſhed their Numbers by their Sins, they might have ſent forth Colonies, and taken any part of the Land, even as far as Euphrates, all which the Lord of the whole Earth had given them a Right to, which when they pleaſed they might take Poſſeſſion of. g They ſhall not be diſturbed in their Poſſeſſion, but ſhall keep it, except ſome part of it ſhall be adjudged to another Tribe. h In reſpect of Judah, not of the whole Land; for divers other Tribes were more Northern than they.

6 Ye ſhall therefore deſcribe the land into ſeven parts, and bring the deſcription hither to me: that I may caſt lots for you here before the LORD i your God.

i i. e. Before the Ark or Tabernacle, that God may be Witneſs, and Judge, and Author of the Diviſion, that each may be contented with his Lot, and that your ſeveral Poſſeſſions may be ſecured to you as things Sacred, and not to be alienated.

7 But the Levites have no part among you k, for the prieſthood of the LORD is their inheritance: and Gad and Reuben, and half the tribe of Manaſſeh have received their inheritance beyond Jordan on the eaſt, which Moſes the ſervant of the LORD gave them.

8 ¶ And the men roſe, and went away: and Joſhua charged them that went to deſcribe the land, ſaying, Go and walk through the land, and deſcribe it, and come again to me, that I may here caſt lots for you before the LORD in Shiloh.

k Therefore it ſhall be divided only into ſeven parts, as I have ſaid.

9 And the men went and paſſed through the land, and deſcribed it by cities l, into ſeven parts in a book, and came again to Joſhua to the hoſt at Shiloh.

l Or, according to the Cities, to which the ſeveral Parts or Territories belonged.

10 ¶ And Joſhua caſt lots for them in Shiloh, before the LORD: and there Joſhua divided the land unto the children of Iſrael, according to their diviſions.

11 ¶ And the lot of the tribe of the children of Benjamin came up according to their families: and the coaſt of their lot came forth between the children of Judah, and the children of Joſeph m.

m Wherein we ſee the wiſdom of Divine Providence, this being the only place in which that Prophecy, Deut. 33. 12. could have been accompliſhed.

12 And their border on the north-ſide was from Jordan, and the border went up to the ſide of Jericho, on the North-ſide, and went up through the mountains weſtward, and the goings out thereof were at the wilderneſs of Beth-aven n.

n A place diſtinct from, but near unto Bethel, as may be gathered from Joſ. 16. 1.

13 And the border went over from thence toward Luz, to the ſide of Luz, (* which is Beth-el) ſouthward, and the border deſcended to Ataroth-adar, near the hill that lieth on the ſouth-ſide of the nether Beth-horon. * Gen. 28. 19.

14 And the border was drawn thence, and compaſſed the corner of the ſea ſouthward: from the hill that lieth before Beth-horon ſouthward: and the goings out thereof were at Kirjath-baal (which is Kirjath-jearim o) a city of the children of Judah: this was the weſt quarter.

o The Iſraelites changed the name, to blot out the remembrance of Baal. Compare Joſ. 15. 9. Numb. 32. 38.

15 And the ſouth quarter p, was from the end of Kirjath-jearim, and the border went out on the weſt, and went out to the well of waters of Nephtoah.

p The ſame with the North-quarter of Judah. See Joſ. 15. 5, 6, 11.

16 And the border came down to the end of the mountain q, that lieth before the valley of the ſon of Hinnom r, and which is in the valley of the giants on the north s, and deſcended to the valley of Hinnom * to the ſide of Jebuſi t on the ſouth, and deſcended to * Enrogel, * ch. 15. 8. * ch. 15. 7.

17 And was drawn from the north, and went forth to En-ſhemeſh, and went forth toward Geliloth u, which is over againſt the going up of Adummim, and deſcended to * the ſtone of Bohan the ſon of Reuben, * ch. 15. 6.

u Called alſo Gilgal, as appears from Joſ. 15. 7. Judg. 3. 19. but differing from that Gilgal by Jordan.

18 And paſſed along toward the ſide over againſt ‖ Arabah x northward, and went down unto Arabah. ‖ Or, the plain.

x Called Beth-arabah, Joſ. 15. 6.

19 And the border paſſed along to the ſide of Beth-hoglah northward: and the outgoings of the border were at the north † bay of the ſalt ſea y, at the ſouth end of Jordan: this was the ſouth coaſt. † Heb. tongue.

20 And Jordan was the border of it on the eaſt-ſide: This was the inheritance of the children of Benjamin, by the coaſts thereof round about, according to their families.

21 Now the cities of the tribe of the children of Benjamin, according to their families, were Jericho a, and Beth-hoglah, and the valley of Keziz b, a For tho' the City was deſtroyed, the Territory remained, and ſome Houſes probably were built and inhabited there, though it was not made a City with Walls and Gates, which was the only thing forbidden, Joſ. 6. 26. b Or, Emec-keziz, the proper name of a City or great Town.

22 And † Beth-arabah, and Zemaraim c, and Bethel, † Gr. Bethabara. Joh. 1. 28.

23 And Avim, and Parah, and Ophrah,

24 And Chephar-haammonai, and Ophni, and Gaba: twelve cities with their villages.

25 Gibeon, and Ramah, and Beeroth, c Which either gave name to, or took name from that Mountain, 2 Chron. 13. 4.

26 And Mizpeh d, and Chephirah, and Mozah,

27 And Rekem, and Irpeel, and Taralah, d Near Ramah, in the ſame Mountain where Silo was. There were divers other Cities of that name.

28 And Zelah, Eleph, and Jebuſi (which is Jeruſalem e) Gibeath, and Kir-jath: fourteen cities f with their villages. This is the inheritance of the children of Benjamin, according to their families.

e So it ſeems this City did properly and primarily belong to Benjamin, altho' the Tribe of Judah had alſo an Intereſt in it, either becauſe ſome part of it was allotted to them, or becauſe the Benjamites gave them a ſhare in it, for the Aſſiſtance which either they had received, or did expect from that Potent Tribe, for the getting or defending of that very important place. See more on Joſ. 15. 63. f It is more than probable that all the Cities belonging to this Tribe are not here named, becauſe Anathoth and Almon are omitted here, but expreſſed Joſ. 21. 18.

CHAP. XIX.

The ſecond Lot falls to Simeon: his Borders among the Tribe of Judah: whoſe Inheritance was too great for them, 1——9. The third Lot falls to Zebulon, 10——16. The fourth to Iſſachar, 17——23. The fifth to Aſer, 24——31. The ſixth to Naphtali, 32——46. The ſeventh to Dan, 47, 48. The Children of Iſrael give an Inheritance to Joſhua, 49, 50. The diviſion of the Land finiſhed, 51.

AND the ſecond lot came forth to Simeon, even for the Tribe of the Children of Simeon, according to their families: and their inheritance was within the inheritance of the children of Judah a.

a This was ſo order'd by God's Providence, partly to fulfil that threatning that he would divide and ſcatter this Tribe in Iſrael, Gen. 49. 7. which was hereby done in part, becauſe they had no diſtinct part of their own, but were as Inmates to Judah; partly, becauſe now upon the more exact ſurvey of the Land, it appeared to Joſhua and Eleazar, and all the Princes and People, even to the Tribe of Judah themſelves, that the Part given to Judah did far exceed the Proportion which either they needed and could occupy, or which the other Tribes could expect; and partly, becauſe this was the leaſt of the Tribes, as is evident from Numb. 26. 14. and therefore fitteſt to be put within another Tribe.

2 And they had in their inheritance Beerſheba, and b Sheba, and Moladah, b Or, or, i. e. otherwiſe called: for that Beerſheba and Sheba were one and the ſame City, as manifeſt both from v. 6. where all the Cities are reckoned to be but Thirteen: and from 1 Chron. 4. 28. where Simeons Cities are enumerated, and Sheba omitted as ſuperfluous.

3 And Hazar-ſhual, and Balah c, and Azem, c Called alſo Billah, 1 Chron. 4. 29. and Baalah, Joſ. 15. 29. For let this be obſerved once for all, that the names of Perſons or Places are frequently changed through length of Time, or difference of Dialects, or ſtudy of brevity and eaſineſs in Pronunciation, or new Accidents, or other Cauſes. Thus Eltolad and Bethul, v. 4. are called Tolad and Bethuel, 1 Chron. 4. 29, 30. and for Beth-lebaoth, v. 6. is Beth-birei, 1 Chron. 4. 31.

4 And Eltolad, and Bethul, and Hormah,

5 And Ziklag, and Beth-marcaboth, and Hazar-ſuſah,

6 And Beth-lebaoth, and Sharuhen: thirteen cities d, and their villages.

d Or, Towns, as ſome of them are called, 1 Chron. 4. 32. Nor are all Simeons Cities here numbred, for Elam is added, 1 Chron. 4. 32. unleſs that were built afterward.

7 Ain, Remmon, and Ether, and Aſhan: four cities and their villages.

8 And all the villages that were round about theſe cities, to Baalathbeer, Ramath of the ſouth: This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Simeon, according to their families.

9 Out of the portion of the children of Judah was the inheritance of the children of Simeon: for the part of the children of Judah was too much for them: therefore the children of Simeon had their inheritance within the inheritance of them.

10 ¶ And the third lot came up for the children of Zebulun e, according to their families, and the border of their inheritance was unto Sarid.

e Who is here put before Iſſachar his elder Brother, as he is alſo Gen. 49. 13, 14. Deut. 33. 18.

11 And their border went up toward the Sea f, and Maralah, and reached to Dabbaſheth, and reached to the river that is before Jokneam g.

f i. e. The Midland Sea, as on the other ſide it reached to the Sea of Galilee, and ſo thoſe Prophecies concerning him, Gen. 49. 3. Deut. 33. 18. were abundantly fulfilled. g Suppoſed to be Kiſhon, Judg. 4. 7. or Belus, or Pagis.

12 And turned from Sarid eaſtward, toward the ſun-riſing, unto the border of Chiſloth-tabor, and then goeth out to Daberath h, and goeth up to Japhia, h A City in Iſſachar, as appears from Joſ. 21. 28.

13 And from thence paſſeth on along on the eaſt to Gittah-hephir, to Ittah-kazin, and goeth out to Remmon ‖ Methoar to Neah.

‖ Or, which is drawn.

14 And the border compaſſeth it on the north-ſide to Hannathon: and the out-goings thereof are in the valley of Jipthah-el.

15 And Kattath, and Nahallal, and Shimron, and Idalah, and Beth-lehem i: twelve cities k with their villages.

i Not that where Chriſt was born, which was in Judah, thence called Bethlehem Judah, Matt. but another. k There are more numbred here, but the reſt either were not Cities properly ſo called, having Villages under their juriſdiction; or were not within this Tribe, but only bordering upon it, and belonging to other Tribes, which is evident of ſome of them, and may well be preſumed of others.

16 This is the inheritance of the children of Zebulun, according to their families, theſe cities with their villages.

17 ¶ And the fourth lot came out to Iſſachar, for the children of Iſſachar, according to their families.

18 And their border was toward Jezreel l, and Cheſulloth, and Shunem m.

l The Royal City, 1 King. 21. 1. This Tribe, becauſe it lay between Benjamin on the South, and Zebulun on the North, is not here deſcribed by its borders, which were the ſame with theirs; but by ſome of its Cities. m The Birth-place of Abiſhag, 1 King. 1. 3.

19 And Hapharaim, and Shion, and Anaharath, 20 And Rabbith, and Kiſhion, and Abez, n A different place from that Engannim in the Tribe of Judah, Joſ. 15. 34.

22 And the coaſt reacheth to Tabor, and Shahazimah, and Beth-ſhemeſh, and the out-goings of their border were at Jordan: Sixteen cities with their villages.

23 This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Iſſachar, according to their families, the cities and their villages.

24 ¶ And the fifth lot came out of the tribe of the children of Aſher according to their families.

25 And their border o was Helkath, and Hali, and Beten, and Achſhaph, o On the North-weſt-ſide.

26 And Alammelech, and Amad, and Miſheal, and reacheth to Carmel weſtward p, and to Shihor-libnath; p Or, Carmel by the ſea, to diſtinguiſh it from that Carmel in the Tribe of Judah, 1 Sam. 25. 2. This was a place of eminent fruitfulneſs, Iſa. 33. 9. and 35. 2. and 37. 24. agreeable to the Prophecy concerning Aſher, Gen. 49. 20. Deut. 33. 24.

27 And turneth toward the ſun-riſing, to Beth-dagon, and reacheth to Zebulun, and to the valley of Jiphthah-el toward the northſide of Bethemek, and Neiel, and goeth out to Cabul q on the left hand r, q Either 1. That Country called Cabul, wherein were 20 Cities, of which 1 King. 9. 13. But this is not probable, becauſe that was not within, nor belonging to any particular Tribe; for then Solomon could not have alienated it from them, and given it unto Hiram, whereas this did belong to Aſher; or 2. A certain City ſo called. r. i. e. On the North, which, when men look towards the Eaſt, as is uſual, is on their left hand.

28 And Hebron, and Rehob, and Hammon, and Kanah ſ, even unto great Zidon t.

ſ To wit, Kanah the greater, in the upper Galilee; not Kanah the leſs, which was in the lower Galilee. t Called great for its Antiquity, and Riches, and Glory. This City either was not given to the Iſraelites, but is only mentioned as their border; or at leaſt was never poſſeſſed by them; not without a ſingular Providence of God, that they might not by the opportunity of ſo good a Port, be ingaged in much Commerce with other Nations; from which, together with Wealth, that great corrupter of Mankind, they might contract their Errors and Vices.

29 And then the coaſt turneth ſ to Ramah, and to the ſtrong city † Tyre t, and the coaſt turneth to Hoſah; and the outgoings thereof are at the ſea, from the coaſt to * Achzib.

30 Umma alſo, and Aphek, and Rehob: twenty and two cities x with their villages.

x Here are more named, but ſome of them were not within this Tribe, but only bordering places.

31 This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Aſher, according to their families, theſe cities with their villages.

32 ¶ The ſixth lot came out to the children of Naphtali: even for the children of Naphtali, according to their families.

33 And their coaſt y was from Heleph, from Allon to Zaanannim, and Adami, Nekeb, and Jabneel unto Lakum: and the out-goings z thereof were at Jordan.

y Their Northern Border drawn from Weſt to Eaſt, as appears, becauſe when this Coaſt is deſcribed and brought to its end, the Coaſt is ſaid to turn from the Eaſt Weſtward, v. 34. z i. e. The end of that Coaſt.

34 And then the coaſt turneth weſtward a to Aznoth-tabor, and goeth out from thence to Hukkok, and reacheth to Zebulun on the ſouth-ſide, and reacheth to Aſher on the weſt-ſide, and to Judah upon Jordan b toward the ſun-riſing.

a This is unqueſtionably the Southern Border deſcribed from Eaſt to Weſt. b Qu. How can this be, when there were divers Tribes between this and Judah, all which reached to Jordan? Anſ. He doth not ſay of Judah, as he doth of Zebulun and Aſher, that it reacheth to it; but as it ſeems, purpoſely leaves out that word which he had uſed in both the former branches, leſt it ſhould be underſtood of a Local Reaching to it, or being Contiguous with it, which was not true; and that he might ſignifie, that he meant this Clauſe in another ſenſe; to wit, that it did in ſome ſort go or reach to, or converſe with Judah by Jordan. And ſo this may be here added, to ſhew the accompliſhment of that famous and obſcure Prophecy, That Napthali, though he ſhould be planted in the utmoſt border of the Land, on the North-eaſt, yet he ſhould poſſeſs the riches of the Weſt and South, Deut. 33. 23. i. e. of thoſe Tribes which were at great diſtance from him Weſtward and Southward; and this he ſhould do by way of Commerce with them by their famous River Jordan, which he did not only touch in a ſmall part, as ſome of the other Tribes did, but lay all along it for a good ſpace together, even from the very Fountain unto the Sea of Geneſareth. Some think that this is verified by that Royalty of this River, which they ſuppoſe God gave to the Tribe of Judah, which extended as far as Napthali.

35 And the fenced cities are Ziddim, Zer, and Hammath c, Rakkath and Cinnereth d, c Or, Hamath, of which ſee Numb. 34. 8. 1 King. 8. 65. 2 King. 23. 33. d Whence the Lake of Cinnereth or Geneſareth received its Name.

36 And Adamah, and Ramah, and Hazor,

37 And Cedeſh, and Edrei, and En-hazor,

38 And Iron, and Migdal-el, Horem, and Beth-anath, and Beth-ſhemeſh: nineteen cities e with their villages.

39 This is the Inheritance of the Tribe of the children of Napthali, according to their families; the cities and their villages.

40 ¶ And the ſeventh lot came out for the tribe of the children of Dan, according to their families.

41 And the coaſt of their inheritance f was Zorah, and Eſtatol, and Ir-ſhemeſh.

f Which is here deſcribed onely by its Cities, not by its Borders, which are in part the ſame with Judah's, and their Inheritance is in good part taken out of Judah's too large portion; as appears from divers of the Cities here mentioned, which are alſo reckoned as in Judah's Portion.

42 And Shaalabbin, and Ajalon, and Jethlah,

43 And Elon, and Thimnathah, and Ekron,

47 And the coaſt of the children of Dan went out too little for them g, therefore the children of Dan went up to fight againſt Leſhem h, and took it, and ſmote it with the edge of the ſword, and poſſeſſed it, and dwelt therein, and called Leſhem † Dan, after the name of Dan their father.

And ſo peradventure this may ſignifie, that many of the Danites were forced by their powerful Neighbors the Philiſtins to relinquiſh their Coaſt, and their allotted Habitations: which put them upon the following courſe. h This was done after Joſhuah's death, as appears from Judg. 18. and ſeems to be here inſerted, partly that all the chief places where the Danites (dwelt) tho' far diſtant, might be mentioned together; and partly, to give an account of this ſtrange accident, why they removed from their appointed Portion to ſo remote a place; which may be this, That being much moleſted and terrified by their bad Neighbors, they thought fit to go to ſome place remote from them, which alſo they were in a manner conſtrained to do, becauſe otherwiſe they muſt have taken ſome part of the Portions of other Tribes, whereas now going to the very utmoſt Northern Point of the Land, they took that which did not belong to, or at leaſt, was not in the poſſeſſion of any other Tribe. See more on Judg. 18.

48 This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Dan, according to their families; theſe cities with their villages.

49 ¶ When they had made an end of dividing the land for inheritance by their coaſts, the children of Iſrael gave i an inheritance to Joſhua the ſon of Nun among them.

i i. e. They are ſaid to give it, becauſe the whole Land was given to Joſhua, and Eleazar and the Princes, as joint Truſtees, acting in the name, and for the good of the People: ſo that even Joſhua could take nothing without their gift.

50 According to the word of the LORD k, they gave him the city which he asked, even * Timnath-Serah l in mount Ephraim, and he built m the city, and dwelt therein.

God commands ſix Cities of Refuge for thoſe, who unawares ſhould ſlay man, 1—4. The right uſe of them, 5, 6. The Iſraelites appoint hereunto three Cities on this, and three on the other ſide of Jordan 7—9.

THE LORD alſo ſpake unto Joſhua, ſaying,

2 Speak to the children of Iſrael, ſaying, * Appoint out a for you cities of refuge, whereof I ſpake unto you by the hand of Moſes.

* Exod. 21. 13. Num. 35. 56, 11, 14. Deut. 19. 2, 9.

a The Poſſeſſions being now divided among you, do you reſerve ſome of them for the uſe which I have commanded.

3 That the ſlayer that killeth any perſon unawares, and unwittingly b, may flee thither: and they ſhall be your refuge from the avenger of blood c.

b Heb. Through Ignorance, or Error, or Miſtake, and without Knowledge. The ſame thing twice repeated to cut off all the claims and expectations that wilful Murderers might have of Protection here; and God having declared, That ſuch ſhould be taken even from his Altar, that they might be killed, Exod. 21. 14. and accordingly Joab was by Solomon's Order killed even at the Altar, 1 King. 2. 28, 29, 30, 31, 34. it is the more ſtrange and impudent, that any Chriſtians ſhould make their Sanctuaries give Protection to ſuch perſons whom God hath ſo expreſly excepted from it, which the Papiſts do; and their Doctors are not aſhamed to defend it upon frivolous reaſons. c The Kinſman, who had right or power to demand, or take vengeance of the ſlaughter.

4 And when he that doth flee unto one of thoſe cities, ſhall ſtand at the entring of the gate d of that city, and ſhall declare his cauſe e in the ears of the elders of that city; they ſhall take him into the city f unto them, and give him a place g that he may dwell among them.

5 And if the avenger of blood purſue after him, then they ſhall not deliver the ſlayer up into his hand: becauſe he ſmote his neighbour unwittingly, and hated him not before time.

6 And he ſhall dwell in that city, until he ſtand h before the congregation i for judgment and * until the death of the high prieſt k that ſhall be in thoſe days: then ſhall the ſlayer return and come unto his own city, and unto his own houſe, unto the city from whence he fled.

7 ¶ And they † appointed Kedeſh in Galilee in mount Naphtali, and Shechem in mount Ephraim, and Kirjath-arba (which is Hebron) in the mountain of Judah l.

† Heb. Sanctified.

l Concerning theſe Cities note, 1. That they were all upon Mountains, that they might be ſeen at a great diſtance, and ſo direct thoſe who fled thither. 2. That they were ſeated at convenient diſtance one from another, for the benefit of the ſeveral Tribes; for Kedeſh was in the North, Hebron in the South, and Shechem between them. 3. That they all belonged to the Levites; partly that theſe Cauſes might be more impartially examined, and juſtly determined by them who are preſumed beſt able to underſtand the Law of God, and moſt obliged and likely to follow it in their Judgment, and not to be biaſs'd by any affection or corrupt intereſt, and partly, that their juſt reputation with the people, and their good Counſels, might lay ſome reſtraint upon revengeful perſons, who might be inclined or tempted to follow the Man-ſlayer thither, and endeavour to kill him there.

8 And on the other ſide Jordan by Jericho eaſtward, they aſſigned m * Bezer in the wilderneſs upon the plain, out of the tribe of Reuben, and Ramoth in Gilead, out of the tribe of Gad, and Golan in Baſhan, out of the tribe of Manaſſeh.

m Or, gave, or had aſſigned or given; for they were given by Moſes, Deut. 4. 41, &c. or, they confirmed Moſes his Grant, and applied them to that uſe to which Moſes deſigned and ſeparated them.

9 Theſe were the cities appointed for all the children of Iſrael, and for the ſtranger n that ſojourneth among them, that whoſoever killeth any perſon at unawares, might flee thither, and not die by the hand of the avenger of blood, until he ſtood before the congregation.

n Not only Proſelites, but others alſo; becauſe this was a matter of common right, that a diſtinction might be made between caſual Man-ſlayers, and wilful Murderers.

3 And the children of Iſrael gave unto the Levites c out of their inheritance d, at the commandment of the LORD, theſe cities and their ſuburbs e.

c It ſeems moſt probable, that they gave to the Levites promiſcuouſly ſuch Cities as God commanded, and that the Lot appropriated them to their ſeveral Houſes or Families. d (i. e.) Out of their ſeveral Poſſeſſions; partly, that the burden and loſs might be equally divided; and principally, that the Levites being diſperſed among the ſeveral Tribes, according to Jacobs Prediction, Gen. 49. 7. might more eaſily, and frequently, and effectually Teach the Iſraelites Gods Law and Judgments, which they were engaged to do, Deut. 33. 10. and that the People might upon all occaſions reſort to them, and require the meaning of the Law at their mouths. Mal. 2. 7. e Not only the uſe, but the abſolute Dominion of them, as is manifeſt both from v. 11. 12. where a diſtinction is made between the City and Suburbs of Hebron, and the Fields and Villages thereof, and the former are given to the Levites, the latter to Caleb; and from the return of theſe Cities in the Jubilee, unto the Levites as to their proper owners, Levit. 25. 33, 34.

* See Ch. 24. 33.

4 And the lot came out for the families of the Kohathites, and the children of Aaron the prieſt, which were of the Levites, had * by lot out of the tribe of Judah, and out of the tribe of Simeon, and out of the tribe of Benjamin f, thirteen cities g.

f Which three tribes were neareſt to the Temple, where their buſineſs lay. g For though the Prieſts were now few enough for one City, yet reſpect was to be had to their ſucceeding numbers; this diviſion being made for all future Generations. And ſeeing the Levites might ſell their Houſes until the Jubilee, Levit. 25. 33. much more might they Let them; and therefore it is probable their Cities were not very long uninhabited, many being inclined to dwell with them by vertue of relations contracted with them, or dependance upon, or expectation from them; or out of reſpect to the Service of God, and the good of their Souls.

5 And the reſt of the children of Kohath h had by lot, out of the families of the tribe of Ephraim; and out of the tribe of Dan, and out of the half tribe of Manaſſeh i, ten cities k.

h Who were of Aarons Family, or Prieſts, but Levites only. i Which Tribes are neareſt to the three former, and ſo the Kohathites are placed next to their Brethren the Aaronites. k Fewer than they gave out of the three former Tribes, becauſe their inheritance was leſs than the former. See Numb. 35. 8.

6 And the children of Gerſhon had by lot out of the families of the tribe of Iſſachar, and out of the tribe of Aſher, and out of the tribe of Naphtali, and out of the half tribe of Manaſſeh in Baſhan, thirteen cities.

7 The children of Merari by their families, had out of the tribe of Reuben, and out of the tribe of Gad, and out of the tribe of Zebulun, twelve cities.

8 And the children of Iſrael gave by lot unto the Levites theſe cities with their Suburbs k, as the LORD commanded by the hand of Moſes.

k Of which, ſee on Numb. 35. 2.

† Heb. called.

9 ¶ And they gave out of the tribe of the children of Judah, and out of the tribe of the children of Simeon l, theſe cities which are here † mentioned by name.

l Theſe are mentioned together, becauſe the Cities of Simeon lay within Judah's Portion.

10 Which the children of Aaron being of the families m of the Kohathites, who were of the children of Levi, had; (for theirs was the Firſt lot.)

m (i. e.) Of the family, the Plural Number for the Singular, which is not unuſual.

‖ Or, Kiriatharba. Gen. 23. 2.

11 And they gave them ‖ the city of Arbah, the father of Anak, (which city is Hebron) in the hill countrey of Judah, with the ſuburbs thereof round about it.

† Chap. 14. 14. 1 Chron. 6. 56.

12 But † the fields n of the city, and the villages thereof gave they to Caleb the ſon of Jephunneh, for his poſſeſſion.

n (i. e.) All beyond the 2000 Cubits expreſſed, Numb. 35. 5. This is here mentioned, not as his peculiar caſe, but as one eminent Inſtance, to ſhew, that it was ſo in all the reſt of the Cities here named; that the Fields and Villages thereof ſtill belonged to the ſeveral tribes from whom the Cities and their Suburbs were taken; and to make the reſt of the Iſraelites more contentedly and chearfully reſign ſo great a part of their Poſſeſſions to the Levites, becauſe even Caleb did ſo, though his Poſſeſſion had been long before promiſed, and now actually given to him by Gods ſpecial command, as a mark of honour and compenſation for his long and faithful Service.

* 1 Chro. 6. 57.

13 ¶ Thus they * gave to the children of Aaron the prieſt, Hebron with her ſuburbs, to be a city of refuge for the ſlayer, and Libnah with her ſuburbs,

14 ¶ And Jattir with her ſuburbs, and Eſhtemoa with her ſuburbs,

* 1 Chr. 6. 58. Hilen.

15 And * Holon o with her ſuburbs, and Debir with her ſuburbs, o Called Hilen, 1 Chron: 6. 58. as Juttah here is called, Aſhan, 1 Chron. 6. 59. and Kibzaim called Jokmeam, 1 Chron. 6. 68. and ſo ſome others, the names of the places being changed by length of time, and upon ſpecial occaſions, as was frequent among the Jews. Though their Doctors add, that ſome of theſe places here mentioned being now in the Canaanites Poſſeſſion, and not ſpeedily recovered from them, there were others put in their ſtead.

* 1 Chro. 6. 59. Aſhan.

16 And * Ain with her ſuburbs, and Juttah with her ſuburbs, and Bethſhemeſh with her ſuburbs, nine cities out of thoſe two tribes.

p Ain here, and Gibeon, v. 17. and ſome others here named are not named, 1 Chron. 6. either becauſe they were deſtroyed in ſome of thoſe Hoſtile Invaſions and Wars wherewith their Land was grievouſly haraſſed and waſted before that time; or they appear there under other Names, as was ſaid.

17 And out of the tribe of Benjamin, Gibeon with her ſuburbs, Geba with her ſuburbs,

* 1 Chron. 6. 60. Alemeth.

19 All the cities of the children of Aaron the prieſt, were thirteen cities with their ſuburbs.

20 ¶ And the families of the children of Kohath, the Levites, which remained of the children of Kohath q, even they had the cities of their lot out of the tribe of Ephraim.

q Over and above thoſe of them who were Prieſts.

21 For they gave them Schechem with her ſuburbs, in mount Ephraim, to be a city of refuge for the ſlayer, and Gezer with her ſuburbs, 22 And Kibzaim with her ſuburbs, and Beth-horon with her ſuburbs, four cities.

23 And out of the tribe of Dan, Eltekeh with her ſuburbs, Gibbethon with her ſuburbs,

25 And out of the half tribe of Manaſſeh r, Tanach with her ſuburbs, and Gath-rimmon with her ſuburbs: two cities.

r To wit, that half which dwelt in Canaan, by comparing this with v. 27.

26 All the cities were ten with their ſuburbs, for the families of the children of Kohath that remained.

27 ¶ And unto the children of Gerſhon of the families of Levites, out of the other half tribe of Manaſſeh, they gave Golan in Baſhan with her ſuburbs, to be a city of refuge for the ſlayer: and Beeſhterah with her ſuburbs: two cities.

28 And out of the tribe of Iſſachar, Kiſhon with her ſuburbs, Dabareh with her ſuburbs, 29 Jarmuth with her ſuburbs, En-gannim with her ſuburbs, four cities.

30 And out of the tribe of Aſher, Miſhal with her ſuburbs, Abdon with her ſuburbs, 31 Helkah with her ſuburbs, and Rehob with her ſuburbs: four cities.

32 And out of the tribe of Naphtali, Kedeſh in Galilee with her ſuburbs, to be a city of refuge for the ſlayer, and Hammoth-dor with her ſuburbs, and Kartan with her ſuburbs: three cities.

33 All the cities of the Gerſhonites, according to their families, were thirteen cities with their ſuburbs.

34 ¶ And unto the families of the children of Merari, the reſt of the Levites, out of the tribe of Zebulun, Jokneam with her ſuburbs, and Kartah with her ſuburbs, 35 Dimnah with her ſuburbs, Nahalal with her ſuburbs: four cities.

36 And out of the tribe of Reuben, Bezer s with her ſuburbs, and Jahazah with her ſuburbs;

s A City of Refuge, as it is called Joſ. 20. 8. and therefore needleſs to be here repeated.

37 Kedemoth with her ſuburbs, and Mephaath with her ſuburbs: four cities.

38 And out of the tribe of Gad, Ramoth in Gilead with her ſuburbs, to be a city of refuge for the ſlayer, and Mahanaim with her ſuburbs, 39 Heſhbon with her ſuburbs, Jazer with her ſuburbs, four cities in all.

40 So all the cities for the children of Merari by their families, which were remaining of the families of the Levites, were by their lot, twelve cities.

41 All the cities of the Levites, within the poſſeſſion of the children of Iſrael were forty and eight cities [t], with their ſuburbs.

[t] Qu. Why hath this Tribe, which was the leaſt of all, more Cities than any of them? Anſw. Firſt, It doth not appear that they had more: for though all the cities of the Levites be expreſſed, it is not ſo with the other Tribes, but divers of their cities are omitted, as is evident. Secondly, The Levites were confined to their Cities and Suburbs; the reſt had large Territories belonging to their Cities, which alſo they were in a capacity of improving, which the Levites were not; ſo that one of their Cities might be more conſiderable than divers of the Levites. Thirdly, God was pleaſed to deal liberally with his Miniſters, partly to put honour upon thoſe whom he foreſaw many would be prone to deſpiſe; and partly, that being free from all outward diſtractions, they might more entirely and fervently devote themſelves to the ſervice of God, and the inſtruction of Souls.

42 Theſe cities were every one with their ſuburbs round about them: thus were all theſe cities.

43 ¶ And the LORD gave unto Iſrael all the land [u] which he ſware to give unto their fathers; and they poſſeſſed it, and dwelt therein.

[u] He gave them the right to All, and the actual Poſſeſſion of the greateſt part of it, and power to Poſſeſs the reſt as ſoon as it was needful and convenient for them, which was by degrees, when their numbers were increaſed, &c. Exod. 23. 29, 30. and the abſolute dominion of all the people remaining in it.

44 And the LORD gave them reſt round about, according to all that he ſware unto their fathers, and there ſtood not a man of all their enemies before them [x]: the LORD delivered all their enemies into their hand.

[x] To wit, all the days of Joſhua, by comparing Joſ. 1. 5. for afterwards it was otherwiſe with them.

† Chap. 23. 14, 15.

45 † There failed not ought of any good thing, which the LORD had ſpoken unto the houſe of Iſrael: all came to paſs.

CHAP. XXII.

The two tribes and half are ſent home with a bleſſing; ſtrict charge to fear the Lord; and great booty, 1—9. they build an Altar of Teſtimony at the brink of Jordan, 10. the Iſraelites are offended; and aſſemble to wage war againſt them, 11. 12. they firſt ſend Phinehas and ten Princes Ambaſſadors to reprove them, 13—20. they clear themſelves; their brethren reſt ſatisfied, 21—34.

THen Joſhua called the Reubenites, and the Gadites, and the half tribe of Manaſſeh,

* Num. 32. 20. Deut. 3. 18.

2 And ſaid unto them, Ye have kept * all that Moſes the ſervant of the LORD commanded you, and have obeyed my voice in all that I commanded you

3 Ye have not left your brethren theſe many days [a] unto this day, but have kept the charge of the commandment of the LORD your God.

[a] (i. e.) For divers years together, ſo long as the War laſted. See Joſ. 11. 18. and 14. 10.

† Numb. 32. 33. Chap. 13. 8.

4 And now the LORD your God hath given reſt unto your brethren, as he promiſed them: therefore now return ye, and get ye unto your tents [b], and unto the land of your poſſeſſion, † which Moſes the ſervant of the LORD gave you on the other ſide Jordan.

[b] (i. e.) To your ſettled habitations, as appears from v. 8. which are oft called Tents, as Judg. 19. 9. 2 Sam. 18. 17. Hoſ. 9. 6. Mal. 2. 12.

* Deut. 10. 12.

5 But take diligent heed [c] to do the commandment, and the law [d] which Moſes the ſervant of the LORD charged you, * to love the LORD your God, and to walk in all his ways, and to keep his commandments, and to cleave unto him, and to ſerve him with all your heart, and with all your ſoul [e].

[c] Watch over your ſelves and all your actions. [d] Two words expreſſing the ſame thing, the Law of Commandments delivered by Moſes. [e] With the whole ſtrength of your Minds, and Wills, and Affections.

6 So Joſhua bleſſed them, and ſent them away: and they went unto their tents.

7 ¶ Now to the one half of the Tribe of Manaſſeh Moſes had given poſſeſſion in Baſhan: but unto the other half thereof gave Joſhua among their brethren on this ſide Jordan weſtward. And when Joſhua ſent them away alſo unto their tents, then he bleſſed them:

8 And he ſpake unto them, ſaying, Return with much riches unto your tents, and with very much cattel, with ſilver, and with gold, and with braſs, and with iron, and with very much raiment: divide the ſpoil of your enemies with your brethren [f].

[f] (i. e.) With them who ſtayed beyond Jordan for the defence of their land, and Wives, and Children, who therefore were to have a ſhare, though not an equal ſhare with theſe. See Numb. 31. 27. But for them, 1 Sam. 30. 24. their ſhare was equal, becauſe their danger was equal.

9 ¶ And the children of Reuben, and the children of Gad, and the half tribe of Manaſſeh returned, and departed from the children of Iſrael out of Shiloh, which is in the land of Canaan, to go into the country of Gilead to the land of their poſſeſſion, whereof they were poſſeſſed, according to the word of the LORD by the hand of Moſes.

10 ¶ And when they came unto the borders of Jordan, that are in the land of Canaan, the children of Reuben, and the children of Gad, and the half tribe of Manaſſeh, built there [g] an altar by Jordan, a great altar to ſee to.

[g] Or, then, as this Particle is elſewhere uſed; and ſo Learned Interpreters underſtand it, Pſal. 14. 5. and 36. 12. Eccleſ. 3. 17. Hoſ. 2. 15. And in the Latin Tongue Adverbs of Place are ſometimes put for Adverbs of Time: So I take it here. Firſt, Becauſe this beſt anſwers to the when in the beginning of the Verſe. Secondly, This ſeems to me to clear a great difficulty as to the place where the Altar was built, which though according to our Tranſlation it ſeems and is generally thought by Interpreters to have been in the Land of Canaan; yet if things be more narrowly examined, it may be thought to have been on the other ſide Jordan in Gilead; and that both, Firſt, from v. 11. where it is ſaid to have been built over againſt, or, in the ſight of the land of Canaan, therefore not in it. And Secondly, From the reaſon they give of the building of this Altar, for fear leſt the Iſraelites within Jordan, and in Canaan, ſhould ſay unto their Children dwelling beyond Jordan, The Lord hath made Jordan a border between us and you, &c. Which jealouſie would have been much confirmed by building the Altar in Canaan, but would be ſatisfied and confuted by having on the other ſide of Jordan, and in their own Land, a pattern of that Altar at which God was ſerved in the Land of Canaan, as a Witneſs that they owned the ſame God, and the ſame way of Worſhip with their Brethren that lived in Canaan. But whether the Hebrew Particle be rendred then or there, it is not to be taken too ſtrictly; if then, the meaning is not, that they did this as ſoon as ever they came to the borders of Jordan, that are in the land of Canaan; but about that time when they came to them, that they thought and deſigned it, and as ſoon as ever they were got over Jordan, which was in a very little time, they effected and perfected it: if it be rendred there, it is not to be limited to the very ſame ſpot of ground mentioned before, as if it was built at that border of Jordan that was in the Land of Canaan; but to be a little more largely underſtood; to be built at one or other of the borders of Jordan; or in general, by Jordan: which is here purpoſely added, for the Explication of the Word there, and to prevent the reſtraint of it to the border of Jordan, within Canaan.

11 ¶ And the children of Iſrael heard ſay, Behold the children of Reuben, and the children of Gad, and the half tribe of Manaſſeh, have built an Altar over againſt the land of Canaan, in the borders of Jordan, at the paſſage of the children of Iſrael [h].

[h] Where they paſſed over Jordan, either at their firſt entrance into Canaan, or afterwards, and uſually.

12 And when the children of Iſrael [i] heard of it, the whole congregation of the children of Iſrael gathered themſelves together at Shiloh, to go up to war againſt them [k].

[i] Not in their own perſons, but by their Elders, who uſed to tranſact all Affairs of this kind in the name and ſtead of all the People. [k] As Apoſtates from God, according to Gods command in that caſe, Deut. 13. 13, &c.

* Exod. 6. 25. Numb. 25. 7.

13 And the children of Iſrael ſent unto the children of Reuben, and to the children of Gad, and to the half tribe of Manaſſeh into the land of Gilead, * Phinehas the ſon of Eleazar the prieſt.

† Heb. houſe of the fathers.

14 And with him ten Princes, of each † chief houſe a prince, throughout all the tribes of Iſrael, and each one was an head of the houſe of their fathers among the thouſands of Iſrael.

15 ¶ And they came unto the children of Reuben, and to the children of Gad, and to the half tribe of Manaſſeh, unto the land of Gilead, and they ſpake with them, ſaying, 16 Thus ſaith the whole congregation of the Lord [l], What treſpaſs is this [m], that ye have committed againſt the God of Iſrael, to turn away this day [n] from following the LORD, in that ye have builded you an altar, that ye might rebel [o] this day againſt the LORD?

[l] Who do and are reſolved to cleave unto that God from whom you have revolted, and who ſpeak this to you in the name of the Lord. [m] How heinous a crime is this! [n] (i. e.) So ſoon after God hath obliged you by ſuch wonderful favours, and when God is now conducting you home to reap the fruits of all your pains and hazards. [o] With a deſign to revolt from, and rebel againſt God, and againſt his expreſs command of worſhipping him at one only Altar, Exod. 20. 24. Levit. 17. 8, 9. Deut. 12. 5, 11, 13.

† Numb. 25. 4.

17 Is the iniquity † of Peor [p] too little for us, from which we are not cleanſed until this day [q] (although there was a plague in the congregation of the LORD)

[p] (i. e.) Of our worſhipping of Baal-Peor, Numb. 25. [q] For though God had pardoned it, as to the National Puniſhment of it, Numb. 25. 11. Yet they were not yet thorowly purged from it; partly becauſe the ſhame and blot of that filthy and odious practice was not yet wiped of: and partly, becauſe ſome of that corrupt leaven ſtill remained among them, and though ſmothered for a time, yet was ready to break forth upon all occaſions. See Joſ. 24. 23. And God alſo took notice of theſe Idolatrous inclinations in particular perſons, and found out ways to puniſh them one time or other.

18 But that ye muſt turn away this day from following the LORD? and it will be, ſeeing ye rebel to day againſt the LORD, that to morrow [r] he will be wroth with the whole congregation of Iſrael [s].

[r] (i. e.) Suddenly, as that word is oft uſed, as Matt. 6. 30. 1 Cor. 15. 32. [s] With you for doing ſo, and with us for ſuffering, or not puniſhing it.

19 Notwithſtanding, if the land of your poſſeſſion be unclean [t], then paſs ye over unto the land of the poſſeſſion of the LORD, wherein the LORD's tabernacle dwelleth, and take poſſeſſion among us [u]: but rebel not againſt the LORD, nor rebel againſt us [w], in building you an altar, beſide the altar of the LORD our God.

[t] If you apprehend it to be ſo for want of the Tabernacle and Altar there; as the following words imply: if you now repent of your former choice in preferring the worldly commodities of that Country before the advantage of Gods preſence and favour, and more frequent opportunities of his Service. [u] We will readily reſign part of our poſſeſſions to you for the prevention of this ſin and miſchief, wherein they ſhew great zeal for Gods honour, and great pity and charity to their Brethren. [w] For all the tribes were united in one Body Politick, and made one Commonwealth, and one Church; and each Tribe was ſubject to the Laws and Commands of the whole Society, and of the Chief Ruler or Rulers thereof; ſo its diſobedience to their juſt commands was properly Rebellion againſt them.

† Chap. 7. 1, 5.

20 † Did not Achan the ſon of Zerah [x] commit a treſpaſs in the accurſed thing, and wrath fell on all the congregation of Iſrael, and that man periſhed not alone [y] in his iniquity [z]?

[x] (i. e.) One of his Poſterity, Joſ. 7. 17, 18. [y] But brought deſtruction upon his whole Family, and part of our Forces ſent againſt Ai. [z] Or, for his ſin; of which ſee Joſ. 7. 24.

21 Then the children of Reuben, and the children of Gad, and the half tribe of Manaſſeh, anſwered and ſaid unto the heads of the thouſands of Iſrael [a],

[a] Either Firſt properly, each was a Governor of a thouſand: for there were among them divers Rulers, ſome of Tens, ſome of Hundreds, and ſome of Thouſands; or rather, Secondly, improperly, and indefinitely, i. e. of the People of Iſrael, which conſiſt of ſo many Thouſands more than you, whoſe Authority therefore you owe a reverence to. For by comparing v. 14. theſe ſeem to be greater Perſons than thoſe that were Rulers of thouſands.

22 The LORD God of gods [b], the Lord God of gods, he knoweth [c], and Iſrael he ſhall know †, if it be [d] in rebellion, or if in tranſgreſſion againſt the LORD (ſave us not this day [e]).

[b] That Jehovah, whom we no leſs than you acknowledge and adore as the God of gods, infinitely ſuperiour to all that are called Gods. The multiplying of his Titles, and the repetition of theſe words, ſhew their zeal and earneſtneſs in this matter, and their abhorrency of the very thoughts of it. [c] To him we appeal who knoweth all things, and the truth of what we are now ſaying. † Not only our preſent words, but our future and conſtant courſe ſhall ſatisfie all Iſrael of our perſeverance in the true Religion. [d] If this have been done by us with ſuch deſign, or in ſuch a manner. [e] Thou, O Lord, to whom we have appealed, and without whom we cannot be ſaved or preſerved, ſave us not from any of our Enemies, nor from the Sword of our Brethren. It is a ſudden Apoſtrophe to God, uſual in ſuch vehement ſpeeches.

23 That we have built us an altar to turn from following the LORD; or if to offer thereon burnt-offering, or meat-offering, or if to offer peace-offerings thereon, let the LORD himſelf require it [f].

[f] (i. e.) Call us to an account and puniſh us for it; as that Phraſe is oft uſed, as Deut. 18. 19. 1 Sam. 20. 16. Job 10. 6. Pſal. 10. 13.

† Heb. to morrow.

24 And if we have not rather done it for fear of this thing, ſaying, † In time to come your children might ſpeak unto our children, ſaying, What have ye to do with the LORD [g] God of Iſrael?

[g] You have no relation to him, nor intereſt in him, or his Worſhip.

25 For the LORD hath made Jordan a border between us and you [h]; ye children of Reuben, and Children of Gad, ye have no part in the LORD [i]: ſo ſhall your children make our children ceaſe from fearing the LORD.

[h] To ſhut you out of the Land of Promiſe, and conſequently from the Covenant made between God and our fathers. [i] Nothing to do with him; no right to ſerve him or expect favour from him. See the like Phraſe. 2 Sam. 20. 1. Ezra 4. 8. Joh. 13. 3.

26 Therefore we ſaid, Let us now prepare to build an altar, not for burnt-offering, nor for ſacrifice:

* Gen. 31. 48. Chap. 24. 27. ver. 34.

27 But that it may be * a witneſs between us and you, and our generations after us, that we might do the ſervice of the LORD before him [k] with our burnt-offerings, and with our ſacrifices, and with our peace-offerings, that your children may not ſay to our children in time to come, Ye have no part in the LORD.

[k] That we and ours may have and hold our Priviledge of ſerving and worſhipping God, not upon this Altar, but in the place of Gods preſence, in your Tabernacle, and upon your Altar.

28 Therefore ſaid we, That it ſhall be, when they ſhould ſo ſay to us, or to our generations in time to come, that we may ſay again, Behold the pattern [l] of the Altar of the LORD, which our fathers made, not for burnt-offerings, nor for ſacrifices, but it is a witneſs between us and you [m].

[l] An exact repreſentation and reſemblance. [m] That we both ſerve one God, and approve and make uſe of one and the ſame Altar.

29 God forbid that we ſhould rebel againſt the LORD, and turn this day from following the LORD, to build an altar for burnt-offerings, for meat-offerings, or for ſacrifices, beſides the altar of the LORD our God that is before his tabernacle.

30 And when Phinehas the prieſt, and the princes of the congregation, and heads of the thouſands of Iſrael which were with him, heard the words that the Children of Reuben, and the children of Gad and the children of Manaſſeh ſpake, † it pleaſed them [n].

† Heb. it was good in their eyes.

[n] They were fully ſatisfied with this anſwer.

31 And Phinehas the ſon of Eleazar the prieſt ſaid unto the children of Reuben, and to the children of Gad, and to the children of Manaſſeh, This day we perceive that the LORD is among us [o], becauſe ye have not committed this treſpaſs againſt the LORD: † now ye have delivered the children of Iſrael out of the hand of the LORD [p].

† Heb. then.

[o] By his gracious preſence, and preventing goodneſs, in keeping you from ſo great an offence, and all of us from thoſe diſmal calamities that would have followed upon it. [p] (i. e.) From the Wrath and dreadful Judgments of God, by avoiding that Sin which would have involved both you and us in a moſt Bloody War; you have delivered us from the evils we feared. He that prevents an unexpected or approaching Diſeaſe or Miſchief, doth as truly deliver a man from it, as he that cures or removes it after it hath been inflicted.

32 ¶ And Phinehas the ſon of Eleazar the prieſt, and the princes, returned from the children of Reuben, and from the children of Gad, out of the land of Gilead, unto the land of Canaan, to the children of Iſrael, and brought them word again.

33 And the thing pleaſed the children of Iſrael, and the children of Iſrael bleſſed God, and did not intend to go up againſt them in battel, to deſtroy the land [p] wherein the children of Reuben and Gad dwelt.

[p] As they were by the Law of God obliged to do, if they had been guilty and perſiſted therein; as afterwards they did the Tribe of Benjamin for the ſame reaſon.

34 And the children of Reuben and the children of Gad called the altar ‖ Ed; for it ſhall be a witneſs between us, that the LORD is God.

‖ That is, a Witneſs. So chap. 24. 27.

CHAP. XXIII.

Joſhua being old, aſſembles the people: declares the wonders God had wrought for them: and would work in expelling the Canaanites, 1—5. Exhorts them to be courageous: to obſerve the Law: and beware of Idolatry, 6—8. which he enforces by former Benefits: and promiſes, 9—11. By threatnings, 12——16.

1 AND it came to paſs, a long time [a] after that the LORD had given reſt unto Iſrael from all their enemies round about, that Joſhua waxed old, and † ſtricken in age.

† Heb. come into days.

[a] About 14 years after it.

2 And Joſhua called [b] for all Iſrael [c], and for [d] their elders, and for their heads, and for their judges, and for their officers, and ſaid unto them, I am old and ſtricken in age.

[b] Either to his own City, or rather to Shiloh, the uſual place of ſuch Aſſemblies, where his words being uttered before the Lord, were likely to have the more effect upon them. [c] Not all the people in their own perſons, who could not either come thither, or hear him there; but in their Repreſentatives, by their Elders, Heads, Judges and Officers, which are here added for the reſtriction and explication of that general expreſſion. [d] Or, even for, &c.

3 And ye have ſeen all that the LORD your God hath done unto all theſe Nations, becauſe of you [e]: for the * LORD your God is he that hath fought for you.

* Exod. 14. 14

[e] For your ſake and good, that you might gain by their loſſes.

4 Behold, I have divided unto you by lot theſe nations that remain [f], to be an inheritance for your tribes [g], from Jordan with all the Nations that I have cut off [h], even unto the great ſea † weſtward [i].

† Heb. at the ſun-ſet.

[f] Not yet Conquered. [g] You ſhall certainly ſubdue them, and inherit their Land, as you have done the reſt, if you be not wanting to your ſelves. [h] (i. e.) With the Land of thoſe Nations; the People put for their Land, as we have ſeen before; and as ſometimes on the contrary, the Land is put for the People. [i] Where the Philiſtines, your moſt formidable Adverſaries yet ſurvive; but them alſo and their Land I have given to you, and you ſhall undoubtedly deſtroy them, if you will proceed vigorouſly in your work.

5 And the LORD your God, he ſhall expel them from before you, and drive them from out of your ſight, and ye ſhall poſſeſs their land, as the LORD your God hath promiſed unto you.

6 Be ye therefore very courageous [k], to keep and to do all that is written in the book of the law of Moſes, * that ye turn not aſide therefrom, to the right hand or to the left [l].

* Deut. 5. 32. and 28. 14.

[k] For it will require great Courage and Reſolution to execute all the Commands of Moſes, and particularly, that of expelling and deſtroying the reſidue of the Canaanites. [l] (i. e.) In one kind or other, by adding to the Law, or diminiſhing from it, as Moſes ſpeaks.

7 That ye come not among theſe nations m, theſe that remain amongſt you, neither * make mention of the name of their gods n, nor cauſe to ſwear by them o, neither ſerve them, nor bow your ſelves unto them p.

* Pſal. 16. 4. Jer. 5. 7. Zeph. 1. 5.

m (i.e.) Avoid all familiar converſe and contracts, but eſpecially Marriages with them, as it is explained, v. 12. and as the Hebrew Verb intimates; being oft uſed of coming or going in to a Woman. n To wit, unneceſſarily and familiarly, leſt the mention of them breed diſcourſe about them, and ſo by degrees bring a man to the approbation and worſhip of them. Compare Exod. 23. 13. Deut. 12. 3. Pſal. 16. 4. Eph. 5. 3. o Nor require nor compel the Gentiles to ſwear by them, as they uſed to do; eſpecially in Leagues and Contracts, which therefore the Iſraelites are here implicitely forbidden to make with them. p Neither give them any inward reverence, or outward adoration. Here is an obſervable gradation, whereby he ſhews what notable Progreſs Sin uſually makes, and what need there is to look to the beginnings of it, foraſmuch as a civil and common converſation with their perſons was likely to bring them, and indeed did actually bring them, by inſenſible ſteps, to the Worſhip of their gods. So it is no wonder, if ſome things not ſimply and in themſelves evil, be forbidden by God, as here the naming of their gods is, becauſe they are occaſions and introductions to evil.

8 ‖ But * cleave unto the LORD q your God, as ye have done unto this day r.

‖ Or, for if you will cleave, &c. * Deut. 11. 22.

q By firm Affiance, conſtant Obedience, intire Affection, faithful Service and Worſhip of him alone. r To wit, ſince you came into Canaan; ſince which time the body of the people (for of them he ſpeaks, not of every particular perſon) had behaved themſelves much better than they did in the Wilderneſs, and had not been guilty of any groſs and general Apoſtacy from God, or Rebellion againſt him.

9 ‖ For the LORD hath driven out from before you, great nations and ſtrong; but as for you, no man ſ hath been able to ſtand before you unto this day.

‖ Or, then the LORD will drive.

ſ To wit, whom you have invaded; otherwiſe ſome of thoſe people did yet remain unconquered.

10 * One man of you ſhall chaſe a thouſand: for the LORD your God, he it is that fighteth for you t, * as he hath promiſed you.

* Lev. 26. 8. Deut. 32. 30. * Exod. 14. 14. and 23. 27.

t Impute not this therefore to your own valour, as you will be apt to do, but to Gods gracious and powerful aſſiſtance.

11 Take good heed therefore unto your † ſelves u, that ye love the LORD your God.

† Heb. Souls.

u Now it requires more watchfulneſs and diligence than it did in the Wilderneſs, becauſe your Temptations are now more and ſtronger; partly, from the examples and inſinuations of your bad Neighbours, the remainders of this wicked people; and partly from your own Peace and Proſperity; and the Pride, Security, Forgetfulneſs of God, and Luxury, which uſually attend upon that condition, as God had warned them, Deut. 6, 10, 11, 12.

12 Elſe, if ye do in any wiſe go back x, and cleave unto the remnant of theſe nations, even theſe that remain among you, and ſhall make marriages with them, and go in unto them y, and they to you;

x From God, and from his Worſhip and Service. y The Phraſe notes the Matrimonial act.

13 Know for a certainty, that the LORD your God will no more drive out any of theſe nations from before you; * but they ſhall be ſnares and traps unto you z, and ſcourges in your ſides, and thorns in your eyes a; until ye periſh from off this good land b which the LORD your God hath given you.

* Exod. 23. 33. Numb. 33. 55. Deut. 7. 16.

z By your indulgence to them, and converſe with them, you will be inticed and drawn by degrees into their Errors, and Impieties, and bruitiſh Luſts. a When they have inveagled, and ſeduced, and thereby weakned you, then they will moleſt and vex you, no leſs than a ſevere Scourge doth a mans Sides which are laſhed by it, or than a ſmall Thorn doth the Eye when it is got within it. b They ſhall ſo Perſecute you, and Fight againſt you with ſuch Succeſs, that you ſhall be forced to quit your own Land, and wander you know not whither; which muſt needs be very Terrible to them to think of, when they compared this preſent Eaſe, and Plenty and Safety, with the Pains, and Wearineſs, and Hazards, and Wants of their former Wandrings.

14 And behold, this day I am going the way of all the earth c, and ye know in all your hearts, and in all your ſouls d, that * not one thing hath failed e of all the good things which the LORD your God ſpake concerning you; all are come to paſs unto you, and not one thing hath failed thereof.

* Chap. 21. 45.

c (i. e.) Of all fleſh, or of all men; the way which all men go; I am about to Die, as all men muſt, Heb. 9. 27. The ſame Phraſe is 1 King. 2 2. d (i. e.) You know aſſuredly; your own experience puts it out of all queſtion. e Qu. How is this true, when ſo great a part of the Promiſed Land and People yet remain unconquered? Anſ. God promiſed them to deſtroy all their Enemies, and to give them the whole Land, not at once, but by degrees, by little and little, as is expreſſed, Deut. 7. 22. and as was moſt convenient for them.

15 Therefore it ſhall come to paſs, that as all good things are come upon you, which the LORD your God promiſed you; ſo ſhall the LORD bring upon you * all evil things f, until he have deſtroyed you from off this good land, which the LORD your God hath given you.

* Lev. 26. 16. Deut. 28. 15, 16, &c.

f The accompliſhment of Gods Promiſes is a Pledge or Aſſurance, that he will alſo fulfil his Threatnings; both of them depending upon the ſame ground, the faithfulneſs of God.

16 When ye have tranſgreſſed the covenant of the LORD your God, which he commanded you, and have gone and ſerved other gods, and bowed your ſelves to them; then ſhall the anger of the LORD be kindled againſt you, and ye ſhall periſh quickly from off the good land which he hath given you.

CHAP. XXIV.

Joſhua aſſembles all the tribes of Shechem, 1. A brief Hiſtory of Gods Benefits from Terah; exhorts them faithfully to ſerve the true God, 1.13. Reneweth a Covenant between them and God; promiſing for himſelf and his Houſe; the people four ſeveral times promiſing for themſelves, 14—25. He writes this in the Book of the Law; and ſets up a ſtone for a witneſs, 26—28. His age, death, and burial, 29—31. The burying of Joſephs Bones, 32. The death and burial of Eleazar, 33.

1 AND Joſhua gathered all the tribes of Iſrael a to Shechem b, and called for the elders of Iſrael, and for the heads, and for the judges, and for their officers, and they preſented themſelves before God c.

a To wit, by their Repreſentatives, as Joſ. 23. 2. b Either 1. To Shiloh, where the Ark and Tabernacle was; becauſe they are here ſaid to preſent themſelves before God; and becauſe the Stone ſet up here is ſaid to be ſet up in or by the ſanctuary of the Lord; of both which I ſhall ſpeak in their proper places. And they ſay Shiloh is here called Shechem, becauſe it was in the Territory of Shechem; but that may be doubted, ſeeing Shiloh was Ten Miles diſtant from Shechem, as S. Jerom affirms. And had he meant Shiloh, why ſhould he not expreſs it in its own and proper name, by which it is called in all other places, rather than by another name no where elſe given to it? Or rather, 2. To the City of Shechem, a place convenient for the preſent purpoſe, not only becauſe it was a Levitical City, and a City of Refuge, and a place near to Joſhua's City, but eſpecially for the two main ends for which he ſummoned them thither. 1. For the ſolemn Burial of the Bones of Joſeph, as is implied here v. 32. and of the reſt of the Patriarchs, as is noted Act. 7. 15, 16. for which this place was deſigned. 2. For the ſolemn renewing of their Covenant with God; which in this place was firſt made between God and Abraham, Gen. 12. 6, 7. and afterwards was there renewed by the Iſraelites at their firſt entrance into the Land of Canaan, between the two mountains of Ebal and Gerizim, Joſ. 8. 30, &c. which were very near Shechem, as appears from Judg. 9. 6, 7. and therefore this place was moſt proper, both to remind them of their former obligations to God, and to engage them to a farther ratification of them. c Either 1. Before the Ark or Tabernacle, as that Phraſe is commonly uſed; which might be either in Shiloh, where they were fixed; or in Shechem, whither the Ark was brought upon this great occaſion; as it was ſometimes removed upon ſuch occaſions, as 1 Sam. 4. 3. 2 Sam. 15. 24. Or 2. In that Publick, and Venerable, and Sacred Aſſembly met together for Religious Exerciſes; for in ſuch God is preſent, Exod. 20. 24. Pſal. 82. 1. Mat. 18. 20. Or 3. As in Gods Preſence, to hear what Joſhua was to ſpeak to them in Gods Name, and to receive Gods Commands from his mouth. Thus Iſaac is ſaid to Bleſs Jacob before the Lord, i. e. in his Name and Preſence, Gen. 27. 7. and Jeptha is ſaid to utter all his words before the Lord in Mizpeh, i. e. as in Gods Preſence, calling him in to be Witneſs of them.

2 And Joſhua ſaid unto all the people d, Thus ſaith the LORD God of Iſrael, * your fathers dwelt on the other ſide of the floud e † in old time, even Tera the father of Abraham, and the father of Nachor: and they f ſerved other gods.

* Gen. 11. 26, 31. and 12. 1. † Heb. Meolam, that is, from everlaſting.

d (i. e.) That people which were preſent, to wit, to the Elders, &c. by whom it was to be imparted to all the reſt, and to as many of the people as came thither. e Or, the River, to wit, Euphrates, as all agree, ſo called by way of Eminency. f (i. e.) Both Abraham and Nahor were no leſs Idolaters than the reſt of Mankind. This is ſaid to prevent their vain boaſting in their worthy Anceſtors, and to aſſure them that whatſoever good was in, or had been done by their Progenitors, was wholly from Gods free Grace, and not for their own merit or righteouſneſs, as the Jews were very apt to conceit.

3 And I took g your father Abraham from the other ſide of the floud, and led him throughout all the land of Canaan h, and multiplied his ſeed i, and * gave him Iſaac k.

* Gen. 21. 2.

g I apprehended him by my grace, and ſnatched him out of that Idolatrous and Wicked place, and took him into Acquaintance and Covenant with my ſelf, which was the higheſt Honour and Happineſs he was capable of. h (i.e.) I brought him after his Fathers Death into Canaan, Gen. 12. 1. and I conducted and preſerved him in ſafety in all his Travels through the ſeveral parts of Canaan. i (i. e.) Gave him a numerous Poſterity, not only by Hagar and Keturah, but even by Sarah and by Iſaac, as it follows. k By my ſpecial Power and Grace to be the Heir of my Covenant, and all my Promiſes, and the Seed in or by which all Nations were to be Bleſſed, Gen. 12. 1. and 21. 2.

4 And I gave unto Iſaac, * Jacob and Eſau, and I gave unto * Eſau mount Seir to poſſeſs it l: * but Jacob and his children went down into Egypt m.

* Gen. 25. 24, 26. * Gen. 36. 8. * Gen. 46. 1, 6

l That he might leave Canaan intire to his Brother Jacob and his Poſterity, Gen. 36. 7, 8. m Where they long lived in grievous Bondage; which God having delivered us from, I ſhall now paſs it over.

* Exod. 3. 10.

5 * I ſent Moſes alſo and Aaron, and I plagued Egypt according to that which I did n amongſt them: and afterwards I brought you out.

n (i. e.) In ſuch manner, and with ſuch Plagues as I inflicted, and are recorded.

* Exod. 12. 37.
* Exod. 14. 9.

6 And I * brought your fathers out of Egypt, and ye came unto the ſea, and the Egyptians purſued after your fathers with charets and horſemen unto * the Red-ſea.

7 And when they cried unto the LORD, he put darkneſs between you and the Egyptians, and brought the ſea upon them, and covered them, and your eyes have ſeen what I have done in Egypt o; and ye dwelt in the wilderneſs a long ſeaſon.

o He ſpeaketh this to the Elders, v. 1. who were ſo, not only by Power and Dignity, but many of them by Age; and there being now not ſixty years paſt ſince thoſe Egyptian Plagues, it is very probable that a conſiderable number of thoſe here preſent, had ſeen thoſe things in Egypt, and being not twenty years old, were exempted from that dreadful Sentence of Deſtruction, paſſed upon all who were then of more years ſtanding, Numb. 14.

* Numb. 21. 34. Deut. 2. 32.

8 And I brought you into the land of the Amorite, which dwelt on the other ſide Jordan: * and they fought with you, and I gave them into your hand, that ye might poſſeſs their land, and I deſtroyed them from before you.

* Numb. 22. 5. Deut. 23. 4.

9 Then Balak the ſon of Zippor, king of Moab, aroſe and warred againſt Iſrael p, and * ſent and called Balaam the ſon of Beor to curſe you.

p Qu. How is this true, when Balak did never fight againſt Iſrael, Judg. 11. 25? Anſ. One Prince may commence a War againſt another, though he never come to a Battel, nor ſtrike one ſtroke; So Balak warred, though not by open force, yet by Crafty Counſel and Warlike Stratagems, by Magical Arts, by Wicked Devices, by making bate betwixt them and God their Confederate; or by Warlike preparations, in caſe Balaams Charms had ſucceeded, as may be gathered from Numb. 22. 11. or at leaſt by deſign or intention; things being oft ſaid to be done both in Scripture and other Authors, which were only deſigned or intended, as here v. 11. Gen. 37. 21. Ezek. 24. 13. Mat. 5. 28. Joh. 10. 32, 33. And the old Lawyers note, That he is rightly called a Thief or an Adulterer, &c. who wanted nothing but occaſion to be ſo.

10 But I would not hearken unto Balaam q, therefore he bleſſed you ſtill: ſo I delivered you out of his hand r.

q Who hereby appears to have deſired of God leave to Curſe Iſrael; and therefore it is not ſtrange, that God who permitted him ſimply to go, was highly angry with him for going with ſo wicked an intent, Numb. 22. 20, 22, 32. r (i. e.) From Balaks malicious Deſign againſt you.

* Chap. 3. 14.
* Chap. 6. 1. and 10. 1. and 11. 1.

11 And * ye went over Jordan, and came unto Jericho: and * the men of Jericho fought againſt you s, the Amorite, and the Perizzite, and the Canaanite, and the Hittite, and the Girgaſhite, the Hivite, and the Jebuſite t, and I delivered them into your hand.

s Made oppoſition againſt you by ſhutting their Gates, by endeavouring to cut off your Spies, &c. they Warred againſt you, if not by an Offenſive, yet by a Defenſive War. t To wit, ſucceſſively; for in theſe few words he ſeems to compriſe all their Wars, which being ſo freſh in their Memory, he thought it needleſs particularly to mention.

* Exod. 23. 28. Deut. 7. 20.
* Pſal. 44. 3. 6.

12 And * I ſent the hornet u before you, which drave them out from before you, even the two kings of the Amorites: but * not with thy ſword, nor with thy bow x.

u Either figuratively, i. e. Terrors and Plagues, or other deſtroying Judgments. Or 2. Properly ſo called. See on Exod. 23. 28. And this being done before Joſhua's entrance into Canaan, it is not ſtrange if it be not mentioned in this Book or Record of Joſhua's actions. x For though thou didſt fight with them, and prevail againſt them in Battel, yet this was not becauſe thou hadſt more force or courage than they; but becauſe by my Hornet which I ſent like an Harbinger before thee, I had both broken their ſpirits, and greatly diminiſhed their numbers, and particularly cut off thoſe Giants or others who were like to give thee moſt trouble and difficulty; whence it comes to paſs that we read of ſo few Giants in that Land which was called the Land of Giants, Deut. 3. 13.

* Deut. 6. 10, 11.

13 And I have given you a land for which ye did not labour, and * cities which ye built not y, and ye dwell in them: of the vineyards and oliveyards which ye planted not, do ye eat.

y See on Joſ. 10. 12, 13.

* Lev. 17. 7. Ezek. 20. 8.

14 ¶ Now therefore fear the LORD, and ſerve him in ſincerity and in truth z, and put away the gods a which your fathers b ſerved on the other ſide of the floud, and * in Egypt c; and ſerve ye the LORD.

z Either theſe two expreſſions note the ſame thing; or ſincerity is oppoſed to the mixture of falſe gods with the true, as it here follows; or of a falſe and corrupt worſhip of God, with that which God appointed; and Truth is oppoſed to diſſimulation and falſeneſs, and inſtability of heart. a Whereby it appears, That although Joſhua had doubtleſs prevented and purged out all publick and manifeſt Idolatry, yet there were ſome of them who practiſed it in their private houſes and retirements. See below v. 23. Amos 5. 25, 26. Acts 7. 42, 43. b Terah, and Nahor, and Abraham, as v. 2. and others of your Anceſtors. c See Ezek. 23. 3, 8, 19, 21, 27. Under theſe particulars, no doubt he comprehends all other falſe gods, which were ſerved by the Nations amongſt whom they were, as appears from v. 15. but only mentions theſe, as the Idols which they were in more danger of worſhipping than thoſe in Canaan; partly becauſe thoſe of Canaan had been now lately and palpably diſgraced by their inability to preſerve their Worſhippers from total ruine; and partly, becauſe the other Idols came recommended unto them by the venerable name of Antiquity, and the cuſtom of their forefathers. See Jer. 44. 17. Ezek. 20. 18.

* Joh. 6. 67.

15 And if it ſeem evil d unto you to ſerve the LORD, * chooſe ye this day whom ye will ſerve e, whether the gods which your fathers ſerved, that were on the other ſide of the floud, or the gods of the Amorite, in whoſe land ye dwell: but as for me and my houſe, we will ſerve the LORD f.

d Unjuſt, unreaſonable or inconvenient. e Not that he leaves them to their liberty, whether they would ſerve God or Idols; for Joſhua had no ſuch power or liberty himſelf, nor could give it to any other; and both he and they were obliged by the Law of Moſes, to give their Worſhip to God only, and to forbear all Idolatry in themſelves, and ſeverely to puniſh it in others; but it is a Rhetorical and powerful inſinuation, whereby he both implies, That the Worſhip of God is ſo highly reaſonable, ſo neceſſary and beneficial; and the ſervice of Idols is ſo abſurd, and vain, and pernicious, that if it were left free to all men to make their choice, every man in his right Wits muſt needs chuſe the Service of God, before that of Idols; and provokes them to bind themſelves faſter to God by their own choice. See ſuch manner of ſpeeches in Ruth 1. 8, 15. 1 King. 18. 21 f But know this, if you ſhould all be ſo baſe and brutiſh, as to prefer ſenſeleſs and impotent Idols before the True and Living God, it is my firm purpoſe, That I will, and my Children and Servants (as far as I can influence them) ſhall be conſtant and faithful to the Lord.

16 And the people anſwered and ſaid, God forbid that we ſhould forſake the LORD, to ſerve other gods.

17 For the LORD our God he it is that brought us up, and our fathers out of the land of Egypt, from the houſe of bondage, and which did thoſe great ſigns in our ſight, and preſerved us in all the way wherein we went, and among all the people through whom we paſſed.

18 And the LORD drave out from before us all the people, even the Amorites which dwelt in the land: therefore will we alſo ſerve the LORD, for he is our God.

* Exod. 23. 21.

19 And Joſhua ſaid unto the people, Ye cannot ſerve the LORD g: for he is an holy God: he is a jealous God h; he * will not forgive your tranſgreſſions i, nor your ſins.

g He ſpeaks not of an abſolute impoſſibility, (for then both his reſolution to ſerve God himſelf, and his exhortation to them to do ſo, had been vain and ridiculous) but of a moral impoſſibility, or a very great difficulty, which he alledgeth not to diſcourage them from Gods Service, which is his great deſign to engage them in; but only to make them more conſiderate and cautious in obliging themſelves; and more circumſpect and reſolved in anſwering their obligations. The meaning is, Gods Service is not, as you ſeem to fancy, a ſlight and eaſie thing, as ſoon done as ſaid; but it is a work of great difficulty, and requires great care, and courage and reſolution; and when I conſider the infinite purity of God, that he will not be mocked or abuſed; and withall your great and often manifeſted proneneſs to Superſtition and Idolatry, even during the Life of Moſes, and in ſome of you, whilſt I live, and whileſt the obligations which God hath laid upon you in this land, are freſh in remembrance; I cannot but fear that after my Deceaſe you will think the Service of God too hard and burdenſom for you, and therefore will caſt it off, and revolt from him, if you do not double your Watch, and carefully avoid all occaſions of Idolatry, which I fear you will not do, but I do hereby exhort you to do. h He will not endure a corrival, or partner in his Worſhip; you cannot ſerve him and Idols together, as you will be inclined and tempted to do. i If you who own your ſelves for his People and Servants, ſhall wickedly and wilfully tranſgreſs his Laws by Idolatry or other Crimes, he will not let this go unpuniſhed in you, as he doth in other Nations; Therefore conſider what you do when you take the Lord for your God; weigh your advantages and inconveniencies together; for as if you be ſincere and faithful in Gods ſervice, you will have admirable benefits by it; ſo if you be falſe to your Profeſſions, and forſake him whom you have ſo ſolemnly avouched to be your God, he will deal more ſeverely with you, than with any people in the World.

* Chap. 23. 15.

20 If ye forſake the LORD, and ſerve ſtrange gods, * then he will turn k, and do you hurt, and conſume you after that he hath done you good l.

k (i. e.) He will alter his courſe and the manner of his dealing with you, and will be as ſevere as ever he was kind and gracious. l He will repent of all his former kindneſs, and his goodneſs abuſed will be turned into fury.

21 And the people ſaid unto Joſhua, Nay, but we will ſerve the LORD m.

m To wit, him only, and not ſtrange gods, as was ſuppoſed by Joſhua, v. 20.

22 And Joſhua ſaid unto the people, Ye are witneſſes againſt your ſelves n, that ye have choſen the LORD, to ſerve him. And they ſaid, We are witneſſes.

n This Solemn Profeſſion will be a ſwift Witneſs againſt you, if hereafter you Apoſtatize from God.

23 Now therefore put away, ſaid he, the ſtrange gods which are among you o, and encline your heart unto the LORD God of Iſrael.

o Thoſe Idols which you either brought out of Egypt, or have taken in Canaan, which I have too much reaſon to believe that ſome of you contrary to God's Command do keep, whether for the preciousneſs of the matter, or rather for ſome ſecret inclination to Superſtition and Idolatry, as the following words imply. See v. 14.

24 And the people ſaid unto Joſhua, The LORD our God will we ſerve, and his voice will we obey.

25 So Joſhua made a covenant with the people that day, and ſet them a ſtatute, and an ordinance p in Shechem.

p Either, 1. He ſet, or propounded, or declared unto them the Statute and Ordinance, i. e. the ſum of the Statutes and Ordinances of God which their Covenant obliged them to. Or, 2. He ſet or eſtabliſhed it, to wit, that Covenant with them, i. e. the People, for a Statute or an Ordinance, to bind themſelves and their Poſterity unto God for ever as a Statute and Ordinance of God doth.

26 And Joſhua wrote theſe words q in the book of the law of God r, and * took a great ſtone, and ſet it up there ſ, under * an oak that was by the ſanctuary of the LORD t.

Gen. 35.

q i. e. This Covenant or Agreement of the people with the Lord. r i. e. In that Volume which was kept in the Ark, Deut. 31. 9, 26. whence it was taken and put into this Book of Joſhua: This he did partly for the perpetual remembrance of this great and ſolemn Action, partly to lay the greater obligation upon the people to be true to their engagement; and partly as a Witneſs for God, and againſt the people, if afterwards he ſeverely puniſhed them for their defection from God, to whom they had ſo ſolemnly and freely obliged themſelves. ſ As a witneſs and monument of this great tranſaction, according to the cuſtom of thoſe ancient times, as Gen. 28. 18. and 31. 45. and 35. 14. Exod. 24. 4. Deut. 27. 2. Joſ. 4. 3. and 8. 32. Poſſibly this agreement was written upon this Stone, as was then uſual. t i. e. Near to the place where the Ark and Tabernacle then were; for tho' they were forbidden to plant a Grove of Trees near unto the Altar, Deut. 16. 21. as the Gentiles did, yet they might for a time ſet up an Altar, or the Ark, near a great Tree which had been planted there before.

27 And Joſhua ſaid unto all the people, Behold, this ſtone ſhall be a witneſs unto us; for it hath heard u all the words of the LORD which he ſpake unto us; it ſhall be there for a witneſs unto you, leſt ye deny your God.

u It ſhall be as ſure a Witneſs againſt you, as if it had heard. This is a common Figure, called Proſopopœia, whereby the ſenſe of hearing is oft aſcribed to the Heavens and the Earth, and other ſenceleſs creatures; as Deut. 32. 1. Iſa. 1. 2. Jer. 2. 12.

28 So * Joſhua let the people depart, every man unto his inheritance.

*Judg. 2. 6.

29 ¶ And it came to paſs after theſe things, that Joſhua the ſon of Nun, the ſervant of the LORD died, being an hundred and ten years old.

30 And they buried him in the border of his inheritance in * Timnath-ſerah, which is in mount Ephraim, on the north-ſide of the hill of Gaaſh.

*Chap. 19. 50. Judg. 2. 9.

31 And * Iſrael ſerved the LORD all the days of Joſhua, and all the days of the elders that † over-lived Joſhua, and which had known all the works of the LORD, that he had done for Iſrael.

*Judg. 2. 7.

†Heb. prolonged their days after Joſhua.

32 ¶ And * the bones of Joſeph, which the children of Iſrael brought up out of Egypt, buried they in Shechem x, in a parcel of ground which Jacob bought of * the ſons of Hamor the father of Shechem, for an hundred ‖ pieces of ſilver, and it became the inheritance of the children of Iſrael.

*Gen. 50. 25. Exod. 13. 19.

*Gen. 33. 19.

‖Or, Lambs.

x Not in the city of Shechem, but in a Field near, and belonging to it, as appears from the following words, and from Gen. 33. 18. and from the ancient cuſtom of the Iſraelites to have their Burying places without Cities, in Fields or Gardens.

33 And Eleazar the ſon of Aaron died, and they buried him in a hill that pertained to Phinehas his ſon, which was given him y in mount Ephraim.

y By ſpecial favour, and for his better conveniency in attending upon the Ark, which then was, and for a long time was to be in Shiloh, which was near to this place; whereas the Cities which were given to the Prieſts, were in Judah, Benjamin and Simeon, which were remote from Shiloh, tho' near to the place where the Ark was to have its ſettled abode, to wit, to Jeruſalem.

JUDGES.

The ARGUMENT.

THE Author of this Book is not certainly known; whether it was Samuel, or Ezra, or ſome other Prophet: nor is it material to know. 1. It matters not who was the Kings Secretary, or with what Pen it was wrttten, if it be once known that it was the King who made the Order or Decree: It is ſufficient, that unto the Jews were committed the Oracles of God, Rom. 3. 2. i. e. the Holy Scriptures of the Old Teſtament, one part of which this was, by confeſſion of all; and that the Jews did not falſify their truſt therein, but kept thoſe Holy Books themſelves, and delivered them to the World entire, without addition or diminution: for neither Chriſt nor his Apoſtles, who ſeverely rebuke them for their miſtakes and miſunderſtandings of ſome paſſages of Scripture, ever charge them with any perfidiouſneſs about the Canon or Books of the Scripture. This Book is called the Book of Judges, becauſe it treats of the Judges, or of the ſtate of the Commonwealth of Iſrael under all the Judges, except Eli and Samuel, who being the laſt of the Judges, and the occaſions or inſtruments of the change of this Government, are omitted in this Book. The Judges were a ſort of Magiſtrates inferior to Kings, and could neither make new Laws, nor impoſe any Tributes, but were the ſupreme Executors of Gods Laws and Commands, and the Generals of their Armies.

CHAP. I.

The Tribe of Judah by God's Command begin to make War againſt the Canaanites, 1——4. Adonibezek juſtly requited, 5——7. They take Jeruſalem, 8. And Hebron. Enak's Sons ſlain, 9, 10. Othniel ſubdueth Debir, and ſo obtained Caleb's Daughter to Wife, 11——15. The Kenites dwell in Judah, 16. Simeon ſubdueth Zephath, 17. And Judah divers Cities of the Philiſtines, 18——20. The Jebuſites dwell with Benjamin, 21. They of the Houſe of Joſeph ſubdue Bethel, 22——26. Manaſſeh, Ephraim, Zebulon, Aſher, Naphtali, Dan, drive not out the Canaanites; for which they are vexed by them, and are left to dwell one among another, 27——26.

NOW after the death of Joſhua a, it came to paſs, that the children of Iſrael asked the LORD b, ſaying, Who ſhall go up for us againſt the Canaanites firſt c, to fight againſt them?

a Not long after it, becauſe Othniel, the firſt Judge, lived in Joſhuah's time. b Being aſſembled together at Shiloh, they enquired of the High prieſt by the Urim and Thummim. See Numb. 27. 21. Judg. 20. 18. 1 Sam. 23. 9. c Being ſenſible that the Canaanites are troubleſom to them, and expected great advantage againſt them by their heedleſs condition, and finding their People to encreaſe and multiply exceedingly, and conſequently the neceſſity of enlarging their Quarters, they renew the War. They do not enquire who ſhall be the Captain General to all the Tribes; but (as appears by the anſwer) What Tribe ſhall firſt undertake the Expedition, that by their ſucceſs the other Tribes may be encouraged to make the like attempt upon the Canaanites in their ſeveral Lots.

2 And the LORD ſaid, Judah d ſhall go up: behold, I have delivered the land into his hand.

d Not a perſon ſo called, but the Tribe of Judah, as is manifeſt from v. 3, 4, 8, 9. which is choſen for the firſt enterpriſe, becauſe they were both moſt populous, and ſo moſt needing enlargement; and withal moſt Valiant, and therefore moſt likely to ſucceed: for God chuſeth fit means for the work which he deſigns; and becauſe the Canaanites were numerous and ſtrong in thoſe parts, and therefore were in time to be ſuppreſſed, before they grew too ſtrong for them.

3 And Judah ſaid unto Simeon his brother e, Come up with me into my lot, that we may fight againſt the Canaanites f, and I likewiſe will go with thee into thy lot. So Simeon went with him.

e As neareſt to him both by relation, being his Brother by both Parents, which few of them were; and by habitation, as appears from Joſ. 19. 1, 2. f Specially ſo called, becauſe they are diſtinguiſhed from the Perizzite, v. 4.

4 And Judah went up, and the LORD delivered the Canaanites and the Perizzites into their hand, and they ſlew of them in Bezek g ten thouſand men.

g Not in the City, for that was not yet taken, v. 5. but in the Territory of it, or near to it; as in Hor is taken, Numb. 33. 37. And in Jericho, Joſ. 5. 13.

5 And they found Adoni-bezek h in Bezek i; and they fought againſt him k, and they ſlew the Canaanites, and the Perizzites.

h The Lord or King of Bezek; as his Name ſignifies i. Whither he fled, when he had loſt the Field. k i. e. Againſt the City wherein he had Encamped himſelf, and the reſt of his Army.

6 But Adoni-bezek fled, and they purſued after him, and caught him, and cut off his thumbs, and his great toes l.

†Heb. The thumbs of their hands, and their feet.

‖Or, gleaned.

l That he might be diſenabled to fight with his Hands, or to run away upon his Feet. And this they did, either by the ſecret inſtinct and direction of God, or upon notice of his former Tyranny and Cruelty expreſſed upon others, in this manner, as it follows: either way it was a juſt requital.

7 And Adoni-bezek ſaid, Threeſcore and ten kings m, having † their thumbs * and their great toes cut off, ‖ gathered their meat under my table n: as I have done, ſo God hath requited me o: and they brought him p to Jeruſalem q, and there he died.

m Which is not ſtrange in thoſe times and places: for theſe might be either, Firſt, Kings ſucceſſively, and ſo there might be divers of thoſe Kings in one place, and ſo in others: Or, Secondly, Contemporary Kings. For it is well known, that anciently each Ruler of a City, or great Town, was called a King, and had Kingly Power in that place; and many ſuch Kings we meet with in Canaan: and it is probable,that ſome years before, Kings were more numerous there, till the greater devoured many of the leſs. *That ſo their hands might be unable to manage weapons of War. n An Act of Barbarous Inhumanity thus to inſult over the miſerable, joined with abominable Luxury. o He acknowledgeth the Providence and vindictive Juſtice of God, which alſo Pharoah did, and others too, without any true ſenſe of Piety. p They carried him in Triumph as a monument of God's righteous Vengeance. q It being the Metropolis of the nation.

8 (Now the children of Judah had fought againſt Jeruſalem, and had taken it r, and ſmitten it with the edge of the ſword, and ſet the city on fire.)

q To wit, in Joſhua's time; which tho' done before, may be here repeated,to ſhew why they brought Adoni-bezek to Jeruſalem, becauſe that City was in their hands, having been taken before, as may be gathered from *Joſ.*15.63. And the taking of this City may be aſcribed to the children of Judah,rather than to Joſhua,becauſe the City was not taken by Joſhua, and the whole Body of the Army in that time when ſo many Kings were deſtroyed,*Joſ.*10. and 12. (for there is mention made of the deſtroying of the King of Jeruſalem, *Joſ.*10. 23. and 12.10. But not a word of the taking of Jeruſalem, as there is of the taking of Makkedah, and Libnah, and other Cities belonging to the Kings there mentioned,*Joſ.10.28,&c.*) but by the Children of Judah after they had received their Lot,when at the deſire,and with the conſent of the Benjamites, in whoſe Lot Jeruſalem fell, *Joſ.*18.28. they aſſaulted and took it, and thereby, as it ſeems, acquired the right of Copartnerſhip with the Benjamites in the poſſeſſion of that City: Tho ſome think Jeruſalem was twice taken,once in Joſhua's Life-time; and being afterwards recovered by the Canaanites, was now retaken by the Children of Judah.

†Joſh. 10. 36. and 11. 21. and 15. 13.

9 † And afterward the children of Judah went down to fight againſt the Canaanites, that dwelt in the mountain, and in the ſouth, and in the ‖ valley.

‖Or, low Countrey.

*Joſh. 15. 13.

10 And Judah went againſt the Canaanites r that dwelt in Hebron, (now the name of Hebron before was * Kirjath-arba) and they ſlew Sheſhai, and Ahiman, and Talmai.

r Under the Conduct of Caleb, as it is recorded, *Joſ.15.14,&c.* for that relation, and this here following,are doubtleſs one and the ſame Expedition and War, as appears by all the circumſtances; and it is mentioned either there by anticipation, or here by repetition. Of this and the following Verſes, ſee the Notes there.

11 And from thence he went againſt the inhabitants of Debir, (and the name of Debir before was Kirjath ſepher.)

12 And Caleb ſaid, He that ſmiteth Kirjath-ſepher, and taketh it, to him will I give Achſah my daughter to wife.

*Chap. 3. 9.

13 And Othniel the ſon of Kenaz,*Calebs younger brother,took it: and he gave him Achſah his daughter to wife.

14 And it came to paſs when ſhe came to him,that ſhe moved him to ask of her father a field: and ſhe lighted from off her aſs, and Caleb ſaid unto her, What wilt thou?

15 And ſhe ſaid unto him, Give me a bleſſing, for thou haſt given me a ſouth land,give me alſo ſprings of water. And Caleb gave her the upper ſprings, and the nether ſprings.

16 ¶ And the children of the Kenite, Moſes father in law ſ, went up out of the city of palm-trees t, with the children of Judah, into the wilderneſs of Judah, which lieth in the ſouth of Arad u, and they x went and dwelt among the people y.

ſ i. e. Of Jethro,ſo called from the people from whom he deſcended, *Numb.*24.21,22. Or for ſome other cauſe unknown to us at this diſtance. u In the Southern part of the Land of Canaan,where Arad was,*Numb.*21.1. x i e. Some of them,for others of them dwelt in the contrary quarter,in the moſt Northern part of the Land. y Heb. that people,to wit, thoſe children of Judah that lived there.

Becauſe this was but one City; that, divers Cities, *Numb.*21.2,3. 2. Becauſe that ſeems to have been done in Moſes his time,tho' Interpreters generally think otherwiſe; of which ſee my Notes there.

18 Alſo Judah took Gaza with the coaſt thereof, and Askelon with the coaſt thereof, and Ekron with the coaſt thereof a.

a The principal Cities of the Philiſtines. Qu. How could this be, when among the people left to try Iſrael, are the five Lords of the Philiſtines Judg.3.3? Anſ. It is only ſaid that they took the Cities,and probably contented themſelves with making them Tributary; but it is not ſaid that they ſlew the people,as they ought to have done; and as it is ſaid of the other Cities here,*v.*5.8,17,25. And the people being thus ſpared, did by God's Juſt Judgment,recover their ſtrength, and expel the Jews out of their Cities, as we find afterwards: It is further obſervable, that Ekron here taken, was one of Dan's Cities, *Joſ.*19 43. and it was attempted and taken here by Judah and Simeon, partly out of love to their Brother Dan,and partly to ſecure their new conqueſts,and other adjoining territories,from ſuch potent neighbors.

19 And the LORD was with Judah,and ‖ he drave out the inhabitants of the mountain, but could not b drive out the inhabitants of the valley, becauſe they had charets of iron.

†Or, he poſſeſſed the mountain.

b Becauſe of their unbelief, whereby they doubted and diſtruſted God's power to deſtroy thoſe who had Chariots of Iron, and ſo gave way to their own fear and ſloth,whereby God was provoked to withdraw his helping hand from them, and ſo they were really made impotent, as they were unwilling. Or, Thirdly, Chriſt the Angel of the Covenant, who is oft called the Angel of the Lord, as we have formerly ſeen, to whom the conduct of Iſrael out of Egypt, and thorough the Wilderneſs, and into Canaan, here ſpoken of, is frequently aſcribed, as Exod 14. 19. & 23. 20. & 33. 14. Joſ. 5. 13, 14. Judg. 6. 12. & 13. 3. Who alone of all the Angels could ſpeak the following words in his own Name and Perſon; whereas created Angels and Prophets do univerſally uſher in their Divine Meſſages with, Thus ſaith the Lord, or ſome equivalent Expreſſion. And this Angel having aſſumed the outward ſhape of a Man, it is not ſtrange that he imitates the local motion of a Man, and comes as it were from Gilgal to the place where now they were: by which motion he ſignified, that he was the perſon that brought them to Gilgal, the firſt place where they reſted in Canaan, and there renewed Covenant with them, and protected them there ſo long, and from thence went out with them to Battel, and gave them ſucceſs. b A place ſo called here by Anticipation, for the reaſon expreſſed here, v. 5. 4 And it came to paſs, when the angel of the LORD ſpake theſe words unto all the children of Iſrael, that the people lift up their voice, and wept g:

g Some of them from a true ſenſe of their ſins; but moſt of them from a juſt apprehenſion of their danger and approaching miſery from the Canaanites growing Power, and God's forſaking of them; as the following Hiſtory makes moſt probable.

5 And they called the name of that place ‖ Bochim:
‖ That is weepers. and they ſacrificed h there unto the LORD.

h For the expiation of their ſins, by which they had provoked God to this reſolution; and for the regaining of God's favour.

6 ¶ And when * Joſhua had let the people go i, the
* Joſh. 24. 28. children of Iſrael went every man unto his inheritance

This was done before this time, whilſt Joſhua lived; but is now repeated in order to the diſcovery of the time, and cauſe, or occaſion of the Peoples defection from God, and of God's deſertion of them.

7 And the people ſerved the LORD all the days of 10 And alſo all that generation were gathered unto their fathers: and there aroſe another generation after them, which knew not l the LORD, nor yet the works which he had done for Iſrael.

l Which had no experimental, nor ſerious and affectionate knowledge of God, nor of his works.

11 And the children of Iſrael did evil in the ſight of the LORD m, and ſerved Baalim n.

m Which notes the hainouſneſs and the impudence of their ſins, above other peoples ſins; becauſe God's preſence was with them, and his eye upon them in a peculiar manner, and he did narrowly obſerve all their actions, which alſo they were not ignorant of, and therefore were guilty of more contempt of God than other People. n i. e. Falſe Gods. He uſeth the Plural Number, becauſe the Gods of the Canaanites, and adjoining Nations, which Iſrael Worſhipped, were divers, and moſt of them called by the name of Baal.

12 And they forſook the LORD God of their fathers, which brought them out of the land of Egypt, and followed other gods, of the gods of the people that were round about them, and bowed themſelves unto them, and provoked the LORD to anger.

See Judg. 3. 9, 10, 15, &c and 4. 4. and 6. 25, 26. and 8. 23.

17 And yet they would not hearken unto their Judges s, but they went a whoring after other gods, and bowed themſelves unto them: they turned quickly out of the way which their fathers walked in, obeying the commandments of the LORD: but they did not ſo.

s Who admoniſhed them of their ſin and folly, and of the danger and miſery which would certainly befall them.

18 And when the LORD raiſed them up judges, then the LORD was with the judge, and delivered them out of the hand of their enemies all the days of the judge: (for it repented the LORD t, becauſe of their groanings, by reaſon of them that vexed them, and oppreſſed them:)

t i.e. The Lord changed his courſe and dealings with them, as penitent Men uſe to do; removed his Judgments, and returned to them in mercy, Gen. 6. 6.

20 ¶ And the anger of the LORD was hot againſt Iſrael, and he ſaid, Becauſe that this people hath tranſgreſſed my Covenant, which I commanded their fathers, and have not hearkned unto my voice:

The Nations left to prove Iſrael mentioned, 1——4. The Iſraelites marrying their Daughters, and ſerving their Gods, they are delivered up to the K. of Meſopotamia: are Reſcued by Othniel, 5——11. Continuing to do Evil, they are again puniſhed and oppreſs'd by the K. of the Moabites: are Reſcued by Ehud: Ten thouſand Moabites are ſlain, 12——30. They are afterwards delivered from the Philiſtines by Samgar, 31.

NOW theſe are the nations which the LORD left to prove Iſrael by them, (even as many of Iſrael as had not known all the wars of Canaan a:

a i.e. Such who had no experience of thoſe Wars, nor of God's extraordinary Power and Providence manifeſted in them.

2 Only that the generations of the children of Iſrael might know to teach them war b, at the leaſt ſuch as before knew nothing thereof)

b That by the Neighbourhood of ſuch Warlike and Potent Enemies, they might be purged from Sloth and Security, and obliged to inure themſelves to Martial Exerciſes, and to ſtand continually upon their guard, and conſequently to keep cloſe to that God whoſe Aſſiſtance they had ſo great and conſtant need of.

* Joſh. 13. 3.

3 Namely, * five LORDS of the Philiſtines c, and all the Canaanites d and the Zidonians e, and the Hivites that dwelt in Mount Lebanon, from Mount Baal-hermon f, unto the entring in of Hamath.

c Whereof three had been in ſome ſort ſubdued, Judg. 1. 18. But afterwards reſcued themſelves, and recovered their former ſtrength. See on Judg. 1. 18. d Properly ſo called, who were very numerous, and diſperſed through ſeveral parts of the Land, whence they gave denomination to all the reſt of the People. e The people living near Zidon, and ſubject to its juriſdiction. f Which was the Eaſtern part of mount Lebanon: See Deut. 3. 8, 9.

4 And they were to prove Iſrael by them, to know g whether they would hearken unto the commandments of the LORD, which he commanded their fathers by the hand of Moſes.

g i. e. That they and others might know by experience.

5 ¶ And the children of Iſrael dwelt among the Canaanites, Hittites, and Amorites, and Perizzites, and Hivites, and Jebuſites h Were drawn to Idolatry by the perſwaſions and examples of their Yoke-fellows, through the juſt judgment of God, puniſhing their ſinful Marriages by giving them up to Idolatry.

7 And the children of Iſrael did evil in the ſight of the LORD, and forgat the LORD their God, and ſerved Baalim and the groves i.

Or, the Groves are here put Metonymically for the Idols of the Groves, which are diſtinguiſhed here from their Baalim, which ſeem to have been Worſhipped in other places, as the Prophets of Baal are diſtinguiſhed from the Prophets of the Groves, 1 King. 18. 19.

9 And when the children of Iſrael cried l unto the LORD, the LORD raiſed up a † deliverer to the children of Iſrael, even * Othniel the ſon of Kenaz, Calebs younger brother m.

l i. e. Prayed fervently for deliverance. m Of which ſee on Judg. 1. 13.

10 And * the ſpirit of the LORD † came upon him n, and he judged Iſrael o, and went out to war, and the LORD delivered Chuſhan-riſhathaim king of † Meſopotamia into his hand; and his hand prevailed againſt Chuſhan-riſhathaim.

n With extraordinary Influences, indowing him with ſingular wiſdom, and courage, and reſolution; and ſtirring him up to this great undertaking. Compare Judg. 6. 34. and 11. 29. o i. e. Pleaded and avenged the cauſe of Iſrael againſt their oppreſſors; as that Phraſe is oft uſed, as Deut. 32. 36. Pſal. 10. 18. and 43. 1.

11 And the land had reſt forty years p, and Othniel the ſon of Kenaz died.

p Either Firſt, it reſted about Forty Years, or the greateſt part of Forty Years: it being moſt frequent in Scripture to uſe Numbers in ſuch a Latitude. Thus the Iſraelites are ſaid to bear their iniquities forty years in the wilderneſs, Numb. 14. 33. when there wanted near two years of that number; and to dwell in Egypt 430 years, when there wanted many years of that number. Thus Joſeph's kindred ſent for, and called by him into Egypt, are numbred Seventy five Souls, Act. 7. 14. although they were but Seventy, as is affirmed, Gen. 46. 27. Exod. 1. 5. So here the land is ſaid to reſt forty years, although they were in ſervitude Eight of thoſe Years, v. 8. And in like manner the land is ſaid to have reſt eighty years, though Eighteen of them they ſerved the King of Moab, v. 18. And ſo in ſome other inſtances. Nor is it ſtrange and unuſual either in Scripture, or in other Authors, for things to be denominated from the greater part, as here it was; eſpecially, when they did enjoy ſome degrees of reſt and peace even in their times of ſlvaery, which here they did. Or, Secondly, it reſted, i. e. began to reſt, or recovered its interrupted reſt, in the fortieth year, either after Joſhuah's Death, or after that firſt and famous Reſt procured for them by Joſhua, as is noted, Heb. 4. 9. when he deſtroyed and ſubdued the Canaanites, and gave them quiet poſſeſſion of the Land; and the land had reſt from war, as is ſaid, Joſ. 11. 23. and 14. 15. So there is this difference between the years of Servitude and Oppreſſion, and thoſe of Reſt, that in the former he tells us how long it laſted; in the latter, when it began; by which, compared with the other years, it was eaſie alſo to know how long the Reſt laſted. To ſtrengthen this Interpretation, two things muſt be noted: 1. That reſting is here put for beginning to Reſt, as to beget is put for beginning to beget, Gen 5. 32. and 11. 26. and to Reign, for to begin to Reign, 2 Sam. 2. 10. and to build, 1 King. 6. 15. 36. for to begin to build, 2 Chron. 3. 1. 2. That forty years is put for the fortieth year: the Cardinal Number for the Ordinal, which is common both in the holy Scripture, as Gen. 1. 5. and 2. 11. Exod. 12. 2. Hag. 1. 1. Mark 16. 1. and in other Authors.

* 1 Sam. 12. 9.

12 ¶ And the children of Iſrael did evil again in the ſight of the LORD, and the LORD ſtrengthned * Eglon p the King of Moab againſt Iſrael, becauſe they had done evil in the ſight of the LORD.

p By giving him Courage, and Power, and Succeſs againſt them.

13 And he gathered unto him the Children of Ammon, and Amalek, and went and ſmote Iſrael, and poſſeſſed the city of Palm trees q.

q i. e. Jericho, as may be gathered from Deut. 34. 3. Judg. 1. 16. 2 Chron. 28. 15. Not the City which was Demoliſhed, but the Territory belonging to it. Here he fixed his Camp, partly for the admirable Fertility of that Soil; and partly, becauſe of its nearneſs to the paſſage over Jordan, which was moſt commodious both for the conjunction of his own Forces which lay on both ſides of Jordan; and to prevent the conjunction of the Iſraelites in Canaan with their Brethren beyond Jordan; and to ſecure his Retreat into his own Country, which therefore the Iſraelites prevented, v. 28.

14 So the children of Iſrael ſerved Eglon the king of Moab eighteen years.

15 But when the children of Iſrael cried unto the LORD, the LORD raiſed them up a † deliverer, Ehud the ſon of Gera ||, a Benjamite r, a man † left handed s, and by him the children of Iſrael ſent a preſent unto Eglon the king of Moab.

r Heb. the ſon of Jemini, who was of the Tribe of Benjamin, 2 Sam. 16. 11. and 19. 17. 1 King. 2. 8. This Tribe was next to him, and doubtleſs moſt afflicted by him; and hence God raiſeth a Deliverer. s Which is here noted, partly, as a mark of his Courage, and Strength, and Activity: See Judg. 20. 16. and principally, as a conſiderable circumſtance in the following Story, whereby he might more advantagiouſly and unſuſpectedly give the deadly blow.

16 But Ehud made him a dagger (which had two edges) of a cubit length t, and he did gird it under his raiment, upon his right thigh u.

t Long enough for his deſign, and not too long for carriage and concealment. u Which was moſt convenient both for the uſe of his left hand, and for the avoiding of ſuſpicion.

17 And he brought the preſent x unto Eglon king of Moab: and Eglon was a very fat man y.

x Which was to be paid to him as a part of his Tribute. y And therefore more unweildy and unable to ward off Ehud's blow.

18 And when he had made an end to offer the preſent, he ſent away the people that bare the preſent z.

z He accompanied them part of the way, and then diſmiſſed them, and returned to Eglon alone, that ſo he might have more eaſie acceſs to him, and privacy with him; and that he might the better make his eſcape.

|| Or, graven images.

19 But he himſelf turned again a from the || quarries b that were by Gilgal, and ſaid, I have a ſecret errand unto thee, O king: who ſaid, Keep ſilence c. And all that ſtood by him went out from him.

Or, Thirdly, The Idols, as the Word alſo ſignifies, which that Heathen King might place there, either in ſpight and contempt to the Iſraelites who had that place in great Veneration: or, that he might aſcribe his Conqueſt of the Land to his Idols, as the Iſraelites did to the true God, by ſetting up this Monument in the entrance or beginning of it. c Till my Servants be gone: whom he would not have acquainted with a buſineſs which he ſuppoſed to be of great and cloſe importance.

d They had divers Houſes and Chambers, ſome for Winter, others for Summer. See Jer. 36. 22. Amos 3. 15. e Into which he uſed to retire himſelf from company: which is mentioned as the reaſon why his Servants waited ſo long ere they went in to him, v. 25. f To be delivered not in Words, but by Actions: Heb. a Word, or Thing, or Buſineſs. So that there is no need to charge Ehud with a Lye, as ſome do. g This he ſaith to Amuſe him, by raiſing his expectation and wonder, to divert him from any apprehenſion of his Danger, and to oblige him to riſe out of his Seat, which he knew he would do from the common practice of the Heathens in their intercourſes with God. And he deſignedly uſeth the name Elohim, which was common to the true God, and falſe ones; and not Jehovah, which was peculiar to the true God; becauſe Ehud not knowing whether the Meſſage came not from his own falſe god, he would more certainly riſe, and thereby give Ehud more advantage for his blow; whereas he would poſſibly ſhew his Contempt of the God of Iſrael by ſitting ſtill to hear his Meſſage. h In token of humble ſubjection and reverence to God. See Numb. 23. 18. 2 King. 23. 3. which condemns thoſe Chriſtians that behave themſelves irreverently in the Preſence and Service of the true God.

i (i. e.) His Excrements came forth, not at the Wound, which cloſed up, but at the Fundament, as is uſual when Perſons die either a natural or violent Death.

23 Then Ehud went forth k through the porch, and ſhut the doors of the parlour upon him l, and locked them m.

k With a compoſed Countenance and Gate, without any fear; being well aſſured, that God who by his extraordinary Call had put him upon that enterpriſe, would by his ſpecial Providence preſerve him, and carry him through it. l Either upon the King, or upon or after himſelf. m Either by pulling it cloſe after him, as we do when Doors have Spring-locks; or by taking the Key with him for more caution; and this he did, that they ſuppoſing the King to be retired, might wait till he was gone.

24 When he was gone out, his ſervants came, and when they ſaw, that behold the doors of the Parlour were locked, they ſaid, Surely he ‖ covereth his feet n in his Summer-chamber. ‖ Or doth his eaſement.

n This Phraſe is uſed only here, and 1 Sam. 24. 3. It is commonly underſtood in both places, of eaſing Nature; becauſe the Men not then wearing Breeches as we do, but long Coats, they did in that act cover their Feet, as Women do: But a late judicious Interpreter expounds it, of compoſing himſelf to take a little Sleep or Reſt, as was very uſual to do in the day-time in thoſe hot Countreys, 2 Sam. 4. 5. and 11. 12. And when they did ſo in cool places, ſuch as this Summer-parlour unqueſtionably was, they uſed to cover their feet, as appears from Ruth 3. 7. And this may ſeem to be the more probable, both becauſe the Summer-Parlour was more proper for this uſe than for the former; and becauſe this was a more likely reaſon of their long waiting at his Door, leſt they ſhould diſturb his Repoſe. And this ſenſe beſt agrees with Saul's caſe in the Cave, when being aſleep David could more ſecurely cut off the lap of his Garment, 1 Sam. 24. 3. where ſee my Annotations.

25 And they tarried till they were aſhamed o: and behold he opened not the doors of the Parlour, therefore they took a key p, and opened them: and behold, their lord was fallen down dead on the earth.

o Or, confounded, not knowing what to ſay or think; leſt they ſhould either diſturb him, or be guilty of neglect towards him. p Another Key, it being uſual in Princes Courts to have divers keys for the ſame door.

26 And Ehud eſcaped while they tarried: and paſſed beyond the quarries, and eſcaped unto Seirath.

27 And it came to paſs when he was come, that he blew a trumpet in the Mountain of Ephraim; and the children of Iſrael q went down with him from the mount, and he before them.

q Whom doubtleſs he had prepared, and by his Emiſſaries gathered together in conſiderable numbers.

28 And he ſaid unto them, Follow after me, for the LORD hath delivered your enemies the Moabites into your hand. And they went down after him, and took the foords of Jordan r, toward Moab, and ſuffered not a man to paſs over r Where they paſſed over Jordan, that neither the Moabites that were got into Canaan, might eſcape, nor any more Moabites come over Jordan to their ſuccour.

29 And they ſlew of Moab at that time about ten thouſand men, all † luſty, and all men of valour, and there eſcaped not one man. † Heb. fat.

30 So Moab was ſubdued that day under the hand of Iſrael, and the land had reſt fourſcore years ſ.

AND the children of Iſrael again did evil in the ſight of the LORD, when Ehud was dead.

2 And the LORD ſold them into the hand of Jabin king of Canaan a, that reigned in Hazor b, the captain of whoſe hoſt was * Siſera, which dwelt in Haroſheth of the Gentiles c. * 1 Sam. 12. 9.

a i. e. Of the Land where the moſt of the Canaanites, ſtrictly ſo called, now dwelt, which ſeems to be in the Northern part of Canaan. This ſeems to be of the Poſterity of that Jabin, whom Joſhua ſlew, Joſ. 11. 11. who watched all opportunities to recover his ancient Poſſeſſions, and to revenge his own and Fathers Quarrel upon the Iſraelites. b Either 1. In the City of Hazor, which though taken and burnt by Joſhua, Chap. 11. 11. yet might be retaken and rebuilt by the Canaanites: Or 2. In the Territory or Kingdom of Hazor, which might now be reſtored to its former largeneſs and power, Joſ. 11. 10. the names of Cities being oft put for their Territories, as Zorah, a City, Joſh. 15. 33. is put for the Fields belonging to it, Judg. 13. 2. in which Sampſon's Parents lived, Judg. 13. 25. and 16. 31 and 18. 2. c So called, becauſe it was much frequented and inhabited by the Gentiles, either by the Canaanites, who being beaten out of their former Poſſeſſions, ſeated themſelves in thoſe Northern parts; or by other Nations coming there for Traffick, or upon other occaſions, as Strabo notes of thoſe parts; whence Galilee, where this was, is called Galilee of the Gentiles.

3 And the children of Iſrael cried unto the LORD: for he had nine hundred chariots of Iron, and twenty years he mightily oppreſſed d the children of Iſrael.

d More than the former Tyrants; partly from his malice and hatred againſt the Iſraelites; and principally from God's juſt Judgment, the growing puniſhment being moſt ſuitable to their aggravated wickedneſs.

4 ¶ And Deborah † a propheteſs e, the wife of Lapidoth f, ſhe judged Iſrael g at that time. † Heb. a woman, a Propheteſs.

e As there were Men-Prophets, ſo there were alſo Women-Propheteſſes, as Miriam, Exod. 15. 20. Huldah, 2 King. 22. 14. and divers others; but the word Prophets or Propheteſſes is very ambiguous in both Teſtaments; ſometimes being uſed of perſons extraordinarily inſpired by God, and endowed with a power of working Miracles, and foretelling things to come; and ſometimes of Perſons endowed with ſpecial, though not miraculous gifts or graces, for the better underſtanding of, and diſcourſing about the Word and Mind of God, for praiſing of God, or the like; of which ſee 1 Chron. 25. 1. 1 Cor. 11. 5. and 14. 1, 3, 4, &c. And of this ſort were the Sons of the Prophets, or ſuch who were bred in the Schools of the Prophets, who are oft called Prophets, as 1 Sam 10. 5, 10, 11, 12. See alſo 1 King. 18. 4. and 19. 10. And becauſe we read nothing of Deborah's miraculous actions, peradventure ſhe was only a Woman of eminent Holineſs and Prudence, and Knowledge of the holy Scriptures, by which ſhe was ſingularly qualified for the Judging of the People according to the Laws of God. If it be alledged, that ſhe foreſaw and foretold the following Victory; ſo did all the Sons of the Prophets foreſee and foretel Elijah's tranſlation, 2 King. 2. 3, 5. which yet were not extraordinary Prophets. f Or, a Woman of Lapidoth; and ſo Lapidoth is not the name of a man, but of the place of her Birth or Abode. g (i. e.) Determined Cauſes and Controverſies ariſing among the Iſraelites, as is implied, v. 5. And this Jabin might ſuffer to be done, eſpecially by a Woman; and the frequent diſcharge of this part of the Judges Office, whereby ſhe gained great Power and Authority with the People, did notably (though not obſerved by the Tyrant) prepare the way for her ſliding into the other part of her Office, which was to defend and reſcue the people from their Enemies.

5 And ſhe dwelt under the palm-tree of Deborah, between Ramah and Beth-el in mount Ephraim: and the children of Iſrael came up to her for Judgment h.

h To have their Suits and Cauſes determined by her Sentence.

6 And ſhe ſent and called i * Barak the ſon of Abinoam out of Kedeſh Naphtali k, and ſaid unto him, Hath not the LORD God of Iſrael commanded l, ſaying, Go, and draw m toward mount Tabor n, and take with thee ten thouſand men of the children of Naphtali, and of the children of Zebulun o. † Heb. 11. 32.

i By vertue of that power which God had given her, and the people owned in her. k So called, to diſtinguiſh it from other places of that name, one in Judah, Joſ. 15, 23. and another in Iſſachar, 1 Chron. 6. 72. l (i. e.) Aſſuredly God hath commanded thee; this is not the fancy of a weak Woman, which peradventure thou maiſt deſpiſe; but the Command of the great God by my Mouth: Which Command of God, and the following aſſurance of Succeſs, ſhe might either gather from the general rules of Scripture, and the common courſe of God's gracious Providence, which was always ready to ſuccour them when they cryed to God; or receive by inſtinct or direction from God. m Or, go; for ſo this word is oft uſed, as Gen. 37. 28. Judg. 20. 37. Job. 21. 33. Heb. draw, to wit, thy ſelf, or thy feet. n A place moſt fit for his purpoſe, as being in the borders of divers Tribes, and having a large Plain at the top of it, where he might conveniently marſhal and diſcipline his Army. o Theſe ſhe names, partly becauſe they were neareſt and beſt known to Barak, and therefore ſooneſt brought together; partly, becauſe they were neareſt to the Enemy, and therefore muſt ſpeedily be aſſembled, or elſe they were likely to be hindred in their Deſign, whilſt the other Tribes, being at more diſtance, had better opportunity of gathering Forces for their ſuccour; and partly, becauſe theſe had moſt ſmarted under this Oppreſſor, who was in the heart of their Countrey, and therefore were moſt forward in the preſent Service; but theſe are not named excluſively, as appears by the concurrence of ſome other Tribes, as is related, Judg. 5.

7 And I will draw unto thee p to the * river Kiſhon, Siſera the captain of Jabins army, with his chariots, and his multitude, and I will deliver him into thine hand. † Pſal. 83. 9, 10.

p By my ſecret and powerful Providence, ordering and over-ruling his inclinations that way.

8 And Barak ſaid unto her, If thou wilt go with me, then I will go: but if thou wilt not go with me, then I will not go q.

q His offer to go with her, ſhews the truth of his Faith, for which he is praiſed, Heb. 11. 32. but his refuſal to go without her, ſhews the weakneſs of his Faith, that he could not truſt God's bare word, as he ought to have done, without the Pledge of the Preſence of his Propheteſs, whom he thought God would preſerve and deliver, and himſelf for her ſake.

9 And ſhe ſaid, I will ſurely go with thee: notwithſtanding the journey r that thou takeſt ſhall not be for thine honour : for the LORD ſhall ſell Siſera into the hand of a woman ſ. And Deborah aroſe and went with Barak to Kedeſh.

† Heb. the way, (i. e.) the courſe or practice; as, the way is taken, Numb. 22. 32. ſ Either 1. Jael, or rather 2. Deborah, who being, as it were, the Judge and chief Commandreſs of the Army, the Honour of the Victory would be aſcribed to her: But for Jael, her Fact would have been the ſame, though Barak had gone into the Field without Deborah.

10 ¶ And Barak called Zebulun and Naphtali to Kedeſh, and he went up with ten thouſand men at his feet t: and Deborah went up with him.

t (i. e.) Who followed him or his Foot-ſteps; poſſibly he intimates that they were all Foot-men, the Iſraelites neither now having, nor otherwiſe allowed to have a multitude of Horſes; and ſo this is emphatically added, to ſignify by what contemptible means God overthrew Siſera's great Hoſt, wherein there were Ten thouſand Horſe, as Joſephus reports.

11 Now Heber u the Kenite x, which was of the children of Hobab y the father in law of Moſes, had ſevered himſelf from the Kenites z, and pitched his tent a unto the plain of Zaanaim, which is by Kedeſh.

12 And they ſhewed b Siſera that Barak the ſon of Abinoam was gone up to mount Tabor.

b They (i. e.) his people dwelling there, or his Spies; or, he was told, this being an imperſonal Speech.

† Heb gathered by cry or proclamation.

13 And Siſera † gathered together all his chariots, even nine hundred chariots of iron, and all the people that were with him, from Haroſheth of the Gentiles, unto the river of Kiſhon.

14 And Deborah ſaid unto Barak, Up c, for this is the day in which the LORD hath delivered Siſera into thine hand: Is not the LORD gone out before thee d? So Barak went down from mount Tabor e, and ten thouſand men after him.

c Heb. ariſe, delay not, fall to thy work. d To wit, as General of thine Army, to fight for thee; ſee Judg. 5. 20. and 2 Sam. 5. 24. e He doth not make uſe of the advantage which he had of the Hill, where he might have been out of the reach of his Iron Chariots, Joſ. 17. 16. but boldly marcheth down into the Valley, to give Siſera the opportunity of uſing all his Horſes and Chariots, that ſo the Victory might be more glorious and wonderful.

*Pſal. 83. 9, 10.

15 And * the LORD diſcomfited f Siſera and all his chariots, and all his hoſt with the edge of the ſword g, before Barak; ſo that Siſera lighted down off his chariot, and fled away on his feet h.

16 But Barak purſued after the chariots, and after the hoſt unto Haroſheth of the Gentiles, and all the hoſt of Siſera fell upon the edge of the ſword, and there was not † a man left i.

† Heb. unto one.

i To wit, in the Field; for there were ſome who fled away, as Siſera did.

17 Howbeit Siſera fled away on his feet to the tent of Jael k the wife of Heber the Kenite. for there was peace l between Jabin the king of Hazor, and the houſe of Heber the Kenite.

k For Women had their Tents apart from their Husbands, Gen. 24. 67. and 31. 33. And here he thought to lurk more ſecurely than in her Husband's Tent. l Not a League or Covenant of Friendſhip, which they were forbidden to make with that curſed People, but only a Ceſſation of Hoſtilities, which he afforded them becauſe they were a peaceable people, abhorring War, and wholly minding Paſturage, and were not Iſraelites, with whom his principal Quarrel was; and eſpecially by God's over-ruling diſpoſal of his heart to favour them who were careful to keep themſelves uncorrupted with Iſrael's Sins, and therefore are preſerved from their Plagues.

18 ¶ And Jael went out to meet Siſera, and ſaid unto him, Turn in my lord, turn in to me, fear not m. And when he had turned in unto her, into the tent, ſhe covered him with a ‖ mantle.

‖ Or, rug, or blanket.

m This was a promiſe of Security, and therefore ſhe cannot be excuſed from Diſſimulation and Treachery in the manner, though the ſubſtance of her act was lawful and worthy.

*Ch. 5. 25.

19 And he ſaid unto her, Give me, I pray thee, a little water to drink, for I am thirſty. And ſhe opened * a bottle of milk, and gave him drink n, and covered him o.

n Either becauſe ſhe had not water in her Tent, and pretended fear of Diſcovery or ſome inconvenience if ſhe went out to fetch it; or, as a ſignification of greater reſpect; or as a likely mean to caſt him into a Sleep, which ſhe deſired and deſigned; to which end, poſſibly ſhe might mix ſomething with it to cauſe Sleep, which ſhe could not ſo conveniently have done with water. o Upon pretence of hiding him, but really to diſpoſe him to ſleep.

20 Again he ſaid unto her, Stand in the door of the tent, and it ſhall be when any man doth come, and enquire of thee, and ſay, Is there any man here? that thou ſhalt ſay, No.

p He ſpeaks imperiouſly to her; but it is obſervable, that ſhe gives him no promiſe to do ſo, nor makes him any Anſwer; poſſibly becauſe though ſhe knew her deſign upon him was warrantable, yet ſhe had proceeded too far in uſing Diſſimulation therein.

21 Then Jael, Hebers wife, took a nail of the tent q, and † took an hammer in her hand, and went ſoftly unto him, and ſmote the nail into his temples r, and faſtned it into the ground: (for he was faſt aſleep, and weary) ſo he died.

q Wherewith they uſed to faſten the Tent, which conſequently was long and ſharp, being headed with Iron; Theſe Weapons ſhe chuſeth, either, 1. Becauſe ſhe had no better Weapons at hand, this being only the Womans Tent, where Arms uſe not to be kept, and theſe people being wholly given to Peace, and negligent of War; Or Siſera having diſarmed them before this time. Or, 2. Becauſe ſhe had more skill in the handling theſe, than other Weapons, being probably accuſtomed to faſten the Tents herewith. Or, 3. Becauſe this was very proper for his preſent poſture, and which ſhe knew would be effectual. r Which is the ſofteſt part of the Skull, and ſooneſt pierced. This might ſeem a very bold attempt; but it muſt be conſidered, that ſhe was encouraged to it, partly by obſerving that the Heavens and all the Elements conſpired againſt him, as againſt one devoted to Deſtruction; partly, by the fair opportunity which God's Providence put into her hands; and principally, by the ſecret inſtinct of God inciting her to it, and aſſuring her of ſucceſs in it. Qu. What ſhall we judge of this fact of Jaels? It is a difficult queſtion, and neceſſary to be determined, becauſe on the one hand there ſeems to be groſs perfideouſneſs, and an horrid violation of all the Laws of Hoſpitality and Friendſhip, and of the Peace which was eſtabliſhed between Siſera and her; and on the other ſide, this fact of hers is applauded and commended in Deborah's Song, Judg. 5. 24, &c. And ſome who make it their buſineſs to pick quarrels with the Holy Scriptures, from hence take occaſion to queſtion and reject their Divine Authority, for this very paſſage, becauſe it commends an act ſo contrary to all Humanity, and ſo great a breach of Faith: And whereas all the pretence of their Infidelity is taken from the following Song, and not from this Hiſtory, wherein the Fact is barely related, without any reflection upon it; there are many Anſwers given to that Argument, as, 1. That there was no League of Friendſhip between Jael and Siſera, but only a Ceſſation of Acts of Hoſtility; of which ſee the Notes on v. 17. 2. That Deborah doth not commend Jaels words, v. 18. Turn in my Lord, fear not; in which the great ſtrength of this Objection lies; but only her action, and that Artifice, that he asked water, and ſhe gave him milk; which if impartially examined, will be found to differ but little from that of warlike Stratagems, wherein a man lays a Snare for his Enemy, and deceives him with pretences of doing ſomething which he never intends. And Siſera, though for the time he pretended to be a Friend, yet was in truth a bitter and implacable Enemy unto God and all his people, and conſequently to Jael her ſelf. But theſe and other Anſwers may be omitted, and this one conſideration following may abundantly ſuffice to ſtop the mouths of theſe men: It cannot be denied, that every word, or paſſage, or diſcourſe which is recorded in Scripture, is not Divinely inſpired, becauſe ſome of them were uttered by the Devil, and others by Holy Men of God, but miſtaken, (the Prophets themſelves not always ſpeaking by Inſpiration) ſuch as the Diſcourſe of Nathan to David, 2 Sam. 7. 3. which God preſently contradicted, v. 4, 5, &c. and ſeveral Diſcourſes of Job's three Friends, which were ſo far from being Divinely inſpired, that they were in a great degree unſound, as God himſelf tells them, Job 42. 7. Ye have not ſpoken of me the thing that is right, as my Servant Job hath; this being ſo, the worſt that any malicious mind can infer from this place is, That this Song, though indited by a good man or woman, was not Divinely inſpired, but only compoſed by a perſon piouſly minded, and tranſported with Joy for the Deliverance of God's People, but ſubject to miſtake; who therefore, out of zeal to commend the happy Inſtrument of ſo great a Deliverance, might eaſily overlook the indirectneſs of the means by which it was accompliſhed, and commend that which ſhould have been diſliked. And if they further object, that it was compoſed by a Propheteſs, Deborah, and therefore muſt be Divinely inſpired; it may be replied, 1. That it is not certain what kind of Propheteſs Deborah was, whether extraordinary and infallible, or ordinary, and ſo liable to miſtakes; for there were Prophets of both kinds, as hath been proved above on ver. 4. 2. That every expreſſion of a true and extraordinary Prophet was not Divinely Inſpired; as is evident from Nathan's miſtake above-mentioned, and from Samuel's miſtake concerning Eliab, whom he thought to be the Lords Anointed, 1 Sam. 16. 6.

22 And behold, as Barak purſued Siſera, Jael came out to meet him, and ſaid unto him, Come, and I will ſhew thee the man whom thou ſeekeſt. And when he came into her tent, behold Siſera lay dead, and the nail was in his temples.

23 So God ſubdued on that day Jabin the king of Canaan, before the children of Iſrael.

† Heb. going went and was hard.

24 And the hand of the children of Iſrael † proſpered, and prevailed againſt Jabin the king of Canaan, until they had deſtroyed Jabin king of Canaan.

CHAP. V.

Deborah exhorts to Praiſe: ſhe begins: recounts the former Wonders and Mercies of God to his people, 1——5. From the Miſeries of former times glories in their preſent ſtate, 6——9. Excites the Governours, &c. to praiſe the Lord, 10——13. Commends the Chief of the Tribes who went forth willingly to this Battle, and checks the unwilling who tarried at home, 14——18. Deſcribes the Victory in all its Circumſtances, 10——22. Curſeth Meroz for not coming to their aſſiſtance, 23. Extols Jael and her Act, 24——27. Derideth Siſera's Court Ladies, 38——30. Prays for like Judgment on their Enemies, and Proſperity to God's People, 31.

1 THen ſang Deborah a and Barak the ſon of Abinoam on that day, ſaying, a The Compoſer of this Song, as may be gathered from ver. 7.

2 Praiſe ye the LORD b for the avenging of Iſrael c, when the people d willingly offered themſelves e.

b Give him the Praiſe who hath done the Work. c Or, for taking Vengeance, to wit, upon his and their Enemies, by Iſrael, or for Iſrael, for Iſrael's benefit, or for the injuries and violences offered by them to Iſrael. d Chiefly Zebulun and Naphtali, below, verſ. 18. and 4. 6. and others hereafter mentioned. e When neither Deborah nor Barak had any power to compel them.

3 Hear, O ye kings, give ear, O ye princes f: I, even I will ſing unto the LORD, I will ſing praiſe to the LORD God of Iſrael g.

f You eſpecially that live near to Iſrael, and have evil minds and deſigns againſt Iſrael, know this for your inſtruction, and caution, and terrour too, if you ſhall preſume to moleſt them. g Who, as you ſee by this plain Inſtance, is both able and reſolved to defend them from all their Enemies.

* Deut. 33. 2. * Pſ. 68. 8. Iſa. 64. 1. Hab. 3. 10.

4 LORD, * when thou wenteſt out of Seir, when thou marchedſt out of the field of Edom h, * the earth i trembled, and the heavens dropped; the clouds alſo dropped water k.

h Seir and Edom are the ſame place; and theſe two expreſſions note the ſame thing, even God's marching in the head of his People, from Seir or Edom, towards the Land of Canaan: Whileſt the Iſraelites were encompaſſing Mount Seir, there were none of the following effects; but when once they had done that, and got Edom on their backs, then they marched directly forwards towards the Land of Canaan. The Propheteſs being to praiſe God for the preſent Mercy, takes her riſe higher. and begins her Song with the Commemoration of the former and antient Deliverances afforded by God to his people, the rather becauſe of the great reſemblance this had with them, in the extraordinary and miraculous manner of them. i Either, 1. The Inhabitants of the Earth or Land; or 2. The Earth, properly taken, as the following paſſages are; God prepared the way for his People, and ſtruck a dread into their Enemies, by Earthquakes, as well as by other terrible Signs. k (i. e.) Thou didſt ſend moſt dreadful Showers of Rain, Storms and Tempeſts, Thunder and Lightning, and other tokens of thy diſpleaſure upon thine Enemies: as may appear by comparing this with other parallel Texts.

* Pſ. 97. 5. † Heb. Flamed. * Pſ. 68. 8.

5 * The mountains † melted l from before the LORD, even * that Sinai m, from before the LORD God of Iſrael.

l Or, flowed, with Floods of Water poured out of the Clouds upon them, and from them flowing down in a mighty Stream upon the lower grounds, and carrying down ſome part of the Mountain with it, as is uſual in exceſſive Showers. m She ſlides into the mention of another, and a more antient Appearance of God for his People, to wit, in Sinai; it being uſual in Scripture Repetitions of former Actions, to put divers together into a narrow compaſs, and in few Words. The Senſe is, No wonder that the Mountains of the Amorites and Canaanites melted and trembled when thou didſt lead thy People towards them; for even Sinai it ſelf could not bear thy Preſence, but melted in like manner before thee. Or, as that Sinai did upon a like manifeſtation of thy ſelf; ſo there is only a Defect of the Particle as, which I have ſhewed to be frequent.

Then their ſtrongeſt Holds fell into the hands of their Enemies. x (i. e.) There was not; the meaning is not, that all the Iſraelites had no Arms, for here is mention made only of Shields or Spears, ſo they might have Swords, and Bows and Arrows, to offend their enemies; but, either that they had but few Arms among them, being many Thouſands of them diſarmed by the Canaanites; or that they generally neglected the uſe of Arms, as being utterly diſ-ſpirited, and without all hope of recovering their loſt Liberty, and being neceſſitated to other employments for Subſiſtence.

9 My heart is toward the governours of Iſrael y that offered themſelves willingly among the people: Bleſs ye the LORD z.

y I greatly honour and love thoſe, who being the chief of the people in Wealth and Dignity, did not withdraw themſelves from the Work, as ſuch uſually do; but did expoſe themſelves to the ſame hazards, and joyned with their meaner Brethren in this noble but dangerous Attempt; and by their Examples and Countenance engaged others in it. z Who inclined their Hearts to this Undertaking, and gave them Succeſs in it. As ſhe gives Inſtruments their due, ſo ſhe is careful the Sovereign Cauſe, and Lord of all, loſe not his Glory.

† Heb. righteouſneſs of the LORD.

d Either 1. From the noiſe or ſound, and conſequently the force of thoſe Arrows which are ſhot at them; but ſhe names the noiſe, becauſe this Epithete is frequently given to Bows and Arrows in Poetical Writings: Or, 2. From the Triumphant Noiſe and Shout of Archers, rejoycing when they meet with their Prey. e At thoſe Pits or Springs of Water, which were ſcarce and precious in thoſe hot Countreys, to which the Peoples Neceſſities forced them oft to reſort, and nigh unto which the Archers did uſually lurk in Woods or, Thickets, or Hedges, that from thence they might ſhoot at them, and kill and ſpoil them. f When they come to thoſe places with freedom and ſafety, which before they could not, they ſhall with thankfulneſs rehearſe this Righteous, and Faithful, and Gracious Work of God, in reſcuing his People, and puniſhing his Enemies. g Whom he mentions, becauſe as their Danger was greater. v. 7. ſo was their Deliverance, and their Obligation to praiſe God. h To wit, of their Cities, which were the chief places to which both City and Countrey reſorted for publick Buſineſs and matters of Juſtice, from which they had been debarred by their Oppreſſors; but now they had free acceſs and paſſage, either in or out of the Gates, as their occaſions required; and they who had been driven from their Cities, now returned to them in Peace and Triumph; ſo the Citizens Deliverance is celebrated here, as the Countrey-mens is in the foregoing words.

12 Awake, awake i Deborah: awake, awake, utter a ſong: ariſe Barak, and lead thy captivity captive k, thou ſon of Abinoam.

13 Then he made him that remaineth have dominion over the nobles among the people l: the LORD made me m have Dominion over the mighty.

l Thus God did not only preſerve the poor and deſpiſed Remnant of his People, from the Fury of the Oppreſſor before this War, and from the Deſtruction which Siſera deſigned and promiſed himſelf to bring upon them by this War; but alſo gave them the Victory, and thereby the Dominion over the Princes and Nobles of Canaan, who were combined againſt them. m Though but a weak Woman.

x (i.e.) Ready to aſſiſt her. y Heb. And Iſſachar, (i. e.) the Tribe or People of Iſſachar, following the Counſel and Example of their Princes, and being now at their Commandments, as they were afterwards upon another Occaſion, 1 Chron. 12. 32. z Or, even as Barak, i. e. They were as hearty and valiant as Barak their General; and as he Marched on foot here and Judg. 4. 10. againſt their Enemies Horſes and Chariots, and that into the valley, where the main uſe of Horſes and Chariots lies; ſo did they with no leſs Courage and Reſolution. a Or, Separations, whereby they were divided or ſeparated, not ſo much one from another in their Thoughts, Counſels, and Carriage in this War, (for they ſeem to be all too well agreed in abiding at home with their Sheep, as it follows) as all from their Brethren, from whom they were divided no leſs in their Deſigns and Affections, than in their Situation by the River Jordan: and they would not joyn their Intereſts and Forces with them in this common Cauſe. b Or, great ſearchings, as it is v. 16. Great and ſad Thoughſs, and Debates, and Perplexities of Mind among the Iſraelites, to ſee themſelves deſerted by ſo great and potent a Tribe as Reuben was.

16 Why abodeſt thou among the ſheep folds, to hear the bleatings of the Flocks c? || for the diviſions of Reuben there were great ſearchings of heart.

c Why waſt thou ſo unworthy and cowardly, ſo void of all Zeal for God, and Compaſſion towards thy Brethren, and Care for the Recovery of thy own Liberties and Privileges, that thou wouldeſt not engage thy ſelf in ſo juſt, ſo neceſſary, and ſo noble a Cauſe, but didſt prefer the care of thy Sheep, and thy own preſent Eaſe and Safety, before this generous Undertaking? Reuben thought Neutrality their wiſeſt courſe; being very rich in Cattel, Numb 32. 1. They were loth to run the hazard of ſo great a Loſs, by taking up Arms againſt ſo potent an Enemy as Jabin was: and the bleatings of their Sheep were ſo loud in their ears, that they could not hear the Call of Deborah and Barak to this Expedition.

17 Gilead d abode beyond Jordan e: and why did Dan remain in ſhips f? Aſher continued on the ſea-|| ſhore g, and abode in his || breaches h.

d Gilead is ſometimes taken more largely, for all the Land of the Iſraelites beyond Jordan, as Numb. 32. 1, 26, 29. So it is not here taken, becauſe Gilead is here diſtinguiſhed from Reuben and his Land: ſometimes it is taken more ſtrictly for that part of the Land beyond Jordan which fell to the half-tribe of Manaſſeh, as Numb 32. 39, 40. Deut. 3. 15. Joſ. 17. 1. And ſometimes both for that part of Manaſſeh's, and for Gad's Portion, as Joſ. 13. 24, 25, 29, 30, 31. And ſo it ſeems to be underſtood here; and the Land Gilead is here put for the People or Inhabitants of it, Gad and Manaſſeh. e In their own Portions, and did not come over Jordan to the help of the Lord, and of his People, as they ought to have done. f Dan, whoſe Coaſt was near the Sea, was wholly intent upon his Merchandiſe, and Shipping, as the great Inſtrument both of his Riches and Safety; and therefore would not joyn in this Land-Expedition. g Where their Lot lay. h Either, Firſt, in the creeks of the Sea, whether in deſign to ſave themſelves by Ships in caſe of danger, as Dan alſo intended; or upon pretence of repairing the Breaches made by the Sea into their Country. †Heb. exposed to reproach.

18 * Zebulun and Naphtali were a people that † jeoparded i their lives unto the death, in the high places of the field k.

i Heb. deſpiſed, or reproached, or contemned, comparatively; they choſe rather to venture upon a generous and honourable Death, than to enjoy a ſhameful and ſervile Life. k i. e. Upon that large and eminent Plain in the top of Mount Tabor, where they put themſelves in Battel Array, and expected the Enemy; though when they ſaw he did not come up to them, they marched down to meet and fight him.

19 The kings l came and fought: then fought the kings of Canaan in Taanach, by the waters of Megiddo l: they took no gain of mony m.

l Either confederate with him, or ſubject to him: for it is known, That there were divers petty Kings in thoſe parts; which alſo ofttimes were ſubject to one greater and more potent king; and particularly, this Hazor, where this Jabin now Reigned, Judg. 4. 2. was beforetime the head of divers petty Kingdoms, Joſ. 11. 10. l Tanach and Megiddo were two eminent Cities, belonging indeed to Manaſſeh, Judg. 1. 27. but ſeated in the Tribe of Iſſachar, Joſ. 17. 11, not far from Mount Tabor, Joſ. 17. 10. Judg. 1. 27. nor from the River Kiſhon. m Either, Firſt, from Siſera. They fought without Pay, whether from meer hatred of the Iſraelites, and a deſire to be revenged upon them: or from a full hope and confidence of Paying themſelves abundantly out of Iſrael's Spoils. Or, Secondly, From the Iſraelites; ſo the ſenſe is, They fell, loſt all their hopes of Money, and rich Spoils and Booty, which they aſſured themſelves of; inſtead of gaining a Prey, they loſt Themſelves.

n Or, they from heaven, or the heavenly Hoſt fought, by Thunder, and Lightning, and Hail-ſtones, poſſibly mingled with Fire. Compare Joſ. 10. 11. and 1 Sam. 7. 10. o Which raiſed theſe Storms by their Influences, which they do naturally and ordinarily, but now far more, when God ſharpened their Influences, and diſpoſed the Air to receive and improve their impreſſions. p Or, from their paths, or ſtations, or high-places. As Soldiers fight in their Ranks and places aſſigned them, ſo did theſe, and that with advantage, as thoſe Enemies do, which fight from the higher ground.

21 The River of Kiſhon q ſwept them away; that ancient river q the river Kiſhon. O my ſoul, thou haſt trodden down ſtrength r.

q Which, though not great in it ſelf, and therefore fordable, was now much ſwelled and encreaſed by the foregoing Storm and Rain, as Joſephus affirms; and therefore drowned thoſe who being purſued by the hand of God, and by the Iſraelites, were forced into it, and thought to paſs over it, as they did before. q So called, either, Firſt, in oppoſition to thoſe Rivers which are of a later Date, being made by the hand and Art of Man. Or, Secondly, Becauſe it was a River antiently famous for ſome remarkable Exploits, for which it was celebrated by the antient Poets or Writers, though not here mentioned. r (i. e.) Thou, O Deborah, though but a weak Woman, haſt by God's Aſſiſtance and Bleſſing upon thy Counſels and Prayers, ſubdued a potent Enemy. Such Apoſtrophes and abrupt Speeches are frequent in Poetical Scriptures.

|| Or, tramplings, or plungings.

22 Then were the horſe hooofs broken ſ by the means of the || pranſings t, the pranſings of their mighty ones u.

ſ Their Horſes, in which they put moſt confidence, had their Hoofs, which is their ſupport and ſtrength, broken, either by dreadful Hail-ſtones, or rather, by their ſwift and violent running over the ſtony grounds, when they fled away with all poſſible ſpeed from God and from Iſrael. t Or, becauſe of their fierce or ſwift courſes. u Either, Firſt, of their ſtrong and valiant Riders, who forced their Horſes to run away as faſt as they could. Or, Secondly, Of their Horſes. as this word ſignifies, Jer. 8. 16. and 47. 3. and 50. 42. (i. e.) of themſelves: the Antecedent for the Relative.

23 Curſe ye Meroz x, (ſaid the angel of the LORD y) curſe ye bitterly the inhabitants thereof: becauſe they came not to the help of the LORD z, to the help of the LORD againſt the mighty.

x A place then, no doubt, eminent and conſiderable, though now there be no remembrance of it left, which poſſibly might be the effect of this bitter Curſe; as God curſeth Amalek in this manner, that he would utterly blot out their remembrance, &c. Exod. 17. 14. Deut. 25. 19. And this place above all others may be thus ſeverely curſed; either becauſe it was near the place of the Fight, and therefore had the greateſt opportunity and obligation to engage with, and to aſſiſt their Brethren; and their denying their help, was a great diſcouragement to all their Brethren, whoſe hearts, no doubt, were greatly afflicted, and might have utterly fainted at this great Miſcarriage, and ſcandalous Example; or for ſome other great Aggravation of their Cowardiſe and Treachery, which may eaſily be imagined, though it be not here expreſſed. y She ſignifies, that this Curſe proceeded not from her ſpleen or ill will towards that place, nor from her own private opinion or affection, but from Divine inſpiration; and that if all the reſt of the Song ſhould be taken but for the Breathings and Expreſſions of a pious and devout Soul, but liable to miſtake, yet this Branch of it was immediately dictated to her by the Lord, by the Miniſtry of an Angel: otherwiſe ſhe neither would nor durſt have uttered ſo bitter a Curſe againſt them. z Either, Firſt, Of the Lord's People: for God takes what is done for, or againſt his People, as if it was done to himſelf, See Iſa. 63. 9. Zech. 2. 8. Matth. 25. 45. Or, Secondly, Of the Lord himſelf, who though he did not need, yet did require and expect their help and concurrence: and he expreſſeth it thus, to ſhew the ſinfulneſs and unreaſonableneſs of their cowardly deſertion of this Cauſe, becauſe it was the Cauſe of God, and they had the Call of God to it, whom they knew to be able eaſily to cruſh that Enemy whom they dreaded, and who had promiſed to do it.

CHAP. VI.

The Midianites oppreſs Iſrael, 1,—6. A Prophet raiſed rebukes them, 7,—10. An Angel calls Gideon to Iſrael's deliverance, 11,—16. Confirms him by a miracle, 17,—21. He builds an altar: calls it Jehova Shalom; and offereth there. By God's command he breaks down the Altar of Baal: His name Jerub-baal, 22,—32. The Midianites gather together to fight: And Gideon prepares againſt them: God ſtrengthens and confirms him by a miracle, 33,—40.

* Hab. 3. 7.

AND the children of Iſrael did evil in the ſight of the LORD: and the LORD delivered them into the hand * of Midian a ſeven years.

a For although the generality of the Midianites had been cut off by Moſes about 200 years ago, yet many of them doubtleſs fled into the neighbouring Countries, whence afterwards they returned into their own Land, and in that time might eaſily grow to be a very great Number; eſpecially, when God furthered their increaſe, that they might be a fit ſcourge for his People Iſrael when they tranſgreſſed.

† Heb. was ſtrong.

2 And the hand of Midian † prevailed againſt Iſrael, and becauſe of the Midianites the children of Iſrael made them the dens which are in the mountains, and caves b, and ſtrong holds.

b In which they might ſecure their Perſons and Proviſions from the hands of the Midianites.

3 And ſo it was when Iſrael had ſown, that the Midianites came up, and the Amalekites, and the children of the eaſt c, even they came up againſt them.

c. i. e. The Arabians, who are commonly called the children of the eaſt, as Gen. 29. 1. Judg. 8. 10, 11. Job 1. 3. Ezek. 25. 4. Not all the Arabians, for in that were many, and divers People; but in the Eaſtern part of Arabia

|| Or, goats

4 And they encamped againſt them, and deſtroyed the increaſe of the earth, till thou come unto Gaza d, and left no ſuſtenance for Iſrael, neither || ſheep, nor ox, nor aſs.

d i. e. From the Eaſt, on which ſide they entred, to the Weſt, where Gaza was near the Sea: ſo they deſtroyed the whole Land.

5 For they came up with their cattel, and their tents, and they came as graſhoppers for multitude; for both they and their camels were without number e: and they entred into the land to deſtroy it.

e i. e. So many that it was not eaſie to number them. It is an Hyperbole.

6 And Iſrael was greatly impoveriſhed becauſe of the Midianites, and the children of Iſrael cried unto the LORD.

7 ¶ And it came to paſs when the children of Iſrael cried unto the LORD, becauſe of the Midianites,

8 That the LORD ſent † a prophet unto the children of Iſrael, which ſaid unto them, Thus ſaith the LORD God of Iſrael, I brought you up from Egypt, and brought you forth from the houſe of bondage:

9 And I delivered you out of the hand of the Egyptians, and out of the hand of all that oppreſſed you, and drave them out from before you, and gave you their land:

f i. e. Do not ſerve or worſhip them.

* Heb. 11. 32. called Gideon.
† Heb. to cauſe it to flee.

11 ¶ And there came an angel of the LORD, and ſate under an oak which was in Ophrah g, that pertained unto Joaſh the Abi-ezrite h: and his ſon * Gideon threſhed wheat i by the winepreſs k, † to hide it from the Midianites.

g To wit, in Manaſſeh: for there was another Ophrah in Benjamin, Joſ. 18. 23. h Of the Poſterity of Abiezer, of whom, ſee Joſ. 17. 2. 1 Chron. 7. 18. 12 And the angel of the LORD appeared unto him, and ſaid unto him, The LORD is with thee l, thou mighty man of valour m.

l i. e. Will aſſiſt thee againſt thine and mine Enemies. m To whom I have given Strength and Courage for this end.

13 And Gideon ſaid unto him, Oh my lord, if the LORD be with us, why then is all this befaln us? and where be all his miracles which our fathers told us of, ſaying, Did not the LORD bring us up from Egypt? but now the LORD hath forſaken us, and delivered us into the hand of the Midianites.

* 1 Sam. 12. 11. Heb. 11. 32.

14 And the LORD looked upon him n, and ſaid, * Go in this thy might o: and thou ſhalt ſave Iſrael from the hand of the Midianites: have not I ſent thee p?

n With a ſetled and pleaſant Countenance, as a teſtimony of his favour to him, and of his readineſs to help him. o Or, go now, or at this time in thy might: the ſtrength which thou haſt already received, and doſt now further receive from me, is ſufficient with my help. p I do hereby give thee Command and Commiſſion for this Work, and therefore am obliged in Honour to aſſiſt thee in it.

† Heb. my thouſand is the meaneſt.

15 And he ſaid unto him, Oh my lord, wherewith ſhall I ſave Iſrael? behold † my family q is poor r in Manaſſeh, and I am the leaſt s in my fathers houſe.

q Heb. my thouſand: for the Tribes were diſtributed into ſeveral thouſands, whereof each thouſand had his peculiar Governour. r i. e. Weak and contemptible. s Either for Age, or for Wiſdom, and fitneſs for ſo great a Work.

16 And the LORD ſaid unto him, Surely I will be with thee, and thou ſhalt ſmite the Midianites as one man t.

t As eaſily, as if they were all but one Man; or, thou ſhalt deſtroy them to a Man, as he did, Judges 8.

17 And he ſaid unto him, If now I have found grace in thy ſight, then ſhew me a ſign, that thou talkeſt with me u.

u That it is thou, to wit, an Angel or Meſſenger ſent from God, that appears to me, and diſcourſeth with me; and not a Phancy or Deluſion; that thou art in truth what thou ſeemeſt and pretendeſt to be, v. 12. Or, a ſign of that which thou talkeſt with me; i. e. That thou wilt'ſt by me ſmite the Midianites.

|| Or, meat-offering.

18 Depart not hence, I pray thee, until I come unto thee, and bring forth my || preſent x, and ſet it before thee y. And he ſaid, I will tarry until thou come again.

x Not a Sacrifice, becauſe neither was Gideon a Prieſt, nor was this the place of Sacrifice, nor was any Altar here, nor was there any ſuch Sacrifice as here follows, appointed by God; but a repaſt, or ſome food for the Angel, which he thought to be a man, as appears by v. 22. Compare Judg. 13. 15. and Gen. 18. 5. y That thou maiſt eat and refreſh thy ſelf.

† Heb a kid of the goats.

19 ¶ And Gideon went in, and made ready † a kid, and unleavened cakes of an Ephah of flour z: the fleſh he put in a basket, and he put the broth in a pot, and brought it out unto him under the oak, and preſented it.

z To wit, out of the choiceſt part of a whole Ephah; as alſo he brought to him the beſt part of a Kid dreſſed; for a whole Ephah, and a whole Kid had been very ſuperfluous, and improper to provide for, and ſet before one Man.

20 And the angel of God ſaid unto him, Take the fleſh, and the unleavened cakes, and lay them upon this rock, and pour out the broth. And he did ſo.

* Levit. 9. 24.

21 ¶ Then the angel of the LORD put forth the end of the ſtaff that was in his hand, and touched the fleſh, and the unleavened cakes, and * there roſe up fire out of the rock, and conſumed the fleſh, and the unleavened cakes a; then the angel of the LORD departed out of his ſight.

a By which, he ſhewed himſelf to be no Man that needed ſuch Proviſions, but a true Angel of God, or the Son of God; and by this inſtance of his Omnipotency, gave him aſſurance, that he both could, and would conſume the Midianites.

* Exod. 33. 2. Chap. 13. 22.

22 And when Gideon perceived that he was an angel of the LORD, Gideon ſaid, Alas b, O LORD God: * for becauſe c I have ſeen an angel of the LORD face to face.

b I am an undone Man; I muſt die, and that ſpeedily; for that he feared, v. 23. according to the common opinion in that caſe; of which ſee Gen. 16. 13. and 32. 30. Exod. 33. 20. Deut. 5. 25, 26. c Or, for therefore, &c. i. e. Therefore God hath ſhewed me this ſight as a preſage of my death.

23 And the LORD ſaid unto him d, Peace be unto thee e; fear not, thou ſhalt not die.

d By inward ſuggeſtion, rather than in a viſible Apparition. e Thou ſhalt receive no hurt by this Viſion, as thou feareſt; but only peace, i. e. all the bleſſings needful for thy own happineſs, and for the preſent work; for this is a very comprehenſive Phraſe among the Hebrews.

‖ That is, the Lord ſend peace.

24 Then Gideon built an altar there f unto the LORD, and called it ‖ Jehovah-ſhalom g: unto this day it is yet in Ophrah of the Abi-ezrites.

f To wit, on the top of the Rock, as is evident from v. 20. and eſpecially from v. 26. where that which is here expreſſed only in general, and by anticipation, is more particularly deſcribed, according to the uſage of the Scripture. g i. e. The Lords peace; the ſign or witneſs of God's ſpeaking Peace to me, and to his People: or the place where he ſpake Peace to me, when I expected nothing but Deſtruction.

‖ Or, and.

* Exod. 34. 13. Deut. 7. 5.

25 ¶ And it came to paſs the ſame night, that the LORD ſaid unto him, Take thy fathers young bullock, ‖ even the ſecond bullock h, of ſeven years old, and throw down the altar of Baal that thy father hath i, and * cut down the grove that is by it k:

h Thus there was but one Bullock, which was young, to wit, comparatively, but not ſimply, for it was ſeven years old; and of ſuch this Hebrew word is uſed, Job 21. 10. For theſe Creatures are fruitful above ſeven years. Or thus, thy Fathers young Bullock, and the ſecond Bullock: ſo there were two Bullocks. But becauſe there is but one of them mentioned both in the next verſe, and in the execution of this Command, v, 28. it is probable it was but one; and the Hebrew Particle, vau, and, is put exegetically for even, or, to wit, as is very uſual. And this he calls his Fathers young Bullock, both becauſe his Father was the owner of it, and becauſe his Father kept and fed it for a Sacrifice to Baal. But becauſe it is likely his Father kept divers of theſe Cattel of differing Ages and Statures for that uſe, either at his own, or at the Peoples charge; therefore he adds by way of limitation, that he ſhould not take the eldeſt and the greateſt, but the ſecond; to wit, in Age, or Stature, or Goodlineſs, or in the order of Sacrifice, that which was to have been ſacrificed to Baal in the ſecond place. And this he ſingled out becauſe of its age; for being ſeven years old, it began with the Midianitiſh Calamity, and being now to be ſacrificed, did fitly ſignifie, that the Period of that Miſery was now come. i Which thy Father built in his own Ground, though for the common uſe of the whole City, v. 28, 29, 30. k Planted by the Altar for Idolatrous or impure Uſes, as the manner of Idolaters was. See Judg. 3. 7. This Action might ſeem injurious to his Fathers Rights and Authority; but God's Command was ſufficient warrant, and Gideon was now called to be the Supreme Magiſtrate, whereby he was made his Father's Superiour, and was impowered, and authorized, and enjoyned to root out all Idolatry and Superſtition, and the Inſtruments thereof.

† Heb. ſtrong place.
‖ Or, in an orderly manner.

26 And build an altar unto the LORD thy God, upon the top of this † rock l, ‖ in the ordered place m, and take the ſecond bullock, and offer a burnt-ſacrifice n with the wood of the grove which thou ſhalt cut down.

l Of which v 20, 21. Heb. of this ſtrong hold: for in that Calamitous time the Iſraelites retreated to ſuch Rocks, and hid and fortified themſelves in them. m i. e. In a plain and ſmooth part of the Rock, where an Altar may be conveniently built. Or, in order, i. e. in ſuch manner as I have appointed; for God had given Rules about the building of Altars. n Gideon was no Prieſt, nor was this the appointed place of Sacrifice; but God can diſpenſe with his own Inſtitutions, though we may not; and his Call gave Gideon ſufficient Authority.

27 Then Gideon took ten men of his ſervants o, and did as the LORD had ſaid unto him: and ſo it was, becauſe he feared p his fathers houſhold, and the men of the city, that he could not do it by day, that he did it by night.

o Whom doubtleſs he had acquainted with his deſign, and the aſſurance of ſucceſs in it, whereby they were eaſily induced to aſſiſt him, if not ſincerely, yet for the expectation of advantage to themſelves by it. p Not ſo much, leſt he ſhould ſuffer for it, for he knew very well the doing it by night with ſo many hands could not hinder the diſcovery, and conſequently the puniſhment of it; but leſt he ſhould be prevented from doing it.

28 ¶ And when the men of the city aroſe early in the morning, behold, the altar of Baal was caſt down, and the grove was cut down that was by it, and the ſecond bullock was offered upon the altar that was built q.

q Not upon Baal's Altar, for which it was deſigned; but upon an Altar erected in contempt of Baal.

29 And they ſaid one to another, Who hath done this thing? And when they enquired, and asked, they ſaid, Gideon the ſon of Joaſh hath done this thing r.

30 Then the men of the city ſaid unto Joaſh, Bring out thy ſon, that he may die: becauſe he hath caſt down the altar of Baal, and becauſe he hath cut down the grove that was by it.

r Which they might eaſily conjecture, partly by his known averſion from the worſhip of Baal, and partly becauſe no other Perſon durſt preſume to do ſuch a thing; but they might more certainly learn it from ſome of the Perſons imployed in it, who through fear or favour might inform them.

31 And Joaſh ſaid unto all that ſtood againſt him, Will ye plead for Baal s? will ye ſave him? he that will plead for him, let him be put to death t, whileſt it is yet morning u: if he be a god, let him plead for himſelf x, becauſe one hath caſt down his altar.

s Why are you ſo zealous in pleading for that Baal, for the worſhip whereof you ſuffer ſuch grievous Calamities at this day, and from whom you have no help? It is plain, that Joaſh had been a worſhipper of Baal: either therefore he was now convinced by Gideon's Information and Action, or he makes uſe of this Pretence to preſerve his Son, being indeed indifferent in matters of Religion; and therefore as he did worſhip Baal to comply with his Neighbours, ſo now he deſerts him, to reſcue his Son. t He that ſhall further plead for ſuch a god as this, deſerves to die for his folly and impiety. It is not probable, that this was all which he ſaid for his Son's defence; or that he would neglect to mention the Call his Son had from God to it, the Apparition of an Angel, the Promiſe of Deliverance: but it is uſual in Scripture to give only ſome ſhort hints of thoſe Things which were more largely diſcourſed. u i. e. Inſtantly, without delay; for it was now Morning-time, as appears from v. 28, &c. x As the God of Iſrael hath often done when any Indignity or Injury hath been done to him. But Baal hath now ſhewed, that he is neither able to help you, nor himſelf; and therefore is not worthy to be ſerved any longer. This couragious and reſolute Anſwer was neceſſary to ſtop the torrent of the Peoples Fury; and it was drawn from him, partly by the Senſe of his Son's extreme Danger; and partly by the Confidence he had, that God would plead his Son's Cauſe, and uſe him for the Reſcue of his People.

32 Therefore on that day he called him y Jerub-baal, ſaying, Let Baal plead againſt him, becauſe he hath thrown down his altar.

y i. e. Joaſh called Gideon ſo, Judg. 7. 1. in remembrance of this noble Exploit, and to put a brand upon Baal.

33 ¶ Then all the Midianites, and the Amalekites, and the children of the eaſt were gathered together and went over, and pitched in the valley of Jezreel z.

z Not that Jezreel in Judah, of which Joſ. 15. 56. but another in the Borders of Manaſſeh and Iſſachar, Joſ. 17. 16. and 19. 18. which was not far diſtant from Ophrah, where Gideon dwelt, and now was.

34 But the ſpirit of the LORD † came upon Gideon a, and he * blew a trumpet, and Abiezer b † was gathered after him.

† Heb. clothed.
* Numb. 10. 3. Chap. 3. 27.
† Heb. was called after him.

a Inſpiring him with extraordinary Wiſdom, and Courage, and Zeal to vindicate God's Honour, and his Country's Liberty. Compare 1 Chron. 12. 18. and 24. 20. b i. e. The Abiezrites, his Kindred, and their Servants, and others; who finding no harm coming to him for the deſtroying of Baal, but rather a bleſſing from God, in giving him Strength and Courage for ſo great and dangerous an Attempt, changed their Minds, and followed him as the Perſon by whoſe hands God would deliver them.

35 And he ſent Meſſengers throughout all Manaſſeh c, who alſo was gathered after him; and he ſent Meſſengers unto Aſher, and unto Zebulun, and unto Naphtali d, and they came up to meet them.

c On both ſides of Jordan. d Becauſe theſe Tribes were neareſt to him, and ſo could ſooneſt joyn with him; and were neareſt the Enemy alſo, v. 33. and therefore were moſt ſenſible of the Calamity, mity, and would in all reaſon be moſt forward to reſcue themſelves from it.

36 ¶ And Gideon ſaid unto God e, If thou wilt ſave Iſrael by mine hand, as thou haſt ſaid, e In way of humble Supplication, partly for the ſtrengthning of his own Faith, and partly for the greater encouragement of his Souldiers in this great and ſtrange Attempt.

37 Behold, I will put a fleece of wool in the floor: and if the dew be on the fleece only, and it be dry upon all the earth beſide f; then ſhall I know that thou wilt ſave Iſrael by mine hand, as thou haſt ſaid.

f i. e. Upon all that ſpot of ground which adjoyneth to, and encompaſſeth the Fleece.

38. And it was ſo: for he roſe up early on the morrow, and thruſt the fleece together, and wringed the dew out of the fleece, a bowl full of Water.

*Gen. 18. 32. 39. And Gideon ſaid unto God, * Let not thine anger be hot againſt me, and I will ſpeak but this once: Let me prove, I pray thee, but this once with the fleece. Let it now be dry only upon the fleece, and upon all the ground let there be dew g.

g Which was more difficult and preternatural than the former inſtance, becauſe if there be any moiſture, ſuch bodies as fleeces of Wool are moſt likely to drink it up.

40. And God did ſo that night: for it was dry upon the fleece only, and there was dew on all the ground.

CHAP. VII.

Gideon with two and thirty thouſand Men encamps againſt the Midianites: they, by God's Command and Token are leſſened to 300. 1---8. He is encouraged by a Dream, and its Interpretation, 9——15. divideth his Army into 3 Companies: who all with one accord blow the Trumpets: and break the Pitchers, wherein the Lamps were, in pieces, 16 ——20. The Midianites are terrified, fly and deſtroy one another, 21, 22. The next adjoyning Iſraelites purſue them to ſtop their Paſſage over Jordan Two Princes of the Midianites are taken by the Ephraimites, 23---25.

THen Jerubbaal (who is Gideon) and all the People that were with him, roſe up early, and pitched beſide the well of Harod: ſo that the hoſt of the Midianites were on the north-ſide of them, by the hill of Moreh, in the valley.

2 And the LORD ſaid unto Gideon, The people that are with thee are too many for me b to give the Midianites into their hand, leſt Iſrael vaunt themſelves againſt me, ſaying, Mine own hand hath ſaved me.

b i. e. For my purpoſe; which is, ſo to deliver Iſrael, that it may appear to be my own miraculous act, that ſo I may have all the Glory of it, and they may be more ſtrongly obliged to love and ſerve me.

*Deut. 20. 8. 3 Now therefore go to, proclaim in the ears of the People, ſaying, * Whoſoever is fearful and afraid, let him return and depart early from mount Gilead c: and there returned of the People twenty and two thouſand d, and there remained ten thouſand.

c Not that famous Mount Gilead which was beyond Jordan; for it is apparent that both the Camps of the Iſraelites and of the Midianites were on this ſide Jordan: but another Mount Gilead in the Tribe of Manaſſeh; which might be ſo called, either for ſome reſemblance it had with the other Mount Gilead, or in remembrance of their Father Gilead; or, that this might be a memorial of their near relation to their Brethren, notwithſtanding their being divided one from another by Jordan; or, for ſome other reaſon now unknown at this diſtance of Time and Place. Or, the words may be rendred towards Mount Gilead; for the Hebrew Particle min, or mem, is ſometimes rendred towards, of which ſee Gen. 11. 2. and 13. 11. Deut. 32. 2. 2 Sam 6. 2. And ſo it may be underſtood of the famous Mount Gilead, beyond Jordan, which he may mention here, either, 1. Becauſe many of his Soldiers were of that half Tribe of Manaſſeh which dwelt there, and ſo it was moſt proper for them to return thither; Or, 2. Becauſe that was their ſafeſt courſe, to get furtheſt from the danger which they feared; Or, 3. Becauſe though he would remove them from danger, yet he would not have them diſperſed, but kept together in a Body about Mount Gilead; knowing that they who had not Courage enough to fight their Enemies, might have Valour enough to purſue them, when they were beaten by others; and ſuſpecting, That the Midianites, if beaten, would probably flee that way. d Who finding their whole Army to be very ſmall, in compariſon of their Enemies, who were a Hundred Thirty Five Thouſand, Judg. 8. 10. and they, no doubt well Armed and Diſciplined, and encouraged by long Succeſs; whereas the Iſraelites were diſ-ſpirited with long Servitude, and many of them unfurniſhed with Arms and Proviſions; loſt the Courage which in the beginning they ſeemed to have.

4 And the LORD ſaid unto Gideon, The People are yet too many: bring them down unto the water e, and I will try them for thee f there, and it ſhall be, that of whom I ſay unto thee, This ſhall go with thee, the ſame ſhall go with thee: and of whomſoever I ſay unto thee, This ſhall not go with thee, the ſame ſhall not go up.

e Either that which ran from the Well of Harod, mentioned v. 1. or ſome other Brook. f Becauſe thy Proclamation hath not ſufficiently tried them; for many who are fearful indeed, will put on the face, and deſire the opinion of being Valiant Perſons; I will take another courſe.

5 So he brought down the people unto the water: and the LORD ſaid unto Gideon, Every one that lappeth of the water with his tongue as a dog lappeth, him ſhalt thou ſet by himſelf; likewiſe every one that boweth down upon his knees to drink g.

g It is true, there may be natural reaſons given, why ſome did only Lap of the Water, when others bowed down to drink; from the Temperance, or Fortitude, or Patience, or Strength, or Diligence of the one; and the Intemperance or Cowardice, or Impatience, or Weakneſs, or Slothfulneſs of the other; but theſe ſeem to be meer conjectures: The true reaſon and deſign of this courſe, ſeems to be only this, That God would reduce them to a very ſmall number, which was likely to be done by this means; for the Seaſon of the Year being hot, and the generality of the Soldiers weary, and thirſty, and faint, they would moſt probably bow down upon their Knees, that they might more fully refreſh themſelves by a liberal draught, as indeed they did; and it could be expected that there would be but few, who either could or would deny themſelves in this matter; eſpecially, when God concurred in the work, and ſo diſpoſed of the Minds and Bodies of them, that all, except Three Hundred, ſhould lie down to drink.

6 And the number of them that lapped, putting their hand to their mouth h, were three hundred Men: but all the reſt of the People bowed down upon their knees to drink water.

h Taking up a little water in the Palm of their Hands to put into their mouths.

7 And the LORD ſaid unto Gideon, By the three hundred men that lapped, will I ſave you, and deliver the Midianites into thine hand: and let all the other people go every man unto his place i.

i i. e. To his own home, as Numb. 24. 11.

8 So the people took victuals in their hand, and their trumpets k: and he ſent all the reſt of Iſrael, every man unto his tent, and retained thoſe three hundred men: and the hoſt of Midian was beneath him in the valley.

k i. e. The Trumpets belonging to the whole Army, even to thoſe who were gone away, which he retained for the uſe here following. See v. 16.

9 ¶ And it came to paſs the ſame night l that the LORD ſaid unto him m, Ariſe, get thee down unto the hoſt, for I have delivered it into thine hand.

l After he had diſmiſſed all but the Three Hundred. m In a Dream or Viſion of the Night.

10 But if thou fear to go down n, go thou with Phurah thy ſervant down to the hoſt.

n To wit, without ſome farther aſſurance of thy Succeſs, I will condeſcend ſo far to thee, as to give thee another Sign.

11 And thou ſhalt hear what they ſay, and afterward ſhall thine hands be ſtrengthned o to go down unto the hoſt. Then went he down with Phurah his ſervant unto the out-ſide ‖ of the armed men that were in the hoſt. ‖ Or, of ranks by five.

o Thou wilt be encouraged to proceed, notwithſtanding the ſmallneſs of thy number, which may deterr thee.

12 And the Midianites, and the Amalekites, and * all the children of the eaſt, lay along in the Valley like graſhoppers for multitude, and their Camels were without number, as the ſand by the ſea-ſide for multitude. * Chap 6. 5, 33. and 8. 10.

13 And when Gideon was come, behold, there was a man that told a dream unto his fellow, and ſaid, Behold, I dreamed a dream, and lo, a cake of barley bread p tumbled into the hoſt of Midian, and came unto a tent, and ſmote it that it fell, and overturned it, that the tent lay all along.

p A weak and contemptible thing; and in it ſelf as unable to overthrow a Tent, as to remove a Mountain; but being thrown by a Divine hand, bore down all before it; which fitly reſembled Gideon's caſe, which was mean and deſpicable, as himſelf ſaith, Judg. 6. 15. yet he was Mighty, through God, to deſtroy the Midianites.

14 And his fellow anſwered and ſaid, This is nothing elſe ſave the ſword of Gideon the ſon of Joaſh, a man of Iſrael q: for into his hand hath God delivered Midian and all his hoſt.

q As there are many examples of ſignificant Dreams, given by God to Heathens, as Gen. 41. Dan. 2. and 4. ſo ſome of them had the gift of interpreting Dreams; which they ſometimes did by Study and Art, and ſometimes by Divine direction as in this caſe.

15 And it was ſo, when Gideon heard the telling of the dream r, and † the interpretation thereof, that he worſhipped ſ, and returned into the hoſt of Iſrael, and ſaid, Ariſe, for the LORD hath delivered into your hand the hoſt of Midian. † Heb. the breaking thereof.

r Which he underſtood, though ſpoken in the Midianitiſh Language; either, becauſe it was near akin to the Hebrew, being only a differing Dialect of it; or, becauſe the Iſraelites had now been accuſtomed to the Midianites Company and Diſcourſe for ſeven years. ſ He praiſed God for this miraculous Work and ſpecial encouragement, whereby he was confirmed in his enterpriſe.

16 And he divided the three hundred men into three companies t, and he put * a trumpet in every mans hand with empty pitchers, and || lamps u within the pitchers x.

* Heb. trumpets in the hand of all of them.
|| Or, firebrands, or torches.

t To make a ſhew of a vaſt Army encompaſſing them. u Or, Torches made of ſuch materials as would quickly take Fire, and keep it for ſome time. x Partly to preſerve the Flame from the violence of Wind and Weather; and partly to conceal it, and ſurpriſe their Enemy with ſudden and unexpected Flaſhes of Light.

17 And he ſaid unto them, Look on me, and do likewiſe y; and behold, when I come to the outſide of the camp, it ſhall be, that as I do, ſo ſhall ye do.

y For though 200 of his men were placed on other ſides of the Camp; yet they were ſo diſpoſed, that ſome perſon or perſons, ſet as Watch-men, might ſee what was done, and give notice to the reſt to follow the Example.

18 When I blow with a trumpet, I, and all that are with me, then blow ye the trumpets alſo on every ſide of all the camp, and ſay, The ſword * of the LORD, and of Gideon z.

* Heb. for the LORD and Gideon.

z He mentions his own Name, together with Gods, not out of vain oſtentation or arrogance, as if he would equal himſelf with God; for he mentions God in the firſt and chief place, and himſelf only as his Miniſter; but from prudent Policy, becauſe his Name was grown formidable to them, and ſo was likely to further his Deſign, and their Flight, as it did.

19 ¶ So Gideon, and the hundred men that were with him, came unto the outſide of the camp, in the beginning of the middle watch a, and they had but newly ſet the watch, and they blew the trumpets, and brake the pitchers that were in their hands.

a i. e. Of the ſecond Watch; for though afterwards the night was divided into four Watches by the Romans, Mat. 14. 25. yet in more ancient times, and in the Eaſtern parts, it was divided into three: He choſe the dark and dead of the night, to increaſe their Terror by the Trumpets, whoſe ſound would then be loudeſt and beſt heard, and the Lamps, whoſe light would then ſhine moſt brightly, and ſeem biggeſt, to ſurpriſe them at diſadvantage, and to conceal the ſmallneſs of their numbers.

20 And the three companies blew the trumpets, and brake the pitchers, and held their lamps in their left hands b, and their trumpets in their right hands to blow withal, and they cried, The ſword of the LORD, and of Gideon.

b That they might be thought to be a mighty Hoſt, having as many Troops or Companies, as there were Trumpets and Lights.

21 And they ſtood every man in his place c, round about the camp; and all the hoſt ran, and cried and fled.

c As if they had only been Torch-bearers to the ſeveral Companies.

22 And the three hundred blew the trumpets, and * the LORD ſet every mans ſword againſt his fellow d, even throughout all the hoſt: and the hoſt fled to Beth-ſhittah || in Zererath, and to the † border of Abel-meholah e, unto Tabbath.

* Iſa. 9. 4.
† Heb. lip.

d They ſlew one another, either becauſe they ſuſpected Treachery, and ſo fell upon thoſe they firſt met with; which they might more eaſily do, becauſe they conſiſted of ſeveral Nations, as may be gathered from Judg. 6. 3. and Joſephus affirms; or becauſe the darkneſs of the night made them unable to diſtinguiſh Friends from Foes; or, becauſe the ſuddenneſs of the thing ſtruck them with Horror and Amazement; or, becauſe God infatuated them, as he hath done many others. Compare 1 Sam. 14. 20. 2 Chron. 20. 23. e Of which ſee 1 Kings 4. 12. and 19. 16.

23 And the men of Iſrael gathered themſelves together out of Napthtali, and out of Aſher, and out of all Manaſſeh, and purſued after the Midianites.

24 ¶ And Gideon ſent meſſengers throughout all mount Ephraim, ſaying, Come down againſt the Midianites, and take before them the waters unto Beth-barah f, and Jordan g. Then all the men of Ephraim gathered themſelves together, and took the waters unto Beth-barah and Jordan.

f i. e. The Paſſes over thoſe Waters to which they are like to come. g The Foords of Jordan, which River they muſt paſs over into their own Country.

25 And they took * two princes of the Midianites, Oreb and Zeeb: and they ſlew Oreb upon the rock Oreb, and Zeeb they ſlew at the wine-preſs of Zeeb, and purſued Midian, and brought the heads of Oreb and Zeeb to Gideon on the other ſide Jordan h.

* Pſal. 83. 11. Iſa. 10. 26.

h For Gideon in the purſuit had paſſed over Jordan, as we read, Judg. 8. 4. which though mentioned after this, may ſeem to have been done before it, ſuch tranſpoſitions being frequent in Sacred Story. Or, on this ſide Jordan, for the Hebrew word is indifferent to both ſides, ſee Gen. 50. 10. And ſo this is oppoſed to what follows of his paſſing over Jordan, Judg. 8. 4. And then there is no anticipation here.

CHAP. VIII.

The Ephraimites are diſpleaſed with Gideon: He ſatisfies them, 1—3. He purſueth two Kings of the Midianites beyond Jordan: Where Succoth and Penuel refuſe to relieve Gideon's Army: The King being taken by Him: In his Return he puniſheth thoſe of Succoth and Penuel, 4. 17. He revengeth his Brethrens Death on the two Kings, 18—21. He refuſeth Government, 22, 23. Demandeth a preſent of the Spoil, and thereof makes an Ephod: Places it in Ophrah: It is a cauſe of Idolatry, 24—27. Gideon's Children, Wives, Death, and Burial, 30—32. Iſrael revolts to Idolatry: Is ungrateful to Gideon's Family, 33—35.

2 And he ſaid unto them, What have I done now in compariſon of you b? is not the gleaning of the grapes of Ephraim c better than the vintage of Abiezer d?

b What was done, was done by God's immediate hand, making them one to kill another; what I have done in cutting off ſome of the Fugitive common Soldiers, is not to be compared with your Exploit in deſtroying their Princes; I began the War, but you have finiſhed. c What you have gleaned or done after me. d i. e. Of the Abiezrites, to whom he modeſtly communicateth the honour of the Victory, and doth not arrogate it to himſelf, as Generals commonly do.

u i. e. For outward ſhape and quality. x Whither he underſtood they fled for ſhelter, upon the approach of the Midianites; and where he learnt that ſome were ſlain, which he ſuſpected might be they. y Not for their Garb, or outward Splendor, for the Family was but mean; but for the Majeſty of their looks: By which commendation they thought to ingratiate themſelves with their Conqueror.

19 And he ſaid, They were my brethren, even the ſons of my mother: as the LORD liveth, if ye had ſaved them alive, I would not ſlay you z.

z For being not Canaanites, he was not obliged to kill them; but they having killed his Brethren, and that in cool blood, he was by Law the avenger of their Blood.

20 And he ſaid unto Jether his firſt-born, Up, and ſlay them a: but the youth drew not his ſword: for he feared, becauſe he was yet a youth.

a Partly, that he might animate him to the uſe of Arms for his God and Country, againſt their Enemies, and to the Exerciſe of Juſtice; partly, that the Death of thoſe miſchievous perſons might be more ſhameful and painful; and partly, that he might have ſome ſhare in the honour of the Victory.

21 Then Zeba and Zalmunna ſaid, Riſe thou and fall upon us: for as the man is, ſo is his ſtrength b. And Gideon aroſe, and ſlew Zebah and Zalmunna, and took away the ‖ ornaments that were on their camels necks.

‖ Or, ornaments like the moon.

b Thou excelleſt him, as in Age and Stature, ſo in Strength; and it is more honourable, as well as eaſie, to die by the hands of a valiant man.

22 ¶ Then the men of Iſrael ſaid unto Gideon, Rule thou over us c, both thou, and thy ſon, and thy ſons ſon alſo d: for thou haſt delivered us from the hand of Midian e.

c Not as a Judge, for that he was already made by God; but as a King. d Let the Kingdom be Hereditary to thee, and to thy Family. e This miraculous and glorious deliverance by thy hands deſerves no leſs from us.

23 And Gideon ſaid unto them, I will not rule over you f, neither ſhall my ſon rule over you: the LORD ſhall rule over you g.

f To wit, as a King, which you deſire. g In a ſpecial manner, as he hath hitherto done, by Judges, whom God did particularly appoint and direct, even by Urim and Thummim, and aſſiſt upon all occaſions; whereas Kings had a greater Power, and only a general dependence upon God, as other Kings had. Compare 1 Sam. 8. 6, 7.

24 ¶ And Gideon ſaid unto them, I would deſire a requeſt of you, That ye would give me every man the ear-rings of his prey, (for they had golden ear-rings, becauſe they were Iſhmaelites h.)

h Obj. They are called Midianites before. Anſ. Here ſeems to have been a mixture of People, Judg. 6. 3. which are all called by one general name, Iſhmaelites, or Arabians, who uſed to wear Ear-rings, Gen. 35. 4. but the greateſt, and the ruling part of them were Midianites.

25 And they anſwered, We will willingly give them. And they ſpread a garment, and did caſt therein, every man the ear-rings of his prey.

26 And the weight of the golden ear-rings that he requeſted, was a thouſand and ſeven hundred ſhekels of gold, beſide ornaments, and ‖ collars, and purple raiment that was on the kings of Midian, and beſide the chains that were about their camels necks.

‖ Or, ſweet Jewels.

27 And Gideon made an ephod thereof i, and put it in his city k, even in Ophrah: and all Iſrael went thither a whoring after it l; which thing became a ſnare m unto Gideon, and to his houſe.

i Not of all of it; for then it would have been too heavy for uſe; but of part of it, the reſt being probably employed about other things agreeable and appertaining to it; which elſewhere are comprehended under the name of the Ephod, as Judg. 17. 5. and 18. 14, 18. Hoſ. 3. 4. k Not as a Monument of the Victory, for ſuch Monuments were neither proper nor uſual; but for Religious uſe, for which alone the Ephod was appointed. The caſe ſeems to be this, Gideon having by God's Command erected an Altar in his own City, Ophrah, Judg. 6. 26. for an extraordinary time and occaſion, thought it might be continued for ordinary uſe; and therefore as he intended to procure Prieſts, ſo he deſigned to make Prieſtly Garments, and eſpecially an Ephod, which was the chief and moſt coſtly; which beſides its uſe in ſacred miniſtrations, was alſo the inſtrument by which the Mind of God was enquired and diſcovered, 1 Sam. 26. 6, 9. and 30. 7. which might ſeem neceſſary for the Judge to have at hand, that he might conſult with God upon all occaſions. l Committing Superſtition or Idolatry with it; or going thither to enquire the Will of God; whereby they were drawn from the true Ephod, inſtituted by God for this end, which was to be worn by the High-Prieſt only. m An occaſion of Sin and Ruine to him and his, as the next Chapter ſheweth. Though Gideon was a good man, and did this with an honeſt mind, and a deſire to ſet up Religion in his own City and Family; yet here ſeems to be many Sins in it; 1 Superſtition and Will-worſhip, Worſhipping God by a device of his own, which was frequently and expreſly forbidden. 2. Preſumption, in wearing, or cauſing other Prieſts to wear this kind of Ephod, which was peculiar to the High-Prieſt. 3. Tranſgreſſion of a plain Command, of Worſhipping God ordinarily but at one place, and one Altar, Deut. 12. 5, 11, 14. and withdrawing people from that place, to his. 4. Making a fearful Schiſm or Diviſion among the People. 5. Laying a Stumbling-Block, or an occaſion of Superſtition or Idolatry before that people, whom he knew to be too prone to it.

28 ¶ Thus was Midian ſubdued before the children of Iſrael, ſo that they lifted up their head no more n: and the countrey was in quietneſs forty years o in the days of Gideon p.

n i. e. Recovered not their former Strength or Courage, ſo as to Conquer or Oppreſs others, as they had done. o i. e. To the fortieth year, from the beginning of the Midianitiſh Oppreſſion; ſee on Judg. 3. 11. p i. e. As long as Gideon lived.

29 ¶ And Jerubbaal the ſon of Joaſh went and dwelt in his own houſe q.

q Not in his Father's Houſe, as he did before; nor yet in a Cour like a King, as the People deſired; but in a middle ſtate, as a Judget for the preſervation and maintenance of their Religion and Liberties.

30 And Gideon had threeſcore and ten ſons † of his body begotten: for he had many wives.

† Heb. going out of his thigh.

31 And his Concubine that was in Shechem r, ſhe alſo bare him a ſon, whoſe name he † called Abimelech ſ.

r She dwelt there, and he oft came thither, either to execute Judgment, or upon other occaſions. ſ i e. My Father the King; ſo he called him, probably, to gratifie his Concubine, who deſired it either out of Pride, or Deſign.

32 And Gideon the ſon of Joaſh died in a good old age t, and was buried in the ſepulchre of Joaſh his father, in Ophrah of the Abi-ezrite.

t His long Life being Crowned with the continuance of his Honour, Tranquillity and Happineſs.

33 And it came to paſs, as ſoon as Gideon was dead, that the children of Iſrael turned again u, and went a whoring after Baalim x, and made Baal-berith y their god.

u Whereby we ſee the wicked Temper of this people, who did no longer cleave to God, than they were in a manner conſtrained to it, by the Preſence and Authority of their Judges. x This was the general name including all their Idols, whereof one here follows. y i. e. The Lord of the Covenant, ſo called, either from the Covenant wherewith the Worſhippers of this God bound themſelves to maintain his Worſhip, or to defend one another therein; or rather, becauſe he was reputed the God and Judge of all Covenants, and Promiſes, and Contracts, to whom it belonged to maintain them, and to puniſh the violaters of them; and ſuch a God both the Grecians and the Romans had.

34 And the children of Iſrael remembred not the LORD their God, who had delivered them out of the hand of all their enemies on every ſide:

35 Neither ſhewed they kindneſs to the houſe of Jerubbaal, namely Gideon, according to all the goodneſs which he had ſhewed unto Iſrael.

CHAP. IX.

Abimelech Gideon's ſon by conſpiracy with the Shechemites; and the murther of his brethren, Jotham the youngeſt eſcaping, is made king, 1,—6. Jotham by a parable rebuketh them and foretelleth their ruine: He flees and dwells at Beer, 7,—21. The Shechemites conſpire againſt Abimelech, 22. Gaal joyns himſelf to the Shechemites, 29. Zebul reveals it, 30,—33. Betrayeth Gaal, 34,—38. Abimelech overcometh them: And ſoweth the city with ſalt, 39,—45. Sets the tower on fire: Alſo the hold of the God Berith, 46,—49. He ſubdues Thebez: Going near to the tower to burn it: A woman caſts down a piece of a milſtone on his head, breaks his ſkull, 50,—53. He commands his armour-bearer to thruſt him through, 54. Jotham's curſe is fulfilled, 56, 57.

AND Abimelech the ſon of Jerubbaal went to Shechem, unto his * mothers brethren, and communed with them, and with all the family of the houſe of his mothers father, ſaying,

* Chap. 8. 31.

2 Speak, I pray you, in the ears of all the men of Shechem, † Whether is better for you, either that all the ſons of Jerubbaal (which are threeſcore and ten perſons) reign over you a, or that one reign over you? Remember alſo, that I am your bone and your fleſh b?

† What is good? whether, &c.

a He ſuppoſeth that they would take that Government which their Father modeſtly refuſed; and that the multitude of his Sons would occaſion horrible Diviſions, and Confuſions, and Conteſts about the Sovereign Power; all which they might avoid, by chuſing him King; and ſo they might enjoy the Monarchy which they had long and oft deſired. b Your Kinſman, of the ſame Tribe and City with you; which will be no ſmall Honour and Advantage to you.

3 And his mothers brethren c ſpake of him in the ears of all the men of Shechem all theſe words, and their hearts inclined † to follow Abimelech: for they ſaid, He is our brother d.

c i. e. Kinſmen, as that word is oft uſed, as Gen. 14. 16. and 29. 12. d They were eaſily perſuaded to believe and follow what ſerved their own Intereſt.

4 And they gave him threeſcore and ten e pieces of ſilver f out of the houſe of Baal-berith g, wherewith Abimelech hired * vain and light perſons h which followed him.

* Chap. 11. 3.

e Agreeably to the number of his Enemies, Gideon's 70 Sons. f Not Shekels, as ſome fanſie, which were too ſmall a Summ for this purpoſe; but far larger Pieces, the exact worth whereof it is neither poſſible nor needful for us now to know. g Out of his ſacred Treaſury; for even they who were very parcimonious and baſe in their Expences about Gods Service, were liberal in their Contributions to Idols; having ſince Gideon's death, built this Temple (which he would never have ſuffered whilſt he lived) and endowed it with conſiderable Revenues. h Unſettled, idle and neceſſitous Perſons, the moſt proper Inſtruments for Tyranny and Cruelty.

5 And he went unto his fathers houſe at Ophrah, and ſlew his brethren the ſons of Jerubbaal i, being threeſcore and ten perſons k, upon one ſtone l: notwithſtanding, yet Jotham the youngeſt ſon of Jerubbaal was left, for he hid himſelf.

i The only Perſons who were likely to hinder him in eſtabliſhing his Tyranny. k Wanting one, who is here expreſſed; and theſe Synecdochical Expreſſions are frequent in Scripture; ſee Gen. 35. 26. and 42. 13. Numb. 14. 32, 33. Joh. 20. 24. 1 Cor. 15. 5. l Whereby he would ſignifie, that this was either, 1. And act of Juſtice, in cutting them all off in an orderly manner, for ſome ſuppoſed Crime, probably, as deſigning Sedition and Rebellion: Or, 2. An act of Religion in avenging the Diſhonour and Injury done to Baal by Gideon, Judg. 6. 27, 28. upon his Children, whom he offered up as ſo many Sacrifices to Baal upon this Stone, which ſerved for an Altar; and for this reaſon it ſeems the Money was taken out of Baal's Houſe, becauſe it was to be laid out in his Service.

6 And all the men of Shechem gathered together, and all the houſe of Millo m, and went and made Abimelech king n, ‖ by the plain of the pillar o that was in Shechem.

‖ Or, by the oak of the pillar. See Joſh. 24. 26.

m Of a Place or Perſon ſo called; ſome eminent and potent Family living in Shechem, or near to it, either the Family of Abimelech's Mother, or ſome other; or, and all Beth-millo; ſo Beth is not an Houſe, but a part of the name of the place. n To wit, over all Iſrael, v. 22. which was a ſtrange Preſumption for the Inhabitants of one City to undertake; but they had many advantages and encouragements for it; as the eager, and general, and conſtant Inclination of the Iſraelites to Kingly Government; Abimilech's being the Son of Gideon, to whom, and to his Sons, they offered the Kingdom, Judg. 8. 22. And though the Father could, and did refuſe it for himſelf; yet they might imagine, that he could not give away his Son's right conveyed to them by the Iſraelites, in their offer; the univerſal defection of the Iſraelites from God to Baal, whoſe great Patron and Champion Abimelech pretended to be; the power and prevalency of the Tribe of Ephraim, in which Shechem was, Joſ. 20. 7. whoſe proud and imperious Spirit, manifeſted Judg. 8. 1. and 12. 1. would make them readily cloſe with a King of their own Brethren; and Abimelech's getting the ſtart of all others, having the Crown actually put upon his Head, and an Army already raiſed to maintain his Tyranny. o Or, by the Oak of the Pillar, i. e. By the Oak, where Joſhua erected a Pillar as a Witneſs of the Covenant renewed between God and Iſrael, Joſ. 24. 26. This Place they choſe, to ſignifie that they ſtill owned God, and their Covenant with him; and did not worſhip Baal in oppoſition to God, but in conjunction with him, or in ſubordination to him.

7 ¶ And when they told it to Jotham, he went and ſtood in the top of mount Gerizim p, and lift up his voice, and cried q, and ſaid unto them, Hearken unto me, ye men of Shechem r, that God may hearken unto you ſ.

p Which lay near Shechem, and near Mount Ebal. The Valley between theſe two Mountains of Gerizim and Ebal, was a famous Place, employed for a religious Uſe, even for the ſolemn reading of the Law, and its Bleſſings and Curſes, Deut. 11. 29. and 27. 12. Joſ. 8. 33. and therefore it is probable it was ſtill uſed, even by the Superſtitious and Idolatrous Iſraelites for ſuch like occaſions, who delighted to uſe the ſame Places which their religious Anceſtors had conſecrated and uſed. q So as they that ſtood in the Valley might hear him, though not ſuddenly come at him to take him. r Who are here met together upon a ſolemn occaſion, as Joſephus notes, Abimelech being abſent. ſ When you cry unto him for Mercy; ſo he conjures and perſuades to give him patient Audience, as they did.

8 The trees went forth on a time t to anoint a king u over them, and they ſaid unto the olive-tree x, Reign thou over us.

t A Parabolical Diſcourſe, uſual among the Ancients, eſpecially in the Eaſtern parts; wherein, under the names of Trees, Men are repreſented. u i. e. To make a King, which was oft done among the Iſraelites, and ſome others, with the Ceremony of Anointing. x By which he underſtands Gideon.

9 But the olive-tree ſaid unto them, Should I leave my fatneſs * wherewith by me they honour God y and man z, and ‖ go to be promoted a over the trees?

* Pſal. 104. 15.

‖ Or, go up and down for other trees.

y In whoſe Worſhip and Service Oil was uſed for divers things; as, about the Lamps, Exod. 35. 14. and Offerings, Levit. 2. 6, 7. and for the anointing of Sacred Perſons and Things. z For Oil was uſed in the Conſtitution of Kings, and Prieſts, and Prophets, and for a a Preſent to great Perſons, and to anoint the Head and Face, &c. a Heb. to move hither and thither, to wander to and fro, to exchange my ſweet Tranquillity, for unceſſant Cares and Travels for the good of others, as a King ought to do.

10 And the trees ſaid unto the fig-tree b, Come thou, and reign over us.

b This, as alſo the Vine, v. 12. ſignifies the ſame thing with the Olive-Tree, but here are various Expreſſions uſed, either for the decency of the Parable; or, becauſe Gideon refuſed this Honour, both for himſelf, and for his Sons; or, to ſignifie that the Sons of Gideon, whom Abimelech had ſo cruelly ſlain, upon pretence of their affecting the Kingdom, were as far from ſuch Thoughts as their Father; and therefore were unjuſtly and wickedly murdered.

11 But the fig-tree ſaid unto them, Should I forſake my ſweetneſs c, and my good fruit, and go to be promoted over the trees?

c For which that Fruit is particularly commended.

12 Then ſaid the trees unto the vine, Come thou, and reign over us.

13 And the vine ſaid unto them, Should I leave my wine, which cheareth God d and man e, and go to be promoted over the trees?

d Wherewith God is well pleaſed, becauſe it was offered to God, Numb 15. 5, 7, 10. e See Pſal. 104. 15. Prov. 31. 6.

14 Then ſaid all the trees unto the ‖ bramble f, Come thou, and reign over us.

‖ Or, thiſtle.

f Or, Thorn, a mean, and barren, and hurtful Tree, fitly repreſenting Abimelech, the Son of a Concubine, and a Perſon of ſmall Uſe, and great Cruelty.

15 And the bramble ſaid unto the trees, If in truth ye anoint me king over you g, then come, and put your truſt in my ſhadow h: and if not, * let fire come out of the bramble, and devour the cedars of Lebanon i.

* Exod. 9. 23.

g If you deal truly and juſtly in making me King. h Then you may expect Protection under my Government. i Inſtead of Protection, you ſhall receive Deſtruction by me; eſpecially you Cedars, i. e. Nobles, ſuch as the Houſe of Millo, who have been moſt forward in this work.

16 Now therefore, if ye have done truly and ſincerely, in that ye have made Abimelech king, and if ye have dealt well with Jerubbaal and his houſe, and have done unto him according to the deſerving of his hands:

17 (For my father fought for you, and † adventured his life far k, and delivered you out of the hand of Midian:

† Heb. caſt his ſoul.

k Heb. caſt away his Soul or Life far off, out of his reach or power to recover it, i. e. Expoſed himſelf to utmoſt hazard for your ſakes.

18 And ye are riſen up againſt my fathers houſe this day, and have ſlain l his ſons, threeſcore and ten perſons, upon one ſtone, and have made Abimelech the ſon of his maid-ſervant m king over the men of Shechem n, becauſe he is your brother.)

l Abimelech's Fact is juſtly charged upon them, as done by their conſent, approbation and aſſiſtance. m His Concubine, whom he ſo calls by way of reproach, becauſe Maid-ſervants were oft made Concubines, Exod. 21. 7, 8, 9, 10. n By which limitation of their Power, and his Kingdom, he reflects Contempt upon him, and chargeth them with Preſumption, That having only power over their own City, they durſt impoſe a King upon all Iſrael.

19 If ye then have dealt truly and ſincerely with Jerubbaal, and with his houſe this day, then rejoice ye in Abimelech, and let him alſo rejoice in you.

20 But if not, let fire come out from Abimelech, and devour the men of Shechem, and the houſe of Millo: and let fire come out from the men of Shechem, and from the houſe of Millo, and devour Abimelech o.

o This is not a Prediction, but an Imprecation or Curſe, as it is called, v. 57. which, being grounded upon juſt cauſe, and being the only way by which Jotham could perform the Duty of the avenger of his Brethrens Blood, which was incumbent upon him; had its effect, as others in like caſe had, as Joſ. 6. 26. compared with 1 King. 16. 34. and 2 King. 2. 24.

21 And Jotham ran away, and fled p, and went to Beer q, and dwelt there, for fear of Abimelech his brother.

p Which he might eaſily do, having the advantage of the Hill, and other accommodations for flight, and becauſe the People were not forward to purſue a Man whom they knew to have ſuch juſt Cauſe, and great Provocation to ſpeak, and ſo little Power to do them any hurt. q A Place remote from Shechem, and out of Abimelech's reach: There were divers Places of that name.

22 ¶ When Abimelech had reigned three years over Iſrael r:

r For though the Men of Shechem were the firſt Authors of Abimelech's advancement, it's more than probable, that the reſt of the People eaſily conſented to that form of Government which they ſo much deſired; or, at leaſt, made no reſiſtance againſt it.

23 Then God ſent an evil ſpirit ſ between Abimelech, and the men of Shechem: and the men of Shechem dealt treacherouſly with Abimelech.

ſ God gave the Devil Commiſſion to enter into, or work upon their minds and hearts; knowing, that he of himſelf, and by his own inclination, would fill them with miſtakes, and jealouſies, and diſſentions, and heart-burnings, which would end in civil Wars, and mutual Ruine.

24 That the cruelty t done to the threeſcore and ten ſons of Jerubbaal might come, and their blood be laid upon Abimelech their brother, which ſlew them, and upon the men of Shechem, which † aided him in the killing of his brethren.

† Heb. ſtrengthened his hands to kill.

t i. e. The puniſhment of the Cruelty.

25 And the men of Shechem ſet liers in wait for him u in the tops of the mountains, and they robbed all that came along that way by them x: and it was told Abimelech y.

u To ſeize his Perſon. x To wit, ſuch as favoured or ſerved Abimelech; for to ſuch only their Commiſſion reached, though it may be they went beyond their Bounds, and by Military Licence robbed all Paſſengers promiſcuouſly. y Who, as it is here implied, exerciſed Hoſtility towards the Men of Shechem.

26 And Gaal the ſon of Ebed z came with his brethren, and went over to Shechem a: and the men of Shechem put their confidence in him.

z It is not known who, or of what Tribe he was; but it is evident, that he was a Man very conſiderable for Wealth, and Strength, and Counſel, and Intereſt; and ill pleaſed with Abimelech's Power. a By his Preſence and Counſel to animate and aſſiſt them againſt Abimelech.

27 And they went out into the fields b, and gathered their vineyards, and trod the grapes, and made ‖ merry c, and went into the houſe of their gods d, and did eat and drink e, and curſed Abimelech f.

‖ Or, Songs.

b Which, till his coming they durſt not do, for fear of Abimelech; but now took confidence to do ſo, in contempt of him. c Partly, from the Cuſtom of rejoicing, and ſinging Songs in Vintage-time, Levit. 19. 24. Iſa. 16. 10. Jer. 25. 30. and partly, for the hopes of their Redemption from Abimelech's Tyranny. d Baal-berith, v. 4. either to beg his help againſt Abimelech, or to give him thanks, either for the Fruits of the Earth now received, or for the Hopes of recovering their former, and loſt Liberty. e To the honour of their Idols, and out of the Oblations made to them, as they uſed to do to the honour of Jehovah, and out of his Sacrifices. f Either by reviling and reproaching him after their manner; or, rather in a more ſolemn and religious manner, curſing him by their god, as Goliah did David, 1 Sam. 17. 43. Or, calling upon their god to ratifie their Curſes pronounced againſt him.

28 And Gaal the ſon of Ebed ſaid, Who is Abimelech g, and who is Shechem h that we ſhould ſerve him? is not he the ſon of Jerubbaal i? And Zebul his officer k? ſerve the men of Hamor the father of Shechem l: for why ſhould we ſerve him?

g What is he but a baſe-born Perſon, an ambitious, imperious, and cruel Tyrant, and one every way unfit and unworthy to govern you? h Shechem is here the name, either, 1. Of the Place or City of Shechem; and ſo the Hebrew Particle mi, who, is put for mah, what, as it is Judg. 13. 17. and then the ſenſe of the place is this; Conſider how obſcure and unworthy a Perſon Abimelech is, and what a Potent and Honourable City Shechem is; and judge you whether it be fit that ſuch a City ſhould be ſubject to ſuch a Perſon: Or, rather, 2. Of a Perſon, even of Abimelech, named in the foregoing words, and deſcribed in thoſe which follow, the ſon of Jerubbaal, between which Shechem is hemmed in, and therefore cannot conveniently belong to any other. He is called Shechem for the Shechemite, by a metonymie of the Subject, whereby the Place is put for the Perſon contained in it, and belonging to it; as Egypt, Æthiopia, Seba, Judea, Macedonia, and Achaia, &c. are put for the People of thoſe Countries, Job 1. 15. and 6. 19. Pſal. 68. 31. and 105. 38. Iſa. 43. 3. Matth. 3. 5. Rom. 15. 26. Thus mi is taken properly, and the ſenſe is, Who is this Shechemite? For ſo he was by the Mother's ſide, born of a Woman of your City, and ſhe but his Concubine and Servant; why ſhould you ſubmit to one ſo baſely deſcended? i i. e. Of Gideon, a Perſon obſcure by his own confeſſion, Judg. 6. 15. and famous only by his boldneſs and fierceneſs againſt that Baal which you juſtly honour and reverence, whoſe Altar he overthrew, and whoſe Worſhip he endeavoured to aboliſh. k And you are ſo unworthy and mean-ſpirited, that you do not only ſubmit to him, but ſuffer his very Servants to bear rule over you, and enſlave you; and particularly, this ignoble and hateful Perſon Zebul. l If you love Bondage, call in the old Maſter and Lord of the Place; chuſe not an Upſtart, as Abimelech is; but rather take one of the old Stock, one deſcended from Hamor, Gen. 34. 2. who did not carry himſelf like a Tyrant, as Abimelech did; but like a Father of his City of Shechem. This he might ſpeak, either, 1. Sincerely, as being himſelf a Canaanite and a Shechemite, and poſſibly come from one of thoſe little ones whom Simeon and Levi ſpared when they ſlew all the grown Males, Gen. 34. 29. And it may be that he was one of the Royal Blood, a deſcendant of Hamor, who hereby ſought to inſinuate himſelf into their Minds and Government, as it follows, v. 29. Would to God this people were under my hand; which he might judge the People more likely to do, both becauſe they were now united with the Canaanites in Religion; and becauſe their preſent Diſtreſs might oblige them to put themſelves under him, who ſeemed or pretended to be a valiant and expert Commander. Or, 2. In way of Deriſion, he being an Iſraelite; if you are ſo ſervile, ſerve ſome of the Children of Hamor; which becauſe you rightly judge to be abſurd and diſhonourable, do not now ſubmit to a far baſer Perſon; but caſt off his Yoak, and recover your loſt Liberties.

29 And would to God this people were under my hand m, then would I remove Abimelech n. And he ſaid to Abimelech o, Increaſe thine army, and come out p.

m i. e. Under my Command; I wiſh you would unanimouſly ſubmit to me, as your Captain and Governour; for he found them divided; and ſome of them hearkening after Abimelech, whom they had lately rejected, according to the levity of the popular Humour. n As you have driven him out of your City, I would drive him out of your Country. o He ſent this Meſſage or Challenge to him. p I deſire not to ſurpriſe thee at any diſadvantage; ſtrengthen thy ſelf as much as thou canſt, and come out into the open Field, that thou and I may decide it by our Arms.

30 ¶ And when Zebul the ruler of the city heard the words of Gaal the ſon of Ebed, his anger was ‖ kindled q.

q It ſeems he had temporized and complied with the Peoples Humour and Plot againſt Abimelech, either in Diſſimulation and Deſign, and by Abimelech's Connivence or Advice; or, really; but when he heard Gaal's words, and himſelf traduced, and ſtruck at by them, he changed his mind, repented of his defection from Abimelech, and intended to return himſelf, and to bring the People again to the Obedience of their Lord and King.

31 And he ſent meſſengers unto Abimelech † privily r, ſaying, Behold, Gaal the ſon of Ebed, and his brethren be come to Shechem; and behold, they fortifie the city againſt thee ſ.

† Heb. craftily, or, to Tormah.

r So as Gaal and his Confederates might not know it. Or, in Thormah; or, who was in Thormah; for ſome make it the name of the Place where Abimelech was, which is called with ſome variation, Arumah, v. 41. ſ They Beſiege or Guard the City of Shechem, ſo as none may go out to thee, nor come in from thee.

32 Now therefore, up by night, thou and the people that is with thee, and lie in wait in the field.

33 And it ſhall be, that in the morning as ſoon as the ſun is up, thou ſhalt riſe early, and ſet upon the city: and behold, when he t, and the people that is with him come out againſt thee, then maiſt thou do to them † as thou ſhalt find occaſion.

† Heb. as thine hand ſhall find.

t i. e. Gaal mentioned v. 33.

34 ¶ And Abimelech roſe up, and all the people that were with him, by night, and they laid wait againſt Shechem in four companies.

35 And Gaal the ſon of Ebed went out, and ſtood in the entring of the gate of the city u; and Abimelech roſe up, and the people that were with him, from lying in wait.

u To put his Army in order, and to conduct them againſt Abimelech, whom he ſuppoſed to be at a great diſtance.

36 And when Gaal ſaw the people, he ſaid to Zebul x, Behold, there come people down from the top of the mountains. And Zebul ſaid unto him, Thou ſeeſt the ſhadow of the mountains, as if they were men y.

x Who concealed the anger which he had conceived, v. 30. and pretended compliance with him in this Expedition, that he might draw him forth into the Field where Abimelech might have the opportunity of Fighting with him, and overthrowing him. y For in the Morning, as this was, and in the Evening, the ſhadows are longeſt, and move moſt quickly. He intimates, that he was afraid of ſhadows.

37 And Gaal ſpake again, and ſaid, See, there come people down by the † middle of the land z, and another company come along by the plain of ‖ Meonenim.

‖ Or, the regarders of times.

z Heb by the navel of the Land. So he calls, either Firſt, the middle of it, as the middle part of Greece and of Sicily are called the navel of them, by the Roman Writers, becauſe the Navel is in the midſt of Man's Body: Or, Secondly, The higher part of it, called the Mountains, v. 36. and here the navel, becauſe it was raiſed above the other ground, as the Navel is above the reſt of the Body.

38 Then ſaid Zebul unto him, Where is now thy mouth a wherewith thou ſaidſt, Who is Abimelech that we ſhould ſerve him? is not this the people that thou haſt deſpiſed? Go out, I pray now, and fight with them.

a i. e. Thy brags. Now thou betrayeſt thy fears, and therefore now ſhew thy ſelf a man, and fight valiantly for thy ſelf and people.

39 And Gaal went out before the men of Shechem, and fought with Abimelech.

40 And Abimelech chaſed him, and he fled before him b, and many were overthrown and wounded c, even unto the entring of the gate.

b Being ſurprized by the unexpected coming of Abimelech, and poſſibly not fully prepared for the encounter. c Being purſued and overtaken by Abimelech.

41 And Abimelech dwelt at Arumah d; and Zebul thruſt out Gaal and his brethren e, that they ſhould not dwell in Shechem.

d He did not proſecute his Victory, but retreated to Arumah, partly to ſee the effect of this Fight, and whether the Shechemites would not of themſelves return to his Government, being either perſwaded by Zebul upon this occaſion, or terrified by his ſtrength and valour, or now by his clemency in proceeding no further againſt them: and partly, that being hereby grown more ſecure, he might have the greater advantage againſt them, which accordingly he here makes uſe of. e Which he was inabled to do, becauſe the Multitude, which is generally light and unſtable, and judgeth of all things by Events, were now enraged againſt Gaal, ſuſpecting him guilty either of Treachery or Cowardize, or ill Conduct: and beſides, they thought the expulſion of Gaal would ſweeten and ſatisfie Abimelech, and make him give over the War againſt them. But though they were offended with Gaal, yet Zebul's intereſt was not ſo conſiderable with them, that he could prevail with them either to kill Gaal and his Brethren, or to yield themſelves to Abimelech; and therefore he ſtill complies with the People, and waits for a fairer opportunity, though in vain.

42 And it came to paſs on the morrow, that the people went out into the field f, and they told Abimelech.

f Either, Firſt, to renew the Fight, and avenge themſelves for their laſt loſs, the great God hardening their hearts to their Deſtruction, and the accompliſhment of his Word delivered to them by Jotham. But here is not one word about the Peoples Arming, or Reſiſting, or Fighting, as there was before, v. 39. but only of their Slaughter, v. 43, 44. Or, Secondly, to their uſual, and then proper Imployments about their Lands: for though their Vintage was paſt, the Seed-time was now come, and other things were to be done in the Fields. Or, Thirdly, upon ſome ſolemn occaſion, not here expreſſed; poſſibly to make a ſolemn Proceſſion, or perform ſome other Rites in the Fields, to the honour of their god Baal-berith, as the manner of the Heathen was, to make ſupplication to him for his help, and for better ſucceſs; or only to go for that end to the houſe of their god Baal-berith, which is thought to have been in the Fields; as may ſeem from v. 27, 46. on a Mountain upon the Eaſt ſide of the City.

43 And he took the people, and divided them into three companies g, and laid wait in the field, and looked, and behold, the people were come forth out of the city, and he roſe up againſt them and ſmote them.

g Whereof he kept one with himſelf, v. 44. and put the reſt under other Commanders.

44 And Abimelech, and the company that was with him, ruſhed forward, and ſtood in the entring of the gate of the city h, and the two other companies ran upon all the people that were in the fields, and ſlew them.

h To prevent their Retreat into the City, and give the other two Companies opportunity to cut them off.

45 And Abimelech fought againſt the city all that day, and he took the city, and ſlew the people that was therein, and beat down the city, and ſowed it with ſalt i.

i Not to make the place barren, as ſalt will do, for then he would have ſowed the Fields, not the City; but in token of his deteſtation and deſire of their utter and irrecoverable Deſtruction: for Salt is the ſymbole or ſign of Perpetuity; Compare Numb. 18. 19. Deut 29. 23. 2 Chron. 13. 5. Zeph. 2. 9.

46 ¶ And when all the men of the tower of Shechem k heard that, they entred into an hold of the houſe of the god of Berith l.

k A ſtrong place belonging to the City of Shechem, and made for its defence or ſecurity, but without the City. It is thought, this was that Millo which was confederate with Shechem in their deſign againſt Abimelech, v. 6. which alſo Jotham Curſed with Shechem, v 20. and that Curſe is noted to have its Effect, v. 57. And this place may be called the Tower of Shechem; either becauſe thoſe who poſſeſſed and defended it, were ſent from Shechem: Or, becauſe it was built and kept for the ſafe guard of Shechem. l Or, Baal-berith, v. 4. Hither they fled out of the Town belonging to it, fearing the ſame event with Shechem; and here they thought to be ſecure; partly by the ſtrength of the place, as the Temples of Idols were oft-times built in the higheſt and ſtrongeſt Places, as the Capitol at Rome, and the Temple at Jeruſalem; and ſuch this place ſeems to have been, becauſe they laid their Treaſure here, v. 4. Partly by the Religion of it, thinking that either their god would Protect them there, or that Abimilech would ſpare them there, if not out of piety to that god, yet out of thankfulneſs for the benefit which he received thence, v. 4.

47 And it was told Abimelech, that all the men of the the tower of Shechem were gathered together, into that place.

48 And Abimelech gat him up to mount Zalmon m, he, and all the people that were with him, and Abimelech took an ax in his hand, and cut down a bough from the trees, and took it, and laid it on his ſhoulder, and ſaid unto the people that were with him, What ye have ſeen † me do, make haſte, and do as I have done.

m A place ſo called from its ſhadineſs, becauſe there were many Trees there.

49 And all the people likewiſe cut down every man his bough, and followed Abimelech, and put them to the hold, and ſet the hold on fire upon them: ſo that all the men of the tower of Shechem died alſo, about a thouſand men and women.

50 ¶ Then went Abimelech to Thebez n, and encamped againſt Thebez, and took it.

n Another Town near to Shechem; and, as it ſeems, within its Territory.

51 But there was a ſtrong tower within the city, and thither fled all the men, and women o, and all they of the city, and ſhut it to them, and gat them up to the top of the tower p.

o All that were not ſlain in the taking of the Town: or they all forſook the Town, and retired to their ſtrong hold. p Which was flat and plain, after their manner of Building.

52 And Abimelech came unto the tower, and fought againſt it, and went hard unto the door of the tower, to burn it with fire.

53 And a certain woman * caſt a piece of a milſtone q upon Abimelech's head, and all to brake his skull.

* 2 Sam. 11. 21.

q Such great ſtones no doubt they carried up with them, whereby they might defend themſelves, or offend thoſe who Aſſaulted them. Here the Juſtice of God is remarkable in ſuiting the Puniſhment to his Sin. He ſlew his Brethren upon a ſtone, v. 5. and he loſeth his own life by a Stone.

54 Then * he called haſtily unto the young man his armour-bearer, and ſaid unto him, Draw thy ſword, and ſlay me, that men ſay not of me, A woman ſlew him r: and his young man thruſt him through, and he died.

* So 1 Sam. 31. 4.

r Which was eſteemed a matter of diſgrace.

55 And when the men of Iſrael ſaw that Abimelech was dead, they departed every man unto his place.

56 ¶ Thus God rendred the wickedneſs of Abimelech which he did unto * his father s, in ſlaying his ſeventy brethren.

* Judg. 9. 5. Ruth 4. 10.

s In rooting out, as far as he could, the name, and memory, and remainders of his Father.

57 And all the evil of the men of Shechem did God render upon their heads: and upon them came the curſe of Jotham, the ſon of Jerubbaal.

a Not of himſelf, but either choſen by the People; or rather, raiſed by God, as the other Judges were. b Or, to ſave, which he did not by fighting againſt, and overthrowing their Enemies, but by a prudent and pious Government of them, whereby he kept them from Sedition, and Oppreſſion, and Tyranny, as alſo from Idolatry; as may be gathered from v. 6. which if not reſtrained and purged out, would have brought certain Ruine upon them. c Which was in the very heart and midſt of the Land.

2 And he judged Iſrael twenty and three years, and dyed, and was buried in Shamir.

3 ¶ And after him aroſe Jair a Gileadite d, and judged Iſrael twenty and two years.

4 And he had thirty ſons that rode on thirty aſs-colts e, and they had thirty cities, which are called ‖ Havoth-jair f, unto this day, which are in the land of Gilead.

‖ Or, the villages of Jair.

e Becauſe Horſes were ſcarce there, and were not to be multiplied by the King himſelf, Deut. 17. 16. Hence their Kings and Kings children uſed to ride upon Mules, 2 Sam. 13. 29. and 18. 9. 1 Kings 1, 33, 38, 44. Compare Judg. 5. 10. and 12. 14. f Object. Theſe Villages were called ſo before this time from another Jair: And Numb. 32. 41. Deut. 3. 14. Anſw. They are not ſaid to be now firſt called by that Name; but to be ſtill ſo called, becauſe the old name was revived and confirmed upon this occaſion. As Sheba is ſaid to be called Beerſheba, upon an occaſion mentioned Gen. 26. 33. though it was ſo called before upon a more ancient occaſion, Gen. 21. 33. Poſſibly this Jair had enlarged or fortified theſe Towns, and ſo they were juſtly denominated from him, no leſs than from the former.

5 And Jair died, and was buried in Camon.

6 ¶ And * the children of Iſrael did evil again in the ſight of the LORD, and ſerved Baalim, and and † Aſhtaroth, and the gods of Syria, and the gods of Zidon, and the gods of Moab, and the gods of the children of Ammon, and the gods of the Philiſtines, and forſook the LORD, and ſerved not him g.

g He ſhews how they grew worſe and worſe, and ſo ripened themſelves for the Ruine which afterward came upon them. Before they Worſhipped God and Idols together: now they utterly forſake God, and wholly cleave to Idols.

7 And the anger of the LORD was hot againſt Iſrael, and he * ſold them into the hands of the Philiſtines, and into the hands of the children of Ammon h.

* 1 Sam. 12. 9.

h The one on the Weſt, the other on the Eaſt; ſo they were moleſted on both ſides.

8 And that year they vexed and † oppreſſed the children of Iſrael eighteen years i, all the children of Iſrael that were on the other ſide Jordan, in the land of the Amorite which is in Gilead.

i Or, That year they had vexed and oppreſſed the children of Iſrael eighteen years. Or, They vexed them in that year, that was the eighteenth year; to wit, of that Vexation. This was the eighteenth year from the beginning of that Oppreſſion. And theſe eighteen years are not to be reckoned from Jair's Death, becauſe that would enlarge the time of the Judges beyond the juſt bounds; as may appear from 1 Kings 6. 1. Nor from Jephthah's beginning to Reign, becauſe he Reigned but ſix years, and in the beginning thereof put an end to this Perſecution, but from the fourth year of Jair's Reign: ſo that the greateſt part of Jair's Reign was contemporary with this Affliction. And although this Oppreſſion of the Ammonites and Philiſtines, and the cauſe of it, the Idolatry of the Iſraelites, be not mentioned till after Jair's death, becauſe the Sacred Pen-man would deliver the whole Hiſtory of this Calamity entirely and together; yet they both happened before it; and Jair's death is mentioned before that, only by a Prolepſis or Anticipation, than which, nothing is more frequent in Scripture. The caſe of Jair and Samſon ſeem to be much alike. For as it is ſaid of Samſon, that he judged Iſrael in the days of the Tyranny of the Philiſtines, twenty years, Judg. 15. 20. by which it is evident, that his Judicature, and their Dominion, were Contemporary; the like is to be conceived of Jair, that he began to judge Iſrael, and endeavoured to reform Religion, and purge out all abuſes; but being unable to effect this through the backwardneſs and baſeneſs of the People, God would not inable him to deliver the People, but gave them up to this ſad Oppreſſion; ſo that Jair could only perform one half of his Office, which was to determine Differences amongſt the Iſraelites, but could not deliver them from their Enemies.

9 Moreover, the children of Ammon paſſed over Jordan, to fight alſo againſt Judah, and againſt Benjamin, and againſt the houſe of Ephraim: ſo that Iſrael was ſore diſtreſſed.

10 ¶ And the children of Iſrael cried unto the LORD, ſaying, We have ſinned againſt thee, both becauſe we have forſaken our God, and alſo ſerved Baalim k.

k Becauſe not contented to add Idols to thee, we have preferred them before thee, and rejected thee to receive and worſhip them.

11 And the LORD ſaid l unto the children of Iſrael, Did not I deliver you from the Egyptians, and from the Amorites m, from the children of Ammon n, and from the Philiſtines o?

l Either by himſelf, the Son of God appearing in a viſible ſhape, which then was uſual: or by ſome Prophet whom he raiſed and ſent to this purpoſe: or by the High Prieſt, who was conſulted in the caſe. m Both Sihon and Og, and their people, Numb. 21. and other Kings of the Amorites within Jordan, Joſh 10. 5. n Who were confederate with the Moabites, Judg. 3. 13, 14. o See Judg. 3. 31.

12 The Zidonians p alſo, and the Amalekites q, and Maonites r did oppreſs you, and ye cried to me, and I delivered you out of their hand.

p For though we do not read of any oppreſſion of Iſrael, particularly, by the Sidonians; yet there might be ſuch a thing: as many things were ſaid and done, both in the Old and New Teſtament, which are not Recorded there: Or, they might joyn their Forces with the King of Meſopotamia, Judg. 3. 8. Or with ſome other of their Oppreſſors: for it is certain, theſe were left among others to prove Iſrael, Judg. 3. 1, 2, 3. q Of whom, ſee Judg. 3. 13. and 6. 3. r Either Firſt, thoſe who lived in, or near the Wilderneſs of Maon, in the South of Judah, 1 Sam. 23. 25. and 25. 2. whether Edomites or others. Or, Secondly, the Mehunims, a People living near the Arabians, of whom, 2 Chron. 26. 7. For in the Hebrew, the Letters of both Names are the ſame, only the one is the Singular, the other the Plural Number. Or, Thirdly, The Midianites, whoſe Oppreſſion he would not omit; it being uſual for one and the ſame Perſon or Perſons to have two Names: although the Midianites may be comprehended under the Amalekites, with whom they were joyned, Judg. 6. 3, 33. Or Fourthly, Some other People now unknown, and not expreſſed elſewhere in Scripture.

13 * Yet ye have forſaken me, and ſerved other gods: wherefore I will deliver you no more s.

* Deut. 23. 20. Jer. 2. 13.

s To wit, except you Repent in another manner than you yet have done; which when they performed, God ſuſpends the execution of this Threatning. Compare Jer. 18. 7.

14 Go and * cry unto the gods which ye have choſen t, let them deliver you in the time of your tribulation.

* Deut. 32. 37, 38. Jer. 2. 28.

t You have not been forced to worſhip theſe gods by your Oppreſſors and Tyrants; but you have freely choſen theſe gods before me.

15 ¶ And the children of Iſrael ſaid unto the LORD, We have ſinned, do thou unto us whatſoever † ſeemeth good unto thee u; deliver us only, we pray thee, this day.

† Heb. is good in thine eyes.

u Do not give us up into the hands of theſe cruel Men, but do thou chaſtiſe us with thine own hand as much as thou pleaſeſt; to wit, if we be not more faithful and conſtant to thee, than we have hitherto been.

16 And they put away the † ſtrange gods from among them x, and ſerved the LORD: and * his ſoul † was grieved y for the miſery of Iſrael.

† Heb. gods of ſtrangers. * Iſa. 63. 9. † Heb. was ſhortned.

x This was an evidence of the ſincerity of their ſorrow, that they did not only confeſs and bewail their Sins, but alſo forſake them, and loath themſelves for them. y Not properly, or as to inward affection; for God being infinitely happy, is not capable of grieving: but figuratively, and as to outward expreſſion. He acted towards them, like one that felt their Sufferings; he had pity upon them, repented of his ſevere Proceedings againſt them, and quite changed his carriage towards them, and puniſhed their Enemies as ſorely as if they had grieved and injured his own perſon.

17 Then the children of Ammon were † gathered together, and encamped in Gilead: and the children of Iſrael aſſembled themſelves together, and encamped in Mizpeh z.

4 ¶ And it came to paſs † in proceſs of time g, that the children of Ammon made war againſt Iſrael.

g Heb. after ſome days: or, after a year, days being oft put for a year, as hath been ſhewed, after that year mentioned, Judg. 10. 8. The Ammonites had vexed and oppreſſed them Eighteen Years, and now that the Iſraelites begin to make Oppoſition, they commence a War againſt them. Or, ſome time after Jephthah had been baniſh'd, and after he had taken up Arms, and given them ſome diſturbance. Or, after the Iſraelites aſſembled together, as is ſaid, Judg. 10. 18.

5 And it was ſo, that when the children of Ammon made war againſt Iſrael, the elders of Gilead went to fetch Jephthah h out of the land of Tob.

h By direction or inſtinct from God, who both qualified him for, and called him to the office of a Judge. See Judg. 12. 7. Heb. 11. 32. Otherwiſe they might not have choſen a Baſtard, Deut. 32. 2. Unleſs we will ſay, that there being no other perſon among them fit for, and willing to this Work, neceſſity diſpenſed with this Law, as it did with other poſitive Laws, as thoſe of the Sabbath and Sacrifices.

6 And they ſaid unto Jephthah, Come and be our Captain i, that we may fight with the children of Ammon.

i They ſay not, our King; for the experience of Abimelech's kingſhip had cooled their Appetite in that particular; but our Captain.

* Gen. 26. 27.

7 And Jephthah ſaid unto the elders of Gilead, * Did not ye hate me, and expel me out of my fathers houſe k? and why are ye come unto me now, when ye are in diſtreſs?

k And deprive me of all ſhare in my Father's Goods, which, though a Baſtard, was due to me. This Expulſion of him was the act of his Brethren; but he here aſcribes it to the Elders of Gilead; either becauſe ſome of them were among theſe Elders, as is very probable from the dignity of this Family; or becauſe this act, though deſired and promoted by his Brethren, was executed by the decree of the Elders, to whom the determination of all Controverſies about Inheritances belonged; and therefore it was their fault that they did not protect him from the Injuries of his Brethren, as their duty was.

8 And the Elders of Gilead ſaid unto Jephthah, Therefore we turn again to thee now l, that thou mayeſt go with us, and fight againſt the children of Ammon, and be our head over all the inhabitants of Gilead.

l Being ſenſible that we have done thee Injury, we come now to make thee full Reparations.

9 ¶ And Jephthah ſaid unto the elders of Gilead, If ye bring me home again m to fight againſt the children of Ammon, and the LORD deliver them before me, ſhall I be you head n?

m If you recall me from this place where I am now ſettled, to the place whence I was Expelled. n Will you really make good this Promiſe? Jephthah was ſo ſollicitous in this caſe, either from his Zeal for the publick Good, which required that he ſhould be ſo; or from the Law of Self-Preſervation, that he might ſecure himſelf from his Brethren; whoſe ill-will he had experienced, and whoſe injuries he could not prevent, if, after he had ſerved their ends, he had been reduced to his private capacity; or, there might be ſome Tincture of Ambition in him; for which God therefore ſeverely, though paternally, chaſtiſeth him, as we ſee afterwards.

† Heb. be the bearer between us.

10 ¶ And the elders of Gilead ſaid unto Jephthah, The LORD † be witneſs between us o, if we do not ſo according to thy words.

o They confirm their Promiſe by a Solemn and Sacred Oath.

11 Then Jephthah went with the elders of Gilead, and the people made him head and captain over them: and Jephthah uttered all his words p before the LORD q in Mizpeh.

p Objectively ſo called, i. e. All that was ſpoken, not only by him, but alſo by the Elders of Gilead, concerning him, and concerning this whole Tranſaction, and the conditions of it; or, all his matters, the whole buſineſs. q i. e. Before the Publick Congregation, wherewith God was uſually, and then eſpecially preſent; ſee Exod. 20. 24. Deut. 6. 25. Mat. 18. 10. Or, before the Altar, which poſſibly they did erect upon this ſpecial occaſion, by God's permiſſion: Or, in God's Preſence, calling him to be preſent, as a Witneſs and Judge between them.

12 ¶ And Jephthah ſent meſſengers r unto the king of the children of Ammon, ſaying, What haſt thou to do with me ſ, that thou art come againſt me, to fight in my land t?

r i. e. Ambaſſadors, to prevent Blood-ſhed, and make Peace; as far as in him lay; that ſo the Iſraelites might be acquitted before God and men, from all the ſad conſequences of this War; Herein he ſhewed great Prudence, and no leſs Piety. ſ What pretence, or reaſonable cauſe haſt thou for this Invaſion? t He ſpeaks this in the Name of all the People, whoſe the Land was.

13 And the king of the children of Ammon anſwered unto the meſſengers of Jephthah, * Becauſe Iſrael took away my land u, when they came up out of Egypt, from Arnon even unto Jabbok, and unto Jordan: now therefore reſtore thoſe lands again peaceably.

* Numb. 21. 13.

u i. e. This Land of Gilead, which was mine, but unjuſtly taken from me, by Sihon and Og, the Kings of the Ammorites; and the injury perpetuated by Iſrael's detaining it from me. This Land, before the Conqueſts of Sihon and Og, belonged partly to the Ammonites, as is affirmed, Joſ. 13. 25. and partly, and principally, to the Moabites, as appears from Numb. 21. 24, 26. Deut. 3. 11. And indeed, Moab and Ammon did for the moſt part join their Intereſts and their Forces, as appears from Scripture-Story; and as Balak the King of the Moabites acted for the Ammonites, ſo now the King of Ammon ſeems to act for the Moabites, either as being now his Subjects; or, as his Confederates; whence it comes to paſs that Moab and Ammon are here promiſcuouſly mentioned, as v. 15, 17, 18, 25. and Chemoſh the known god of the Moabites, Numb. 21. 29. 1 Kings 11. 33. 2 Kings 23. 13. Jer. 48. 13, 46. is here called the god of the Ammonites, v. 24. though to ſpeak ſtrictly, Moloch or Milchom was their god, 1 Kings 11. 5, 7, 33. and 2 Kings 23. 13.

14 And Jephthah ſent meſſengers again unto the king of the children of Ammon.

15 And ſaid unto him, Thus ſaith Jephthah, * Iſrael took not away the land of Moab, nor the land of the children of Ammon.

* Deut. 2. 9.

16 But when Iſrael came up from Egypt, and * walked through the wilderneſs unto the red-ſea x, and * came to Kadeſh:

* Num. 14. 25.
* Num. 20. 1.

x Unto which they came three times; once, Exod. 13. 18. again, a little after their paſſage over it, Exod. 15. 22. and a third time, long after, when they came to Ezion-Gaber. Numb. 33. 35. Deut. 2. 8. which was upon the Shoar of the Red-Sea, 1 Kings 9. 26. 2 Chron. 8. 17. from whence they went to Kadeſh, Numb. 20. of this time he ſpeaks here.

17 Then * Iſrael ſent meſſengers unto the king of Edom, ſaying, Let me, I pray thee, paſs through thy land: but the king of Edom would not hearken thereto: and in like manner they ſent unto the king of Moab: but he would not conſent: and Iſrael abode in Kadeſh y.

* Num. 20. 14.

y Peaceably, and did not revenge their unkindneſs and inhumanity, as they could have done.

18 Then they went along through the wilderneſs, and * compaſſed the land of Edom, and the land of Moab, and came by the eaſt-ſide of the land of Moab, and pitched on the other ſide of Arnon, * but came not within the border of Moab: for Arnon was the border of Moab.

* Num. 21. 4.
* Num. 21. 13. and 22. 36.

19 And * Iſrael ſent meſſengers unto Sihon king of the Amorites, the king of Heſhbon, and Iſrael ſaid unto him, Let us paſs, we pray thee, through thy land unto my place z.

* Deut. 2. 26.

z i. e. Unto the Land of Canaan, which God hath given to me.

20 But Sihon truſted not Iſrael to paſs through his coaſt: but Sihon gathered all his people together, and pitched in Jahaz, and fought with Iſrael a.

a So Sihon was the aggreſſor or beginner of the War; and the Iſraelites were forced to it for their own Defence.

21 And the LORD God of Iſrael delivered Sihon, and all his people into the hand of Iſrael, and they ſmote them: ſo Iſrael poſſeſſed all the land of the Amorites, the inhabitants of that countrey.

22 And they poſſeſſed * all the coaſts b of the Amorites, from Arnon even unto Jabbok, and from the wilderneſs c even unto Jordan.

* Deut. 2. 36.

b Or Borders; together with all the Land included within thoſe Borders; for ſo that word is oft uſed, as Exod. 8. 2. Pſal. 147. 14. Jer. 15. 13. and 17. 3. c To wit, the Deſart of Arabia.

23 So now the LORD God of Iſrael hath diſpoſſeſſed the Amorites d from before his people Iſrael, and ſhouldeſt thou poſſeſs it?

d God, the Sovereign Lord of all Lands, hath given us this Land; This he adds, as a further and a convincing reaſon; becauſe otherwiſe it might have been alledged againſt the former Argument, that they could gain no more Right to that Land from Sihon, than Sihon himſelf had; and he had but an unjuſt Claim to it.

24 Wilt not thou poſſeſs that which Chemoſh thy god giveth thee to poſſeſs e? ſo whomſoever the LORD our God ſhall drive out from before us, them will we poſſeſs.

e He ſpeaks according to their fond and abſurd Opinion: The Ammonites and Moabites got their Land by right of War, and Conqueſt of the old Inhabitants, whom they caſt out; and this Succeſs, though given them by the true God, for Lot's ſake, Deut. 2. 9, 19. they impiouſly and ridiculouſly aſcribe to their god Chemoſh, whoſe Gift they owned to be a firm and ſufficient Title.

* Numb. 22. 2. Deut. 23. 4 Joſh 24. 9.

25 * And now art thou any thing better than Balak f, the ſon of Zippor king of Moab? Did he ever ſtrive againſt Iſrael, or did he ever fight againſt them?

f Art thou wiſer than he? or haſt thou more right than he had? Balak, though he plotted againſt Iſrael, in defence of his own Land, which he feared they would Invade and Conquer, Numb. 22. 4. yet he never contended with them about the reſtitution of thoſe Lands which Sihon took from him or his Predeceſſors, after the Iſraelites had Conquered them.

† Heb. daughters. † Heb. daughters.

26 While Iſrael dwelt in Heſhbon, and her † towns, and in Aroer, and her † towns, and in all the cities that be along by the coaſts of Arnon, three hundred years g? why therefore did ye not recover them within that time?

g Not preciſely, but about that time, either from their coming out of Egypt; or, from their firſt Conqueſt of thoſe Lands; and thus numbers are oft expreſſed, ſee Numb. 1. 46. and 2. 32. and 11. 21. Judg. 20. 46. He urgeth Preſcription, which is by all men reckoned a juſt Title, and it is fit it ſhould be ſo for the good of the World, becauſe otherwiſe the Door would be opened both to Kings, and to private Perſons, for infinite Contentions and Confuſions.

27 Wherefore I have not ſinned againſt thee h; but thou doeſt me wrong to war againſt me: the LORD the judge, be judge this day i between the children of Iſrael, and the children of Ammon.

h I have done thee no wrong. i Let him determine this Controverſie by the ſucceſs of this day and War.

28 Howbeit the king of the children of Ammon hearkened not unto the words of Jephthah which he ſent him.

* Chap. 3. 10.

29 ¶ Then the * Spirit of the LORD came upon Jephthah k, and he paſſed over Gilead and Manaſſeh l, and paſſed over Mizpeh of Gilead m, and from Mizpeh of Gilead he paſſed over unto the children of Ammon.

a Qu. What was it which Jephthah Vowed and Performed concerning his Daughter? Anſ. Many, eſpecially of Modern Writers, conceive, that Jephthah's Daughter was not Sacrificed, but only devoted to perpetual Virginity, which then was eſteemed a great Curſe and Reproach: This they gather, 1. From v. 37, 38. where we read, that ſhe bewailed not her Death, which had been the chief Cauſe of Lamentation, if that had been Vowed, but her Virginity: 2. From this, v. 39. where, after he had ſaid, that he did with her according to his Vow; he adds, by way of declaration of the matter of that Vow, and ſhe knew no Man. But for the firſt, there may be a fair reaſon given, That ſhe could not with Honour bewail her Death, which ſhe had ſo generouſly and chearfully accepted of; becauſe it was attended with, and occaſioned by the Publick Good, and her Father's Honour and Happineſs, v. 36. and was a kind of Martyrdom; and moreover, an act of Religion, the payment of a Vow, which ought to be done chearfully; but only bewailed the circumſtance of her Death, that it was in ſome ſort accurſed and opprobrious; ſhe having had no Husband to take away her reproach, as they ſpeak, Iſa. 4. 1. and leaving no Poſterity to her Father's Comfort, and the Increaſe of God's People: And for the ſecond, that Clauſe, and ſhe knew no man, is plainly diſtinguiſhed from the Execution of his Vow, which is here mentioned before; and this is added, not as an Explication of the Vow, but as an aggravating Circumſtance, that this was executed when ſhe had not yet known any man. Beſides, this Opinion ſeems liable to weighty Objections; 1. There is no Example in all the Scripture, of any Woman that was obliged to perpetual Virginity by any Vow of her own, much leſs by the Vow of her Parents; nor have Parents any ſuch Power over their Children, either by the Law of Nature, or by the Holy Scripture. 2. The expreſs words of the Vow, v. 31. mention nothing of her Virginity, but only, that ſhe ſhould ſurely be the Lords; i.e. Devoted to the Service of the Lord, which might be without any obligation to perpetual Virginity; for, even Samuel, who was as fully devoted to the Lord by his Parents, as ſhe could be, 1 Sam. 1. 11. and Samſon, who was Devoted not only by his Parents, but by God himſelf, and that in the higheſt degree, even to be a perpetual Nazarite, Judg. 13, 5, 7. yet were not prohibited Marriage; nor were any of the moſt Sacred Perſons, Levites, or Prieſts, or High Prieſts, though they were the Lords in a ſingular manner, obliged to perpetual Virginity; and therefore if ſhe was not Offered up for a Burnt-Offering, as the Authors of this Opinion ſay, but only was Conſecrated to God, there was no occaſion to bewail her Virginity, which, for any thing that appears, ſhe was not tied to. 3. If this were all, here was no ſufficient cauſe, why ſo wiſe and valiant a man as Jephthah ſhould ſo bitterly and paſſionately lament over himſelf or his Daughter. And therefore it may ſeem moſt probable, that Jephthah did indeed Sacrifice his Daughter, as he had Vowed to do; which was the Opinion of Joſephus the Jew, and of the Chaldee Paraphraſt, and of divers of the Jewiſh Doctors, and almoſt all the Ancient Fathers, and many eminent Writers; and this beſt agrees with the words of the Vow, delivered v. 31. Whatſoever cometh forth of the doors of my houſe to meet me—— ſhall ſurely be the Lords, and I will offer it for a Burnt-Offering. Nor is there one word in all the following Verſes, which denies that ſhe was thus offered; only the execution of the Vow is delivered in more ambiguous and general terms, v. 39. which in all reaſon, and by the Laws of good Interpretation, ought to be limited and explained by the more plain and particular deſcription of it: It is true, thoſe words may ſeem capable of another Interpretation; the conjunctive Particle, and, may be here put for the disjunctive, or, as it often is, as Exod. 21. 16, 17. Levit. 6. 3, 5. 2 Sam. 2. 19, &c. and ſo the meaning is, that what I firſt meet ſhall ſurely be the Lords, or, I will offer it up for a Burnt-Offering; to wit, if it be a Creature fit to be offered; Otherwiſe, ſay they, if a Dog or an Aſs ſhould have met him firſt, he ſhould have been obliged to offer them, which was againſt the Law: But it is ſufficiently evident, that he ſpeaks of an Humane Perſon, from the very Phraſe of coming forth to meet him at his return; which plainly argues a deſign to meet him, purpoſely to Congratulate his Return; this phraſe of going to meet a perſon coming, being very oft uſed in Scripture, and conſtantly of one perſon meeting another, as Gen 14. 17. and 18. 2. and 24. 17, &c. and never of any bruit Creature: And although and is ſometimes put for or, yet it is not to be ſo uſed without neceſſity, which ſeems not to be in this place; nor is it very proper to diſtinguiſh two Sentences in this manner, where the one is more general, and the other being more ſpecial, is comprehended within it, which is the caſe here; for it ſhall ſurely be the Lords, is the general; and its being offered up for a burnt-offering, is the particular way or manner how it was to be the Lords; as it were very improper to ſay, This is either a man, or it is my ſervant John; becauſe the latter branch is contained in the former: and therefore in all the alledged inſtances where and is put for or, they are two diſtinct perſons or things, and not one comprehended within another, as Exod. 21. 17. Father or Mother, 2 Sam. 2. 19. right hand or left. But the great Objection againſt this Opinion is this, That it ſeems a moſt horrid Act, directly contrary to the Law of Nature, and to plain Scripture, thus to Sacrifice his own Daughter; and that it ſeems altogether incredible, either that ſuch a man as Jepthah, ſo eminent for Piety, and Wiſdom, and Zeal, and Faith, ſhould either make ſo Barbarous a Vow, or purſue it for above two Months ſpace; and that none of the Prieſts of that time ſhould inform him of the unlawfulneſs of executing ſo wicked a Vow, and of the liberty he had to redeem ſuch a Vow, by vertue of Levit. 27. 2, 3, &c. or that Jephthah would not willingly receive information, eſpecially where it was ſo agreeable to his own intereſt and natural affection; or, that the Prieſts and People would ſuffer him to execute his own Daughter, and not rather hinder him by force, as they afterwards did Saul, when he had ſworn the Death of Jonathan. Theſe and other ſuch difficulties I confeſs there are in the caſe; but ſomething may be truly and fairly ſaid to allay the ſeeming Monſtrouſneſs of this fact. 1. Theſe were times of great and general ignorance and corruption of Religion, wherein the Iſraelites had Apoſtatized from God, and learnt and followed the practices and worſhips of the Heathen Nations, Judg. 10. 6. whereof this was one, to offer up Humane Sacrifices to Moloch; and although they ſeem now to have repented and forſaken their Idols, Judg. 10. 16. yet they ſeem ſtill to have retained part of the old Leaven, and this among the reſt, That they might offer Humane Sacrifices, not to Moloch, as they had done, but unto the Lord. And whereas ſome of the Jewiſh Writers pretend that Phinehas was alive at this time; and tell a fine Story concerning him and Jephthah, That both ſtood upon their Terms, and neither would go to the other to adviſe about the matter; yet it is more than probable that Phinehas was dead long before this time; and whoſoever was the High-Prieſt then, he ſeems to be guilty either of groſs ignorance or negligence; ſo that a late Learned Writer conceives, that this was the reaſon why the Prieſthood was taken from him, and from that line, and tranſlated to the line of Ithamar, which was done in the time of the Judges, as may be gathered from 1 Sam. 2. 35, 36. Moreover Jephthah, though now a good Man, may ſeem to have had but a rude and barbarous Education; having been baniſhed from his Father's Houſe, and forced to wander and diſpoſe himſelf in the utmoſt Borders of the Land of Gilead, beyond Jordan, at a great diſtance from the place of Worſhip and Inſtruction; Nor is it ſtrange, That the Prieſts and People did not reſiſt Jephthah in this Enterpriſe; partly, becauſe many of them might lie under the ſame ignorance and miſtake that Jephthah did; and partly becauſe they knew Jephthah to be a ſtout, and reſolute, and boiſterous Man, and were afraid to oppoſe him in a matter wherein he he ſeemed to be ſo peremptory, and their Perſons and Families were not much concerned. 2. This miſtake of Jephthah's, and of the reſt of that Age, was not without ſome plauſible appearance of Warrant from the Holy Text, even from Levit. 27. 28, 29. wherein it is expreſly provided, That no Devoted thing, whether Man or Beaſt, ſhould be redeemed, but ſhould ſurely be put to Death; a place, which it is not ſtrange that a Soldier in ſo ignorant an Age ſhould miſtake, ſeeing even ſome Learned Divines, in this knowing Age, and Capellus, amongſt the reſt, have fallen into the ſame error, and juſtified Jephthah's action from that place; and though I doubt not they run into the other extream, as Men commonly do, thoſe words being to be otherwiſe underſtood than they take them (of which ſee my Notes on that place) yet it muſt be granted that place gave Jephthah a very colourable pretext for the Action; and being puſhed on by Zeal for God, and the Conſcience of his Vow, he might eaſily be induced to it; and though this was a Sin in him, yet it was but a Sin of Ignorance; which therefore was overlooked by a gracious God, and not reproved by any Holy men of God. It is probably conceived, that the Greeks, who uſed to ſteal ſacred Hiſtories, and turn them into Fables, had from this Hiſtory their relation of Iphigenia (which may be put for Jephtigenia) Sacrificed by her Father Agamemnon, which is deſcribed by many of the ſame circumſtances wherewith this is accompanied. b To wit, carnally; ſhe died a Virgin.

†Heb. from days to days.

CHAP. XII.

The Ephramites wage War againſt Jephthah: Are ſmitten by the Gileadites: And being diſcerned by Shibboleth, are ſlain to the number of two and forty thouſand, 1——6. Jephthah dies, 7. After him Ibzan, 8—10. Elon, 11, 12. Abdon 13—15. Were Judges over Iſrael.

† Heb. were called.

AND the men of Ephraim † gathered themſelves together, and went northward a, and ſaid unto Jephthah b, Wherefore paſſedſt thou over c to fight againſt the children of Ammon, and didſt not call us to go with thee? We will burn thine houſe upon thee with fire.

a Over Jordan, ſo Northward towards Mizpeh, where Jephthah was, Judg. 11. 34. and which was in the Northern part of the Land beyond Jordan. b Through Pride and Envy, contending with him as they did before with Gideon, Judg. 8. 1. c Not over Jordan, for there he was already; but over the Borders of the Iſraelites land beyond Jordan, as appears by comparing this with Judg. 11. 29. where the ſame Phraſe is uſed.

2 And Jephthah ſaid unto them, I and my people were at great ſtrife with the children of Ammon; and when I called you d, ye delivered me not out of their hand.

d Hence it appears, that he craved their aſſiſtance, which they denied; though that be not elſewhere expreſſed.

3 And when I ſaw that ye delivered me not, I put my life in my hand e, and paſſed over againſt the children of Ammon, and the LORD delivered them into my hand. Wherefore then are ye come up unto me this day to fight againſt me f?

e i.e. I expoſed my ſelf to utmoſt danger; as a man that carries a brittle and precious thing in his hand, which may eaſily either fall to the ground, or be ſnatched from him. The ſame Phraſe is uſed 1 Sam. 19. 5. and 28. 21. Job 13. 14. Pſal. 119. 109. f Why do you thus requite my kindneſs' in running into ſuch hazard to preſerve you and yours?

4 Then Jephthah gathered together all the men of Gilead, and fought with Ephraim: and the men of Gilead ſmote Ephraim, becauſe they ſaid, Ye Gileadites are fugitives of Ephraim, among the Epraimites, and among the Manaſſites g.

g According to this Tranſlation, theſe words are a ſcoffing and contemptuous expreſſion of the Ephraimites concerning the Gileadites, whom they call Fugitives of Ephraim; the word Ephraim being here taken largely, as it is elſewhere, as Iſa. 7. 2, 5. ſo as it comprehends the other Neighbouring Tribes, of which Ephraim was in ſome ſort the head or chief; and eſpecially their Brethren of Manaſſeh, who lived next to them, and were deſcended from the ſame Father, Joſeph; by reaſon whereof, both theſe Tribes are ſometimes reckoned for one, and called by the name of the Tribe of Joſeph. And this large ſignification of Ephraim may ſeem probable from the following words, where, inſtead of Ephraim is put the Ephraimites, and the Manaſſites. By Gileadites here they ſeem principally to mean the Manaſſites beyond Jordan, who dwelt in Gilead, as appears from Deut. 3. 13. Joſh. 17. 1, 5, 6. And although other Gileadites were joyn'd with them, yet they vent their paſſion againſt theſe; principally, becauſe they envied them moſt; partly, becauſe they ſeemed to have had a chief hand in the Victory, Judg. 11. 29. And partly, becauſe they were more nearly related to them, and therefore more obliged to deſire their Conjunction with them in the War. Theſe they here opprobriouſly call fugitives, i. e. ſuch as had deſerted their Brethren of Ephraim and Manaſſeh, and for ſome worldly advantage planted themſelves beyond Jordan, at a diſtance from their Brethren, and were alienated in Affection from them, and carried on a diſtinct and ſeparate Intereſt of their own; as appears by their Monopolizing the glory of this Succeſs to themſelves, and excluding their Brethren from it. According to the Hebrew, the words lie, and may be rendred thus, Therefore (ſo chi is oft rendred) they ſaid, Fugitives of Ephraim are ye; (i. e. Ye Ephraimites are meer run-aways: for the words next foregoing are, the men of Gilead ſmote Ephraim. And having told you what they ſaid, becauſe the Pronoun they was ambiguous, he adds by way of Explication) who ſaid it, even, the Gileadites (and they ſaid it when they had got the advantage over them, and got between them and home, as the next verſe ſhews) being between Ephraim and Manaſſeh; i. e. Having taken the paſſages of Jordan, as it follows, which lay between Ephraim and that part of Manaſſeh which was beyond Jordan. Or theſe latter words may be rendred thus, And the Gileadites were between Ephraim and Manaſſeh. So there is only an Ellipſis of two ſmall words, which are oft defective, and to be underſtood in Scripture. Or thus, And the Gileadites were in the midſt of the Ephraimites, and in the midſt of the Manaſſites, to wit, thoſe Manaſſites who ordinarily lived within Jordan, who poſſibly were confederate with the Ephraimites in this quarrel. And ſo the meaning is, they followed cloſe after them, and overtook them, and fell upon the midſt of them, and ſmote them; and they ſent a party to intercept them at the paſſages of Jordan, as it here follows.

5 And the Gileadites took the paſſages of Jordan before the Ephraimites: and it was ſo, that when thoſe Ephraimites which were eſcaped h, ſaid, Let me go over, that the men of Gilead ſaid unto him, Art thou an Ephraimite? If he ſaid, Nay i.

h Heb. The fugitives of Ephraim, as before; for the Hebrew words are the ſame. Which may make the latter Expoſition of the foregoing words more probable, to wit, that it is not the Gileadites, but the Ephraimites who are there as well as here ſo called, becauſe they were ſmitten before Jephthah, and fled from him. i To avoid the preſent danger.

6 Then ſaid they unto him, Say now Shibboleth k; and he ſaid Sibboleth l: for he could not frame to pronounce it right m. Then they took him, and ſlew him at the paſſages of Jordan: and there fell at that time n of the Ephraimites forty and two thouſand.

k Which ſignifies a ſtream or river, which they deſired to paſs over: ſo it was a word proper for the occaſion, and gave them no cauſe to ſuſpect the Deſign, becauſe they were required only to expreſs their Deſire, to go over the Shibboleth or River. l It is well known, that not only divers Nations, but divers Provinces, or Parts of the ſame Nation who uſe the ſame Language, differ in their dialect and manner of pronunciation. m Or rather, he did not frame or direct himſelf to ſpeak ſo, or to ſpeak right; i. e. So as he was required to do it. The Hebrew Text doth not ſay, that he could not do it, but that he did it not, becauſe he ſuſpecting not the Deſign of it, uttered it ſpeedily according to his manner of Expreſſion. n Not in that Place, at the Paſſages of Jordan, but in that Expedition, being ſlain either in the Battel, or in the Purſuit, or at Jordan.

7 And Jephthah judged Iſrael ſix years: then died Jephthah the Gileadite, and was buried in one of the cities o of Gilead.

o Heb. In the cities. The Plural Number put for the Singular, as Gen. 19. 29. where Lot is ſaid to dwell in the cities, i. e. one of the Cities: And 1 Sam. 18. 21. the twain is put for one of the twain: and Judg. 18. 14. houſes for houſe: and Jonah 1. 5. the ſides, for one of the ſides.

8 ¶ And after him Ibzan of Bethlehem p judged Iſrael.

p Either that in Judah, of which Matth. 2. 6. Or that in Zebulun, Joſh. 19. 15.

9 And he had thirty ſons, and thirty daughters, whom he had ſent abroad, and took q in thirty daughters from abroad for his ſons. And he judged Iſrael ſeven years.

q i. e. Took them home for Wives to his Sons. See Gen. 24. 67. and 31. 50. Deut. 21. 12. 2 Sam. 11. 27.

10 Then died Ibzan, and was buried at Bethlehem.

11 And after him, Elon a Zebulonite judged Iſrael; and he judged Iſrael ten years.

12 And Elon the Zebulonite died, and was buried in Ajalon, in the country of Zebulun r.

r This is added to diſtinguiſh it from other Ajalons, of which ſee Judg. 1. 35. 1 Chron. 6. 69. and 8. 13.

13 ¶ And after him, Abdon the ſon of Hillel a Pirathonite judged Iſrael.

14 And he had forty ſons, and thirty † nephews, that * rode on threeſcore and ten aſs-colts, and he judged Iſrael eight years.

† Heb. Sons ſons. * Chap. 5. 10. and 10. 4.

15 And Abdon the ſon of Hillel the Pirathonite died, and was buried in Pirathon in the land of Ephraim, in the mount of the Amalekites s.

s So called from ſome remarkable Exploit, done either by, or upon the Amalekites in that place.

CHAP. XIII.

The Philiſtines again oppreſs Iſrael, 1. An angel appeareth to Manoah's wife: promiſing her a ſon that ſhould be a Nazarite: and deliver Iſrael, 2,—6. She informs her husband hereof: he prayeth: and obtaineth a return of the angel, 7,—14. Manoah is deſirous to provide food for the angel: and enquireth after his name, 15,—18. He ſacrificeth to the Lord: and the angel aſcendeth to heaven in the flame of the burnt-offering, 19,—21. hereat Manoah is affrighted: but comforted by his wife: who beareth him a ſon: his name Samſon: in whom is the Spirit of the Lord, 22,—25.

AND the children of Iſrael † * did evil a again in the ſight of the LORD, and the LORD delivered them into the hand of the Philiſtines forty years b.

† Heb. added to commit &c. * Chap. 2. 11. and 3. 7. and 4. 1. and 6. 1. and 10. 6.

a i. e. Fell into Idolatry, &c. not now after the death of Abdon the laſt Judge, but in the days of the former Judges. b To be computed, not from Abdon's death, but before that time, as is evident both from v. 5. where it is declared, that Iſrael was under the Power of the Philiſtines: and from Judg. 15. 20. where only twenty of theſe Years are ſaid to have been in Samſon's days. And it is probably conceived, that that great ſlaughter of the Ephramites made by Jephthah, did greatly encourage the Philiſtines to riſe againſt Iſrael, when one of their chief Bulwarks was ſo much weakned; and therefore that the Philiſtines began to domineer over them not long after Jephthah's death.

2 ¶ And there was a certain man of Zorah c, of the family d of the Danites, whoſe name was Manoah, and and his wife was barren, and bare not e.

c A City, of which ſee Joſh. 15. 33. and 19. 41. d i. e. Of the Tribe or People, as family ſometimes ſignifies, Joſh. 7. 17. Jer. 8. 3. and 10. 25. Amos 3. 1. Mich. 2. 3. Zach. 14. 18. e An emphatical repetition of the ſame thing in divers words, which is an uſual Elegancy both in Scripture and other Authors.

3 And † the angel of the LORD f appeared unto the woman, and ſaid unto her, Behold now, thou art barren, and beareſt not: but thou ſhalt conceive, and bear a ſon.

† Heb. an angel.

f The Son of God, oft ſo called in the old Teſtament, as may be gathered from v. 18. yet diſtinguiſhed from the Lord, becauſe he appeared here as it were in the form of a Servant, as a Meſſenger ſent from God, and was really a diſtinct Perſon from God the Father.

4 Now therefore, beware I pray thee g, * and drink not wine, nor ſtrong drink h, and eat not any unclean thing i.

* Numb. 6. 2, 3.

g Becauſe the Child was to be a Nazarite from the Womb, v. 5. and from the Conception; and becauſe the Mothers Pollution extends to the Child, ſhe is enjoyned from this time to obſerve the following Rules belonging to the Nazarites. h under which by a Synecdoche are comprehended the other particulars mentioned Numb. 6. 2, 3, 4. as is implyed v. 14. i. Any of thoſe meats forbidden, Levit. 11. which were forbidden to all, but eſpecially to the Nazarites.

5 For lo, thou ſhalt conceive and bear a ſon, and * no raſor ſhall come on his head: for the child ſhall be a Nazarite k unto God from the womb: and he ſhall begin to deliver Iſrael l out of the hand of the Philiſtines.

* Numb. 6. 5. 1 Sam. 1. 11.

k A Perſon ſeparated from others, and conſecrated to God's Service. l And the deliverance ſhall be carried on and perfected by others, as it was in part by Eli, and Samuel, and Saul; but eſpecially by David.

6 ¶ Then the woman came, and told her husband, ſaying, A man of God m came unto me, and his countenance was like the countenance of an angel of God, very terrible n: but I asked him not whence he was, neither told he me his name:

m A Prophet, or ſacred Perſon, ſent with a Meſſage from God, n Or, venerable, or awful, full of Majeſty.

7 But he ſaid unto me, Behold, thou ſhalt conceive, and bear a ſon: and now drink no wine, nor ſtrong drink, neither eat any † unclean thing: for the child ſhall be a Nazarite to God from the womb, to the day of his death.

8 ¶ Then Manoah intreated the LORD, and ſaid, O my LORD, let the man of God, which thou didſt ſend, come again unto us, and teach us what we ſhall do unto the child that ſhall be born.

9 And God hearkned to the voice of Manoah: and the angel of God came again unto the woman as ſhe ſate in the field: but Manoah her husband was not with her.

10 And the woman made haſte, and ran, and ſhewed her husband, and ſaid unto him, Behold, the man hath appeared unto me, that came unto me the other day.

11 And Manoah aroſe, and went after his wife, and came to the man, and ſaid unto him, Art thou the man that ſpeakeſt unto the woman? and he ſaid, I am.

12 And Manoah ſaid, Now let thy words come to paſs o: † how ſhall we order the child p? and || † how ſhall we do unto him?

† Heb. what ſhall be the manner of the, &c. || Or, what ſhall he do? † Heb. what ſhall be his work?

o Or, thy words ſhall come to paſs: I firmly believe that thy Promiſes ſhall be fulfilled. p What Rules ſhall we obſerve about his Education?

13 And the angel of the LORD ſaid unto Manoah, Of all that I ſaid unto the woman, let her beware q.

q Whilſt the Child is in her Womb, and after the Child is born, let him obſerve the ſame Orders.

14 She may not eat of any thing that cometh of the vine, neither let her drink wine, or ſtrong drink, neither eat any † unclean thing: all that I commanded her, let her obſerve.

† Heb. uncleanneſs.

15 ¶ And Manoah ſaid unto the angel of the LORD, I pray thee, let us detain thee until we ſhall have made ready a kid † for thee r.

† Heb. before thee.

r Suppoſing him to be a Man and a Prophet, to whom he would in this manner expreſs his Reſpect, as was uſual to ſtrangers. See Gen. 18. 5. Judg. 6. 18.

16 And the angel of the LORD ſaid unto Manoah, Though thou detain me, I will not eat of thy bread ſ: and if thou wilt offer a burnt-offering, thou muſt offer it unto the LORD t: for Manoah knew not that he was an angel of the LORD.

ſ i. e. Meat, as bread is commonly taken in Scripture. t Not unto a Man, as now thou apprehendeſt me to be; but unto the Lord, as thou wiltſt by and by perceive me to be.

17 And Manoah ſaid unto the angel of the LORD, What is thy name, that when thy ſayings come to paſs, we may do thee honour u?

u Either by making honourable mention of thee, or by performing reſpect and ſervice to thee, by a Preſent, which they uſually gave to Prophets, 1 Sam. 9. 7, 8. 2 King. 14. 3.

18 And the angel of the LORD ſaid unto him, Why * askeſt thou thus after my name, ſeeing it is || ſecret x.

* Gen. 32. 29. || Or, wonderful.

x Or, hidden from mortal Men: or, wonderful, ſuch as thou canſt not comprehend: my Nature or Eſſence (which is oft ſignified by name in Scripture) is incomprehenſible. This ſhews, that this was the Angel of the Covenant, the Son of God.

19 So Manoah took a kid, with a meat-offering y, and offered it upon a rock z to the LORD; and the angel did wondrouſly, and Manoah and his wife looked on.

y Which were generally joyned with the chief Sacrifices. z The Angel's Preſence and Command being a ſufficient Warrant for the offering of Sacrifice by a Perſon who was no Prieſt, and in a Place otherwiſe forbidden.

20 For it came to paſs when the flame a went up toward heaven from off the altar b, that the angel of the LORD aſcended in the flame c of the altar: and Manoah and his wife looked on it, and fell on their faces d to the ground.

a Either ariſing from the Fire which Manoah brought for the Offering: or produced by the Angel out of the Rock in a miraculous manner. b i.e. From that part of the Rock which ſerved inſtead of an Altar, upon which the Sacrifice was laid. c To manifeſt his Nature and Eſſence to be Spiritual, becauſe not capable of hurt by the Fire; and Celeſtial. d Partly in Reverence to that glorious Preſence manifeſted in ſo wonderful a manner: and partly, out of a religious Horror and Fear of Death upon this occaſion; as is expreſſed v. 22. for the prevention whereof they fell down in way of Supplication to God.

21 (But the angel of the LODD did no more appear to Manoah and to his wife): then Manoah knew that he was an angel of the LORD.

* Exod. 33. 20. Deut. 5. 20, 26. Chap. 6. 22.

22 And Manoah ſaid unto his wife, * We ſhall ſurely die, becauſe we have ſeen God.

23 But his wife ſaid unto him, If the LORD were pleaſed to kill us, he would not have received a burnt-offering, and a meat-offering at our hands, neither would he have ſhewed us all theſe things, nor would as at this time e have told us ſuch things as theſe.

e Or, at this time: The Particle, as, noting here, not likeneſs, but the truth and reality of the thing, as it doth Numb. 11. 1. Deut. 9. 10. and elſewhere. This Expreſſion ſeems to have ſome Emphaſis in it, to enhance God's Mercy to them, as being afforded them in a time of ſuch publick and grievous Calamity; and in a time when the Word of the Lord was precious; and there was no open Viſion, as it was afterwards, 1 Sam. 3. 1.

* Heb. 11. 32.

24 ¶ And the woman bare a ſon, and called his name * Samſon: and the child grew, and the LORD bleſſed him f.

f i.e. Endowed him with all thoſe Graces and Gifts of Mind and Body which were neceſſary for the Work he was deſigned for.

25 And the Spirit of the LORD began to move him at times g, in the camp of Dan h, between Zorah and Eſhtaol.

g i. e. To ſtir him up to Heroical Deſigns; to ſhew forth its Power in him in the frame of his Mind, and in the ſtrength of his Body, diſcovered to his Neighbours in extraordinary Actions; to encline his Heart to great Attempts to the help and deliverance of God's People, and to give ſome Eſſays of it to his Brethren, and to ſeek all Opportunities for it, as he did in the next Chapter. h A Place ſo called, either from the Expedition of the Danites, Judg. 18. 11, 12. which though placed after this Hiſtory, was done before it: or from ſome other Camp which the Danites had formed there at this time, to give ſome check to the Incurſions of the Philiſtines.

CHAP. XIV.

Samſon deſires to wife a daughter of the Philiſtines of Timnath: and this of the Lord for an occaſion againſt them, 1,—4. His parents go down with him to Timnath: a young lion meets him: he kills it, 5,-7. In his return he findeth honey in the carcaſe, 8, 9. Keepeth a marriage feaſt: hath thirty companions adjoyned to him: to whom he propoundeth a riddle: with promiſe of a preſent, 10, —15. His wife extorts from him the explication: and diſcovereth it, 16, —— 18. He ſlayeth thirty Philiſtines of Askelon: and therewith payeth his preſent, 19. His wife is given to another, 20.

AND Samſon went down a to Timnath b, and ſaw a woman in Timnath, of the daughters of the Philiſtines.

a After he was come to mature Age. b A Place not far from the Sea; of which ſee Gen. 38. 12. Joſh. 15. 57. and 19. 43.

2 And he came up, and told his father and his mother, and ſaid, I have ſeen a woman in Timnath, of the daughters of the Philiſtines: now therefore get her for me to wife.

3 Then his father and his mother ſaid unto him, Is there never a woman among the daughters of thy brethren, or among all my people, that thou goeſt to take a wife of the uncircumciſed Philiſtines c? and Samſon ſaid unto his Father, Get her for me d; for † ſhe pleaſeth me well e. † Heb. ſhe is right in mine eyes.

c With whom the Iſraelites were forbidden to Marry, Exod. 34. 12, &c. And although the Philiſtines were not Canaanites in their Original, Gen. 10. 14. Deut. 2. 23. yet they were ſo in their habitation, and concurrence with them in Wickedneſs, and therefore were liable to the ſame Cenſures and Judgments with them. d This action of Samſon's, though againſt common Rules, ſeems to be warranted, partly by the greatneſs and goodneſs of his Deſign in it; and principally by the inſtinct and direction of God, which is mentioned in the following words, which was known to Samſon, but not to his Parents. e Not ſo much for her Beauty, as for the Deſign mentioned in the next Verſe.

* 1 King. 12. 15. 2 Chron. 10. 15. and 22. 7. and 25. 20.

4 But his father and his mother * knew not that it was of the LORD, that he ſought an occaſion againſt the Philiſtines f: for at that time the Philiſtines had dominion over Iſrael.

f Which he knew by very probable Conjecture, if not by particular Inſpiration, that Marriage would give him many ways.

5 Then went Samſon down, and his father and his mother g to Timnath, and came to the vineyards of Timnath h: and behold, a young lion roared † againſt him. † Heb. in meeting him.

g Who accompanied him, either becauſe they were now acquainted with his Deſign; or, to order the Circumſtances of that Action which they ſaw he was ſet upon: or, to watch if they could find any occaſion to take him off from his Intention. h Whither he had turned aſide either by a Divine Impulſe, or upon ſome real or pretended Occaſion.

6 And the ſpirit of the LORD came mightily upon him i, and he rent him as he would have rent a kid k, and he had nothing in his hand: but he told not his father or his mother what he had done l.

i Stirred up and increaſed his Courage and bodily Strength. k As ſoon and as ſafely. l Leſt by their means it ſhould be publickly known; for he wiſely conſidered, that it was not yet a fit time to awaken the Jealouſies and Fears of the Philiſtines concerning him, as this would have done.

7 And he went down, and talked with the woman, and ſhe pleaſed Samſon well.

8 ¶ And after a time m he returned to take her: and he turned aſide to ſee the carcaſe of the lion, and behold, there was a ſwarm of bees n, and honey in the carcaſe of the lion.

m Heb. after days; i.e. Either after ſome days: or, rather, after a year, as that word oft ſignifies; as Exod. 13. 10. Levit. 25. 29. Numb. 9. 22. Judg. 17. 10. 1 Sam. 1. 3. and 27. 7. when the Fleſh of the Lion, which by its ſtrong ſmell is offenſive to, and avoided by Bees, was wholly conſumed, and nothing was left but the Bones. n Not generated of the dead Lion's Body, but elſewhere, and ſetling themſelves there, as they have ſometimes done in a Man's Skull, and in a Sepulchre, and ſuch like Places.

9 And he took thereof in his hands o, and went on eating, and came to his father and mother p, and he gave them, and they did eat: but he told not them that he had taken the honey out of the carcaſe of the lion.

o Out of the Lion's Carcaſe. Queſt. Did not Samſon tranſgreſs in touching a Carcaſe? Anſw. It was in it ſelf a legal Pollution: but ſome ſuch Pollutions were involuntary and unavoidable, as in one that hath an Iſſue running in his ſleep; and ſome were neceſſary Duties, as in thoſe who were to attend upon a Woman in her Month, or upon the burial of a dead Body. And ſuch was this Pollution, being contracted by Divine Inſtinct and Direction, and in order to God's Honour, and therefore diſpenſed with by the Author of that Law, and required by him for his Service. p From whom he had turned aſide for a ſeaſon, v. 8. upon ſome pretence or other.

10 ¶ So his father went down unto the woman, and Samſon made there a feaſt: for ſo uſed the young men to do.

11 And it came to paſs when they ſaw him q, that they brought thirty companions to be with him r.

q Or, obſerved or conſidered him, his Stature, and Strength, and Countenance, and Carriage, which were extraordinary. r Partly in compliance with the Cuſtom of having Bride-men; of which ſee Matth. 9. 15. Mark 2. 19. Joh. 3. 29. though they were not ſo numerous; and principally by way of Caution, and as a Guard put upon him under a pretence of Reſpect and Affection.

12 ¶ And Samſon ſaid unto them, I will now put forth a riddle s unto you: if ye can certainly declare it me within the ſeven days of the feaſt t, and find it out, then I will give you thirty ‖ ſheets u, and thirty change of garments x. ‖ Or, ſhirts.

s i.e. An obſcure Sentence for you to reſolve and explain. t For ſo long Marriage-Feaſts laſted. See Gen. 29. 27. u Fine Linen-Cloathes, which were uſed for many purpoſes in thoſe Parts. See Matth. 27. 59. Mark 14. 51. x i. e. Changeable Suits of Apparel, as below, v. 19. and Gen. 45. 22.

13 But if ye cannot declare it me, then ſhall ye give me thirty ſheets, and thirty change of garments. And they ſaid unto him, Put forth thy riddle that we may hear it.

14 And he ſaid unto them, Out of the eater came forth meat, and out of the ſtrong came forth ſweetneſs y. And they could not in theſe days expound the riddle.

y i. e. Out of that ſtrong and devouring Creature, the Lion, came forth ſweet Meat; to wit, Honey: withal it is covertly implied, that the Philiſtines, though now they had Strength on their ſide, and Dominion over Iſrael, whom they did devour upon all occaſions, yet at laſt they ſhould become Meat to the Iſraelites.

15 And it came to paſs on the ſeventh day z, that they ſaid unto Samſons wife, Entice thy husband, that he may declare unto us the riddle, leſt we burn thee and thy fathers houſe with fire: Have ye called us † to take that we have a? is it not ſo? † Heb. to poſſeſs us; or, to impoveriſh us.

z They had doubtleſs ſpoken to her before this time, but with ſome remiſneſs, ſuppoſing that they ſhould find it out; but now their time being nigh ſlipped, they preſs her with more vehemency, and put her under a neceſſity of ſearching it out. a i. e. To ſtrip us of our Garments: and ſo your Civility will end in groſs Unkindneſs and Injuſtice.

16 And Samſons wife wept before him, and ſaid Thou doeſt but hate me, and loveſt me not: thou haſt put forth a riddle unto the children of my people, and haſt not told it me. And he ſaid unto her, Behold, I have not told it my father, nor my mother b, and ſhall I tell it thee?

b Though I have had much more Experience of their Fidelity and Taciturnity, than of thine.

|| Or, the reſt of the ſeven days, &c.

17 And ſhe wept before him || the ſeven days, while the feaſt laſted c: and it came to paſs on the ſeventh day, that he told her, becauſe ſhe lay ſore upon him: and ſhe told the riddle to the children of her people.

c i. e. On the reſidue of the ſeven days; to wit, after the third day. It is a familiar Synecdoche. Or, on the ſeventh of the days, on which the Feaſt was: And then the following Clauſe, on the ſeventh day, is only the Noun repeated for the Pronoun, on that day; as is moſt frequent, as 1 King. 8. 1. Solomon aſſembled——unto Solomon, i. e. unto himſelf.

18 And the men of the city ſaid unto him on the ſeventh day before the ſun went down, What is ſweeter than honey, and what is ſtronger than a lion? And he ſaid unto them, If ye had not plowed with my heifer d, ye had not found out my riddle.

d If you had not employed my Wife to find it out, as Men Plough up the Ground with an Heifer, thereby diſcovering its hidden parts; he calls her Heifer, either, becauſe he now ſuſpected her wantonneſs and too much familiarity with that Friend which ſhe afterwards married; or, becauſe ſhe was joined with him in the ſame Yoak; or, rather, becauſe they uſed ſuch in Ploughing.

|| Or, apparel.

19 ¶ And the ſpirit of the LORD came upon him e, and he went down to Aſhkelon f, and ſlew thirty men of them, and took their || ſpoil, and gave change of garments g unto them which expounded the riddle, and his anger was kindled h, and he went up i to his fathers houſe.

e Though he had a conſtant habit of eminent Strength and Courage; yet that was exceedingly increaſed upon ſpecial occaſions, by the extraordinary influences of God's Spirit. f Either to the Territory, which oft comes under the name of the City; or to the City it ſelf, where he had both Strength and Courage enough to attempt what here follows; and upon the doing hereof they were doubtleſs ſtruck with ſuch a Terrour, that every one ſought only to preſerve himſelf, and none durſt oppoſe or purſue him. g Together with their Sheets or Shirts, which it ſufficed to imply here, being expreſſed above, v. 13. h For the Treachery of his Wife and Companions. i To wit, alone, or without his Wife.

20 But Samſons wife was given k to his companion, whom he had uſed as his friend l.

k By her Father. l i e. To the chief of the Bride-men, to whom he had ſhewed moſt Reſpect and Kindneſs.

CHAP. XV.

Samſon deſireth to viſit his wife: is denied her: wherefore he tieth fire-brands to three hundred foxes tails, and ſets the corn on fire, 1,—5. For which they burn his wife and her father, 6. Samſon's revenge, 7, 8. The Philiſtines pitch in Judah and demand Samſon: the men of Judah bind and deliver him, 9,—13. He breaketh his bonds and ſlayeth one thouſand Philiſtines with the jaw-bone of an aſs, 14,—17. He is a thirſt: prays: obtains water out of it, 18,——20.

BUT it came to paſs within a while after, in the time of wheat harveſt a, that Samſon viſited his wife with a kid: and he ſaid, I will go in to my wife into the chamber b. But her father would not ſuffer him to go in.

a Which Circumſtance is noted as the proper ſeaſon for the following Exploit, b Into her proper Chamber, which Women had diſtinct and ſeparate from the Mens.

2 And her father ſaid, I verily thought that thou hadſt utterly hated her c, therefore I gave her to thy companion: is not her younger ſiſter fairer than ſhe? † take her, I pray thee, inſtead of her.

† Heb. Let her be thine.

c Becauſe thou didſt deſert her in great Wrath: But this was not ſufficient cauſe; for he ſhould have endeavoured a reconciliation, or waited for it; and not have diſpoſed of another Man's Wife without his conſent; which is not only againſt the Law of God, but of Nature alſo.

|| Or, Now ſhall I be blameleſs, from the Philiſtines, though, &c.

3 ¶ And Samſon ſaid concerning them, || Now ſhall I be more blameleſs that the Philiſtines, though I do them a diſpleaſure d.

d Becauſe they have firſt provoked me by an irreparable Injury: But although this may look like an act of private Revenge; yet it is plain enough, that Samſon acted as a Judge (for ſo he was) and as an Avenger of the Publick Injuries and Oppreſſions of his People; as plainly appears from hence, that Samſon deſigned this very thing before he had received any perſonal Injury, Judg. 14. 4.

|| Or, Torches.

4 And Samſon went and caught three hundred foxes e, and took || fire-brands f, and turned tail to tail, and put a fire-brand in the midſt between two tails g.

e Of which there were great numbers in Canaan, as appears from Neh. 4. 3. Pſal. 62. 11. Cantic. 2. 15. Lam. 5. 18. Ezek. 13. 4. So that divers Places there have their Names from the Foxes which abounded there; as, Joſ. 15. 28. and 19. 42. 1 Sam. 13. 17. Add to this, that ſome learned Men conceive that the Hebrew Name Schual is more general, and contains not only the Foxes, but another ſort of Creature very like to them, called Thoes, whereof there were ſo many there, that ſometimes 200 of them have been met together in one Company; as ſome who have lived in thoſe Parts have left upon Record: But Infidels are much ſcandalized at this Hiſtory, and pretend it incredible that Samſon ſhould catch ſo many Foxes together; ſo nice and delicate is the Faith of theſe Men in things concerning God and Scripture, that can devour things ten times more difficult and abſurd, concerning the production of the World, and of Men, &c. But there is no cauſe of wonder here, for any Man that is tollerably wiſe; for it is not ſaid that Samſon caught them all, either at one time, or by his own hands; for being ſo eminent a Perſon, and the Judge of Iſrael, he might require aſſiſtance of as many Perſons as he pleaſed, and all his People would readily aſſiſt him; nor can it at all perplex any Man's Reaſon or Faith, if it be allowed, that the God who made the World, and by his ſingular Providence watched over Iſrael, and intended them deliverance at this time, could eaſily diſpoſe things ſo that they might be taken. He choſe to do this Exploit, not by his Brethren, whom he would preſerve from the Envy, and Hatred, and Miſchief which that might have occaſioned to them, but by bruit Creatures, thereby to add ſcorn and contempt to their Calamity, and particularly by Foxes; partly, becauſe they were fitteſt for the purpoſe, being Creatures very fearful of Fire; and having ſuch Tails as the Fire-brands might moſt conveniently be tied to; and not going directly forward, but crookedly and involvedly, whereby the Fire was likely to be diſperſed in more places. f Made of ſuch matter as would quickly take Fire, and keep it for a long time; which was eaſie to procure. g That the Foxes might not make too much haſte, nor run into their holes, but one of them might delay and ſtop another in his courſe, and ſo continue longer in the places where they were to do Execution.

5 And when he had ſet the brands on fire, he let them go h into the ſtanding corn of the Philiſtines, and burnt up both the ſhocks, and alſo the ſtanding corn, with the vineyards and olives.

h To wit, ſucceſſively at ſeveral times; and in divers places, with great care and diſcretion, ſo as they might not hinder one another, nor all run into the ſame Field; but being diſperſed in all parts, might ſpread the Plague farther; and withal might be kept at a diſtance from the Fields and Vineyards of the Iſraelites. It is not worthy of our enquiry what became of theſe Foxes afterward, whether they were burnt by the Fire-brands, or run into Holes, or were taken and killed by the Philiſtines. The truth of this Hiſtory is notably atteſted by a Cuſtom of the Romans, which it is very probable they had from the Phœnicians, upon this occaſion; for every year they had a Solemnity in April, the very time of Canaan's Wheat-Harveſt, wherein Foxes were let looſe with burning Torches faſtned to their Back-ſides, &c.

6 ¶ Then the Philiſtines ſaid, Who hath done this? and they anſwered, Samſon the ſon in law of the Timnite, becauſe he had taken his wife, and given her to his companion. And the Philiſtines came up and burnt her i and her father with fire.

i Partly, for her Adultery, which divers Heathens puniſhed with Death; and partly, for that miſchief which ſhe had occaſioned to them; thus ſhe brought upon her ſelf that miſchief which ſhe ſtudied to avoid, Judg. 14. 15. as wicked Perſons oft do, Prov. 10. 24.

7 ¶ And Samſon ſaid unto them, Though ye have done this, yet will I be avenged of you k, and after that I will ceaſe.

k Whereby it appears, that it was not his private Injuries, but the Publick, which he did revenge.

8 And he ſmote them hip and thigh l with a great ſlaughter m; and he went down and dwelt in the top of the rock Etam n.

l Upon their Hips and Thighs, peradventure not deſigning to kill them, but to make them uncapable of Military employment; or, of doing hurt to the Iſraelites. Or, He ſmote them with his Leg upon their Thigh; i. e. without any other Weapon but his Leg and Foot he kicked them, and made them lame and uſeleſs for War. m Heb. with a great ſtroke; for ſo it was, even to them whom it did not kill. n Partly, becauſe there he could better defend himſelf from his Enemies; and partly, becauſe he would not involve his Brethren in the ſame danger with himſelf, but like a worthy Magiſtrate, would ſecure them even with his own greater hazard.

9 ¶ Then the Philiſtines went up, and pitched in Judah o, and ſpread themſelves p in Lehi q.

o Where the Rock Etam was, ſee 1 Chron. 4. 32. 2 Chron. 11. 5, 6. p As coming in great Numbers with a powerful Hoſt. q A Place ſo called by anticipation, v. 17.

10 And the men of Judah ſaid, Why are ye come up againſt us? And they anſwered, To bind Samſon are we come up, to do to him, as he hath done to us.

11 Then three thouſand men of Judah † went to the top of the rock Etam, and ſaid to Samſon, Knoweſt thou not that the Philiſtines are rulers over us?

† Heb. went down.

what is this that thou haſt done unto us r? And he ſaid unto them, As they did unto me, ſo have I done unto them.

r Thou haſt by theſe Actions puniſhed not them, as thou intendeſt; but us, who being under their Dominion, are ſure to ſmart for it.

12 And they ſaid unto him, We are come down to bind thee, that we may deliver thee into the hand of the Philiſtines. And Samſon ſaid unto them, Swear unto me, that ye will not fall upon me your ſelves ſ.

ſ Not that he feared them, or could not as eaſily have conquered them, as he did the whole Hoſt of the Philiſtines; but, becauſe he would be free from all Obligation or Temptation of doing them any harm, though it were in his own juſt and neceſſary defence.

13 And they ſpake unto him, ſaying, No, but we will bind thee faſt, and deliver thee into their hand: but ſurely we will not kill thee. And they bound him with two new cords, and brought him up from the rock t.

t i.e. From the Cave or Hole in the Rock, in which he had ſecured himſelf, out of which he was firſt brought up, and then carried down from the Rock to the Plain.

14 ¶ And when he came unto Lehi, the Philiſtines ſhouted againſt him u, and the ſpirit of the LORD came mightily upon him, and the cords that were upon his arms became as flax that was burnt with fire, and his bands † looſed x from off his hands.

† Heb. were melted.

u For Joy and Triumph, becauſe they had now their great Enemy, as they ſuppoſed, in their hands. x Heb. were melted; i.e. were diſſolved, as things are which are melted in the Fire.

15 And he found a † new y jaw-bone of an aſs, and put forth his hand, and took it, and ſlew a thouſand men therewith.

y And therefore more tough and ſtrong.

16 And Samſon ſaid, With the jaw-bone of an aſs, † heaps upon heaps, with the jaw-bone of an aſs have I ſlain a thouſand men z.

† Heb. an heap two heaps.

z This, though it might ſeem difficult, yet is not at all impoſſible or incredible; eſpecially, ſeeing the Learned affirm of the Aſſes of Syria, that they were larger and ſtronger than ours, and ſo conſequently were their Bones. And withal, it muſt be acknowledged, that there was ſomething extraordinary and miraculous in this, as there was unqueſtionably in Samſon's Strength, and ſo all the difficulty vaniſheth.

17 And it came to paſs, when he had made an end of ſpeaking, that he caſt away the jaw-bone out of his hand, and called that place ‖ Ramath-Lehi a.

‖ That is, the lifting up of the jaw-bone, or, caſting away of the jaw-bone.

a And by contraction, Lehi v. 14. it being uſual ſo to contract Proper Names; as Salem is put for Jeruſalem, Pſal. 76. 3. Sheba for Beerſheba, Joſ. 19. 2. and many other.

18 ¶ And he was ſore athirſt b, and called on the LORD, and ſaid, Thou haſt given this great deliverance into the hand of thy ſervant: and now ſhall I die for thirſt, and fall into the hand of the uncircumciſed c?

b So as he was ready to faint and die with Thirſt; which was partly natural, from his exceſſive toil and heat; partly, ſent by God, that by the experience of his own Impotency, he might be forced to aſcribe the Victory to God only, and not to himſelf. c Wilt thou not finiſh what thou haſt begun? Wilt thou undo what thou haſt done.

19 But God clave an hollow place d that was in ‖ the Jaw e, and there came water thereout, and when he had drunk, his ſpirit came again, and he revived: wherefore he called the name thereof † En-hakkore f, which is in Lehi unto this day g.

‖ Or, Lehi.

† That is, the well of him that called, or, cried.

d i.e. By cleaving a place, made it hollow; an expreſſion like that Iſa. 47. 2. grind Meal, i.e. Grind Corn into Meal; and that, Pſal. 74. 15 thou didſt cleave the fountain; i.e. cleave the Rock ſo as to make a Fountain in it. e In the Jaw-bone which he had uſed, which God could eaſily effect, either by cauſing the Jaw-bone to ſend forth Water, as the Rock formerly did, the Miracle being in effect the ſame, though in a differing ſubject, cauſing a Spring to break forth in Lehi; or, in that Lehi mentioned before, v. 14. for Lehi is both the name of a Place, and ſignifies a Jaw-bone. f i.e. The Fountain of him that cried for Thirſt; or, that called upon God for Deliverance; i.e. the Fountain or Well which was given in anſwer to my Prayer. g According to this Tranſlation, Lehi is the name of a Place, and not a Jaw-bone, becauſe it ſeems improbable that a Jaw-bone ſhould continue there ſo long, which every Traveller might take away, and would be forward enough to carry a Fountain with them in thoſe hot Countries; although it is not incredible that Paſſengers would generally forbear to meddle with, or remove ſo great a Monument of God's Power and Goodneſs; or, that the ſame God who made it inſtrumental to ſo great a wonder, ſhould add one Circumſtance more; to wit, fix it in the Earth, as a Teſtimony to Poſterity of the Truth of this glorious work: But theſe words may be otherwiſe rendred thus, which Fountain was in that Jaw-bone; and for the following words, unto this day; they may not be joined with the words next and immediately foregoing, as if the Fountain was there to this day; but with the former words, he called, &c. and ſo the Senſe may be this, That it was ſo called unto this day; and the Place may be thus read, he called the name thereof; or, the name thereof was called (ſuch active Verbs being frequently put paſſively and imperſonally,) The Well or Fountain of him that called or cried (which was in Lehi) unto this day.

20 And he judged Iſrael h in the days of the Philiſtines i twenty years.

h i.e. He pleaded their Cauſe, and avenged them againſt the Philiſtines. i i.e. Whilſt the Philiſtines had the Power and Dominion, from which he was not fully to deliver, but only to begin to deliver them, as it was foretold, Judg. 13. 5. From this place it is manifeſt, that in the computation of the times of the Judges, the years of Servitude or Oppreſſion are not to be ſeparated from the years of the Judges, and added to them, but are comprehended within them; which Propoſition is of great importance for clearing this difficult part of Scripture-Chronology, and for juſtifying that account of times given 1 King. 6. 1.

CHAP. XVI.

Samſon goeth in to an harlot: is hem'd in: riſeth at midnight: taketh the city-gates, poſts and barrs on his ſhoulders: and carrieth them up into a mountain, 1,—3. Is in love with Delilah: ſhe enticeth him to diſcover wherein his ſtrength lay: is thrice deceived: at laſt ſhe overcomes him, 4,—20. They put out his eyes and caſt him into priſon, 21. His hair grows again, 22. The lords of the Philiſtines and the people gather together to make ſport with him to the honour of their idols: and ſacrifice, 23,—25. Samſon getteth them to place his hands on the two pillars of the houſe: he prays to God: pulls down the houſe: and dieth: but more ſlain at his death than in his life, 26,—30. He is buried, 31.

THen went Samſon to Gaza a, and ſaw there † an harlot b, and went in unto her.

† Heb. a woman an harlot.

a A chief City, to make ſome new attempt upon the Philiſtines, whom he feared not either in their Cities or in their Camps, having had ſuch large experience of his own Strength, and of God's Aſſiſtance; poſſibly he came in thither by Night, unknown and unobſerved till afterwards. b Going into an Houſe of Publick Entertainment to refreſh himſelf, as the manner was, Joſ. 20. 1. He there ſaw this Harlot; which implies, that he did not go thither upon ſo evil a Deſign, but accidentally ſaw her there, and by giving way to luſtful Looks upon her, was enſnared by her.

2 And it was told the Gazites, ſaying, Samſon is come hither. And they compaſſed him in, and laid wait for him all night in the gate of the city, and were † quiet all night, ſaying, In the morning, when it is day, we ſhall kill him c.

c This they choſe to do, rather than to ſeize upon him in his Houſe and Bed by Night; either, becauſe they knew not certainly in what Houſe or Place he was; or, becauſe they thought that might cauſe great Terror, and Confuſion, and Miſchief among their own People; whereas in the day-time they might more fully diſcover him, and more unexpectly ſurpriſe him, and more certainly direct their Blows, and uſe their Weapons againſt him.

3 And Samſon lay till midnight, and aroſe at midnight d, and took the doors of the gate of the city e, and the two poſts, and went away with them f, † bar and all, and put them upon his ſhoulders, and carried them up to the top of an hill that is before Hebron g.

† Heb. with the bar.

d Being either ſmitten in Conſcience for his Sin, when he firſt awaked, and thence fearing Danger, as he had juſt cauſe to do; or, being ſecretly warned by God in a Dream; or, by an inward impulſe, for the prevention of his deſigned Deſtruction. e Not the great Gates, but leſſer Doors made in them, and ſtrengthned with diſtinct Poſts and Bars. f The Watch-men not expecting him till morning, and therefore being now retired into the ſides, or upper part of the Gate-Houſe, as the manner now is, to get ſome reſt, whereby to fit themſelves for their hard Service intended in the morning; or, if ſome of them were in his way, he could eaſily and ſpeedily ſtrike them dead, and break the Door, whilſt the reſt were partly aſtoniſhed with the ſurpriſe; and partly, preparing themſelves for reſiſtance: Nor durſt they purſue him, whom they now again perceived to have ſuch prodigious Strength and Courage; and to be ſo much above the fear of them, that he did not run away with all ſpeed, but went leiſurely, having ſo great a weight on his Shoulders, wherewith they knew he could both defend himſelf and offend them. g Either, 1. To an Hill near Hebron, which was above twenty miles from Gaza; or, 2. To the top of an high Hill not far from Gaza, which looked towards Hebron, which alſo ſtood upon another high Hill, and might be ſeen from this Place, though it was at a great diſtance from it. And Samſon did this not out of vain Oſtentation, but as an Evidence of his great Strength, for the Encouragement of his People to join with him more vigorouſly for their own Deliverance, than yet they had done, or durſt do; and for the greater terror and contempt of the Philiſtines. It may ſeem ſtrange that Samſon immediately after ſo foul a Sin ſhould have the Courage in himſelf, and the Strength from God, for ſo great a work. But firſt, it is probable, that Samſon had in ſome meaſure repented of his Sin, and begged of God Pardon and Aſſiſtance, which alſo he perceived by Inſtinct, that God would afford him. 2. This ſingular Strength and Courage was not in it ſelf a Grace, but a Gift, which might have been in a graceleſs Perſon, and therefore might continue in a good Man, notwithſtanding an hainous act of Sin; and it was ſuch a Gift as did not depend upon the diſpoſition of his Mind, but upon the right ordering of his Body, by the Rule given to him, and others of that Order.

4 ¶ And it came to paſs afterward, that he loved a woman h ‖ in the valley of Sorek, whoſe name was Delilah.

‖ Or, by the brook.

h Either, Firſt, with Conjugal Love, ſo as to Marry her, as divers both Jews and Chriſtians have thought. Or, Secondly, with Luſtful Love, as an Harlot: which, though not certain, becauſe the Phraſe is here ambiguous, ſhe being neither called an Harlot, as ſhe of Gaza was, v. 1. nor yet his Wife, as ſhe of Timnath was, Judg. 14. 2, 3, 20. yet it may ſeem more probable; partly, becauſe the dreadful puniſhment now inflicted upon Samſon for this Sin, whom God ſpared for the firſt Offence, is an intimation, that this Sin was not inferior to the former; partly, becauſe the Confidence which the Philiſtine Lords had in her, and their bold and frequent Treating with her, and the whole courſe of her Carriage towards Samſon, ſhew her to be a mercenary and perfidious Harlot, and not a Wife; whoſe Affection and Intereſt would have obliged her to better things; and partly, becauſe Samſon did not carry her home to his Houſe, as Huſbands uſe to do their Wives; but lodged in her Houſe: as appears from the whole Story.

5 And the Lords of the Philiſtines i came up unto her, and ſaid unto her, Entice him, and ſee wherein his great ſtrength lieth, and by what means we may prevail againſt him, that we may bind him to || afflict him k; and we will give thee every one of us eleven hundred pieces of ſilver l.

i The Lords of their five Principal Cities, who ſeem to have been united together at this time in one Ariſtocratical Government; or at leaſt were leagued together againſt him as their common Enemy. k To chaſtiſe him for his Injuries done to us. They mean to puniſh him ſeverely, as they did; but they expreſs it in mild words, leſt the horror of it might move her to pity him. l i.e. Shekels, as that Phraſe is commonly uſed, as Numb. 7. 13, 85. 2 Sam. 18. 12. 2 King. 6. 25.

6 ¶ And Delilah ſaid to Samſon, Tell me, I pray thee, wherein thy great ſtrength lieth m, and wherewith thou mighteſt be bound, to afflict thee?

m What is the cauſe of this prodigious Strength, or wherein doth it conſiſt? She ſeems to ask meerly out of curioſity, to underſtand the ſtate of a Perſon whom ſhe ſo highly values.

7 And Samſon ſaid unto her, If they bind me with ſeven || † green withs, that were never dried n, then ſhall I be weak, and be as † another man.

|| Or, new cords. † Heb. moiſt. † Heb. one of men. So Gr.

n Samſon is guilty both of the Sin of Lying, though he dreſs up the Lye in ſuch Circumſtances as might make it moſt probable; and of great Folly in encouraging her Enquiries, which he ſhould at firſt have check'd: But as he had forſaken God, ſo God had now forſaken him, and deprived him of common Prudence; otherwiſe the frequent repetition and vehement urging of this Queſtion might eaſily have raiſed Suſpicion in him.

8 Then the lords of the Philiſtines brought up to her ſeven green withs, which had not been dried, and ſhe bound him with them.

9 (Now there were men lying in wait, abiding with her in the chamber o) and ſhe ſaid unto him, The Philiſtines be upon thee, Samſon. And he brake the withs as a thread of tow is broken, when it † toucheth the fire: ſo his ſtrength was not known.

o With her; i. e. in the ſame Houſe, in a Chamber; i. e. in a ſecret Chamber within her call. Nor is it ſtrange that they did not fall upon him in his ſleep; partly, becauſe they feared to awake a ſleeping Lion; and partly, becauſe they expect an opportunity for doing their work more certainly, and with leſs danger.

10 And Delilah ſaid unto Samſon, Behold, thou haſt mocked me, and told me lyes: now tell me, I pray thee, wherewith thou mighteſt be bound?

11 And he ſaid unto her, If they bind me faſt with new ropes † that never were occupied, then ſhall I be weak, and be as † another man.

† Heb. herewith ork hath ot been one. † Heb. ne of men, er. 7.

12 Delilah therefore took new ropes, and bound him therewith, and ſaid unto him, The Philiſtines be upon thee, Samſon. (And there were liers in wait abiding in the chamber.) And he brake them from off his arms like a thread.

13 And Delilah ſaid unto Samſon, Hitherto thou haſt mocked me, and told me lyes: tell me wherewith thou mighteſt be bound. And he ſaid unto her, If thou weaveſt the ſeven locks of my head with the web p.

p Or, thread which is woven about a Weavers Loom: or, with a Weavers beam. If my Hair, which is all divided into ſeven Locks, be faſtned about a Weavers Beam; or interwoven with Weavers Threads: Underſtand out of the foregoing Verſes; then I ſhall be weak as another Man.

14 And ſhe faſtened it with the pin q, and ſaid unto him, The Philiſtines be upon thee, Samſon. And he awaked out of his ſleep, and went away with the pin of the beam, and with the web.

q Having done what Samſon directed, ſhe adds this for ſureneſs ſake, ſhe faſtned the Hair thus woven with a Pin.

15 ¶ And ſhe ſaid unto him, How canſt thou ſay, I love thee, when thine heart is not with me r? thou haſt mocked me theſe three times, and haſt not told me wherein thy great ſtrength lieth?

r When thy Love conſiſts only in outward Expreſſion, not in Affection, and thou wilcſt not open thy Heart to me, as one true Friend doth to another.

16 And it came paſs, when ſhe preſſed him daily with her words, and urged him, ſo that his ſoul was † vexed unto death s, x Being tormented by two contrary and violent Paſſions, deſire to gratifie her whom he ſo much doted upon, and fear of betraying himſelf to utmoſt hazard. But being deſerted by God, it is no wonder that he chuſeth the worſe part.

17 That he told her all his heart, and ſaid unto her, * There hath not come a raſor upon mine head: for I have been a Nazarite unto God from my mothers womb: If I be ſhaven, then my ſtrength will go from me t, and I ſhall become weak, and be like any other man.

* Numb. 6. 3.

t Not that his Hair was in it ſelf the Seat or Cauſe of his Strength, but becauſe it was the chief Condition of that Vow or Covenant, whereby as he ſtood obliged to him, ſo God was pleaſed graciouſly to ingage himſelf to fit him for, and aſſiſt him in that great work to which he called him: but upon his violation of his Condition, God juſtly withdraws his Help, and leaves him to himſelf.

18 And when Delilah ſaw that he had told her all his heart u, ſhe ſent and called for the lords of the Philiſtines, ſaying, Come up this once, for he hath ſhewed me all his heart. Then the lords of the Philiſtines came up to her, and brought money in their hand.

u Which it was not hard for her to diſcover, by the change of his Countenance, and the matter of his Diſcourſe, and the whole carriage of the Buſineſs.

19 And ſhe made him ſleep x upon her knees y, and ſhe called for a man, and ſhe cauſed him to ſhave off z the ſeven locks of his head, and ſhe began to afflict him a, and his ſtrength went from him b.

x By ſome ſleepy Potion, which it is like ſhe gave him upon other Pretences, agreeable enough to his preſent and vitiated Inclination. y Reſting his Head upon her Knees. z With a gentle Hand, as if ſhe her ſelf had but been ſporting with him. She did this more ſecurely; partly, becauſe ſhe had caſt him into a deep ſleep; and partly, becauſe if he had diſcovered it before it was finiſhed, ſhe would have ſaid, it was only an innocent Intention to try the ſincerity of his Affection to her, and the truth of this laſt relation, which ſhe had ſo juſt reaſon to doubt of, from his frequent diſſimulation and lyes. a i.e. To diſturb, and awaken, and affright him, as by other ways, ſo particularly by crying out in a terrible manner, The Philiſtines are upon thee, as ſhe had done before, and as it follows v. 20. b Which, as is here implied, ſhe perceived, becauſe he could not now ſhake himſelf as he did before; i e. with equal vigour and might, as is intimated in the next Verſe: or, becauſe ſhe had bound him, though it be not here expreſſed, and found him unable to break his Bonds.

20 And ſhe ſaid, The Philiſtines be upon thee Samſon. And he awoke out of his ſleep, and ſaid c, I will go out as at other times before, and ſhake my ſelf d. And he wiſt not e that the LORD was departed from him f.

c Within himſelf; i. e. he purpoſed and attempted it. d i. e. Put forth my Strength to cruſh them, and to deliver my ſelf. e Being not yet well awake, and not diſtinctly feeling the loſs of his Hair, or not duly conſidering what would follow upon it. f In reſpect of the ſtrength and help he had formerly given him.

21 ¶ But the Philiſtines took him g, and † put out his eyes h, and brought him down to Gaza i, and bound him with fetters of braſs, and he did grind in the Priſon-houſe k.

† Heb. bored out.

g Who now durſt apprehend him, becauſe they reſted in the Aſſurance which Delilah had given them, that now all was diſcovered and done. h Which was done by them out of Revenge and Policy, to diſenable him from doing them much harm, in caſe he ſhould recover his Strength; but not without God's Providence, puniſhing him in that part which had been greatly inſtrumental to his ſinful Luſts. i Becauſe this was a great and ſtrong City, where he would be kept ſafely; and upon the Sea-coaſt, at ſufficient diſtance from Samſon's People; and to repair the Honour of that Place, upon which he had faſtned ſo great a ſcorn, Judg. 16. 3. God alſo ordering things thus, that where he firſt ſinned, Judg. 16. 1. there he ſhould receive his Puniſhment. k As Captives and Slaves uſe to do: See Exod. 11. 5. Iſa. 47. 2. Matth. 24. 41. He made himſelf a Slave to vile Luſts and Harlots, and now God ſuffers Men to uſe him like a Slave.

22 Howbeit, the hair of his head began to grow again l || after he was ſhaven.

|| Or, as when he was ſhaven.

l This Circumſtance, though in it ſelf inconſiderable, is noted as a ſign of the recovery of God's Favour, and his former Strength, in ſome good degree, upon his bitter Repentance, and his renewing of his Vow with God, which was allowed for Nazarites to do, Numb. 6. 9, &c. and which it is here ſuppoſed he did, and by the Effects proved.

23 Then the lords of the Philiſtines gathered them together m, for to offer a great ſacrifice unto Dagon n their god, and to rejoyce: for they ſaid, Our God hath delivered Samſon our enemy into our hand.

m Either upon ſome annual or cuſtomary Solemnity: or, rather, upon this ſpecial occaſion, to praiſe Dagon for this ſingular Favour.

And they did not appoint this ſolemn Service as ſoon as Samſon was taken, but ſome conſiderable time after, as appears by the growth of Samſon's Hair in the mean time, becauſe they would give ſufficient time and warning for all their Friends and Allies to come thither, and for the making of all neceſſary Preparations for ſo great an Occaſion. n Which is by moſt ſuppoſed to be an Idol, whoſe upper part was like a Man, and whoſe lower part was like a Fiſh; whence there is mention of Dagon's hands, but not of his Feet, in 1 Sam. 5. 4. And this Place being near Ægypt, where ſome of their gods were worſhipped in the form of Fiſhes; and being near the Sea, it ſeems moſt probable, that it was one of the Sea-gods of the Heathens; and that it had in ſome part the reſemblance of a Fiſh.

24 And when the people ſaw him, they praiſed their god: for they ſaid, Our god hath delivered into our hands our enemy, and the deſtroyer of our country, † which ſlew many of us.

† Heb. and who multiplied our ſlain.

25 And it came to paſs when their hearts were merry, that they ſaid, Call for Samſon, that he may make us ſport. And they called for Samſon out of the priſon-houſe, and he made † them ſport n, and they ſet him between the pillars.

† Heb. before them.

n Either, Firſt, Paſſively, being made by them the matter of their Sport and Deriſion, and of many bitter Scoffs, and other Indignities or Injuries: Or, Secondly, Actively, by ſome ridiculous Actions, or ſome Proofs of more than ordinary Strength yet remaining in him, like the ruines of a great and goodly Building: whereby he lull'd them aſleep in ſecurity, until by this ſeeming Complaiſance he prepared the way for that which he deſign'd; otherwiſe his generous Soul would never have been forced to make them Sport, ſave in order to their Deſtruction.

26 And Samſon ſaid unto the lad that held him by the hand, Suffer me, that I may feel the pillars whereupon the houſe ſtandeth, that I may lean upon them.

27 Now the houſe was full of men and women, and all the lords of the Philiſtines were there: and there were upon the roof o about three thouſand men and women, that beheld while Samſon made ſport.

o Which after the manner was flat, and had Windows through which they might ſee what was done in the lower parts of the Houſe.

28 And Samſon called unto the LORD, and ſaid, O LORD God, remember me, I pray thee, and ſtrengthen me, I pray thee, only this once, O God, that I may be at once avenged of the Philiſtines for my two eyes p.

p This Prayer was not an act of Malice and Revenge, but of Faith and Zeal for God, who was there publickly diſhonoured; and Juſtice, in puniſhing their Inſolences, and vindicating the whole Common-wealth of Iſrael, which was his Duty, as he was Judge, to do. And this is manifeſt from hence, becauſe God, who heareth not Sinners, and would never uſe his Omnipotency to gratifie any Mans impotent Malice, did manifeſt by the Effect, that he accepted and owned his Prayer as the dictate of his own Spirit. And that in this Prayer he mentions only his Perſonal Injury, the loſs of his Eyes, and not their Indignities to God and his People, muſt be aſcribed to that prudent Care which he had, and declared upon former occaſions, of deriving the Rage and Hatred of the Philiſtines upon himſelf alone, and diverting it from the People. For which end I conceive this Prayer was made with an audible Voice, though he knew they would entertain it only with Scorn and Laughter, which alſo he knew would quickly be turned into Mourning.

29 And Samſon took hold of the two middle pillars, upon which the houſe ſtood, and ‖ on which it was born up, of the one with his right hand, and of the other with his left q.

‖ Or, he leaned on them.

30 And Samſon ſaid, Let † me die with the Philiſtines r: and he bowed himſelf with all his might: and the houſe fell upon the lords, and upon all the people that were therein: ſo the dead which he ſlew at his death, were more than they which he ſlew in his life.

† Heb. my ſoul.

q Qu. How could ſo great a Building, containing ſo many thouſands of People, reſt upon two Pillars ſo near placed together? Here Infidels triumph, as if they had got an unanſwerable Argument againſt the truth of the Scriptures. But it is a far more incredible and ridiculous thing to imagine, that the Pen-man of this Book ſhould feign ſuch a Circumſtance as this is, if it had been falſe, whereby he would have utterly overthrown the Credit of the whole Book; and that he ſhould do this before a People that could eaſily have confuted him; and that People ſhould have ſo high a Veneration for that Book in which they knew ſo notorious a falſhood to be: theſe things, I ſay, are far more abſurd to believe, than the truth of this Relation. But to this I ſhall add two Anſwers. Firſt, It is no ſufficient Argument to prove, that this was not true, becauſe we do not at this day underſtand how it was done. There were many great Works, and excellent pieces of Art, ſome footſteps whereof are left in ancient Writers; but the exact way and particular manner of them, is wholly, or in a great meaſure unknown and loſt: ſo that Pancirollus hath written a whole Book of ſuch things. Particularly, the old way of Architecture is much in the dark, as is confeſſed by the Learned. It may be pretended, That though there might be curious Arts of Building in the Learned and Ingenious part of the World, it is not probable they were among ſuch a rude and barbarous People as the Philiſtines. But this is certainly a very great miſtake; for theſe People were either a part of, or very near Neighbours to the Phœnicians, from whom it is confeſſed the Arts came to the Grecians. And foraſmuch as many things which were concluded by the Ancients to be impoſſible, are by the wit and induſtry of later Ages found to be poſſible, and certainly true; it cannot be ſtrange if ſome things now ſeem impoſſible to ſome Men, which were then known to be practicable. And he that will venture his Faith and Salvation upon this Propoſition, That ſuch a Building as this was ſimply impoſſible, becauſe he doth not ſee the poſſibility of it; or, which is all one, That no Man underſtands more than he doth; will find few admirers of his Wiſdom. And to queſtion the Truth and Divinity of the Holy Scriptures, which is ſo fully and clearly proved by ſundry Arguments, upon ſuch a nicety as this, is but a more learned kind of Doting. Anſw. 2. Inſtances are not wanting of far more large and capacious Buildings than this, that have been ſupported only by one Pillar. Particularly, Pliny in the 15th. Chapter of the 36th. Book of his Natural Hiſtory, mentions two Theaters built by one C. Curio, who lived in Julius Ceſar's time; each of which was ſupported only by one Pillar, or Pin, or Hinge, though very many thouſands of People did ſit in it together. And much more might two Pillars ſuffice to uphold a Building large enough to contain Three thouſand Perſons, which is the number mentioned, v. 17. Or, the Pillars might be made Two in the lower part meerly for Ornament-ſake, which might eaſily be ſo ordered as to ſupport a Third and Main Pillar in the Middle, which upheld the whole Fabrick. r i.e. I am contented to die, ſo I can but therewith contribute any thing to the Vindication of God's Glory, here trampled upon, and to the Deliverance of God's People. This is no Example nor Encouragement to thoſe that wickedly Murder themſelves: for Samſon did not deſire, nor procure his own death voluntarily, but only by meer force and neceſſity; becauſe he did deſire, and by his Office was obliged to ſeek the deſtruction of theſe Enemies and Blaſphemers of God, and Oppreſſors of his People; which in theſe Circumſtances he could not effect without his own death: and his Caſe was not much unlike theirs, that in the heat of Battel run upon the very mouth of the Cannon, or other evident and certain danger of Death, to execute a Deſign upon the Enemy; or theirs, who go in a Fire-ſhip to deſtroy the Enemies beſt Ships, though they are ſure to periſh in the Enterprize. Moreover, Samſon did this by Divine Inſtinct and Approbation, as God's Anſwer to his Prayer manifeſts, and that he might be a Type of Chriſt, who by voluntarily undergoing death, deſtroyed the Enemies of God, and of his People.

31 Then his brethren s, and all the houſe of his father came down, and took him, and brought him up, and buried him t between Zorah and Eſhtaol, in the burying-place of Manoah his father: and he judged Iſrael twenty years u.

s Either, Firſt, Largely ſo called, his Kinſmen. Or, Secondly, ſtrictly ſo called; Samſon's Parents having had other Children after him; as it was uſual with God when he gave an extraordinary and unexpected Power of procreating a Child, to continue that ſtrength for the Generation or Conception of more Children, as in the caſe of Abraham, Gen. 25. 1, 2. and Anna, 1 Sam. 2. 21. t Which they adventured to do; partly, becauſe the moſt barbarous Nations allowed Burial even to their Enemies, and would permit this oft-times to be done by their Friends: partly, becauſe Samſon had taken the blame of this Action wholly to himſelf, for which his innocent Relations could not upon any pretence be puniſhed: and principally, becauſe they were under ſuch grief, and perplexity, and conſternation for the common Calamity, that they had neither heart, nor leiſure to revenge themſelves of the Iſraelites, but for their own ſakes were willing not to diſquiet or offend them; at leaſt, till they were in a better poſture to reſiſt them. u This was ſaid before, Judg. 15. 20. and is here repeated, partly to confirm the Relation of it, and partly to explain it; and to ſhew when theſe Twenty Years ended, even at his death, as is here noted.

CHAP. XVII.

Micah ſtealeth money of his mother: then confeſſeth and reſtoreth it. She dedicates it to the Lord: maketh images: he ſets them up in the houſe of his gods: and conſecrates one of his ſons for his prieſt: there being then no magiſtrates in Iſrael, 1,—6. a Levite traveling that way he hireth and conſecrateth him to be his prieſt, 7,—12. Is confident that God would therefore favour and bleſs him, 13.

AND there was a man a of mount Ephraim, whoſe name was † Micah.

a The things mentioned here, and in the following Chapters, did not happen in the order in which they are put; but much ſooner, even preſently after the death of the Elders that over-lived Joſhua, Judg. 2. 7. as appears by divers Paſſages; as firſt, becauſe the Place called Makaneh-Dan, or the camp of Dan, Judg. 13. 25. was ſo called from that which was done, Judg. 18. 12. Secondly, Becauſe the Danites had not yet got all their Inheritance, Judg. 18. 1. which is not credible of them, above 300 Years after Joſhua's death. Thirdly, becauſe Phinehas the Son of Eleazar was Prieſt at this time, Judg. 20. 28. who muſt have been about 350 years old, if this had been done after Samſon's death, which is more than improbable.

2 And he ſaid unto his mother, The eleven hundred ſhekels of ſilver that were taken from thee, about which thou curſedſt b, and ſpakeſt of alſo in mine ears, behold, the ſilver is with me, I took it c. And his mother ſaid, Bleſſed be thou of the LORD d, my ſon.

b i.e. Didſt Curſe the Perſon who had taken them away, and that in my hearing, as it follows. c The fear of thy Curſe makes me acknowledge mine Offence, and beg thy Pardon. d I willingly conſent to, and beg from God the removal of the Curſe, and a Bleſſing inſtead of it. Be thou free from my Curſe, becauſe thou haſt ſo honeſtly reſtored it.

3 And when he had reſtored the eleven hundred ſhekels of ſilver to his mother, his mother ſaid, I had wholly † dedicated the ſilver unto the LORD e, from my hand, for my ſon f to make a graven image, and a molten image g: now therefore I will reſtore it unto thee h.

e In the Hebrew it is, Jehovah, the incommunicable Name of God. Whereby it is apparent, that neither ſhe, nor her Son, intended to forſake the True God or his Worſhip; as appears from his rejoycing when he had got a Prieſt of the Lord's appointment, of the Tribe of Levi, Judg. 17. 13. but only to worſhip God by an Image; which alſo it is apparent, that both the Iſraelites, Exod. 32. 1, &c. and Jeroboam afterwards, deſigned to do. f Either, Firſt, for the honour and benefit of thy ſelf, and Family; that you need not be continually going to Shiloh to Worſhip, but may do it as well at home by theſe Images. Or, Secondly, that thou maiſt cauſe theſe things to be made; to which end, ſhe reſtored all the Money to him, as it here follows. g Many think this was but one Image, partly Graven, and partly Molten. But it ſeems more probable, that they were two diſtinct Images, becauſe they are ſo plainly diſtinguiſhed, Judg. 18. 17, 18. where alſo ſome other words come between them. It is true, the graven image alone is mentioned, Judg. 18. 20, 30, 31. not excluſively to the other, as appears from what is ſaid juſt before; but by a common Synecdoche, whereby one is put for all; eſpecially, where that one is eſteemed the chief. h To diſpoſe of, as I ſay.

4 Yet he reſtored the money unto his mother i, and his mother took two hundred ſhekels of ſilver k, and gave them to the founder, who made thereof l a graven image, and a molten image, and they were in the houſe of Micah.

i Though his Mother allowed him to keep it, yet he perſiſted in his reſolution to reſtore it, that ſhe might diſpoſe of it as ſhe pleaſed; and did actually reſtore it, as was ſaid before; and now confirms the former Reſtitution, and therefore is twice ſaid to reſtore it. k Reſerving 900 Shekels, either for the Ephod and Teraphim, or for other things relating to this Worſhip: or for her own private uſe; being, it ſeems, cooled in her firſt Zeal, and willing to have as cheap a Religion as ſhe could, as alſo her Son Micah was, Judg. 17. 10. l Made them, either, Firſt, of that Matter: Or, Secondly, for that money.

5 And the man Micah had an houſe of gods m, and made an † ephod n and * teraphim o, and † conſecrated one of his ſons, who became his prieſt p.

* Gen. 31. 19. Hoſ. 3. 4. † Heb. filled the hand.

m i. e. An Houſe or Place conſecrated for the Service of God in this manner. n An eminent part of the Prieſtly Garments, Exod. 28. 4. which, ſome think, is here put for all of them. o Some ſort of Images ſo called, of which ſee Gen. 31. 19. Hoſ. 3. 4. p Becauſe the Levites in that corrupt Eſtate of the Church, neglected the Exerciſe of their Office, and therefore were neglected by the People, and others put into their Employment. But this kind of Prieſthood was condemned, Numb. 16. 40. and 18. 2, 7.

6 * In thoſe days there was no King q in Iſrael, but every man did that which was right in his own eyes r.

* Chap. 18. 1. & 21. 25.

q i. e. No Judge to Govern and Controul them. The word King being here uſed largely for a Supreme Magiſtrate; as Gen. 36. 31. Deut. 33. 5. God raiſed up Judges to Rule and Deliver the People, when he ſaw fit; and at other times for their Sins he ſuffered them to be without them, and ſuch a time this was; and therefore they ran into that Idolatry, from which the Judges uſually kept them; as appears by that ſolemn and oft-repeated paſſage in this Book, that after the death of ſuch or ſuch a Judge, the People forſook the Lord, and turned to Idols. r i. e. Not what pleaſed God, but what beſt ſuited his own Fancy or Luſts.

7 ¶ And there was a young man out of Bethlehem-Judah s, of the family of Judah t, who was a Levite, and he ſojourned there u.

s Or, of Bethlehem-Judah; ſo called here, as Matth. 2. 1, 5. to difference it from Bethlehem in Zebulun, Joſh. 19. 15. There he was born and bred. t i. e. Of, or belonging to the Tribe of Judah; not by Birth, for he was a Levite; nor by his Mother, for though that might be true, the Mothers-ſide is not regarded in Genealogies; but by his Habitation and Miniſtration. For the Levites, eſpecially in times of Confuſion and Irreligion, were diſperſed among all the Tribes; and this Man's Lot fell into the Tribe of Judah: which ſeems to be here noted by way of reflection upon that Tribe, and as an evidence of the general Defection, that a Levite could not find entertainment in that great and famous Tribe, which God had put ſo much Honour upon, Gen. 49. 8, 9, 10, 11. and therefore was forced to wander and ſeek for ſubſiſtence elſewhere. u So he expreſſeth it, becauſe this was not the proper, nor uſual Place of his abode, this being no Levitical City.

8 And the man departed out of the city from Bethlehem-Judah, to ſojourn where he could find a place x, and he came to mount Ephraim, to the houſe of Micah † as he journeyed.

† Heb. in making his way.

x For employment and a livelihood; for the Tithes and Offerings, which were their maintenance, not being brought in to the Houſe of God, the Levites and Prieſts muſt needs be reduced to great ſtreights.

9 And Micah ſaid unto him, Whence comeſt thou? and he ſaid unto him, I am a Levite of Bethlehem-Judah, and I go to ſojourn where I may find a place.

10 And Micah ſaid unto him, Dwell with me, and be unto me a father and a prieſt y, and I will give thee ten ſhekels of ſilver by the year, and ‖ † a ſuit of apparel, and thy victuals. So the Levite went in.

‖ Or, a double ſuit, &c. † Heb. an order of garments.

y For, a Father; that is, a Prieſt, a Spiritual Father, a Teacher or Inſtructor, for ſuch are called Fathers; ſee 2 King. 6. 21. and 8, 9. and 13. 14. Iſa. 22. 21. He pretends Reverence and Submiſſion to him; and what is wanting in his Wages, he pays him in empty Titles.

11 And the Levite was content z to dwell with the man, and the young man was unto him as one of his ſons a.

z Being conſtrained by neceſſity, and infected with the common Contagion of the Superſtition and Idolatry of the Times. a i. e. Treated with the ſame degree of Kindneſs and Affection.

12 And Micah conſecrated the Levite b, and the young man became his prieſt c, and was in the houſe of Micah.

b To be a Prieſt, for which he thought a Conſecration neceſſary, as knowing that the Levites were no leſs excluded from the Prieſts Office than the People. c Inſtead of his Son, whom he had conſecrated for want of a fitter, v. 6. but now ſeems to reſtrain him from the exerciſe of that Office, and to devolve it wholly upon the Levite, who was nearer akin to it.

13 Then ſaid Micah, Now know I that the LORD will do me good d, ſeeing I have a Levite to my prieſt.

d I am aſſured God will bleſs me. So blind and groſly partial he was in his Judgment, to think that one right Circumſtance would anſwer for all his ſubſtantial Errors, in making and worſhipping Images againſt God's expreſs Command, in worſhipping God in a forbidden Place; and in that he being an Ephraimite preſumed to make a Prieſt, &c.

CHAP. XVIII.

Thoſe of the tribe of Dan, having not ſufficient inheritance, ſend forth five men to ſpy out a place: they come to the houſe of Micah, and deſire the Levite to ask counſel of God touching their journey, 1,—5. He encouraging them: they ſpy out the city Laiſh: and at their return inſtigate their brethren to ſet upon the city, 6,—10. 600 go forth armed: in their march they ſeize upon Micah's prieſts and idols: which he in vain demandeth again, 11,—25. They pull down Laiſh: build it again: inhabit it: and call it Dan, 26—29. Conſecrate their prieſt and ſet up Micah's images, 30, 31.

IN * thoſe days there was no king in Iſrael a: and in thoſe days the * tribe of the Danites b ſought them an inheritance to dwell in, for unto that day all their inheritance had not fallen unto them c among the tribes of Iſrael.

2 And the children of Dan ſent of their family d five men from their coaſts, † men of valour, from Zorah, and from Eſhtaol e, to ſpy out the land, and to ſearch it, and they ſaid unto them, Go, ſearch the land: who when they came to mount Ephraim to the houſe of Micah, they lodged there f.

3 When they were by the houſe of Micah, they knew the voice of the young man the Levite g: and they turned in thither, and ſaid unto him, Who brought thee hither? and what makeſt thou in this place h? and what haſt thou here?

g Either, 1. By his manner of pronunciation, which was differing and diſtinguiſhable in ſeveral Tribes, as appears from Judg. 12. 6. Mark 14. 70. Or 2. By the celebration of ſome part of his Office, which they then lodging in the neighbourhood, might be invited to. Or rather, 3. By ſome acquaintance which ſome of them formerly had with him, which they might have upon many occaſions. h This being not thy uſual Place, nor proper for thy Employment.

4 And he ſaid unto them, Thus and thus dealeth Micah with me, and hath hired me, and I am his prieſt.

5 And they ſaid unto him, Ask counſel, we pray thee, of God i, that we may know whether our way which we go ſhall be proſperous.

i To wit, by thine Ephod, or Teraphim, or Images, which they knew he had, v. 14.

6 And the prieſt ſaid unto them, Go in peace: before the LORD is your way k wherein ye go.

k i. e. Your Journey or Deſign is under the eye of God; i. e. under his Care, and Protection, and Direction, which the eye of God being upon a perſon, commonly notes in Scripture, as Pſal. 32. 8. and 34. 15. Compare Jer. 39. 12. and 40. 4. So the Phraſe is here taken in a reſtrained ſenſe, which is elſewhere taken more largely, as Prov. 5. 21. This Anſwer he either feigns to gratifie their Humour; or, did indeed receive from the Devil, who transformed himſelf into an Angel of Light, and in God's Name gave them Anſwers, and thoſe not ſeldom very true, which God ſuffered for the trial of his People: See Deut. 13. 1, 2, 3. But it is obſervable, that his Anſwer was, as the Devil's Oracles uſually were, ambiguous, and ſuch as might have been interpreted either way, as they had ſucceſs or diſappointment.

7 ¶ Then the five men departed, and came to Laiſh l, and ſaw the people that were therein, how they dwelt careleſs, after the manner of the Zidonians m, quiet, and ſecure, and there was no † magiſtrate in the land that might put them to ſhame in any thing n, and they were far from the Zidonians o, and had no buſineſs with any man p.

10 When ye go, ye ſhall come unto a people ſecure, and to a large land: for God hath given it into your hand r: a place where there is no want of any thing, that is in the earth.

r This they gather partly from God's Word or Promiſe, which they ſuppoſed they had from the Levites Mouth; and partly from his Providence, which hath ſo diſpoſed them, that they will be an eaſie Prey to you.

17 And the five men that went to ſpy out the land went up, and came in thither c, and took the graven image, and the ephod, and the teraphim, and the molten image, and the prieſt ſtood in the entring of the gate d with the ſix hundred men that were appointed with weapons of war.

19 And they ſaid unto him, Hold thy peace, lay thy hand upon thy mouth g, and go with us, and be to us a father, and a prieſt h: Is it better for thee to be a prieſt unto the houſe of one man, or that thou be a prieſt unto a tribe, and a family i in Iſrael?

g i.e. Be ſilent, as this Phraſe is uſed, Job 21. 5. and 29. 9. and 40. 4. Prov. 30. 32. The ſame thing repeated in other words. h See on Judg. 17. 10. i To wit, a tribe, that is, (and being oft put for that is) a family. For it is certain this was not an Expedition of the whole Tribe, which numbred 64000 Men, Numb. 26. 43. but only of one Family, which it ſeems were more vexed with the Philiſtines or Amorites, and therefore reſolved to ſeek new Habitations at a great diſtance from them. And after this time we find the Body of the Danites in their old and proper Portions in Samſon's time, which, though placed before this, was long after it.

20 And the prieſts heart was glad k, and he took the ephod, and the teraphim, and the graven image, and went in the midſt of the people l.

k Being wholly governed by his own Intereſt, and making all his Obligations of Juſtice and Gratitude give place to it. But it is not ſtrange, if he who was before perfidious to God, ſhould prove ſo to Men. l i.e. Among the People: or properly in the midſt, both for the greater ſecurity of ſuch precious things, and that Micah might not be able to come at him, either to injure or upbraid him; and, it may be, becauſe that was the place where the Ark uſed to be carried.

21 So they turned and departed, and put the little ones, and the cattel, and the carriage before them m.

m For their greater ſecurity, if Micah ſhould purſue them.

22 ¶ And when they were a good way from the houſe of Micah, the men that were in the houſes near to Micahs houſe, were gathered together, and overtook the children of Dan.

24 And he ſaid, Ye have taken away my gods which I made n, and the prieſt, and ye are gone away: and what have I more o? and what is this that ye ſay unto me, What aileth thee?

n So far was he beſotted with Superſtition and Idolatry, that he eſteemed thoſe gods, which were Man's work. But he could not be ſo ſtupid, as to think theſe were indeed the great Jehovah that made Heaven and Earth; but only a lower ſort of gods, by whom, as Mediators, he offered up his worſhip unto the true God, as it is manifeſt divers of the Heathens did. o I value nothing I have in compariſon of what you have taken away. Which zeal for Idolatrous traſh may ſhame multitudes that call themſelves Chriſtians, and yet apparently value their worldly Conveniences more than all the Concerns even of the true Religion, and of their own Salvation.

26 And the children of Dan went their way: and when Micah ſaw that they were too ſtrong for him, he turned, and went back unto his houſe.

27 And they took the things which Micah had made, and the prieſt which he had, and came unto Laiſh, unto a people that were at quiet, and ſecure, and they ſmote them with the edge of the ſword, and burnt the city with fire ſ.

ſ Not wholly, but in great meaſure, to ſtrike the greater terror into the Inhabitants, and to make their Conqueſt of the Place more eaſie.

28 And there was no deliverer, becauſe it was far from Zidon, and they had no buſineſs with any man: and it was in the valley that lieth by Beth-rehob t, and they built a city, and dwelt therein.

30 ¶ And the children of Dan ſet them up the graven image x: and Jonathan the ſon of Gerſhom, the ſon of Manaſſeh, he, and his ſons were prieſts to the tribe of Dan, until the day of the captivity of the land y.

x Having ſucceeded in their expedition according to the prediction which, as they ſuppoſed, they had from this Image, they had a great veneration for it. y Either 1. Or, 2. After that time, when the Philiſtines ſlew Saul and Jonathan, and diſcomfited the whole Hoſt of Iſrael, and made the reſt of the People flee out of their Cities, and took poſſeſſion of their Cities and Land. Or, 3. When the whole Land of the ten Tribes, whereof Dan was one, was Conquered, and the People carried Captive by the Aſſyrian, 2 Kings 17. 6, 23. which is called by way of Eminency, the Captivity, 1 Chron. 5. 22. But againſt this it is objected, That it is not probable, that this Idolatry ſhould continue ſo long in ſuch a publick place and manner: or that David and Solomon would ſuffer it. Anſ. It is not ſaid, that the graven Image was there ſo long, for that is reſtrained to a ſhorter date, even to the continuance of the Ark in Shiloh, v. 31. which was removed thence, 1 Sam. 4. But only that Jonathan's Poſterity were Prieſts to this Tribe or Family of Dan, which they might be under all the changes, even till the Aſſyrian Captivity, ſometimes more openly and allowedly, ſometimes more cunningly, ſometimes more ſecretly, ſometimes in one way of Superſtition or Idolatry, and ſometimes in another; and, in and after Jeroboam's time, in the Worſhip of the Calves, for which ſervice, though he did make Prieſts of the meaneſt of the People, 1 Kings 12. 31. yet that was not by choice, but out of neceſſity, becauſe the Prieſts and Levites generally forſook him, 2 Chron. 11. 13, 14. and therefore when he could engage any of the Prieſts or Levites in that ſervice, he was doubtleſs very glad of them to gain reputation to his impious and abſurd device.

31 And they ſet them up Micah's graven image, which he made, all the time that the houſe of God was in Shiloh.

CHAP. XIX.

A Levite's Concubine runs from him to her Father's Houſe at Bethlehem: He goeth to fetch her back: Is kindly entertain'd by her Father: He departs and comes to Gibeah of Benjamin: And his Concubine with him, 1,—14. an old man of Mount Ephraim entertains them, 15,—21. The men of the City encompaſs the Houſe: to Debauch the Levite, who through neceſſity delivers unto them his Concubine, whom they Abuſe to Death, 22,——28. He carrieth her Body home: Divideth it into twelve Parts: Sendeth them into all the Coaſts of Iſrael, 29, 30.

AND it came to paſs in thoſe days a *, when there was no king in Iſrael, that there was a certain Levite ſojourning on the ſide b of mount Ephraim, who took to him † a concubine c out of Bethlehem-Judah.

3 And her husband aroſe, and went after her to ſpeak † friendly unto her g, and to bring her again h, having his ſervant with him, and a couple of aſſes i: and ſhe brought him into her fathers houſe: and when the father of the damſel ſaw him, he rejoiced to meet him k.

† Heb. to er heart.

g Or, to ſpeak to her heart, i. e. kindly and comfortably, as that phraſe is taken, Gen. 50. 21. Hoſ. 2 14. to offer her pardon, and reconciliation, and reſtitution to her former ſtate. h To wit, to his own Houſe. i Partly, for himſelf or his Wife to ride upon, as there was occaſion; and partly, for carrying their Proviſion, as appears from v. 19. k Hoping the breach would be made up by this means.

4 And his father in law, the damſels father, retained him, and he abode with him three days: ſo they did eat and drink, and lodged there.

5 ¶ And it came to paſs on the fourth day, when they aroſe early in the morning, that he roſe up to depart: and the damſels father ſaid unto his ſon in law, † Comfort thy heart with a morſel of bread, and afterward go your way.

† Heb. trengthen.

6 And they ſate down and did eat and drink both of them together: for the damſels father had ſaid unto the man, Be content, I pray thee, and tarry all night, and let thine heart † be merry.

† Heb. be good.

7 And when the man roſe up to depart, his father in law urged him: therefore he lodged there again.

8 And he aroſe early in the morning on the fifth day to depart, and the damſels father ſaid, Comfort thine heart, I pray thee. And they tarried † until afternoon, and they did eat both of them.

† Heb. till the day declined.

9 And when the man roſe up to depart, he, and his concubine, and his ſervant, his father in law, the damſels father ſaid unto him, Behold, now the day † draweth towards evening, I pray you tarry all night: behold, † the day groweth to an end l, lodg here that thine heart may be merry, and to morrow get ye early on your way, that thou mayeſt go † home.

† Heb. is weak.

l Heb. It is the encamping time of the day, i. e. the Evening, when Armies having marched in the day, begin to pitch their Camp; or, when the Sun that makes the day, begins to encamp himſelf, and go toward reſt; ſo it is a Poetical expreſſion taken from hence, That the Sun when he ſets, ſeems to vulgar eyes to go to reſt.

10 But the man would not tarry that night, but he roſe up, and departed, and came † over againſt Jebus (which is Jeruſalem) and there were with him two aſſes ſadled, his concubine alſo was with him.

† Heb. to over againſt Jebus.

11 And when they were by Jebus, the day was far ſpent, and the ſervant ſaid unto his maſter, Come, I pray thee, and let us turn in unto this city of the Jebuſites, and lodg in it.

12 And his maſter ſaid unto him, We will not turn aſide hither into the city of a ſtranger m that is not of the children of Iſrael: we will paſs over to Gibeah.

m i. e. Of a ſtrange Nation: which the Canaanites poſſeſs; for though the City Jeruſalem had been taken by Caleb, Judg. 1. yet the ſtrong Fort of Zion was ſtill in their hands, 2 Sam. 5. 6, 7. whence it is likely they did much moleſt, and afterwards by God's permiſſion, and for the puniſhment of their Sin, drive out the Iſraelites who dwelt there.

13 And he ſaid unto his ſervant, Come, and let us draw near to one of theſe places to lodg all night, in Gibeah, or in Ramah n.

n Both which places lay in Benjamin's Portion, a little Northward from Jeruſalem, and in the Road from Bethlehem-Judah to Gibeah.

14 And they paſſed on, and went their way, and the ſun went down upon them when they were by Gibeah, which belongeth to Benjamin o.

o This is added to difference it from another Gibeah in Judah, Joſ. 15. 57. Poſſibly this is that which was called Gibeah of Saul, 1 Sam. 11. 4.

15 And they turned aſide thither to go in, and to lodg in Gibeah: and when he went in, he ſate him down in a ſtreet of the city: for there was no man that took them into his houſe to lodging p.

p Though they were ſoft and effeminate in other reſpects, yet they were hard-hearted towards Strangers or indigent perſons. Either there were no publick Houſes to receive and entertain Travellers, as may be gathered from Gen. 28. and 42. and 45. and Joſ. 9. &c. or, if there were ſuch an one here, they might perceive it to be a very wicked Houſe, as being in ſo lewd a place, and therefore might decline it, and expect that ſome private perſon would exerciſe Hoſpitality to them, as perſons of any worth uſed to do, as Gen. 18. 1, 2, 3, 4. and 19. 1, 2. Heb. 13. 2.

16 ¶ And behold, there came an old man from his work, out of the field at even, which was alſo of mount Ephraim q; and he ſojourned in Gibeah, but the men of the place were † Benjamites r.

† Heb. Sons of Iemini. Chap. 3. 15

q Whence alſo the Levite was, which obliged and enclined him to ſhew the more kindneſs to his Country-man. r This was indeed one of the Cities belonging to the Prieſts, Joſ. 21. 1 Chron. 6. but you conſider that the Cities which were given to the Prieſts, and whereof they were Poſſeſſors and Owners, were not inhabited by the Prieſts or Levites only, eſpecially at this time when they were but few in number, but by many other perſons of differing Profeſſions and Callings, which was neceſſary for their conveniency.

17 And when he had lift up his eyes, he ſaw a wayfaring man in the ſtreet of the city: and the old man ſaid, Whither goeſt thou? and whence comeſt thou?

18 And he ſaid unto him, We are paſſing from Bethlehem-Judah, toward the ſide of mount Ephraim, from thence am I: and I went to Bethlehem-Judah, but I am now going to the houſe of the LORD ſ, and there is no man that † receiveth me to houſe.

ſ Which was in Shiloh, Joſ. 18. 1. and 22. 12. Thither he went, either becauſe he lived there, for that was in the Tribe of Ephraim; or, rather, becauſe he would there offer Prayers and Praiſes, and Sacrifices unto God, for his Mercy in reconciling him and his Wiſe together, and for his Bleſſing upon them again, and to make atonement for his Wife.

19 Yet there is both ſtraw and provender for our aſſes, and there is bread and wine alſo for me, and for thy handmaid, and for the young man which is with thy ſervants: there is no want of any thing.

* Gen. 19. 2. 20 And the old man ſaid, Peace be with thee: howſoever let all thy wants lie upon me t, * only lodge not in the ſtreet.

t It matters not whether thou wanteſt nothing or every thing, I will take care to ſupply all thy Wants.

21 So he brought him into his houſe, and gave provender unto the aſſes: and they waſhed their feet u, and did eat and drink.

u As they uſed to do to Travellers in thoſe hot Countries, Gen. 18. 4. and 19. 2. and 24. 32, &c.

* Hoſ. 9. 9. and 10. 9. 22 ¶ Now as they were making their hearts merry x, behold, the men of the city, certain * ſons of Belial y, beſet the houſe round about, and beat at the door, and ſpake to the maſter of the houſe, the old man, ſaying, Bring forth the man that came into thine houſe, that we may know him z.

x i. e. Refreſhing themſelves with the Proviſions ſet before them. y Wicked and Licentious Men; ſee Deut. 13. 13. z An ambiguous expreſſion; whereby they pretended only a deſire to know and ſee what Perſon he had brought among them, and yet carry on their wicked deſign of knowing him Carnally. Compare Gen. 19. 5. where the ſame Phraſe is uſed in that ſenſe upon a like occaſion. But though they name only the Man; yet it is plain from the following relation, that their Deſign was principally upon the Woman, and therefore under the name of the Man, they comprehend thoſe that belong to him.

* Gen. 19. 6. 23 And * the man, the maſter of the houſe, went out unto them, and ſaid unto them, Nay, my brethren, nay, I pray you do not ſo wickedly, ſeeing that this man is come into mine houſe a, do not this folly.

a And therefore I am obliged to protect him by the Laws of Hoſpitality. Compare Gen. 19. 7, 8.

24 Behold, here is my daughter, a maiden, and his concubine, them I will bring out now b, and humble ye them, and do with them what ſeemeth good unto you: but unto this man do not † ſo vile a thing.

† Heb. the matter of this folly.

b He offers this to avoid a greater and more unnatural Sin, which he thought they deſigned; but it ſeems they did not, their abuſe being confined to the Woman, and not extended to the Man, who alſo was in their power, if they had luſted after him. But this offer was ſinful, becauſe he offered that which was not in his, nor in the Man's power to diſpoſe of, even the Chaſtity of his Daughter, and the Man's Wife; and becauſe no Man muſt do any evil, though never ſo ſmall, for the prevention of any evil of Sin or Miſery, or for the procuring of the greateſt good, Rom. 3. 8. though his Sin was much mitigated by his Ignorance, by his honeſt and generous Intention of protecting a ſtranger; by the force which was in ſome ſort put upon him, and by the ſuddenneſs and violence of the Temptation.

25 But the men would not hearken to him: ſo the man took his concubine c, and brought her forth unto them, and they knew her, and abuſed her all the night, until the morning: and when the day began to ſpring, they let her go.

c Being willing to expoſe her, rather than the Daughter of his Hoſt, who had expreſſed ſuch a ſingular care and affection for him.

26 Then came the woman in the dawning of the day, and fell down d at the door of the mans houſe, where her lord e was, till it was light.

d To wit, dead, as the following words ſhow, and as that word is oft uſed, as Exod. 19. 21. Pſal. 82. 7. and 91. 7. Hoſ. 5. 5. killed, partly with grief of heart, and partly with exceſſive abuſe of her Body, of which there have been divers inſtances. Thus the Sin ſhe formerly choſe, v. 2. is now her Deſtruction; and though her husband pardoned her, God would puniſh her, at leaſt as to this life. e So he is called, either becauſe he was her husband; for which cauſe Sarah called Abraham Lord, 1 Pet. 3. 6. or becauſe ſhe had been his maid-ſervant, as Concubines oftentimes were; as Gen. 30. 3, 9.

27 And her lord roſe up in the morning, and opened the doors of the houſe, and went out to go his way: and behold, the woman his concubine was fallen down at the door of the houſe, and her hands were upon the threſhold f.

f The poſture either of one that had fallen down; or of one that was laid down to ſleep, her hands or arms (for the Hebrew word ſignifies both) leaning upon the threſhold, and being put under her head: and therefore he thought to awake her, and raiſe her up.

28 And he ſaid unto her, Up, and and let us be going. But none anſwered g: then the man took her up upon an aſs, and the man roſe up, and gat him into his place.

g For ſhe was dead, as is ſaid, Judg. 20. 5.

29 ¶ And when he was come into his houſe, he took a knife, and laid hold on his concubine, and divided her, together with her bones h, into twelve pieces i, and ſent her into all the coaſts of Iſrael k.

h Or, according to her bones, according to the joints of her Body, for there he made the diviſion. This might ſeem to be a barbarous and inhuman act in it ſelf; but may ſeem excuſable, if it be conſidered, that the ſadneſs of the Spectacle did highly contribute to ſtir up the zeal of all the Iſraelites to avenge his Concubines death, and to execute Juſtice upon ſuch profligate Offenders; and was neceſſary, eſpecially in this time of Anarchy and general Corruption, Judg. 17. 6. to awaken them out of that Lethargy, in which all the Tribes lay. i That one piece might be ſent to every Tribe; whereof none to Levi, becauſe they would meet with it in every Tribe, being diſperſed among them; but one to Benjamin; for he might well preſume, that they would as much abhor ſo villanous an Action, though done by ſome of their own Tribe, as any of the reſt. k By ſeveral meſſengers, by whom alſo he ſent a particular Relation of the Fact.

30 And it was ſo, that all that ſaw it, ſaid, There was no ſuch deed l done nor ſeen from the day that the children of Iſrael came up out of the land of Egypt, unto this day: conſider of it, take advice, and ſpeak your minds m.

l So wicked and abominable. m Let us meet together, and ſeriouſly conſider, and every one freely ſpeak what is to be done in this caſe.

2 And † the chief h of all the people, even of all the tribes of Iſrael, preſented themſelves in the aſſembly of the people of God, four hundred thouſand i foot-men k, that drew ſword. † Heb. th corners.

h Heb. the corners, i. e. the Nobles and Rulers, which are oft ſo called, becauſe like corner-ſtones, they both unite, and ſupport, and adorn the whole Building. i Or, and four hundred thouſand; It is an Ellipſis of the Particle [and], of which Examples have been given before: for the chief of the People were not ſo many; but the common Soldiers, and theſe were all Foot-men; whereas many of the Rulers rid upon Horſes, or Aſſes, Judg. 5. 10. and 10. 4. and 12. 14. The number is here ſet down, to ſhew both their zeal and forwardneſs in puniſhing ſuch a Villany; and the ſtrange blindneſs of the Benjamites that durſt oppoſe ſo great and united Body; and that the ſucceſs of Battels depends not upon great numbers, ſeeing this great Hoſt was twice defeated by the Benjamites, but wholly upon God's bleſſing. k For Horſe-men they had few or none in their Armies.

3 (Now the children of Benjamin heard l that the children of Iſrael were gone up to Mizpeh.) Then ſaid the children of Iſrael, Tell us m, how was this wickedneſs?

l Like Perſons unconcerned and reſolved, they neither went nor ſent thither: partly from their own pride, and ſtubbornneſs, and ſelf-confidence: partly becauſe as they were loth to give up any of their Brethren to Juſtice, ſo they preſumed the other Tribes would never proceed to a War againſt them; and partly, from a Divine infatuation hardening that wicked Tribe to their own Deſtruction. m The Verb is of the Plural Number, becauſe they ſpeak to the Levite, and his Servant, and his Hoſt, who doubtleſs were preſent upon this occaſion.

4 And † the Levite n, the husband of the woman that was ſlain, anſwered and ſaid, I came into Gibeah † Heb. th man the Levite.

beah that belongeth to Benjamin, I and my concubine, to lodge.

n To whoſe Relation the other two gave their conſent.

5 And the men of Gibeah roſe up againſt me, and beſet the houſe round about upon me by night, and thought to have ſlain me o: and my concubine have they † forced that ſhe is dead.

Heb. mbled.

o Except I would either ſubmit to their unnatural Luſt, which I was reſolved to withſtand even unto death: or deliver up my concubine to them, which I was forced to do.

6 And I took my concubine, and cut her in pieces, and ſent her throughout all the country of the inheritance of Iſrael: for they have committed lewdneſs and folly p in Iſrael.

p i.e. A lewd folly; moſt ignominious and impudent Wickedneſs.

7 Behold, ye are all children of Iſrael q, give here your advice and counſel.

q The Sons of that Holy Man, who for one filthy action left an eternal brand upon one of his own Sons: a People in Covenant with the holy God, whoſe Honour you are obliged to vindicate, and who hath expreſly commanded you to puniſh all ſuch notorious Enormities.

8 ¶ And all the people aroſe as one man, ſaying, We will not any of us go to his tent r, neither will we any of us turn into his houſe:

r i.e. His habitation, to wit, until we have revenged this Injury.

9 But now this ſhall be the thing which we will do to Gibeah, we will go up by lot againſt it:

10 And we will take ten men of an hundred throughout all the tribes of Iſrael, and an hundred of a thouſand, and a thouſand out of ten thouſand, to fetch victual for the people, that they may do, when they come to Gibeah of Benjamin, according to all the folly that they have wrought ſ in Iſrael t.

ſ That we may puniſh them as ſuch a wickedneſs deſerves t This is added as an aggravation, that they ſhould do that in Iſrael, or among God's peculiar People, which was eſteemed abominable even among the Heathen.

11 So all the men of Iſrael were gathered againſt the city, † knit together as one man.

† Heb. fellows.

12 ¶ And the tribes of Iſrael ſent men through all the tribe u of Benjamin, ſaying, What wickedneſs is this that is done among you?

u Heb. tribes: Either the Plural Number for the Singular: or rather tribe is put for family, as was noted before, as families are elſewhere put for tribes. They take a wiſe and a juſt courſe, in ſending to all the parts and families of the tribe, to ſeparate the Innocent from the Guilty, and to give them a fair opportunity of preventing their ruine, by doing nothing but what their Duty, Honour, and Intereſt obliged them to; even by delivering up thoſe vile Malefactors, whom they could not keep without horrid guilt and ſhame; and bringing the Curſe of God upon themſelves.

13 Now therefore deliver us the men, the children of Belial which are in Gibeah, that we may put them to death, and put away evil x from Iſrael: but the children of Benjamin would not hearken y to the voice of the brethren the children of Iſrael.

x Both the Guilt and the Puniſhment, wherein all Iſrael will be Involved, if they do not puniſh it. y Partly from the pride of their Hearts, which made them ſcorn to ſubmit to their Brethren, or to ſuffer them to meddle in their Territory; partly from a conceit of their own Valour and Military skill; and partly from God's juſt judgment.

14 But the children of Benjamin gathered themſelves together out of the cities, unto Gibeah, to go out to battel againſt the children of Iſrael.

15 And the children of Benjamin were numbred at that time out of the city, twenty and ſix thouſand men that drew ſword; beſide the inhabitants of Gibeah, which were numbred ſeven hundred choſen men z.

z Object. This agrees not with the following numbers: for all that were ſlain of Benjamin were 25100 men, v. 35. and there were only 600 that ſurvived, v. 47. which make only 25700. Anſ. The other thouſand men were either left in ſome of their cities, where they were ſlain, v. 48. or were cut off in the two firſt Battels, wherein it is unreaſonable to think they had an unbloody Victory: and as for theſe 25100 men, they were all ſlain in that day, i e. the day of the third Battel, as is affirmed v. 35.

16 Among all this people, there were ſeven hundred choſen men * left-handed a, every one could ſling ſtones at an hairs breadth, and not miſs b.

* Chap. 3. 15.

a Heb. ſhut up on their right hand, i. e. uſing their left hand inſtead of their right. d An Hyperbolical expreſſion, ſignifying, that they could do this with great exactneſs. There are many parallel Inſtances in Hiſtorians, of Perſons that could throw Stones, or ſhoot Arrows with great certainty, ſo as ſeldom or never to miſs. Of which ſee my Latin Synopſis. And this was very conſiderable, and one ground of the Benjamites confidence, becauſe in thoſe times they had no Guns.

17 And the men of Iſrael c, beſide Benjamin, were numbred four hundred thouſand men that drew ſword, all theſe were men of war.

c To wit, ſuch as were here preſent, v. 2. for otherwiſe it is moſt probable they had a far greater number of men, being 600000 before their entrance into Canaan, Num. 1. 2.

18 ¶ And the children of Iſrael d aroſe, and went up to the houſe of God e, and * asked counſel of God, and ſaid, Which of us ſhall go up firſt to the battel f againſt the children of Benjamin? And the LORD ſaid, Judah ſhall go up firſt.

* Chap. 1.

d i. e. Some ſent in the name of all. e To wit, to Shiloh, which was not far from Mizpeh, where they were. f This they ask to prevent Emulations and Contentions: but they do not ask whether they ſhould go againſt them, or no, for that they knew they ought to do by the will of God already revealed: Nor yet do they ſeek to God for his help by Prayer, and Faſting, and Sacrifice, as in all reaſon they ought to have done; but were confident of Succeſs, becauſe of their great Numbers, and Righteous Cauſe.

19 And the children of Iſrael roſe up in the morning, and encamped againſt Gibeah.

20 And the men of Iſrael went out to battel againſt Benjamin, and the men of Iſrael put themſelves in aray to fight againſt them at Gibeah.

21 And the children of Benjamin came forth out of Gibeah, and deſtroyed down to the ground of the Iſraelites that day, twenty and two thouſand men g.

g Queſt. Why would God ſuffer them to have ſo great a loſs in ſo good a Cauſe? Anſ. Becauſe they had many and great Sins reigning amongſt themſelves, and they ſhould not have come to ſo great a Work of God as this, with polluted hands, but ſhould have pulled the Beam out of their own Eye, before they attempted to take that out of their Brother Benjamin's Eye: which becauſe they did not, God doth it for them, making them by this loſs more clearly to ſee their own Sins, and their need of God's help, without which their great Numbers were inſignificant; and bringing them through the Fire, that they might be purged from their Droſs; it being probable that the great God who governs every ſtroke in Battels, did ſo order things, that their worſt and rotten Members ſhould be cut off, which was a great Bleſſing to the whole Common-wealth.

22 And the people, the men of Iſrael incouraged themſelves h, and ſet their battel again in aray, in the place where they put themſelves in aray the firſt day i.

h Heb. ſtrengthned themſelves, partly by ſupporting themſelves with the Conſcience of the Juſtice of their Cauſe, and the hopes of ſucceſs: and partly, by putting themſelves in better order for defending themſelves, and annoying their Enemies. i Hereby ſhewing their freedom from that Heatheniſh Superſtition, whereby they might have been apt to have rejected that as an unlucky place. Compare 1 Kings 20. 23, 28.

23 (And the children of Iſrael went up and wept k before the LODD until even, and asked counſel of the LORD, ſaying, Shall I go up to battel againſt the children of Benjamin my brother l? And the LORD ſaid, Go up againſt him ∵).

k Not ſo much for their Sins, as for their Defeat and Loſs, as appears by the Sequel. l They impute their ill Succeſs, not to their own Sins, as they had great reaſon to do, but to their taking up Arms againſt their Brethren, the Lawfulneſs whereof they now begin to doubt of. But ſtill they perſiſt in their former neglect of ſeeking God's aſſiſtance in the way which he had appointed, as they themſelves acknowledge preſently, by doing thoſe very things which now they ſinfully neglected, v. 26. and therefore are again juſtly puniſhed. ∵ God anſwers to their queſtion; but as they did not deſire his aſſiſtance and ſucceſs, ſo he doth not promiſe it.

24 And the children of Iſrael came near againſt the children of Benjamin, the ſecond day.

25 And Benjamin went forth againſt them out of Gibeah the ſecond day, and deſtroyed down to the ground of the children of Iſrael again, eighteen thouſand men, all theſe drew the ſword.

26 ¶ Then all the children of Iſrael, and all the people went up, and came unto the houſe of God, and wept, and ſat there before the LORD, and faſted m that day until even, and offered burnt-offerings n, and peace-offerings o before the LORD.

m Being now ſenſible of their former ſlightneſs, and not being truly humbled for their Sins, which now they diſcover to be the true Cauſe of their ill ſucceſs. n To make atonement to God for their own Sins. o Partly to bleſs God for ſparing ſo many of them, whereas he might juſtly have cut off all of them when their Brethren were ſlain: and partly to implore his aſſiſtance for the future, and to give him Thanks for the Victory, which now they were confident he would give them.

27 And the children of Iſrael enquired of the LORD p, (for the ark of the covenant of God was there q in thoſe days.

p To wit, by Urim and Thummim, Numb. 27. 21. q In Shiloh where they were now aſſembled.

28 And Phineas the ſon of Eleazar [r] the ſon of Aaron ſtood [ſ] before it [t] in thoſe days) ſaying, Shall I yet again go out to battel againſt the children of Benjamin my brother, or ſhall I ceaſe [u]? And the LORD ſaid, Go up, for to morrow I will deliver them into thine hand [x].

[r] This is added to give us ſome light about the time of this Hiſtory, and to ſhew it was not done in the order in which it is here placed, after Samſon's Death, but long before. [ſ] i. e. Miniſtred, as the word ſtand oft ſignifies, as Deut. 10. 8. and 18. 7. Prov. 22. 29. Jer. 52. 12. compare with 2 Kings 25. 8. becauſe ſtanding is the uſual poſture of Servants. [t] i.e. Before the Ark: or, before his, i. e. the Lord's face, or preſence: which ſhews that he was the High-Prieſt, for none elſe might appear there. [u] Which, if thou requireſt, we are willing to do, notwithſtanding the provocation they have given us, and our own Inclination to Revenge. [x] Now when they had ſought God after the due order, and truly humbled themſelves for their Sins, he gives them a full and ſatisfactory Anſwer to their Deſires.

29 And Iſrael ſet liers in wait ∴ round about Gibeah [y].

∴ Though they were aſſured of the Succeſs, by a particular and abſolute promiſe, yet they do not neglect the uſe of means; as well knowing that the certainty of God's Purpoſes or Promiſes doth not excuſe, but rather require Man's diligent uſe of all fit means for the accompliſhment of them. [y] i e. On ſeveral ſides of it, as may be gathered from the following Verſes.

30 And the children of Iſrael [z] went up againſt the children of Benjamin on the third day [a], and put themſelves in array againſt Gibeah, as at other times.

[z] i. e. A conſiderable part of them, who were ordered to give the firſt onſet, and then to counterfeit flight, to draw the Benjamites forth of their ſtrong hold. See v. 32. [a] To wit, after the ſecond Battel; for the firſt day after it, they ſpent in perplexing thoughts, and going up to the Houſe of the Lord: the ſecond, in Faſting and Prayer there: and this third, in the Fight. Or, this is ſo called with reſpect unto the two ſeveral foregoing days of Battel, and ſo this was the third day of Battel.

31 And the children of Benjamin went out againſt the people, and were drawn away from the city [b], and they began † to ſmite of the people, and kill as at other times [c], in the high-ways, of which one goeth up to || the houſe of God, and the other to Gibeah in the field [d], about thirty men of Iſrael.

† Heb to ſmite of the people wounded as at, &c.
|| Or, Bethel.

[b] By the diſſembled Flight of the Iſraelites. [c] With the ſame kind, though not the ſame degree of Succeſs. [d] So called, to difference it from this Gibeah, which was upon an Hill; wherefore they are conſtantly ſaid, to aſcend or go up againſt it, as v. 23, 30. See Joſ. 18. 24, 28.

32 And the children of Benjamin ſaid, They are ſmitten down before us, as at the firſt: But the children of Iſrael ſaid, Let us flee, and draw them from the city unto the high-ways.

33 And all the men of Iſrael roſe up out of their place [e], and put themſelves in aray at Baal-Tamar: and the liers in wait of Iſrael came forth out of their places [f], even out of the meadows of Gibeah.

[e] Where they had diſpoſed themſelves, that they might fall upon the Benjamites, when they were drawn forth to a ſufficient diſtance from their City, and when they were purſuing that Party mentioned, v. 30. [f] To execute what was agreed upon, even to take Gibeah, and burn it, as they actually did, v. 37.

34 And there came againſt Gibeah ten thouſand choſen men out of all Iſrael [g], and the battel was ſore: but they knew not that evil was near them [h].

[g] Selected out of the main Body, which was at Baal-Tamar; and theſe were to march directly to Gibeah on the one ſide, whilſt the liers in wait ſtormed it on the other ſide, and whilſt the great Body of the Army laboured to intercept theſe Benjamites, who having purſued the Iſraelites that pretended to flee, now endeavoured to retreat to Gibeah. [h] They were ſo puffed up with their former Succeſſes, that they were inſenſible of their danger.

35 And the LORD ſmote Benjamin before Iſrael, and the children of Iſrael deſtroyed of the Benjamites that day twenty and five thouſand, and an hundred men [i]: all theſe drew the ſword.

[i] This is the total Summ, whereof the particulars are related, v. 44, 45. and for the odd hundred not there mentioned, they were killed in other places not there expreſſed.

36 So the children of Benjamin ſaw that they were ſmitten: for the men of Iſrael gave place to the Benjamites, becauſe they truſted unto the liers in wait, which they had ſet beſide Gibeah.

37 And the liers in wait haſted, and ruſhed upon Gibeah, and the liers in wait || drew themſelves along [k], and ſmote all the city with the edge of the ſword.

|| Or, made a long ſound with the trumpet.

[k] Or, extended themſelves; i. e. whereas before they lay cloſe and contracted into a narrow compaſs, now they ſpread themſelves, and Marched in Rank and File as Armies do. Or, marched, or went: Heb. drew their Feet. So this Verb is oft uſed, as Gen. 37 28. Exod. 12. 21. Judg. 4. 6. Job 21. 33.

38 Now there was an appointed || ſign between the men of Iſrael † and the liers in wait, that they ſhould make a great † flame with ſmoke to riſe up out of the city.

|| Or, time.
† Heb. elevation.

39 And when the men of Iſrael retired in the battel, Benjamin began † to ſmite and kill of the men of Iſrael about thirty perſons; for they ſaid, Surely they are ſmitten down before us, as in the firſt battel.

† Heb. to ſmite the wounded.

40 But when the flame began to riſe up out of the city, with a pillar of ſmoke, the Benjamites looked behind them, and behold, the † flame of the city aſcended up to heaven.

† Heb. the whole conſumption.

41 And when the men of Iſrael turned again, the men of Benjamin were amazed [l]; for they ſaw that evil † was come upon them.

† Heb. touched them.

[l] Becauſe of their great diſappointment, and the preſent danger wherewith they were ſurrounded on every ſide.

42 Therefore they turned their backs before the men of Iſrael, unto the way of the wilderneſs, but the battel overtook them: and them which came out of the cities, they deſtroyed in the midſt of them [n].

[m] i.e. The men of Battel or War. The abſtract for the concrete, as Poverty, 2 Kings 24. 14. Pride, Pſal. 36. 11. Deceit, Prov. 12. 25. Dreams, Jer. 23. 9. Election, Rom. 11. 7. are put for Perſons that are Poor, Proud, Deceitful, Dreamers, Elect. [n] So the ſence may ſeem to be this, That the Iſraelites did not only kill the Inhabitants of Gibeah, and all the Benjamites that came into the Field againſt them, 600 excepted; but in the midſt of them, or together with them, they killed alſo the reſt of the Benjamites, who, when they ſaw their Army was wholly deſtroyed, made haſte to flee out of their ſeveral Cities or Towns, that ſo they might eſcape the Sword, which was coming towards them. But the words may be rendred thus: And them who were of the other cities, to wit, of Benjamin, i e. who abode in their own Cities, and did not go up to Gibeah, they deſtroyed in the midſt of them, i.e. in their ſeveral Cities, or, in the midſt of it, i. e. of every City: for ſo it is ſaid, v. 48. where it is ſaid, That they ſmote the men of every City. But this I ſubmit to the Learned.

43 Thus they encloſed the Benjamites round about, and chaſed them, and trode them down || with eaſe [o], † over againſt Gibeah towards the ſun-riſing.

|| Or, from Manuchah, &c.
† Heb. unto over againſt.

[o] Without great difficulty. Now that God gave them his preſence and aſſiſtance, they eaſily did that which before they found too hard for them. Or, unto Menuchah, or, as far as Manuchah, a place ſo called. See 1 Chron. 2. 52. Jer. 51. 59.

44 And there fell of Benjamin eighteen thouſand men [p]; all theſe were men of valour.

[p] To wit, in the Field, or Battel.

45 And they turned and fled toward the wilderneſs, unto the rock of Rimmon: and they gleaned [q] of them in the high-ways five thouſand men; and purſued hard after them unto Gidom, and ſlew two thouſand men of them.

[q] i. e. They cut off the remainders in the purſuit, and ſpared none. A Metaphor from thoſe who gather Grapes or Corn ſo clearly and fully, that they leave no relicks for thoſe who come after them.

46 So that all which fell that day of Benjamin, were twenty and five thouſand [r] men that drew the ſword: all theſe were men of valour.

[r] Beſides the odd hundred expreſſed ver. 35. but here only the great number is expreſſed, the leſs being omitted, as inconſiderable; which way of numbring is frequent in Scripture, as Judg. 11. 26. 2 Sam. 5. 5. and in other Authors, and in vulgar uſe; as when they are called, the 70 Interpreters, who in truth and exactneſs were 72. Here are alſo a thouſand more omitted, becauſe here he ſpeaks only of them who fell in that third day of Battel. See on v. 15.

47 * But ſix hundred men turned and fled to the wilderneſs, unto the rock Rimmon, and abode in the rock [s] Rimmon four months.

[s] In a Cave within that Rock, where they Fortified themſelves, and fetched in Proviſion as they had opportunity; which they could eaſily do, when the heat of the Battel was over, and the Iſraelites were not ſolicitous to purſue them further.

48 And the men of Iſrael turned again upon the children of Benjamin [t], and ſmote them with the edge of the ſword, as well the men [u] of every city, as the beaſt, and all that † came to hand: alſo they ſet on fire all the cities that * they came to.

If this ſeem harſh and bloody, either it may be aſcribed to Military Fury; or rather, it may be juſtified; partly, from that high guilt brought upon the whole Tribe, in which it is no wonder if their Infants ſuffered, which was not unuſual in ſuch caſes, as Numb. 31. 17. 1 Sam. 15. 3. Joſ. 7. 15. partly, from that Command of God in a Parallel caſe, Deut. 13. 15. and partly from that ſolemn Oath by which they had Anathematiſed or devoted to Death all that came not up to Mizpeh, Judg. 21. 5. which none of the Benjamites did; for which cauſe alſo they deſtroyed all the Men, Women, and Children of Jabeſh Gilead, Judg. 21. 10.

CHAP. XXI.

The People bewail the Deſolation of Benjamin, 1,—7. The Inhabitants of Jabeſh Gilead, for not coming up to this Battel, are all deſtroyed: Excepting 40 Damſels: Whom the Iſraelites beſtow for Wives on the remaining Benjamites, 8,——15. They adviſe the reſt to ſeize on the dancing Maidens at the feaſt in Shiloh : And to carry away as many as they had need of, 16,—21. the anſwer wherewith they ſhould pacifie their Relations, 22,—25.

NOw the men of Iſrael had ſworn a in Mizpeh, ſaying, There ſhall not any of us give his daughter unto Benjamin to wife b.

a In the beginning of this War, after the whole Tribe had eſpouſed the quarrel of the Men of Gibeah, Judg. 20. 13, 14. b They do not (as ſome ſuppoſe) here ſwear the utter extirpation of the Tribe, which fell out beyond their expectation, Judg 21. 3, 6. but only not to give their Daughters to thoſe Men who ſhould ſurvive; juſtly eſteeming them for their barbarous Villany, to be as bad as the worſt of Heathens, with whom they were forbidden to Marry. In this Caſe the Benjamites might have married among themſelves, if any of their Men and Women were left alive.

2 And the people came to the houſe of God c, and abode there till even before God, and lift up their voices and wept ſore.

c Partly to mourn for the common loſs; and partly, to ask counſel from God about the repairing of it.

3 And ſaid, O LORD God of Iſrael, Why is this come to paſs in Iſrael, that there ſhould be to day one tribe lacking in Iſrael d?

d Why haſt thou given them up to ſuch wickedneſs, and us to ſuch rage, that the whole Tribe ſhould be in a manner loſt! Hence it appears, that they did not ſwear to root them all out, as is further manifeſt from the different matter and words of this Oath, ver. 1. which only denied them their Daughters in Marriage; and that concerning the people of other Tribes who joyned not with them in this buſineſs, which was, that they ſhould be put to death, v. 5. And their ſparing of thoſe 600 Men in the Rock Rimmon, v. 13, 14. plainly ſhews, that they were not obliged by any Oath or Vow to extirpate them.

4 And it came to paſs on the morrow, that the people roſe early, and built there an altar e, and offered burnt-offerings, and peace-offerings.

e Not for a Monument of the Victory, as ſome ſay, but for Sacrifices, as the next words ſhew. Qu. What need was there of this, when the ordinary Altar was there, to which alſo they ſeem to be reſtrained, Deut. 16. 2? Anſw. They are not there reſtrained to one Altar, but to one place of Worſhip, as is expreſſed; and therefore there might be in that place more Altars than one, when the multitude of Sacrifices ſo required, which was the caſe, 1 Kings 8. 64. and probably at this time, when all the Tribes being met, they had many Sacrifices to offer, ſome in common for all, and ſome peculiar to every Tribe. Nay, other Altars might be, and oft-times were Erected in other places, by Divine Direction or Diſpenſation; as Judg 6. 24, 26. 1 Sam. 7. 9, 17. and 11. 15. and 16. 2, 5.

5 And the children of Iſrael ſaid, Who is there among all the tribes of Iſrael, that came not up with the congregation unto the LORD? for they had made a great oath f concerning him that came not up to the LORD to Mizpeh, ſaying, He ſhall ſurely be put to death g.

f i.e. A ſolemn Oath joyned with ſome terrible Execration againſt the Offenders herein. g Becauſe by refuſing to execute the Vengeance due to ſuch Malefactors, they were juſtly preſumed guilty of the Crime, and therefore liable to the ſame Puniſhment, as was the caſe of that City that would not deliver up an Idolater dwelling among them, to Juſtice.

6 And the children of Iſrael repented them for Benjamin their brother h, and ſaid, There is one tribe cut off from Iſrael this day:

h Not for the War which was juſt, and neceſſary, and good; but for their immoderate ſeverity in the Execution of it, and for the dreadful conſequences of it.

7 How ſhall we do for wives for them that remain, ſeeing we have ſworn by the LORD that we will not give them of our daughters to wives?

8 And they ſaid, What one is there of the tribes of Iſrael, that came not up to Mizpeh to the LORD? And behold, there came none to the camp from Jabeſh-gilead i to the aſſembly.

i A City in Gilead, and in the Tribe of Manaſſeh; of which ſee 1 Sam. 11. 1, 3, 9, &c. and 31. 11, &c.

9 For the people were numbred, and behold, there were none of the inhabitants of Jabeſh-gilead there.

10 And the congregation ſent thither twelve thouſand men of the valianteſt, and commanded them, ſaying, Go, and ſmite the inhabitants of Jabeſh-gilead with the edge of the ſword, with the women and the children k.

k Who in ſuch publick and ſcandalous Crimes were for the greater Terror of ſuch Tranſgreſſors, and prevention of the like Sins, oft involved in the ſame Puniſhment with the men, as Deut. 13. 15. Joſ. 7. 24, &c.

11 And this is the thing that ye ſhall do, * Ye ſhall utterly deſtroy every male, and every woman that † hath lien by man l.

* Numb. 31. 17.
† Heb. knoweth the lying with man.

l But not the Virgins, as appears from the next Verſes. It is queſtionable, whether they were not obliged to deſtroy theſe alſo by vertue of their Oath, and of God's expreſs Command concerning Devoted Perſons, ſuch as theſe certainly were, that they ſhould ſurely be put to death, Levit. 27, 29. which was alſo particularly enjoyned and practiſed in ſuch Caſes, as Deut. 13. Joſ. 7. &c. But the natural and neceſſary duty of preſerving a Tribe from total Ruine, might ſeem to render the caſe difficult and doubtful, and incline their Opinions, as well as their Affections, to the more favourable ſide. And it may be, the Lord, whom they were here conſulting with upon all their occaſions, gave them a Diſpenſation thus to do, though that be not expreſſed; which is the caſe of many other things which were done, though not Recorded; as this very Oath was omitted in its proper place, and had not been Recorded if this extraordinary occaſion had not been offered.

12 And they found among the inhabitants of Jabeſh-gilead, four hundred † young virgins m that had known no man by lying with any male: and they brought them unto the camp to Shiloh, which is in the land of Canaan.

m Not Married, yet marriageable: it is probable, there were other and younger Virgins; but whether they were ſlain or ſpared, Scripture determines not, and the Learned do not agree. But theſe could not ſerve the preſent and urgent occaſion, and therefore he takes notice only of theſe 400 which were of riper Age.

13 And the whole congregation ſent ſome † to ſpeak to the children of Benjamin that were in the rock Rimmon, and to call ‖ peaceably unto them.

† Heb. and ſpake and called.
‖ Or, proclaim peace

14 And Benjamin n came again at that time, and they gave them wives which they had ſaved alive of the women of Jabeſh-gilead: and yet ſo they ſufficed them not.

n The poor remainders of the Tribe of Benjamin.

15 And the people repented them for Benjamin o, becauſe that the LORD had made a breach p in the tribes of Iſrael.

o Were yet more grieved upon this unhappy diſappointment, for they ſuppoſed here would have been Wives ſufficient for them. p The Benjamites were the only Authors of the Sin, but God was the chief Author of the Puniſhment, and the Iſraelites were but his Executioners.

16 ¶ Then the elders of the congregation ſaid, How ſhall we do for wives for them that remain q? ſeeing the women are deſtroyed out of Benjamin:

q For the 200 who are yet unprovided of Wives.

17 And they ſaid, There muſt be an inheritance for them that be eſcaped out of Benjamin r, that a tribe be not deſtroyed out of Iſrael.

r The Inheritance promiſed by Jacob and Moſes, and given by Joſhua to the Tribe of Benjamin, doth all of it belong to thoſe few which remain of that Tribe, and cannot be Poſſeſſed by any other Tribe; and therefore we are obliged to procure Wives for them all, that they may make up this breach, and be capable of poſſeſſing and managing all their Land: that this Tribe, and their Inheritance may not be confounded with, or ſwallowed up by any of the reſt. Heb. the inheritance (to wit, belonging to the whole Tribe of Benjamin) is, or belongs to them that be eſcaped of Benjamin.

18 Howbeit we may not give them wives of our daughters; for the children of Iſrael have ſworn, ſaying, Curſed be he that giveth a wife to Benjamin s.

s i.e. To this Generation of Benjamites who have made themſelves guilty of this foul Wickedneſs: but this Oath did not extend to their Poſterity. And ſome think it had another exception, to wit, unleſs the ſurviving Benjamites could not otherwiſe be ſupplied with Wives.

19 Then they ſaid, Behold, there is a feaſt of the LORD in Shiloh † yearly t, in a place which is on the north-ſide of Beth-el u, ‖ on the eaſt-ſide ‖ of the high-way that goeth from Beth-el to Shechem, and on the ſouth of Lebonah.

† Heb. from year to year.
‖ Or, towards the ſun-riſing.
‖ Or, on.

t On the three ſolemn Feaſts, in which they uſed ſome honeſt and holy Recreations; among which, Dancing was one, Exod. 15. 20. 1 Sam. 18. 6. and 2 Sam 6. 14. and probably it was the Feaſt of Tabernacles, which they did Celebrate with more than ordinary joy, Deut. 16. 13, 14, 15. u Heb. Which is on the north of Bethel. Which doth not relate to Shiloh, which was ſo known a place, that it was frivolous to deſcribe it by ſuch circumſtances, even by places much leſs known than it ſelf; but to the Feaſt, which as to that part or exerciſe of the Feaſt here eſpecially concerned and mentioned, to wit, the Dancing of the Virgins, was not celebrated in Shiloh, but in a Neighbouring place more convenient for that purpoſe.

20 Therefore they commanded the children of Benjamin, ſaying, Go, and lie in wait in the vineyards:

21 And ſee, and behold, if the daughters of Shiloh [x] come out to dance in dances, then come ye out of the vineyards [y], and catch ye every man his wife of the daughters of Shiloh [z], and go to the land of Benjamin.

[x] By whom he may poſſibly underſtand not thoſe only who were born or ſettled Inhabitants there, (as many conceive) but all thoſe who were come thither upon this occaſion, and for a time ſojourned there: For although only the Males were obliged to go up the Three ſolemn Feaſts; yet it is apparent, that the Women had liberty to go, and thoſe who were moſt devout did uſually go, and others, upon ſpecial reaſons or occaſions: See 1 Sam. 1. 7, 21, 22, 24. Luk. 2. 22, 23, 41, 42, 43. And it may be juſtly preſumed, eſpecially concerning thoſe Women that lived at no great diſtance from the place of Publick Worſhip, that they came thither in great numbers. Moreover, the daughters of Shiloh, ſtrictly ſo called, are not only they that lived in that Town or City, but in the Country belonging to it, which oft comes under the name of the City to which it belongs. And theſe may be here particularly named, becauſe though others might come, yet they were under great obligations to come, becauſe of their nearneſs to the place. [y] Which were near to their Dancing-place. [z] Take them away by force or violence. Which they might the better do, becauſe mixed Dances were not uſed by the People of God in their Solemnities, but the Women danced by themſelves, and therefore were more liable to this Rape.

22 And it ſhall be when their fathers, or their brethren come unto us to complain, that we will ſay unto them, || Be favourable unto them [a] for our ſakes: becauſe we reſerved not to each man his wife in the war [b]: for ye did not give unto them at this time, that ye ſhould be guilty [c].

|| Or, Gratifie us in them.

[a] Paſs by their offence, if not for their ſakes, whom neceſſity forced to this courſe; yet for our ſakes, and indeed for your own ſakes; for both you and we have done them a great injury in Proſecuting them with ſo much fury, as to endanger the utter extinction of the whole Tribe: and therefore this is the leaſt we can do by way of reparation. [b] Either, Firſt, in the War with Jabeſh-Gilead, wherein they ſhould have taken care to reſerve a ſufficient number, which they might have done, by ſparing either ſo many of the Married Women as were neceſſary, who, their former Huſbands being ſlain, might have been married to thoſe Benjamites; or as many of the younger Virgins, who, within a little time, might have been Married to them; whom many ſuppoſe that they ſlew. Or, Secondly, in the War with the Benjamites, in which they acknowledge their cruelty in deſtroying the Women with ſuch fury, as not to leave a competent number for the Men which were left. See Judg 20. 48. [c] Qu. Whether this did really diſcharge them from their Oath? 1. Anſw. It ſeems to excuſe thoſe Parents of theſe Virgins who were not acquainted with the Plot, and did neither directly nor indirectly give their Daughters to them, but they were taken away by force, without their knowledge and conſent. If it be ſaid, thoſe Parents might and ſhould have retaken their Daughters from them; it may be replied, that they could not do ſo before they were corrupted, and the Rulers of Iſrael would not aſſiſt them with their Power to recover them. And it is a Maxim, That many things which ought not to be done, when once they are done, ſhould not be undone. And for thoſe Parents who were conſcious of the Deſign, it is probable they kept their Daughters at home to avoid this. Secondly, Either the Oath was made with an exception of the Caſe of the total Extirpation of a Tribe, or it was a raſh Oath to do what was out of their Power, or what they could not lawfully do; to wit, utterly to deſtroy a Tribe out of Iſrael, which therefore they here ſpeak of with horror, v. 3, 6. and if ſo, as they ſinned in making it, ſo they were not obliged to keep it; it being an acknowledged truth, That raſh and ſinful Oaths are better broken than kept. Thirdly, Yet they cannot be wholly excuſed from Sin in this matter; for as it was folly to take ſuch an Oath as it is expreſſed, ſo the manner of freeing themſelves from their own Snare, is fraudulent and injurious to the Parents, in diſpoſing of their Children without their conſent.

23 And the children of Benjamin did ſo, and took them wives according to their number [d], of them that danced, whom they caught: and they went and returned unto their inheritance [e], and repaired the cities, and dwelt in them [f].

[d] i. e. Each Man his Wife, as is ſaid v. 22. By which we may ſee, they had no very favourable opinion of Poligamy, becauſe they did not allow it in this caſe, when it might ſeem moſt neceſſary for the reparation of a loſt Tribe. [e] Which being very near the place, they could ſpeedily do before the Parents could obtain redreſs. [f] Not at that inſtant, which could not be; but by degrees, increaſing their Buildings as their number increaſed.

24 And the children of Iſrael departed thence at that time, every man to his tribe, and to his family, and they went out from thence, every man to his inheritance.

25 * In thoſe days there was no king in Iſrael; every man did that which was right in his own eyes.

The ARGUMENT.

THis little Book, by whomſoever Written, which is not material to know, is annexed to the Book of Judges, and by ſome of the Hebrew Doctors made a part of it. It is uſeful, as for many other points, ſo eſpecially to ſhew the Genealogy of David; and conſequently of Chriſt; and the Riſe of Chriſt from a Moabitiſh Woman: which was an uſeful document, and a great encouragement to the Gentiles to believe in Chriſt.

CHAP. I.

A Famine in Canaan. Elimelech removes to Moab: With Naomi his Wife, and his two Sons, who marry Orpah and Ruth there: And dye, 1,—5. Naomi returns to Judah: Her Daughters in law accompany her on her way, 6,——13. Orpah returns home to her People and God's: Ruth remains being Converted, 14,———18. They come to Bethlehem, 19,—22.

NOw it came to paſs in the days when the judges † ruled [a], that there was a * famine in the land [b]: and a certain man of Bethlehem-Judah went to ſojourn in the country of Moab [c], he, and his wife, and his two ſons.

* 2 Kings 8. 1.

[a] Which is noted as the cauſe of the following Famine, becauſe in much of that time they were guilty of great defection from God. But under which of the Judges this happened, Scripture being ſilent, it ſeems preſumptuous to determine; nor is it neceſſary to know. What is ſaid about this matter from the Genealogy mentioned, Chap 4. 18, &c. it will be moſt proper to conſider it there. [b] Or, in that land; to wit, of Canaan. [c] A fruitful Land, beyond Jordan, Eaſtward.

2 And the name of the man was Elimelech, and the name of his wife, Naomi, and the name of his two ſons, Mahlon, and Chilion, Ephrathites [d] of Bethlehem-Judah [e]: and they came into the country of Moab, and † continued there [f].

† Heb. were. Numb. 9. 21.

[d] So called, becauſe this Bethlehem is otherwiſe called Ephrath or Ephratha, Gen. 35. 19. Mich. 5. 2. either from Caleb's Wife of that name, 1 Chron. 2. 19. and 4. 4. or from the fertility of the Soyl about it; which title may therefore be uſed here, to ſhew the greatneſs of the Famine, which affected even fertile parts. [e] See the Notes on Judg. 17. 7. 11. 5. [f] To wit, during the Famine.

3 And Elimelech Naomi's husband died, and ſhe was left, and her two ſons.

4 And they took them wives of the women of Moab [g]: the name of the one was Orpah, and the name of the other Ruth: and they dwelt there about ten years [h].

[g] Either theſe were Proſelytes when they Married them, which may well be doubted, from v 15. or they ſinned in marrying them, as appears from Deut. 7. 3. and 23. 3. Ezra 9. 1, 2. Nehem. 13. 23. and therefore were puniſhed with ſhort Life, and want of Iſſue, v. 5, 19, 21. [h] As long as the Famine laſted.

5 And Mahlon, and Chilion died alſo both of them, and the woman was left of her two ſons, and her husband.

6 Then ſhe aroſe with her daughters in law, that ſhe might return from the country of Moab: for ſhe had heard in the country of Moab, how that the LORD had viſited his people in giving them bread [i].

[i] i. e. Food; ſo ſhe ſtaid no longer there than neceſſity forced her.

7 Wherefore ſhe went forth out of the place where ſhe was, and her two daughters in law with her: and they went on the way to return unto the land of Judah.

8 And Naomi ſaid unto her two daughters in law, * Go, return each to her mothers houſe [k]: the LORD deal kindly with you, as ye have dealt with the dead [l], and with me.

* See Jos 24. 15.

[k] Not that they wanted Fathers, Ruth 2. 11. but becauſe Daughters uſed to converſe more frequently with their Mothers, and to be moſt endeared to them, and to dwell in the ſame Apartments with them, which then were diſtinct from thoſe parts of the Houſe where the Men dwelt. [l] With my Sons, your Husbands, whileſt they lived.

9 The LORD grant you, that ye may find reſt m, each of you in the houſe of her husband: Then ſhe kiſſed them n, and they lift up their voice and wept.

m i. e. A quiet and happy life, free from thoſe Cares, Vexations, Incumbrances, and Troubles which Widows are in a ſpecial manner expoſed unto. n As the manner there was when friends parted.

10 And they ſaid unto her, Surely we will return with thee unto thy people.

11 And Naomi ſaid, Turn again my daughters: why will ye go with me? are there yet any moe ſons in my womb, that they may be your husbands o?

o According to the Ancient Cuſtom, Gen. 38. and the expreſs Law of God, Deut. 25. 5. which doubtleſs ſhe had acquainted them with before, among other branches of the Jewiſh Religion, wherein ſhe did inſtruct them.

12 Turn again my daughters, go your way p, for I am too old to have an husband: if I ſhould ſay, I have hope, ‖ if I ſhould have a husband alſo to night, and ſhould alſo bear ſons:

‖ Or, if I were with an husband.

n Qu. Why doth ſhe diſſwade them from this journey, and not rather perſwade them to go with her, and to embrace the Jewiſh Religion? Anſw. 1. Poſſibly ſhe thought ſuch diſſwaſion might be the beſt way to perſwade them, as it oft happens; eſpecially in that Sex. 2. She would not have them raſhly and inconſiderately to embrace the Jewiſh Religion, in hopes of ſome advantage from it, which ſhe juſtly thought they would be diſappointed of; and withal, expoſed to many ſtraits and troubles, and on that occaſion, revolt from the True Religion, which would be far worſe than never to have embraced it. And therefore ſhe doth juſtly, and wiſely, and piouſly in repreſenting to them the truth of the buſineſs, and the outward inconveniences which would accompany the Change of their Place, and Religion; as alſo our bleſſed Lord Chriſt did, Mat. 8. 20.

13 Would ye † tarry for them till they were grown? would ye ſtay for them from having husbands o? nay, my daughters: for † it grieveth me much for your ſakes p, that * the hand of the LORD is gone out againſt me.

† Heb. I have much bitterneſs.
* Job 19. 21.

o It is unreaſonable for me to expect it, or for you to perform it. p That you are left without the comfort of Husbands or Children; that I muſt part with ſuch dear and affectionate Daughters; and that my circumſtances are ſuch, that I cannot invite, nor incourage you to go along with me. For her condition was ſo mean at this time, that Ruth, when ſhe came to her Mother's City, was forced to Glean for a living, Chap. 2. 2.

14 And they lift up their voice, and wept again: and Orpah kiſſed her mother in law q, but Ruth clave unto her.

q i. e. Departed from her with a kiſs, as the manner was, Gen. 31. 28. 1 Kings 19. 20.

15 And ſhe ſaid, Behold, thy ſiſter in law is gone back unto her people, and unto her gods r: * return thou after thy ſiſter in law.

* See Joſ. 24. 15. 2 King. 2. 2. Luk. 24. 28.

r Which ſhe ſaith, partly to try Ruth's ſincerity and conſtancy; partly, that by upbraiding Orpah with her Idolatry, ſhe might conſequently turn her from it; and partly, that ſhe might intimate to her, that if ſhe went with her, ſhe muſt embrace the True God and Religion.

16 And Ruth ſaid, ‖ Intreat me not to leave thee, or to return from following after thee, for whither thou goeſt, I will go: and where thou lodgeſt, I will lodge: thy people ſhall be my people, and thy God my God s:

‖ Or, be not againſt me.

s I renounce thoſe Idols which my Siſter hath returned to, and I will Worſhip no other God but thine, who is indeed the onely True God.

17 Where thou dieſt, will I die, and there will I be buried: the LORD do ſo to me and more alſo, if ought but death part thee and me.

18 When ſhe ſaw that ſhe † was ſtedfaſtly minded to go with her, then ſhe left ſpeaking unto her.

† Heb. ſtrengthned her ſelf.

19 ¶ So they two went until they came to Bethlehem: and it came to paſs when they were come to Bethlehem, that all the city was moved about them, and ‖ they ſaid, Is this Naomi t?

‖ That is, the women.

t Is this ſhe that formerly lived in ſo much Plenty and Honour? Oh how marvellouſly is her condition changed, that ſhe is returned in this forlorn and deſolate condition!

20 And ſhe ſaid unto them, Call me not ‖ Naomi u, call me ‖ Mara x: for the Almighty hath dealt very bitterly with me.

‖ That is pleaſant.

u Which ſignifies pleaſant, or chearful, or amiable. x Which ſignifies bitter or ſorrowful.

21 I went out full y, and the LORD hath brought me home again empty: why then call ye me Naomi, ſeeing the LORD hath teſtified againſt me z, and the Almighty hath afflicted me?

y With my Husband and Sons, and a plentiful Eſtate for our ſupport. z i. e. Hath born witneſs, as it were, in Judgment, and given Sentence againſt me, and declared my Sin by my Puniſhment.

22 So Naomi returned, and Ruth the Moabiteſs her daughter in law with her, which returned out of the countrey of Moab, and they came to Bethlehem in the beginning of barley harveſt.

CHAP. II.

Ruth gleaning in the fields of Boaz her deceaſed Husband's near Kinſman, he taketh knowledge of her, 1,—7. He ſheweth her great kindneſs, and bleſſeth her, 8,——16. That which ſhe got ſhe brings to Naomi: and telleth her what had befallen her: She giveth God thanks, and exhorteth Ruth to continue in the field, 17,——23.

AND Naomi had a kinſman of her husbands, a mighty man of wealth, of the family of Elimeleck, and his name was Boaz.

2 And Ruth the Moabiteſs ſaid unto Naomi, Let me now go to the field and glean a ears of corn after him, in whoſe ſight I ſhall find grace b. And ſhe ſaid unto her, Go, my daughter.

a Which was permitted to the Poor, and the Stranger, Deut. 24. 19. both which ſhe was; nor was ſhe aſhamed to confeſs her Poverty, nor would ſhe eat the bread of idleneſs: whereby ſhe ſheweth her ſelf to be a prudent, and diligent, and vertuous Woman, as ſhe is called, Ruth 3. 11. b For though it was their duty to permit this, Levit. 19. 9. and 23. 22. yet either ſhe was ignorant thereof, or thought, that being a Stranger, it might be grudged, or denied to her; or, at leaſt, that it became her modeſtly and humbly to acknowledge their kindneſs herein.

3 And ſhe went, and came, and gleaned in the field after the reapers: and her † hap was c to light on a part of the field belonging unto ‖ Boaz, who was of of the kinred of Elimelech.

† Heb. hap happened.
‖ Called Mat. 1. 5. Booz.

c For it was indeed a chance in reference to Second Cauſes, but ordered and deſigned by God's Providence.

4 ¶ And behold, Boaz came from Bethlehem, and ſaid unto the reapers, The LORD be with you: and they anſwered him, The LORD bleſs thee d.

d They expreſſed and profeſſed their Piety, even in their civil Converſation, and worldly Tranſactions; which now ſo many are aſhamed of, and call it Hypocriſie or vain Oſtentation thus to do.

5 Then ſaid Boaz unto his ſervant that was ſet over the reapers, Whoſe damſel is this?

6 And the ſervant that was ſet over the reapers anſwered and ſaid, It is the Moabitiſh damſel, that came back with Naomi e out of the countrey of Moab.

e i. e. That came with Naomi when ſhe came back: for otherwiſe, as Ruth did not go from thence, ſo ſhe could not properly be ſaid to come back.

7 And ſhe ſaid, I pray you, let me glean f, and gather after the reapers amongſt the ‖ ſheaves: ſo ſhe came and hath continued even from the morning until now g, that ſhe tarried a little in the houſe h.

f She did not boldly intrude her ſelf, but modeſtly aſk leave of us. g She is not retired through idleneſs, for ſhe hath been diligent and conſtant in her labours. h Not in Naomi's houſe, as many underſtand it, as may be gathered from v. 18, 19. but in the little Houſe or Tent, which was ſet up in the Fields at theſe times, and was neceſſary in thoſe hot Countries, where the Labourers or others might retire for a little repoſe or repaſt at fit times. Being weary with her continued labours, ſhe comes hither to take a little reſt.

8 Then ſaid Boaz unto Ruth, Heareſt thou not, my daughter? Go not to glean in another field, neither go from hence, but abide here faſt by my maidens i.

i Not by the young Men, to avoid both occaſion of ſin, and matter of ſcandal. Herein he ſhews his Piety and Prudence.

9 Let thine eyes be on the field that they do reap, and go thou after them: have I not charged the young men that they ſhall not touch thee k? and when thou art athirſt, go unto the veſſels and drink of that which the young men have drawn.

k So as to offer any incivility or injury to thee. Touching is oft taken for hurting, Gen. 26. 11. Pſal. 105. 15.

10 Then ſhe fell on her face l, and bowed her ſelf to the ground, and ſaid unto him, Why have I found grace in thine eyes, that thou ſhouldeſt take knowledge of me m, ſeeing I am a ſtranger?

l This was the humbleſt Poſture of Reverence, either Civil when performed to men, or Religious, when to God. See Gen. 18. 2. and 33. 3. and 42. 6. Matth. 2. 11. and 8. 2. m i. e. Shew any reſpect and kindneſs to me. For words of knowledge in Scripture commonly include affection.

11 And Boaz anſwered and ſaid unto her, It hath fully been ſhewed me, all that thou haſt done unto thy mother in law, ſince the death of thine husband: and how thou haſt left thy father and thy mother, and the land of thy nativity, and art come unto a people which thou kneweſt not n heretofore.

n Of whom thou hadſt no experience: for otherwiſe in general ſhe could not be ignorant of this People.

12 The LORD recompenſe thy work, and a full reward be given thee of the LORD God of Iſrael, under whoſe wings o thou art come to truſt.

o i.e. Protection and Care, as Deut. 32. 11. Pſal. 17. 8. and 36. 7. and 94. 3. An Alluſion either to Hens, which protect and cheriſh their Young ones under their Wings; or to the Wings of the Cherubims, between which God dwelt.

‖ Or, I find favour.
† Heb. to the heart.

13 Then ſhe ſaid, ‖ Let me find favour in thy ſight p, my lord, for that thou haſt comforted me, and for that thou haſt ſpoken † friendly unto thine hand-maid, though I be not like unto one of thy hand-maidens q.

p I humbly implore the continuance of thy good Opinion of me, though I do not deſerve it. q A Perſon more mean, and neceſſitous, and obſcure, being a ſtranger, and one born of Heatheniſh Parents, and not of the Holy and Honourable People of Iſrael, as they are.

14 And Boaz ſaid unto her, At meal-time come thou hither, and eat of the bread r, and dip thy morſel in the vinegar ſ. And ſhe ſate beſide the reapers t: and he reached her parched corn u, and ſhe did eat, and was ſufficed, and left.

r Which in thoſe ſimple and frugal times was the uſual Food of Servants and the meaner Sort, at leaſt when they were engaged in ſuch Works as this, which required ſpeed, and therefore muſt be quick in their Eating, as well as in their Work. Or, Bread may be here put for any Food, as it oft is. ſ Either ſimple Vinegar, in which the Poorer ſort uſed to dip their Bread, and ſo Eat it in hot Countries, as they did not only in Canaan, but afterwards in Italy; it being very proper, eſpecially in thoſe Parts, for cooling them in thoſe hot Seaſons, for ſtrengthning their Sinews, &c. or Vinegar mixed with other things to make ſome kind of Sauce. t Not with or among them, but at ſome little diſtance from them, and as one inferiour to them, as ſhe had acknowledged before in Words, and now ſheweth it by her Actions. u A Food in frequent uſe, and ſome eſteem with them. See 2 Sam. 17. 28.

† Heb. ſhame her not.

15 And when ſhe was riſen up to glean, Boaz commanded his young men, ſaying, Let her glean among the ſheaves, and † reproach her not x.

x As if ſhe were rude or impudent in ſo doing, as otherwiſe they ſhould have thought. Queſt. Why did he not rather give her as much Corn as ſhe could carry, and ſend her away? Anſ. Becauſe he would not have her to Eat the Bread of Idleneſs, but honeſtly to get it with the Sweat of her Brows, according to her Duty and preſent Condition.

16 And let fall alſo ſome of the handfuls, of purpoſe for her, and leave them, that ſhe may glean them, and rebuke her not.

17 So ſhe gleaned in the field until Even, and beat out that ſhe had gleaned: and it was about an ephah y of barley.

y Which is thought to contain about a Buſhel. See Exod. 16. 36. Levit. 5. 11.

18 ¶ And ſhe took it up, and went into the city: and her mother in law ſaw what ſhe had gleaned: and ſhe brought forth, and gave to her that ſhe had reſerved, and was ſufficed z.

z Or, that which ſhe had left of her fulneſs, or after ſhe was ſatisfied. She did Eat as much as ſhe deſired of what ſhe had Gleaned, and her Mother, as I ſuppoſe, with her, and the reſidue ſhe gave to her Mother, to lay up for future uſe.

19 And her mother in law ſaid unto her, Where haſt thou gleaned to day? and where wroughteſt thou? bleſſed be he that did take knowledge of thee. And ſhe ſhewed her mother in law with whom ſhe had wrought, and ſaid, The mans name with whom I wrought to day, is Boaz.

* 2 Sam. 2. 5.
‖ Or, one that hath right to redeem.

20 And Naomi ſaid unto her daughter in law, Bleſſed be he of the LORD, who hath not left off his kindneſs to the living * and to the dead a. And Naomi ſaid unto her, The man is near of kin unto us, ‖ one of our next kinſmen b.

a i.e. Which he formerly ſhewed to thoſe who are now dead, to wit, my Husband and his Sons whilſt they were living, and now continues to us, their Wives, who are now alive. b Heb. one of our Redeemers, or Avengers, to whom it belongs to Avenge our Perſons, and to Redeem our Lands, and to Marry thee, the Widow and Relict of his next Kinſman, as is expreſſed, Ruth 3. 9. She ſaith, one of them, not that there were many who were immediately ſuch, but that he was a very near Kinſman, and one to whom that Office belonged, in caſe of the refuſal of one Perſon, of whom ſhe rightly conjectured that he would refuſe, as he did.

21 And Ruth the Moabiteſs ſaid, He ſaid unto me alſo, Thou ſhalt keep faſt by my young men, until they have ended all my harveſt c.

c Both Barley-Harveſt, and Wheat-Harveſt, as is ſaid, v. 23.

‖ Or, fall upon thee.

22 And Naomi ſaid unto Ruth her daughter in law, It is good, my daughter, that thou go out with his maidens, that they ‖ meet thee not in any other field d.

d Whereby thou wilſt both expoſe thy ſelf to many inconveniences, which thou may'ſt expect from Strangers; and incur his diſpleaſure, as if thou didſt either deſpiſe his proffered kindneſs, or doubt of the ſincerity of his Affections and Offers.

23 So ſhe kept faſt by the maidens of Boaz to glean, unto the end of barley-harveſt, and of wheat-harveſt, and dwelt e with her mother in law.

e Heb. ſat, or continued at home, when ſhe had diſpatched her occaſions abroad, and did not wander or gad abroad, after the manner of Idle Perſons and Harlots, Prov. 7. 11, 12.

CHAP. III.

By Naomi's Advice, Ruth lieth at Boaz his feet, 1,——7. he awaking commendeth what ſhe had done, and acknowledgeth the Right of a Kinſman. Tells her there was a nearer Kinſman, to whom he would offer her, who refuſing, he would redeem her, 8, 13. Sends her away with 6 meaſures of Barley, 14, 18.

THEN Naomi her mother in law ſaid unto her, My daughter, ſhall I not ſeek reſt a for thee, that it may be well with thee?

a i.e. A life of Reſt, and Comfort, and Safety, under the Care of a good Husband. The Queſtion ſuppoſeth an Affirmative Anſwer: I will ſeek it, as my Duty binds me.

2 And now, is not Boaz of our kinred, with whoſe maidens thou waſt? Behold, he winnoweth barley to night in the threſhing floor b.

b Which was in a place covered at the top, but open elſewhere, whither Ruth might eaſily come. And this work of winnowing Corn was uſually begun or ended with a Feaſt, as may be gathered both from v. 7. and from other Inſtances, wherein they uſed to do ſo upon like occaſions; and this work was to begin this Evening, and, as ſome think, was done only in the Evenings, when the heat grew leſs, and the wind began to blow. See Gen. 3. 8.

3 Waſh thy ſelf therefore, and anoint thee, and put thy raiment c upon thee, and get thee down to the floor: but make not thy ſelf known unto the man d, until he ſhall have done eating and drinking.

c To wit, thy beſt Raiment. All this was done to render her ſelf more Amiable in the Eyes of Boaz. Obj. But Boaz could not ſee her, the whole buſineſs being to be tranſacted by Night. Anſ. Firſt, It was begun in the beginning of the Night, as ſoon as Boaz had ſupped and compoſed himſelf to reſt; as appears from v. 4, 7. when there was ſo much Light left as might diſcover her to him. Secondly, There being a Solemn Feaſt this Evening, as is very probably thought, and the Maſter of the Feaſt having Invited his Labouring People to it, and Ruth among the reſt, it is likely that both ſhe and the reſt did put themſelves into their beſt Dreſs upon that occaſion, as the manner is even at this day; and ſo he had opportunity enough to ſee her. d To wit, not in ſo familiar a way, as ſhe was appointed to do, ſo as he might know her, in the ſence in which that word is ſometimes uſed.

‖ Or, lift up the clothes that are on his feet.

4 And it ſhall be, when he lieth down e, that thou ſhalt mark the place where he ſhall lie, and thou ſhalt go in f, and ‖ uncover his feet g, and lay thee down, and he will tell thee what thou ſhalt do h.

e To reſt or ſleep, as upon ſuch occaſions they uſed to do in thoſe hot Countries. f Though Naomi and Ruth ſeem to be vertuous and modeſt Women, and their intent was Lawful and Honeſt; yet there ſeems to be a manifold irregularity in the manner of it. Firſt, It ſeems to be againſt that Modeſty, which ſhould be eminent in that Sex, and in unmarried Perſons. Secondly, Againſt Honeſty, both becauſe it was an injury to another Perſon, who was nearer akin, whoſe right this was; which Naomi could not be Ignorant of: and becauſe it was a Prepoſterous and Precipitant Method, not agreeable either to the Rules of Scripture, or the Uſage of well-mannered Nations, or that Decency which even Nature requries. Thirdly, Againſt Prudence; for it might have proved the occaſion, as of many Sins, ſo of great ſhame to all of them; and a means to Alienate his Affection from her, which ſhe ſought to engage. And though there be ſome Circumſtances which Alleviate the Fact, as the Experience which Naomi had of the Wiſdom and Sobriety both of Boaz and of Ruth, yet ſhe knew not what the event would be; and that there was ſomething of ſhamefulneſs in the thing, may be gathered both from Naomite's choice of the Night for it, as if it were a work of Darkneſs; and from Boaz his fear leaſt this ſhould be known, v. 14. And it is an aggravation of it, that this Courſe was unneceſſary, and ſhe had a plain and likely way, which was directly to Addreſs her ſelf to Boaz, or the next Kinſman, and to require the Duty which by God's Law he was bound to perform, and this before Witneſſes, as Boaz did. And her Clandeſtine proceeding ſeems to have ariſen from a diſtruſt of God's Providence, to bring about what ſhe deſired in the ordinary way. g Remove the Clothes which were upon his Feet; thereby to awaken him. h How thou ſhouldſt carry thy ſelf, or what courſe thou ſhalt take to obtain that Marriage which belongs unto thee. Only there were ſome Rites to be obſerved, and Circumſtances to be done, before they came to the concluſion of the Marriage, about which Boaz would inſtruct her.

5 And ſhe ſaid unto her, All that thou ſaiſt unto me, I will do i.

i The Confidence ſhe had in Naomi's Wiſdom and Piety, and true Love to her, made her ready to follow her Advice, wherein ſhe was the more excuſable, becauſe ſhe did not underſtand the Laws and Cuſtoms of the Country, as Naomi did.

6 ¶ And ſhe went down unto the floor, and did according to all that her mother in law bade her.

7 And when Boaz had eaten and drunk k, and his heart was merry, he went to lie down at the end of the heap of corn: and ſhe came ſoftly, and uncovered his feet, and laid her down.

k To wit, liberally, as the manner was upon thoſe occaſions. See Judg. 9. 27. Pſal. 4. 7. Iſa. 9. 3.

8 ¶ And it came to paſs at midnight l, that the man was afraid, and ‖ turned himſelf m, and behold, a woman lay at his feet n.

‖ Or, took hold on.

l He did not diſcover her ſooner, though ſhe did uncover his Feet, being it ſeems in a deep ſleep, as is uſual after Feaſts, and ſhe doing no more than her Mother commanded her, and uſing no words or geſtures which might provoke his Luſt: wherein ſhe ſhewed her Temperance and Modeſty, and that what ſhe did was only by her Mothers Inſtigation and Advice, which plainly appeared from her deſire expreſſed, v. 9. which he knew, ſhe being a Stranger, was unacquainted with. And this was the reaſon why Boaz was not in the leaſt offended with her, but only commends her Vertue, without any reflection upon her for this Fact. m From the place where he lay, he raiſed and turned himſelf towards the Feet, to learn who or what was there. Or, he was troubled, or afraid, or wondred. For the Hebrew word being but once uſed, is diverſly rendred. n Which he might underſtand, either by ſome glimmerings of Light which were after midnight, which diſcovered her; or rather, by her Voice, or out of her own Mouth, who being asked, told him ſo much in general, before he made particular enquiry.

9 And he ſaid, Who art thou? And ſhe anſwered, I am Ruth thine hand-maid: ſpread therefore thy skirt over thine hand-maid o, for thou art ‖ a near kinſman.

‖ Or, one that hath right to redeem.

o i.e. Take me to be thy Wife, and perform the Duty of an Huſband to me. This Phraſe is uſed in this ſence, Deut. 22. 30. and 27. 20. Ezek. 16. 8. Either, Firſt, Becauſe the Wife is admitted into the ſame Bed with her Husband, and both are covered with one and the ſame Covering. Or, Secondly, From an ancient Ceremony of the Husbands throwing the Skirt of his Garment over her Head, in token both of her ſubjection, 1 Cor. 11. 5, 6, 10. and appropriation to him, being hereby as it were hid from the Eyes of others: See Gen. 20. 16. and alſo of that Protection which he oweth to her; ſee Ruth 2. 12.

10 And he ſaid, Bleſſed be thou of the LORD, my daughter: for thou haſt ſhewed more kindneſs p in the latter end, than at the beginning, in as much as thou followedſt not young men q, whether poor, or rich.

p Both to thy deceaſed Husband, the continuance of whoſe Name and Memory thou preferreſt before the ſatisfaction of thy own Luſt; and to thy Mother-in-law, whoſe Commands thou haſt punctually obeyed, even with thy own hazard in ſo doubtful an Enterprize. q To ſeek thy Marriage either here, or in thy own Country, as thou wouldſt have done if thou hadſt not preferred Obedience to God's Command, before the pleaſing of thy ſelf.

11 And now my daughter, fear not r, I will do to thee all that thou requireſt ſ: for all the † city of my people doth know, that thou art a vertuous woman.

† Heb. gate.

r Think not that I Deſpiſe and Reject thee, becauſe I do not immediately comply with thy Deſire. ſ i.e. Marry thee, upon the Condition here following.

12 And now it is true, that I am thy near kinſman: howbeit, there is a kinſman nearer than I.

13 Tarry this night, and it ſhall be in the morning, that if he will perform unto thee the part of a kinſman t, well, let him do the kinſmans part: but if he will not do the part of a kinſman to thee, then will I do the part of a kinſman to thee, as the LORD liveth: lie down until the morning.

t i.e. Take thee to Wife, to raiſe up Seed to his Brother, as he ought to do.

14 ¶ And ſhe lay at his feet until the morning: and ſhe roſe up before one could know another u. And he ſaid, Let it not be known that a woman came into the floor x.

u i.e. While it was yet ſo dark that one Perſon could not diſcern another. Or, before one did know the other; i.e. before they were carnally known to one another. x He takes care to preſerve not only his Conſcience towards God, but his Reputation, and hers alſo, among Men.

15 Alſo he ſaid, Bring the ‖ veil y that thou haſt upon thee, and hold it. And when ſhe held it, he meaſured ſix meaſures z of barley, and laid it on her: and ſhe went into the city.

‖ Or, ſheet, or, apron.

y Or, the apron, ſuch as Women ordinarily wear. z Known and uſual Meaſure: It is not determined how large thoſe Meaſures were, but this the Nature of the thing ſhews, that they were no larger than one Woman could carry in her Veil, or Apron.

16 And when ſhe came to her mother in law, ſhe ſaid, Who art thou, my daughter ∴? and ſhe told her all that the man had done to her.

∴ Either, Firſt, She did not diſtinctly know who ſhe was, becauſe it was dark, and ſo calls her Daughter only in general, as elder Women call the younger. But ſhe could as eaſily have diſcerned who ſhe was, as what her Age was. Or, Secondly, This is not a Queſtion of doubting, but of wonder, as if ſhe had ſaid, Art thou in very deed my Daughter? I can hardly believe it. How comeſt thou hither in this manner, and thus early?

17 And ſhe ſaid, Theſe ſix meaſures of barley gave he me, for he ſaid to me, Go not empty to thy mother in law.

18 Then ſaid ſhe, Sit ſtill my daughter until thou know how the matter will fall: for the man will not be in reſt, until he have finiſhed the thing this day.

CHAP. IV.

Boaz goeth up to the gate, calleth his kinſman: enquires whether he would redeem and marry Ruth, 1,—5. He refuſeth, 6,—8. Boaz, the people witneſſing and congratulating, buyeth the inheritance and marrieth Ruth, 9,——12. She beareth Obed the grand-father of David, 13,——17. The Genealogie from Pharez unto David, 18,——22.

THEN went Boaz up to the gate a, and ſate him down there: and behold, the kinſman of whom Boaz ſpake, came by, unto whom he ſaid, Ho, ſuch an one b, turn aſide, ſit down here c. And he turned aſide, and ſate down.

a The place where Controverſies were decided, and the People aſſembled, and where they uſed to go out, and come in to the Town; where he was moſt likely to find his Kinſman. b Doubtleſs Boaz both knew his Name, and called him by it, but it is omitted by the holy Writer; partly becauſe it was unneceſſary to know it; and principally in way of contempt, as is uſual, and as a juſt puniſhment upon him, that he who would not preſerve his Brother's Name, might loſe his own, and lie buried in the Grave of perpetual Oblivion. c I have ſome Buſineſs of Importance with you.

2 And he took ten men d, of the elders of the city, and ſaid, Sit ye down here. And they ſate down.

d To be Umpires or Witneſſes between them: for though two or three Witneſſes were ſufficient, yet in weightier Matters they uſed more. And ten was the uſual Number among the Jews, in Cauſes of Matrimony and Divorce, and tranſlation of Inheritances; who were both Judges of the Cauſes, and Witneſſes of the Fact. See 1 King. 21. 8.

3 And he ſaid unto the kinſman, Naomi e, that is come again out of the country of Moab, ſelleth a parcel of land f, which was our brother Elimelechs.

e Both Naomi and Ruth had an Intereſt in this Land during their Lives, but he mentions only Naomi, partly becauſe all was done by her direction, to which Ruth wholly ſubmitted her ſelf; and partly leſt the mention of Ruth ſhould raiſe a ſuſpicion of the neceſſity of his marrying Ruth, before he had given his Anſwer to the firſt Propoſition. f Which ſhe might do becauſe of her Poverty, Levit. 25. 25.

4 And † I thought to advertiſe thee, ſaying, Buy it before the inhabitants, and before the elders of my people g. If thou wilt redeem it, redeem it, but if thou wilt not redeem it, then tell me, that I may know: for there is none to redeem it beſides thee, and I am after thee. And he ſaid, I will redeem it.

† Heb. I ſaid, I will uncover thine ear. Reveal in thine ear.

g Before this Aſſembly, that it may be Legally, and Firmly made over to thee.

5 Then ſaid Boaz, What day thou buyeſt the field of the hand of Naomi, thou muſt buy it alſo of Ruth the Moabiteſs, the wife of the dead h, to raiſe up the name of the dead i upon his inheritance.

h According to the Law, Deut. 25. 5, &c. Matth 22. 24, &c. i To revive his Name, which was loſt and buried with his Body, by raiſing up a Seed to him, to be called by his Name.

6 ¶ And the kinſman ſaid, I cannot redeem it for my ſelf, leſt I mar mine own inheritance k: redeem thou my right l to thy ſelf, for I cannot redeem it.

k Either, Firſt, Becauſe having no Children of his own, he might have one, and but one Son by Ruth, who, though he ſhould carry away his Inheritance, yet ſhould not bear his Name, but the Name of Ruth's Husband; and ſo by preſerving another Man's Name, he ſhould loſe his own. Or, Secondly, Becauſe as his Inheritance would be but very little increaſed by this Marriage, ſo it might be much diminiſhed by being divided amongſt his many Children, which he poſſibly had already, and might probably have more by Ruth. l Which I freely renounce and reſign to thee.

7 * Now this was the manner in former time in Iſrael, concerning redeeming, and concerning changing, for to confirm all things m: a man plucked off his ſhoe, and gave it to his neighbour n: and this was a teſtimony in Iſrael o.

* Deut. 25. 7, 9.

m i. e. In all Alienation of Lands. So that it is no wonder if this Ceremony differ a little from that Deut. 25. 9. becauſe that concerned only one Caſe, but this is more general. Beſides, he pleads not the Command of God, but only ancient Cuſtom, for this Practice. n He who relinquiſhed his Right to another, plucked off his own Shoe and gave it to him. This was Symbolical, and a ſignificant and convenient venient Ceremony, as if he ſaid, Take this Shoe wherewith I uſed to go and tread upon my Land, and in that Shoe do thou enter upon it, and take poſſeſſion of it. o This was admitted for ſufficient Evidence in all ſuch Caſes.

8 Therefore the kinſman ſaid unto Boaz, Buy it for thee: ſo he drew off his ſhoe.

9 ¶ And Boaz ſaid unto the elders, and unto all the people, Ye are witneſſes this day, that I have bought all that was Elimelechs, and all that was Chilions, and Mahlons, of the hand of Naomi.

10 Moreover, Ruth the Moabiteſs, the wife of Mahlon have I purchaſed to be my wife, to raiſe up the name of the dead upon his inheritance, that the name of the dead be not cut off from among his brethren, and from the gate of his place p: ye are witneſſes this day.

p i. e. From among the Inhabitants dwelling within the Gate of this City, which was Bethlehem-Judah.

11 And all the people that were in the gate, and the elders ſaid, We are witneſſes: The LORD make the woman that is come into thine houſe, like Rachel, and like Leah q, which two did build the houſe r of Iſrael: and ‖ do thou worthily in Ephratah ſ, and † be famous in Bethlehem s.

‖ Or, get thee riches, or, power.
† Heb. proclaim thy name.

q Amiable and Fruitful. Thoſe two are ſingled out; partly becauſe they were of a Foreign and Heatheniſh Original, and yet ingrafted into God's People, as Ruth alſo was: and partly, becauſe of that ſingular Fertility which God vouchſafed unto them above their Predeceſſors, Sarah and Rebecca. Rachel is placed before Leah, becauſe ſhe was his moſt lawful, and only intended, and choſen, and beſt-beloved Wife. r i e. Increaſe the Poſterity. See Gen. 16. 2. Exod. 1. 21. s Two Names of one and the ſame Place; of which ſee on Ruth 1. 2.

12 And let thy houſe be like the houſe of Pharez t, (* whom Tamar bare unto Judah) of the ſeed which the LORD ſhall give thee of this young woman.

* Gen. 38. 29. 1 Chron. 2. 4. Matth. 1. 3.

t As honourable and numerous as his Family was; whom, though he alſo was born of a Stranger, God ſo far bleſſed, that his Family was one of the five Families to which all the Tribe of Judah belonged, and the Progenitor of the Inhabitants of this City.

13 ¶ So Boaz took Ruth u, and ſhe was his wife: and when he went in unto her x, the LORD gave her conception y, and in due time ſhe bare a ſon.

u Which he might do, though ſhe was a Moabite, becauſe the Prohibition againſt marrying ſuch, is to be reſtrained to thoſe who continue in the Heatheniſh eſtate, as is evident from the reaſon of it: Whereas Ruth was a ſincere Proſelite and Convert to the God and Faith of Iſrael. x i. e. Had Conjugal Converſe with her. See Gen. 6. 4. y i. e. Strength to conceive and retain Seed.

14 And the woman ſaid unto Naomi, Bleſſed be the LORD, which hath not † left thee this day without a ‖ kinſman z, that his name may be famous in Iſrael a.

† Heb. cauſed to ceaſe unto thee.

z Which is underſtood, Either, Firſt, Of the Son new born. Or, rather, Secondly, Of Boaz: For the Name of Goel, which is tranſlated Kinſman or Redeemer, is never, that I know of, given to the Child born, but always to the Perſon begetting him of his Brother's or near Kinſman's Wife. And whereas it is objected, That there was no Cauſe for this Congratulation at this time in reference to Boaz, becauſe that was done divers Months before this time: It may be replied, That the Memory of that generous Action was revived upon this occaſion, and therefore is fitly mentioned as the Foundation of this Child's birth: and this happy Effect juſtly leads them to the Cauſe and Original of it, which was this, That Boaz had ſhewed himſelf to be a Kinſman or Redeemer, not only in Name and Title, as the other Kinſman was, v. 6. but in Truth and Reality. The words may be rendred, Which hath not made, or ſuffered thy Kinſman to fail to thee; i. e. To neglect or refuſe the performance of his Duty to thee and thine, as the other Kinſman did. a Heb. and his Name ſhall be famous in Iſrael, for this Noble and Worthy Action, wherein he gave ſo great an Example of Piety, Charity, Humility, and Self-denial.

15 And he ſhall be unto thee a reſtorer of thy life b, and † a nouriſher of † thine old age: for thy daughter in law which loveth thee, which * is better to thee than ſeven ſons, hath born him c.

† Heb. thy gray hairs.
* 1 Sam. 1. 8.

b i. e. Of the comfort of thy Life, which was in a great meaſure dead and gone. c To wit, a Son: the Pronoun for the Noun, underſtood, which is frequent in the Hebrew Tongue. Or, Hath born to him; i. e. to thy Kinſman, to wit, a Son, which is eaſily underſtood: and ſo the Pronoun affix is put for the ſeparate; of which there are Inſtances; as Joſ. 15. 19. 1 King. 19. 21. Job 31. 37. Ezek. 29. 3.

16 And Naomi took the child, and laid it in her boſom, and became nurſe unto it.

17 And the women her neighbours gave it a name d, ſaying, There is a ſon born to Naomi, and they called his name Obed e: he is the father of Jeſſe, the father of David.

d i. e. They gave her Advice about the Name; for otherwiſe they had no Power or right to do ſo. e A ſervant, to wit, to thee, to nouriſh, and comfort, and aſſiſt thee; which Duty Children owe to their Progenitors.

18 ¶ Now theſe are the generations of Pharez: * Pharez begat Hezron.

19 And Hezron begat Ram, and Ram begat Amminadab,

* 1 Chron. 2. 4. Matth. 1. 3.

20 And Amminadab begat Nahſhon, and Nahſhon begat ‖ Salmon,

‖ Or, Salmah.

21 And Salmon begat Boaz, and Boaz begat Obed, 22 And Obed begat Jeſſe, and Jeſſe begat David f.

f How can this be a true Genealogy, ſeeing by this means four Perſons take up three hundred and eighty Years, which were between Salmon and David, and conſequently every one of them muſt beget a Son when he was very old? Anſw. 1. It is not certain, that each of theſe was the immediate Parent of him whom he is ſaid to beget: for ſometimes Grand-Fathers are ſaid in Scripture to beget their Grand-Children, to wit, by the Intervention of their immediate Sons; whereof Inſtances have been given. And ſometimes in Genealogies whole Generations are omitted, as may appear by Ezra 7. 2. compared with 1 Chron. 6. 3. and by Matth. 1. 8. which might be done here for divers reaſons now unknown. 2. There are many Examples even in prophane Writers, both Ancient and Modern, of Perſons that have not only lived 120, and 130 years and upwards, but have been vigorous, and have begotten Children at above 100 years old; and of Women that have conceived and born Children at the Age of 50, 60, yea, 70 years. And therefore if it were ſo in theſe more ancient Times, when Men were longer-lived, and under the Law, when long Life was expreſly promiſed to the Obedient, and in Perſons of ſtrong Conſtitutions, and ſober Converſations, ſuch as ſome of theſe are known to have been, and the others may juſtly be preſumed to be ſuch, it is not ſtrange, nor in the leaſt incredible.

I. SAMUEL.

The ARGUMENT.

IT is not certainly known who was the Pen-man of this Book, or whether is was Written by one or more Hands; nor is it of any great Importance: For ſince there are ſufficient Evidences that God was the chief Author of it, it matters not who was the Inſtrument. As when it appears that ſuch a thing was really an Act of Parliament, or of the Council-Table, it is not conſiderable who was the Clerk, or which was the Pen that Wrote it. And this is the leſs material in ſuch Hiſtorical Books, wherein there is but little which concerns the Foundation of Faith and Good Life, and therefore it was not neceſſary to Name the Writer of them. It may abundantly ſuffice, that there were in theſe Times divers Prophets and Holy Men of God; as Samuel, and Nathan, and Gad, and David himſelf, who might each of them Write ſome part of this and the following Book. But if any Man will out of perverſneſs doubt or deny that theſe Wrote it, yet this I ſuppoſe no diſcreet and impartial Man will deny, that it is wholly Incredible that ſuch Books ſhould be Written in their Times, and recommended to the Church as a Part of the Holy Scriptures, and ſo received by the ſucceeding Generation, without their Approbation, who had ſo great a Power and Authority in the Church and Commonwealth of Iſrael.

CHAP. I.

Elkanah goeth yearly up to the feaſt at Shiloh with his two wives: Hannah is barren; Peninnah upbraideth her, 1,—6. Hannah prayeth fervently to the Lord for a ſon: promiſing to ſeparate him a Nazarite unto God, 7,—12. Ely thinking her drunk rebuketh her: upon her anſwer, bleſſeth her, 13,—18. She returneth home with Elkanah, and conceiveth; beareth Samuel: offereth her ſacrifice: performs her promiſe concerning him, 19,—21.

NOW there was a certain man of Ramathaim Zophim a, of mount Ephraim, and his name was * Elkanah, the ſon of Jeroham, the ſon of Elihu, the ſon of Tohu, the ſon of Zuph, an Ephrathite b:

* 1 Chron. 6. 27, 34.

a Called Ramah, v. 19. and here is the Dual Number Ramathaim; i. e. double Ramah, probably becauſe it conſiſted of two parts, whereof the one might be called the Old City, the other the New, both being united into one; and the additional Title of Zophim, which ſignifies Watch-Towers, or Watch-Men, may note either the height of its ſituation, which made it fit for that uſe; or, that the Prophets, who are called Watch-Men, as Ezek. 3. 17. had a School or College there. b i.e. One of Bethlehem-Judah, Ruth. 1. 2. to wit, by his Birth and Habitation, though by his Original a Levite. Thus divers Jews by Nation are called Medes, Elamites, Cretians, &c. Act. 2. 9, 10, 11. becauſe they were born and bred there.

2 And he had two wives c, the name of the one was Hannah, and the name of the other Peninnah: and Peninnah had children, but Hannah had no children.

c As divers other good Men had in thoſe Ages. And it is probable that he took a ſecond Wife, to wit, Peninnah, becauſe Hannah, who being firſt named ſeems to have been his firſt Wife, was barren.

* Deut. 16. 6. † Heb from days to days, Lev. 25. 29.

3 And this man went up out of his city * † yearly d, to worſhip, and to ſacrifice e unto the LORD of hoſts in Shiloh f, and the two ſons of Eli, Hophni, and Phinehas, the prieſts of the LORD, were there g.

d To wit, at one of the ſolemn Feaſts, which probably was the Paſſover, when he not only went up himſelf, but carried his Wife and Children with him. Compare v. 7. Or, at the appointed days or times: Heb. from days to days; or, from time to time; i. e. at the three ſolemn Feaſts, when he, together with all other Males were obliged to go to worſhip God in the Place appointed; and at other times, when he as a Levite, was to go thither in his courſe. e Not in his own Perſon, which the Levites could not do, but by the Prieſts; in which ſence David, and Solomon, and Abſalom are ſaid to offer ſacrifices, 2 Sam. 15. 8. 1 King 8. 63. 1 Chron. 21. 26. f Where the Tabernacle had long been, and now was. See Joſ. 18. 1. Judg. 18. 31. and 21. 19. g Or, were the Prieſts of the Lord there, to wit, under their Father Eli, who is generally conceived to have been the High-Prieſt, but being very old and infirm, 1 Sam. 4. 15. and unfit for ſervice, his Sons miniſtred in his ſtead, being as it were ſecond Prieſts. See 2 King. 25. 18. And this Clauſe ſeems to be added, to ſhew that this good Man did not run into that vulgar Error, of neglecting his Duty of Offering to God for the wickedneſs of the Prieſts: Of which ſee Chap. 2. 17, 24.

4 ¶ And when the time was that Elkanah offered, he gave to Peninnah his wife, and to all her ſons and daughters, portions h.

h To wit, out of the Sacrifice of his Peace-Offerings, the greateſt part whereof fell to the Offerer, and was eaten by him, and his Friends or Gueſts, before the Lord, Levit. 3. and 7. Deut. 12. 12. and 16. 11. and out of this he gave them all Parts or Portions, as the Maſter of the Feaſt uſed to do to Gueſts.

‖ Or, double ortion.

5 But unto Hannah he gave ‖ a worthy portion i: (for he loved Hannah k, but the LORD had ſhut up her womb.

i Or, an honourable or ſelect Part, ſuch as the Maſter of the Feaſt uſually gave to the Perſon moſt reſpected or beloved. See Gen. 43. 34. 1 Sam. 9. 23, 24. k With a ſingular and eminent Love. Compare Gen. 29. 30.

† Heb. gred her.

6 And her adverſary l alſo † provoked her ſore, for to make her fret m, becauſe the LORD had ſhut up her womb.)

l Or, her Troubler, or Vexer, or Enemy; for ſo her Envy or Jealouſly made her, though ſo nearly related. Compare Gen. 29. 30. Levit. 18. 18. m Againſt her Husband, or againſt God, or within her ſelf.

‖ Or, from ie time that ſhe, &c. Heb. from er going p.

7 And as he did ſo n year by year o, ‖ when ſhe went up to the houſe of the LORD p, ſo ſhe provoked her: therefore ſhe wept, and did not eat q.

n i.e. Either as oft as he went and carried them with him to worſhip: or, as Elkanah expreſſed peculiar kindneſs to Hannah, as was ſaid, v 5. o i. e. Every year, at the days or times mentioned, v. 3. p This Circumſtance is noted, Firſt, As the occaſion of the Contention, becauſe at ſuch times they were forced to more Society with one another, by the Way, and in their Lodgings; whereas at Home they had diſtinct Appartments, where they might be aſunder; and then her Husband's extraordinary Love and Kindneſs was ſhewed to Hannah, whereby Peninnah was the more exaſperated; then alſo Hannah prayed earneſtly for a Child, which hitherto ſhe had done in vain; and this poſſibly ſhe reproached her with. Secondly, As the aggravation of her Sin, that when ſhe came to worſhip God, and to offer Sacrifices, when ſhe ſhould have been reconciled even to her Enemies, Matth. 5. 23, 24. ſhe did quarrel with ſo near a Relation. q Either little, or rather nothing at all, as being overwhelmed with Grief, and therefore unfit to eat of that Sacred Food, according to Deut. 12. 7.

* Ruth. 15.

8 Then ſaid Elkanah her husband to her, Hannah, why weepeſt thou? and why eateſt thou not? and why is thy heart grieved? am not I * better to thee than ten ſons r?

r Oughteſt thou not to value my hearty Love to thee, more than the having of as many Sons as Penninah hath? She would willingly change Conditions with thee.

9 ¶ So Hannah roſe up after they ſ had eaten in Shiloh, and after they had drunk: (now Eli the prieſt ſat upon a ſeat t by a poſt of the temple u of the LORD.)

ſ i.e. Elkanah and his Company, except Hannah. Or, She: for though at firſt ſhe eat nothing, yet upon her Husband's Invitation and Encouragement, ſhe might eat afterwards: though the former may ſeem more probable. t Or, Throne; for it is manifeſt it was raiſed higher than ordinary, chap. 4. 18. Here he might ſit, either as the Judge; or rather as High-Prieſt, to hear and anſwer ſuch as came to him for Advice, and to inſpect and direct the worſhip of God, as need was. u i.e. Of the Tabernacle, which is called the Temple here, and chap. 3. 3. and 2 Sam. 22. 7. Pſal. 27. 6. as on the contrary, the Temple is called the Tabernacle, Jer. 10. 20. Lament. 2. 6. And although this Tabernacle was but a Tent, yet it was ſupported by Boards and Poſts, and eſpecially at the Entrance, by which Eli ſate, even by the Entrance into the outward Court, otherwiſe he could not have ſeen Hannah. See more on chap. 3. 15.

10 And ſhe was † in bitterneſs x of ſoul, and prayed unto the LORD, and wept ſore.

† Heb. bitter of ſoul.

x i.e. Oppreſſed with Grief, as that Phraſe is uſed, Job 7. 11. and 10. 1. Ruth 1. 20.

11 And ſhe vowed a vow y, and ſaid, O LORD of hoſts, if thou wilt indeed look on z the affliction a of thine hand-maid, and remember me, and not forget thine hand-maid, but wilt give unto thine hand-maid † a man-child, then I will give him unto the LORD b all the days of his life c, and * there ſhall no raſor come upon his head d.

y Knowing that her Husband would willingly conſent to it, otherwiſe ſhe had not power to do it. z To wit, favourably, ſo as to remove it. a i. e. The Barrenneſs and Reproach which attends it. b i. e. Conſecrate him to God's Service in his Temple, as far as in me lies: for if he had any blemiſh, ſhe might not do it. c Not only from his 25*th.* to his 50*th* Year, as all the Levites, and ſo he himſelf, were obliged by God, Numb. 4. 2. and 8. 24. but for his whole time. Which is ſtill to be underſtood with a reſervation of God's Right, which her Vow muſt give place to, as indeed it did; for God called him to be a Prophet, and a General of the Army, and a Judge. d i. e. He ſhall be a perpetual Nazarite: for under this one Rule, as the Chief, all the reſt are contained; as elſewhere the whole Moſaical Law is underſtood, under the Title of Circumciſion.

12 And it came to paſs, as ſhe † continued praying e before the LORD, that Eli marked her mouth f.

† Heb. multiplied to pray.

e Heb. multiplied to pray. By which it appears that ſhe ſaid much more than is here expreſſed. And the like you are to judge of the Prayers and Sermons of other holy Perſons Recorded in Scripture, which gives us only the ſumm and ſubſtance of them. Which Conſideration may help us much in the underſtanding of ſome Paſſages of the Bible. f i. e. The motion of her Lips, as it follows.

13 Now Hannah, ſhe ſpake in her heart, only her lips moved, but her voice was not heard g: therefore Eli † thought ſhe had been drunken h.

† Heb. accounted her for drunken. So Gr.

g Partly, to avoid the ſuſpicion of vain-glory: partly, becauſe ſhe would not have others acquainted with her Barrenneſs, which was matter of reproach: and partly, becauſe ſhe would not diſturb others, who at this ſolemn Feaſt were probably imployed there in the ſame work. h Becauſe of the multitude of her words, and thoſe uncouth Geſtures and Motions of her Face and Body, which the vehemency of her Paſſion, and her fervency in Prayer, cauſed in her, as it doth frequently in others; and becauſe ſhe was but newly come from a Feaſt, wherein the manner was to eat and drink liberally, (though not to exceſs) which he knew very well, both from the general Cuſtom of that Seaſon, and from the time of the day.

14 And Eli ſaid unto her, How long wilt thou be drunken? put away thy wine from thee i.

i Come not before the Lord in thy drunkenneſs, but go and ſleep it out, and repent of this thy Sin.

15 And Hannah anſwered and ſaid, No, my lord, I am a woman k † of a ſorrowful ſpirit l: I have drunk neither wine nor ſtrong drink m, but have poured out my ſoul n before the LORD.

† Heb. hard of ſpirit.

k In whom Drunkenneſs is moſt abominable; ſo that the Romans puniſhed it with death. Therefore judge me not ſo ſeverely. l And therefore not likely to give up my ſelf to Drink and Jollity, and far from that merry Temper which Drunkards have: I am drunk with Affliction, not with Wine, as is ſaid Iſa. 51. 21. m To wit, this day: See above, v. 7, 8. n Have been breathing forth the Griefs, and Perplexities, and Deſires of my Soul. The like Phraſe is Job 30. 16. Pſal. 62. 8. and 142. 2.

16 Count not thine hand-maid for a daughter of Belial o: for out of the abundance of my ‖ complaint and grief, have I ſpoken hitherto p.

‖ Or, meditation.

o For ſuch a wicked Monſter, as a drunken Woman is. p The oppreſſion of my ſpirits hath forced me to ſpeak, and that ſo liberally at this time, for the eaſe of my ſinking Heart.

17 Then Eli anſwered and ſaid, Go in peace q: and the God of Iſrael grant r thee thy petition that thou haſt asked of him.

q I recal my Cenſure, and give thee my Bleſſing, and wiſh thee Peace; i. e. a quiet and compoſed Mind, free from whatſoever it is that grieves and oppreſſes thee; and withal, good Succeſs and Proſperity in what thou deſireſt; for Peace is a very comprehenſive word among the Hebrews. r Or, will grant: for it may be either a Prayer, or a Prediction, which he might deliver, either from the conſideration of God's known goodneſs and readineſs to hear Prayers: or he might be directed to ſay ſo by a ſpecial inſtinct of God's Spirit, which ſometimes was given to the High-Prieſts, even when they were wicked Men, as John 11. 51. and much more when they were holy Men, as Eli was. And ſome add, that he was a Prophet.

18 And ſhe ſaid, Let thine hand-maid find grace in thy ſight s. So the woman went her way, and did eat, and her || countenance was no more ſad t.

|| Or, heavineſs was no more. See Job 9. 27. Hebr.

s That favourable Opinion, and good Will, and gracious Prayer, which thou haſt expreſſed on my behalf, be pleaſed to continue towards me. t Her heart being cheared by the Prieſt's comfortable words, and eſpecially by God's Spirit ſetting them home upon her, and aſſuring her that both his and her Prayers ſhould be heard, it quickly appeared in her Countenance. Heb. her indignation, or vexation (as the word Face is ſometimes underſtood, as Gen. 32. 20. Pſal. 21. 9. and 34. 16.) was no more; i. e. it vaniſhed away.

19 ¶ And they roſe up in the morning early u, and worſhipped before the LORD, and returned, and came to their houſe to Ramah: and Elkanah knew Hannah his wife, and the LORD remembred her x.

u Partly for their Journey, and partly for Prayer, as it follows, for which this was a very fit and uſual time, Pſal. 5. 3. 119. 147. x i. e. Manifeſted his remembrance of her by the effect.

20 Wherefore it came to paſs † when the time was come about, after Hannah had conceived, that ſhe bare a ſon x, and called y his name || Samuel, ſaying, Becauſe I have asked him of the LORD.

† Heb. in the revolution of days.
|| That is, asked of God.

x So the ſence is, When the uſual time from the Conception to the Birth was paſt, ſhe brought forth her Son. Heb. In or after the Revolution, or Expiration of ſome Days, Hannah conceived, and in due time bare a Son. So the meaning is, That although her Husband knew her Conjugally at his return, and God was mindful of her, and intended in his time to give her his Bleſſing, yet ſhe did not Conceive at firſt, but after ſome days, or time afterwards. y i. e. She called, not doubting of her Husbands conſent to the Name. The Names of Children were given to them, ſometimes by the Fathers, and ſometimes by the Mothers. See Gen. 4. 1, 26. and 5. 29. and 21. 3. and 19. 37, 38, &c.

21 And the man Elkanah, and all his houſe z, went up to offer unto the LORD the yearly ſacrifice a, and his vow b.

z i. e. His Wife Peninnah, and his Children, which are oft-times called a Mans Houſe in Scripture, Hannah only and her Child excepted, as it here follows. a That ſolemn Sacrifice which was offered up once every Year; probably the Paſchal Lamb, which is oft called a Sacrifice, as Exod. 12. 27. and 34. 25. b By which it appears, though it was not expreſſed before, that he heard and conſented to her Vow, which was neceſſary to make it Obligatory, Numb. 30. and that he added a Vow of his own, of ſome ſingular Sacrifice to be offered, if God anſwered his Prayers.

22 But Hannah went not up c, for ſhe ſaid unto her husband, I will not go up until the child be weaned d, and then I will bring him, that he may appear before the LORD, and there abide for ever e.

c To wit, at that ſacred Anniverſary-Feaſt, to which ſhe went up before, but now did not, becauſe ſhe could not with ſatisfaction to her Mind and Conſcience appear before the Lord Empty, or without paying her Vow; nor bring her Child thither to God, and then carry him away from God to her own Houſe. Nor did ſhe ſin by not going up; for the Women were not obliged to go up at the ſolemn Feaſts, but the Men only, Exod 23. 17. d Not only from the Breaſt and the Milk, which was done within two or three Years at moſt, but alſo from the Mothers Knee and Care, and from Childiſh Food; till the Child be ſomething grown up, and fit to do ſome Service in the Tabernacle: for it ſeems, that as ſoon as he was brought up, he worſhipped God, v. 28. and preſently after miniſtred to Eli, 1 Sam. 2. 11. And this may further appear from the very Nature of the Vow, which muſt needs deſign a Service and an Advantage to the Tabernacle, and not a Burden and Encumbrance, as it would have been if a young Child had been brought up to it, and left upon it. e That when once he is preſented to the Lord, he may continue in his Service as long as he liveth, as is ſaid v. 28.

23 And Elkanah her husband ſaid unto her, Do what ſeemeth thee good; tarry until thou have weaned him, only the LORD eſtabliſh his word f: ſo the woman abode, and gave her ſon ſuck until ſhe had weaned him.

f Either, Firſt, The word of God made known to them by Eli, above, v. 17. which being delivered by God's High-Prieſt, and that in anſwer to his and his Wives Prayers, he took to be a kind of Oracle ſent from God. But that word was already fulfilled in the Birth of a Son. Or, Secondly, ſome other Word or Meſſage from God to Elkanah or his Wife concerning Samuel; for ſuch Revelations were frequent in thoſe Ages of the Church, and were oft vouchſafed by God, concerning ſuch Children as were extraordinary Perſons, or in a ſpecial manner devoted to God; as concerning Iſaac, Gen. 18. and Samſon, Judg. 13. 3, 4. and John Baptiſt, Luke 1. 13, 14, &c. and others. And ſo it might be here, though it were not mentioned before, there being many ſuch things in Scripture omitted in their proper places, which afterwards are expreſſed or implied upon other occaſions. Or rather, Thirdly, It may be rendered, his matter or thing; i. e. the Buſineſs concerning the Child, that which thou haſt Promiſed or Vowed concerning him, that he may grow up, and be accepted and employed by God in his Service; and that he, when he is fully grown, may not break thy Vow, but confirm it.

24 ¶ And when ſhe had weaned him, ſhe took him up with her, with three bullocks g, and one ephah of flour h, and a bottle of wine i, and brought him unto the houſe of the LORD in Shiloh: and the child was young.

g Either, Firſt, One to be offered at that time: the other two preſented to the Prieſt, whether for his own uſe, or to be offered afterwards, as he ſaw fit. Or, Secondly, One for a Burnt-offering, the Second for a Sin-offering, the Third for a Peace-offering; of which they might all Feaſt together; for all theſe ſorts ſeem expedient for this work and time. h For the Meat-offerings belonging to the principal Sacrifices, which to each Bullock were three tenth-deals, or three tenth parts of an Ephah, as appears from Numb. 15. 9. and 28. 12. and ſo nine Homers, or nine parts of the Ephah were ſpent, and the tenth part was either a ſeparate Meat-offering, or given to the Prieſt. i For Drink-offerings, according to the manner.

25 And they ſlew a bullock k, and brought the child to Eli.

k Either, Firſt, One of the three at the preſent, reſerving the reſt for the future. Or, Secondly, The three Bullocks mentioned v. 22. to which the Article here added, in the Hebrew, ſeems manifeſtly to relate; there being no one Bullock there, ſingled out, to which it can belong. And ſo it is only an Enallage of the Singular Number for the Plural, which is frequent.

26 And ſhe ſaid, O my lord l, as thy ſoul liveth m, my lord, I am the woman that ſtood by thee here, praying unto the LORD.

l A Form of Speech to engage favourable Attention. m The uſual Form of an Oath, as Gen. 42. 15. 1 Sam. 17. 55. and 20. 3. As ſurely as thou liveſt. Which Aſſeverations ſeem neceſſary, becauſe this was ſome Years after it, and was quite forgotten by him.

27 For this child I prayed, and the LORD hath given me my petition, which I asked of him:

28 Therefore alſo I have || lent him to the LORD n as long as he liveth, || he ſhall be lent o to the LORD. And he p worſhipped the LORD there.

|| Or, returned him whom I have obtained by petition, to the LORD.
|| Or, he whom I have obtained by petition, ſhall be returned.

n Or, given him, &c. i. e. do now give or offer him: for ſhe did not lend him for a time, with a purpoſe or right to require him again. The words may be rendred thus: And I alſo asked him, or made my ſelf to ask him (an uſual Hebraiſm) for the Lord; i. e. I prayed for this Child, not only for my ſelf, and to take away my Reproach, but eſpecially that I might have a Child to ſerve and devote to the Lord. And ſo the following words, as long as he liveth, are not to be joyned with this foregoing Clauſe, but with thoſe which come next after them; and that whole Clauſe may be thus rendred, as a conſequent upon the former: And, or therefore all the days in which he is, or ſhall be, he is or ſhall be lent or given to the Lord; or, as one begged for the Lord, and for his Service, and therefore juſtly given to him. o Or, rendred, or uſed as one given in my Prayer; for this was the condition of my Prayer, that he ſhould be the Lords. p Not Eli, who is not mentioned, but v. 25. and then only paſſively, not as ſpeaking or doing any thing; nor Elkanah, of whom here is no mention: but young Samuel, who is the ſubject ſpoken of in this and the foregoing Verſe, and who was capable of worſhipping God in ſome ſort, at leaſt with External Adoration; of which ſee on v. 22. And ſo the Particle there is Emphatical, ſignifying that hereby he entred himſelf into the worſhip and ſervice of God in that place, to which he was devoted by his Parents, and now did devote himſelf.

CHAP. II.

Hannah's ſong, 1,—10. Samuel miniſters before the Lord, 11. Eli's ſons are wicked, 12,—17. Hannah beareth more children, 20, 21. Eli reproves his ſons but mildly, 22,—25. God by a prophet foretelleth the deſtruction of Eli's houſe, 27,—36.

AND Hannah prayed a, and ſaid, * My heart rejoiceth b in the LORD c: mine horn is exalted d in the LORD: my mouth is enlarged e over mine enemies f, becauſe I rejoice in thy ſalvation g.

* See Luke 1. 46, &c.

a i. e. Praiſed God; which is a part of Prayer, Col. 4. 2. 1 Tim. 2. 1. ſo it is a Synecdochical Expreſſion. b Or, leapeth for joy: for the words note not only inward Joy, but alſo the outward Demonſtrations of it. c As the Author and the Maſter of my Joy, that he hath heard my Prayer, and accepted my Son for his Service. d My ſtrength and glory (which are oft ſignified by an Horn, as Pſal. 89. 17, 24. and 92. 10.) are advanced and manifeſted to my Vindication, and the Confuſion of mine Enemies. e i. e. Opened wide to pour forth abundant Praiſes to God, and to give a full Anſwer to all the Reproaches of mine Adverſaries; whereas, before it was ſhut through Grief and Confuſion. f i. e. More than theirs, or ſo as to get the Victory over them, as ſhe ſaith afterwards. Here ſhe manifeſts her great Prudence, and Piety, and Modeſty, that ſhe doth not name Peninnah, but only her Enemies in the general. g Becauſe the matter of my Joy is no trivial or worldly thing, but that ſtrange and glorious Salvation or Deliverance which thou haſt given me from my own oppreſſing Care and Grief, and from the Inſolencies and Reproaches of mine Enemies, in giving me a Son, and ſuch a Son as this, who ſhall be ſerviceable to God, and to his People, in helping them againſt their Enemies, which ſhe preſaged, as may be gueſſed from v. 10.

* Deut. 32. 4. Pſal. 86. 8. & 89. 6, 8.

2 * There is none holy as the LORD h: for there is none beſide thee i: neither is there any rock like our God k.

h None ſo perfectly, unchangeably and conſtantly Holy, as God hath ſhewed himſelf to be in this Act of Grace to me, whereby he hath both checked the proud and mighty, and pleaded the Cauſe of his afflicted Servant that truſted in him, and alſo fulfilled his Promiſe in giving me a Son, whom he hath ſanctified by his Grace to his Service; all which are the proper Effects of God's Holineſs. i Not only none is ſo Holy as thou art, but in truth there is none Holy (which word is eaſily underſtood out of the former Clauſe) beſides thee; to wit, intirely, or independently, but only by participation from thee. Or, as none have any Holineſs like thine, ſo none have any Being beſides thee, unleſs by derivation from thee. k Thou only art a ſure Defence and Refuge to all that flee to thee, and truſt in thee, as I have found by my Experience.

* Mal. 3. 13. † Heb. hard.

3 Talk no more ſo exceeding proudly l: * let not † arrogancy m come out of your mouth: for the LORD is a God of knowledge n, and by him actions are weighed o.

l Thou Peninnah, boaſt no more of thy numerous Off-ſpring, and ſpeak no more inſolently and ſcornfully of me, as thou haſt done. She ſpeaks of her in the Plural Number, becauſe ſhe would not expoſe her Name to Cenſure, but only inſtruct and reprove her for her good. m Heb. hard Speeches, as thoſe are called, Jude v. 15. harſh, heavy, and not to be born. Or, the old Sayings, either the old Proverbs concerning barren Women, which thou appliedſt to me; or, the old Reproaches, to which for a long time thou haſt accuſtomed thy ſelf. n He knoweth thy Heart, and all that Pride, and Envy, and Contempt of me, which thy own Conſcience knows; and all thy perverſe Carriages towards me. o i. e. He pondereth, or trieth all Mens Thoughts and Actions, (for the Hebrew word ſignifies both) as a juſt Judge, to give to every one according to their Works; and therefore he hath pitied my oppreſſed Innocency, and rebuked her Arrogancy. Or, by him Councels, or Actions, or Events, are diſpoſed or ordered, and not by our ſelves; and therefore he brings many things to paſs contrary to Mens expectations, as now he hath done; he maketh one Barren, and another Fruitful, when, and how it pleaſeth him. In the Hebrew Text it is Lo the Adverb; and ſo the words may be rendred thus, his actions are not, or cannot be directed, or rectified, or corrected by any others; none can mend his Work; he doth every thing beſt, and in the beſt ſeaſon, as now he hath done: Or weighed, or numbred, his ways are unſearchable: Or thus, are not his works right and ſtrait? who can blame his Actions? So Lo is for halo, as it is 2 Sam. 13. 26. 2 King. 5. 26. Job 2. 10.

4 The bows p of the mighty men are broken, and they that ſtumbled q are girt with ſtrength r.

p This notes, either, 1. The Strength of which they boaſted: See Pſal. 44. 6. and 46. 9. Or, 2. Their malicious or miſchievous Deſigns. See Pſal. 7. 12. and 11. 2. and 37. 14. Or, 3. Their virulent Tongues, which are compared to bows that ſhoot their Arrows, even bitter Words; as it is ſaid, Pſal. 64. 3. Compare Jer. 9. 3. Or, 4. Their procreating Vertue, which may well be compared to a bow, both becauſe it is called a Man's ſtrength, Gen. 49. 3. and becauſe Children, which are the Effects of it, and are as it were ſhot from that bow, are compared to arrows, Pſal. 127. 4, 5. And this ſeems beſt to agree with the following Verſe. q Or, were weak, or feeble, in Body and Spirit, that had no ſtrength to conceive, which was once Sarah's caſe, Heb. 11. 11. Or, to bring forth, which was Iſrael's condition under Hezekiah, 2 King. 19. 3. r Are enabled both to conceive and to bring forth, as the Church was, Iſa. 66. 9.

s Through extreme Neceſſity, into which they are fallen from their greateſt Plenty. It is the ſame thing which is expreſſed both in divers Metaphors in the foregoing, and following Verſes, and properly in the latter branch of this Verſe. t i e. Ceaſed to be ſuch, to wit, hungry; the hungry failed: there was none of them hungry or indigent. u i. e. Many; as ſeven is oft uſed. She ſpeaks in the Prophetick Style, the paſt time, for the future; for though ſhe had actually born but one, yet ſhe had a confident perſuaſion that ſhe ſhould have more, which was grounded either upon ſome particular Aſſurance from God; or rather upon the Prayer or Prediction of Eli; which, though it be mentioned after this Song, v. 20. yet in all probability was ſpoken before it, even upon the Parents preſentation of the Child to Eli, chap. 1. v. 25. it not being likely that ſhe would ſing this Song in Eli's preſence, or before he had given his Anſwer to her Speech delivered, ch. 1. v. 26, 27, 28. there being nothing more frequent than ſuch tranſpoſitions in Scripture. And the experience ſhe had of the ſtrange and ſpeedy Accompliſhment of his former Prophecy, made her confidently expect the ſame Iſſue from the latter. x i.e. Peninnah. y Either becauſe ſhe was now paſt Child-bearing, and impotent for Procreation: or, becauſe divers of her Children, which were her ſtrength and her glory, were dead, as the Hebrew Doctors relate.

* Deut. 32. 39. † Heb. hell.

6 * The LORD killeth, and maketh alive z, he bringeth down to † the grave, and bringeth up.

z Either, 1. Divers perſons: he killeth one, and maketh another alive: Or, 2. The ſame perſon whom he firſt killeth, or bringeth very nigh unto death, he afterwards raiſeth to life. Me, who was almoſt overwhelmed and conſumed with Grief, he hath revived. The name of death both in ſacred Scripture, and prophane Writers, is oft given to great Calamities; as Iſa. 26. 19. Ezek 37. 11. Rom. 8. 36.

* Pſal. 75. 7.

7 The LORD maketh poor, and maketh rich: * he bringeth low, and lifteh up.

* Pſal. 113. 7. * Job 36. 7.

8 He * raiſeth up the poor out of the duſt b, and lifteth up the beggar from the dunghil c, to * ſet them among princes, and to make them inherit d the throne of glory e: for the pillars f of the earth are the LORD's, and he hath ſet the world upon them.

b i. e. Out of their low and miſerable Condition; as this Phraſe is uſed, 1 King. 16. 2. Pſal. 113. 7. Compare Job 16. 15. Pſal. 22. 16. c From the moſt ſordid Place, and mean Eſtate. Compare 1 King. 16. 2. Job. 36. 11. Pſal. 7. 5. c Which the poor are ſaid to embrace, Lament. 4. 5. d Not only poſſeſs themſelves, but tranſmit them to their Poſterity, as hath oft happened in the World: or, poſſeſs. e i.e. A glorious Throne or Kingdom. f Either, 1. The Foundations of the Earth, which God created, and upholds, and wherewith he ſuſtains the Earth, and all its Inhabitants, as a Houſe is ſupported with Pillars; and therefore it is not ſtrange if he diſpoſeth of perſons and things therein as he pleaſeth. Or, 2. The Princes or Governours of the Earth, which are called, the corners, or cornerſtones of a Land or People, Judg. 20. 2. 1 Sam. 14. 38. Zeph. 3. 6. and are fitly called Pillars, becauſe they uphold the World, and keep it from ſinking into confuſion: See Pſal. 74. 2. Jer. 1. 18. Revel. 3. 12. And theſe are here ſaid to be the Lords, by Creation and Conſtitution, becauſe he advanceth them to their ſtate, and preſerves them in it, Prov. 8. 15, 16. and puts the world, or the Kingdoms of the World, upon them, as burdens upon their ſhoulders: See Iſa. 9. 6.

* Pſal. 91. 11. * Pſal. 94. 17.

9 He * will keep the feet g of his ſaints, and the wicked ſhall be * ſilent h in darkneſs i; for by ſtrength ſhall no man prevail k.

g i.e. The Steps or Paths, their Counſels and Actions; he will keep; i.e. both uphold, that they may not fall, at leaſt, into Miſchief or utter Ruine; and direct and preſerve from wandring, and from thoſe fatal Miſtakes and Errors that wicked Men daily run into. h Shall be put to ſilence: they who uſed to open their Mouths wide againſt Heaven, and againſt the Saints, ſhall be ſo confounded with the unexpected diſappointment of all their hopes, and with God's glorious appearance and operations for his People, that they ſhall have their Mouths quite ſtopped, and ſit down in ſilent Amazement and Conſternation: See Iſa. 15. 1. Jer. 8. 14. and 47. 5, 6. i Both inward, in their own Minds, which are wholly in the dark, perplexed by their own Choice and Counſels, not knowing what to ſay or do; and outward, in a ſtate of deepeſt Diſtreſs and Miſery. k To wit, againſt God, or againſt his Saints, as the wicked were confident they ſhould do, becauſe of their great Power, and Wealth, and Numbers: Whereas God's People were mean, and impotent, and helpleſs. And particularly, Peninnah ſhall not prevail againſt me by that ſtrength which ſhe hath, or thinks to have from her numerous Off-ſpring. But it is to be obſerved, that although Hannah takes the riſe of this Song from her own Condition, yet ſhe extends her Thoughts and Words further, even to the uſual Methods of God's Providence in the Government of the World.

* Chap. 7. 10. * Pſal. 89. 24.

10 The adverſaries of the LORD l ſhall be broken to pieces m: * out of heaven n ſhall he thunder upon them o: the LORD ſhall judge p the ends of the earth q, and he ſhall give ſtrength unto his king r, and * exalt the horn s of his anointed t.

l And of his People; eſpecially the Philiſtines, who at this time were the chief Oppreſſors of Iſrael. m Theſe and the following words are Prophetical of what God was about to do: They who are now our Lords, ſhall be ſubdued. n i.e. Out of the Clouds or Air, which is oft called Heaven. o As was done, 1 Sam. 7. 10. p i.e Shall condemn and puniſh, as that Verb by a Synecdoche is oft uſed. q Or, of the land, to wit, the Philiſtines who dwelt in the utmoſt Borders of Canaan, even upon the Sea-coaſt. r Either, 1. Unto the Judge or Ruler whom he ſhall ſet up for the Protection and Deliverance of his People; the word King being elſewhere ſo taken. Or, 2. The King properly ſo called: And ſo ſhe Propheſieth, That Iſrael ſhould have a King, and that there ſhould be a great difference between King and King; between the Peoples King, Saul, whom they would obſtinately and paſſionately deſire; by whom therefore they ſhould have but little relief; and God's King, David, whom God would chuſe as a Man after his own Heart, and whom he would ſtrengthen and aſſiſt ſo, as by his Hands to break all his Enemies to pieces. s i.e. Increaſe, or advance the ſtrength. t i.e. Of his King. The ſame thing repeated in other words; although it may have a Myſtical ſenſe and reſpect to Chriſt, the ſingular anointed one of God, and the ſpecial King of his People, whom all their other Kings did Typifie and Repreſent, and from whom they received Authority and Power.

11 And Elkanah went to Ramah to his houſe, and the child did miniſter unto the LORD u before Eli the prieſt x.

u In ſome way agreeable to his tender Years, as in Singing, or playing upon Inſtruments of Muſick, as they uſed then to do in God's Service; or lighting the Lamps, or ſome other way. For, I ſuppoſe, Samuel was not brought to the Tabernacle in ſuch tender years as ſome think: of which, ſee on 1 Sam. 1. 22. i. e. Under the Inſpection, and by the Direction and Inſtruction of Eli.

12 ¶ Now the ſons of Eli were ſons of Belial, they knew not y the LORD.

y To wit, practically; i. e. they did not acknowledge, honour, regard, love, or ſerve God: for ſo words of knowledge are commonly uſed in Scripture; See Rom. 1. 28. 1 Cor. 15. 34. Tit. 1. 16.

* Chap. 8

13 And the prieſts * cuſtom with the people, was, that when any man offered z ſacrifice, the prieſts ſervant came, while the fleſh was in ſeething a; with a fleſh-hook of three teeth in his hand, z i. e. Preſented it to the Lord, to be offered by the Prieſt. a For as the Lord's part of the Peace-offerings was burnt upon the Altar, ſo the Prieſts and Offerers parts were to be ſodden.

14 And he ſtrook it into the pan, or kettle, or cauldron, or pot: all that the fleſh-hook brought up, the prieſt took for himſelf b: ſo they did in Shiloh unto all the Iſraelites that came thither.

b Not contented with the Breaſt and Shoulder which were allotted them by God, Exod. 29. 27, 28. Levit. 7. 31. they took alſo part of the Offerers ſhare; and beſides, they ſnatched their part before it was heaved and waved; contrary to Levit. 7. 34.

15 Alſo before they burnt the fat c, the prieſts ſervant came, and ſaid to the man that ſacrificed, Give fleſh to roſt for the prieſt: for he will not have ſodden fleſh of thee, but raw.

c And the other parts to be burnt with it. See Levit. 3. 3, 4, 9. and 7. 31. So this was an additional Injury; for, leſt the Fork ſhould miſtake and injure them, they took ſuch parts as they beſt liked whilſt it was raw, when it might be better diſcerned.

† Heb. as on the day.

16 And if any man ſaid unto him, Let them not fail to burn the fat † preſently, and then take as much as thy ſoul deſireth d: then he would anſwer him, Nay, but thou ſhalt give it me now: and if not, I will take it by force.

d We are content to relinquiſh our parts to thee, only let not God be wronged of his due.

17 Wherefore the ſin of the young men was very great e before the LORD f: for men abhorred the offering of the LORD g.

e Becauſe they violently took away both Man's and God's Dues, and this before their time, and that with manifeſt contempt of God and Men; and all this meerly for the gratifying of their ſenſual Appetite. f i. e. Even in the place of God's ſpecial Preſence, where he ſaw and obſerved all their Miſcarriages: which argues the height of Impiety and Imprudence. g They neglected and abhorred the practiſe of carrying up Sacrifices to be offered, which they knew would be ſo groſly abuſed; and which, as they might think, would be rejected and abhorred by God himſelf; and therefore they would not contribute to the Prieſts Sin, and the corruption of God's Worſhip; but judged it better to neglect the thing, than to expoſe it to the Prieſts depravation; wherein yet they erred, as we ſee, v. 24.

* Exod. 28. 4.

18 ¶ But Samuel miniſtred h before the LORD i, being a child, * girded with a linen Ephod k.

h i. e. Performed his Miniſtration carefully and faithfully, not corrupting nor abuſing it, as Eli's Sons did. i In God's Tabernacle: or as in God's preſence, ſincerely and regularly, with God's approbation. Compare Gen. 17. 1. 2 Chron. 26. 4. k A Garment uſed in God's Service, and allowed not only to the inferior Prieſts and Levites, but alſo to eminent perſons of the People: as 2 Sam. 6. 14. and therefore to Samuel, who, though no Levite, was a Nazarite, and that from his birth.

19 Moreover, his mother made him a little coat l, and brought it to him from year to year, when ſhe came up with her huſband, to offer the yearly ſacrifice.

l Suitable to his Age and Stature, to be worn ordinarily: for coats were their uſual Garments. See Gen. 3. 21. and 37. 3. 2 Sam. 15. 32. Cant. 5. 3. Dan. 2. 21. Luke 3. 11. and 9. 3. Knowing that he could not yet do much ſervice, ſhe would not have him too burdenſom to the Tabernacle, and therefore ſhe yearly provided him with a Coat, which was the chief and upper Garment; und under that his other Garments poſſibly are comprehended.

‖ Or, petition which ſhe asked, &c.

20 ¶ And Eli bleſſed Elkanah, and his wife m, and ſaid, The LORD give thee ſeed n of this woman, for the ‖ loan which is lent to the LORD o. And they went unto their own home.

m As their Superiour, and God's High-Prieſt, he bleſſed them in God's Name, and they received his Bleſſing by Faith, which made it effectual, v. 21. n i. e. A Child, or rather Children, as the Event ſhewed. o Or, for the petition; i. e. the thing deſired, to wit, the Child; which ſhe, thy Wife, asked of the Lord; or, for the Lord: as chap. 1. 28. to whom accordingly ſhe hath given them. And therefore as ſhe asked him not ſo much for her ſelf, for ſhe ſeldom ſees him; as for the Lord, to whoſe ſervice ſhe hath wholly devoted him; ſo now I pray, that God would give you other Children for both your Comfort and Enjoyment.

21 And the LORD viſited p Hannah, ſo that ſhe conceived and bare three ſons, and two daughters; and the child Samuel grew q before the LORD r.

p To wit, in Mercy, and with his Bleſſing, as that word is uſed Gen. 21. 1. Exod. 13. 19. Jer. 15. 15. not in anger, as it is taken Exod. 32. 34. Levit. 26. 16. q Not only in Age and Stature; but eſpecially in Wiſdom and Goodneſs, as Luke 1. 15. Or, was magnified: or grew great, famous and acceptable, as v. 26. r Not only before Men, who might be deceived, but in the preſence and judgment of the All-ſeeing God.

‖ Or, aſſembled by troops, or warred. Ex. 38. 8. Num. 4. 23. and 8. 24.

22 ¶ Now Eli was very old s, and heard all that his ſons did unto all Iſrael t, and how they lay with the women that ‖ aſſembled u at the door x of the tabernacle of the congregation.

s And therefore unfit either to manage his Office himſelf, or to make a diligent inſpection into the Carriage of his Sons in holy Adminiſtrations; which gave them opportunity for their Wickedneſs. t Whom they injured in their Offerings, and alienated from the Service of God. u Or warred: which expreſſion is uſed of them, either becauſe they came to the Service and Worſhip of God in the Tabernacle, which is often called a warfare; or, becauſe they came in conſiderable numbers, and due order, like to an Army. x The place where all the People both Men and Women waited when they came up to the Service of God, 1 Sam. 1. 9, 12. Luke 1. 10. becauſe they could not have admittance into the Tabernacle, and becauſe the Altar on which their Sacrifices were offered, was by the Door. Hence it ſeems probable, that theſe Women were not ſuch as devoted themſelves to the Service of God and of his Tabernacle, either by Faſting and Prayer, &c. or by Sowing, Spinning, &c. which, if then there were any ſuch, had their Stations not at the Door, but in divers places allotted to them round about the Tabernacle; but of ſuch as came up to worſhip God at his Tabernacle; as Women oft-times did, with their Huſbands, as here Hannah did, and the bleſſed Virgin Mary, Luke 2. 41. or with their Parents. And this Expoſition may receive ſtrength from Exod. 38. 8. where the very ſame Phraſe is uſed, and that when the great Tabernacle was not yet built, and ſo there was no occaſion for any Women to come to the other leſs Tabernacle then uſed, ſave only to Pray or offer Sacrifices.

23 And he ſaid unto them, Why do ye ſuch things y? for ‖ I hear of your evil dealings by all this people z.

‖ Or, I hear evil words of you.

y As thoſe above mentioned, v. 13. and v. 22. Eli's Sin in this matter was not only that he reproved them too gently, and generally, and ſparingly; but eſpecially, that he contented himſelf with a Verbal Rebuke, and did not reſtrain them, as is ſaid chap. 3. 13. and inflict thoſe puniſhments upon them, of putting them out of their Prieſts Office, and cutting them off from God's People; which ſuch high Crimes deſerved by God's Law, and which he as Judge and High-Prieſt ought to have done, without all reſpect of perſons. z That dwell here, or come hither to worſhip.

24 Nay, my ſons: for it is no good report a that I hear, ye make the LORD's people ‖ to tranſgreſs b.

‖ Or, to cry out.

a Words too mild for ſuch Diabolical Actions. b Either, 1. The Women that by your Inſtigation were drawn to Folly. Or, 2. Others who are eaſily brought to follow your pernicious Example. Or, 3. Other perſons of pious and honeſt Minds, whom therefore he calls the Lord's people by way of diſtinction from the children of Belial, who were ſo highly offended with the great diſhonour done to God, and to his Worſhip, and with the horrible wickedneſs of the Prieſts, that upon that occaſion, they were hurried into the other Extreme, and lived in the neglect and contempt of their own indiſpenſable Duty of offering Sacrifices, becauſe they came through the Prieſts hands.

† Heb. God ſhall judge him. Gr. they ſhall pray for him to the LORD. † Heb. who ſhall make himſelf a Judge for him?

25 If one man ſin againſt another c, † the judge ſhall judge him d: but if a man ſin againſt the LORD e, † who ſhall intreat for him f? notwithſtanding, they hearkened not unto the voice of their father, becauſe the LORD would ſlay them f.

c By doing any Injury. d The Magiſtrate ſhall by his Sentence end the Difference, and both Parties ſhall acquieſce in his Determination, and ſo the Breach ſhall be made up. The ſence is, If only Man be wronged, Man can right it, and reconcile the Perſons. e To wit, in ſuch manner as you have done, directly and immediately, in the matters of his Worſhip and Service, wilfully and preſumptuouſly. f The Offence is of ſo high a Nature, that few or none will dare to intercede for him, but will leave him to the juſt Judgment of God. He ſpeaks after the manner of Men, who do oft intercede with the Prince, for ſuch as have injured any private perſon; but will not preſume to do ſo when the Injury is committed againſt his own perſon. The words are, and may be thus rendred, Who ſhall judge for him? Who ſhall interpoſe himſelf as Umpire, or Arbitrator, between God and him? Who ſhall compound that Difference? None can or dare do it, and therefore he muſt be left to the dreadful, but righteous Judgment of God: which is your Caſe and Miſery. f i. e. Becauſe God hath determined to deſtroy them for their many and great Sins; and therefore would not, and did not give them Grace to hearken to Eli's Counſel, and to repent of their Wickedneſs, but hardned their Hearts to their deſtruction.

26 And the child Samuel grew on g, and was in * favour both with the LORD, and alſo with men.

* Prov. 3. 4. Luk. 2. 52. Act. 2. 47. Rom. 14. 18.

g He grew better in bad Times, which is remembred to his Commendation.

27 ¶ And there came a man of God h unto Eli, and ſaid unto him, Thus ſaith the LORD, ‖ Did I plainly appear i unto the houſe of thy father k, when they were in Egypt l, in Pharaohs houſe m?

‖ Or, in appearing did I appear.

h i. e. A Prophet or Preacher ſent from God: See 1 Tim. 6. 11. 2 Tim. 3. 17. 2 Pet. 1. 21. Who this was, is not revealed by God, and therefore it is vain to enquire, and impoſſible to determine. i Did I indeed ſhew ſuch a favour, and appear ſo evidently and glorioufly to thee, and for thee, and is this thy requital? k i. e. Unto Aaron the Chief of thy Father's Houſe. l See Exod. 4. 27. m i. e. Either, 1. In Pharaoh's Land; the whole Kingdom being as it were one great Family, whereof Pharaoh was the Maſter. Or, 2. In Pharaoh's Court, where Aaron might probably be at the time of this Revelation, either to anſwer to ſome Accuſation againſt him, or his Brethren, or to beg ſome Relaxation of the Rigour, or for ſome other occaſion.

28 And did I chuſe him n out of all the tribes of Iſrael, to be my prieſt, to offer upon mine altar, to burn incenſe, to wear an ephod o, before me? and * did I give unto the houſe of thy father all the offerings made by fire p of the children of Iſrael?

* Levit. 10. 14. Numb. 18. 8.

n To wit, Aaron thy Father; whereby he ſhews what he meant by his Father's Houſe. o That golden Ephod, which was peculiar to the High-Prieſt. p i.e. All the Prieſts part of the Offerings. He only had the Office, and he had the whole benefit.

29 Wherefore kick ye at my ſacrifice q, and at mine offering, which I have commanded in my habitation, and honoureſt thy ſons above me r, to make your ſelves fat s with the chiefeſt of all the offerings t of Iſrael my people?

q Uſing them irreverently, contemptuouſly, and prophanely; both by abuſing them to your own Luxury, and by cauſing the People to abhor and neglect them. He chargeth Eli with his Sons Faults. r Permitting them to diſhonour and injure me, by taking my part to themſelves; chuſing rather to offend me by thy connivence at their Sin, than to diſpleaſe them by ſevere Rebukes, and effectual Reſtraints, and juſt Puniſhments; and ſo preferr their Will, and Pleaſure, and Honour, before mine. s To pamper your ſelves. This you did not out of any Neceſſity, but out of meer Luxury. t Not contented with thoſe Parts which I had allotted you, you invaded thoſe choice Parts which I reſerved for my ſelf.

30 Wherefore the LORD God of Iſrael ſaith, I ſaid indeed u, that thy houſe, and the houſe of thy father ſhould walk before me x for ever y: but now the LORD ſaith, Be it far from me z: for them that honour me a, I will honour b; and * they that deſpiſed me c, ſhall be lightly eſteemed d.

* Mal. 2. 9.

u Qu. Where, or when did God ſay this? Anſw. Either, 1. When he made that Promiſe for the Perpetuation of the Prieſthood in Aaron's Family, Exod. 28. 43. and 29. 9. Object. If Eli and all his Family had been cut off, yet that Promiſe had been made good in Eleazar's Family: how then was that promiſe recalled by this Sentence againſt Eli? Anſw. It was recalled and made void, though not abſolutely and univerſally to all Aaron's Family; yet reſpectively to Eli and his Family, which were wholly excluded from the benefit of it, wherein otherwiſe they ſhould have ſhared. Even as Gods keeping of the Iſraelites out of Canaan, and in the Wilderneſs for forty Years, and deſtroying them there, is called his breach of promiſe, Numb. 14. 34. although the promiſe of Canaan was not ſimply made void to all the Iſraelites, but only to that evil Generation of them: Or, as God's Covenant with David, and with his Seed, of which God ſaith, that it ſhould ſtand faſt, Pſal. 89. 28. and that he would not break nor alter it, v. 34. yet is ſaid to be made void, v. 39. to wit, in regard of ſome particular Branches, or Members of that Family. Or, 2. To Eli himſelf, or to his Father, when the Prieſthood was tranſlated from Eleazar's to Ithamar's Family for ſome cauſe not mentioned in Scripture, but moſt probably for ſome great miſcarriage of ſome of them. If it be ſaid, That there is no ſuch promiſe recorded in Scripture; it may be ſo replied, That there are many Sayings and Doings noted in Holy Scripture, which were not ſpoken of in their proper times and places, as Gen. 24. 51. and 42. 21. Hoſ. 12. 4. Luke 11. 49. Acts 20. 25. So the ſence of the place may be this, That promiſe and priviledge of the perpetuation of the Prieſthood in Phinehas and his Family, made to them Numb. 25. 12. namely upon condition of his and their Faithfulneſs in their Office, which is plainly underſtood, I now take away from that Family for their wickedneſs, and I transfer it to thee and thine, and will fix it there upon the ſame condition. x i.e. Miniſter unto me as High-Prieſt. Walking is oft put for Diſcharging ones Office; before me, may ſignifie that he was the High-Prieſt, whoſe ſole Prerogative it was to miniſter before God, or before the Ark, in the moſt Holy Place. y As long as the Moſaical Law and Worſhip laſted, as that Phraſe is oft uſed. z To wit, to fulfil my promiſe, which I repent of, and hereby retract. a That worſhip and ſerve me with Reverence and godly Fear, and according to my Will, which I eſteem as an Honour done to me. b I will advance them to honour, and maintain them in it. c Not formally and directly; for ſo Eli's Sons did not deſpiſe God; but indirectly and by conſequence, by preſumptuous Diſobedience of my Commands; by defiling and diſgracing my Worſhip and Ordinances, either by tranſgreſſing the Rules I have given them therein, or by their ungodly and ſhameful Converſation; and by making my Service contemptible and abominable to others through their Scandals; all which are manifeſt Arguments of contempt of God, and are ſo called, as Numb. 11. 20. 1 Sam. 12. 9, 10. Mal. 1. 8. and all which were eminently found in Eli's Sons. d Both by God and Men.

31 Behold, * the days come, that I will cut off thine arm e, and the arm of thy fathers houſe f, that there ſhall not be an old man in thine houſe g.

* 1 King. 2. 27. Ezek. 44. 10. See Chap. 4. 11, 18, and 14. 3. and 22. 18, &c.

e i.e. I will take away thy ſtrength, which is oft ſignified by the arm, as Job 22. 8. Pſal. 37. 17. or all that in which thou placeſt thy Confidence and Security: Either, 1. The Ark, which is called God's ſtrength, Pſal. 78. 61. and was Eli's ſtrength, who therefore was not able to bear the very tidings of the loſs of it, chap. 4. 18. Or, 2. His Prieſtly Dignity or Employment, whence he had all his Honour and Subſtance. Or rather, 3. His Children, to whom the words following here, and in the ſucceeding Verſes, ſeem to confine it, who are the ſtrength of Parents: See Gen. 49. 3. Deut. 21. 17. Pſal. 127. 4, 5. f i.e. Thy Childrens Children, and all thy Family: which was in great meaſure accompliſhed, 1 Sam. 22. 16, &c. g They ſhall generally be cut off by an untimely death, before they be old.

32 And thou ſhalt ſee || an enemy in my habitation, in all the wealth which God ſhall give Iſrael k, and there ſhall not be an old * man in thine houſe for ever i.

|| Or, the affliction of the Tabernacle, for all the wealth which God would have given Iſrael.

* See Zech. 8. 4.

h So the ſence is, Thou ſhalt ſee, not in thy Perſon, but in thy Poſterity; (it being moſt frequent in Scripture to attribute that to Parents, which properly belongs to their Poſterity only; as Gen. 17. 8. and 27, 29, 40.) an enemy; i.e. thy Competitor, or him who ſhall poſſeſs that place of high Truſt and Honour which now thou enjoyeſt; (ſuch Perſons being through Man's corrupt Nature eſteemed as a Man's worſt Enemy:) in my habitation; i.e. in the Sanctuary. And then he adds by way of Aggravation, that this ſad Accident ſhould happen, in all the wealth which God ſhall give Iſrael; i.e. in a time when God ſhould eminently bleſs Iſrael, and make good all his promiſes to them, which was in Solomon's days, when Abiathar of Eli's Race was put out of the High-Prieſthood, and Zadock was put in his place, 1 King. 2. 27, 35. when the Prieſthood was moſt glorious, and moſt profitable, and comfortable; and therefore the loſs of it more deplorable. But the words may be otherwiſe rendered, as is noted in the Margent of our Engliſh Bibles; Thou ſhalt ſee, to wit, in thy own perſon, the affliction, or oppreſſion, or calamity of my habitation; i.e. either of the Land of Iſrael, wherein I dwell; or of the Sanctuary, called the habitation by way of Eminency, whoſe greateſt glory the Ark was, 1 Sam. 4. 21, 22. and conſequently, whoſe greateſt Calamity the loſs of the Ark was; for, or inſtead of all that good wherewith God would have bleſſed Iſrael, or was about to bleſs Iſrael; having raiſed up a young Prophet Samuel, and thereby given good grounds of hope that he intended to bleſs Iſrael, if Thou and thy Sons had not hindred it by your Sins, which God was reſolved ſeverely to puniſh. So this Clauſe of the Threatning concerns Eli's perſon, as the following concerns his Poſterity. And this beſt agrees with the moſt proper and uſual ſignification of that Phraſe, Thou ſhalt ſee. i i.e. As long as the Prieſthood continues in thy Family; or as long as the Levitical Prieſthood laſts.

33 And the man of thine k, whom I ſhall not cut off from mine altar l, ſhall be to conſume thine eyes, and to grieve thine heart m: and all the increaſe of thine houſe n ſhall die † in the flower of their age o.

k i.e. Thoſe of thy Poſterity. l i.e. From attendance upon mine Altar; whom I ſhall not deſtroy, but ſuffer to live, and wait at the Altar. m Shall be ſo forlorn and miſerable, that if thou waſt alive to ſee it, it would grieve thee at the very Heart, and thou wouldſt conſume thine Eyes with weeping for their Calamities. So the Phraſe is like that of Rachel weeping for her children, Jer. 31. 15. which were ſlain long after her death. n i.e. Thy Children. o About the thirtieth year of their Age, when they were to be admitted to the plenary Adminiſtration of their Office, Numb. 4. 3. then they ſhall die.

34 And this ſhall be a ſign unto thee p, that ſhall come upon thy two ſons, on Hophni and Phinehas: in one day they ſhall die both of them q.

p To wit, of the certain truth of all thoſe ſad Predictions. q And ſo they did, chap. 4. 11.

35 And I will raiſe me up * a faithful prieſt r, that ſhall do according to that which is in my heart ſ, and in my mind, and I will build him a ſure houſe t, and he ſhall walk u before mine anointed x for ever.

* Ezek. 44. 15.

r To wit, of another Line, as is neceſſarily implied by the total removal of that Office from Eli's Line, before threatned. The perſon deſigned is Zadok, one eminent for his Faithfulneſs to God, and to the King, who, when Abiathar, the laſt of Eli's Line, was depoſed by Solomon, was made High-Prieſt in his ſtead, 1 King. 2. 27, 35. 1 Chron. 29. 22. ſ And ſhall not diſhonour or diſobey me, to gratifie his Sons, as thou haſt done. t i.e. Give him a numerous Poſterity, as that Phraſe is uſed, Exod. 1. 21. 2 Sam. 7. 11. 1 King. 11. 38. and confirm that ſure Covenant of an everlaſting Prieſthood made to Phinehas, of Eleazar's Line, Numb. 25. 13. and interrupted for a little while by Eli, and his, of the Line of Ithamar, unto him and his Children for ever. And this was manifeſtly verified until the Babyloniſh Captivity, Ezek. 44. 15. and there is no reaſon to doubt of its continuance in the ſame Line till Chriſt Came. u i.e. Miniſter as High-Prieſt. x Either, Firſt, Before King Solomon, who was anointed King, 1 King. 1. 39. and before the ſucceeding Kings, who are commonly called anointed, or the Lord's anointed, as 1 Sam. 12. 3, 5. and 24. 6. 10. Pſal. 89. 38, 51. Lam. 4. 10. Or rather, Secondly, Before Jeſus Chriſt; Firſt, Becauſe this Title of Anointed, or Chriſt, or Meſſias, (both which words ſignifie only the Anointed) is moſt frequently and eminently aſcribed to Chriſt, both in the Old and New Teſtament, and therefore it is moſt reaſonable to underſtand it of him, when there is nothing in the Text or Context which determines it to any other. Secondly, Chriſt is the main Scope and Deſign, not only of the New, but of the Old Teſtament, which in all its Types and Ceremonies repreſented Chriſt; and particularly, the High-Prieſt was an eminent Type of Chriſt, and did repreſent his Perſon, and act in his Name and Stead, and did mediately, what John Baptiſt did immediately, go before the face of the Lord Chriſt; and when Chriſt did come, that Office and Officer was to ceaſe. Thirdly, The High-Prieſt is ſeldom or never ſaid to Walk or Miniſter before the Kings of Iſrael or Judah, but conſtantly before the Lord, and conſequently, before Chriſt, who, as he was God Bleſſed for ever, Rom. 9. 5. was preſent with, and the Builder and Governour of the Ancient Church of Iſrael, as is manifeſt from Act. 7. 35. 1 Cor. 10. 4. Heb. 3. 3. 4, 5, 6. and many other places; and their Temple is particularly called his Temple, Mal. 3. 1. becauſe all the Temple-worſhip was performed in his preſence, and had a ſpecial reſpect unto him, and therefore the High-Prieſt is moſt properly ſaid to walk before him.

36 And it ſhall come to paſs, that every one that is left in thine houſe ſhall come † and crouch to him y for a piece of ſilver, and a morſel of bread z, and ſhall ſay, † Put me, I pray thee, into || one of the prieſts offices ∴, that I may eat a piece of bread.

† Heb. joyn.

See Ezek. 44. 10, 11, &c. Queſt. How could they be reduced to ſo great ſtraights, ſeeing, though they loſt the High-Prieſthood, they ſtill were inferior Prieſts, and had a right to thoſe plentiful Proviſions which belonged to that Order? Anſ. Firſt, They might be degraded not only from the Office of the High-Prieſt, but alſo from that of the inferior Prieſts, and conſequently might forfeit and loſe all the Priviledges belonging to their Office. Secondly, This might be from the Tyranny and Violence of ſome of the ſucceeding Prieſts of Eleazar's Line, towards that other Line which had long ſtood in competition with them, and had for a ſeaſon got away the Prieſthood from them. For this Text only relates the matter of Fact, but doth dot expreſs an Approbation of it.

CHAP. III.

The Lord calleth Samuel three times: he knows not God's voice, but thinks it to be Eli who calls him: runs to him, who inſtructs him, 1,——9. At the fourth call he anſwers, 10. God acquainteth Samuel with the deſtruction of Eli's houſe, 11,—14. Samuel in the morning diſcovers it to Eli at his requeſt: Eli's ſubmiſſion, 15,—18. All Iſrael acknowledgeth Samuel for a prophet, 19,—21.

AND the child Samuel miniſtred unto the LORD before Eli a: and the word of the LORD b was precious c in thoſe days: there was no open viſion d.

a i. e. Under his inſpection and direction, which, being ſo young, he needed. b To wit, the word of Propheſie, or the Revelation of God's Will to and by the Prophets. c i. e. Rare or ſcarce, ſuch things being moſt precious in Mens eſteem, whereas common things are generally deſpiſed. d God did not impart his Mind by way of Viſion or Revelation openly, or to any publick Perſon, to whom others might reſort for ſatisfaction, though he might or did privately reveal himſelf to ſome pious Perſons for their particular Direction. This is here premiſed, as a reaſon why Samuel underſtood not, when God called him once or twice.

2 And it came to paſs at that time, when Eli was laid down in his place e, and his eyes began to wax dim, that he could not ſee f; e In the Court of the Tabernacle. f To wit, clearly and diſtinctly. This is added, as an Evidence of his Old Age, partly to ſhew God's Contempt of him, notwithſtanding his venerable Age, and his preferring the Child Samuel before him in this Viſion; and partly, as the reaſon why Samuel ſo readily ran to him upon the firſt call, becauſe his great Age made him more to need his Servants help.

3 And ere the lamp of God went out g in the temple h of the LORD, where the ark of God was, and Samuel was laid down to ſleep i:

g Before the Lights of the Golden Candleſtick were put out; i. e. in the Night-ſeaſon, or before the Morning, when they were put out, as they were lighted in the Evening, Exod. 27. 21. Levit. 24. 3. 2 Chron. 13. 11. h i. e. In the Tabernacle, which is ſometimes called the Temple, as being of the ſame uſe and ſignificancy. i Not that this happened when he firſt lay down, but whilſt he was lying there.

4 That the LORD called Samuel, and he anſwered, Here am I.

5 And he ran k unto Eli, and ſaid, Here am I, for thou calledſt me. And he ſaid, I called not; lie down again. And he went and lay down.

k Shewing his great Faithfulneſs and Diligence in the Service, either of the Lord, or of his Maſter Eli.

6 And the LORD called yet again, Samuel. And Samuel aroſe, and went to Eli, and ſaid, Here am I, for thou didſt call me. And he anſwered, I called not, my ſon; lie down again.

7 || Now Samuel did not yet know the LORD l, neither was the word of the LORD yet revealed unto him.

|| Or, thus did Samuel before he knew the LORD, and before the word of the LORD was revealed unto him.

l Either, Firſt, He was not acquainted with God in that Extraordinary or Prophetical way. Or, rather, Secondly, He did not yet underſtand, any more than before, that it was not Eli, but God, who ſpake to him. And this Ignorance of Samuel's ſerved God's Deſign, that his ſimplicity might give Eli the better aſſurance of the truth of God's Call, and Meſſage to Samuel.

8 And the LORD called Samuel again the third time. And he aroſe, and went to Eli m, and ſaid, Here am I, for thou didſt call me. And Eli perceived n that the LORD had called the child.

m He perſiſts in the ſame readineſs to obey and ſerve him, and was not diſcouraged or driven from his Duty by his double miſtake and diſappointment. n By the conſideration of of Samuel's Piety, of the Sanctity of the Place adjoyning, from whence God had ofttimes ſpoken, and of the Solitude of the Place, where there was no humane Perſon beſides himſelf, who could or would have called Samuel in that manner.

9 Therefore Eli ſaid unto Samuel, Go, lie down: and it ſhall be, if he call thee, that thou ſhalt ſay, Speak LORD, for thy ſervant heareth o. So Samuel went, and lay down in his place.

o i. e. I am ready to hear what thou ſpeakeſt, and to do what thou requireſt.

10 And the LORD came p, and ſtood q, and called as at other times r, Samuel, Samuel ſ. Then Samuel anſwered, Speak, for thy ſervant heareth.

p Before, he ſpake to him at a diſtance, even from the Holy Oracle between the Cherubims; but now, to prevent all further miſtakes, the Voice came near to him, as if the Perſon ſpeaking had been preſent with him. q Before the Voice paſſed by him, now the Speaker fixeth his abode with him for a time, till he had uttered his whole Mind to him. r As he had done before. ſ His Name is here doubled, to engage him to the more ſpeedy and diligent attention.

11 ¶ And the LORD ſaid to Samuel, Behold I will do a thing t in Iſrael, at which both the ears of * every one that heareth it, ſhall tingle u.

* 2 King. 21. 12.

t Thoſe things which are related in the next Chapter, which though done by the Philiſtines, God here aſcribes to himſelf, becauſe he was the firſt and chief Cauſe of it, by withdrawing his helping Hand from Iſrael, and by delivering the Ark, and Eli's two Sons, and the reſt of People, into his and their Enemies hands. u Which will be ſo terrible, that not only thoſe that feel it ſhall groan under it, but thoſe that only hear the report of it, ſhall be ſtruck with ſuch Amazement and Horror, which will make their Heads and Hearts ake. A Metaphor from him, who being ſurprized with ſome great and hideous Noiſe, ſuch as Thunder or great Guns, his Head is much affected with it, and the Sound or Tingling of it abides in his Ears a good while after it. This Phraſe is uſed alſo, 2 King. 21. 12. Jer. 19. 3.

12 In that day x I will † perform againſt Eli * all things which I have ſpoken y concerning his houſe: † when I begin, I will alſo make an end z.

x In that time which I have appointed for this work, which was about Twenty or Thirty Years after this threatning. So long ſpace of Repentance God allows to this wicked Generation, to make their Peace with God, and prevent the Execution, as others did in like Caſes. y By that Prophet, chap. 2. 27. z Though this Vengeance may and ſhall be delayed for a ſeaſon, to manifeſt my Patience, and incite them to Repentance; yet when once I begin to Inflict, I ſhall certainly go on with it, and not deſiſt till I have made a full end.

13 || * For I have told him, that I will judge a his houſe b for ever c, for the iniquity which he knoweth d: becauſe his ſons made themſelves || vile e, and he † reſtrained them not f.

|| Or, accurſed.
† Heb. frowned not upon them.

a i. e. Condemn, and Puniſh or Deſtroy, as the word Judge is oft uſed, as Gen. 15. 14. Joh. 3. 18. and 16. 11. b His Children, and Poſterity, as is manifeſt by the Story; as the word Houſe is frequently taken, as 2 Sam. 7. 11. 1 King. 21. 29. So the Houſe of Judah, of Aaron, of David, are oft taken for their Poſterity. And to Build an Houſe in Scripture uſe, is to encreaſe their Poſterity, as Exod. 1. 21. Deut. 25. 9. Ruth 4. 11. Compare Gen. 16. 2. and 30. 3. c Till they be utterly rooted out: or, for a long time, as that Phraſe is oft uſed. d Either by the information of the Prophet, chap. 2. v. 27, &c. or by his own guilty and ſelf-accuſing Conſcience. But theſe, and the foregoing and following words, may well be, and are rendred thus; for this iniquity, becauſe he knew (both by common Fame, and by his own obſervation) that his ſons, &c. He cannot pretend ignorance, or want of proof of their wickedneſs, which aggravates his Sin. e Not only hateful to God, but contemptible to all the People, whereby they alſo brought their ſacred Office, and God's Holy Ordinances into contempt. Heb. Curſed themſelves, or made themſelves Execrable or Accurſed, both to God and Men: by their lewd and curſed Practices, they put themſelves under the Curſe of God, by ſuch a groſs Violation of God's Commands: Compare Joſ. 6. 18. and 7. 12, 13. This expreſſion may be uſed by way of reflection upon their Father, becauſe he did not denounce the Curſe of God againſt them, nor put them out of the Prieſthood, as accurſed Perſons, although they were ſo Vile, that they had prevented their Father's Cenſure, and meritoriouſly caſt themſelves out, and cut themſelves off from the Prieſthood and Congregation of the Lord, which their Father ſhould have done Judicially. f He contented himſelf with a cold and gentle Reproof, and did not ſeverely rebuke, and puniſh, and effectually reſtrain them from their abominable Courſes, nor uſe that Authority which God had given him, as a Father, as an High-Prieſt, and as a Judge, or Chief Magiſtrate, againſt them, as by the Law of God he was obliged to do.

14 And therefore I have ſworn g unto h the houſe of Eli, that the iniquity of Eli's houſe ſhall not be purged with ſacrifice, nor offering for ever.

g Which might be done before, though it be mentioned here only. Or, I do ſwear: the paſt Tenſe being commonly put for the preſent in the Hebrew Tongue. h Or, concerning, as the Præfix Lamed is oft uſed, as Exod. 14. 3. and 18. 7. 2 Sam. 11. 7. Pſal. 91. 11. compare with Matth 4. 6. i i. e. The Puniſhment threatned againſt Eli and his Family, ſhall not be prevented or hindred by all their Sacrifices, as they fondly imagine, but ſhall infallibly be executed.

15 And Samuel lay until morning, and opened the doors of the houſe of the LORD k: and Samuel feared to ſhew Eli the viſion l.

k Although the Tabernacle, whilſt it was to be removed from place to place in the VVilderneſs, had no Doors, but conſiſted only of Curtains, and had only Hangings before the entrance, inſtead of Doors; yet when it was ſettled in one place, as now it was in Shiloh, where it had been for a long time, it is more than probable, both from this place, and by comparing 1 Sam. 1. 9. and 2 Sam. 6. 17. and from the Nature and Reaſon of the thing, that it was incloſed within ſome ſolid Building, which had Doors, and Poſts, and other Parts belonging to it. l i. e. The matter of the Viſion or Revelation, partly from the Reverence and Reſpect he bore to his Perſon, to whom he was loth to be a meſſenger of ſuch ſad tidings; partly, leſt if he had been haſty to utter it, Eli might think him guilty of Arrogancy or ſecret Complacency in his Calamity, which was like to tend to Samuel's advancement. And not being commanded by God to acquaint Eli herewith, he prudently ſuſpended the publication of it till a fit occaſion were offered, which he might reaſonably expect in a very little time, knowing that Eli would be greedy to know the matter of that Revelation, the Preface whereof he was acquainted with; and that it would be leſs offenſive, and therefore more uſeful to Eli, when he ſaw that Samuel was not puffed up with it, nor forward to vent it, until Eli forced it from him.

16 Then Eli called Samuel, and ſaid, Samuel, my ſon. And he anſwered, Here am I.

17 And he ſaid, What is the thing that the LORD hath ſaid unto thee? I pray thee, hide it not from me: God do ſo to thee, and † more alſo m, if thou hide any || thing from me of all the things that he ſaid unto thee.

Or, God do ſo, i. e. let God deal with thee ſo ſeverely, as I cannot, or am loth to expreſs. So it is a kind of Apoſiopeſis uſual in Oaths, and in Adjurations. The ſame Phraſe is in Ruth, 1. 17. Thus he adjures him to utter the whole truth, as was uſual among the Hebrews, as 1 Kings 22. 16. Matth. 26. 63.

18 And Samuel told him † every whit, and hid nothing from him. And he ſaid, It is the LORD n: Let him do what ſeemeth him good.

CHAP. IV.

The Iſraelites are ſmitten by the Philiſtines at Eben-ezer, 1, 2. They fetch the Ark from Shiloh: Receive it with a great Shout, to the Terror of the Philiſtines, 3,——7. Who yet take Courage, and a ſecond time beat the Iſraelites: The Ark is taken: The two Sons of Ely are ſlain, 8,—11. Which Ely hearing, falleth backward from his ſeat, and breaketh his Neck, 12,———17. His Daughter in law falls in labour: Nameth her Son Ichabod: And dieth, 18,—22.

AND the word of Samuel a || † came to all Iſrael. Now Iſrael went out againſt the Philiſtines b to battel, and pitched beſide Eben-ezer c: and the Philiſtines pitched in Aphek d.

The word of the Lord revealed to Samuel, and by him to the People; Either, Firſt, The Prophetical Word mentioned before, chap. 3. 11, &c which is here ſaid to come, or to come to paſs, as it was foretold, to all Iſrael. But the ſubject of that Propheſie was not all Iſrael, but Eli and his Houſe, as is evident. Or rather, Secondly, A Word of Command, that all Iſrael ſhould go forth to fight with the Philiſtines, as the following words explain it, that ſo they might be firſt humbled and puniſhed for their Sins, and ſo prepared by degrees for their future Deliverance. b Or, to meet the Philiſtines, who having by this time recruited themſelves after their great loſs by Samſon, Judg. 16. 30. and perceiving an eminent Prophet ariſing among them, by whom they were likely to be United, Counſelled, and Aſſiſted, thought fit to Suppreſs them in the beginning of their Hopes and Deſigns of reſcuing themſelves from their power. c A place ſo called here (by Anticipation) from a following event, chap 7. 12. d A City ſo called in the Tribe of Judah, Joſ. 15. 53. upon the borders of the Philiſtines Country: not that Aphek in Aſher, Joſ. 19. 30. Judg. 1. 31. which was very remote from them.

2 And the Philiſtines put themſelves in aray againſt Iſrael: and when † they joyned battel e, Iſrael was ſmitten before the Philiſtines: and they ſlew of † the army in the field, about four thouſand men.

† Heb. the aray.

e Heb. When the Battel was ſpread, i. e. when the two Armies had drawn forth themſelves into Military Order, and put themſelves into the uſual poſture for Fighting, and began to fight in their ſeveral places.

3 ¶ And when the people were come into the camp, the elders of Iſrael ſaid, Wherefore hath the LORD ſmitten us to day before the Philiſtines f? Let us † fetch the ark of the covenant of the LORD g out of Shiloh unto us, that when it cometh among us, it may ſave us out of the hand of our enemies.

† Heb take unto us.

f Seeing our Cauſe is ſo juſt, our own juſt and neceſſary Defence from God's and our Enemies, and we came not forth to Battel by our own motion, but by God's command delivered by Samuel. This was ſtrange blindneſs, that when there was ſo great a corruption in their Worſhip and Manners, chap. 2. and ſuch a defection to Idolatry, chap. 7. 3. Pſal 78. 58. they could not ſee ſufficient reaſon why God ſhould ſuffer them to fall by their Enemies. g That great pledge of God's preſence and help, by whoſe Conduct our Anceſtors obtained ſucceſs, Numb. 10. 35. and 14. 44. Joſ. 6. 4. Inſtead of the performance of Moral Duties, humbling themſelves deeply for, and purging themſelves ſpeedily and throughly from all their Sins, for which God was diſpleaſed with them, and now had chaſtiſed them, they take an eaſier and cheaper Courſe, and put their truſt in their Ceremonial Obſervances, not doubting but the very preſence of the Ark would give them the Victory. And therefore it is no wonder they meet with ſo ſad a diſappointment.

4 So the people ſent to Shiloh, that they might bring from thence the ark h of the covenant of the LORD of hoſts, which dwelleth between the * cherubims: and the two ſons of Eli, Hophni and Phinehas were there i with the ark k of the covenant of God.

5 And when the ark of the covenant of the LORD came into the camp, all Iſrael ſhouted with a great ſhout l, ſo that the earth rang again.

l Partly, from their great joy and confidence of ſucceſs; and partly, in deſign to encourage themſelves, and terrifie their Enemies.

6 And when the Philiſtines heard the noiſe of the ſhout, they ſaid, What meaneth the noiſe of this great ſhout in the camp of the Hebrews? And they underſtood m that the ark of the LORD was come into the camp.

m By information from the Iſraelites, who would readily tell them of it to affright them.

7 And the Philiſtines were afraid, for they ſaid, God is come n into the camp. And they ſaid, Wo unto us: for there hath not been ſuch a thing † heretofore o.

† Heb. yeſterday, or, the third day.

n To wit, in and with his Ark: or, they give the Name of God to the Ark, before which he was Worſhipped, as they uſed to do to the Images of their falſe gods. o Not to our knowledge, or not in our times; for the forementioned removals of the Ark were before it came to Shiloh.

8 Wo unto us: who ſhall deliver us out of the hand of theſe mighty Gods p? theſe are the Gods that ſmote the Egyptians with all the plagues in the wilderneſs q.

p They ſecretly confeſs the Lord to be higher and greater than their gods, and yet againſt their knowledge preſume to oppoſe him. q They mention the Wilderneſs, not as if all the Plagues of the Egyptians came upon them in the Wilderneſs, but becauſe the laſt and ſoreſt of all, which is therefore put for all, to wit, the Deſtruction of Pharaoh and all his Hoſt, happened in the Wilderneſs, namely, in the Red-Sea, which having the Wilderneſs on both ſides of it, Exod. 13. 18, 20. and 14. 3, 11. and 15. 22, &c. may well be ſaid to be in the VVilderneſs. Although it is not ſtrange if theſe Heathens did miſtake and miſreport ſome Circumſtance, in a Relation of the Iſraelitiſh Affairs, eſpecially ſome hundreds of Years after they were done, ſuch miſtakes being frequent in divers Heathen Authors, treating of thoſe matters, as Juſtin, and Tacitus, and others.

9 Be ſtrong, and quit your ſelves like men r, O ye Philiſtines, that ye be not ſervants unto the Hebrews, * as they have been to you: † quit your ſelves like men, and fight.

* Jud. 13. 1.
† Heb. be men.

r Since you can expect no relief from your gods, who are not able to reſiſt theirs, it concerns you to put forth all your Strength and Courage, and once for all to act like brave and valiant Men.

* Pſa. 78. 9. 10 ¶ And the Philiſtines fought, * and Iſrael was ſmitten, and they fled every man into his tent ſ: and there was a very great ſlaughter, for there fell of Iſrael thirty thouſand t footmen u.

ſ i. e. To his habitation, called by the Ancient Name of his Tent. t Before they loſt but 4000, now in the preſence of the Ark 30000, to teach them that the Ark and Ordinances of God, were never deſigned for Sanctuaries or Refuges to impenitent Sinners, but only for the Comfort and Relief of thoſe that Repent. u Horſemen are not mentioned; Either Firſt, Becauſe they had few or none, God having forbidden the multiplication of their Horſes, Deut. 17. 16. and the Philiſtines, their Lords and Oppreſſors, having taken away what they had. Or, Secondly, Becauſe they fled away, as is uſual in ſuch Caſes, whilſt the Footmen were more eaſily overtaken.

* Pſal. 78. 61. † Heb. died. 11 And * the ark of God was taken x, and the two ſons of Eli, Hophni and Phinehas † were ſlain.

x VVhich God juſtly and wiſely permitted; partly, to puniſh the Iſraelites for their Profanation of it: partly, that by taking away the pretences of their Fooliſh and Impious confidence, he might more deeply humble them, and bring them to true Repentance: partly, that the Philiſtines might by this means be more effectually convinced of God's Almighty Power, and of their own, and their gods Impotency, and ſo a ſtop might be put to their Triumphs and Inſultations, and to their Rage againſt the poor Iſraelites, whom otherwiſe in human appearance they might eaſily have rooted out. Thus as God was no loſer by this event, ſo the Philiſtines were no gainers by it; and Iſrael, all things conſidered, received more good than hurt by it, as we ſhall ſee.

12 ¶ And there ran a man of Benjamin out of the army, and came to Shiloh the ſame day, with his *Job 2.12 cloths rent, and with * earth upon his head y.

y The uſual Rites in great ſorrows; See Gen. 37. 29. Joſ. 7. 6, &c. 2 Sam. 1. 2, 11.

*Ch. 1. 9. 13 And when he came, lo, Eli ſate upon * a ſeat z by the way ſide, watching: for his heart trembled for the ark of God a. And when the man came into the city, and told it, all the city cried out.

z Placed there on purpoſe for him, that he might ſoon receive the Tidings, which he longed for. a VVhereby he diſcovered a publick and generous ſpirit, and a fervent Zeal for God, and for his Honour and Service, which he preferred before all his natural Affections and worldly Intereſts, not regarding his own Children in compariſon of the Ark, though otherwiſe he was a moſt Indulgent Father, and had reaſon to believe that they went out like Sheep for the ſlaughter, according to Samuel's Prediction.

14 And when Eli heard the noiſe of the crying, he ſaid, What meaneth the noiſe of this tumult? And the man came in haſtily, and told Eli.

15 Now Eli was ninety and eight years old, and *Chap. 3. 2 * his eyes † were dim, that he could not ſee. † Heb. ſtood.

16 And the man ſaid unto Eli, I am he that came out of the army b, and I fled to day out of the army. † Heb. is the thing. And he ſaid, What † is there done, my ſon?

b I ſpeak not what I have by uncertain Rumours, but what mine Eyes were witneſſes of.

17 And the meſſenger anſwered and ſaid, Iſrael is fled before the Philiſtines, and there hath been alſo a great ſlaughter among the people, and thy two ſons alſo, Hophni and Phinehas are dead, and the ark of God is taken.

18 And it came to paſs when he made mention of the ark of God, that he fell from off the ſeat backward c, by the ſide of the gate d, and his neck brake, and he died: for he was an old man, and heavy e, and he had judged Iſrael f forty years.

c Being ſo oppreſſed with Grief and Aſtoniſhment, that he had no Strength left to ſupport him. d To wit, the Gate of the City, which was moſt convenient for the ſpeedy underſtanding of all Occurrences. e Old, and therefore weak and apt to fall; Heavy, and therefore his fall more dangerous and pernicious. f He was their Supreme Governor, both in Civils and Spirituals.

¶ 19 And his daughter in law, Phinehas wife, was || Or, to cry out. with child, near || to be delivered: and when ſhe heard the tidings that the ark of God was taken, and that her father in law, and her husband were dead, ſhe † Heb. were turned. bowed her ſelf and travelled; for her pains † came upon her g.

g To wit, before her time, which is oft the effect of great Terrors, both in Women, and in other Creatures, Pſal. 29. 9.

20 And about the time of her death, the women that ſtood by her, ſaid unto her, Fear not, for thou † Heb. ſet not her heart. haſt born a ſon. But ſhe anſwered not, † neither did ſhe regard it h.

h Being overwhelmed with Sorrow, and ſo uncapable of Comfort.

21 And ſhe named the child || Ichabod, ſaying, || * The glory i is departed from Iſrael (becauſe the ark of God was taken, and becauſe of her father in law, and her husband.) || That is, Where is the glory? || Or, There is no glory. *Ch. 14. 3.

i i. e. The glorious type and aſſurance of God's preſence, the Ark, which is oft called God's Glory, as Pſal 26. 8. and 78. 61. Iſa. 64. 11. and which was the great ſafeguard and ornament of Iſrael, which they could glory in above all other Nations.

22 And ſhe ſaid, The glory is departed from Iſrael, for the ark of God is taken k.

k This is repeated to ſhew her Piety, and that the Publick and Spiritual loſs lay heavier upon her ſpirit, than her Perſonal or Domeſtick Calamity.

CHAP. V.

The Philiſtines place the Ark of God at Aſhdod in the Houſe of Dagon: Which falls down: once and again, 1,——5. They of Aſhdod are ſmitten with Emerods: They ſend the Ark to Gath, 6,—8. They are alſo ſmitten with Emerods, and ſend the Ark to Ekron: They reſolve to return it back to the Iſraelites, 9,—12.

AND the Philiſtines took the ark of God a, and brought it from Eben-Ezer b unto Aſhdod c.

a Queſt. Why were not they immediately killed, who touched the Ark, as afterwards Uzzah was? 2 Sam. 6. 7. Anſ. Firſt, Becauſe the Sin of the Philiſtines was not ſo great, becauſe the Law forbidding this, was not given, or at leaſt was not known to them; whereas Uzzah's Fact was a tranſgreſſion, and that of a known Law. Secondly, Becauſe God deſigned to reſerve the Philiſtines for a more publick and more ſhameful puniſhment, which had been prevented by this. b Where they found it in the Camp of the Iſraelites, chap. 4. 1. c Called alſo Azotus: whither they brought it, either becauſe it was the firſt City in their way, or rather becauſe it was a great and famous City, and moſt eminent for the worſhip of their great God Dagon.

2 When the Philiſtines took the ark of God, they brought it into the houſe of Dagon, and ſet it by Dagon d.

d Either, Firſt, Out of reſpect to it, that it might be worſhipped together with Dagon. Or rather, Secondly, by way of reproach and contempt of it, as a Spoil and Trophy ſet there to the honour of Dagon, to whom doubtleſs they aſcribed this Victory, as they did a former, Judg. 16. 23. And though they had ſome reverence for the Ark before, chap. 4. 7, &c. Yet that was certainly much diminiſhed by their ſucceſs againſt Iſrael, notwithſtanding the preſence and help of the Ark.

3 ¶ And when they of Aſhdod e aroſe early on the morrow f, behold, Dagon was fallen upon his face to the earth, before the ark of the LORD: and they took Dagon, and ſet him in his place again g.

e i. e. The Prieſts of Dagon. f Either to worſhip Dagon according to their manner: or being curious and greedy to know whether the Neighbourhood of the Ark to Dagon had made any alteration in either of them, that if Dagon had received any Damage, they might, if poſſibly they could, repair it, before it came to the Peoples knowledge, as indeed they did, to prevent their contempt of that Idol, by which the Prieſts had all their reputation and advantage. g Suppoſing or pretending that his fall was wholly caſual.

4 And when they aroſe early on the morrow morning, behold, Dagon was fallen upon his face to the ground, before the ark of the LORD, and the head of Dagon, and both the palms of his hands were cut off h upon the threſhold, only || the ſtump of Dagon i was left to him k. || Or, the fiſhy part.

h The head is the Seat of Wiſdom; the Hands, the Inſtruments of Action: both are cut off, to ſhew that he had neither Wiſdom nor Strength to Defend himſelf, nor his worſhippers. Thus the Prieſts by concealing Dagon's ſhame before, make it more evident and infamous. i Heb. Only Dagon, i. e. that part of it from which it was called Dagon, to wit, the Fiſhy part, for Dag in Hebrew ſignifies a Fiſh. And hence their Opinion ſeems moſt probable, that this Idol of Dagon had in its upper parts an human ſhape, and in its lower parts the form of a Fiſh; for ſuch was the form of divers of the Heathen gods, and particularly of a god of the Phœnicians (under which Name the Philiſtines are comprehended) as Diodorus Siculus, and Lucian, both witneſs, though they call it by another Name. k Or, upon it, i. e. upon the Threſhold, there the Trunk abode in the place where it fell, but the Head and Hands being violently cut off, were flung to diſtant and ſeveral places.

5 Therefore neither the prieſts of Dagon, nor any that come into Dagon's houſe, tread on the threſhold † of l Dagon in Aſhdod unto this day m. † Of the Temple.

l Out of a Religious reverence, ſuppoſing this place to be Sanctified by the touch of their god, who firſt fell here, and being broken here, touched it more thoroughly than he did other parts. This Superſtition of theirs was Noted and Cenſured long after, Zephan. 1. 9. Herein they manifeſted their ſtupendious Folly, both in making a perpetual Monument of their own and Idols ſhame, which in all reaſon they ſhould rather have buried in eternal Oblivion; and in turning a plain and certain Argument of Contempt, into an occaſion of further Veneration. m When this Hiſtory was written, which if written by Samuel towards the end of his Life, was a ſufficient ground for this expreſſion, this Superſtitious uſage having then continued for many Years, 6 But the hand of the LORD was heavy upon them of Aſhdod n, and he deſtroyed them o, and ſmote them † with * emerods p, even Aſhdod, and the coaſts thereof.

† Heb. in
* Pſal 78. 66.

n For their Incorrigibleneſs by the foregoing Documents. o Partly, by waſting their Land, chap. 6, 5. and partly, by killing many of their Perſons, as is ſufficiently implied here, v. 10. p A Diſeaſe mentioned only here, and Deut. 28. 27. it was in the hinder parts. It is needleſs to enquire into the Nature of it. It may ſuffice to know, that it was a very ſore Diſeaſe, and not only very Vexatious and Tormenting, but alſo Pernicious and Mortal

7 And when the men of Aſhdod ſaw that it was ſo, they ſaid, The ark of the God of Iſrael ſhall not abide with us: for his hand is ſore upon us, and upon Dagon our god.

8 They ſent therefore, and gathered all the lords of the Philiſtines unto them, and ſaid, What ſhall we do with the ark of the God of Iſrael? And they anſwered, Let the ark of the God of Iſrael be carried about unto Gath q. And they carried the ark of the God of Iſrael about thither.

q Suppoſing that this Plague was confined to Aſhdod for ſome particular Reaſons, or that it came upon them by Chance, or from ſome bad Influence of the Air, or of the Stars, or for putting it into Dagon's Temple, which they reſolved they would not do.

9 And it was ſo, that after they had carried it about, the hand of the LORD was againſt the city with ‖ a very great deſtruction: and he ſmote the men of the city, both ſmall and great, and they had emerods in their ſecret parts r.

‖ Or, a very great terror

r Or, in their hidden parts, to wit, in the inwards of their hinder parts. Which is the worſt kind of Emerods, as all Phyſicians acknowledge, both becauſe its Pains are far more ſharp and keen than the other; and becauſe the Malady is more out of the reach of Remedies.

10 ¶ Therefore they ſent the ark of God to Ekron: and it came to paſs, as the ark of God came to Ekron, that the Ekronites cried out, ſaying, They have brought about the ark of the God of Iſrael to us, to ſlay us ſ and our people.

ſ Not that they intended this, but becauſe this would be the event of it.

11 So they ſent, and gathered together all the lords of the Philiſtines, and ſaid, Send away the ark of the God of Iſrael, and let it go again to his own place, that it ſlay us not, and our people: for there was a deadly deſtruction throughout all the city t: the hand of God was heavy there.

t To wit, the City of Ekron, during its ſhort ſtay there. Or, in every City, to wit, where the Ark of God came: for it came alſo to Gaza and Askelon, and produced the ſame Effects there, as may be gathered from chap. 6. 4, 17. though for brevity ſake it be here omitted.

12 And the men that died not u, were ſmitten with the emerods: and the cry of the city x went up to heaven.

u Either of ſome other Plague, or Ulcer, as may be thought from v. 6. or of the Emerods, which Infeſted and Tormented even thoſe whom it did not kill. x Or, of that City where the Ark was; and the City is put for the People Inhabiting it.

CHAP. VI.

The Philiſtines conſult with the Prieſts how they ſhall return the Ark: They adviſe to ſend with it for a Treſpaſs-Offering, five golden Emerods and Mice. On a new Cart, which they do: The Kine tied to the Cart, go ſtrait way to Beth-ſhemeſh: Which was for a ſign to the Philiſtines, 1,——12. They of Beth-ſhemeſh rejoyce: The Levites offer Sacrifice for it, 13,——15. The People are ſmitten for looking into the Ark: And requeſt them of Kirjath-jearim to fetch it thence into their own City, 16,———21.

AND the ark of the LORD was in the countrey of the Philiſtines ſeven months a.

a So long they kept it, as loth to loſe ſo great a Prize, and willing to try all ways to keep it, and yet free themſelves from the Miſchiefs accompanying its preſence.

2 And the Philiſtines called for the prieſts, and the diviners b, ſaying, What ſhall we do to the ark of the LORD? Tell us wherewith c we ſhall ſend it to his place?

b Whoſe Art was in great eſteem with Heathen Nations, and eſpecially with the Philiſtines and their Neighbours, the Canaanites and Egyptians. c In what manner, and with what Gifts; for to ſend it, they had decreed before, chap. 5. 11.

3 And they ſaid, If ye reſolve to ſend away the ark of the God of Iſrael, ſend it not empty d: but in any wiſe return him a treſpaſs-offering e: then ye ſhall be healed, and it ſhall be known to you f, why his hand * is not removed from you.

Or, was

d i.e. Without a preſent; which they judged neceſſary, from the common Opinion and Practice both of Jews and Gentiles. e Thereby to acknowledge our Offence, and obtain his Pardon. f You ſhall underſtand, what is hitherto doubtful, whether he was the Author of theſe Calamities, and why they continued ſo long upon you. Compare verſe 7, 8, 9.

4 Then ſaid they, What ſhall be the treſpaſs-offering g, which we ſhall return to him? They anſwered, Five golden emerods h, and five golden mice i, according to the number of the lords of the Philiſtines: for one kind of plague was on † you all, and on your lords.

g They deſire particular Information, becauſe they were ignorant of the Nature and Manner of the Worſhip of Iſrael's God, and they might eaſily underſtand that there were ſome kinds of Offerings which God would not accept. h i.e. Figures of that part of the Body which was the ſeat of the Diſeaſe, which by its ſwelling, or ſome other way, Repreſented alſo the Diſeaſe it ſelf. Which they offered not in contempt of God, for they ſought to gain his favour hereby; but in Teſtimony of their Humiliation, that by leaving this Monument of their own Shame and Miſery, they might obtain pity from God, and freedom from their Diſeaſe. i Which marred their Land (as it is related v. 5.) by deſtroying the Fruits thereof; as the other Plague afflicted their Bodies.

5 Wherefore ye ſhall make images of your emerods, and images of your mice, that * mar the land, and ye ſhall give glory unto the God of Iſrael k: peradventure he will lighten his hand from off you, and from off your gods l, and from off your land.

* Cha. 5. 6.

k The Glory of his Power in Conquering you, who ſeemed and pretended to have Conquered him; of his Juſtice in puniſhing you, and of his Goodneſs if he ſhall Relieve you. l They ſo ſpeak, either becauſe not only Dagon, but their other gods alſo, were thrown down by the Ark, though that be not related; or becauſe the Plural Number in that caſe, was commonly uſed for the Singular.

6 Wherefore then do ye harden m your hearts, * as the Egyptians, and Pharaoh hardened their hearts n? when he † had wrought ‖ wonderfully among them, * did not they let † the people go, and they departed?

* Exod. 7. 13. and 8. 15. and 14. 17.
† Gr. deluded them
‖ Or, reproachfully.
* Exod. 12. 31.

m Or, ſhould ye harden, the Future Tenſe of the Indicative Mood being put potentially, as is not unuſual. They expreſs themſelves thus, either becauſe they perceived that ſome oppoſed the Decree of ſending home the Ark, though the moſt had conſented to it; or becauſe they thought they would hardly ſend it away in the manner preſcribed, by giving Glory to God, and taking Shame to themſelves. n Which they might eaſily learn, either by Tradition from their Anceſtors, or by the Reports of the Hebrews.

7 Now therefore make a new cart o, and take two milch-kine, on which there hath come no yoke p, and tie the kine to the cart, and bring their calves home from them q.

o As David did for the ſame uſe, 2 Sam. 6. 3. in Reverence to the Ark. p Partly, in reſpect to the Ark; and partly, for the better Diſcovery, becauſe ſuch untamed Heifers are wanton, and apt to wander, and keep no certain and conſtant paths, as Oxen accuſtomed to the Yoke do, and therefore were moſt unlikely to keep the direct Road to Iſrael's Land. q Which would ſtir up Natural Affection in their Dams, and cauſe them rather to return Home, than to go to a ſtrange Country.

8 And take the ark of the LORD, and lay it upon the cart r, and put the jewels of gold, which ye return him for a treſpaſs-offering in a coffer by the ſide thereof ſ, and ſend it away, that it may go.

r Which God winked at in them, both becauſe they were ignorant of God's Law to the contrary, and becauſe they had no Levites to carry it upon their Shoulders. ſ For they durſt not preſume to open the Ark, to put them within it.

9 And ſee, if it goeth up by the way of his own coaſt s to Bethſhemeſh, then ‖ he hath done us this great evil t: but if not, then we ſhall know that it is not his hand that ſmote us; it was a chance that hapned to us u.

‖ Or, it.

s Or, Border, i.e. the way that leadeth to his Coaſt, or Border, viz. the Country to which it belongs. t Which they might well conclude, if ſuch Heifers ſhould againſt their common uſe, and natural inſtinct, go into a ſtrange path, and regularly and conſtantly proceed in it, without any man's Conduct. u This Evil came to us from ſome Influences of the Stars, or other unknown Cauſes. Which was a weak and fooliſh Inference, depending upon a meer Contingency, it being uncertain whether God would pleaſe to give them this Sign; and probable, that he would deny it, both to puniſh their Superſtition, and to harden their hearts to their further and utter Deſtruction. But wicked Men will ſooner believe the moſt uncertain and ridiculous things, than own the viſible Demonſtrations of God's Power and Providence.

10 ¶ And the men did ſo: and took two milch-kine, and tied them to the cart, and ſhut up their calves at home.

11 And they laid the ark of the LORD upon the cart, and the coffer with the mice of gold, and the images of their emerods.

12 And the kine took the ſtraight way to the way of Bethſhemeſh x, and went along the high-way, lowing as they went y, and turned not aſide to the right hand, or to the left: and the lords of the Philiſtines went after them z unto the border of Bethſhemeſh.

x i. e. Leading to Bethſhemeſh, a City of the Prieſts, Joſ. 21. 16. who were by Office to take care of it. y Teſtifying at once both their natural and vehement Inclination to their Calves, and the ſupernatural and divine Power which over-ruled them to a contrary Courſe. z Under pretence of an honourable diſmiſſion of it; but in truth, to prevent all Impoſture, and to get aſſurance of the truth of the Event. All which Circumſtances tended to their greater Confuſion, and Illuſtration of God's Glory.

13 And they of Bethſhemeſh were reaping their wheat-harveſt in the valley: and they lifted up their eyes, and ſaw the ark, and rejoiced to ſee it.

14 And the cart came into the field of Joſhua a Bethſhemite, and ſtood there, where there was a great ſtone: and they a clave the wood of the cart, and offered the kine, a burnt-offering unto the LORD b.

a Not the Lords of the Philiſtines, but the Bethſhemites, to wit, the Prieſts that dwelt there. b There may ſeem to be a double Error in this Act. Firſt, That they offered Females for a Burnt-Offering, contrary to Levit. 1. 3. and 22. 19. Secondly, That they did it in a forbidden place, Deut. 12. 5, 6. into which they might eaſily be led by exceſs of Joy, and eager deſire of returning to their long-interrupted courſe of Offering Sacrifices. And ſome think theſe Irregularities were partial Cauſes of the following Puniſhment. But this caſe being very extraordinary, may in ſome ſort excuſe it, if they did not proceed by ordinary Rules. As for the firſt, though they might not chuſe Females for that uſe, yet when God himſelf had choſen, and in a manner Conſecrated them to his ſervice, and imployed them in ſo ſacred and glorious a Work, it may ſeem tollerable to offer them to the Lord, as being his peculiar, and improper for any other uſe. And for the latter, we have many inſtances of Sacrifices offered to God by Prophets, and Holy Men, in other places, beſides the Tabernacle, upon extraordinary occaſions, ſuch as this certainly was; it being fit, that the Ark ſhould at its firſt return be received with Thankſgiving and Sacrifice; and this Place being Sanctified by the preſence of the Ark, which was the very ſoul of the Tabernacle, and that by which the Tabernacle it ſelf was Sanctified, and for whoſe ſake the Sacrifices were offered at the door of the Tabernacle.

15 And the Levites took down c the ark of the LORD, and the coffer that was with it, wherein the jewels of gold were, and put them on the great ſtone: and the men of Bethſhemeſh offered burnt-offerings, and ſacrificed ſacrifices the ſame day unto the LORD.

c Or, For the Levites had taken down: for this, though mentioned after, was done before the Sacrifices were offered.

16 And when the five lords of the Philiſtines had ſeen it d, they returned to Ekron the ſame day.

d To wit, that prodigious return of the Ark to its own Country, and the entertainment it found there.

17 And theſe are the golden emerods which the Philiſtines returned for a treſpaſs-offering unto the LORD: for Aſhdod one, for Gaza one, for Askelon one, for Gath one, for Ekron one.

18 And the golden mice according to the number of all the cities of the Philiſtines, belonging to the five lords: both of fenced cities, and of country villages e even unto the ‖ great ſtone of Abel f, whereon they ſet down the ark of the LORD, which ſtone remaineth unto this day in the field of Joſhua the Bethſhemite.

e This is added for explication of that foregoing Phraſe, all the cities; either to ſhew, that under the Name of the five Cities were comprehended all the Villages and Territories belonging to them, in whoſe Name, and at whoſe Charge theſe Preſents were made; or to expreſs the difference between this and the former Preſent, the Emerods being only five, according to the five Cities mentioned, v. 17. becauſe it may ſeem, the Cities only, or principally were peſtered with that Diſeaſe; and the Mice being many more according to the number of all the Cities, as is here expreſſed: the Word city being taken generally ſo, as to include, not only Fenced Cities, but alſo the Country Villages, as is here added, and the Fields belonging to them, theſe being the parts where the Mice did moſt Miſchief. f Which is mentioned as the utmoſt border of the Philiſtines Territory to which the Plague of Mice did extend. The word ſtone being eaſily underſtood out of v. 14. where this great ſtone is expreſly mentioned, as the place on which the Ark was ſet, which is alſo here repeated in the following words. And this place is here called Abel, by anticipation from the great Mourning mentioned in the following Verſe.

19 ¶ And he ſmote the men of Bethſhemeſh, becauſe they had looked into the ark of the LORD g, even he ſmote of the people h fifty thouſand and threeſcore and ten men i: and the people lamented, becauſe the LORD had ſmitten many of the people with a great ſlaughter.

g Having now an opportunity which they never yet had, nor were ever like to have, it is not ſtrange they had a vehement curioſity and deſire to ſee the contents of the Ark: or whether the Philiſtines had taken them away, and put other things in their place; and they thought they might now preſume the more, becauſe the Ark had been polluted by the Philiſtines, and was now expoſed to open view, and not yet put into that moſt Holy Place, which they were forbidden to approach. h i. e. Of the People living in, and near Bethſhemeſh, or coming thither from all parts upon this great and glorious occaſion. Heb. And, or Alſo he ſmote of the people; to wit, of or belonging to other places, though now here: So theſe are diſtinguiſhed from the men of Bethſhemeſh, of whom he ſpeaks only in general and indefinitely, he ſmote the men; i. e. Some, or many of them, and then ſets down the number of the perſons ſmitten, or ſlain, either excluding the Bethſhemites, or including them. i This may ſeem an incredible Relation, both becauſe that place could not afford ſo great a number, and becauſe it ſeems an act of great rigour, that God ſhould ſo ſeverely puniſh thoſe people who came with ſo much Zeal and Joy to Congratulate the return of the Ark, and that for ſo inconſiderable an Error. For the latter branch of the Objection, it may be ſaid, 1. That God always uſed to be moſt ſevere in puniſhing his own People, as Sinning againſt more knowledge and warning than others; eſpecially, for ſuch ſins as immediately concern his own Worſhip and Service. 2. That men are very incompetent Judges of theſe Matters, becauſe they do not underſtand all the reaſons and cauſes of God's Judgments. For although God took this juſt occaſion to puniſh them for that Crime which was ſo ſeverely forbidden even to the common Levites under pain of Death; of which ſee Numb. 4. 18, 19, 20. Yet it is apparent, that the People were at this time guilty of many other, and greater Miſcarriages, for which God might juſtly inflict the preſent puniſhment upon them: and moreover there are many ſecret Sins which eſcape Man's Obſervation, but are ſeen by God, before whom, many Perſons may be deeply guilty, whom men eſteem innocent and vertuous. And therefore men ſhould take heed of Cenſuring the Judgments of God, of which it is moſt truly ſaid, that they are oft ſecret, but never unrighteous. And for the former branch of the Objection, many things are, or may be ſaid; 1. That the Land of Iſrael was ſtrangely populous, See 2 Sam. 24. 9. and 2 Chron. 13. 3. 2. That all theſe were not the ſetled Inhabitants of this place, but moſt of them ſuch as did, and in all probability would reſort thither in great numbers upon ſo illuſtrious an occaſion. 3. That all theſe were not ſtruck dead in the very Fact, and upon the place, which would have terrified others from following their example; but were ſecretly ſtruck with ſome Diſeaſe or Plague, which killed them in a little time. 4. That divers Learned Men tranſlate, and underſtand the place otherwiſe, and make the number much ſmaller. Joſephus the Jew, and the Hebrew Doctors, and many others contend, that only ſeventy perſons were ſlain. Which though it ſeem but a ſmall number, yet might juſtly be called a great ſlaughter, either for the quality of the perſons Slain, or for the greatneſs and extraordinarineſs of the Stroke; or becauſe it was a great number, conſidering the ſmallneſs of the Place, and the ſadneſs of the Occaſion. The words in the Hebrew are theſe, and thus placed, he ſmote of or among the people ſeventy men, fifty thouſand men; whereas, ſay they, The Words ſhould have been otherwiſe placed, and the greater number put before the leſs, if this had been meant, that he ſmote 50 Thouſand and 70 Men. And one very Learned Man renders the Words thus, He ſmote of the people ſeventy men, even fifty of a thouſand, the Particle, Mem, of, being here underſtood, as it is very frequently. So the meaning is, That God ſmote every twentieth Man of the Tranſgreſſors, as the Romans uſed to cut off every tenth Man in caſe of the general guilt of an Army. Or the Words may be rendred thus, He ſmote of, or among the people, ſeventy men out of fifty thouſand men; the Particle Mem, of, or out of, being underſtood before the Word fifty, which Bochart puts before a thouſand; and it may be thus expreſſed, to ſhew, that God did temper his Severity with great Clemency: And whereas there were many thouſands of Tranſgreſſors (every one following his Brother's Example, as is uſual in ſuch caſes) God only ſingled out 70 of the Principal Offenders, who either ſinned moſt againſt their Light or Office; or were the Ringleaders, or chief Encouragers of the reſt. To which may be added, That the ancient Tranſlators, the Syriack, and Arabick, read the place five thouſand and ſeventy men, being ſuppoſed to have read in their Hebrew Copies, Chameſh, five, for Chamiſhim, fifty, which is no great alteration in the Word.

20 And the men of Bethſhemeſh ſaid, Who is able to ſtand before † this holy LORD God k? and to whom ſhall he go up from us l?

† Heb. The Lord, this holy God.

k i. e. To miniſter before the Ark where the Lord is preſent. Since God is ſo ſevere to mark whatſoever is amiſs in his Servants, who is ſufficient and worthy to ſerve him? who dare preſume to come into his preſence? It ſeems to be a Complaint, or Expoſtulation with God, concerning this laſt and great inſtance of his Severity. l Who will dare to receive the Ark with ſo much hazard to themſelves?

21 ¶ And they ſent meſſengers to the inhabitants of Kirjath-jearim m, ſaying, The Philiſtines have brought again the ark of the LORD: come ye down and fetch it up to you.

m Whither they ſent, either becauſe the Place was not far off from them, and ſo it might ſoon be removed, which they mainly deſired: or becauſe it was a place of Eminency and Strength, and ſomewhat further diſtant from the Philiſtines, where therefore it was likely to be better preſerved from any new attempts of the Philiſtines, and to be better attended by the Iſraelites, who would more freely and frequently come to it at ſuch a place, than in Bethſhemeſh, which was upon the border of their Enemies Land: or becauſe they thought they would gladly receive it, being a pious and zealous People: or becauſe it was in the way to Shilo, its ancient Habitation; and whither they might ſuppoſe it was to be carried by degrees, and ſeveral Stages, whereof this was one.

CHAP. VII.

The Ark is placed in Kirjath-jearim: Eleazer his ſon is ſanctified to keep it, 1, 2. Samuel exhorts them to Repent, and put away their Idols, they obey him. A Faſt at Mizpeh, 3,——6. The Philiſtines intend to ſet upon the Iſraelites, who are afraid, 7. Samuel offereth and prayeth for Iſrael. God heareth: Terrifieth the Philiſtines with Thunder, and they are ſmitten: Are ſubdued: And the Cities which they had taken from the Iſraelites are recovered, 8,——14. Samuel viſiteth all the Cities of Iſrael, and returns to Ramah: There builds an Altar to the Lord, 15,——17.

*Pſal.132. 6. AND the men of * Kirjath-jearim came a and fetcht up b the ark of the LORD, and brought a They gladly embrace the motion, as wiſely conſidering, that their great Calamity was not to be charged upon the Ark, but upon themſelves and their own careleſsneſs, irreverence, and preſumption, in looking into the Ark. This place is elſewhere called Baalah, and Kiriath-Baal, as is evident from Joſ. 15. 9, 60. and 18. 14. and 1 Chron 13. 6, 7. b i. e. Cauſed it to be brought up; to wit, by the Prieſts appointed to that work, whom they could eaſily procure, and undoubtedly would do it, eſpecially having been ſo lately warned of the great danger of violating God's Commands in thoſe matters. In Scripture-uſe, men are commonly ſaid to do that which they order, or cauſe others to do. c This place they choſe, becauſe it was both a ſtrong place, where it would be moſt ſafe; and an high Place, and therefore viſible at ſome diſtance, and to many Perſons, which was convenient for them, who were at that time to direct their Prayers and Faces towards the Ark, 1 Kings 8. 29, 30, 35. Pſal. 28. 2. and 138. 2. Dan. 6. 10. And for the ſame reaſon David afterwards placed it in the Hill of Sion. Some tranſlate the word, in Gibeah. But that was in the Tribe of Benjamin, Joſ. 18. 27. Judg. 19. 14. whereas this Kirjath-jearim was in the Tribe of Judah, 1 Chron. 13. 6, 7. d Not that they made him either Levite or Prieſt, as ſome would have it; for in Iſrael Perſons were not made, but born ſuch; and ſince the Inſtitution of Levites and Prieſts, none were made ſuch, that were born of other Tribes, or Families; but that they devoted, or ſet him apart (as this Verb ſometimes ſignifies) wholly to attend upon this Work. e Him they choſe rather than his Father, becauſe he was younger and ſtronger, and probably freed from Domeſtick Cares, which might divert him from, or diſturb him in this Work; or becauſe he was more eminent for Prudence or Piety. f To keep the place where it was, clean and neat, and to guard it that none might approach or touch it, but ſuch as God required, or allowed to do ſo.
*2 Sa.6.4. it into the houſe of * Abinadab in the hill c, and ſanctified d Eleazar his ſon e, to keep the ark of the LORD f.

2 ¶ And it came to paſs while the ark abode in Kirjath-jearim g, that the time was long: for it was twenty years h: and all the houſe of Iſrael lamented after the LORD i.

g Where it continued, and was not carried to Shiloh its former place, either becauſe that place was deſtroyed by the Philiſtines when the Ark was taken, as may be gathered from this Hiſtory, compared with Jer. 7. 12, 14. and 26. 6, 9. Or becauſe God would hereby puniſh the wickedneſs either of that particular place of Shiloh, or of the People of Iſrael, by keeping it in a private and obſcure place, and that near to the Philiſtines, whither the generality of the People neither durſt, nor could ſafely come. h He ſaith not, That this 20 Years was all the time of the Arks abode there, for it continued there from Eli's time, till David's Reign, 2 Sam. 6. 2. which was 40 years, Act. 13. 21. but that it was ſo long there e're the Iſraelites were ſenſible of their Sin and Miſery, e're they lamented, &c. as it follows. i i. e. They followed after God with Lamentation for his departure, and ſo long eſtrangement from them, and with prayers for his return, and favour to them.

3 ¶ And Samuel ſpake unto all the houſe of Iſrael k, ſaying, If ye do return unto the LORD l
*Joſh. 24. 14, 23. with all your heart m, then * put away the ſtrange
*Jud. 2. 13 gods n, and * Aſhtaroth o from among you, and *Deut. 6. 13. prepare your hearts p unto the LORD, and * ſerve
Matt. 4. 10. him onely; and q he will deliver you out of the hand Luk. 4. 8. of the Philiſtines.

k To all the Rulers and People too, as he had occaſion in his Circuit, deſcribed below, v. 16. mixing exhortations to Repentance, with his judicial Adminiſtrations. l If you do indeed what you profeſs, if you are reſolved to go on in that which you ſeem to have begun. m Sincerely and in good earneſt. n Out of your houſes where ſome of you keep and worſhip them; and out of your Hearts and Affections, where they ſtill have an Intereſt in many of you. o And particularly or eſpecially, Aſhtaroth, which he mentions as a god, whom they, together with the neighbouring Nations, did more eminently worſhip. See Judg. 2. 13. p By purging them from all Sin, and particularly from all inclinations to other gods. Or, direct your hearts, having alienated your hearts from your Idols, turn them to God, and not to other Idols or Vanities. q Or, then, upon theſe conditions you may confidently expect it.

*Judg. 10. 16. 4 Then the children of Iſrael did put away * Baalim and Aſhtaroth, and ſerved the LORD onely.

5 And Samuel ſaid, Gather all Iſrael to Mizpeh, and I will pray for you unto the LORD.

6 And they gathered together to Mizpeh r, and drew water, and poured it out s before the LORD t, and faſted on that day, and ſaid there, We have ſinned againſt the LORD. And Samuel judged the children of Iſrael u in Mizpeh.

r Not that beyond Jordan, of which Judg. 11. 11, 29. but another in Canaan, where the Iſraelites uſed to aſſemble, Judg. 20. 1. 1 Sam. 10. 17. s Which they did either, 1. Figuratively, they drew tears out of their Hearts, and poured out of their Eyes as it were Rivers of Water; ſuch deſcriptions of penitential Sorrow being not unuſual: See Pſal. 6. 7. and 119. 136. Jer. 9. 1. Lam. 3. 48, 49. Or, rather, 2. Properly, becauſe they are ſaid firſt to draw it, and then to pour it out. And this agrees well with the State of thoſe Times, wherein ſuch Rites as this were very cuſtomary. Now this courſe they ſeem to have uſed, either, 1. As a mean or inſtrument of their Purification. So they waſhed themſelves in this Water, thereby acknowledging their filthineſs, and cleanſing themſelves as the Law preſcribed. But this ſeems not probable; 1. Becauſe here is only mention of drawing and pouring forth this Water before the Lord, but not of any waſhing themſelves with it. 2. Becauſe this was not a fit time and place to purifie themſelves in this great and general Aſſembly. Or, 2. As an External Sign, whereby they teſtified and profeſſed, both their own great filthineſs and need of waſhing by the grace and ſpirit of God, and blood of the Covenant, which are oft ſignified by Water, and their ſincere deſire to pour out their very Hearts before the Lord, in true Repentance, and to cleanſe themſelves from all filthineſs of fleſh and ſpirit. t i. e. In the publick Aſſembly, where God is in a ſpecial manner preſent, as hath been noted before. u i. e. Governed them, reformed all Abuſes againſt God or man, took care that the Laws of God ſhould be obſerved and executed, and wilful Tranſgreſſors puniſhed.

7 And when the Philiſtines heard that the children of Iſrael were gathered together to Mizpeh, the lords of the Philiſtines went up x againſt Iſrael: and when the children of Iſrael heard it, they were afraid y of the Philiſtines.

x To wit, with an Army, v. 10. ſuſpecting the effects of their general Convention, and intending to nip them in the bud. y Being a company of unarmed Perſons, and unfit for Battel.

8 And the children of Iſrael ſaid to Samuel, † Ceaſe not to cry unto the LORD our God for † Heb. be not ſilent from us from crying.
us z, that he will ſave us out of the hand of the Philiſtines.

z We are aſhamed and afraid to look God in the face, becauſe of our great wickedneſs this day remembred and acknowledged: do thou therefore intercede for us, as Moſes did for his Generation.

9 ¶ And Samuel took a ſucking lamb a, and offered it b for a burnt-offering wholly c unto the LORD: and * Samuel cried unto the LORD for * Pſa. 99. 6.
Iſrael, and the LORD || heard him d. || Or, anſwered.

a Which it might be, though it was more than Eight days old, and ſo that Law, Exod. 23. 19. was not violated. b Either himſelf by Divine Inſtinct, which was a ſufficient Warrant; or rather by a Prieſt, as Saul is afterwards ſaid to have offered, 1 Sam. 13. 9. c Burning all the parts of it, according to the Law of the Burnt-Offerings; whereas in other Offerings ſome parts were reſerved. d As appears by the Effects, the following Thunder, and the overthrow of the Philiſtines Hoſt.

10 And as Samuel was offering up the burnt-offering, the Philiſtines drew near to battel againſt Iſrael: but the LORD thundred with a great † † Heb. voice.
thunder on that day upon the Philiſtines, and diſcomfited them, and they were ſmitten e before Iſrael.

e Either by the Lightnings, or Thunderbolts, or other things which accompanied the cracks of Thunder: or by the Iſraelites, who perceiving them to be affrighted and flee away, purſued, and ſmote them, as the next Verſe mentions.

11 And the men of Iſrael went out of Mizpeh, and purſued the Philiſtines, and ſmote them f, until they came under Beth-car.

f Qu. Whence had they Weapons wherewith to ſmite them? Anſw. Divers of them probably brought them to the Aſſembly, others borrowed them at Mizpeh, or the neighbouring places: And the reſt might be the Arms of the Philiſtines, which they threw away to haſten their flight, as is uſual in ſuch caſes.

12 Then Samuel took a ſtone g, and ſet it between Mizpeh and Shen, and called the name thereof || Eben-ezer h, ſaying, Hitherto hath the LORD || That is the ſtone of help.
helped us i.

g A rude unpoliſh'd Stone, which was not prohibited by that Law, Levit. 26. 1. there being no danger of Worſhipping ſuch a Stone, and this being ſet up only as a Monument of the Victory. h By which, compared with Chap. 4. 1. it appears, that this Victory was gained in, or near the very ſame place where the Iſraelites received their former fatal loſs. i He hath begun to help us in ſome meaſure, though not compleatly to deliver us. By which wary Expreſſion, he exciteth both their thankfulneſs for their Mercy received, and their holy fear and care to pleaſe and ſerve the Lord, that he might proceed to help and deliver them more effectually.

13 ¶ So the Philiſtines were ſubdued, and they came no more into the coaſt of Iſrael k: and the hand of the LORD was againſt the Philiſtines all the days of Samuel.

k i.e. They came not with a great Hoſt, as now they did, but only moleſted them with ſtragling Parties, or Gariſons; as 1 Sam. 10. 5. and they came not, to wit, all the days of Samuel, as it follows, i. e. while Samuel was their ſole Judge, or Ruler; for in Saul's time they did come, 1 Sam. 13. 5, 17. and 14. 52. and 17. 1. &c.

† Heb. returned.

14 And the cities which the Philiſtines had taken from Iſrael, † were reſtored to Iſrael l, from Ekron even unto Gath, and the coaſts thereof did Iſrael deliver out of the hand of the Philiſtines: and there was peace m between Iſrael and the Amorites n.

l By the Philiſtines, who, it ſeems, were frighted into this Reſtitution by their dread of Samuel, and of the Divine Vengeance. Object. The Philiſtines had Cities and Gariſons in Iſrael's Land after this time; as 1 Sam. 10. 5. and 13. 3. Anſw. Either therefore thoſe places were not any of theſe here mentioned; for it is not ſaid, That all their Cities were reſtored, but only indefinitely, the cities, and thoſe limited to a certain compaſs, from Ekron to Gath; or ſome of the Cities now reſtored by the Philiſtines, were afterwards retaken by them. m An agreement for the Ceſſation of all acts of Hoſtility. n i.e. The Canaanites, oft called Amorites, becauſe theſe were formerly the moſt Valiant and Terrible of all thoſe Nations, and the firſt Enemies which the Iſraelites met with, when they went to take Poſſeſſion of their Land. They made this Peace with the Canaanites, that they might be more at leiſure to oppoſe the Philiſtines, now their moſt Potent Enemies.

15 And Samuel judged Iſrael all the days of his life o.

o For though Saul was King in Samuel's laſt days, yet Samuel did not then quite ceaſe to be a Judge, being ſo made by God's extraordinary Call, which Saul could not deſtroy; And therefore Samuel did ſometimes, upon great occaſions, though not ordinarily, exerciſe the office of a Judge after the beginning of Saul's Reign; as Chap. 11. 7. and 15. 32, 33. And the years of the Rule of Saul and Samuel are joyned together, Act. 13. 20, 21. Qu. How doth the Office of a Judge agree with Hannah's Vow, whereby ſhe devoted him to a perpetual attendance upon the Lord's Service? Anſw. This was not inconſiſtent with her Vow, which conſiſted of two Branches, the one more general, that he ſhould be given, or lent to the Lord all his days, 1 Sam. 1. 11, 28. which ſhe faithfully executed, leaving him wholly to the ſervice and diſpoſal of the LORD, who thought fit to employ him in this way; and, if any thing therein was contrary to that Vow, could undoubtedly diſpenſe with it, as being his own right only; the other more particular, that no Raſor ſhould come upon his head; nor doth it appear that this part was violated; or if it was, it was done by Divine Diſpenſation.

† Heb. and he circuited

16 And he went from year to year † in circuit to Bethel p, and Gilgal q, and Mizpeh r, and judged Iſrael in all thoſe places s.

p Either a place known by that name: or the houſe of God; to wit, Kirjath-jearim, where the Ark was. q In the Eaſtern Border. r Towards the Weſt. s He went to thoſe ſeveral places, partly in compliance with the People, whoſe convenience and benefit he was willing to purchaſe with his own trouble, making himſelf an itinerant Judge and Preacher for their ſakes; and partly, that by his preſence in ſeveral parts, he might the better obſerve, and rectifie all ſorts of miſcarriages againſt God or Men.

17 And his return was to Ramah: for there was his houſe, and there he judged Iſrael, and there he built an altar unto the LORD t.

t That by joyning Sacrifices with his Prayers, he might the better obtain direction and aſſiſtance from God upon all emergencies. Object. It was unlawful to build another Altar for Sacrifice beſides that before the Tabernacle, Deut. 12. 5, 13. Anſw. This was in part excuſed by the confuſion of thoſe times, wherein the Tabernacle and its Altar were Deſtroyed; as is moſt probable; but moſt fully, becauſe this was done by Prophetical Inſpiration, and Divine Diſpenſation, as appears by God's approbation and acceptance of the Sacrifices offered upon it.

CHAP. VIII.

Samuel makes his ſons Judges over Iſrael: Their Names: And ill Government, 1,—3. The People ask a King: Samuel is grieved: Prays: 4,—6. God is diſpleaſed with the People: But commands Samuel to hearken to them, 7,—9. And to repreſent to them the Tyrannical Government of Kings, which he doth, 10,———18. The People continue in their Requeſt: God commandeth Samuel to yield to them, 19,—22.

AND it came to paſs when Samuel was old a, that he made his ſons Judges b over Iſrael.

a And ſo unable for his former Travels and Labours. b Not Supreme Judges, for ſuch there was to be but one, and that of God's chuſing; and Samuel ſtill kept that Office in his own hands, Chap. 7. 15. but his Vicegerents or Deputies, who might go about and determine matters, but with reſervation of a right of Appeals to himſelf. He advanceth his Sons to this place, not ſo much out of Paternal Indulgence, the ſad effects whereof he had ſeen in Eli; but becauſe he had doubtleſs inſtructed them in a ſingular manner, and fitted them for the higheſt Employments; and he hoped that the Example he had ſet them, and the Inſpection and Authority he ſtill had over them, would have obliged them to diligence and faithfulneſs in the execution of their Truſt.

2 Now the name of the firſt-born was Joel, and the name of his ſecond Abiah: they were judges in Beer-ſheba c.

c In the Southern border of the Land of Canaan, where he placed his Sons, becauſe theſe parts were very remote from his houſe at Ramah; where, and in the neighbouring places Samuel himſelf ſtill executed the Office of the Judge; ſending his Sons to reſide and judge in diſtant places, for the eaſe and convenience of the People.

3 And his ſons walked not in his ways, but turned aſide after lucre, and * took bribes d, and perverted judgment.

* Deut. 16. 19.

d Opportunity and temptation drew forth and diſcovered that Corruption in them, which till now was hid from their Father, and, it may be, from themſelves.

4 Then all the elders e of Iſrael gathered themſelves together, and came to Samuel unto Ramah.

e Either for Age, or Dignity, and Power.

5 And ſaid unto him, Behold, thou art old, and thy ſons walk not in thy ways f: now * make us a king to judge us g, like all the nations h.

* Hoſ. 13. 10. Act. 13. 21.

f They feared, that Samuel would not live long; and that either he through infirmity and indulgence might leave the Government in his Sons hands; or that they would Invade and keep it, after their Father's Death; and therefore they joyntly make their Complaints againſt them, and procure their removal from their places. Thus they are brought low, and cruſhed by thoſe very wicked ways by which they deſigned to Advance and Eſtabliſh themſelves. So true is it, That Honeſty is the beſt Policy, and Unrighteouſneſs the greateſt Folly. g Their concluſion out-run their Premiſes, and their Deſires exceed their Reaſons or Arguments, which extended no further than to the removal of Samuel's Sons from their places, and the procuring ſome other juſt and prudent aſſiſtance to Samuel's Age. Nor was the grant of their Deſire a Remedy for their Diſeaſe, but rather an aggravation of it. For the Sons of their King might and were likely to be as corrupt as Samuel's Sons; and, if they were, would not be ſo eaſily removed as theſe were. h i.e. As moſt of the Nations about us have. But there was not the like reaſon; becauſe God had ſeparated them from all other Nations, and cautioned them againſt the imitation of their Examples, and had taken them into his own immediate Care and Government; which priviledge other Nations had not.

6 ¶ But the thing † diſpleaſed Samuel i, when they ſaid, Give us a king to judge us: and Samuel prayed unto the LORD k.

† Heb. was evil in the eyes of Samuel.

i Not their complaint of his Sons, but their deſire of a King, as is apparent from the following Words, and from the whole courſe of the Story. Which was ſo grievous to him; partly, becauſe of their Injuſtice and Ingratitude to himſelf, whoſe Government, though it had been ſo ſweet and beneficial to them, they plainly ſhew themſelves weary of; and principally, becauſe God was hereby diſhonoured and provoked, by that diſtruſt of God, and that vain-glory and ambition, and that itch after Changes, which were the manifeſt cauſes of this Deſire; and becauſe of that great ſervitude and miſery, which he wiſely foreſaw the People would hereby bring upon themſelves, as he particularly informs them, v. 11, &c. k For the Pardon of their Sin, and deſire of direction and help from God in this great affair.

7 And the LORD ſaid unto Samuel, Hearken unto the voice of the people l in all that they ſay unto thee: for they have not rejected thee m, but * have rejected me n, that I ſhould not reign over them o.

* Chap. 10. 19.

l God grants their deſire in Anger, and for their Puniſhment, as is affirmed, Hoſ. 13. 11. Compare Numb. 22. 13, 20. Deut. 1. 22. Pſal. 77. 20. m i.e. Not thee only, nor principally. Compare Gen. 32. 23. Exod. 16. 7. Hoſ. 6. 6. Mat. 10. 20. n This injury and contumely, reflects chiefly upon me and my Government. o To wit, by my immediate and peculiar Government, which was the great honour, ſafety, and happineſs of this People, if they had had wit to know it, or hearts to prize it. And all the Infelicities of Iſrael, under this kind of Government, did not proceed from the Nature of the Government, but from the ungovernableneſs and wickedneſs of the People, which, they might be ſure, would produce the ſame or greater Calamities under their Kingly Government. Qu. Firſt, Did not God Reign over them when they had Kings? Anſ. Yes, in a general way, but not in ſuch a peculiar manner as he did by the Judges, who were generally raiſed and called by Gods particular Appointment, Endowed and Sanctified by his Spirit, directed and aſſiſted by his ſpecial Providence upon all Emergencies; whereas all things were for the moſt part contrary in their Kings. Qu. Secondly, Was it ſimply unlawful for the People to deſire a King? Anſ. No, as appears from Deut. 17. 14. but herein was their Sin, That they deſired it upon ſinful grounds, of which ſee on v. 7. and in an impetuous manner, and at an unſeaſonable time, and without asking Leave or Advice from God; which in ſo weighty and difficult a Caſe they could not neglect without great Sin.

8 According to all the works which they have done ſince the day that I brought them up out of Egypt, even unto this day, wherewith they have forſaken me, and ſerved other gods: ſo do they alſo unto thee p.

p Thou fareſt no worſe than my ſelf. This he ſpeaks for Samuel's Comfort and Vindication.

9 Now therefore ‖ hearken unto their voice: ‖ howbeit, yet proteſt ſolemnly unto them q, and ſhew them the manner of the king r that ſhall reign over them.

q That, if it be poſſible, thou mayſt yet prevent their Sin and Miſery. r i.e. Of the Kings which they deſire like the Kings of other Nations. He ſpeaks not of the juſt Authority, or the right of their Kings, but of their Practice, as is evident from divers of the following particulars, which are expreſly forbidden and condemned in Scripture, as we ſhall ſee.

10 ¶ And Samuel told all the words of the LORD unto the people, that asked of him a king.

11 And he ſaid, This will be * the manner of the king that ſhall reign over you: he * will take your ſons ſ, and appoint them for himſelf, for his charets, and to be his horſemen t, and ſome ſhall run before his charets.

* Chap 14. 52.

ſ To wit, Injuriouſly and by Violence, as this Hebrew word is oft uſed, as Gen. 20. 3. and 27. 36. Job 5. 5. and ſo it muſt be here; becauſe otherwiſe the King would have no more priviledge than any of his Subjects; for any Man might take a Son with his own or Parents conſent. t Or, and for his Horſes, for ſo the Hebrew word Paraſh, ſometimes ſignifies, as Iſa. 21. 7, 9. and 28. 28. to ride his Horſes.

12 And he will appoint him u captains over thouſands, and captains over fifties, and will ſet them to ear his ground, and to reap his harveſt x, and to make his inſtruments of war, and inſtruments of his charets y.

Heb. To, or for himſelf; Emphatically, i.e. for his own fancy, or glory, or conveniency, or evil deſign, and not only when the neceſſities of the Kingdom or Commonwealth require it, as the Judges did. And though this might ſeem to be no incumbrance, as it is here repreſented, but an honour and advantage to the Perſons ſo advanced, yet even in them that Honour was accompanied with great Dangers, and pernicious Snares of many kinds, which thoſe faint ſhadows of Glory could not recompenſe; and as to the publick, their Pomp and Power proved very Burthenſome and Oppreſſive to the People, whoſe Lands and Fruits were taken from them, and beſtowed upon theſe, for the ſupport of their State, as it follows below, v. 14, 15. x At is own pleaſure, and without their conſent, when poſſibly their own Fields required all their time and pains. y He will preſs them for all ſorts of his work, and that upon his own terms.

13 And he will take your daughters z to be confectioners, and to be cooks, and to be bakers.

z Which would be more grievous to their Parents, and more dangerous to themſelves, becauſe of the tenderneſs of that Sex, and liableneſs to many injuries.

14 And * he will take your fields a, and your vineyards, and your oliveyards, even the beſt of them, and give them to his ſervants b.

* 1 King. 21. 7.

a To wit, by fraud or force, as Ahab did from Naboth. b He will not only take the Fruits of your Lands for his own uſe, but will take away your Poſſeſſions to give to his Servants.

15 And he will take the tenth c of your ſeed, and of your vineyards, and give to his † officers d, and to his ſervants.

c Beſides the ſeveral Tenths which God hath reſerved for his Service and Servants, he will, when he pleaſeth, impoſe another Tenth upon you. d Heb. to his Eunuchs, which may be properly underſtood, and may imply a further injury, that he ſhould againſt the command of God, make ſome of his People Eunuchs; and take thoſe into his Court and Favour, which God would have caſt out of the Congregation.

16 And he will take your men-ſervants, and your maid-ſervants, and your goodlieſt young men, and your aſſes, and put them to his work e.

e By conſtraint, and without ſufficient recompence.

17 He will take the tenth of your ſheep, and ye ſhall be his ſervants f.

f i.e. He ſhall uſe you like Slaves, and deprive you of that Liberty which you now enjoy.

18 And ye ſhall cry out in that day g, becauſe of the king which ye ſhall have choſen you: and the LORD will not hear you in that day h.

g Ye ſhall bitterly mourn for the ſad Effects of this inordinate deſire of a King. h Becauſe you will not hear him, nor obey his Counſel in this Day. Compare Prov. 1. 24, &c. Zech. 7. 13.

19 ¶ Nevertheleſs, the people refuſed to obey the voice of Samuel: and they ſaid, Nay i, but there ſhall be a king over us k:

i i.e. Theſe things ſhall never be, theſe are but vain Suppoſitions to affright us from our purpoſe. Thus they are not aſhamed to give Samuel the lye, of whoſe Modeſty, Integrity, and Prophetical Spirit, they had ſo great aſſurance, as if he had feigned thoſe pretences meerly to keep the power in his own and his Sons hands k We will have a King, whatſoever it coſt us, although all thy Predictions ſhould be verified.

20 That we alſo may be like all the nations l, and that our king may judge us † and go out before us †, and fight our battels.

l Woſul Stupidity! Whereas it was their Glory and Happineſs that they were unlike all other Nations, Numb. 23. 9. Deut. 33. 28. as in other glorious Priviledges, ſo eſpecially in this, That the Lord was their only and immediate King and Lawgiver.

21 And Samuel heard all the words of the people, and he rehearſed them in the ears of the LORD m.

m He repeated them privately between God and himſelf; partly, for his own Vindication and Comfort: and partly, as a Foundation for his Prayers to God, for Direction and Aſſiſtance in this difficult caſe.

22 And the LORD ſaid to Samuel, Hearken unto their voice, and make them a king. And Samuel ſaid unto the men of Iſrael, Go ye every man unto his city n.

n Betake your ſelves to your ſeveral occaſions, till you hear more from me in this Matter. For God hath heard your words, and will give way to your Irregular and Obſtinate deſire; and accordingly I ſhall wait upon God for the determination of the Perſon, which he hath wholly reſerved to himſelf, as for Judges, ſo for the King alſo, Deut. 17. 15. and for the Regulation of all the Circumſtances.

CHAP. IX.

The Genealogy of Kiſh. 1. Saul's Perſon. 2. He is ſent to ſeek his Father's Aſſes. 3. He Travels through the Country, and finds them not, 4, 5. By the Counſel of his ſervant, 6,—10. And the direction of young Maidens, 11,—14. According to God's Revelation, 15,—17. He cometh to Samuel, who meets him: Entertaineth him at the Feaſt: Telleth him the Aſſes were found, and he ſhould be King, 18,—20. Saul's Amazement, 21. Samuel gives him the higheſt place: And a peculiar Diſh: Eats with him, 22,—24. After ſecret Communication leadeth him on the way: The ſervant goes before: Saul ſtands ſtill with Samuel, 25,—27.

NOW there was a man of Benjamin, whoſe name was * Kiſh a, the ſon of Abiel, the ſon of Zeror, the ſon of Bechorath, the ſon of Aphiah, a ‖ Benjamite b, a mighty man of ‖ power c.

* Ch. 14. 51. 1 Chron. 8. 33.
‖ Or, the ſon of a man of Jemini.
‖ Or, Subſtance.

a Obj. His Name was Ner, 1 Chron. 8. 33. and 9. 39. Anſ. Either his Father had two Names, as was uſual among the Hebrews: or Kiſh was really his Father that begot him; and Ner, the Brother of Kiſh, 1 Sam. 14. 51. 1 Chron. 9. 36. is called his Father, becauſe upon the Death of Kiſh, he took the care of his Education, and brought him up as his own Son. b Heb. the Son of a man of Jemini; i.e. either of Benjamin: or of a Place, or of a Man called Jemini. c i.e. A man of great courage and ſtrength; which tends to Saul's commendation: Otherwiſe, a Man of great Wealth. But that ſeems confuted by Saul's words below, v. 21. and the Peoples contempt of him, chap. 10. 27.

2 And he had a ſon whoſe name was Saul, † a choice young man, and a goodly d: and there was not a man of the children of Iſrael a goodlier perſon than he: from his ſhoulders and upward, he was higher than any of the people e.

† Heb. choice and goodly. Gr. a man proper and goodly.

d Heb. good, i.e. comely and perſonable, as that word is uſed, Gen. 6. 2. as evil is put for deformed, Gen. 41. 19. e A tall Stature was much valued in a King in Ancient Times, and in the Eaſtern Countries.

3 And the aſſes of Kiſh, Saul's father, were loſt: and Kiſh ſaid to Saul his Son, Take now one of the ſervants with thee, and ariſe, go ſeek the aſſes f.

f Which were there of great price and uſe, Judg 10. 4. and 12. 14. becauſe of the ſcarcity of Horſes, Deut. 17. 16. and therefore not held unworthy of Saul's ſeeking, at leaſt in thoſe ancient Times, when Simplicity, Humility, and Induſtry, were in faſhion among Perſons of Quality.

4 And he paſſed through mount Ephraim g, and paſſed through the land of Shaliſha, but they found them not: then they paſſed through the land of Shalim, and there they were not: and he paſſed through the land † of the Benjamites, but they found them not.

g A part of the Tribe of Ephraim, which bordered upon Benjamin; and therefore they could ſoon paſs out of the one into the other, and back again, as they ſaw cauſe.

5 And when they were come to the land of Zuph h, Saul ſaid to his ſervant that was with him, Come, and let us return, leſt my father leave caring for the aſſes, and take thought for us.

h In which was Ramah, called alſo Ramah or Ramathaim Sophim, the place of Samuel's Birth and Habitation, 1 Sam. 1. 1. and 7. 17.

6 And he ſaid unto him, Behold now, there is in this city a man of God i, and he is an honourable man ∴ : all that he ſaith, cometh ſurely to paſs k: now let us go thither; peradventure he can ſhew us our way that we ſhould go l.

i A Prophet as that Phraſe is uſed, 1 Sam. 2. 27. Joſ. 14. 6. Judg. 13. 6. ∴ One of great Reputation for his Skill and Faithfulneſs. k His Declaration of things ſecret or future, are always certain and confirmed by the Event. l The Courſe we ſhould take to find the Aſſes. He ſaith, peradventure, becauſe he doubted whether ſo great a Prophet would ſeek, or God would grant him a Revelation concerning ſuch mean matters: Although ſometimes God was pleaſed herein to condeſcend to his People, to cut off all pretence or occaſion of ſeeking to Witches or Heatheniſh divination. See 1 Kings 14. 2. 2 Kings 1. 3.

7 Then ſaid Saul to his ſervant, But behold, if we go, what ſhall we bring the man? for the bread † is ſpent in our veſſels m, and there is not a preſent to bring to the man of God n: What † have we?

† Heb. is gone out of, &c.
† Heb. is with us.

m This he ſaith, becauſe Bread was not unuſually given by way of preſent, as we ſee 1 Sam. 10. 3, 4. Or Bread is put for all manner of Proviſions, as is frequent, and among theſe they might have ſomething not unfit, in theſe plain Times, to make a Preſent of, as Cluſters of Raiſins, or Cakes of Figs, ſuch as Abigail preſented to David, 1 Sam. 25. 18. See alſo 1 Kings 14. 3. 2 Kings 4. 42. n Such Preſents were then made to the Prophets, 1 Kings 14. 2, 3. 2 Kings 4. 42. and 8. 8. either as a Teſtimony of Reſpect to him as their Superiour; upon which account Subjects made Preſents to their Kings, 1 Sam. 10. 27. And the Perſians never came to their King, without ſome Gift: or, as a grateful acknowledgment of his Favour: or, for the ſupport of the Prophets themſelves: or, of the Sons of the Prophets: or, of other Perſons in want, known to them.

8 And the ſervant anſwered Saul again, and ſaid, Behold, † I have here at hand the fourth part of a ſhekel of ſilver o, that will I give to the man of God to tell us our way.

† Heb. there is found in my hand.

o Which was near a Groat. Which, though now it may ſeem a contemptible Gift, yet in thoſe Ancient Times it was certainly of far more worth, and better accepted than now it would be, when the Covetouſneſs, and Pride, and Luxury of men, hath raiſed their expectations and deſires to far greater things.

9 (Before time in Iſrael, when a man went to enquire of God p, thus he ſpake, Come, and let us go to the Seer: for he that is now called a Prophet, was before time called a Seer q.)

p Or, a Man of God, which ſignified the ſame thing. q Becauſe he did diſcern, and could diſcover things ſecret and unknown to others. And theſe are the words, Either, Firſt, of ſome later Sacred Writer, which, after Samuel's Death, inſerted this Verſe. Or, Secondly, Of Samuel, who, being probably 50 or 60 Years Old at the Writing of this Book, and ſpeaking of the ſtate of things in his firſt Days, might well call it before-time. Or rather, Thirdly, Of Saul's Servant, who might be now ſtricken in Years, and might ſpeak this either by his knowledge of what was in his Juvenile Years, or upon the Information of his Father or Anceſtors. And ſo it is a fit Argument to perſwade Saul to go to the Man of God, that he might ſhew them their way, and where the Aſſes were, becauſe he was likely to inform them; for the Prophets were anciently called Seers, becauſe they knew and could reveal hidden things. And the meaning is, that anciently they were not vulgarly called Prophets, but Seers only; whereas now, and afterwards, they were called Seers, yet they were more commonly called Prophets.

10 Then ſaid Saul to his ſervant, † Well ſaid, come let us go: ſo they went unto the city, where the man of God was.

† Heb. thy word is good.

11 ¶ And as they went up † the hill to the city, they found young maidens going out r to draw water, and ſaid unto them, Is the Seer here?

† Heb. the aſcent of the city.

r i.e. Out of the City, and down to the bottom of the Hill, where the Fountain or River was.

12 And they anſwered them, and ſaid, He is: behold, he is before you, make haſte now: for he came to day to the city ſ; for there is a † ſacrifice t of the people u to day in the high place x.

ſ She ſo ſpeaks, though this was his own conſtant habitation, becauſe he had been travelling abroad, poſſibly in his Circuit, deſcribed 1 Sam. 7. 16, 17. and was now returned to his own Houſe in Ramah, as he uſed to do, and ſo ſhe implies they come in a good and ſeaſonable time to meet with him. t Otherwiſe, Feaſt: But it ſeems to be underſtood of a Sacrifice. Firſt, Becauſe ſo the Hebrew word ſignifies moſt properly, and moſt frequently. Secondly, Becauſe this Eating was in the High place, which was the common place for Sacrifices, but not for private Feaſts. Thirdly, The Prophets preſence was not ſo neceſſary for a Feaſt, as for a Sacrifice. u So this Sacrifice is called, becauſe this was a publick Solemnity, and poſſibly the New Moon, when the People brought ſeveral Sacrifices; to wit, Peace-offerings, whereof part fell to the Offerer's ſhare; and of theſe parts united together, they here made a common Feaſt; not without Samuel's direction, who being forewarned the day before, by God, of Saul's coming, made this Feaſt more ſolemn for his entertainment, v. 22, 23, 24. x Upon the Hill mentioned, v. 11. and near the Altar which Samuel built for this kind of uſe, 1 Sam. 7. 17. by Divine Diſpenſation, as was there Noted. Otherwiſe to Sacrifice in High places was forbidden by the Law, after the Building of the Tabernacle.

13 Aſſoon as ye be come into the city, ye ſhall ſtraightway find him y, before he go up to the high place to eat z: for the people will not eat until he come, becauſe he doth bleſs the ſacrifice a, and afterwards they eat that be bidden: Now therefore get ye up b, for about † this time ye ſhall find him.

y At Home and at leiſure. z The Relicks of the Sacrifices, according to the manner. a i. e. Either, Firſt, The Meat left of the Sacrifice, which is the matter of the following Feaſt; as this is commonly underſtood. Or rather, Secondly, The Sacrifice it ſelf: For what reaſon is there to depart from the proper ſignification of the Word? For that the Sacrifices under the Law were accompanied with Confeſſion, or Petition, or Thankſgiving, may be gathered from divers places of Scripture, as Levit. 5. 5. aud 16. 21. Numb. 5. 7. Luk. 1. 10. And who ſo proper to perform this work, as Samuel, an eminent Prophet? And the Bleſſing of this Sacrifice ſeems to have conſiſted both of Thankſgiving, this being a Thank-Offering, and of Prayer to God for his acceptance, Pſal. 20. 3. b With ſpeed, leſt he be ſat down before you come.

14 And they went up into the city: and when they were come into the city, behold, Samuel came out c againſt them, for to go up to the high place.

c Out of his own Houſe, juſt as they paſſed by.

15 ¶ * Now the LORD had † told Samuel in his ear d, a day before Saul came e, ſaying,

* Ch. 15. 1. Act. 13. 21.
† Heb. uncovered the ear of Samuel.

d i.e. Secretly. e That he might prepare himſelf for Saul's reception.

16 To morrow about this time I will ſend thee a man f out of the land of Benjamin, and thou ſhalt anoint him to be captain over my people Iſrael, that he may ſave my people out of the hand of the Philiſtines g: for I have looked upon my people h, becauſe their cry i is come unto me.

f I will by my ſecret Providence ſo diſpoſe of matters, and of the Hearts of Saul and his Father, that Saul ſhall come to thee, though with another Deſign. g For though they were now moſt preſſed with the Ammonites, as we read chap. 12. 12. yet they looked upon theſe as a Land-Flood, which they hoped would be ſoon up, and ſoon down again: but the Philiſtines, their conſtant, inveterate, and neareſt Enemies, they moſt dreaded. And from theſe Saul did in ſome meaſure ſave them, and ſhould have ſaved them much more, if his and the Peoples manifold Sins had not hindred it. h To wit, with Compaſſion and Reſolution to help them. An uſual Synedoche. i i.e. Their earneſt Prayers to me for help.

17 And when Samuel ſaw Saul, the LORD ſaid unto him k, Behold the man whom I ſpake to thee of; this ſame ſhall † reign over my people.

† Heb. reſtrain in, &c.

k In his Ear, as before, v. 15. by ſecret inſtinct, ſo as none but he could hear it.

18 Then Saul drew near to Samuel in the gate l, and ſaid, Tell me, I pray thee, where the Seers houſe is.

l The Gate, either Firſt, Of Samuel's Houſe. But he was come out thence before, v. 14. Or rather, Secondly, Of the City, for the word Gate being put by its ſelf, according to reaſon and common uſe, muſt be underſtood of the moſt eminent in its kind, which the Gate of the City is. And through this Gate Samuel ſeems now to have been paſſing to go to the High-Place, which probably was without the City: and there he makes a ſtand, to hear what theſe Perſons now approaching to him, were about to ſpeak.

19 And Samuel anſwered Saul, and ſaid, I am the Seer: Go up before me unto the high place, for ye ſhall eat with me to day, and to morrow I will let thee go, and will tell thee all that is in thine heart m.

m Either all that thou deſireſt to know, as concerning the Aſſes: or rather, the ſecret thoughts of thy heart, or ſuch actions as none know but God and thy own heart; that ſo thou mayſt be aſſured of the truth and certainty of that which I am to acquaint thee with. And this might be done, though it be not here particularly related.

20 And as for thine aſſes that were loſt † three days ago, ſet not thy mind on them n, for they are found: And † on whom is all the deſire of Iſrael o? is it not on thee, and on all thy fathers houſe p?

† Heb. to day three days.
† Gr. for whom are the deſirable things.

n Trouble not thy mind about them. o Who is he that ſhall be that Thing or Perſon which all Iſrael deſire to have, to wit, a King? p That Honour is deſigned for thee, and, after thy Death, for thy Family or Poſterity, if by thy Sin thou doſt not cut off the Entail.

21 And Saul anſwered and ſaid, Am not I a * Benjamite, of the ſmalleſt of the tribes of Iſrael q? and my family the leaſt of all the families of the tribe of Benjamin r? wherefore then ſpeakeſt thou † ſo to me ſ?

* Pſal. 68. 27.
† Heb. according to this word.

q For ſo indeed this was, having been all cut off except 600, Judg. 20. which Blow they never recovered, and therefore they were ſcarce reckoned as an intire Tribe, but only as a Remnant or Fragment of a Tribe; and, being Ingrafted into Judah, in the diviſion between the Ten Tribes and the Two, they in ſome ſort loſt their Name, and they, together with Judah, were accounted but one Tribe, as 1 Kings 11. 32, &c. r i.e. One of the leaſt; obſcure and inconſiderable, in compariſon of divers others. Whence it may ſeem that Saul's Family was not ſo Noble and Wealthy, as ſome imagine. See on v. 1. ſ Why doſt thou feed me with vain hopes of the Kingdom?

22 And Samuel took Saul and his ſervant t, and brought them into the parlour, and made them ſit in the chiefeſt place u among them that were bidden, which were about thirty perſons.

t Whom he honoured for Saul's ſake: thereby both giving all the Gueſts occaſion to think how great that perſon was, or ſhould be, whoſe very Servant was advanced above the Chief perſons of the City, who were doubtleſs preſent upon this occaſion; and ſhewing how far himſelf was from envying Saul that Honour and Power, which was to be tranſlated from him to Saul. u Thereby to raiſe all their expectation, and to prepare them for giving that Honour to Saul, which his approaching Dignity required.

23 And Samuel ſaid unto the cook, Bring the portion which I gave thee x, of which I ſaid unto thee, Set it by thee.

x Or, I appointed or diſpoſed to thee; i.e. which I bad thee reſerve for this uſe.

24 And the cook took up the ſhoulder y, and that which was upon it z, and ſet it before Saul: and Samuel ſaid, Behold, that which is || left a, ſet it before thee, and eat: for unto this time b hath it been kept for thee, ſince I ſaid c, I have invited the people d: ſo Saul did eat with Samuel that day.

y To wit, the left Shoulder, for the right Shoulder was the Prieſts, Lev. 7. 32, 33. This he gives him, either, Firſt, As the beſt and nobleſt part of the remainders of the Sacrifice: the beſt parts being uſually given by the Maſter of the Feaſt to ſuch Gueſts as were moſt honourable, or beſt beloved, as Gen. 43. 34. Or, Secondly, As a ſecret Symbol or Sign of that Burden which was to be laid upon Saul, and of that ſtrength which was neceſſary for the bearing of it; the Shoulder being both the ſeat of burdens, and the ſubject of ſtrength. z Something which the Cook by Samuel's order was to put upon it when it was dreſt, either for Ornament, or in the nature of a Sauce. a To wit, left of the Sacrifice; but ſo all, or moſt, of the reſt of their Proviſions were left: Or rather, reſerved, or laid by, by my order, for thy eating; when the reſt of the Meat was ſent up, and diſpoſed of as the Cook pleaſed. b Till thou ſhouldſt come hither and ſit down here: whereby thou maiſt know that thy coming hither was not unknown to me, and was deſigned by God for an higher purpoſe. c To wit, to the Cook, who was before mentioned, as the perſon to whoſe Care this was committed. d i.e. I have invited or deſigned ſome perſons, for whom I reſerve this part. For ſince the word People is not here taken properly, but for ſome particular perſons of the people, which were not in all above thirty, v. 22. why may not the ſame word be underſtood of two or three perſons whom Samuel ſpecially invited, to wit, Saul and his Servant? So ſome learned Men underſtand this word People, of three Men, 2 King. 18. 36. And they further note, That in the Arabick, and Æthiopick, and Perſian Languages, (all which are near a-kin, both to themſelves, and to the Hebrew, and do oft-times communicate their ſignification each to other:) the word that ſignifies People, is oft uſed for ſome few particular Perſons. Or, if the word People be meant of the Chief of the People, mentioned above, v. 22. then Samuel was the Principal Author of this Sacrifice and Feaſt, and it was not a Sacrifice of the People, as it is rendred v. 12. but a Sacrifice and Feaſt made by Samuel for the People, as it ſhould be rendred there: and the ſence is, When I firſt ſpake or ſent word to the Cook, that I had invited the People, firſt to joyn with me in my Sacrifice, and then to partake with me of the Feaſt, I then bad him reſerve this part for thy uſe.

25 ¶ And when they were come down from the high place into the city, Samuel communed with Saul e upon the top of the houſe f.

e Concerning the Kingdom deſigned to him by God, and his Duty to expect it patiently, till God actually called him to it; and to adminiſter it Piouſly, and Juſtly, and Valiantly. f Which was flat after the manner, Deut. 22. 8. and ſo fit for walking, and for ſecret Prayers, Dan. 6. 10. Acts 10. 9. or any private and familiar Diſcourſes among Friends.

26 and they aroſe early: and it came to paſs about the ſpring of the day, that Samuel called Saul to the top of the houſe g, ſaying †, Up, that I may ſend thee away h: and Saul aroſe, and they went out both of them, he and Samuel abroad i.

† After other diſcourſe.

k That thou and I may ſpeak privately of the matter of the Kingdom. Which Samuel hitherto endeavoured to conceal, leſt he ſhould be thought now to impoſe a King upon them, as before he denied one to them; and that it might appear by the Lot mentioned in the next Chapter, that the Kingdom was given to Saul by God's Deſtination, and not by Samuel's Contrivance. l i.e. A Meſſage delivered to me from God, which now I ſhall impart to thee.

CHAP. X.

Samuel anointeth Saul, 1. Confirms him by prediction of three ſigns, 2,—8. Saul propheſies, 9,—13. He cometh to his uncle: telleth him what Samuel had ſaid concerning the aſſes, but concealeth the matter of the Kingdom, 14,—16. Samuel aſſembleth the people at Mizpeh, 17,—20. Saul is choſen king by lot; but hideth himſelf; is diſcovered by God. His ſtature, 21,—23. Samuel preſents him to the people, who receive him with ſhouting, 24. Samuel writeth the manner of the kingdom in a Book, 25. God inſpires the people with reverence towards Saul: but the children of Belial deſpiſe him, 26, 27.

THen Samuel took a vial of oil, and poured it upon his head a, and kiſſed him b, and ſaid, Is it not becauſe the LORD hath anointed thee to be captain over his inheritance c?

a Which was the uſual Rite in the Deſignation, as of Prieſts and Prophets, ſo alſo of Kings, as 1 Sam. 16. 1, 13. 1 King. 1. 39. 2 King. 9. 1, 3, 6. whereby was ſignified the pouring forth of the Gifts of God's Spirit upon him, to enable him for the Adminiſtration of his Office, which he might expect, and ſhould receive upon the diſcharge of his Duty. b Partly in token of that Reverence which he did owe, and that Subjection which he and all the People were ſhortly to perform to him, whereof Kiſſing was a ſign, as Gen. 41. 40. 1 King. 19. 18. and partly, as a Teſtimony of his ſincere Friendſhip and Affection to him, and how far he was from envying his Succeſſor in the Supreme Dignity. c i.e. Over his own peculiar People. Whereby he admoniſheth Saul, That this People were not ſo much his, as Gods; and that he was not to rule and manage them according to his own Will and Pleaſure, but according to the Will and Mind of God.

2 When thou art departed from me to day, then thou ſhalt find two men by * Rachels ſepulchre, in the borders of Benjamin d, at Zelzah: and they will ſay unto thee, The aſſes which thou wenteſt to ſeek, are found: and lo, thy father hath left † the care of the aſſes, and ſorroweth for you, ſaying, What ſhall I do for my ſon?

* Gen. 35. 19, 20.

† Heb. the buſineſs.

d In the way to Bethlehem, Gen. 35. 19. which City was in Judah; and her Sepulchre might be either in Judah, or in Benjamin; for the poſſeſſions of thoſe two Tribes were bordering one upon another, and oft intermixed together. See Joſ. 18. 11.

3 Then ſhalt thou go on forward from thence, and thou ſhalt come to the plain of Tabor e, and there ſhall meet thee three men going up to God to Bethel f, one carrying three kids, and another carrying three loaves of bread g, and another carrying a bottle of wine h.

e Not that at the foot of Mount Tabor, which was far from theſe parts; but another belonging to ſome other Place, or Man, called Tabor. f Properly ſo called, which was in Ephraim, where there was a noted high Place, famous for Jacob's Viſion there, Gen. 28. 19. where it is probable they offered Sacrifices, in this confuſed ſtate of things, when the Ark was in one place, and the Tabernacle, if not deſtroyed, in another. Or, to the Houſe of God; i. e. to Kiriath-jearim, where the Ark, the habitation of God, now was, 1 Sam. 7. 1, 2, 16. g Which might be offered, either by themſelves, as Levit. 2. 4. or with other Sacrifices. h Which was poured forth in Drink-Offerings. See Lev. 23. 15. Numb. 15. 5.

4 And they will † ſalute thee, and give thee two loaves of bread i, which thou ſhalt receive of their hand.

† Heb. ask thee of peace.

i Two of thoſe three deſigned for Sacrifice, ſuppoſing they could eaſily procure a ſupply of other Loaves at Bethel. But the more ſtrange the Preſent was, the more fit it was for a ſign of God's extraordinary Providence in Saul's Affairs.

5 After that thou ſhalt come to the hill of God k, where is the gariſon of the Philiſtines: and it ſhall come to paſs, when thou art come thither to the city l, that thou ſhalt meet a company of prophets m coming down from the high place, n, with a pſaltery, and a tabret, and a pipe, and a harp before them o, and they ſhall propheſie p.

k An Hill near Geba, or Gibeah of Benjamin, where a Gariſon of Philiſtines was, 1 Sam. 13. 3. called here the Hill of God, becauſe it was a place devoted to the Service of God; either for Sacrifice, this being an high place, as it here follows; or, for a School or College of Prophets. l Adjoyning to that Hill. m By Prophets here, and in ſuch like places, he underſtands Perſons that did wholly devote themſelves to Religious Studies and Exerciſes, ſuch as Preaching, Praying, Praiſing of God, &c. For the term of Propheſying is not only given to the moſt eminent act of it, viz. foretelling things to come; but alſo to Preaching, as Rom. 12. 6. 1 Cor. 14. 31, 32. 1 Theſſ 5. 20. and to the making or ſinging of Pſalms, or Songs of Praiſe to God, as 1 Chron. 25. 1, 2, 3. And they that wholly attended upon theſe things, are oft called Sons of the Prophets, which were commonly combined into Companies or Colleges, as 2 King. 2. 3, 5. that they might more conveniently edifie and aſſiſt one another in God's Work. Which Inſtitution God was pleaſed ſo far to honour and bleſs, that ſometimes he communicated unto thoſe Perſons the knowledge of future things, as 2 King. 2. 3, 5. n Where, either, their habitation was, or they had now been offering Sacrifice. And although they uſed to perform this following Exerciſe, either in their College, or in the place of their Sacrifices; yet now they did it in the deſcent of the Hill, which probably was beſide their Cuſtom, and therefore more proper for a ſign to Saul of a more than ordinary hand of God towards him. o Such Inſtruments of Muſick being then uſed by Prophets and other Perſons, for the exhilaration and excitation of their Spirits in God's Service. See 2 King. 3. 15. p Either ſing God's Praiſes, or ſpeak of the things of God.

6 And the ſpirit of the LORD will come upon thee q, and thou ſhalt propheſie with them, and ſhalt be turned into another man r.

q Heb. will leap or ruſh upon thee, to wit, for a ſeaſon. So it may be oppoſed to the Spirits reſting upon a Man, as Numb. 11. 25. Iſa. 11. 2. r i.e. Thou ſhalt be ſuddenly endowed and acted with another Spirit, filled with ſkill of Divine things, with Courage, and Wiſdom, and Magnanimity; and other qualifications befitting thy Dignity.

7 And † let it be when theſe ſigns s are come unto thee, † that thou do as occaſion ſhall ſerve thee t, for God is with thee.

† Heb. it ſhall come to paſs, that when theſe ſigns, &c. † Heb. do for thee as thine hand ſhall find.

s Which were certain Evidences of God's calling of him to the Kingdom, becauſe they were all future Contingencies, which none but God could infallibly know or foretel. t Heb. do what thy hand findeth to do; i.e. As thou ſhalt have a Call and Opportunity. He doth not intend that he ſhould take the Kingly Government upon him, before his Call to it was known to, and owned by the People, which had been prepoſterous and dangerous; but that he ſhould diſpoſe his Mind to a readineſs of undertakng any Publick Service when neceſſity required it, and he ſhould be called to his Office.

8 And thou ſhalt go down before me to Gilgal, and behold, I will come down unto thee, to offer burnt-offerings, and to ſacrifice ſacrifices of peace-offerings: * ſeven days ſhalt thou tarry till I come to thee u, and ſhew thee what thou ſhalt do.

* Chap. 13. 8.

u This, though now mentioned and commanded, yet was not immediately to be performed; as is evident, partly from the whole courſe of the Story, which ſhews, That Saul and Samuel, and the People, firſt met at Mizpeh, v. 17, &c. where Saul was choſen by God, and accepted by the People as King; and afterwards went to Gilgal once before the time here ſpoken of, chap. 11. 14, 15. and partly, by comparing this place with chap. 13. 8, &c. where we find Saul charged with the violation of this Command, two years after the giving of it, as appears from chap. 13. 1, 2. Queſt. How then is this to be underſtood? Anſw. 1. This may be given as a ſtanding Rule for Saul to obſerve while Samuel and he lived; That in caſe of any great future Difficulties, as the Invaſion of Enemies, Saul ſhould reſort to Gilgal, and call the people thither, and tarry there ſeven Days, which was but a reaſonable and neceſſary time for the gathering of the people, and for the coming of Samuel thither. For though this be related as but once done, chap. 13. yet Joſephus affirms, that it was to be conſtantly practiſed upon all ſuch occaſions. And Gilgal was choſen for this purpoſe as a very fit place; partly, becauſe that place was famous for the ſolemn renewing of the Covenant between God and Iſrael, Joſ. 4. and for other eminent Inſtances of God's Favour to them, the remembrance whereof was a notable Confirmation of their Faith; and partly, becauſe it was a very convenient place for the Tribes within and without Jordan to aſſemble, and conſult, and unite their Forces together upon ſuch occaſions. If you aſk, Why then Saul did not practiſe this Precept upon the firſt Invaſion of the Ammonites? It may be anſwered, That this was a Rule for Saul, when he and Samuel were aſunder, whereas they were together in that Expedition, chap. 11. 7. And further, That neceſſity did excuſe the violation of this Precept then, becauſe Saul could not wait for Samuel, nor forbear his Action for ſeven Days, as is evident from chap. 11. 3, 9, 10. Or, 2. (which I propoſe with ſubmiſſion to Learned and Judicious) This may be here added as another ſign to confirm his Faith, which having ſtrengthned by three foregoing ſigns, he now fortifies it by another ſign which was to follow afterwards; it being very uſual for God to give Men ſigns to confirm their Faith from future Events; as Exod. 3. 12. 2 King. 19. 29. Iſa. 7. 13, 14. So the meaning may be this; Another ſign I will add to ſtrengthen thy Faith; Thou ſhalt in due time, and upon a great occaſion which ſhall then happen, go down before me to Gilgal, and there I will come down unto thee to offer ——— Sacrifices, &c. But when thou cameſt thither, be ſure thou tarry there ſeven days, and then I will come, as I have ſaid, and give thee neceſſary Inſtructions and Aſſiſtance, as the matter ſhall require.

9 ¶ And it was ſo that when he had turned his † back to go from Samuel, God † gave him another heart: * and all thoſe ſigns came to paſs that day.

† Heb. ſhoulder. † Heb. turned. * See on v. 5.

10 And when they came thither to the hill, behold, a company of prophets met him, and the ſpirit of God came upon him, and he propheſied among them x.

x Then the accompliſhment of the two former ſigns is ſuppoſed, and this only of the third is expreſſed, becauſe this was more eminent and publick than the former; the other were only tranſient Acts, which paſſed in private between two or three Perſons meeting together, and paſſing by one another; but this was a more permanent and more notorious ſign, done in a more ſolemn manner, and before many, and very conſiderable Witneſſes.

11 And it came to paſs, when all that knew him before-time, ſaw, that behold, he propheſied among the prophets, then the people ſaid † one to another, What is this that is come unto the ſon of of Kiſh y? * is Saul z alſo among the prophets?

† Heb. a man to his neighbour. * Chap. 19. 24.

y What means this ſtrange and prodigious Event? z A Man never inſtructed, nor exerciſed in, nor enclined to theſe matters; a Man ever thought fitter to look to his Father's Aſſes, than to bear a part in the Sacred Exerciſes of the Prophets.

12 And one † of the ſame place a anſwered, and ſaid, But who is their father b? Therefore it became a proverb c, Is Saul alſo among the prophets?

† Heb. from thence.

a Heb. one from thence; i.e. One of the company there preſent, or one of the Prophets there propheſying. b Who is the Father of all theſe Prophets of whom you ſpeak, and among whom Saul now is one? Who is it that inſtructs and inſpires them with this holy Art, but God? They have it not from their Natural Parents, nor from their Civil Education, but by Inſpiration from God, who, when he pleaſeth, can inſpire Saul, or any other Man with the ſame ſkill. And therefore wonder not at this matter, but give God the glory of it. Father is here put for Teacher, or Inſtructor, as it is uſed; as Gen. 4. 20, 21. Matth. 23. 9. 1 Cor. 4. 15. And hence the Scholars are called ſons of the Prophets. c Uſed when any ſtrange, unlikely, or unexpected thing happened.

13 And when he had made an end of propheſying, he came to the high place d.

d Returning thither with the Prophets, there to praiſe God for theſe wonderful Favours, and to beg Counſel and Help from God in this high Buſineſs.

14 ¶ And Sauls uncle e ſaid unto him, and to his ſervant, Whither went ye? and he ſaid, To ſeek the aſſes: and when we ſaw that they were no where, we came to Samuel.

e Being there preſent, and obſerving this great alteration in his Nephew.

15 And Sauls uncle ſaid, Tell me, I pray thee, what Samuel ſaid unto you.

16 And Saul ſaid unto his uncle, He told us plainly that the aſſes were found. But of the matter of the kingdom, whereof Samuel ſpake, he told him not f.

f Partly in obedience to Samuel, who obliged him to ſecrecy: partly, from an humble Modeſty which appeared in him, v. 22. and partly, in Prudence, leſt by an unſeaſonable publiſhing of it, he ſhould raiſe Envy in ſome, Disbelief and Contempt in others, &c.

17 ¶ And Samuel called the people together unto the LORD g to Mizpeh h, g To appear, before the Lord. So he ſpeaks, either, 1. Becauſe the Ark was carried thither upon this occaſion. Or, 2. Becauſe God is preſent in all the Aſſemblies of his People, whereof this was an eminent one: See 2 Chron. 19. 6. Pſal. 82. 1. Or, 3. Becauſe they did in a manner erect a Tribunal for God; and intreated, and conſequently obtained his Preſence there to ſuperviſe and direct the whole buſineſs by his Sentence, which alſo he did, v. 19, &c. See of this Phraſe Judg. 11. 11. and 20. 1. h A City of Benjamin, Joſ. 13. 26. where all Iſrael had met before upon a publick and ſolemn occaſion, 1 Sam. 7. 5.

18 And ſaid unto the children of Iſrael, Thus ſaith the LORD God of Iſrael, I brought up Iſrael out of Egypt, and delivered you out of the hand of the Egyptians, and out of the hand of all kingdoms i, and of them that oppreſſed you.

i To wit, the neighbouring Kingdoms, which moleſted you from time to time.

19 And ye have this day rejected your God k, who himſelf ſaved you l out of all your adverſities, and your tribulations: and ye have ſaid unto him m, Nay, but ſet a king over us. Now therefore preſent your ſelves before the LORD by your tribes, and by your thouſands n.

k You this day declare, That you perſiſt in your former act of rejecting God's Government: See on chap. 8. 7. l Who by his own ſpecial Providence took Care to raiſe up Judges and Saviours for you, and to deliver you at all times, when you needed his help, and did not by your Sins obſtruct it. m i.e. Unto me his Prophet and Ambaſſador; and conſequently unto the Lord whom I repreſented, and in whoſe Name I ſpake and acted. n For each Tribe was divided into Thouſands, Numb. 10. 36. Deut. 33. 17. Joſh. 22. 14, 21. Mic. 5. 2. as in England, Counties are into Hundreds.

20 And when Samuel had cauſed all the tribes of Iſrael to come near o, the * tribe of Benjamin was taken ‖.

* Joſh. 7. 14, 16.

o Unto the place appointed for the caſting of Lots. ‖ Which Tribe was now preferred before Judah, becauſe the Kingdom was freely promiſed by God to Judah, and was to be given to him in love; but now the Kingdom was in a manner forced from God, and given to them in anger, Hoſ. 13. 11. and therefore conferred upon an obſcure Tribe.

21 When he had cauſed the tribe of Benjamin to come near by their families, the family of Matri was taken, and Saul the ſon of Kiſh was taken: and when they ſought him, he could not be found.

22 Therefore they enquired of the LORD p, further, if the man ſhould yet come thither: and the LORD anſwered, Behold, he hath hid himſelf among the ſtuff q.

p Either by Urim or Thummim, which was the uſual way of enquiry, Numb. 27. 21. 1 Sam. 23. 9. and 28. 6. Or by Samuel, who by his Prayer procured an anſwer. q Among the Carriages or Baggage of the People there aſſembled. This he might do, becauſe he either had, or at leaſt would be thought to have a modeſt ſence of his own unworthineſs, which was a likely way to commend him to the People.

23 And they ran and fetched him thence, and when he ſtood among the people, he was higher than any of the people, from his ſhoulders and upward.

24 And Samuel ſaid to all the people, See ye him whom the LORD hath choſen, that there is none like him among all the people r? and all the people ſhouted, and ſaid, † God ſave the king s.

† Heb. Let the king live.

r As to the height of his Bodily Stature, which was in it ſelf commendable in a King, and ſome kind of indication of great Endowments of Mind. s Heb. Let the king live; to wit, long and proſperouſly; for an afflicted Life is reputed a kind of Death, and is oft ſo called. Hereby they accept and own him for their King, and promiſe Subjection to him.

25 Then Samuel told the people the manner of the kingdom t, and wrote it in a book, and laid it up before the LORD u, and Samuel ſent all the people away, every man to his houſe.

t Not the manner of the King, of which he had ſpoken before, chap. 8. 11, &c. but of the Kingdom; to wit, the Laws and Rules by which the Kingly Government was to be managed; agreeable to thoſe mentioned Deut. 17. 16, &c. which peradventure Samuel did expound, and apply to their particular Caſe. u Before the Ark, or in the Sanctuary, where it was kept ſafe from depravation.

26 ¶ And Saul alſo went home to Gibeah x, and there went with him y a band of men, whoſe hearts God had touched z.

x Not being actually inaugurated into his Kingdom, he thought fit to retire to his former Habitation, and to live privately till he had an occaſion to ſhew himſelf in a more Publick and Illuſtrious manner, which he ſpeedily obtained. y To give him ſafe and honourable Conduct to his Houſe, though not to abide with him there, which did not ſuit with his preſent Circumſtances. z i. e. Either, 1. Diſpoſed or inclined to this work. Or, 2. Affected or renewed by his Grace and good Spirit working upon their Hearts; thoſe that feared God, and made conſcience of their Duty: for they are oppoſed to the children of Belial in the next Verſe. Theſe, though they did not deſire a King, as the generality of the People did; yet when God had given them a King, they were moſt forward to pay him that Reverence and Obedience which they owed him: both which proceeded from the ſame Principle, that they were in both caſes guided by God's Will; which was, that they ſhould not deſire a King in their Circumſtances; and yet, they ſhould obey him, when God had ſet a King over them.

27 But the children of Belial ſaid, How ſhall this man a ſave us? and they deſpiſed him, and brought him no preſents b: but ‖ he held his peace c.

‖ Or, he was as though he had been deaf.

a So mean a Perſon, and of the weakeſt of all the Tribes. b As Subjects in thoſe times and places uſed to do to their Kings: See 1 King. 10. 25. 2 Chron. 17. 5. Matth. 2. 11. and as Saul's mean Condition, wherewith they upbraided him, required. c Thereby manifeſting his Prudence and Clemency, which was of great uſe in the beginning of his Government.

CHAP. XI.

Nahaſh beſiegeth them of Jabeſh-Gilead: offereth them a reproachful condition: they have ſeven days granted them to conſult and ſeek relief: they ſend meſſengers to Saul, 1,—5. He is provoked: ſends meſſengers to all the Iſraelites to come in to their help: they come to the number of three hundred and thirty thouſand men, 6,—8. He ſends word to the beſieged, who deceive Nahaſh: who with his army is ſlain, 9,—11. The people are ready to ſlay Sauls enemies: in which he oppoſeth them: he is inveſted in the kingdom at Gilgal, 12,—15.

THen a Nahaſh the Ammonite b came up c, and encamped againſt Jabeſh-Gilead d: and all the men of Jabeſh ſaid unto Nahaſh, Make a covenant with us e, and we will ſerve thee f.

a i. e. About that time; this Particle being uſed in ſome Latitude, as is frequent: for that this happened before, and was the occaſion of their deſire of a King, may ſeem from chap. 12. 12. Although it is poſſible, that Nahaſh his preparation, and declared intention of Warring againſt them, might cauſe that deſire, and that Nahaſh did not actually come againſt them (which is here related) till their King was choſen. b Either the ſame with him, 2 Sam. 10. 2. or his Father and Predeceſſor. c To War, probably to revenge and to recover their former great loſs by Jephthah, Judg. 11. 33. d Which was beyond Jordan, and near the Ammonites, who dwelt in part of Arabia. e To wit, upon good Conditions, ſo as we ſhall enjoy our Religion and Properties. f In other things we will be thy Subjects and Tributaries. The occaſion of this offer was, that they ſaw no likelihood of relief from their Brethren the Iſraelites in Canaan, who were remote from them, and then weak and divided, and ſcarce able to defend themſelves from the Philiſtines.

2 And Nahaſh the Ammonite anſwered them, On this condition will I † make a covenant with you, that I may thruſt out all your right eyes g, and lay it for a reproach upon all Iſrael.

† Heb cut. See Exod. 23. 32. Gen. 15. 18. Jer 34. 18.

g Partly for a Reproach, as it here follows; and partly, to diſable them from managing offenſive Weapons in Battel; for their left Eye ſerved only, or chiefly for Defence, being covered by thoſe large Shields which then they uſed, and held in their left Hand. He leaves them one Eye, that they might be fit to ſerve him in any mean and baſe Office.

3 And the elders of Jabeſh ſaid unto him, † Give us ſeven days reſpite h, that we may ſend meſſengers unto all the coaſts of Iſrael: and then, if there be no man to ſave us, we will come out to thee.

† Heb. forbear us.

h Which it is very probable, and Joſephus and others affirm, That Nahaſh granted, out of a fooliſh ſelf-confidence, and contempt of the broken Condition of the Iſraelites, which he thought utterly unable to give them any relief; at leaſt, in ſo ſhort a time.

4 ¶ Then came the meſſengers to Gibeah of Saul i, and told the tidings in the ears of the people: and all the people lift up their voices, and wept k.

i Parly, becauſe it was not far from them; and partly, becauſe it belonged to the Benjamites, who had a ſpecial Obligation to take more care of that Place from whence they had their Wives, Judg. 21. 10, &c. And partly, becauſe Saul, their new choſen King, was there. k Both in compaſſion towards them, and for fear of themſelves, leſt it ſhould ſhortly be their own Lot.

5 And behold, Saul came after the herd out of the field l, and Saul ſaid, What aileth the people that they weep? and they told him the tidings of the men of Jabeſh.

l For being only anointed King, and not publickly inaugurated, nor owned, nor preſented by the generality of the People, nor having yet had opportunity of doing any thing worthy of his Place, he thought fit to forbear all Royal State, and to retire to his former private, and Country Life, which, howſoever deſpiſed in theſe latter, vain, ambitious, and ſlothful Ages of the World, was anciently in great eſteem among the Greeks and Romans, whoſe Princes and Generals did frequently exerciſe themſelves in it. Though ſome conceive that he now lived in ſome State, and that he had been in the Fields only to recreate himſelf, and that his coming after the Herd was but accidental, and is mentioned only to uſher in what follows of the Yoke of Oxen.

6 And the ſpirit of God came upon Saul m, when he heard thoſe tidings, and his anger was kindled greatly n.

m Inſpiring him ſuddenly with more than ordinary Courage, and Zeal, and Reſolution, to ingage himſelf and the People for their Reſcue. Compare Judg. 3. 10. and 6. 34. and 11. 29. n Againſt Nahaſh, for ſo inſolent and barbarous a Propoſition.

7 And he took a yoke of Oxen, and hewed them in pieces, and ſent them throughout all the coaſts of Iſrael o, by the hand of meſſengers, ſaying, Whoſoever cometh not forth after Saul, and after Samuel p, ſo ſhall it be done unto his oxen: and the fear of the LORD q fell on the people, and they came out † with one conſent.

† Heb. as one man.

o Wiſely conſidering, that the ſight of Mens Eyes do much more affect their Hearts, than what they only hear with their Ears. p Whom he joyns with himſelf, both becauſe he was preſent with him; as appears from v. 12. and that hereby he might gain the more Authority to his Command, and ſtrike the greater Terror into all Deſpiſers of it. q Either, 1. A great fear; great things being oft thus expreſſed; as Cedars of God, Mountains of God, &c. Or, 2. A Fear ſent upon them by God, as Gen. 35. 5. that they ſhould not dare to deny their help.

8 And When he numbred them in Bezek, the children of Iſrael were three hundred thouſand r, and the men of Judah thirty thouſand s.

r This great Terror drew ſo many forth: which is not ſo ſtrange to him that knows what none deny, That the Land of Canaan contained vaſt Numbers of People in a little compaſs. s Who are numbred apart to their honour, to ſhew how readily they, to whom the Kingdom was promiſed, Gen. 49. 10. ſubmitted to their King, though of another and far meaner Tribe; and how willingly they were to hazard themſelves for their Brethrens Reſcue, although they might have excuſed themſelves from the neceſſity of defending their own Country from their dangerous Neighbours the Philiſtines.

9 And they ſaid unto the meſſengers that came, Thus ſhall ye ſay unto the men of Jabeſh-Gilead, To morrow t by that time the ſun be hot, ye ſhall have ‖ help. And the meſſengers came, and ſhewed it, to the men of Jabeſh, and they were glad.

t To wit, the day after your departure hence, or return home; for it ſeems probable, that ſome few days had been ſpent in the gathering and diſpoſing of the Forces, and bringing them towards thoſe parts.

10 Therefore the men of Jabeſh ſaid, To morrow we will come out unto you, and ye ſhall do with us all that ſeemeth good unto you u.

u They did, and might reaſonably and juſtly underſtand their own Condition before propoſed, v. 3. if none came to ſave them; which they were not now obliged to repeat, although they conjectured, that their Enemies would underſtand it abſolutely, whoſe Error therein they were no more obliged to Correct, than to prevent their Deſtruction. Nor did they tell any lye herein, but only concealed part of their Intentions, to render their Enemy more ſecure and fit for Ruine; which kind of Stratagems are uſual, and allowed by all Perſons.

11 And it was ſo on the morrow, that Saul put the people into three companies x, and they came into the midſt of the hoſt in the morning watch y, and ſlew the Ammonites, until the heat of the day: and it came to paſs, that they which remained were ſcattered, ſo that two of them were not left together.

x That ſo Invading them on ſeveral ſides with a great Force, he might both ſtrike them with the greater Terror, and prevent their eſcape. y Having marched all the Day and Night before it.

* Chap. 10. 27. * Luke 19. 27. 12 ¶ And the people ſaid unto Samuel, * Who is he that ſaid, Shall Saul reign over us z? * bring the men, that we may put them to death a.

z They did not ſay ſo in terms, as we may ſee, chap. 10. v. 27. but this was the Deſign and Conſequence of their Speech, as they rightly conſtrue it. a Which till this time they were not able to do, becauſe that Infection was then almoſt univerſal.

* 2 Sam. 19. 22. 13 And Saul ſaid, * There ſhall not a man be put to death this day: for to day the LORD hath wrought ſalvation in Iſrael b.

b I will not deſtroy any of thoſe whom God hath ſo graciouſly preſerved; nor ſully the Mirth of this glorious and comfortable Day with the ſlaughter of any of my Subjects: and therefore I freely forgive them. Wherein Saul ſhewed his Policy as well as his Clemency, this being the moſt likely way to gain his Enemies, and ſecure his Friends, and ſtabliſh his Throne in the Hearts of his People.

14 Then c ſaid Samuel to the people, Come, and let us go to Gilgal d, and renew the kingdom there e.

c Whilſt the People were together by Jabeſh-Gilead, wherein Samuel's great Prudence and Fidelity to Saul is evident. He ſuſpended the Confirmation of Saul at firſt, whilſt the generality of the People were diſaffected and diſcontented at the meanneſs of his Perſon: and now when he had given ſuch eminent proof of his Princely Vertues, and when the Peoples Hearts were unanimouſly and eagerly ſet upon him, he takes this as the fitteſt ſeaſon for that work. d This place he choſe, both becauſe it was near, and, to moſt of them, in the way to their homes; and becauſe thither the Iſraelites on this ſide, and beyond Jordan, might more eaſily reſort; and becauſe it was famous for publick Conventions there kept, and particularly, for the Covenant there renewed by Joſhua between God and the People. e i. e. Confirm our former Choice, to prevent all ſuch Seditious Expreſſions and Actions as we had experience of at the former Election.

15 And all the people went to Gilgal, and there they made Saul king f before the LORD g in Gilgal: and there they ſacrificed ſacrifices of peace-offerings h, before the LORD: and there Saul and all the men of Iſrael rejoyced greatly.

f i. e They Recognized him, or owned and accepted him for their King by conſent; for to ſpeak properly, Saul was not made, or conſtituted King by the People, but by the Lord's immediate Act; ſee chap. 8. 9. and 10. 1. g Who was there preſent in a ſpecial manner; both becauſe the People of the Lord were there Aſſembled, and becauſe there was an Altar, as the following Sacrifices ſhew. The ſame Phraſe is uſed chap. 10. 17. and 14. 18. h Partly to praiſe God for ſo glorious a Victory, and for the firm Settlement of the diſtracted Kingdom; and partly, to implore the Preſence and Aſſiſtance of God to the King and Ringdom, in all their Affairs and Exigencies.

CHAP. XII.

Samuel having appointed a king unto the people: teſtifieth his own Integrity, to which they witneſs, 1,—5. He ſetteth before them the ſins of their anceſtors: and their own ſin in asking a king, 6,—13. Comforts them if they will obey the Lord: threatneth the diſobedient: terrifies them by thunder in harveſt: they confeſs their ſin, and deſire to be reconciled to the Lord, 14,——19. He comforts and exhorts them to fear and ſerve the Lord: promiſing alſo to pray for them, 20,——25.

AND Samuel ſaid unto all Iſrael a, Behold, I have hearkned unto your voice in all that ye ſaid unto me, and have made a king over you.

a Whilſt they were aſſembled together in Gilgal. And this is another inſtance of Samuel's great Wiſdom and Integrity. He would not reprove the People for their Sin, in deſiring a King, whilſt Saul was raw, and weak, and unſettled in his Kingdom, and in the Peoples Hearts; leſt through their accuſtomed Levity, they ſhould as haſtily caſt off their King, as they had paſſionately deſired him, and ſo add one Sin to another; and therefore he chuſeth this Seaſon for it; partly, becauſe Saul's Kingdom was now confirmed and illuſtrated by an eminent Victory, and ſo the danger of rejecting him was out of doors; which Circumſtance was alſo conſiderable for Samuel's Vindication, that it might appear, that his following Reproof did not proceed from any ſelfiſh Reſpects or Deſires, which he might be ſuppoſed to have of retaining the Power in his own Hands, but meerly from the Conſcience of his Duty, and a ſincere Deſire of all their Good; and partly, becauſe the People rejoiced greatly, as is ſaid in the next foregoing Verſe; and upon this occaſion applauded themſelves for their deſires of a King; and interpreted the Succeſs which God had now given them, as a Divine Approbation of thoſe Deſires; whereby they were like to be hardened in their Impenitency, and might be drawn to many other Inconveniencies: Samuel therefore thinks fit to temper their exceſſive Joys, and to excite them to that Repentance and Holy Fear, which he ſaw wanting in them, and which he knew to be abſolutely neceſſary, to prevent the Curſe of God upon their new King, and the whole Kingdom.

2 And now, behold, the king walketh before you b: and I am old and gray-headed c, and behold, my ſons are with you d: and I have walked before you e from my childhood unto this day.

b Goeth out and cometh in before you; i. e. Ruleth over you, as that Phraſe ſignifies, Numb. 27. 16. Deut. 31. 2. 2 Chron. 1. 10. To him I have fully reſigned all my Power and Authority, and do hereby renounce it, and own my ſelf for a private Perſon, and one of his Subjects. c And therefore unable to bear the burden of Government, and feel my ſelf greatly at eaſe to ſee it caſt upon other Shoulders; and therefore do not ſpeak what I am about to ſay, from envy of Saul's Advancement, or from diſcontent at the Diminution of my own Power. d Or, among you, in the ſame State and Place, private Perſons, as you are; if they have injured any of you in their Government, as you once complained, the Law is now open againſt them; any of you may accuſe them, yonr King can puniſh them, I do not intercede for them, I have neither Power nor Will to keep them from receiving the juſt Fruits of their Miſdemeanours. e e.i. Been your Guide and Governor; partly, as a Prophet; and partly, as a Judge.

3 Behold, here I am, witneſs againſt me f before the LORD, and before his anointed: * Whoſe ox have I taken? or whoſe aſſe have I taken? or whom have I defrauded? whom have I oppreſſed g? or of whoſe hand have I received any † bribe h ‖ to blind mine eyes therewith i? and I will reſtore it you k.

* N 16. 15. Act. 20. 33.
† Heb. ranſom.
‖ Or, that I ſhould hide mine eyes at him.

f I here preſent my ſelf before the Lord, and before your King, being ready to give an account of all my Adminiſtrations, and to make ſatisfaction for any Injuries that I have done. And this Proteſtation Samuel makes of his Integrity, not out of Oſtentation or Vain-glory; but partly, for his own juſt Vindication, that the People might not hereafter for the Defence of their own Irregularities, reproach his Government; partly, that being publickly acquitted from all Faults in his Government, he might more freely and boldly reprove the ſins of the People, and particularly, that ſin of theirs in deſiring a King, when they had ſo little reaſon for it, and they had ſo juſt a Governor, from whom they might have promiſed themſelves an effectual Redreſs of his Sons male-adminiſtrations, if they had acquainted him therewith; and partly, that by his Example he might tacitly admoniſh Saul of his Duty, and prevent his miſunderſtanding of what he had formerly ſaid, chap. 8. v. 11, &c. and miſtake that for the Rule of his juſt Power, which was only a Prediction of his evil Practices. g Whom have I wronged, either by Fraud and falſe Accuſation, or by Might and Violence? h Heb. Price of Redemption, given to Redeem an unjuſt and loſt Cauſe or Perſon, from that Righteous Sentence which they deſerved. i That I ſhould not diſcern what was right and juſt, or diſſemble it as if I did not ſee it. Or, that I ſhould hide or cover mine eyes (i. e. wilfully wink at the plain truth) for it; i. e. for the Bribe; or, for him; i e. for his ſake. k Or, and I will cover mine eyes for him; i. e. I will take ſhame to my ſelf, and cover my Face as one aſhamed to look upon him

4 And they ſaid, Thou haſt not defrauded us, nor oppreſſed us, neither haſt thou taken ought of any mans hand.

5 And he ſaid unto them, The LORD is witneſs againſt you l, and his anointed is witneſs this day, that ye have not found ought m in my hand: And they anſwered n, He is witneſs.

l To wit, if you ſhall at any time hereafter reproach my Government or Memory. Or rather, againſt you, that I gave you no cauſe to be weary of God's Government of you by Judges, or to deſire a change of the Government; and therefore the blame of it wholly reſts upon your ſelves. But this was only inſinuated, and therefore the People did not fully underſtand his drift in it. m i. e. Any thing which I have gotten by Bribery or Oppreſſion. n Heb. he anſwered; i. e. the whole People, who are here ſpoken of as one Perſon, becauſe they anſwered thus with one Conſent.

6 ¶ And Samuel ſaid unto the people, It is the LORD that ‖ advanced Moſes and Aaron o, and that brought your fathers up out of the land of Egypt. ‖ Or, made.

o That for your ſakes raiſed, conſtituted, and exalted Moſes and Aaron, to that great Power and Reputation which they had, and uſed, to deliver you.

8 * When Jacob was come into Egypt, and your fathers * cried unto the LORD, then the LORD * ſent Moſes and Aaron, which brought forth your fathers out of Egypt, and made them dwell in this place r.

r In this Land: in which Moſes and Aaron are ſaid to ſettle them; partly, becauſe they brought them into, and ſeated them in part of it, to wit, that without Jordan; partly, becauſe they were, under God, the Principal Authors of their entring into the Land of Canaan; inaſmuch as they brought them out of Egypt, conducted them thorough the Wilderneſs; and there by their Prayers to God, and Counſel to them, preſerved them from utter Ruine, and gave Command and Direction from God for the diſtribution of the Land among them, and incouraged them to enter into it by promiſes and aſſurances of Succeſs. And laſtly, Moſes ſubſtituted Joſhua in his ſtead, and commanded him to carry them thither, and ſeat them there, which alſo he did.

* Judg. 4. 2. * Judg. 10. 7. * Judg. 3. 12.

9 And when they forgat the LORD their God ſ, * he ſold them into the hand of Siſera, captain of the hoſt of Hazor, and into the hand * of the Philiſtines, and into the hand of the king * of Moab, and they fought againſt them t.

ſ i. e. They revolted from him, as it is explained v. 10. and carried themſelves as ungratefully and unworthily towards God, as if they had wholly forgotten his great and innumerable Favours, and their infinite Obligations to him. Forgetting of God, is oft put for all manner of Wickedneſs, whereof indeed that is the true cauſe. See Iſa. 17. 10. Jer. 3. 21. Ezek. 22. 12. This he ſaith, partly, to Anſwer an Objection, That the reaſon why they deſired a King, was, becauſe in the time of the Judges they were at great uncertainties, and oft-times exerciſed with ſharp Afflictions: to which he Anſwereth by Conceſſion that they were ſo; but adds, by way of Retortion, that they themſelves were the cauſe of it, by their forgetting of God: So that it was not the fault of that kind of Government, but their tranſgreſſing the Rules of it; and partly, to mind them, that this their ungrateful Carriage towards God, was no new or ſtrange thing, but an hereditary and inveterate Diſeaſe, that ſo they might more eaſily believe their own Guilt herein, and be more deeply humbled, both for their own, and for their Parents Sins. t To wit, with ſucceſs, and ſubdued them.

10 And they cried unto the LORD, and ſaid, We have ſinned, becauſe we have forſaken the LORD, and have ſerved Baalim, and Aſhtaroth: but now deliver us out of the hand of our enemies, and we will ſerve thee.

* Judg 6. 14. 32. * Judg. 11. 1. * Chap. 7. 13.

11 And the LORD ſent * Jerubbaal, and Bedan u, and * Jephthah, and * Samuel x, and delivered you out of the hand of your enemies on every ſide, and ye dwelled ſafe y.

u This certainly is one of the Judges; and becauſe there is no Judge ſo called in the Book of Judges, it is reaſonably concluded, that this was one of the Judges there mentioned, having two Names, as was very frequent. And this was, either, Firſt, Samſon, as moſt Interpreters believe, who is called Bedan; i. e. in Dan, or of Dan, or the Son Dan, one of that Tribe, to ſignifie that they had no reaſon to diſtruſt that God, who could, and did, raiſe ſo eminent a Saviour out of ſo obſcure a Tribe. Or, Secondly, Jair the Gileadite, of whom Judg. 10. 3. which may ſeem beſt to agree, Firſt, With the Time and Order of the Judges; for Jair was before Jephthah, but Samſon was after him. Secondly, With other Scriptures: for among the Sons of a more ancient, and a famous Jair, of whom ſee Numb. 32. 41. we meet with one called Bedan, 1 Chron. 7. 17. which Name ſeems here given to Jair the Judge, to diſtinguiſh him from that firſt Jair. Thirdly, With the following words, which ſhew that this Bedan was one of thoſe Judges who delivered them out of the hand of their Enemies on every ſide, and made them to dwell ſafely; which ſeems not ſo properly to agree to Samſon, who did only begin to deliver Iſrael out of the hand of the Philiſtines; as was foretold of him, Judg. 13. 5. as to Jair, who kept them in peace and ſafety, in the midſt of all their Enemies, as may be gathered from Judg. 10. 3, 4, 5, 6. And ſo did all the reſt of the Judges here mentioned. x He ſpeaks of himſelf in the Third Perſon, which is frequent in the Hebrew Tongue, as Gen. 4. 23. Pſal 132. 1, 10, 11. Dan. 1. 6. Iſa. 1. 1. And he mentions himſelf not through vain oſtentation, but for his own juſt and neceſſary Vindication, and for the juſtification and inforcement of his following Reproof, to ſhew that he had not degenerated from his Predeceſſors, nor had been ſo inconſiderable and unprofitable to them, as to give them any occaſion to contrive or deſire this change of Government in his days. y So that it was no Neceſſity, but meer Wantonneſs, that made you deſire a Change.

* Chap. 8. 19.

12 And when ye ſaw that Naſh the king of the children of Ammon came againſt you, * ye ſaid unto me, Nay, but a king ſhall reign over over us z, when the LORD your God was your king a.

z See the Notes on Chapter 11. 1. a i. e. When God was your immediate King and Governor, who was both able and willing to deliver you, if you had cried to him, whereof you and your Anceſtors have had plentiful experience; ſo that you did not at all need any other King; and your deſire of another, was a manifeſt reproach againſt God, as if he were either grown Impotent, or Unfaithful, or Unmerciful to you.

13 Now therefore, behold the king whom ye have choſen b, and whom ye have deſired: and behold, the LORD hath ſet a king over you c.

b Though God choſe him by Lot, yet the People are ſaid to chuſe him; either generally, becauſe they choſe that Form of Government: or particularly, becauſe they approved of God's choice, chap. 10. 24. and confirmed it, chap. 11. 15. c He hath yielded to your inordinate deſire.

† Heb. outh. † Heb. after.

14 If ye will fear the LORD, and ſerve him, and obey his voice, and not rebel againſt the † commandment of the LORD, then ſhall both ye, and alſo the king that reigneth over you, † continue following the LORD d your God.

d Heb. Then ſhall——ye——be, (i. e. walk, or go) after the Lord; i. e. God ſhall ſtill go before you, as he hath hitherto done, as your Leader or Governor, to Direct, Protect, and Deliver you; and he will not forſake you, as you have given him juſt cauſe to do. Sometimes this Phraſe of going after the Lord, ſignifies a Man's Obedience to God; but here it is otherwiſe to be underſtood (as it is no new thing, for the ſame Phraſe in ſeveral places, to be underſtood in quite different Sences;) and it notes not a Duty to be performed, but a Promiſe of a Privilege to be received upon the performance of their Duty; becauſe it is oppoſed to a threatning denounced in caſe of Diſobedience, in the next Verſe.

15 But if ye will not obey the voice of the LORD, but rebel againſt the commandment of the LORD, then ſhall the hand of the LORD be againſt you, as it was againſt your fathers e.

e Who lived under the Judges; and you ſhall have no advantage in that Point by the change of Government, nor ſhall your Kings be able to Protect you againſt God's Diſpleaſure.

16 ¶ Now therefore ſtand f, and ſee this great thing which the LORD will do before your eyes.

f He intends not the Poſture of their Bodies, but the Conſiſtency of their Minds, by ſerious and fixed Conſideration.

† Heb. voice.

17 Is it not wheat-harveſt to day g? I will call unto the LORD, and he ſhall ſend † thunder, and rain h, that ye may perceive and ſee that your wickedneſs is great, which ye have done in the ſight of the LORD, in asking you a king.

g At which time it was a rare thing in thoſe parts to have Thunder or Rain, as the Scripture oft implies; and St. Jerome affirms, who was an Eye-witneſs of it; the Weather being more conſtant and certain in its Seaſons there, and in divers other parts, than it is with us who live in Iſlands, as all Travellers inform us. h That by this unſeaſonable and pernicious Storm you may underſtand that God is diſpleaſed with you; and alſo how Fooliſhly and Wickedly you have done in rejecting the Government of that God, at whoſe Command are all things both in Heaven and in Earth.

18 So Samuel called unto the LORD, and the LORD ſent thunder and rain that day: and all the people greatly feared the LORD, and Samuel i.

i Who had ſuch great Power and Favour with God.

19 And all the people ſaid unto Samuel, Pray for thy ſervants k unto the LORD thy God l, that we die not m: for we have added unto all our ſins, this evil, to ask us a king n.

k For ſo we ſhall ſtill own our ſelves to be, though we have got another Maſter. l Whom thou haſt ſo great an Intereſt in, and canſt ſo eaſily prevail with for any Mercy, whilſt we are aſhamed and afraid to call him our God, becauſe we have ſo highly offended him. m That this terrible Storm may be taken away, leſt our Perſons and the Fruits of the Earth be all deſtroyed. n So horribly were they biaſſed with their Prejudices and Paſſions, that nothing but a Miracle could convince them of this particular Sin.

20 ¶ And Samuel ſaid unto the people, Fear not o: (ye have done all this wickedneſs, yet turn not aſide from following the LORD, but ſerve the LORD with all your heart:

o To wit, with a ſervile and deſponding Fear, as if there were no Hope left for you.

21 And turn ye not aſide p, for then ſhould ye go q after vain things r, which cannot profit nor deliver ſ, for they are vain.)

p To wit, after Idols; as they had often done before; and, notwithſtanding this warning, did afterwards. q Or, ſhould ye turn aſide; which words are eaſily to be underſtood out of the foregoing Branch, ſuch Ellipſes being moſt frequent in Scripture, as Deut. 1. 4. 1 King. 14. 14. 2 King. 9. 27. r So Idols are called, Deut. 32. 21. Jer. 2. 5. and ſo they are, being meer nothings, 1 Cor. 8. 4. having no Divinity nor Power in them; no Influence upon us, nor Uſe or Benefit to us. ſ i. e. Which will not only be unprofitable, but highly pernicious to you; the contrary Affirmative being underſtood under the Negative, as Exod. 20. 7. Numb. 21. 23. Deut. 2. 30.

* Pſal. 94. 14.

22 * For the LORD will not forſake his people for his great Names ſake s: becauſe it hath pleaſed the LORD to make you his people t.

s i. e. For his own Honour, which would ſeem to ſuffer much among Men, if he ſhould not preſerve and deliver People in eminent Dangers; as if he were grown feeble, or forgetful, or inconſtant, or unfaithful, or regardleſs of Human Affairs, or unkind to thoſe who own and worſhip him, when all the reſt of the World forſake him. Hence this Argument hath been oft pleaded with God, not without good ſucceſs, as Exod. 32. 12. Numb. 14. 13, &c. And this reaſon God here alledgeth to take them off from all conceit of their own merit; and to aſſure them, that if they did truly repent of all their ſins, and ſerved God with all their heart, which is here ſuppoſed; yet even in that caſe their Salvation would not be due to their Merits; but only the effect of God's Free Mercy. t To wit, out of his own Free Grace, without any deſert of yours, as he ſaith, Deut. 7. 7. and 9. 5. and therefore he will not eaſily forſake you, except you thruſt him away.

23 Moreover, as for me, God forbid that I ſhould ſin againſt the LORD, † in ceaſing to pray for you u: but I will teach you x the good and the right way.

u Think not that becauſe you have ſo highly diſobliged and rejected me, that I will revenge my ſelf, by neglecting to pray for you, or by Praying againſt you, as I have now done for your Conviction and Humiliation, and ſo for your Preſervation; I am ſenſible it is my Duty, as I am a Man, an Iſraelite, a Miniſter, a Prophet, to Pray for you. x Heb. and I will, &c. i. e. I will not only Pray for you, which is one Branch of my Duty; but will alſo Teach and Inſtruct you, which is the other Branch of it. And though you have caſt me off from being your Judge and Ruler, yet I will not ceaſe to be your Inſtructor and Monitor, to keep you from Sin and Deſtruction.

|| Or, what a great thing, &c.

24 Only fear the LORD, and ſerve him y in truth with all your heart: for conſider || how great things he hath done for you z.

y Otherwiſe neither my Prayer nor Counſels will ſtand you in any ſtead. z Or, among you, both at this time and formerly.

25 But if ye ſhall ſtill do wickedly, ye ſhall be conſumed, both ye and your king.

5 ¶ And the Philiſtines gathered themſelves together to fight with Iſrael, thirty thouſand charets k, and ſix thouſand horſemen, and people as the ſand which is on the ſea-ſhore in multitude, and they came up and pitched in Michmaſh, eaſtward from * Beth-aven.

k This number ſeems incredible to Infidels. To whom it may be ſufficient to reply, That it is far more rational to acknowledge a miſtake in him that copied out the Sacred Text in ſuch Numeral or Hiſtorical Paſſages, wherein the Doctrine of Faith and Good Life is not directly concerned, than upon ſuch a Pretence to queſtion the Truth and Divinity of the Holy Scriptures, which are ſo fully Atteſted, and evidently Demonſtrated. And the miſtake is not great in the Hebrew, Schaloſh for Scheliſhim; and ſo indeed thoſe two Ancient Tranſlators, the Syriack and Arabick tranſlate it, and are ſuppoſed to have read in their Hebrew Copies, Three thouſand. Nor is it neceſſary that all theſe ſhould be Military Charets, but many of them might be for Carriage of things belonging to ſo great an Army; for ſuch a diſtinction of Charets we find, Exod. 14. 7. But there is no need of this Reply. Charets here may very well be put for the Men that rode upon them, and fought out of them, by a Figure called a Metonymy, of the Subject for the Adjunct; or the thing containing, for the thing contained in it, than which none more frequent. In the very ſame manner, and by the very ſame Figure, the Basket is put for the Meat in it, Deut. 28. 5, 17. the Wilderneſs, for the wild Beaſts of the Wilderneſs, Pſal. 29. 8. the Neſt, for the Birds in it, Deut. 32. 11. the Cup, for the Drink in it, Jer. 49. 12. 1 Cor. 10. 21. And, to come more cloſely to the Point, an Horſe is put for an Horſe-load of Wares laid upon it, 1 King. 10. 28. and an Aſſe of Bread, is put for an Aſſe-load of Bread, both in the Hebrew Text of 1 Sam. 16. 20. and in an Ancient Greek Poet. And, yet nearer, the word Charets, is manifeſtly put, either for the Horſes belonging to them; or rather, for the Men that fought out of them, as 2 Sam. 10. 18. where it is ſaid in the Hebrew, that David ſlew ſeven hundred Charets; that is, ſeven thouſand Men, which fought in Charets, as it is explained, 1 Chron. 19. 18. and 1 King. 20. 21. where Ahab is ſaid to ſmite Horſes and Charets; and 1 Chron. 18. 4. and Pſalm 76. 6. where the Charet and Horſe (i. e. the Men that ride and fight in Charets, or upon Horſes) are ſaid to be caſt into a dead ſleep: and Ezek. 39. 20. where it is ſaid, ye ſhall be filled at my Table with Horſes and Charets, (i. e. with Men belonging to the Charets, for ſurely the Charets of Iron had been very improper Food,) with mighty Men, &c. And let any cavilling Infidel produce a wiſe Reaſon, why it may not, and ought not to be ſo underſtood here alſo? Add to all this, that the Philiſtines were not alone in this Expedition, but had the help of the Canaanites, and the Tyrians, as is very credible, both from Eccleſiaſt. 40. 20. and from the Nature of the thing. If it be further enquired, Why the Philiſtines ſhould raiſe ſo great an Army at this time? The Anſwer is obvious; That not only their Old and Formidable Enemy Samuel was yet alive, but a New Enemy was riſen, even King Saul, who was lately confirmed in his Kingdom, and had been fluſhed with his good Succeſs againſt the Ammonites, and was likely to grow more and more Potent, if not timely prevented; and they thought that now the Iſraelitiſh Affairs were come to ſome Conſiſtency, being put into the hands of a King; and therefore they thought fit once for all to put forth all their Strength to ſuppreſs the Iſraelites, and to prevent that Ruine which otherwiſe threatned them.

* Judg. 6. 2.

6 When the men of Iſrael ſaw that they were in a ſtrait l: (for the people were diſtreſſed m) then the people did * hide themſelves in caves n, and in thickets, and in rocks, and in high places, and in pits.

l Notwithſtanding their former Preſumption, That if they had a King, they ſhould be free from all ſuch ſtraits. And hereby God intended to teach them the Vanity of all Carnal confidence in Men; and that they did not one jot leſs need the Help and Favour of God now, than they did before, when they had no King. m They were not miſtaken in their apprehenſions of Danger, as Men oft are, for they were really in great Danger, their Enemy's Hoſt far exceeding theirs, both in Number, and Order, and Courage, and Arms. n Whereof there were divers in thoſe parts for this very uſe, as we read in Joſephus, and in the Holy Scripture.

† Heb. trembled after him.

7 And ſome of the Hebrews went over Jordan, to the land of Gad and Gilead: as for Saul, he was yet in Gilgal, and all the people o † followed him trembling.

o To wit, his whole Army, oppoſed to the common People, v. 6.

* Chap. 10. 8.

8 ¶ * And he tarried ſeven days p, according to the ſet time that Samuel had appointed: but Samuel came not to Gilgal, and the people were ſcattered from him.

p Not ſeven compleat Days; for that the laſt Day was not finiſhed, plainly appears from Samuel's reproof, which had then been groundleſs and abſurd, and he had falſly charged Saul with breaking God's Command therein, v. 13. And as Samuel came on the ſeventh Day, and that with intent to ſacrifice; ſo doubtleſs he came in due time, for that Work which was to be done before Sun-ſetting, Ex. 29. 38, 39. So Saul waited only ſix compleat Days, and part of the ſeventh, which is here called ſeven Days: for the word Day, is oft uſed for a part of the Day, as among Lawyers, ſo alſo in Sacred Scripture, as Matth. 12. 40. where Chriſt is ſaid to be in the heart of the Earth three days and three nights; i. e. one whole Day, and part of the other two Days. Moreover this place may be thus rendred: He tarried until the ſeventh day, (as this ſame Phraſe is uſed, Gen. 7. 10. Heb. until the ſeventh of the days) (as the Hebrew Lamed is oft taken) the ſet time that Samuel had appointed.

9 And Saul ſaid, Bring hither a burnt-offering to me, and peace-offerings. And he offered the burnt-offering q.

q Either himſelf; or rather by the Prieſt, as Solomon is ſaid to offer, 1 King. 3. 4. Compare 1 Sam. 1. 3.

† Heb. bleſs him.

10 And it came to paſs, that as ſoon as he had made an end of offering the burnt-offering, behold, Samuel came r, and Saul went out to meet him, that he might † ſalute him ſ.

r i. e. It was told Saul, Behold Samuel is coming. ſ i. e. Congratulate his coming. This he did, partly out of Cuſtom; and partly, that by this Teſtimony of his Affection and Reſpect to Samuel, he might prevent that Rebuke which his guilty Conſcience made him expect.

11 ¶ And Samuel ſaid, What haſt thou done t? And Saul ſaid, Becauſe I ſaw that the people were ſcattered from me, and that thou cameſt not within the days appointed u, and that the Philiſtines gathered themſelves together to Michmaſh:

t He ſuſpected that Saul had tranſgreſſed; either by his dejected Countenance, or ſome Words uttered by him, though not here expreſſed: but he asks him, that he might be more fully and certainly informed, and that Saul might be brought to an ingenuous Confeſſion of his Sin, and true Repentance for it. u i.e. When the ſeventh Day was come, and a good part of it paſt, whence I concluded thou wouldſt not come that Day, and that thou hadſt forgotten thy Appointment, or been hindred by ſome extraordinary Occaſion.

† Heb. intreated the face.

12 Therefore ſaid I, the Philiſtines will come down now upon me to Gilgal, and I have not † made ſupplication unto the LORD x; I forced my ſelf therefore, and offered a burnt-offering y.

x Hence it appears, that Sacrifices were accompanied with ſolemn Prayers. y I did it againſt my own Mind and Inclination. My Conſcience told me I ſhould forbear it, and punctually obey God's Command delivered to me by Samuel, but my neceſſity urged me to make haſte.

13 And Samuel ſaid to Saul, Thou haſt done fooliſhly z: thou haſt not kept the commandment of the LORD thy God a, which he commanded thee: for now would the LORD have eſtabliſhed thy kingdom upon Iſrael for ever b.

z In that very thing wherein thou thinkeſt thou haſt done wiſely and politickly, in diſobeying my expreſs Command upon a pretended neceſſity, or reaſon of State. a Not only upon common grounds, as thou art his Creature, and one of his People; but in a ſpecial manner, who hath conferred peculiar Favours and Honours upon thee: which is an aggravation of thy ſin. b Queſt. How could this be true, when the Kingdom was promiſed to Judah, Gen. 49. 10. and conſequently muſt neceſſarily be taken away from Saul, and from his Tribe? Anſ. Firſt, The Phraſe, for ever, in Scripture uſe, oft-times ſignifies only a long time, as Gen. 43. 9. Exod. 21. 6. 1 Sam. 28. 2. So this had been abundantly verified, if the Kingdom had been enjoyed by Saul, and by his Son, and by his Son's Son; after whom the Kingdom might have come to Judah. Secondly, Though the Kingdom had been promiſed to Saul, and to his Poſterity for ever in a larger ſence, yet that was upon condition of his Obedience. And therefore God might well promiſe the Kingdom to Judah, becauſe at that time, and before, he foreſaw that Saul would by his Diſobedience forfeit that Promiſe, and that he would take the forfeiture, and transfer the Kingdom to Judah.

14 But now thy kingdom ſhall not continue: * the LORD hath ſought c him a man after his own heart d, and the LORD hath commanded e him to be captain over his people, becauſe thou haſt not kept that which the LORD commanded thee f.

* Pſal. 89. 20. Act. 13. 22.

c i.e. Hath found or diſcovered, as Men do by ſeeking. An Anthropopathy. d i.e. Such a Man as he deſires, one who will fulfil all the deſires of his Heart, and not oppoſe them, as thou doſt. e i.e. Hath appointed or decreed, as the word command is ſometimes uſed: for it was not yet actually done. f Queſt. Firſt, What was Saul's ſin? Anſ. Either, Firſt, That Saul invaded the Prieſts Office, and offered the Sacrifice himſelf: which is not probable, both becauſe he had Prieſts with him, and among others an eminent one, Ahiah, chap. 14. 3. and therefore had no occaſion nor pretence for that preſumption. Or rather, Secondly, That Saul did not wait the full time for Samuel's coming; for that is the thing which God commanded, chap. 10. 8. and the breach of this Command is the only thing for which Saul makes an Apology, v. 11. 12. Queſt. Secondly, Why did God ſo ſeverely puniſh Saul for ſo ſmall an Offence, and that occaſioned by great Neceſſity, and done with an honeſt Intention? Anſ. Firſt, Men are very incompetent Judges of God's Judgments, becauſe they ſee but very little, either of the Majeſty of the offended God, or of the hainous Nature and Aggravations of the Offence. For inſtance, Men ſee nothing but Saul's outward act, which ſeems ſmall; but God ſaw with how wicked a Mind and Heart he did this, with what Rebellion againſt the Light of his own Conſcience, as his own words imply; with what groſs infidelity and diſtruſt of God's Providence; with what contempt of God's Authority, and Juſtice, and many other wicked Principles and Motions of his Heart, unknown to Men. Beſides, God clearly ſaw all that wickedneſs that yet lay hid in his Heart, and foreſaw all his other Crimes; and therefore had far more grounds for his Sentence againſt him, than we can imagine. Secondly, God doth ſometimes puniſh ſmall ſins ſeverely, and that for divers weighty reaſons, as that all Men may ſee what the leaſt ſin deſerves, and how much they owe to God's free and rich Mercy, for paſſing by their great Offences; and what need they have not to indulge themſelves in any ſmall ſin, as Men are very prone to do, upon vain preſumptions of God's Mercy, whereby they are eaſily and commonly drawn on to hainous Crimes; and for many other Reaſons: ſo that ſome ſuch inſtances of God's Severity, are neceſſary Diſcipline and Caution to all Mankind in the preſent and future Ages; and therefore there is far more of Mercy and Kindneſs in ſuch Actions, than of Rigour and Harſhneſs, ſince this is but particular to one Perſon, and the other is an univerſal Good. Thirdly, It muſt be remembred, that the Kingdom of Saul, and of Iſrael, was now in its Infancy; and that this was the firſt Command which he received from God. And it hath been ever held a piece of Wiſdom in all Law-givers, ſeverely to puniſh the firſt Violations of their Laws, to ſecure their Honour and Obedience, and to affright and caution Offenders for the future. And accordingly God dealt with Cain the firſt Murderer; with Iſrael, for their firſt Idolatry with the Calf; with the firſt miſcarriage of the Prieſts, Levit. 10. 1. with the firſt prophaner of the Sabbath, Numb. 15. 20. with the firſt groſs Hypocrites in the Chriſtian Church, Acts 5. 5, 10. And therefore it is neither ſtrange nor unjuſt, if he deal with Saul after the ſame manner, and upon the ſame grounds. Fourthly, Though God threaten Saul with the loſs of his Kingdom for this ſin; yet it is not improbable, that there was a tacit condition implied, as is uſual in ſuch caſes, as Jonah 3. 4. to wit, if he did not heartily repent of this and of all his ſins; for the full, and final, and peremptory Sentence of Saul's rejection, is plainly aſcribed to another Cauſe, chap. 15. 11, 23, 26, 28, 29. and till that ſecond Offence, neither the Spirit of the Lord departed from him, nor was David anointed in his ſtead, chap. 16. 13, 14.

15 And Samuel aroſe, and gat him up from Gilgal, unto Gibeah of Benjamin g. And Saul numbered the people that were † preſent with him, * about ſix hundred men.

† Heb. found

g Whither Saul alſo followed him; as appears from the next Verſe: either, becauſe it was better fortified than Gilgal: or, becauſe he expected a greater increaſe of his Army there, it being in his own Tribe, and nearer the heart of his Kingdom: or, becauſe he hoped for Samuel's Aſſiſtance there.

16 And Saul, and Jonathan his ſon, and the people that were preſent with them, abode in Gibeah of Benjamin: but the Philiſtines encamped in Michmaſh.

17 And the ſpoilers came out of the camp of the Philiſtines in three companies h; one company turned unto the way that leadeth to Ophrah i, unto the land of Shual.

h That they might march ſeveral ways, and ſo waſte ſeveral parts of the Country. i A City of Benjamin, Joſ. 18. 23. South-weſt from Michmaſh.

18 And another company turned the way to Beth-horon k; and another company turned to the way of the border that looketh to the valley of Zeboim toward the wilderneſs l.

k A City of Ephraim, Joſ. 16. 3. Northweſt from Michmaſh. l i.e. The Wilderneſs of Jordan, Eaſtward.

19 ¶ Now there was no ſmith found throughout all the land of Iſrael m: (for the Philiſtines ſaid, † Leſt the Hebrews make them ſwords or ſpears.)

† We muſt take them away.

m This was a Politick courſe of the Philiſtines, which alſo other Nations have uſed. So the Chaldeans took away their Smiths, 2 King. 24. 14. Jer. 24. 1. and 29. 2. And Porſenna obliged the Romans by Covenant, That they ſhould uſe no Iron but in the Tillage of their Lands.

20 But all the Iſraelites went down to the Philiſtines n to ſharpen every man his ſhare, and his coulter, and his axe, and his mattock.

n Not to the Land of the Philiſtines, for it is not ſaid ſo, and that was too remote; but to the Stations and Gariſons which the Philiſtines yet retained in ſeveral parts of Iſrael's Land, though Samuel's Authority had ſo far over-awed them, that they durſt not give the Iſraelites much Diſturbance. In theſe, therefore, the Philiſtines kept all the Smiths; and here they allowed them the exerciſe of their Art for the uſes here following.

21 Yet they had † a file for the mattocks, and for the coulters, and for the forks, and for the axes o, and † to ſharpen the goads.

o So the ſence is, They allowed them ſome ſmall helps to make their Mattocks, and in ſome ſort to ſerve their preſent uſe. But theſe words may be otherwiſe tranſlated, and are ſo by ſome Learned, both Ancient and Modern, Tranſlators: Thus, Therefore the mouths or edges of the mattocks, and coulters, &c. were dull or blunt. Or rather thus, When (Heb. and put for when, as the Particle, and, is ſometimes rendred, as Mark 15 25.) the mouths or edges of the mattocks, &c. were blunt. So this paſſage very well agrees both with the foregoing and following words; and the whole ſence of the place is intirely thus, They went to the Philiſtines to ſharpen their ſhares, and mattocks, and coulters, and axes, when they were blunt, and (which was more ſtrange, They were forced to go to them, even) to ſharpen their goads.

22 So it came to paſs in the day of battel, that there was neither ſword nor ſpear found in the hand of any of the people, that were with Saul and Jonathan p, but with Saul and with Jonathan his ſon was there found.

p Queſt. How could the Iſraelites ſmite either the Gariſon of the Philiſtines above, v. 3. or the Hoſt of the Ammonites, chap. 11. 11. without Arms? And when they had conquered them, Why did they not take away their Arms, and reſerve them to their own uſe? Anſ. 1. This want of Swords and Spears is not affirmed concerning all Iſrael, but is reſtrained unto thoſe 600. who were with Saul and Jonathan? whom God by his Providence might ſuffer to be without thoſe Arms, that the glory of the following Victory might be wholly aſcribed to God; as for the very ſame reaſon God would have but 300 Men left with Gideon, and thoſe armed only with Trumpets, and Pitchers, and Lamps, Judg. 7. There were no doubt a conſiderable number of Swords and Spears among the Iſraelites, but they generally hid them, as now they did their Perſons, from the Philiſtines. And the Philiſtines had not yet attained to ſo great a power over them, as wholly to diſarm them, but thought it ſufficient to prevent the making of new Arms; knowing that the old ones would ſhortly be decayed, and uſeleſs. 2. There were other Arms more common in thoſe times and places, than Swords and Spears; to wit, Bows and Arrows, and Slings and Stones; as appears from Judg. 20. 16. 2 Sam. 1. 18, 22. 2 King. 3. 25. 1 Chron. 12. 1, 2. beſides Clubs, and Inſtruments of Agriculture, which might eaſily be turned into Weapons of War. 3. God ſo governed the Affairs of the Iſraelites, that they had no great number of Swords, or Spears, Judg. 5. 8. that ſo they might be kept in more dependence upon, and ſubjection unto God, wherein their Safety and Happineſs conſiſted. And therefore, that famous Victory obtained againſt the Philiſtines in Samuel's days, was not got by the Sword of Men, but only by Thunder from Heaven, chap. 7. 10.

23 And the ‖ gariſon of the Philiſtines went out to the paſſage of Michmaſh q.

‖ Or, ſtanding Camp.

q A place ſo called, becauſe it was near to Michmaſh, and led towards Gibeah, which, it ſeems, they deſigned to beſiege; and in the mean time, to waſte the adjoyning Country.

CHAP. XIV.

Jonathan and his armour-bearer ſecretly ſmite the Philiſtines army: they ſlay one another, 1,—15. Which being perceived, 16, 17. Saul purſueth the Philiſtines: the captivated and hidden Iſraelites joyning in the purſuit, 18,—23. Saul adjureth the people not to eat any thing till evening: Jonathan eateth honey: the Philiſtines are ſmitten, 24,—31. The people eat fleſh with the blood: Saul reſtraineth them: and buildeth an altar, 32,—35. Deſigning to purſue the Philiſtines by night: conſults God: who anſwers not: Saul caſts a lot to find out the cauſe: Jonathan is taken: Saul dooms him to die: the people reſcue him, 36,—45. Saul's wars, ſons, daughters, wife, &c. 46,—52.

|| Or, there was a day.

NOW || it came to paſs upon a day, that Jonathan the ſon of Saul ſaid unto the young man that bare his armour, Come, and let us go over to the Philiſtines gariſon a, that is on the other ſide b: but he told not his father c.

a This was a raſh and fooliſh Attempt, if it be examined by common Rules; but not ſo, if we conſider the ſingular Promiſes made to the Iſraelites, That one ſhould chaſe a thouſand, &c. and eſpecially the heroical and extraordinary Motions which were then frequently put into the Minds of gallant Men, by God's Spirit, whereby they undertook and accompliſhed noble and wonderful things; as did Samſon, and David, and his Worthies. b Beyond that Rocky Paſſage deſcribed below, v. 4. 13. which he pointed at with his hand. c Leſt he ſhould hinder him in ſo improbable an Enterprize. Nor was it neceſſary he ſhould inform him of it, becauſe he had a Commiſſion from his Father, to fight when he ſaw occaſion; as he had done without his Father's privity, chap. 13. 3.

* Chap. 13. 15.

2 And Saul tarried in the uttermoſt part of Gibeah d, under a pomegranate tree, which is in Migron e: and the people that were with him, were * about ſix hundred men:

d In the Outworks of the City where he had intrenched himſelf to obſerve the Motion of the Philiſtines. e Or, towards (as the Hebrew Beth is oft uſed) Migron, which was another place, but near Gibeah: See Iſa. 10. 28.

* Chap. 4. 21.

3 And Ahiah the ſon of Ahitub f, * Ichabods brother, the ſon of Phinehas, the ſon of Eli, the LORD's prieſt in Shiloh, wearing an ephod g: and the people knew not that Jonathan was gone.

f The ſame who is called Abimelech, 1 Sam. 22. 9, 11, 20. the High-Prieſt, who was here to attend upon the Ark which was brought hither, v. 18. g To wit, the High-Prieſts Ephod, wherein the Urim and Thummim was.

† Heb. the tooth of a rock. See Job 39. 28.

4 ¶ And between the paſſages h, by which Jonathan ſought to go over unto the Philiſtines gariſon, there was † a ſharp rock on the one ſide, and a ſharp rock on the other ſide i: and the name of the one was Bozez, and the name of the other Seneh.

h So theſe might be two known and common Paſſages, both which Jonathan muſt croſs, or paſs over to go to the Philiſtines, between which the following Rocks lay. But the words may be rendred thus, In the middle (for ſo the Hebrew Particle, ben, ſignifies, as Iſa. 44. 4. and beth, in, is underſtood by a very frequent Ellipſis) of the paſſage; the Plural Number being put for the Singular, as is frequent. i Which is not ſo to be underſtood, as if in this Paſſage one Rock was on the right hand, and the other on the left; for ſo he ſhould have gone between both: and there was no need of climbing up to them, which is mentioned below, v. 13. But the meaning is, that the tooth (or prominency) of the one rock, (as it is in the Hebrew) was on the one ſide; i. e. Northward, looking towards Michmaſh (the Gariſon of the Philiſtines) and the tooth of the other rock was on the other ſide; i. e. Southward looking towards Gibeah (where Saul's Camp lay) as the next Verſe informs us: and Jonathan was forced to climb over theſe two Rocks, becauſe the other and common ways from one Town to the other, might now be obſtructed, or were not ſo fit for his preſent Deſign.

5 The † fore-front of the one was ſituate northward over againſt Michmaſh, and the other ſouthward over againſt Gibeah.

* 2 Chron. 14. 11.

6 And Jonathan ſaid to the young man that bare his armour, Come, and let us go over unto the gariſon of theſe uncircumciſed k, it may be l that the LORD will work m for us: for there is no reſtraint to the LORD n * to ſave by many, or by few.

k So he calls them, partly in Contempt, and principally to ſtrengthen his Faith by this Conſideration, That his Enemies were Enemies to God, and without any hope in God, or help from him; whereas he was Circumciſed, and therefore in Covenant with God, who was both able, and engaged to aſſiſt his People. l He ſpeaks doubtfully: for though he found and felt himſelf ſtirred up by God to this Exploit, and was aſſured that God would deliver his People; yet he was not certain that he would do it at this time, and in this way. n To wit, great and wonderful things. n There is no Perſon nor Thing which can hinder God from thus doing.

7 And his armour-bearer ſaid unto him, Do all that is in thine heart: turn thee o: behold, I am with thee according to thy heart.

o March on to the Enemies.

8 Then ſaid Jonathan, Behold, we will paſs over unto theſe men, and we will diſcover our ſelves unto them.

† Heb. be ſtill.

9 If they ſay thus unto us, † Tarry until we come to you: then we will ſtand ſtill in our place, and will not go up unto them.

10 But if they ſay thus, Come up unto us: then we will go up: for the LORD hath delivered them into our hand: and this ſhall be a ſign unto us p.

p Jonathan not being aſſured of the Succeſs of this preſent Exploit, deſires a ſign; and, by the inſtinct of God's Spirit, as the Succeſs ſhews, pitcheth upon this. Divers ſuch heroical Motions and extraordinary Impulſes there were among great and good Men in ancient Times; as Gen. 24. 13. Judg. 6. 37. which are not precedents to us.

11 And both of them diſcovered themſelves unto the gariſon of the Philiſtines: and the Philiſtines ſaid, Behold, the Hebrews come forth out of the holes q, where they had hid themſelves.

q Therefore Jonathan choſe that rocky and unuſual way, that the Philiſtines might ſuppoſe they did not come from Saul's Camp to fight with them, but rather out of the Caves, and holes of the Rocks, from which their Neceſſity had now driven them.

12 And the men of the gariſon anſwered Jonathan and his armour-bearer, and ſaid, Come up to us, and we will ſhew you a thing r. And Jonathan ſaid unto his armour-bearer, Come up after me, for the LORD hath delivered them s into the hand of Iſrael.

r We having ſomething of Importance to communicate to you. A Speech of Contempt and Deriſion, s He piouſly and modeſtly aſcribes the Succeſs which he now foreſees, to God only.

13 And Jonathan climbed up upon his hands, and upon his feet, and his armour-bearer after him t: and they fell before Jonathan, and his armour-bearer ſlew after him u.

t The Philiſtines could eaſily have hindred their Aſcent, but thought ſcorn to do it, not queſtioning but they could cut them off in a moment when they were come up to them according to their Invitation. u For being endowed with extraordinary Strength and Courage, and having with incredible boldneſs killed the firſt they met with, and ſo proceeding with ſucceſs, it is not ſtrange if the Philiſtines were both aſtoniſhed and intimidated; God alſo ſtruck them with a Panick Terror; and withal, infatuated their Minds, and poſſibly, put an Evil Spirit among them, which in this univerſal Confuſion made them conceive that there was Treachery amongſt themſelves, and therefore cauſed them to ſheath their Swords in one anothers Bowels; as appears from v. 16. 20.

14 And that firſt ſlaughter which Jonathan and his armour-bearer made, was about twenty men, within as it were || an half acre of land, which a yoke of oxen might plow.

|| Or, half a furrow of an acre of land.

† Heb. a trembling of God. * Gen. 35. 5.

15 And there was trembling x in the hoſt, in the field y, and among all the people z: the gariſon, and the ſpoilers, they alſo trembled, and the earth quaked a: ſo it was † * a very great trembling.

x A great Conſternation; partly, from this unexpected and prodigious Slaughter, which made them ſuſpect, there was more than Man in the Caſe; and that the Lord (of whoſe infinite Power they had had former experience) was come forth to fight againſt them; and partly, from the Lord, who took away their Spirits and Strength, and ſtruck them with Fear and Amazement. y i. e. In the whole Hoſt which was there in the Field. z i. e. Among all the reſt of their Forces, as well thoſe in the Gariſon, (as it is here explained in the following words) at Michmaſh, as the Spoilers, mentioned chap. 13. 17. the report of this Prodigy, and with it the Terror of God ſpeedily paſſing from one to another. a Either, 1. Metaphorically and Hyperbolically, the whole Land; i. e. the Inhabitants of the Land: to wit, of the Philiſtines, trembled. Or rather, 2. Properly, God ſent an Earthquake among them, which probably overthrew their Tents and Chariots, and deſtroyed many of their Perſons, and ſcattered the whole Hoſt, making them to flee away for their lives.

16 And the watch-men of Saul in Gibeah b of Benjamin looked: and behold, the multitude c melted away d, and they went on beating down one another e.

b Or, in the hill, as the very ſame word is rendred, chap. 13. 16. and that was the fitteſt place for Watch-men. c To wit, of that numerous Hoſt of the Philiſtines. d i. e. Were ſtrangely and ſuddenly diſperſed, and put to flight. e Either, 1. Accidentally through haſty Flight: Or, 2. With deſign to deſtroy one another, as the Authors or Abettors of the preſent Calamity. Poſſibly God blinded their Eyes or their Minds, that they could not diſtinguiſh Friends from Foes. Compare Judg. 7. 22. 2 King. 6. 18, &c. 2 Chron. 20. 23.

17 Then ſaid Saul unto the people that were with him, Number now, and ſee who is gone from us f. And when they had numbred, behold Jonathan and his armour-bearer were not there.

f For he probably ſuppoſed, that not only Jonathan, but alſo ſome conſiderable number of his Army was gone, and that by them that Slaughter was made.

18 And Saul ſaid unto Ahiah, Bring hither the ark of God g: (for the ark of God was at that time with the children of Iſrael h.)

g That the Prieſt may put on the Ephod, and may enquire of the Lord before the Ark what the occaſion of this Tumult among our Enemies is, and what we ſhall do. h To wit, in the Camp, whither ſometimes it was brought; as 1 Sam 4. 5. And now the rather, partly becauſe it was now in an unſettled condition, and without the Tabernacle, and therefore eaſily removed from place to place: and partly, becauſe Saul thought to compenſate Samuel's abſence with the preſence of the Ark.

‖ Or, tumult.

19 ¶ And it came to paſs while Saul talked unto the prieſt, that the ‖ noiſe that was in the hoſt of the Philiſtines went on and increaſed: and Saul ſaid unto the prieſt, Withdraw thine hand i.

i Trouble not thy ſelf in putting on the Breaſt-plate, with the Ephod, to enquire of God; for I now plainly diſcern the matter, the buſineſs calls not for Prayer, but for Action. But if it did ſo, there was the more need of God's direction and bleſſing, that they might act with more ſucceſs. Herein therefore he ſhews his Impatience in waiting upon God; his Hypocriſie, in pretending to Religion; and yet his Prophaneneſs, in neglecting and deſpiſing it.

† Heb. were cried together. * Judg. 7. 22. 2 Chr. 20. 23.

20 And Saul and all the people that were with him, † aſſembled themſelves, and they came to the battel, and behold, * every mans ſword was againſt his fellow k, and there was a very great diſcomfiture.

k The Philiſtines ſlew one another; which might come, either from miſtake, of which, ſee on v. 16. Or from mutual Jealouſies and Paſſions, to which God could eaſily diſpoſe them.

21 Moreover, the Hebrews that were with the Philiſtines before that time, which went up with them into the camp l, from the countrey round about, even they alſo turned to be with the Iſraelites that were with Saul and Jonathan.

l Either by conſtraint, as Servants; or in Policy, to gain their favour and protection.

* Ch. 13. 6.

22 Likewiſe all the men of Iſrael, which * had hid themſelves in mount Ephraim, when they heard that the Philiſtines fled, even they alſo followed hard after them in the battel.

23 So the LORD ſaved Iſrael that day: and the battel m paſſed over unto Beth-aven.

m i.e. The Warriers who were engaged in the Battel, and were purſuing and fighting with the Philiſtines.

24 ¶ And the men of Iſrael were diſtreſſed n that day; for Saul had adjured the people, ſaying, Curſed be the man that eateth any food until evening, that I may be avenged on mine enemies o: ſo none of the people taſted any food p.

n With Hunger, and Weakneſs, and Faintneſs, thence ariſing; and all by reaſon of the following Oath. o As Saul's intention was good; namely, to execute Vengeance upon God's and his Enemies: ſo the matter of the Obligation was not ſimply and in it ſelf Unlawful, if it had not been ſo rigorous in excluding all Food, without any exception of Caſes of Neceſſity; and in obliging the People to it under pain of a Curſe, and an accurſed Death; v. 38, 39, 44. which was a Puniſhment far exceeding the Fault. p Partly, in obedience to the King's Command; and partly, for fear of the Curſe.

25 And all they of the land q came to a wood, and there was honey upon the ground.

q Heb. all the land, i. e. The People of the Land; as it is explained below, v. 30. and ſo the word is taken, Gen. 41. 57. All the Iſraelites who were with Saul.

26 And when the people were come into the wood, behold, the honey dropped r, but no man put his hand to his mouth: for the people feared the oath.

r It hath been obſerved by many Travellers, and Writers, That Bees do oft-times ſettle themſeves, and make their Hives, and Honey, in the Trunks of Trees, or Clefts of Rocks, or Holes of the Earth; and this in divers Countries, but eminently in this of Canaan; as may be gathered from Deut. 32. 13. Pſal. 81. 16. whence it was called, a land flowing with milk and honey.

27 But Jonathan heard not s, when his father charged the people with the oath: wherefore he put forth the end of the rod that was in his hand, and dipt it an honey comb, and put his hand to his mouth, and his eyes were enlightned t.

s Being then abſent, and in purſuit of the Philiſtines, divers of the Iſraelites having joyned themſelves with him. v. 21. t He was refreſhed, and recovered his loſt Spirits, whereof part went into his Optick Nerves, and ſo cleared his ſight, which was much darkned by Famine, as is uſual.

‖ Or, weary.

28 Then anſwered one of the people u, and ſaid, Thy father ſtraitly charged the people with an oath, ſaying, Curſed be the man that eateth any food this day. And the people were ‖ faint.

u Who came along with Saul, whoſe Forces were now united with Jonathan's.

29 Then ſaid Jonathan, My father hath troubled the land x: ſee, I pray you, how mine eyes have been enlightned, becauſe I taſted a little of this honey.

x i. e. The people of the Land, the whole Army, whom by this raſh Oath he hath greatly injured. The Zeal of defending himſelf, makes him run into the other Extream of accuſing his Father, and that before the People, whom by this means he might have ſtirred up to a Sedition.

30 How much more, if hapily the people had eaten freely to day of the ſpoil of their enemies which they found? for had there not been now a much greater ſlaughter among the Philiſtines?

31 And they ſmote the Philiſtines that day from Michmaſh to Ajalon y: and the people were very faint.

y Either that in Dan, Joſ. 19. 42. Or rather, that in Judah, 2 Chron. 11. 10.

* Lev. 7. 26. and 19. 26. Deut. 12. 16.

32 And the people flew upon the ſpoil z, and took ſheep and oxen, and calves, and ſlew them on the ground, and the people did eat them * with the blood a.

z To wit, at Evening, when the time prefixed by Saul was expired. a Not having patience to tarry till the blood was perfectly gone out of them, as they ſhould have done. See Gen. 9. 4. Levit. 17. 14. Deut. 12. 16. So they who ſeemed to make conſcience of the King's Commandment for fear of the Curſe, make no ſcruple of tranſgreſſing God's Command.

‖ Or, dealt treacherouſly.

33 ¶ Then they told Saul, ſaying, Behold the people ſin againſt the LORD, in that they eat with the blood. And he ſaid, Ye have ‖ tranſgreſſed b: roll a great ſtone unto me c this day.

b He ſees their fault, but not his own, in giving the occaſion to it. c That the cattel might be all killed in one place, under the inſpection of Saul, or ſome other appointed by him for that work; and upon the ſtone, that the blood may ſooner and better flow out.

† Heb. in his hand.

34 And Saul ſaid, Diſperſe your ſelves among the people, and ſay unto them, Bring me hither every man his oxe, and every man his ſheep, and ſlay them here, and eat, and ſin not againſt the LORD in eating with the blood. And all the people brought every man his oxe d † with him that night, and ſlew them there.

d And his Sheep, which is to be underſtood out of the foregoing words.

† Heb that altar he began to build unto the LORD.

35 And Saul built an altar unto the LORD e: † the ſame was the firſt altar that he built unto the LORD f.

e Either for a Monument of the Victory: or rather, for Sacrifice, as the next words imply. f Though he had occaſion to do ſo oft e're this time. So this is noted as another Evidence of his neglect of God, and his Worſhip. It is true, Saul Sacrificed before this, as at Gilgal; but that was upon an old Altar, Erected by others.

36 ¶ And Saul ſaid, Let us go down after the Philiſtines by night, and ſpoil them until the morning light, and let us not leave a man of them. And they ſaid, Do whatſoever ſeemeth good unto thee. Then ſaid the Prieſt g, Let us draw near hither h unto God.

g Remembring Saul's Contempt of God's Ordinance the laſt time, and the ill Conſequence of it; and perceiving Saul ready to run into the ſame Error again, even though he had not now the ſame pretence of the neceſſity of haſte as before, and that the people were forward to comply with the motion; he gives them this pious and prudent Advice. h To wit, to the Ark, as above, v. 18.

37 And Saul asked counſel of God, Shall I go down after the Philiſtines? wilt thou deliver them into the hand of Iſrael? but he anſwered him not that day i.

i Either, 1. Becauſe he was diſpleaſed with Saul for his former neglect, v. 18, 19. where he began to ask advice of God, but was ſo rude and impious, as not to tarry for an Anſwer; and therefore it was but a juſt Retalliation, if when Saul did ask, God would not vouchſafe him an Anſwer. Or, 2. To manifeſt his diſlike of the violation of Oaths. For although Jonathan might have a fair excuſe from his invincible Ignorance, and urgent Neceſſity; and though Saul had done fooliſhly in making this Oath (which alſo God would this way diſcover,) yet, when once it was made, God would hereby teach them, that it ſhould be obſerved; and that they ſhould abſtain, even from all appearance of the Breach of it.

38 And Saul ſaid, Draw ye near hither all the † chief of the people k: and know and ſee wherein this ſin hath been this day.

k In the Name of all the People, that you may be Witneſſes, and may ſee where the Fault lies.

39 For as the LORD liveth which ſaveth Iſrael, though it be in Jonathan my ſon, he ſhall ſurely die. But there was not a man among all the people that anſwered him l.

l None of thoſe who either ſaw Jonathan Eating, or heard of it, informed againſt him; partly, becauſe they were ſatisfied, that his Ignorance excuſed him, and that there was ſome other reaſon of God's not anſwering: and partly, from their great Love to Jonathan, whom they would not expoſe to Death for ſo ſmall an Offence.

40 Then ſaid he unto all Iſrael, Be ye on one ſide, and I and Jonathan my ſon will be on the other ſide: and the people ſaid unto Saul, Do what ſeemeth good unto thee.

†Heb. Give Thummim Deut. 33. 8
|| Or, ſhew the innocent.

41 Therefore Saul ſaid unto the LORD God of Iſrael, † || Give a perfect lot m. And Saul and Jonathan were taken: but the people † eſcaped n.

m Or, declare (for giving, is oft put for declaring, or pronouncing, as Deut. 11. 29. and 13. 1, 2. Prov. 9. 9.) the perfect, or guiltleſs perſon. i. e. O Lord, ſo guide the Lot, that it may diſcover who is Guilty in this Matter, and that it may clear the Innocent. n To wit, the Danger, they were pronounced Guiltleſs.

42 And Saul ſaid, Caſt lots between me and Jonathan my ſon: and Jonathan was taken m.

m God ſo ordered the Lot; not that he approved Saul's Execration, v. 24. or his Oath that the Tranſgreſſor ſhould die, v. 39. nor that he would expoſe Jonathan to Death (for he deſigned ſo to rule the hearts of the People, and of Saul alſo, that Jonathan ſhould not die); but becauſe he would have the whole matter brought to light; partly, that Saul's Folly might be chaſtiſed, when he ſaw what Danger it had brought upon his Eldeſt and Excellent Son; partly, that Jonathan's Innocency might be cleared; and partly, to ſtabliſh the Authority of Kings and Rulers, and the Obedience which Subjects owe to all their lawful Commands.

43 Then Saul ſaid to Jonathan, Tell me what thou haſt done. And Jonathan told him, and ſaid, I did but taſte a little honey with the end of the rod that was in mine hand, and lo, I muſt die n.

n I am ſentenced to Death for it; which is hard meaſure. He had another Anſwer, That he knew not of his Father's Command: but that being ſaid before, v. 27. it was needleſs here to repeat it.

*Rut. 1. 17.

44 And Saul anſwered, * God do ſo, and more alſo o: for thou ſhalt ſurely die p, Jonathan.

o From this, and other like expreſſions of Saul's, ſome gather that he was exceeding prone to the vice of Swearing and Curſing. p Strange perverſeneſs! He who was ſo indulgent, as to ſpare wicked Agag, chap. 15. is now ſo ſevere as to deſtroy his own worthy Son: he that could eaſily diſpenſe with God's Righteous and Reaſonable Command, will not bear the violation of his own raſh and fooliſh Command; becauſe his own Authority and Power is concerned in this, and only God's in the other.

* 2 Sam. 14. 14. 1 Kings 1. 52.

45 And the people ſaid unto Saul, Shall Jonathan die, who hath wrought this great ſalvation in Iſrael? God forbid: * as the LORD liveth, there ſhall not one hair of his head fall to the ground: for he hath wrought with God q this day. So the people reſcued Jonathan, that he died not.

q i. e. In concurrence with God, or by God's help he had wrought this Salvation. God is ſo far from being offended with Jonathan, as thou apprehendeſt, that he hath graciouſly owned and aſſiſted him in the great ſervice of this day.

46 Then Saul went up from following the Philiſtines r: and the Philiſtines went to their own place.

r Partly, becauſe he was diſcouraged by God's refuſing to Anſwer him; and partly, becauſe his delays had given them occaſion to ſecure themſelves.

* Chap. 11. 11.

47 ¶ So Saul took the kingdom ſ over Iſrael, and fought againſt all his enemies on every ſide, againſt Moab, and againſt the children * of Ammon, and againſt Edom, and againſt the kings of Zobah t, and againſt the Philiſtines: and whitherſoever he turned himſelf, he vexed them u.

ſ i. e. Recovered it, and reſumed the adminiſtration of it, after he had in a manner loſt it; partly, by Samuel's Sentence, chap. 13. 14. and partly, by the Philiſtines, who had almoſt turned him out of it. But now being encouraged by this ſucceſs, he returns to the exerciſe of his Kingly Office. t Which lay not far from Damaſcus. See 2 Sam. 8, 5. u Heb. He condemned them, he treated them like wicked People, and Enemies to God and his People: or, he puniſhed them.

* Ch. 15. 9.

48 And he || gathered an hoſt, and * ſmote the Amalekites x, and delivered Iſrael out of the hand of them that ſpoiled them.

x Which is here mentioned only in the general, but is particularly deſcribed in the next Chapter.

49 Now the ſons of Saul were Jonathan, and Iſhui y, and Melchiſhua: and the names of his two daughters were theſe; the name of the firſt-born, Merab, and the name of the younger, Michal.

y Called alſo Abinadab, chap. 31. 2. and 1 Chron. 8. 33. Iſhboſheth, Saul's other Son, is here omitted, becauſe he intended to mention only thoſe of his Sons who went with him into the Battels here mentioned, and who were afterwards ſlain with him.

50 And the name of Saul's wife was Ahinoam, the daughter of Ahimaaz: and the name of the captain of his hoſt was Abner, the ſon of Ner, Saul's uncle.

* Cha. 9. 1.

51 And Kiſh was the father of Saul, and Ner the father of Abner was the ſon of * Abiel.

* Cha. 8. 11

52 And there was ſore war againſt the Philiſtines all the days of Saul: and when Saul ſaw any ſtrong man, or any valiant man, * he took him unto him z.

z Into his Service, or Army.

CHAP. XV.

Samuel ſendeth Saul to deſtroy the Amalekites: His Army, 1,—5. He favoureth the Kenites: Spareth Agag, and the beſt of the Spoil: God rejects Saul from being King, 6——11. This Samuel declares to Saul: he commendeth, excuſeth, at laſt humbleth himſelf, 12,—25. Samuel is unmoved herewith: His Mantle Rent is a ſign to Saul of his Ruine, God cannot lye, 26, ——29. Samuel killeth Agag: Goeth from Saul, and mourneth for him, 30,———35.

* Cha. 9. 16.

SAmuel alſo ſaid unto Saul, * The LORD ſent me to anoint thee to be king over his people a, over Iſrael: now therefore hearken b thou unto the voice of the LORD thy God.
